

Bond Goal Reached by 17 of 20 Communities in County in War Loan

With the townships of Hartford and Jackson going over the top in the last few days, Washington county now has a score of 17 communities out of 20 who have made their individual quota in the fourth war loan drive. There remain only three townships who still are completing their job in an endeavor to put their township over the top before the drive is finally completed on Feb. 29.

Although the fourth war loan drive had a closing date of Feb. 15, this does not apply to the sales of E, F and G bonds which are sold to individuals. All E, F and G bonds sold between now and the end of February will count in the fourth war loan drive, which gives these three townships the opportunity of going over the top before the drive is completed.

In the town of Hartford, John Frey, the community chairman, announced that sales amount to $56,215 against a quota of $55,800. Fred L. Clauson is the banking chairman in the town of Hartford. Over in the town of Jackson, Paul Bartlett, community chairman, reports sales of $63,209 which puts him over his quota of $62,700. Elmo Rosenbloom is the banking chairman for the town of Jackson. Both these townships did a fine job in putting their township over the top.

As stated above, seventeen communities have now gone over the top on their local quota. Of course, it was announced last week that Washington county as a whole had gone over the top on both its individual and corporate quotas. In doing this fine job, they were the first county in the state to go over the top on their quota, and until the last few days they were the only county in the state who had gone over the top on their individual quota. Washington county received a lot of publicity throughout the state papers on this fine accomplishment.

The actual sales are somewhat lagging at the present time. The figures that have been reported have all been the subscriptions placed with the minute men on their calls. In some communities the actual sales—that is sales at the banks—are up to subscriptions, but in others they are lagging a bit so it is important that every one who has subscribed for war bonds go to their bank, building & loan association or post office and obtain their bonds immediately. In the last analysis, it is the actual sales that count and not the subscriptions. From past experience at the end of other drives the sales figures as reported by the banks have actually exceeded the subscription figures as reported by the local community chairman. This is a fine record to have and it should occur again if everyone who has made out a subscription obtains their bonds promptly.

Remember that these bonds must be purchased by the 29th of this month, for that is the last date the sale of war bonds will count to the credit of Washington county for the fourth war loan drive.

Column on the Side

CANNOT PUBLISH THE MILITARY UNIT

The Statesman regularly receives remittances from parents and servicemen to publish in the overseas address of those serving overseas in our column, "With Our Men and Women in Service." We would like to comply with their wishes, and we know that the boys and girls in service would get many more letters from friends if their complete address was known, but the Office of Censorship has set up regulations which must be adhered to.

We can publish all of the address but not the military unit, so this address would not serve much of a purpose. The same holds true with boys in the navy; the unit or ship on which the address serves cannot be identified.

As an example, we cite the following address:

Pvt. William Doe 22465789
Company F, 17th Infantry
A.P.O. 710, Postmaster
New York City, N. Y.

The Office of Censorship says "no" to the inclusion of the military unit (Company F, 17th Infantry), if the same is to be published in the newspaper. The rest of the address can be published.

Two People Injured When Car Crashes Into House

Harry Ramthun of Kewaskum suffered a fractured collar bone and fracture of the right arm, and Miss Bahr, Route 2, West Bend, sustained a fractured pelvis when a car driven by the former crashed into the southeast corner of the Mrs. Otto Habek home on East Main street in this village at about 9:30 p. m. Sunday night. Ramthun was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, according to reports, and when he applied the brakes of the car the machine skidded, became out of control and headed into the house. Miss Bahr was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, where she is confined. Ramthun is confined at his home. The car was quite badly damaged, however, little destruction was caused to the house.

Local Sportsmen's Club to Pay Bounty on Foxes

Hunters and sportsmen throughout the county have noticed the scarcity of pheasants, rabbits and other small game in past months. The reason for the small game's disappearing is the red fox, which has been making its appearance in increasing numbers in this section. As a result it was decided that all of the sportsmen's clubs of the county should band together and establish a bounty on any fox shot. The Kewaskum Sportsmen's club is co-operating by paying a $2.00 bounty on any fox or fox pup shot. The bounty will be paid by Norbert Dags of the local club. The game commission at Madison has approved an open season on foxes until such time as the 1914 seasons are established. Arrangements are under way to organize a county-wide fox hunt.

A meeting of the Kewaskum club will be held at the village hall at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, Feb. 15, and all hunters and sportsmen should attend.

Yeoman Harry Koch Wed to Chicago Girl

Harry E. Koch, 20 3/4, United States coast guard, son of Mrs. Arthur W. Koch of this village, took as his bride Miss Janet Clement of Chicago, Ill. in a ceremony performed on Saturday, Feb. 5. The wedding took place in the coast guard recruiting office at Charleston, South Carolina, where Yeoman Koch is stationed.

Below is an account of the nuptial event, sent to the editor of the Statesman by A. E. Potter, Sp. 1/c, Fort Sumner Hotel, Room 223, Charleston, S. C., editor of the coast guard mounted beach patrol magazine, "Hoof Prints," as it appeared in the Feb. 13 issue of the magazine. A copy of "Hoof Prints" was also received from Yeoman Koch, who sends the magazine regularly. Here's the write-up:

"Into the sea of matrimony went Yeo. Harry (Cookie) Koch on Saturday, February 5th. Harry was married by Chaplain L. Y. Seibert to the former Janet Clement of Chicago, whose parents and sister came to Charleston to witness the ceremony.

"The wedding took place at the coast guard recruiting office at 31 Smith street, which was handsomely decorated and attended. Miss Clement's sister, Mrs. Ben Schaefer, was matron of honor, and W. W. Utsey of Charleston was the groom's best man.

"Directly following the ceremony, a reception at Lance Hall on Meeting street was the scene of much merry-making and gaiety which was appropriately conjured up by the newlyweds and their friends. Then, in perfect accord with the best tradition we know, the happy couple broke away early and slipped off into the night. Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Koch now reside at 15 Logan street in Charleston.

Yeoman Koch is a graduate of the Kewaskum high school and Fond du Lac Commercial college. He enlisted in the U. S. coast guard in August, 1912, and before enlisting held a position with A. G. Koch, Inc. of Kewaskum. His numerous friends will join in extending congratulations and best wishes to Harry and Et's bride.

Highs Tip Unbeaten Rosendale in Upset

Leading all the way through a turn-picked game, the Kewaskum high school team earned an unexpected victory over the undefeated, league leading Rosendale squad here Tuesday, 20-24, before a full house of hilarious Kewaskum fans and depressed Rosendale rooters. Before Tuesday the veteran Rosendale team had won 11 straight conference games and several non-conference affairs over strong opponents. Not only was this their first defeat, but it was the first time any Tri-County team came close to upsetting them. At Rosendale recently Kewaskum was beaten 13-17.

Kewaskum played an inspired, hard fighting, do or die game against the much taller and heavier Rosendale giants. They were pointing for this battle and the special plays they had practiced to penetrate Rosendale's zone defense worked to perfection in the first half. The Highs swept Rosendale off their feet in the first quarter and the champions never could regain their stride.

The first quarter was all Kewaskum; the score at the end of it being 13-2. This was the first time this season Rosendale had to fight back from behind. Tassar had magic fingers during that period, scoring from every angle. At the half the score had mounted to Kewaskum 21, Rosendale 13.

Of these 21 points Tassar scored 9 on 4 baskets and a free throw. Dave Bartelt contributed 4 field goals and Glenway Backhaus added 2 more. Pinch of Rosendale scored all but 2 of the victors' 13 points in the first half with smooth, easy deliveries.

After the change of goals between halves, Kewaskum couldn't find the basket and failed to score a point in the third quarter while Rosendale crept up to within four points, 21-17. Kewaskum's boys recovered in the last quarter to gain a 29-21 victory. Kewaskum added to the score in the last minute or two while Rosendale desperately tried to steal the ball.

The competition reached its highest point of excitement in the fourth quarter when the visitors twice approached to within two points of the home team, 21-19 and 24-22. Tense and excited, the home rooters awaited and fought with the boys as they piled up the last 9 points in this quarter. Kewaskum's boys played with the psychological handicap of fear of losing Tassar and Dave Bartelt, each carrying the load of three personal fouls. In spite of this Tassar dropped in 2 more baskets and a free throw. Backhaus and Koth each contributed the now very valuable points for free throws, one apiece.

TOWNSHIP MEETINGS for County Farmers

At a meeting held at the court house at West Bend on Tuesday, Feb. 15, of the Washington county AAA community committees, it was decided that township meetings would be held beginning Feb. 21 for the purpose of advising all farmers in the county on tractor gasoline and fuel oil, dairy feed payments for milk delivered in January, 1914, and the 1914 farm plan.

