Third War Loan Drive Ends Saturday; Sales Still Short of Quota

Sales Early This Week 71% of Quota; 80% of Corporations; Ask Cashing of Quotas; Township Sales Lag

In the past week, a few days before the close of the third war loan drive, actual sales—that is, sales by the issuing agents—that total 71% of the individual quota and 80% of the corporate quota.

Following is a list of the petit jurors drawn for the October, 1943, term of circuit court for Washington county.

There are many such pledges in the county. Robert H. Rolfs, chairman of the Washington County War Loan Committee, sends an appeal to those who, as yet, haven't had their part to do so by Saturday.

Already $18,176.25 Over Bond Quota

Mr. Rosenheimer, village chairman of the third war loan drive, has reported a total subscription of $18,176.25 in bonds up to the present time, which is $18,176.25 over the quota of $38,000.00.

Mrs. Fred Diesner of Town Wayne is Called

Mrs. Fred Diesner, 70, nee Mary Peck, lifelong resident of the town of Wayne, passed away early Thursday morning, Sept. 30, at West Bend after having been in ailing health the past eight years as the result of a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Diesner was born Jan. 25, 1873, in the town of Wayne and made her home on the Diesner homestead there throughout her life. Her marriage to Fred Diesner took place June 8, 1898, at the Salem Reformed church, Wayne. He preceded her in death Dec. 20, 1934.

She was the mother of two daughters, one of whom died in infancy. The only daughter surviving is Margaret (Mrs. Alfred H. Seefeldt) of the town of Kewaskum, residing just beyond the northeast village limits. Deceased is further survived by two grandchildren, Fredric and Aldwin Seefeldt, and three sisters, Mrs. Kate Klein of Kewaskum, Mrs. Henry Schaub of the town of Wayne and Mrs. William Lay of Theresa.

Funeral rites will be conducted on Sunday, Oct. 3, at 1:30 p. m. from the Alfred Seefeldt residence and at 2 p. m. at the Salem Reformed church in Wayne. The Rev. Carl Flueckinger officiating. Interment will be made in the congregation's cemetery.

We join in extending sincere sympathy to the survivors in their bereavement.

Permit Custom Slaughter of Quota Free Livestock

Custom slaughter of livestock for others is freely permitted under the provisions in Food Distribution Order No. 75, and its companion order, DFDFO No. 75.1, without charge against the custom slaughterer's quota, but the custom slaughterer must keep records designed to prevent abuse of this privilege. Henry Schowalter, chairman of the Washington County War Meat committee, said today.

A custom slaughterer, killing and dressing cattle, calves, sheep, lambs, or hogs for a farmer for home consumption, is required only to take a written and signed statement from such farmer that the livestock so slaughtered is quota free, and endorse on the statement the number of head, kind and weight of livestock slaughtered. Mr. Schowalter said.

If the slaughtering is done for another slaughterer, who is operating on a quota basis, the statement must show the name and address of the person to whom the meat is delivered, the date or dates of delivery, the total weight of each type of meat, and whether the meat is or is not quota free. Mr. Schowalter explained.

Custom slaughterers who kill and dress meat at their own places of business must maintain sanitary conditions, and keep the meat free from contamination while it is in their possession. These conditions are relaxed only where slaughtering is done on the premises of a farm for a farmer. Mr. Schowalter added.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear brother, John C. Simon, who passed away two years ago, Oct. 4, 1941: Your gentle face and patient smile, With sadness we recall; You had a kindly word for each, And died beloved by all. You are not forgotten loved one, Nor will you ever be; As long as life and memory last We will remember thee. Sadly missed by his brother, Frank Simon, and sisters, Barbara, Clara and Thekla.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father William Windorf, who passed away three years ago, Sept. 29, 1940, and our beloved mother, Mrs. William Windorf, who died two years ago, Oct. 1, 1941: Yet hence those we loved have stepped across The threshold of God's door, They leave behind those memories That make us love them more. Sadly missed by the Windorf children.

Rev. Mr. Wm. Mayer to Esther Kern, Arnold Berg Exchange Vows

Mixed garden flowers decorated the altars of St. Killian's church in St. Killian for the marriage of Miss Esther Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kern of Kewaskum route, and Arnold Berg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Berg of Allenton, the nuptial mass being read by the Rev. J. B. Reichel at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, Sept. 29.

The bride wore a princess gown of white bridal glow satin with a shirred bodice trimmed with a strand of orange blossoms, a heart neckline and long fitted sleeves. The billowing skirt ended in a fan-shaped train which was outlined with chintilly lace and she wore a fingertip veil of lace.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Gladys Kern. She was attired in a blue satin gown with shoulder length illusion veil and carried a bouquet of red roses and pink asters. Wearing old rose gowns and also carrying red roses and pink asters, the Misses Bernice and Rosalyn Berg, sisters of the bridegroom, attended as bridesmaids. The little flower girl was Betty Berg, sister of the groom. She wore a frock of peach color and carried a colonial bouquet of roses, asters and pompons.

Cpl. Alex Berg attended the groom as best man and the ushers were Orville and Ralph Kern, Adolph Wahlen and Alois Neuburg also ushered at the church.

A wedding reception was held at the St. Killian school auditorium, where dinner and supper were served to 175 guests. The auditorium was appropriately decorated for the occasion in white, blue and old rose and with mixed garden flowers. In the evening a wedding dance was held at Goring's Resort, Big Cedar Lake, with approximately 1,000 people in attendance.

The newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to northern Wisconsin and upon returning will reside at Allenton, where the groom is engaged in farming.

Registration For Ration Book Four at School Sites

County Superintendent M. T. Buckley and City Superintendent M. G. Batho of West Bend received a letter from J. W. Studabaker, United States Commissioner of Education, informing them that the Office of Price Administration is preparing to issue War Ration Book Four.

The Office of Price Administration has decided that registration at school sites is the best method of accomplishing this purpose. This work will be planned by the OPA regional administrators and district directors in conjunction with the local council of defense. This work will be accomplished with the least possible interference with the continuous operation of schools.

The county and city superintendent will have responsibility for designating school sites, a staff of people to handle the work load involved, and the training of the personnel for services to be rendered. Instructions for such an activity will be mailed to the county superintendent and city superintendent in a few days.

At a conference Monday, the superintendents decided to work in close co-operation with the council of defense which had charge of other registrations. The dates set for this registration will take place between the 24th and 31st of October.

Card of Thanks

We are deeply grateful to our relatives and friends who assisted in any way and for the kindness and sympathy extended in our late bereavement, the loss of our dear sister, Mrs. Minnie Batzler. We take this means to extend special thanks to Rev. Flueckinger, the pallbearers, drivers of cars, traffic officer, Millers, the funeral directors, for the beautiful floral offerings, to all who showed their respect by calling at the funeral home.

Going back to school last month means more to Junior Red Cross members in the West Bend area than just taking up books and going by a regular schedule, according to Henry Schowalter, local chairman of the American Red Cross.

He states that 2670 members in this area, who are members of the Junior Red Cross, will make over 2500 comfort and recreational articles for our soldiers, boys both in this country and overseas. This is somewhat in excess of our 1943-1944 quota of 2200 items. These articles include such things as games, afghans, utility bags, convalescent slippers, lamp stands and many others made by members of the organization in the area schools. This local figure is a part of the national total of more than 9,000,000 such articles that will be made by members of the Junior Red Cross throughout the country.

According to M. G. Batho, West Bend, Junior Red Cross chairman, production is only one of the activities of the numbers of America's largest youth organization. He pointed to the 215 first aid, home nursing, and water safety certificates earned by our boys and girls.

"Throughout the nation more than 17,000,000 boys and girls of school age," Mr. Batho said, "take an active part in one or more Red Cross activities." He expressed pride that so many of our local young people are contributing their part toward the national war effort through the Junior Red Cross.