Farmers will be notified as to the time and place of meetings held in their respective townships. In order to avoid unnecessary waiting, farmers should be prepared to give the following information and evidence:
1. A statement of their January milk weights.
2. Intended acreage of 1914 crops.
3. Gallons of tractor gasoline used in 1913.
4. Gallons of tractor fuel oil used in 1912.
5. Estimated amount of tractor gasoline required for the period April 1, 1914, to April 1, 1915.
6. Estimated amount of tractor fuel required for the period April 1, 1914, to April 1, 1915.
7. Number of gallons of tractor gasoline represented by unused coupons expected to be on hand as of April 1, 1914.
8. Number of gallons of other tractor fuel represented by unused coupons expected to be on hand as of April 1, 1914.

Annual Holy Trinity Church Meeting Held

The annual meeting of Holy Trinity congregation was held in the parish hall Sunday morning after mass with a large representation of the parishioners present.

Officers were elected and A. J. Feltenz and Edw. E. Miller were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively. Nicholas Stoffel and Joe Eberle were reappointed to the advisory board. New members appointed to this board are Theodore R. Schmidt and Joe Schools. They replace A. G. Hron and Frank Himes. A fifth member was added to the board this year, namely John Muckerheim. Theodore Schmidt, Ralph Remmel and A. G. Hron were named on the auditing committee, replacing Al Wietor, Robert Wittman and John Stelfing.

It was shown that substantial improvements had been made and part of the debt of the parish paid during the past three years. It was decided to retire the remainder of the debt within the next two years if possible. It was suggested that an entertainment committee be appointed, this committee to be selected by the pastor. Other business matters were transacted and discussed.

The annual meeting of St. Bridget's mission parish was held the previous Sunday and David Hanrahan and Raymond Kudek were elected secretary and treasurer respectively, replacing Hubert Klein and Arnold Hawig, who served as officers for many years.

Port Washington Upset by Indians Five, 54-42

The Kewaskum Indians won their second game over Port Washington in the home gym Sunday night. The high scoring tussle ended 54 to 42. Honeck was hot for the winners and dropped the ball through the hoop for 23 points, leading both teams. Johnnie Decker was best for Port with 16 points. Kewaskum led at the half, 24-18.

This Sunday night, Feb. 29, the Indians will tackle the Goli Manufacturing company team of West Bend on the local floor. Be there at 8:15 for the tip-off.

No Meeting of County Old Settlers' Club This Year

Due to the continued wartime restrictions on food supply and travel, a general meeting of the Washington County Old Settlers' Club and Historical society will be held this year. It was announced this week by Secretary Arthur E. Kuehthaus.

This decision was arrived at in a conference of several persons who have been closely identified with the affairs of the society over a period of years. The same restrictions forced cancellation of the dinner meeting last year, and Kuehthaus reports that it seems likely the event will be postponed for the duration of the war. In practice, the annual dinner and program are held on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Incorporation of the society as an auxiliary unit of the state historical society is proceeding as rapidly as is possible under present conditions. Some difficulty has been encountered, however, because it is necessary that the incorporation articles be signed by two members of the society from every precinct in the county. Because of the restrictions on travel, this has not yet been accomplished.

CLAYTON STAUTZ ENLISTS IN ARMY AIR CORPS MONDAY

Clayton Stautz, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stautz of this village, was to Milwaukee Monday where he enlisted and was sworn into the army air corps. Clayton passed his mental test last December in West Bend and successfully passed his physical examination in Madison in January. He has been placed in the enlisted reserve and will be called into active service when he reaches his 18th birthday next June. The young man, who graduated from the Kewaskum high school last year, is employed by the West Bend Aluminum company.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Reinhold Biegel of Route 3, Kewaskum, underwent an operation on Saturday, Feb. 12, at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Texture of griddle cakes will be finer if the eggs are separated and the whites are beaten and added last to the batter.

Paint the bottom step of your cellar stairs white so it may be easily seen and prevent falls.

Cellar windows should be opened frequently to purify the atmosphere of the cellar and entire dwelling.

Clean gummy furniture by saturating a small piece of cloth with olive oil and going over the furniture to be cleaned. Wipe off the surplus oil and polish with a clean, dry cloth. The oil is good for the varnish, as it tends to keep it from cracking.

If wool clothes get wet or muddy, dry them slowly at room temperature (never close to a stove or radiator). When dry, brush them.

Make left-over rice into cakes fry in bacon fat and serve with maple syrup for breakfast.

Sawhorses on a board or two on them make a dandy platform for papering and other house-cleaning chores. But often they scratch the floors. Several doubles of cloth fastened to the lower ends of the legs will prevent this trouble.

Freshen peanuts by heating ten minutes in a slow oven. If salted peanuts are to be used in salads or desserts be sure they are strictly fresh. They become rancid quickly unless stored in a cool place.

Before adjusting hems of dresses to new lengths, rip the hem and wash the garment. It is easier to get rid of the crease and the thin ridge of soil which often forms at this point if the preliminary washing is given.

Don't use soap on enamel paint, it dulls the gloss. Clear hot water, to which one teaspoon of washing soda has been added for every gallon, should be used. On varnished or flat-painted surfaces, use a mild soap, rinsing quickly with clear water and wiping dry.

Girl Harvesters Save the Syrup

Women who have displayed such amazing versatility during this war have pinch-hit for men with customary efficiency in the maple sugar industry. A typical example was the work of coeds from the University of New Hampshire who gathered sap on the farm of Samuel Smith in Gilford, N. H. Farmer Smith and his clan of 9 children and 13 grandchildren formed the nucleus of the coed army which harvested sap from hundreds of maple trees. It takes 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup. New Hampshire was the sixth ranking state in production of maple syrup. These photos show the harvesters at work.

Oxen are still used to haul sap tanks on sleds at the Smith farm. In the background are some members of the Smith family with a few of the college girls who helped collect the sweet liquid.

Smith shows Dorothy Keefe how to tap. He bores a hole that holds a spile through which sap runs into a bucket. This is how the bucket hangs under spiles. It is held by hooks. Hundreds of containers are hung by the gatherers.

Top: Sap, as it comes from the trees, is crystal clear. Top right: Three coeds pour their contributions into the sap gathering tank. When the tank is filled, the fluid is boiled down to evaporate all but the syrup. Right: A full tank reaches the sugar house and its contents are strained through cloth as the sap goes to the sugaring house. Below: A "sugaring off" party. Youths sample syrup cooked into a soft ball.

Evelyn Laraba didn't wait for the "sugaring off" party. She sampled the maple sugar as it came from the tree.

Christians and Jews Join Hands in Good Fellowship During 'Brotherhood Week' Observances, Feb. 20-26

Inter-Cult Meetings Being Organized in 3,000 Communities.

"ALL possess alike liberty of conscience and immunities of citizenship. It is now no more that toleration is spoken of, as if it was by the indulgence of one class of people, that another enjoyed the exercise of their inherent natural rights. For happily the Government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance, requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens, in giving it on all occasions their effectual support."

So wrote George Washington, as first President of our republic, whose first principle is "that all men are created equal." The letter was addressed to the Hebrew Congregation of Newport, R. I.

A phrase from this letter, "to bigotry no sanction," has been seized upon as a fitting motto for the National Conference of Christians and Jews, an organization dedicated to the destruction of religious intolerance and racial prejudice. The conference sponsors the annual "Brotherhood Week" activities, a program of events designed to promote good fellowship and understanding among people differing in cult or race. The last week of February, the 20th to the 27th, was chosen for Brotherhood week, because Washington's birthday, the 22nd, is included in this period.

Pageants and musical programs are being rehearsed and roundtables and forums arranged in some 3,000 American communities this year. Churches, synagogues, army camps, naval stations, schools, fraternal and trade organizations are all planning to observe this time of special friendliness.

The Round Tables. Headquarters for Brotherhood week is the central office of the conference in New York city. Dr. Robert Ashworth, director of the "Week," operates through 15 regional offices, which are permanently organized units of the conference. Local groups, called Round Tables, work under the direction of the regional leaders. There are now 249 Round Tables, composed of influential citizens of several religions and races.

Last year these men who believe that they are their "brother's keepers" were instrumental in having tolerance programs presented in 250 colleges, 2,800 parochial and public schools, 6,968 churches of all denominations, 1,869 women's groups and 1,331 professional and service clubs of one kind or another. The 60 overseas directors of the USO also are now busily engaged planning various events for Brotherhood week for the armed forces abroad. Its chief of operations in the United States, Ray Johns, in his memo to the directors of the 2,300 USO units in this country, accompanying his program for Brotherhood week, said: "No subject is closer to the heart of the world-wide crisis which now engulfs our civilization."

'World We Want to Live In.' During the last 12 months ministers of priests, rabbis and ministers have brought their message of brotherhood to some 400 camp centers with an estimated attendance of over two million. "The World We Want to Live In," a film made for more than 3,000 times. A documentary film detailing the various good will activities of this organization of Christians and Jews now is being made by "The March of Time." The camp program is growing all the time; in the words of the president of the conference, Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, it is "the most important new contribution of the National Conference."

Urging service men and women, and all others, to attend their churches or synagogues, the National Conference believes that "while we fight for religious liberty, it is our duty to help our churches and synagogues by our attendance and support. We must make religion increasingly vital in our lives and in the nation." Many of the major denominational religious authorities, and Protestant, Catholic and Jewish community leaders, use the material prepared by the Conference on Brotherhood week. Some 2,500,000 pieces of its literature have been given to chaplains for use and distribution.

Traveling Speakers Carry Message of Brotherhood to Camps

The National Conference of Christians and Jews is carrying its message into the military camps, marine and naval bases. The visit to the Seabee training center at Camp Peary, near Williamsburg, Va., is typical of the experiences of the traveling speakers. More than 3,000 of the keen, hard, construction battalion men poured into the camp theater, reports the conference man who accompanied the three clergymen on their tours.

How Conference of Christians and Jews Reaches the People

Necessary funds for the work of the Conference were provided by 23,000 Americans of all creeds who contributed $386,115.56 in 1943. This was an increase of approximately 53 per cent over the previous year. Additional money was used largely for the military training camp program. Movies have been a valuable adjunct to the lectures and roundtables. Right now the March of Time, Inc., is preparing a two-reel docu-

President's Proclamation On 'Brotherhood Week'

(President Roosevelt's White House proclamation setting the week of Washington's birthday as Brotherhood week, will be headed by short verse to the four corners of the globe by the office of war information. It reads in part: "The annual observance of Brotherhood week is a time both of reminder and dedication. It reminds us of the basic religious faith from which democracy has grown—that all men are children of one Father and brothers in the human family. It dedicates us to the practice of understanding and justice through which freedom and equality flourish in human society."

"While we are engaged in a mighty struggle to preserve our free institutions and to extend the boundaries of liberty in the earth, it is good for us to pledge renewed devotion to the fundamentals upon which this nation has been built. Brotherhood must prevail. Our inescapable choice is brotherhood or chaos."

"On land and sea and in the air, the sons of the United States fight as one though they come from every racial and cultural strain and though they worship at different altars. They are brothers in arms now; soon, pray God, they shall be brothers in peace. We on the home front must see that history shall not repeat itself in postwar hatred and intolerance. It is for us to make the homeland more nearly a land of brotherhood, worthy of the victory our gallant sons and daughters shall surely win."

Educational plans for observing Brotherhood week in the public and high schools were prepared by the Duluth Intercultural committee of Duluth, Minn. These cover a variety of novel events all aiming at cultivating an appreciation of the importance of tolerance and understanding of the other fellow. Robert Ruhlman, who drew the prize-winning poster for Brotherhood week, said he is pleased to see that the message of tolerance is being disseminated in schools, settlement houses, USO centers and community groups in a high school student in Cleveland, Ohio.

Education in Tolerance. Of course, getting along amicably with people who are slightly different cannot be taught in a single week of the year. The conference realizes that their job must go on every week, every day. A spirit of toleration toward religious and cultural differences should be developed in childhood, the conference realizes. One of the most important committees of the conference is the Commission on Educational Organizations, which is composed of 23 prominent religious and public educators. The commission is concerned with: (1) the elimination of biased materials from public and religious education materials, (2) the production of positive materials to promote understanding and good will and (3) the training of writers, clergymen, educators and administrators to make effective the materials and programs completed.

Much has been accomplished in a concrete way. For instance, 40 major Protestant educational and missionary boards have adopted for use at all age levels during the coming year a series of books and study manuals entitled "The Church and America's Peoples." They treat realistically the problems of group relations in the nation and the world. Three thousand five hundred Catholic parochial schools are using the new "Faith and Freedom" Readers of the Commission on American Citizenship established by the Catholic hierarchy. The commission includes Protestants and Jews as well as Catholics on its boards. The Readers include many sections devoted to understanding and respect among religious and racial groups.

Clergymen of three faiths, Rev. William Ryan, Rabbi Samuel Thuerman, and Rev. Sidney Sweet, (front to rear) get acquainted with soldiers at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

asked all their priests to cooperate with the conference program. Many of the major Protestant denominational leaders took a similar position with their clergy and educators. Cooperation by Jewish leaders was most generous.

The Methodist Conference on a Just and Durable Peace at Delaware, Ohio, called on all church leaders to work with the conference in its program. The major denominational religious education authorities are constantly using materials furnished by the conference. These materials include study units for young people and adults covering periods of several weeks discussion as well as single articles.

The conference has aided and extended the services of the Bureau for Intercultural Education to public school systems. This bureau develops and distributes educational materials on intergroup relations and works with educational bodies and regional and local school administrators in teaching human relations as an integral part of the curricula in American education.

After noting that the National Conference of Christians and Jews held its first meeting at Columbia University in 1928, President Clinchy said: "The National conference was established in accord with a cardinal principle in American history: respect for the dignities and rights of groups. The people of the conference believed that this country could not suffer hate breeders any more than they could afford to tolerate the carriers of contagious diseases. "Our organization was established on the conviction that irrational antagonisms and hatreds are part of a vicious chain of which one link is tied to another. This nation, composed of a plural number of religious, racial and nationality groups, must, for the security and well being of each group, learn to face differences realistically. The members of each group must so act that the members of every other group have parity or opportunity to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

'Brotherhood or Chaos.' Dr. Ashworth said emphasis now is being placed on the community cooperation of common citizens of our one land, the important thing to remember being the intrinsic worth of the individual, and, in President Roosevelt's words, after the peace it will be either "Brotherhood or Chaos."

According to Dr. Ashworth, it was a Catholic priest who originally suggested the organization of Brotherhood week, back in 1932. He wrote to the National Conference of Christians and Jews that brotherhood was something all faiths wanted, something of which there was too little in the world, something of which there could never be too much. He suggested that a special period be designated each year by the National conference, that Catholics, Protestants and Jews be invited to consider together practical ways toward attaining it.

This idea took fire. The first national observance of Brotherhood week took place in April, 1934. President Roosevelt proclaimed the event publicly as he has done every year for the last 11 years. From the first the conference sought out the cooperation of civic bodies, Parent Teachers' associations, schools, colleges, churches and synagogues. Dr. Ashworth said: "This year, like preceding ones, a number of governors and mayors have issued formal proclamations endorsing its aims and purposes."

Here's Conservation That Is Gay, Smart

IT IS not necessary to make our economies so dull that they depress every one. Let's make them gay and attractive to give us a lift and a bit of a challenge too. This old rocker is an example. A saw and a wood chisel were used for removing projections and rockers. An old quilt was found for padding and the feathers from an old bolster were packed into a thick seat cushion to raise the seat which has been lowered by removing the rockers. This required a yard and a quarter of ticking. Four and one-half yards of inexpensive chintz in a bold, modern pattern did the rest.

Kathleen Norris Says: When He Stops Loving You

By Kathleen Norris
Bett Syndicate—WNU Features.

"Disillusionment, as a wife, came when I discovered that John had had many affairs of the heart during his widowhood."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS
IF YOUR husband has stopped loving you, says frankly that he has lost all interest in you, isn't that an excuse for divorce?" demands Philippa Allen of Germantown. "Or am I, at 40, supposed to drag on into middle age and old age, with an entirely un-sympathetic man?"

"John and I met seven years ago," her letter goes on. "We were instantly attracted to each other; he was a widower with a daughter aged 10; I had two sons, now 19 and 17 years of age. Ours was a whirlwind courtship and the first years of our marriage seemed to me nearer complete ecstasy than I thought human beings ever could attain. My boys were with their father's mother, and in boarding school; I saw them whenever I could, but we did not live in the same city, or even state. Daphne, then a dear little girl, I made my special charge and pet.

"Disillusionment, as a wife, came when I discovered that John had had many affairs of the heart during his widowhood, and was still going on with them. I won't go into details; but at the time of our marriage his office secretary sued him for breach of promise; he had to settle with her. I knew nothing of that until later. But I did know that many a time when he pleaded late work, professional calls out of town, he was carrying on an affair with one woman or another.