Eastern All-Stars Defeat Western Stars in Softball

In the all-star softball game played on the Kewaskum field Sunday afternoon between picked stars of the eastern and western teams of the Holy Name league of the past season, the eastern team was victorious in a slug-ging battle by a score of 14 to 12. This was a nine inning game. The eastern team was composed of stars from the St. Michaels and Kewaskum teams, who won over those of the St. Bridgets, St. Killian and Ashford teams. St. Michaels and Kewaskum finished first and second in the league. Players of the Dundee team were to have played with the eastern team but have disbanded following a fatal injury to one of their players recently.

The western stars built up a big lead over their opponents early in the game but the eastern team kept pecking away until they finally nosed them out. John Felix pitched for the west and Ollie Marx for the east. A large crowd of fans from the various teams attended. In a game preceding the all-star event the Kewaskum team played a return exhibition game against Holy Cross and the locals were nosed out 3 to 2 after playing one extra inning.

School Children Playing Vital Part in Bond Drive

The 5,000 school children in Washington county are proving a vital part in the third war loan drive in the county. Through Clifford Rose, Kewaskum, and Jerry Buckley, West Bend, co-chairmen of the school division of the war finance committee, a program is being carried out in all the schools in which the object is to have all partially filled stamp books filled.

A program of this kind runs into a lot of money fast. Five thousand school children, each filling up a stamp book, the total of war bonds would be practically $100,000.00. Partially filled stamp books are just like a gun in a soldier's hand without bullets. Stamp books should be filled up and turned into war bonds.

The school children of Washington county have done a remarkable job in the purchase of war bonds and stamps.

County's Wheat Goal for 1944 Will Be 2500 Acres

Raymond D. Leplen, chairman of the Washington County Triple-A committee, recently announced that Wisconsin's wheat goal for 1944 will be 2500 acres, an increase of 20,000 acres over last year. Washington county's share of the state goal will be 2500 acres or 30% greater than last year's acreage, the chairman said.

Winter wheat planting will soon be under way. Mr. Leplen urges all Washington county farmers wherever possible to increase their wheat acreage without interfering with their plans for production of other vital war crops such as soybeans, corn for grain, hemp, potatoes, flax, and canning crops.

The war food administration is calling for an expansion in wheat acreage for the nation from 54 million acres in 1943 to 65 million acres in 1944. This increase is necessary due to war-time demand which has cut deeply into our supplies accumulated in our ever-normal granary.

Much more wheat than is normally used is now being consumed for human foods, livestock feed and for commercial alcohol production, plus the ever increasing lend-lease demands for this commodity. WFA officials explain that the increased production of wheat will be accomplished in an orderly planned way so that the best possible uses can be made of our soil resources without danger of another dust bowl such as followed World War I.

County Tavern League to Meet at West Bend

There will be a meeting of the Washington County Tavern League Monday, Oct. 11, at 2 o'clock at the Moose hall, West Bend. Non-members as well as members are urged to request to attend this meeting. Members are asked to please check all their cigarette contribution bottles or boxes and deliver them to their district chairman or bring them to the meeting. A report of the state conference will be given by the league's delegates who attended. Other matters of interest will be brought up and discussed. All are urged to try and arrange to attend this meeting.

75 Dogs Entered in State Beagle Club's Annual Trials Here

The 21st annual American Kennel Club licensed championship field trial sponsored by the Wisconsin Beagle Club was held at Kewaskum last Friday through Sunday and attracted a large number of entries. A total of 75 dogs were entered in the competition, smaller number than last year, but surprisingly large considering war conditions and gasoline and tire rationing. No bench show was held this year. Many spectators followed the leagues. The trials were run in the surrounding rural area with headquarters at the kennels of Joe Eberle, club president.

Wilks Pluto, owned and handled by Joe Konkle, Kaukauna, won the 15 inch open all age stake feature event concluded Sunday. Second place went to Eberle's Panel II, owned and handled by W. G. Thompson, Milwaukee. Both dogs turned in some exceptional fine work in the first and second series by showing good hunting ability, fast trailing and steady heady work. Third place was awarded to Eberle's Mickey II, owned and handled by Joe Eberle of Kewaskum, and fourth to Masterly Scooter II, owned and handled by Frank Evans, Milwaukee. Eberle's Sapho, owned and handled by Joe Eberle was reserve winner.

Tracking conditions were spotty, which not only placed the faster dogs under a handicap but noticeably showed in the work of all the dogs. In the 15 inch derby stake held Friday Eberle's Sentry won a very close decision over Kircher's Sammy, owned by Al Kircher, Barton. The latter was given the runner-up spot for the only two awards made in this stake.

In the 15 inch open all age female stake, final event of the meet, first place went to Masterly Duchess, owned and handled by E. A. Kopp, Johnson Creek; second to Ralph's Russett, owned by Donald Ralph, Madison, and handled by Frank Evans, Milwaukee; third to Masterly Matchless, another Kopp entry, and fourth to Gundrum's J-wel, owned and handled by Joe Gundrum, Slinger. Eberle's Trim II, owned and handled by Joe Eberle, was reserve winner.

The field marshals were Jack Ellenz, Dodgeville, and Tom Heintz, Farford, who also assisted in Sunday's judging. The field judges were Seaman Second Class Stevens of Buffalo, N. Y., who is now in the navy and is stationed at Great Lakes, Ill. and "Shorty" Wichman of Ridgeway, Wis. E. A. Kopp was field trial secretary. Ribbons, trophies and championship points were awarded to the winning dogs. The beagle puppy given away in connection with the trial was won by a Milwaukee party.

The trial was one of the best ever held by the club. The weather was good, the trials were run off very smoothly and were handled well, and all of the members and dog owners were well pleased and satisfied. This enabled the trials to be completed in three days. All members said they appreciated the excellent treatment given them and had a fine time here. They voted 100% to hold the trial at Kewaskum again next year if conditions at that time permit because of the ideal location and hospitality. They wish to express their thanks for the co-operation given them, and especially the farmers who allowed the trial to be run on their land. The annual election of officers was postponed until next spring due to conditions and at that time it will be decided whether trials will be held next year.

Spending $5,000,000 a Day

Sending $5,000,000 a day to dependents of our fighting men is typical of the tasks which make the Office of Dependency Benefits at Newark, N. J., one of the busiest spots in America.

The work of the O. D. B. is not simply a matter of writing out so many checks and sticking them in the mails. For there are those who would take money from the men who are fighting for America by making illegal applications for dependency benefits.

LUCILLE BALL "Meet the People"; she's climbed clear to the top of the ladder in the meantime. Right now people are crowding to see her in "Du Barry Was a Lady." She's the only one of the original twelve who's still in pictures.

Leatrice Joy Gilbert has been under contract to Metro for some time, but it's only now that she's going to get her chance—a role in "Kismet." She worked in summer stock last season, and if there's anything in heredity this daughter of Leatrice Joy and the late Jack Gilbert certainly ought to go far as an actress. Her father was one of Metro's big stars for years.

Fran Sinatra seems to like Hollywood and picture-making; he's going back in November to make "Mr. Cinderella" for RKO, and they do say that the story of the picture is pretty much the story of the young man's life.

ODDS AND ENDS—Myrna Loy, who's made no pictures for a year, returns to Hollywood to co-star in "The Thin Man Goes Home," with William Powell. . . . Hunt Stromberg's "Lady of Burlesque," starring Barbara Stanwick and Michael O'Shea, is one of the most popular films being shown at military hospitals. . . . Each studio visitor to the "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" gets a card asking him to name three celebrities whom he'd like to have appear on the program. . . . Lyn Bari was borrowed from 20th Century-Fox to play the glamorous dancer in United Artists' presentation, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

MAIL—Received at O. D. B. reached 124,828 pieces on a record day. The average is 70,000 pieces a day.

When Bob Hope got back from that trip that took him to England, Africa, Sicily and Iceland he wasn't sure whether he'd be able to return to the air September 21 or not—said Bing Crosby would pinch hit for him if he couldn't. Barry Wood, singing star of "The Million Dollar Band," has been instrumental in selling more than 50 million dollars' worth of bonds—that he knows about. There's no telling how many have been bought because people heard him sing the theme song of each War Bond drive. In 1941 it was "Any Bonds Today"; for the second drive it was "Everybody Every Payday." Then he recorded "Back the Attack." His efforts on behalf of the first drive earned him a citation from Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Marine Fliers Triumph Over Perils of Air and Sea; Combat Correspondents Recount Tales of Heroism

Sergeant Survives After 32 Days on Barren Islands

For 72 days he was "missing in action." His comrades in the marine corps flying unit in the Guadalcanal area had long given up hope of seeing him again. But Sergeant Bill Coffeen came back. Shaggy and lean, he stepped out of a navy rescue plane. He told of surviving storms, blistering sun and infection and living for 32 days on a coconut diet. The last 40 days he was missing, friendly natives cared for him.

Today Staff Sergt. William I. Coffeen Jr., 23, whose parents live at 5348 North Lotus street, Chicago, Ill., is at a naval base hospital being treated for malaria and malnutrition.

"I got off on the wrong foot that morning of April 13 and ended up the same way," began Coffeen. "My plane barely missed the treetops as I took off from Henderson Field. A guide light at the end of the strip blinded me. We were to escort navy torpedo bombers on a mission.

"Within sight of land between Kolombangara and Choiseul islands, I suddenly noticed my engine smoking. My oil line was leaking. "Losing altitude rapidly and fearing the motor would explode, I decided to bale out.

"It seemed that I hit the water just a few seconds after my parachute opened. "I pulled the cord on my life jacket, but it failed to inflate. It had been punctured. I pulled my rubber raft out and inflated it. The paddle was missing.

"The water was calm, but 30 minutes later a storm hit. High waves tossed my small rubber raft about like a toothpick, and overturned it. Into the water went all of my medical supplies and emergency rations. All I had left was the clothing I was wearing, and my hunting knife and pistol.

"After I righted the raft I started paddling with my hands. I still was in sight of land. In midafternoon I heard the familiar drone of my fighter plane returning from the strike on which I had set out that morning.

"Several of the planes flew low and almost directly over me. I fired five shots from my pistol and waved the white raft sail, but they failed to see me. "I started paddling with my hands toward land. On the way, sharks swished by the raft.

"I reached the beach of the coconut grove island I realized I made a grave mistake by tossing my shoes overboard after the storm. My socks were the only protection for my feet.

"I gathered two coconuts, cut holes in them with my knife, drank the juice, then broke them open and ate the meat. It was the first liquid and food I had had in nearly 48 hours.

"I stayed on this island three days. It was uninhabited and I knew I would die if I stayed there. "Far away I could see a larger island and decided on the fifth day to strike out for it. I was growing weak from the coconut diet.

"After hand-paddling along the coast all that day with a blazing sun baking me, I made the next island at dusk. It was studded with coconut trees like the first island. "Next morning I decided to try for another island. It took me all that day to reach it. It was the same story when I landed there—no food, no fresh water, no life.

"Arm and Foot Infected. "My left arm was swollen to twice its normal size overnight. My right foot was also infected. I realized blood poison was developing, so I cut open the source of infection with my knife, and bathed my arm in salt water for more than an hour. I was relieved somewhat and decided to move on. That morning I tried to drink coconut juice, but I just couldn't get it down.

"As I paddled along the shore I saw what appeared to be a red-roofed house near the end of the island. "The house proved a greater distance away than I had estimated;

(Editor's note: The following two stories were written by Combat Correspondents of the United States Marine Corps. Typical of the work of these fighting writers, the first was by Staff Sergeant William I. Coffeen Jr., as told to Staff Sergeant Harry Bolser. The second was written by Sergeant Pen T. Johnson.)

When night fell I still was several miles from it. But I had something to look forward to—and I slept better that night.

"I reached the beach near the house at mid-afternoon of the next day. I hit my raft in the bush and approached the building, fearful that it was occupied by Japs. I saw a sign that read 'Solomon Developing Company, Sydney, Australia. . . . I soon learned that the building was part of an abandoned coconut plantation.

"I stayed at the plantation house five days. On the sixth day I gathered some limes and oranges and started traveling again. In the distance I could see the tip of a large island, with the peak of a mountain rising above the clouds. I decided to make this island my next objective.

"When I landed I soon found that I had made another bad move. I found no life; only cliffs and mountains. However, there was plenty of fresh water—my first in approximately 27 days.

"I finally decided that I would retrace my steps and try to make it back to the first island on which I landed. I started out the next morning and barely made it back to the plantation house. The infection in my hand had cleared, but my foot was swollen from infection.

"Prayed for Direction. "That night I planned what I decided would probably be my final attempt to contact life. I prayed to God Almighty to send me in the right direction. Tomorrow, I decided I'll make for the other side of the big island.

"Near dusk on the fourth day, as I had barely enough strength in my arms to paddle, a storm broke and gradually I was carried out to sea. The last I remember I started to scream, and then I passed out! "I was told later that a high wind blew me into shore. When I regained consciousness I was in the arms of a native.

"You American or Jap? the native inquired in his best pidgin English. "I'm American, I told him. "American, you good," he replied.

"Those were the best words I believe I have ever heard in my life. I knew then that I had been rescued. "I couldn't walk. My rescuer carried me to his hut not far from the beach. I asked the date and he told me it was May 15. When I told him I had been lost since April 13—32 days—he hardly believed me. He told me that white men could not live that long on the sea and in the jungle. The native was a converted Seventh Day Adventist. He had been taught English by missionaries.

"I felt stronger the next day. By the third day I was able to walk once more. They decided to take me in a canoe to their village, where I was given American food—canned meat and potatoes. On the second day in the village the infection in my foot was lanced.

"During my stay in the native village I was stricken with malaria. I was given 'queenie,' native name for quinine. My body was bathed in fresh water and lime. Within five days the fever disappeared. While with the natives I regained 20 of the 40 pounds I had lost. When I arrived at the native village I weighed about 115 pounds.

"On the 72nd day after I had parachuted into the sea, a navy rescue plane landed off shore near the native village.

Gunner Attempts To Bring Home Crippled Bomber

"Twelve fighter pilots of my squadron had been out on a routine escort mission. We were sent to escort a group of marine dive bombers on a foray against the Jap-held airfield at Munda and were returning to Henderson on Guadalcanal."

Major R. L. Vroomer, U. S. M. C., was telling a group of fighter pilots about Sgt. Gilbert Henze, an 18-year-old gunner from State Center, Iowa. "Somehow in the fracas I got separated from my formation," went on the major. "As I headed homeward I received a radio warning that one of our dive bombers was in trouble.

"I found it a good mile south of me at about 5,000 feet. The pilot hanging half way out of the bomber's cockpit, his helmet gone, his clothes ripped to shreds. "I asked by radio, is your pilot alive?"

"I don't know sir," he answered, "we got hit by a burst of shrapnel about 20 minutes ago, and he has been that way ever since." "Can you, or have you ever flown a plane?"

"No sir," he answered. "Do you think that you can keep her level and follow my instructions?" "Yes sir, I sure can try."

"The first thing I want you to do then is to release that 1,000 pound bomb."

"Can't Release Bomb. "I can't release it sir, it can only be done from the front cockpit." "I peered anxiously ahead. Below and just visible lay the shoreline of Guadalcanal. If we could make it I could signal for a crash boat or any kind of a boat and then if I could get the kid to follow my instructions I would try to bring him in by water. Then I heard the kid shout over his radio, 'My engine just sputtered then, sir. She must be out of gas.' "That's the last word I heard over my radio for suddenly it too went dead.