Wife Humiliated by Husband.
"Sheer pride kept me quiet; I endured unthinkable humiliations, I kept my mouth shut. Daphne grew up to the usual independence of the teens, and is now her father's favorite companion. He refuses her nothing. She has a chum whom I will call Edith, a beautiful girl of 18. John is openly infatuated with this girl. The reason I am writing you is that just yesterday I found out that Daphne and Edith are planning to visit John at the Florida camp where he is stationed, some weeks from now. He is a captain, loving his work, filled with youthful enthusiasm; he wants the girls to come down for some special occasion; not being in their confidence I don't know exactly what it is.

"My boys are in California; the younger one a volunteer in the navy, the older at an officers' training camp. Neither one could be with me, of course; if I leave John I will be entirely alone, and he is in no position now to pay more than a very scant alimony. Will you advise me? Will this come out right if I continue in patience and silence and long-suffering? What are the spiritual values of this situation? I truly want to do right, and not to act precipitately and make a mistake."

My dear Philippa, your time for patience and silence was years ago, when you were the wife of another man, and had the rights of boys of 12 and 10 to consider. When you deserted them and their father for a new love, and jumped into a situation you obviously did not thoroughly understand, you lost all sense of spiritual values. And that sense, and the situation that makes such values what they are, are not easily regained.

Hard Work and Separation Advised.
It would seem to me that the dignified thing to do would be to write John that you mean to take him at his word and leave his house, and to find hard work—essential to these crucial times, that will make you self-supporting and save your self-respect. Ask him to make some arrangement for Daphne; perhaps she would board with the fascinating

"Sheer pride kept me quiet."

A SECOND HUSBAND PROVES UNFAITHFUL.
She left her first husband and two children years ago for a new love. Now at the age of 40 she finds her second husband is unfaithful. She maintains that "sheer pride" has kept her quiet and now inquires into the "spiritual values of this situation." She asks if she should continue being "patient" and "long-suffering." This woman is reminded that when she deserted her first husband and two children she lost all sense of spiritual values and that this sense is not easily regained. She is offered two solutions. One involves leaving husband number two and becoming self-supporting. The other consists of making herself so agreeable to her husband that he will lose the taste for younger, more frivolous, women.

Edith, and remove yourself entirely from the whole picture. To continue to maintain a handsome home for a man who has no appreciation of it, and for a thankless, independent girl, is only to embitter yourself. Do this without haste and without ugly feeling. Then let later events shape your further policy. Possibly John will ask for a divorce. Possibly he will awaken to the fact that you are more valuable to him than his conduct has made you feel. Forty is an age that may have, and often does, a ripper charm than any girl of 18 can display.

Or you might wire him, "Coming down with girls." The risk then would be of their rudeness, and his answering wire, "Cannot possibly make arrangements for you here." On the other hand, he might be delighted to be relieved of the full responsibility for them, and to have the dignity of a chaperon making, putting their visit beyond criticism. Why not try this idea; tell them pleasantly that you are going along? Look your prettiest, act your best, and in assuming your rightful place as John's wife, you may do much to straighten out the whole situation.

Use All of Your Vegetables, Says College Home Economist
URBANA, ILL.—At present many varieties of fresh vegetables are short in supply and high in price. Every edible portion should be salvaged and served in some tasty way, says Miss Frances E. Cook, home economist, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

According to the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, beet tops represent 22 per cent of the beet as purchased; outer leaves of brussels sprouts 23 per cent of the whole; turnip tops and parings 34 per cent, and potato parings at least 16 per cent loss of the potato, even when the job is done carefully. Far too often these edible parts are considered as refuse and discarded.

Leaves of cabbage and lettuce need not be discarded just because the edges are touched with brown, or because there are broken places or wilted spots on the leaves. Wash them in cold water and trim out the spots. Those that are crisp can be shredded and used in a mixed vegetable salad or for a sandwich filling. Others can be chopped and put into a soup or stew.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

A Little Sugar, but a Lot of Sweetness
(See Recipes Below.)

Short on Sugar
Requests continue to pour in for sugar-saving recipes. This leads me to believe that there are many who want home-baked goodies in quantity greater than their sugar supply will allow. That means they want recipes that are short on sugar but long on sweetness.

Most baked goodies taste best when only part of the sugar is replaced by other sweetening agents. Only in plain muffins, bread and rolls is an exception made to this rule. Richer doughs have only one-half to three-fourths of their sugar replaced by corn syrups or honey.

Foundation Sweet Dough.
(Makes 2 coffee cakes or 3½ dozen sweet rolls)

2 cakes yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
¼ cup butter or substitute
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup or honey
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add butter, sugar, syrup and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Add softened yeast. Beat eggs and add. Mix thoroughly. Add the remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in a greased bowl, cover, let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Shape into tea rings, rolls or coffee cake. Place on greased baking sheets or in greased pans. Cover and let rise again until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes for coffee cakes, 15 to 20 minutes for rolls.

Honey Orange Rolls.
1 recipe Foundation Sweet Dough
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
¼ cup honey

When dough is light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll into a

Caramel Rolls.
1 recipe Foundation Sweet Dough
¼ cup melted butter or substitute
1 cup dark corn syrup or honey
Into each muffin cup, put ½ teaspoon butter and 1 teaspoon syrup or honey.

When dough is light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll into rectangle, ¼ inch thick and about 9 inches wide. Brush lightly with melted butter. Roll jelly-roll fashion, sealing edges. Cut into 1-inch pieces and place cut side down in muffin tins. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes. Let stand 1 minute before turning out.

Give yourself health as well as appetite appeal in these cup cakes made with iron-rich molasses:

Gingerbread Cup Cakes.
(Makes 18 cup cakes)
½ cup melted shortening
1¼ cups pure dark molasses
1 egg, beaten
2½ cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup hot water

Combine shortening and molasses and add egg. Stir until well blended. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the hot water. Turn into greased muffin pans and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes. Here's an unusual dessert with the well-liked apple-cinnamon flavor:

Apple Cinnamon Snow.
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons red cinnamon candy drops
1 cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
1 cup applesauce
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Dissolve gelatin, sugar, salt and cinnamon drops in boiling water. Add cold water and applesauce. Cool, then chill to consistency of thick syrup. Add egg whites and beat until mixture is light in color, thick and holds a small peak. Pour into 8-ribbed glasses. Chill until firm. Garnish with a few extra cinnamon candies.

Forest fires can spell destruction at unbelievable speed. In 1910 the great Idaho fire covered a strip of country 120 miles long by 35 miles wide within a period of 24 hours. Forest fires have been known to overtake running deer and even men on horseback.

"I WAS CONSTIPATED FOR MANY YEARS!"

Now I'm 'Regular' Every Morning!

Constipated? Then here's an unsolicited letter you'll want to read: "I've been troubled with common constipation for many years. Was taking laxatives and pills all the time, and feeling very weak and run down, 3 months ago. I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. Now I have a regular, natural movement every morning, which helps me feel my best." Mr. Samuel D. Blum, 292 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, New York.

What is this seeming magic of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN? Scientists say it's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation—namely, lack of sufficient "cellulose" elements in the diet. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic material for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out." It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find long relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

NEWS NOTES

ALICE BILSTEIN
County Home Agent

HOME BUTCHERING GOOD

Washington county as well as all of Wisconsin is falling behind in its fat salvage campaign.

Mrs. Margaret McCordie, home management specialist at the University of Wisconsin, reports that only a third of the quota of 475,500 pounds was collected during a recent month. She is urging all rural homemakers to save all extra supplies from butchering to turn in for war purposes.

The extension worker estimates that about two pounds of used household or unusable fats from butchering are required to make the ingredients for one incendiary bomb. The present county-wide collection of 100,000,000 pounds yearly meets only half the needs of the synthetic rubber program alone.

With meat butchering time at hand, rural homemakers have two incentives to save fats—they will have the fat they need for household use rendered from the lean fat, back fat, and trimmings from the animals, and second, they will receive the regular cash payment retailers pay for each pound of fat while they turn in, explains Miss Bilstein.

Meat animals dressed on the farm contain considerable fat. Many local homemakers save all such fat, render and collect for future use. Keeping it cool helps to keep it from becoming rancid. If there is any fat that is not good for consumption, salvage officials urge homemakers to turn it in.

"It is important now to re-use fats for cooking," says Miss Bilstein. "Most fat can be used over and over again unless it becomes too rancid in flavor or is scorched. Overheating is the quickest way to spoil any fat. Fat is saved over from cooking spoil more quickly than new fat, making it advisable to keep them extra cold and use them as soon as possible."