"I could see the kid working frantically on the stick as the bomber went into a sickening glide. "With my radio dead I frantically signaled for the kid to jump. "If he saw me he failed to notice. Then I saw his head and shoulders emerge from the cockpit. I saw him clutching for his rip-cord. Suddenly I saw his body, parachuting and all, shoot upward as the trailing edge of the plane hit him. No man could live under such an impact.

"I followed the chute downward in tight circles. I could see a huge vent in the shrouds. The kid's body dangled from the harness. "A few minutes later it hit the water with a splash. "I brought my plane within a few feet of the water. As I passed over the spot where the kid had fallen all I could see was his yellow 'Mae West.'

"As I headed for home I prayed that the kid was unconscious when he hit, at least this would spare him any suffering before he drowned. "I happened to be sitting by our radio a few days later. A flier had been picked up by some friendly natives. He was conscious when found, and though suffering from multiple wounds and fractures, had a better than 50-50 chance to survive.

"I learned later that the tail of the plane had severed his right leg below the knee."

(Editor's note: Sergeant Henze was returned to the States and died at the U. S. naval hospital, Mare Island, California. He was buried at Hillside cemetery, State Center, Iowa.)

Ducks in Batavia Drive Far Distances on Range

In certain sections of Batavia, Dutch East Indies, large ducks are driven over the ways in much the same way that our Western farmers drive cattle and sheep over the hills. Differing from our ducks, these birds walk on their right position and are biologically called Penguin ducks.

Excellent walkers, these are driven great distances in groups, but they also occasionally, and the herder often is seen carrying or six lads in his arms.

try or fish, vegetable or fruit from groups I, II, or III. Milk or milk product, and also bread and butter from groups VI and VII.

An easy way to plan the menus is to write down the foods and the corresponding number of the group of food from which it comes. If you do not use one or two of the groups during one meal, pick them up at the next. No chance for slips, here!

*Sausage and Succotash Pie. (Serves 4 to 6)
1 pound pork sausage meat
3 cups cooked, dried or fresh lima beans
1 1/2 to 2 cups cooked corn
2 tablespoons red pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons shortening
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Lightly fry sausage. Drain well. Combine with vegetables. Make white sauce by blending flour into melted shortening. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened. Season, then add to meat mixture. Pour into baking dish. Top with pastry. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) 30 to 40 minutes.

Pork and Apple Turnovers. (Makes 4 to 6)
Combine 1 cup chopped apple with 1 cup chopped cooked pork. Roll pastry thin and cut in 6-inch squares. Heap half of square with pork and apple mixture. Fold over diagonally. Moisten edges and press together. Prick top. Bake in a hot oven 30 to 40 minutes.

Stuffed Pancake Rolls, Ham and Asparagus Cutlets or Hamburgers are low in point-value but give plenty of zip and stick-to-the-ribs quality to your meals.

Ham and Asparagus Cutlets. (Serves 6)
1 1/2 cups cooked, chopped asparagus
1 1/2 cups diced, boiled ham
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
2 tablespoons shortening
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Mix asparagus with ham and crumbs. Melt shortening, blend in flour. Stir in milk. Cook until thick. Add to first mixture, season to taste. Chill. Shape mixture to resemble chops. Dip in crumbs, then egg diluted with water, again in crumbs. Heat enough fat in skillet to cover bottom of skillet generously. Fry cutlets slowly until golden brown. Serve with Cheese Sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons shortening, blend in 3 tablespoons flour, stir in 1/2 cups milk. Add 1/4 cups grated cheese. Cook until cheese melts.

Stuffed Pancake Rolls. (Serves 4 to 6)
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 beaten egg
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 1/2 cups chopped cooked lamb
1 cup leftover gravy
1/4 cup grated cheese
Sift dry ingredients. Stir in egg, milk and shortening. Melt enough fat in skillet to cover bottom. Make 6 large thin pancakes 5 inches across. Brown on both sides. Mix meat with gravy. Heap meat in center of each pancake. Roll up. Sprinkle with cheese. Heat in oven until cheese melts.

What they do: The basic seven food requirements are so made up as to take care of the body's demands for certain types of food. For example, proteins, minerals and water are all essential to building towards the body and keeping them in repair. They are needed for tissues, bones, muscles, blood and other fluids. Energy for breathing, heart action, circulation of the blood, and other bodily functions is supplied by fuel foods—foods rich in fats and sugar.

Mrs. U. S. Grant Enjoyed Being First Lady and Gracious Hostess
By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN
The wife of President Ulysses S. Grant liked being First Lady so well that historians agree that it was she who influenced the general against the will and better judgment to seek a third term. Thus it is that Julia Grant seems to have been the first First Lady who really liked her place in life and enjoyed living in the White House. She wasn't frail and she liked parties and, in spite of all the political gossip that surrounded her household, they do say, the White House family was a happy and contented one.

Certainly President Grant (1869-77) could not have been the easiest husband in the world to have, although everyone agrees that the First Lady got along famously. Julia Grant was a slave-owner's daughter from St. Louis and had married the future general when he was a mere lieutenant more or less fresh from West Point. Then she was slender,

He went off to camp and Louis came home. When we met again it was to his knowledge that my marriage was a mistake grow daily stronger.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

YOU have never received a letter from a more despairing heart than mine," writes Marie Porter, from a great war industries center in Michigan. "I have so completely wrecked my life, and my chances of happiness in life, that if we were face to face I could not tell you my story. But I can write it, and ask for advice, and I know you will save me if you can. Many times I have thought of ending it all, but although I have not prayed for years I was raised in an atmosphere of strict religious belief and I hesitate to kill myself—it seems to me a grave sin. And I have not actually signed, foolish and weak as I certainly am. I was 18 in June.

"Seven months ago, working as a riveter, I met a young man who was destined to leave for the army last July. We fell in love and were married. I have no family, and his is in Oregon, where they have asked me to come and stay. Louis is a fine man, quiet, and without any educational or cultural advantages; his first letters were somewhat of a shock to me, for although he is 28, he writes like a boy of ten. But we thought ourselves in love and would not wait to try our affection by delay or absence.

"After he left I met another man, a different type. This man is vital, amusing, successful and popular. He is far better educated than Louis. When I met him I did not tell him I was married; it seemed a joke then. It was at a service dance, he supposed me to be even younger than I am, and as the few girls I knew didn't know anything of my private life, he suspected nothing. We went about together after that, always, may I say, with strict propriety, and presently discovered ourselves to be really in love. This was quite different from the first affair; it caused me as much misery as joy, and I knew no one ever would mean to me what Jack did. He went off to camp and Louis came home. When we met again it was to have the knowledge that my marriage was a mistake grow daily stronger. The frantic distress this caused me, you may imagine; Louis suspected nothing and was completely happy; we spent every hour of his leave together. He was being sent to Africa immediately afterward. I did not have the courage to tell him of my feeling for Jack, but when Jack in turn came home he persuaded me to write the absolute truth to Louis; that I had been foolish to marry so young and so hastily, and that I wanted him to set me free. I wrote quite a long letter, making it as gentle and affectionate as I could, and Jack and I began to plan our marriage.

Baby to Complicate Situation. Two weeks ago a dreadful suspicion was confirmed by an old kind doctor who is here at the plant; I am going to have a baby. I know nothing of babies, I have never had anything to do with one, and I am sick with nervousness and horror at the mere idea. My letter to Louis is on its way, may not reach him for weeks, and Jack has gone, gone without one word of good-by, disgusted with me, and no family! Having no home and no family I can go on working until after Christmas—then what? Divorced from Louis, with a baby to support, what can I do? I think and think, and my head spins around, and I feel ill and giddy most of the time. Jack's consternation when I told him left me in no doubt of what he feels; he said that I should have told Louis the

Remember that ANY marriage can be a success and ANY failure can be a failure, and 99 per cent of success or failure lies with the wife. Your happiness in marriage lies in your ability to forgive and overlook, to grow in unselfishness and wisdom, and has very little to do with the sort of man you marry. Women who divorce and remarry two, three or four times, know nothing of true married happiness. It is a thing of slow growth, of patience and goodness and faith. You will find it with Louis as quickly as with Jack.