HOMEMAKERS FIND WAYS TO MAKE RUGS DO FOR DURATION

The new rug you wanted for Christmas was worn to shreds in less than a year, so your neighbors—your own rug will have to last longer. Fortunately, the rug we already have can be given in many cases, such care and repairs to make them last indefinitely, says Alice Bilstein, home demonstration agent.

Keeping rugs in repair is easier than you may think, suggests Miss Bilstein. Most of us can do much right at home to make our rugs last longer.

Many homemakers have found from practical experience that crushed, bent, or mashed pile under table legs can be cleaned out by laying a thick, wet cloth on the area and adding a hot iron over it, but not resting on the cloth. Steam until the pile is raised, then brush the pile in its natural direction, recommends Miss Bilstein. "This should not be done on frieze or twist rugs as water will untwist the yarns and cause a rough, shaggy surface."

This extends on worker explains that broken seams merely need to be re-sewed, following the pattern of unbroken seams and using a strong waxed linen thread or carpet warp. Corners which have curled require steaming on both sides in the same way as for crushed pile, after which rezing may be necessary. Rezing is an application of thinned glue to the back of the rug to give stiffness.

Tuffs that protrude or stick up should never be pulled, but cut level with the rug. For mending often matting yarn may be gotten through the dealer, or hooking yarns found at art departments can be used.

COUNTY AGENTS NEWS NOTES

SHORTAGE OF FARM LABORERS

Many farmers usually hire additional help for the summer months. Because of the shortage of farm laborers, it may be hard to employ such help whenever it is available. Present indications point to the fact that there will not be sufficient help to supply all requests. Farmers who are in need of help should make application for farm workers with the extension office. Farm workers seeking employment should feel free to contact this office for possible farm jobs. During recent months we have had many more requests for farm workers than we have registrations of those seeking employment.

FARMERS WHO MOVE MUST NOTIFY ODT TO GET GAS
The end of February is moving time for many tenant and lease farmers and Russell R. Lynch, district manager of the division of motor transport, Office of Defense Transportation, warned today that they must notify the district ODT of their change of address if they wish to obtain gasoline allotments.
Mr. Lynch of the Milwaukee district ODT office, explained that farm leases in this area generally expire on the last day of February and as a consequence there is a rather heavy movement of farmers from farm to farm in the first two weeks of March.
Rationing boards, as a rule, stamp envelopes containing gasoline coupons "not to be forwarded." For that reason Mr. Lynch said, farmers should immediately notify the district ODT office of their new address so that their records can be straightened out, thus preventing delays in obtaining new gasoline allotments.

Forty miles to the north, the enemy rushed in reinforcements to counter the Fifth army operating from its beachhead behind Rome, with paratroopers, anti-aircraft gunners, tankmen and reconnaissance units formed into regular units to fight off the U. S. and British troops moving on the Germans' supply roads under the heavy fire.

SOLDIER VOTING:

Red-Hot Issue

Joining with the almost solid Republican bloc, southern representatives in the nation's Capitol held their ground for state control of soldier voting in opposition to the administration's plan for federal supervision of elections for the offices of President, senator and congressman by means of a blank ballot on which servicemen would write in either the names of their choices or just mark the party they favored.

A compromise between the senate and house loomed, with the senate favoring a bill which would allow use of the federal ballot for soldiers whose states failed to provide for absentee voting by July 1, and the house lined up for a measure directing the distribution of applications for ballots among servicemen and prompt provision of such ballots by states if the application is accepted.

SUPREME COURT:

Changeable Opinions

Litigants and lower courts are being left without a basis for settling legal disputes as a result of the Supreme court's tendency to disregard its previous decisions, Justices Roberts and Frankfurter declared.

The two justices expressed their opinion following the Supreme court's award of compensation to a seaman for use of defective equipment by the employer, when better facilities were available. The court's action reversed its previous rulings in similar cases.

Said Justices Roberts and Frankfurter: "The evil resulting from overruling earlier considered decisions must be evident. . . Defendants will not know whether to litigate or settle, for they will have no assurance that a declared rule will be followed. . . Respect for tribunals must fall when the bar and public come to understand that nothing that has been said in prior adjudication has any force in a current controversy."

WAR SPENDING:

On Rise

During the first half of the 1944 fiscal year starting last July, U. S. government expenditures totaled 52 1/2 billion dollars, compared with 41 1/2 billion dollars for the same period in 1943, and the increased spending rate was maintained during January.

More than 7 1/2 billion dollars was spent last month, in comparison with about 6 1/2 billion dollars for January, 1943, with the army accounting for 118 million dollars of the increase and the navy 808 million dollars.

Because of the current pay-as-you-go tax deductions from weekly wage envelopes, treasury receipts for January were above last year, thus bringing in-go and out-go into better balance. Bond sales also were up more than 450 million dollars over January, 1943.

ACCIDENT TOLL

Last year 94,500 people were killed in accidents, and 9,700,000 were injured. The death toll represented a decline of 1 1/2 per cent from 1942. The death rate of 70.4 per 100,000 population was the lowest since 1922.

Motor vehicles accounted for 23,300 deaths, 5,000 under 1942, and smallest since 1925. Occupational accidents took 18,000 lives, 3 per cent below the previous year. Thirty-three thousand people were killed in accidents at home, and nearly 5,000,000 were injured.

BOND SALES

Pledges for purchases of fourth war loan bonds already total more than six billion dollars, or 44 per cent of the goal. Individual buyers have made commitments for $1,941,000,000, or about 35 per cent of the $5 1/2 billion dollar quota for individuals. The largest individual pledge total for a single day was $199,000,000 on February 1.

West Virginia is leading the states by having attained 70 per cent of its sales quota. Minnesota and Montana are tied for second place.

FEED:

See Relief

Because of a decline in requirements of concentrates when pastures are opened and a 16 per cent drop in the 1944 spring pig crop, the nation's tight feed supply should be relieved soon, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said.

However, overall prospects for the year are not so rosy, even though the geographical distribution of supplies has been improved by an increase in the corn price ceiling and the set-aside allocation for high protein feeds.

BAE noted that with prices for laying mash this spring up 12 to 15 per cent over last year, the egg-feed price ratio will be less favorable, since returns on eggs are not likely to increase. Total slaughter of chickens for 1944 should approximate the 1943 record of 3 billion 800 million pounds, despite probable decrease in the marketing of young chickens.

STOCK EXCHANGE:

Shows Profit

For the first time since 1936, the New York Stock Exchange showed a profit in 1943, earnings amounting to $875,509 against a loss of $915,972 in 1942.

In addition, it was revealed that the Stock Exchange collected $228,000 in initiation fees, which was not added to profit but rather was transferred to the capital account. Last year, $296,000 was collected in such fees.

Reflecting the increased investment interest as a result of the war boom, 278,742,000 shares of stock were traded in 1943, compared with 125,665,000 shares in 1942. Daily trading averaged approximately 1,000,000 shares, against 450,000 throughout 1942. The brisk action has been maintained this year.

Weights Less

Six pounds, five ounces when born, tiny Paulette Matthes of Chicago celebrated her first birthday, weighing three ounces less, in a case that has baffled physicians.

Only able to digest a little of a formula of milk and water, tiny Paulette has been in need of almost day and night care, which her mother has unselfishly given. It was a happy birthday, with Paulette, now 22 inches long, smiling for the first time. The Matthes have a thriving son, Ronald, 4.

Of course age doesn't have to worry him yet. He was born in Spalato, Dalmatia, only 50 years ago. And if he needs legal aid in his squabbles, it's right in his own head. . . or ought to be. To please his father he got a law degree at the University of Vienna as well as a doctorate at the Vienna Academy of Music. He began as conductor of the chorus at Lwow; he went on to Warsaw; came to the U. S. at Sinatra's invitation to be assistant director of the Philadelphia orchestra. This was in 1926.

MORE MONEY:

Circulation Up

Tax evasion by people with large incomes, and activities of "black market" operators are at least partly responsible for the huge rise in money in circulation, a current survey has revealed. At the present, currency in circulation amounts to 20 billion dollars, or $150 per capita. Demand for $1,000 bills has more than doubled since the war started. There were 300,000 of these floating in 1941 and there are now 700,000 now. One hundred dollar bills are most in demand, their use rising from 8 million to 27 million since Pearl Harbor.

"Black market" dealers in furniture, jewelry and the like, buy and sell on a strictly cash basis, keeping no accounts on which taxes might be levied, the survey explained. Similar ways of tax evasion are possible in other transactions, all requiring large amounts of paper money.