First consideration is your baby.

WARTIME DILEMMA
She is married to a soldier with very little educational background. During his absence she met another young man whom she felt was more her type. She wrote to her husband asking him to set her free. But soon afterward she discovered she was going to be a mother. The second man has gone to camp disgusted that she did not break from her husband sooner. Her letter is on the way, and so is the baby. At 18 the girl is so upset she feels on the verge of suicide. She asks Kathleen Norris' advice and gets it.

minute he got home, and all this could not have happened. Please advise me and save me from despair."

Poor little 18-year-old, you have certainly made a sad mess of your life so far! But 18 is not very old, in fact, twice 18 is not very old, and you have time ahead to grow wiser and build up to happiness and self-respect again out of this wreckage.

The first consideration now is your baby, and if you don't realize that today I can assure you that you will realize it in March, when you have the little creature in your arms. Since Louis is the father, and Louis loves you, the best first step is to write Louis the truth. That you met Jack, liked Jack, liked him even to the point of considering marrying him, and that it was under that particular emotional stress that you wrote Louis to ask a divorce.

Write Husband About Plans. Go on to say that everything is changed now. A new responsibility—a new prospect has come. There is going to be a child. And for that child's sake you are never going to see Jack again, you are going to live quietly, planning for the baby in the spring, and waiting for Louis to come home. Say that you are sorry, and hope he will destroy your letter and forget it; remind him that you are very young, and confused by the exciting conditions in which you are living in war time.

He will write you forgivingly, I'm sure. If you can possibly go to his parents early in the new year, I would do so. And if you do go to the farm, and it sounds a comfortable place, make them love you; set yourself to winning them, and to be a good wife and mother. Be sure of that than you were of loving Louis only a few months ago. At 18 you are hardly sure of any emotional reaction, let alone two love affairs. You have plunged much too young into the realities of life, and life revenges itself upon you by presenting you with its most poignant reality; that of motherhood. Nothing matters now except that you fit yourself to meet this challenge as worthily, cheerfully, normally as you can. You are making a high salary, put aside something every week for your expenses when the baby comes; look about you for some place where you can board, and perhaps board the baby, too, and go on working afterward.

Girl Must Grow Up. If Louis writes you coldly, indignant at your vacillations, as well he may, face that situation, too. In other words, try to grow up and be a woman, rather than a bewildered child stumbling from one mistake to another. Don't say anything more about a divorce, should Louis angrily agree to one. Instead write him cheerful letters about yourself, about his parents and his home, and eventually about the baby, and let all serious decisions wait until he comes home again.

KEWASKUM HIGH-lights

KEWASKUM TAKES FIRST CONFERENCE GAME

Kewaskum trampled Oakfield there in the first conference game of the season Tuesday, Sept. 28, by a score of 26-6. Coach Mitchell described it as a "fine defensive game" in spite of the apparently good offensive indicated by the score.

In the first quarter Dave Bartelt blocked a punt, Ralph Koth and Jim Bartelt each made a long run and then Koth put the ball over for the first touchdown. Allen Tassar made the point after touchdown to add 2 to the original 6. After a completed 45 yard pass from Tassar to Dave Bartelt, Koth and Jim Bartelt each executed end sweeps to gain 4 yards. Koth passed to Merrill Krueger, who took the ball over. Early in the fourth quarter, Kewaskum made two consecutive first downs and Dave Bartelt caught a pass from Tassar to total the score of 26-6.

Oakfield scored only in the last few seconds of play when Gesthart rounded right end to make the touchdown. Kewaskum's second team was on the field for the last 8 minutes of play. The third quarter was strictly defensive for both teams; Coach Mitchell cited Ronald Dins and Dave Bartelt for outstanding playing.

Friday, Oct. 8, Kewaskum takes on Campbellsport here in the second conference game. Other conference games are:

Brandon here—Oct. 22.
Lomira here—Oct. 29.

A non-conference game will be the North Fond du Lac-Kewaskum game here Wednesday, Oct. 13.

CHORUS AND LIBRARY ACTIVITIES

Chorus work this year is under the direction of Miss Dorothy Fish who replaces last year's director of musical activities, Miss Hulda Kohlbeck. Miss Kohlbeck, the only teacher present certified as a teacher-librarian, is handling the library. The A girls' chorus and B girls' chorus of last year have been combined into a single unit this year; 28 girls have enrolled. They meet Monday through Thursday from 3-4 p. m. The male chorus was not reorganized.

In the library, the reference shelves and magazine rack have been reshelfed and labelled. After the remainder of the shelves have been straightened out, Miss Kohlbeck plans to check the card catalogue and shelf list. Student librarians will then be appointed to keep the library in running order. Training has been started in the library units now being offered as a part of the English curriculum.

JUNIORS SELECT RINGS

Graduation rings, selected Thursday by the juniors, graduating class of 1945, are the same style as those selected last year by the present seniors and graduating class of this year. As is customary, the graduating rings are selected in the junior year so they may be worn the last year before graduation.

The solid gold rings are to be ordered before Tuesday at Endlich's Jewelry store. Delivery will be made in December if at all possible. Girls' rings are $8.50, boys' rings $9.50, tax included.

RED CROSS WORK

For the second year, Kewaskum high school's home economics and manual training departments will devote approximately three months of the school year to Red Cross work. This year's quota is slightly less than last year's according to Miss Joan Flanagan, home economics instructor. It includes men's bed jackets, women's bed jackets, soft bedroom slippers, utility bags and afghans. However, the manual training quota has been greatly increased, according to Lee Rose. Articles similar to the games of last year plus bed lamps and bed tables will be made.

Actual work will not begin in the classes until the materials are delivered from the Washington County Red Cross chapter at West Bend. In addition to class work, students will be invited to help with the sewing during activity hour in the home economics room. The completed garments are sent to hospitals in the United States and abroad.

The instructors received notice of the quota at a sectional meeting following the Washington County Red Cross chapter dinner at West Bend Monday, Sept. 13. C. Rose, principal, also attended the meeting.

CORN, LATE POTATO AND FRUIT SHOW SATURDAY, OCT. 2

The corn, late potato and fruit show will be held Saturday, Oct. 2. These crops are not ready for showing when the county fair is held. To give these crops an opportunity to mature, a late showing is held. Entries must be made before 10:00 a. m. on Saturday, Oct. 2, at the fair grounds in Slinger where the displays will be exhibited and judged. All 4-H club members in the corn, late potato, and fruit projects are required to exhibit in order to complete their projects.

COUNTY AGENT NEWS NOTES FARM FIRE HAZARDS

The week beginning October 3rd has been designated by presidential proclamation as National Fire Prevention Week.

The importance of a national fire prevention program for the farms of America is made evident by the fact that on the average every fifteen minutes a farm building burns somewhere in the United States. Also ten lives are lost in farm fires every day.

Such fires are a serious blow to the effort because they represent a direct loss of valuable food materials, greatly needed. Also farm buildings and equipment, now difficult to replace, are lost.

Farm fires when once they get started are even more serious now than in peace time because of the difficulty of organized fire fighting help to reach the scene of the fire. This is due to the acute manpower shortage in rural areas. Hence, it will pay people living in the rural areas to use every precaution to prevent fires rather than depend on organized help to distinguish them after they once get started.

Many farm fires that could be prevented get started in the barn. For this reason all farmers are urged to check their barns during fire prevention week for any hazards that might cause them to go up in smoke. Among the fire hazards peculiar to barns may be mentioned the following:

1—Lightning rods should at all times be kept in good repair and well grounded.

2—Electrical cords should never be knotted or allowed to accumulate dust or cobwebs.

3—Lanterns should be so placed that they cannot be kicked over by animals or by workers. Lanterns should not be lighted in the barn.

4—The wiring should be inspected frequently to see that all insulation is intact. Bare wires should immediately be covered with rubber tape and replaced as soon as possible.

5—Another source of barn fires is spontaneous combustion. Shredding corn stalks into the barn when the stalks have not had a good opportunity to dry out is a frequent cause of spontaneous combustion. Such fires are easily caused also by storing hay which contains excessive moisture.

HOME STORAGE OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Abundant crops of victory gardens this year will provide more vegetables than can be used by the average family. Many of these vegetables can be successfully stored for winter use. To give those who have surplus vegetables an opportunity to learn how to properly store fruits and vegetables for the winter months there were fruit storage meetings held as indicated below:

Wednesday, Sept. 22—8:00 p. m., court house, West Bend.

Thursday, Sept. 23—2:00 p. m., insurance building, Germantown.

Thursday, Sept. 26—8:00 p. m., city hall, Hartford.

GUARD ALFALFA FIELDS WELL

A good stand of alfalfa is almost priceless this year because it is the best single source of farm grown protein. Protein livestock feeds will be hard to purchase this winter, feed authorities believe. The demand for such feeds has greatly increased because of the increases in livestock population. The supply on the other hand has decreased. There will not be enough protein rich feeds to supply the demand. Hence well cured alfalfa hay will come in mighty handy to supply part of the dairy herd protein requirements. Farmers should not pasture alfalfa during the next few weeks or until the ground freezes. The alfalfa plant needs a chance to build up and harden itself before the winter sets in. Old alfalfa fields should be given good care so as to hold them over another year.

RANGER MAC'S PROGRAM

Many Washington county 4-H club members and others will be interested to learn that Ranger Mac (Wakelin McNeil), began a new series of nature broadcasts on Monday, Sept. 27. The program will be heard over station WHA every Monday morning from 9:30 to 9:50 o'clock. Ranger Mac's program in 1942 was declared by critics as the nation's outstanding educational program for youth interested in nature.

Many Washington county farmers will be interested in knowing that Dean Chris L. Christensen of the College of Agriculture has resigned to enter private employ. In his farewell message to the rural people of the state the former dean paid a high tribute to them. He pointed out that "Wisconsin's greatness is due not so much to its richness in natural wealth but rather to the manner in which our industrious people have continuously improved their skills, extended their knowledge, and then have applied these in developing the state's resources and in improving their standards of life and culture."

E. B. Fred, dean of the graduated school, has been named as his successor.

FARM SHORT COURSE SCHOLARSHIPS

A number of scholarships ranging in value up to $75.00 are available to prospective farm short course students. These scholarships will pay for about one-half of the expenses connected with attendance for fifteen weeks at the short course in agriculture. The scholarships are available to farm youths over 17 years of age who have a sincere desire to improve themselves by attending the College of Agriculture during the three winter months. Applications must be submitted to the county extension office.

USE CHEMICALS TO DESTROY BAD WEEDS

Late September and October are the two best months for the destruction of our worst weeds such as Field Bindweed, Quack grass, and Canada thistle by the use of a chemical poison. These weeds because of their deep root systems are difficult by the ordinary methods of cultivation to destroy. Small and scattering patches of them can best be destroyed by the use of sodium chlorate or atricide. For eradicating field bindweed with sodium chlorate apply the chemical at the rate of four pounds per square rod after most of the surplus vegetation has been removed. If atricide is used increase the application by one-fifth since the chemical is not as effective. A license is needed to purchase the chlorate while none is needed to purchase atricide. One half of the amount of the chemical needed to control bindweed should be a sufficient amount for quack grass and Canada thistle. Either chemical may be applied in the dry or wet form.

DISK CORN FIELDS TO CONTROL EUROPEAN CORN BORER

Because of the rapid spread during the past year of the European corn borer good farm management practice

ATTENTION Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. If You Suffer Distress From Monthly FEMALE WEAKNESS

And Want To Build Up Red Blood!

If at such times you suffer from cramps, headache, distress of "irregularities", periods of the blues—due to functional monthly disturbances—

Start at once—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS (with added iron). They not only help relieve monthly pain but also accompanying tired, nervous feelings of this nature. This is due to their soothing effect on our sex woman's most important organs.

Taken regularly—Pinkham's Tablets help build up resistance against such symptoms. Also, they iron makes them a fine hematinic tonic to help build up red blood. Follow label directions. Get today!

calls for a thorough disking of all corn stubble before plowing the field. Such disking will chop up the stubble rendering it unfit as a winter home for the corn borer. This practice, which when followed with good plowing in which all of the remaining corn stubble is turned under, is perhaps the best means of controlling this farm pest. The use of a disk is preferred to the use of a spring tooth harrow or a field cultivator for breaking up the corn stubble. Proper corn borer control is a matter of concern for every farmer who grows field corn or sweet corn. One neglected corn grower in a community who leaves corn refuse lying around on the surface of the ground can provide corn borer infestation to all of the cornfields in the neighborhood.

MOUSE CONTROL IN THE ORCHARD

Now is the right time of the year to provide mouse protection in the orchard. This can be done in several ways but no grower should be satisfied with less than complete control. The following are satisfactory means:

1. Provide each tree with a protector—that is twelve or more inches high. Place it around the bottom of the trunk and into the soil about two inches. One-fourth inch mesh hardware cloth, wood veneer, or heavy paper such as Sinal-Kraft may be used. Of these, the one-fourth inch mesh hardware cloth is the best.

2. Poison the mice. Place poisoned grain bait in the mouse runways underneath the trash grass or mulch near the trees, or use the more re-

IN LOVING MEMORY
 In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Louisa Glander, who died five years ago, Oct. 3, 1938:
 Just five years have flown, and fast as races,
 Just five years you're living in heaven;
 Your vacant chair still standing here,
 Your soft footsteps are answering prayer,
 Your kind and smiling face missing everywhere.
 So know we suffered here on earth,
 So must we all, ever since our birth,
 But heaven is kind, in God we find,
 Peace and joy, and leave sorrow behind.
 We never can forget the day,
 We heard mother kindly say,
 The home above, we shall meet there,
 Remember your mother's prayer,
 Now five years have gone, we can't forget,
 The words of kindness, we hear them yet;
 Although you could not speak to us,
 Or could not say goodbye,
 We know your thoughts were with us all,
 When you were called to die;
 But death has left a loneliness,
 The world can never fill.
 Sadly missed by her husband and children.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Armies Start Drive to North Against Fortified Nazi Lines in Italy; Jap Key Base at Rabaul Is Encircled; Farm Groups Dissent on Subsidy Plans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Shown scanning skies for re-appearance of strafing Messerschmitts, this American anti-aircraft crew aided in valiant defense of beachheads established by U. S. troops at Salerno in bloody fighting.

ITALY: Yanks on Offense

Their bases firmly established on the beaches of Salerno after eight days of bloody battle, Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army went on the offensive and drove Nazi panzer units back into the hills rising inland.

As the Germans retreated, General Clark's Doughboys made contact with Gen. Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth Army, charging northward from the toe of the Italian boot.

Losses in Sicily: Despite the Allies' whirlwind 39-day campaign in Sicily, they suffered material losses ranging up to 54 per cent, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau declared in support of the current 15 billion dollar bond drive.

According to Morgenthau, operations in Sicily cost 13 per cent of all 155-mm. howitzers landed; 46 per cent of all 57-mm. guns; 13 per cent of all medium tanks and 7 per cent of all light tanks; 54 per cent of the carriers for the 37-mm. guns; 36 per cent of the carriers for the 75-mm. guns, and 22 per cent of the carriers for the 105-mm. guns.

"In Sicily we met only a small fraction of the opposition we are getting from the Germans now in Italy," he said.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC: Big Base Encircled

With Allied troops in command of the Solomons and firmly closing their grip on New Guinea, the great Japanese naval and air base at Rabaul has been encircled and neutralized as an advance post for action in the Southwest Pacific.

Hardly had General MacArthur's troops closed the noose before a big naval battle was reported in the area between New Guinea and the Solomons, thus indicating that the Allies were moving swiftly to capitalize on their position.