Lipstick Troublesome

Imparting letters with lipstick might provide a thoughtful and tender touch, but when they're to be sent V-mail, they smear the equipment and blur the film, Chicago V-mail authorities say.

Other difficulties encountered in preparing V-mail film include letters written with a hard lead pencil or faulty typewriter which cannot be photographed. Because all V-mail is sent by air, delivery time averages five days. About 100,000 pieces of such mail are handled daily.

Consolidated Features—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—The name of Napoleon Zervas keeps coming into the news that is relayed from Greece, and he may be the leader around whom his people will rally when the Nazi invaders try to retreat up the Valley of the Vardar, down which they marched in such easy triumph a while back.

Just now, as long ago in Yugoslavia, there has been a split among Greek partisans, and Zervas has just broken away from the oldest guerrilla forces to set up his own movement. He calls it the National Andartes band and hopes to keep its members free from the bribery which, he says, taints the old group.

Allied leaders in the Middle East call Zervas Greece's ablest guerrilla leader. Before the war he was an officer of the regular army. Now he calls himself "General Zervas" but whether he uses this title on more than his own authority is not clear. He is old enough to have been a general.

His present fight against the Nazis is being waged in the northwestern province of Epirus. This is his home, and his battlefield is his own. He is a dapper, trim, well-dressed man, with a friendly smile, and every small village a fortress with a hundred sally-ports out of which to attack. . . when the enemy presses hard. . . escape to fight again when the odds have evened.

SINATRA fans from coast to coast are rising to defend their idol against slurs cast by Arthur Rodzinski. Older and soberer and more eminent, Rodzinski takes folk, too. On Sinatra, Winner led by Conductor Rodzinski, at the New York Philharmonic should not go undented.

Certainly he has courage. The smoke caused by his quarrel with dismissed New York musicians has just stopped getting in his eyes, and now he takes on the embattled teen-agers. The man positively enjoys squaring off for a fight.

Of course age doesn't have to worry him yet. He was born in Spalato, Dalmatia, only 50 years ago. And if he needs legal aid in his squabbles, it's right in his own head. . . or ought to be. To please his father he got a law degree at the University of Vienna as well as a doctorate at the Vienna Academy of Music. He began as conductor of the chorus at Lwow; he went on to Warsaw; came to the U. S. at Sinatra's invitation to be assistant director of the Philadelphia orchestra. This was in 1926.

He isn't the long hair that Sinatra calls him although he has an ample pompadour. He has a tall virile figure, nearsighted lively eyes, and a quick likeable grin. His manner on the podium is matter-of-fact but he has plenty of temperament, as all know who listen in Carnegie Hall and over the revealing air waves.

THE seldom-heralded earl of Selborne (Roucell Cecil Palmer) reports that Germany's hold over much longer, and the announcement is as significant as one would be by Eisenhow-er telling of shattered Nazi corps. Selborne is Britain's minister of economic warfare and it is his business to keep tabs as much on Germany's resources as upon those of his own country. If he didn't know what bombings and the blockade and sabotage were doing to his enemy's stockpiles, he would hardly know how high to heap his own for victory.

He is a rock-ribbed conservative, but bold in his estimates of Germany's power. He knows that four million of her best men have been killed in battle, and he knows that this has weakened Hitler's fortress, and how the bombings have weakened it, and the lack of oil, rubber and textiles. He doesn't say just when the breakthrough will come, but his guess ought to be good.

The Selborne earldom is not old. It dates back only 62 years or so, but this is the third head of the house to have an important, although unobtrusive finger in his country's problems. The first earl gave sound legal advice to Prime Minister Palmerston in troublesome matters arising out of the American Civil War. The second earl, as high commissioner for South Africa, helped build the Union now standing, loyally with the mother country. And the present Selborne has been directing the Ministry of economic warfare three years.

An Oxford and Winchester man as his father and grandfather were before him, he is 37 now, 30 years in the house of commons before he moved it into the house of lords, 30 years married and the father of two sons and three daughters.

Compromise Forecast in Debate on CCC Extension

Labor to Use Organized Strength to Fight Increased Prices; Administration Is Counting on That Support.

By BAUKHAGE, News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

A few weeks ago, an earnest and agreeable young man came to my office from the American Farm Bureau federation. His name is Ben Kilgore. He is a Kentucky Farm Bureau man, a former farm paper editor who has just been put in charge of the bureau's publicity here in Washington, probably as a result of some remarks without any bark on them which Chester Davis, former war food administrator and president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, made at the recent bureau convention.

Davis did not say that the bureau and some other farm organizations were interfering with the war effort and trying to be hogish by fighting for higher food prices but he did say that the people of the country were beginning to talk that way about farmers. And he told the organization members that if they weren't as black as they were painted, they had better begin telling the people of the country so.

And so the bureau went out for some "new blood." Kilgore is not new to the farm bureau but he is new to Washington. He has served in Kentucky. He knows his subject and can write about it.

I couldn't say whether he has brightened the grim picture which Mr. Davis painted to the bureau— he has hardly had time—but his presence is evidence of dynamics which are energizing this chip of the farm bloc—or one might put it the other way, for the Farm Bureau federation is really the tail that wags the dog when it comes to getting congressional action.

And soon action will begin, for the grace extended to the Commodity Credit corporation expires February 1 and then the fight over the subsidies begins in earnest.

The Federation "Line" What the publicity plans of the farm organizations are, I do not know, but this is the "line" as Kilgore expressed it to me: "The American Farm Bureau federation is not opposing consumer subsidies in order to break down price control and obtain higher farm prices. The present general farm price level is high enough. All we ask is for a few sensible price adjustments on specific commodities."

Such small and specific adjustments are far more practical and wholesome than a billion or more dollars out of the federal treasury to help pay the consumers grocery bill and to regiment and socialize the farmers of this nation.

The War Food administration, charged with carrying out the war farm program, has no publicity plan. As a matter of fact, the office of Administrator Jones is about the quietest place in Washington as far as the public goes. Its work is carried on without press agenting right now.

One reason why we don't hear much from the war food administrator right now is because the food situation is pretty good. Of course, there is wrangling about prices but that isn't in his department. The last week in January he announced his support prices which can't be carried out unless the three billion dollar agency that keeps floors under farm prices, the Commodity Credit corporation, is continued. Jones made it plain that the 1944 program depended entirely on congressional action. In reply to a question, he said it could be carried out "without subsidies."

There isn't any question that congress will favor the support plan. That's accepted as essential in wartime and sometimes welcomed at other times. The reasoning is that you don't ask a munition maker to sign a contract to deliver machine guns without telling him what the price will be. In order to carry out the farm program, you have to demand certain things of the farmer in order to get the thing you want. Hence the guaranteed price.

But subsidies are a horse of a different color. Support prices protect the producer. Subsidies protect the consumer. Without them, the price ceilings crack. Farm income has risen 116 per cent in dollars since 1939 when the war in Europe began. During the last war, it rose steadily, 123 per cent. However, there is a catch in those figures. In the last war, the farmer's dollar rose only 13 cents in purchasing power. Today, the farmer's income has risen 72 per cent in terms of purchasing power.

Preliminary Report Just what is ahead? On or before February 17, debate will begin on the bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit corporation containing an anti-subsidy provision.

Meanwhile, the farm bloc adherents and supporters will probably carry on a pretty good publicity plan for their side and some of the consumer groups will be heard from. Labor will shout the loudest and most effectively. But that is simply because it is a large and a well-organized group. It is a strange thing, but America, which has organizations of almost every kind and description formed largely for increasing the income of its members, has very few organizations formed for the purpose of decreasing their expense. Consumers, as such, are not organized. There are, of course, a few cooperatives but they are hardly more than local affairs and, comparatively speaking, small and weak. This is due to the cheerful American theory that if you haven't got enough money to pay your expenses, you ought to go out and get some more money.

In any case, labor (although organized primarily to get more pay) is going to use its organized strength to fight higher prices and the administration is at present counting on enough support from the labor lobby itself, the results of the pro-subsidy publicity on the general public, to sustain a presidential veto of any measure banning subsidies. There is no sign of enough votes to prevent the passage of the bill, but enough are expected to sustain the veto. So that legislative process will have to be gone through with unless the farm bloc feels it has an accurate measure of the administration's strength, as revealed by various test votes, so that it can compromise without going through the veto process. Either way, some kind of a compromise will undoubtedly be reached.

But the way is a weary one. . . .