With Allied bombers faced with shorter runs and therefore enabled to carry heavier loads to the big base, and with the U. S. fleet ready to spring into action from neighboring waters, the encirclement of Rabaul removed the Japs' immediate threat to Australasia. At one time the Japs threatened to overrun the entire region.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

ITALIAN CROPS: Italy is believed to have harvested more wheat this year than she ever did, even before the war, but most of it will probably fall to the German army, say department of agriculture spokesmen. They think the crop may have amounted to 280 million bushels. Indicating that looting of food supplies is taking place, is a report by way of Stockholm.

TOUR: The war department has approved the projected tour of the Pacific war theater by two teams of big league baseball stars who will play for the servicemen. They will probably be 18 men on each squad, one from each major league team.

MUSEUM: The Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago marked its 50th anniversary recently. It is considered one of the three greatest in the United States. The institution was renamed the "Chicago Museum of Natural History" at the ceremonies.

SUBSIDIES: Farm Groups Dissent

Declaring that maximum production was the best guarantee against inflation, leaders from national farm organizations met with President Roosevelt to protest against general food subsidies to consumers.

To assure highest production, the organization spokesmen suggested the government support "floor" prices for farm commodities at levels assuring fair returns. In the case of meat and butter, it was said, subsidies failed to halt price reactions to supply and demand at the markets.

Bucking the subsidy idea on which organized labor has pressed the government to spend two billion dollars, were Albert S. Goss of the National Grange; Edward A. O'Neal, American Farm Bureau federation; and Ezra T. Benson, National Council of Farm Co-operatives. Representing the National Farmers' Union, James G. Patton differed with the majority, favoring subsidies.

See Large Crops

Despite an unfavorable combination of low rainfall and high temperatures in a huge irregular area extending from southern New England to central North Carolina, from northern Georgia to central New Mexico, crop production was expected to be 4 per cent above any previous year, excepting 1942.

Estimating a yield of 31.7 bushels per acre, the department of agriculture forecast a corn crop of 2,985,267,000 bushels. At 16.7 bushels per acre, 834,957,000 bushels of wheat were expected. And at 30.2 bushels per acre, 1,145,060,000 bushels of oats were anticipated.

Yielding 668 pounds per acre, the peanut crop was set at 2,801,515,000 pounds. On 136.9 bushels per acre, 460,512,000 bushels of potatoes were expected. At 46.9 bushels per acre, 71,217,000 bushels of rice were forecast.

DADS' DRAFT: Army Insists

Pointing to the army's admission that 2,700,000 troops will still be in the U. S. at the end of 1944, Senator Burton K. Wheeler pressed for congressional consideration of his bill for the deferment of fathers.

Insisting that the army's program requires the induction of 700,000 men or WACs by the end of this year, Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney assailed the proposed deferment of dads. The general said that each month 75,000 men are needed to replace casualties or discharges.

Declaring that voluntary methods for bringing men into war industries have not filled needs, Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson favored a labor draft, to give an effect, as he said, to an obligation on everyone of working age to render necessary national service.

"PAY DAY": Farm soils working overtime to meet the war's vast production quotas can be restored if farmers will earmark part of their present war bond purchases for peacetime soil rebuilding projects, including the use of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, according to a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement committee made recently.

SPARS: "Women will lose no part of their femininity by serving in the military forces during the war," Lieut. Com. Dorothy Stratton, national director of the SPARS, or coast guard auxiliary, said recently. She believes most SPARS will be "Desirous of a home after the war."

INSURANCE: Life insurance written up during August was 21.8 per cent more than in August of 1942, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents reveals. For the first eight months of the year, sales were 3.6 per cent more than the same period last year.

JAPS: Woo Subjects

In an effort to enlist the active support of the 700 million Asians already under her heel, Japan has promised them self-scrupulous care to respect their religions, invited their young students and leaders to Tokyo, where they have been entertained by the emperor, and exchanged technicians with them.

Premier Tojo

According to diplomatic advices, the program has had its effect. With the assistance of the natives, the Japs are getting bauxite for aluminum from Burma; iron from North China and Manchuria; oil from Java and Borneo; copper, tin and manganese from the Philippines and foodstuffs from Thailand. In addition, the wily Japs are installing factories in the conquered countries.

Under Tojo's leadership, it was said, the Japs are ready to sacrifice five million men to beat the Allies. They expect the war to be long, but consider present action in the South Pacific as merely outpost skirmishes.

WHISKY: No Production

Because of a boost of 20 per cent in the estimated requirements of industrial alcohol for the newly established synthetic rubber industry, distilleries will not be allowed to switch to whisky production for the rest of the year. Previously, distilleries nourished hopes of being given two weeks to build up dwindling stocks of whisky and blends.

The decision to place greater reliance on alcohol for synthetic rubber than on petroleum resulted from conclusions that use of the latter would interfere with the aviation gasoline program. Furthermore, it was said, the government objected to the diversion of grain to whisky at a time when it was trying to maintain the nation's food standards.

This Excuses Everybody

As chairman of the house ways and means committee, Rep. Robert Doughton presided over congress' shaping of the present income tax.

Recently, Doughton summoned the committee to a night session to see whether something couldn't be done to simplify the filing of returns.

Doughton, it seems, had to get a "tax expert" to make out his own form!

HOME DELIVERIES: Cut Oct. 11

To assure continuation of motor transportation against wartime shortages of fuel, replacement parts, equipment, tires and supplies, the Director of Defense Transportation Joseph B. Eastman ordered curtailment of retail and wholesale merchandise deliveries.

Effective October 11, milk deliveries to homes will be limited to four times a week; meats, fruits, vegetables, fish and bread to three times, and dry groceries, laundry and dry cleaning to two times. Permission was given for delivery of ice every day.

Wholesale deliveries will be cut to six times weekly for bread, bakery products, cream, milk, dairy products and repair parts; five times for meats, eggs, fruits, vegetables, fish, live plants, laundry, dry cleaning and cut flowers; and once for alcoholic beverages, wines and bottled malt beverages.

RUSSIA: Oil Hopes Blasted

Once set up as the cornerstone of the Nazis' drive for the Caucasus oil, Novorossisk was abandoned by them as the Germans pulled back to the Dnieper river for a last ditch stand in Russia.

The German withdrawal along the whole front to the Dnieper was regular, with the Nazis within 100 miles of the broad, curving river, from Bryansk in the north to Loozovaya in the south. Only along the coast of the Sea of Azov were the Germans any distance from the Dnieper, and here it was believed they were holding deeper defenses to permit their troops in the Crimea to pull out.

Every indication pointed to the Germans' use of the Dnieper as their last strong natural defense in Russia. The Reds cracked the Dnieper, the Germans would have no suitable defensive terrain left, but would have to fall back on the Dniester river, in Europe itself.

MEXICO: Tourist Boom

"American tourists are crowding Mexico and buying up everything from gin and electrical appliances to bobby pins and elastic," it is reported.

The people of Mexico are not feeling the war as acutely as are the people of the United States as rationing has not gone into effect there. There is plenty of everything, it is said, but Americans are buying much of the surplus goods. American money is welcome.

WAR BABIES: Federal Aid Needed

"The number of babies born to men in the armed forces has exceeded all expectations," declared Representative Cannon in connection with the bill to provide an additional 20 million dollars of federal funds for maternity and child care.

California, he disclosed, has exhausted its share of the total of $5,000,000 appropriated before the summer recess, and other states are near the end of their resources.

Who's News This Week

NEW YORK—Most of the Allied blows in China and Burma and India are being struck from the air. Lots of them will continue to be, a fact which steps up the importance of the U. S. Air Service command in that region and of Brig. Gen. Robert C. Oliver, its directing head.