Preview of Invasion Tactics With invasion in the offing I decided I wanted a preview. A little difficult to arrange, I admit. I know, however, that you could see a full dress rehearsal at the amphibious base at Fort Pierce, Fla. That institution has been cloaked in the darkest secrecy until recently. Just before the base celebrated its anniversary I was allowed to look behind the scenes.

No details can be reported of this revolutionary development in American military history that started fresh from zero. For almost a full week I watched and the men who make "amphibious action" possible—those who go over the transport side into the landing craft and up the beach, and the other men who see that they get there, from scouts and raiders who slip in at night, crawling through the wash of a strange beach to throttle the sentries and clear the way for the others, to the last of the reserves.

I have never met a finer type of man, soldier or marine, and they are all there—army, navy, coast guard, and the engineers, the seabees, the medics, scouts, raiders and the other specialists. Cooperation is the key to the greatest achievement in amphibious action—army and navy working together as one. It is a navy operation right up to the tide water mark, when the army takes command, but a close interwoven texture, as much a single unit as a fighting division of land troops or a navy task force.

I talked with their leaders, tough, quiet young men, who have learned by doing—they know what it is to land on a strange shore in Africa or Sicily or the Pacific. They are a great lot—the scouts and raiders (our commandos) some big, some little, some college athletes, some from farm and factory, but all hard, wiry, certain, and anxious for more action.

Twenty-seven barter stores have been opened in Berlin, the British radio says, in reporting that the Berlin chamber of commerce had decided to make all wares subject to barter. . . . Texas farm woodlands have an excellent record in fire prevention with less than 1 per cent burned annually for the past several years. . . . Every effort will be made this winter to supply additional fuel oil rations but conditions still compel tight husbanding of available supplies, the OPA says. . . . An enemy alien who is a German, Hungarian, Rumanian, or Bulgarian citizen or national may be inducted into the armed forces of the U. BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Wood is growing in our forests at the rate of about 11,000,000 cubic feet per year or about 21,500 cubic feet per acre. Wood is being taken from the forests at the rate of about 13,000,000 cubic feet per year, of which 2,000,000,000 cubic feet is lost due to fire, insects, and disease. If these destroyers could be controlled, present wood growth would almost balance wood use.

Production of alcohol anti-freeze this winter is 50 per cent more than last, according to the WPB. . . . Pressure cookers and feed grinders and crushers have been removed from rationing. . . .

When British industry is rebuilt after the war, the government, it is announced, will give priority in rebuilding and in adapting wartime government factories to areas which suffered heavy prewar unemployment.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER. With synthetic tires about to be in general use, experts emphasize again that speed is important in determining tire mileage. The legal limit of 35 m.p.h. has been found to be the best mileage conserving with synthetics, just as it was with tires of crude rubber. Tire cords lose elasticity as they grow older, which accounts for many blowouts when a well-worn tire strikes a rough spot in the road. Wartime regulations are saving nearly 200 million bus miles a year for the country's highway transportation system. Converted into tires, this conserved mileage means a lot to the rubber program.

CARIBBEAN CONSPIRACY

by BRENDA CONRAD

THE STORY SO FAR: Anne Heywood, beautiful daughter of a wealthy New York newspaper publisher, goes to Puerto Rico on an assignment for her father's paper. Also on the island are Pete Wilcox, a reporter on her father's paper, now a U. S. Army intelligence officer; Miguel Valera, a Puerto Rican educated in the United States who is a secret U. S. agent; Richard Tausig, an engineer whose identity as a German agent is about to be proved; and Russell Porter, a young American engineer, and his wife, Sue, who has misguidedly given Mr. Tausig some valuable plans. Sue appeals to Anne for help. Anne goes with Tausig to a remote villa. Outside Pete and Valera are waiting.

CHAPTER XVIII

The palms of Anne's hands were coldly moist. "Where are we going?"

"I am going to Brazil," Mr. Tausig replied. "Here is some paper. Please don't try to be either funny or resourceful. It's quite useless, I assure you."

Anne sat without moving for an instant. What was the use? Then she thought quickly. It would be quite easy to leave some kind of a story. She picked up the pen.

"Dear Pete," Mr. Tausig said. "I believe in what you call him?—I have decided to go away with Richard Tausig."

Anne looked at him steadily. "Couldn't you spare me that humiliation, Mr. Tausig? He won't believe it, I assure you. I must have told him already that I think you're unbelievably repulsive."

Mr. Tausig's face hardened into the mottled oyster-gray.

"Continue," he said. "I know it will be a shock after everything I have said, but that's the way it is. I want you to tell Mother and . . . Dad or Father, whichever you say . . ."

She wrote "Father." Pete would know she'd never say that.

"Tell them they are not to try to find me, because they couldn't. I'm sick of the kind of sheltered life I've always had and this is a chance I'll never get again. We're flying to Costa Rica. I'll write to you some time. Lots . . . or do you say loads . . . of love."

"I . . . might as well say loads, I guess," she said. She tried to keep her hand on the pen from shaking. All she ever said really was "Yours," or "All the best, angel."

It seemed funny, writing to him. Everything inside her had gone a little numb, all of a sudden.

She pulled herself sharply together. "Where am I going?" she asked.

"You are going half-way to Sao Paulo, with me, in the plane out there."

"Not all the way?"

Mr. Tausig shook his head. "Furthermore, it is a non-stop flight, if you're interested."

She looked at him calmly. "You mean, I'm getting out half-way there."

"Exactly. The water is warm and very deep. There are sharks, of course, and barracuda . . ."

"I'd prefer them, frankly. You've no idea what a load you've taken off my mind."

Mr. Tausig's mouth tightened to a thin line.

"Take this envelope up, put the letter in it and seal it. I don't want my own fingerprints on it. Thank you. Now take another piece of paper and write to Mrs. Porter."

"Dearest Sue,—Don't be shocked, darling, but I'm going away with Mr. Tausig. I decided it this morning. I'm sorry about Russell's plans. I shouldn't have taken them. I put them—"

He stopped. "Write wherever you did put them."

Anne wrote quickly: ". . . inside the skirt of my blue jersey dinner dress in the closet."

She looked up clear-eyed. "Yes?"

"Sign it, Miss Heywood."

She wrote, "Love—Anne."

Tausig motioned for her to push the letter over to him. He bent over, reading it slowly. His hands shook a little suddenly, his face was distorted and horrible. She shrank back instinctively. His hand moved toward the gun on the table, and stopped. He got up slowly.

steadying her, as they went to the gallery. The great motors of the black and yellow plane roared. Diego Gongoro was climbing in. Mr. Tausig, running doggedly and with surprising pace, was fifty yards off, far ahead of Pete Wilcox.

Miguel's arm tightened around her waist. He was watching silently, his lips compressed and his face grave.

"Miguel," Anne whispered. "You want them to get away?"

He shook his head. Tausig was in the plane. They saw Pete stop and stand there, his revolver in his hand. The plane moved forward, jolting down the uneven meadow.

Miguel leaned forward, suddenly tense, his face taut and alive with apprehension. The fire spat from Pete's revolver. Anne heard the frantic crack-crack and the zing of the bullets against the metal body of the plane as it cleared the field. She felt sick and dizzy. Miguel wanted them to get away . . .

Then suddenly she felt the violent forward lurch of his body. Her eyes flashed open. The field was alive with soldiers, coming from everywhere, it seemed to her . . . and Pete Wilcox was running down it again. And the plane . . . Something had happened. It was losing what little altitude it had, careening heavily, swaying back and forth. Anne felt her heart had stopped beating altogether. It leveled off, dangerously close to the hillside, the roar of the motors dying out. Anne closed her eyes as it nosed up for one last time, and crashed down, buried almost out of sight in the banana and orange and coffee trees on the slope.

Miguel had not moved or said a word. He was bent forward rigidly, waiting. Suddenly he relaxed. She looked at him. He took out his handgun. He looked at her for a long time before he spoke. "She is . . . nobody, Anne."

"That's . . . not true," Anne said. "She's somebody. She followed me around, and she wrote me a note."

He looked down at his glass. Then he pushed his chair back and leaned forward.

"Look, my dear," he said. "She is largely responsible for both you and Wilcox not getting killed yesterday. She is . . . a friend of my uncle Diego Gongoro. She has been listening to their talk . . ."

Anne hesitated on the doorstep of the Valera home. Miguel took her arm reassuringly. They went through a tiled passage. In the broad lovely patio Don Alvaro came forward, bowing as he took her hand.

"It is a great pleasure, Senorita," he said.

He led her around to the right where a woman in a heavily beaded blue crepe dress was talking excitedly to another woman.

"This is Miss Heywood, Rosa. My niece, Mrs. Arias."