Oliver's job is to muster the supplies and men and equipment needed to maintain the Tenth and Chennault's swash-buckling Fourteenth, and all the other air forces now in the area or due there when the big push starts against the Japs. A year ago he had a half dozen men, a warehouse or so, a couple of trucks. Now his warehouses are all about, his trucks run in battalions and he counts his men in hundreds, even thousands.

Oliver is a thin, confident West Pointer, 41 years old. He weighs a scant 145 pounds, works 11 hours a day, seven days a week and is disarmingly friendly. When he notices a strange private he is likely to stroll over, ask the man's name, give his own and shake hands heartily.

Army-born, with a father who served in the medical corps during the Spanish-American war, he went first with the infantry after West Point, but finally settled down in the air force. His pilot score-sheet shows 3,000 hours in the air. Some of these were piled up early last year in North Africa, but he didn't down any Germans. His wife and son are living in Montgomery, Ala. It is a fine, quiet town. He serves on the board of the peanut cake sold in the community market will certainly please Robert Jr.

THE game of musical chairs which Hitler has been playing with his war chiefs through a series of setbacks in Africa and Russia, now sends Gen. Franz Halder to the hot seat.

Can Halder Hold? Gen. Franz Halder to the hot seat. Late cables say that he is chief of staff again. He was tossed out last Christmas-tide for Kurt Zeitzler, the Nazi plug-ugly, a switch which would be paralleled here if General Marshall were ousted for a modern Quattrone. But now he is back, just in time to plug, if he can, the hole left by Italy's collapse.

Halder has a cheery smile and this, along with thick glasses, gives him a schoolmasterish air. But he is a soldier with 40 years training, the son of a general, and in his own right a sound strategist and a bold tactician. Hitler turned him out with a curt, "You may go," after failures in Russia, but it was Hitler's plan that failed, not Halder's.

Some people who toured pre-war Germany are fond of saying that the kindly Bavarians should not be counted among the toughest Nazis. But Halder is a Bavarian and though he was not tough enough for Hitler he left bitter memories all through the Ukraine.

The big question is whether he is tough enough to hold the region around the River Po in Northern Italy against the Allies. That is where he is expected to stand, although once again the plan is Hitler's, not his. On his own plan he would refuse battle until the lofty barrier of the Alps stood as his first line of defense instead of worrisomely at his back.

THE United Nations commission to draw up true bills against Axis war criminals will, beyond any doubt, let go with both barrels, as soon as possible, and that means the pretty soon.

But now that Sir Cecil Hurst has been named Britain's accuser the culprits will, at least, have the cold comfort of knowing that the shooting is entirely legal.

Sir Cecil has been a lawyer for 50 years, just. For a long while he was legal advisor of the British foreign office and since 1929 has had a seat in the Hague court, succeeding Charles Evan Hughes; he was elected its president in 1933. But he is no dry-as-dust, while back he was over here for some distinguished goings-on at Princeton.

A few Americans present were a mite squeamish about mentioning the remote but remembered trouble centering around the year 1776. Sir Cecil wasn't. He eased a ticklish moment by declaring cheerfully that Britain in that distant year, or thereabouts, had got a mighty good lesson, one which had helped her ever since with other colonies.

Seventy-three now, Sir Cecil supports the popular notion that an Englishman doesn't tear up his roots easily. He was born in Horsham. He still has his home there, though not the same one.

He lives a short hour by motor from London in Rusper Nunnery, a name marking Horsham's antiquity, even though nowadays it is given over to manufacturing. He was educated at Cambridge university, in Trinity college, a place Hitler might have tried harder to destroy if he had known it would furnish one of his judges.

City Once Russian

Washington Digest Nation to Be Active Factor in Post-War Peace Plans

Majority of American People Ask Participation in International Organization to Maintain Harmony.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Slowly the pattern of America's post-war plans are taking shape, but only the pattern.

When congress returned, it was evident that no matter how much disagreement there might be as to the details of the role the United States will play in the post-war world, the people have registered one idea: they want to take part in some kind of an international organization to maintain peace.

The same opinion turned up in the conversation of three members of congress of widely differing political sentiments with whom I talked shortly after they returned. Speaker Sam Rayburn told me that the one phrase which received the most applause in the speeches he made in the Southwest was when he said that the United States must do a man's job for peace.

Two leading Republican senators expressed the same idea, namely, that "the people seem to be of one mind" that America must join in some kind of international effort after the war to maintain peace.

The disagreements in congress are chiefly a difference in degree and represent a discussion, for the most part, over details that nobody expects congress to decide in advance anyhow.

Of course, there are two things which make for lack of harmony; one is the natural desire of each political party to criticize the other in a campaign year; the other is the effort of small groups to get over their own particular ideas.

Secretary of State Hull, in his speech of September 12, made it plain that the administration was in favor of an international organization which would agree to use force to maintain peace—implying that the United States would offer its armed forces in collaboration with other nations to stop aggression. He went further on the subject than any official so far but there has been a feeling on the part of many members of congress that the people would support such a policy.

Pooling of Resources

Meanwhile, the public has gradually come to the realization that Winston Churchill, as the king's first minister with plenary powers, and President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief and, therefore, with similar authority, have agreed that the United States and Britain will pool their military resources not only until the fighting ends, but until the emergency is ended. They will do this merely by continuing the committee of joint chiefs of staff.

They have made it plain that they consider the emergency, or as an official spokesman for the United States described it, "a period of transition," will not end until the last peace treaties are signed. In other words, the United States and Great Britain intend, as long as the emergency exists, to take part in an organization to establish and maintain the peace by means of what amounts to a military alliance between the two nations.

Prime Minister Churchill was ready to sign a written agreement which would include Britain's pledge to remain our ally and continue the war with us until Japan was beaten—that much he told the newsmen—and he added, the President had said it was not necessary, that his word was good enough. Presumably, the written agreement would have included the continuation of the joint committee of the chiefs of staff, too. But written or unwritten, such a pact now exists.

It is, therefore, clear that the President intends, if he remains in office, to maintain an interim arrangement which will keep this country an active factor in world affairs to the point where its policies will be supported by military action. This will be of indefinite length, as Churchill put it, until it can be shown that a better arrangement, including all nations, can be found to supplant it.

In one sense, therefore, it is less important what decision the congress or the administration makes right now as to its foreign policy than there will be plenty of time for the people to become fully acquainted with the whole situation during the "transition period" when

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Reversing the usual procedure of asking German civilians to write only cheerful letters to front line troops, Nazi officials have appealed to German soldiers to make certain letters to their families are in a "humorous vein."

The armed forces are using feathers for camouflage equipment, sleeping bags and aviators' jackets.

Crickets on the hearth this fall may lead to holes in curtains, rugs and other household fabrics as well as in clothes and even leather shoes, according to entomologists of the department of agriculture. As fall comes on and outdoor food supplies become scarce, field crickets may enter houses in great numbers and become serious pests.

Gasoline sold in the United States last winter decreased slightly in quality because of wartime conditions, says the bureau of mines.

Household Hints: A cloth dampened with warm water and rubbed over windows before washing will move the smoky look.

Common table salt is the best cleanser for a milk strainer. Rub both sides of the strainer thoroughly with the salt.

Rich, active soils and frequent rinsing are elemental requirements for successful horticulture.

Handle fruits and vegetables gently. Do not bruise.

To cut fresh bread, dip both boiling water and slices of bread cut as they are desired. A piece of apple in the breadbox will keep bread and cake fresh for days.

After butchering and cooking the bone meat, there is still much greasy broth left. This can be canned. It is fine for soups, beans, greens, cabbage or other foods. Save the broth for a second two, then put in pint jars in a water bath. Boil for 20 or 30 minutes.

A bit of wax rubbed on the tops of rockers, will prevent marking even the glossiest floors.

Soft water, or rain water, can be used in the cooling system of a tractor if possible, or in agricultural engines. Hard water can cause lime deposits on the water jackets and in the radiator head, and also in the tanks. These deposits hinder the transfer of heat and may cause overheating of the engine.