They shook hands. Anne glanced along the terrace. There was nothing but women, all sitting in a long row, chattering and laughing. She looked across to the other side. Over there there was nothing but men. She listened with bewildered attention to the voluble stream that Mrs. Arias was pouring out into her ear about poor Graciela having to miss the party to be at her father's side in the hospital. Don Alvaro was gone. Miguel was the center of the group on the other side of the patio. Anne took her place in the row of chairs and sipped the cool champagne punch a servant brought her.

So far as she could see she was the only Continental American there. After a few moments Mrs. Arias brought up an attractive woman in a blue linen sports dress and introduced her. She was English.

"Is this your first Spanish party?" she asked with a smile. "I thought so. You look so bewildered. So was I, my first time. Frankly, I like men."

"I guess I do, too," Anne laughed. "Do we just stay here like this? What would happen if we went over on the other side?"

"You'd go alone. I haven't got that much courage."

"But look—there's a boy talking to a girl."

"Oh, he's engaged to her."

"Oh," Anne said. "And there he goes back to the men."

She and Miguel were engaged to her, but he could have come and talked to her. But that was her fault. She hadn't wanted it public knowledge until her parents came. Anyway, he was watching her. She smiled across the patio at him.

At lunch they sat at a long table under the trees in a walled garden, Anne and Miguel and the English woman and her husband. It was fun then, except that still most of the women stayed in the house and the men stayed clustered in their own group. The crisp pig and the asopao were wonderful, but Anne felt the way she used to when she was a small child and they had Christmas dinner in the middle of the day. She was glad when Don Alvaro came and she could get up and move around.

They walked across the garden and into the patio.

"Shall we go inside, Senorita?" he said. "I have visited several days to talk to you."

"Oh, Pete!"

didn't try to find out of any sort."

"What's going to happen?"

"They're pretty human even if they are tough," Pete said. "I guess they figured she'd learned her lesson. Anyway, they wouldn't have so much of the goods on Tausig if she kept her over to me up to the well-known plans."

"Then that's that," Anne said. He grinned at her again.

"That's that," he said not very steadily.

He stood looking at the ash tray of his cigarette a moment, his face sober and intent.

"And there's one other thing I'd like to say, Anne. I was all wet about Valera. I'd heard they might send somebody down like that, but I didn't get help to me until he turned all the papers over to me up at the coffee house. I'd just like to say I'm sorry. He's a swell guy."

He tossed his cigarette over the balustrade into the surf.

"So I take it all back, Annie. I hope you'll be awfully happy. Because you're a swell girl, too."

"Oh, don't, Pete," she said. "You'll break my heart."

"I wish I could," he said. "So long, I suppose."

He stopped. Miguel Valera was coming through the arcade. He came on over. "Am I—"

"I was just going," Pete said. "You did a swell job, Valera."

He held out his hand. Miguel grasped it. Neither of them spoke for an instant.

"Good luck," Pete said. "I hope you'll keep her out of trouble. So long. So long, Annie."

Don Alvaro Valera's party for his son's home-coming had been scheduled for Sunday.

"He sees no reason for postponing it," Miguel told Anne. They were lunching at the Mallorquina "It's a brave face to the world, I suppose. I'm reporting for duty next week, by the way."

He looked at her anxiously. "My father wants to talk to you, Anne."

"Have you told him?"

He nodded. "He thinks you're splendid."

She hesitated for a moment. "Miguel," she said. "There's one thing I must ask you. Who is the girl I asked you about before?"

He looked at her for a long time before he spoke. "She is . . . nobody, Anne."

"That's . . . not true," Anne said. "She's somebody. She followed me around, and she wrote me a note."

He looked down at his glass. Then he pushed his chair back and leaned forward.

"Look, my dear," he said. "She is largely responsible for both you and Wilcox not getting killed yesterday. She is . . . a friend of my uncle Diego Gongoro. She has been listening to their talk . . ."

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Question: Please tell me how a black finish can be removed from an oak dining room table?

Answer: First, the varnish or other finish must be taken off. This can be done with varnish remover, which will soften the finish. Scrape and wipe off thoroughly, and follow with benzene to take off every trace of the remover. Provide plenty of ventilation, as these liquids are inflammable and very strong smelling. Be careful of fire. Instead of the commercial remover you can soften the finish with a hot solution of three pounds of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of water. Rinse off afterward with clear water. The dark "mission" stain can then be bleached out with a prepared wood bleach, to be had at a well-stocked paint store. (This may also take out the natural wood color of the table.) Follow the printed instructions carefully. When dry, smooth the wood with very fine sandpaper and wipe off the dust. Consult the paint dealer about the finish that you will decide on—oil stain, varnish stain, or whatever you prefer.

Question: We would like to know how to keep our sump pump clean. The refuse from the laundry tubs is all that drains into it. After each laundering, I flush it several times and put some bleach into it. Even so, scum forms on the sides.

Answer: Try scrubbing off the scum with a strong solution of ammonia and hot water, then rinse with clear water. A handful of borax in each tubful of laundry water may help to prevent the formation of scum, particularly if the water in your locality is hard.

Question: How can I straighten out a one-hundred-year-old mahogany table leaf that has become warped? It is three-fourths inch thick, 14 inches wide and 3 feet 6 inches long. It has been planed and finished with linseed oil and shellac.

Answer: For such a very choice piece it would be best to entrust it to an experienced cabinet maker, or someone else who has had experience. A home method would be to lay the leaf in a space where it can remain for several days. Rest it on blocks of wood with the concave side up. Place weights of about 50 pounds on the high ends of the warped corners; you can use large books for this. After several days the piece should straighten, and should be allowed to bend slightly the other way.

Question: I wonder if shellacking Chinese wallpaper, which has a cloth base, would make it washable. Is it a mistake to shellack ordinary wallpaper?

Answer: Pure white shellac can be used satisfactorily, but I would prefer coating wallpaper with what is known as a water-clear, white damar varnish. Wallpapers of any type will last longer when coated with varnish or shellac.

Question: Is there a saving of coal when I wet the ashes and burn them again and form clinkers, or should I not use the ashes again?

Answer: Ashes should not be placed on a fire. They will not only dampen the fire, but the formation of clinkers will certainly do the furnace no good. If you wish to be thrifty, the ashes might be sifted and the unburned coal picked out and reused.

Question: I have been told that lime should be added to cement and sand for repointing brickwork. If this is so, what is the proportion?

Answer: Yes, the addition of lime makes a smooth and workable mortar mixture. The usual proportions are one part portland cement, one part hydrated lime and five parts clean, coarse building sand.

Question: I would like to have your advice on smoothing the roughened surface of a drawing board. It was roughened by a pocket knife to give a better bond between the wood and rendering paper.

Answer: If the wood has been sanded, the surface of the board will have to be planed, then sanded with a medium coarse sandpaper, and for a final smoothing use a "0" or "00" sandpaper. If there are no deep gouges in the board, sandpapering should be sufficient.

Question: What is the right way to size a rug?

Answer: Stretch the rug upside down on a floor where it can remain for 24 hours, tacking it lightly into place. Spray the back with a solution of a half pound of chip glue in two quarts of water. For easy softening, the glue should be powdered and stirred into the water slowly. Apply the glue mixture with a bristle brush and allow to remain until thoroughly dry. Another method is to brush on a thinned shellac.

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. JAMES W. BARTON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

It has been very gratifying to see the number of young mental patients cured by the shock method—insulin, metrazol and electric. This treatment has been very successful in what is called recent cases; that is, the symptoms have been present for not more than a year. It comes, then, as a pleasant surprise to learn that the shock treatment is successful in many older patients.

In the American Journal of Psychiatry, Dr. V. L. Evans reports the results obtained by bringing on convulsions in people who are elderly and often in poor physical condition. There were 50 patients with mental or behavior disabilities treated with electric and metrazol shock. Of these patients 17 were over 60 and 5 were over 70 years of age. No patient was refused convulsive shock treatment because of the physical risks involved. Some of the patients possessed physical abnormalities besides being older than most cases treated by this method. Seven were greatly undernourished. Four were exhausted from excitement and physical overactivity at the time the treatment was started.

Most of the cases had failed to respond to other methods of treatment and it seemed almost certain that there was no chance of recovery unless some severe or drastic treatment was given.

Of the 50 patients treated, 21 recovered, 19 improved and 10 were unimproved.

When we remember the age, the physical condition, the length of time these cases had been afflicted, and the fact that all had received the usual methods of treatment without benefit, the results of the shock treatment must be considered remarkable.

Dr. Evans' conclusion is that, although the risks seem to be great, the complications are remarkably low.

"The Song of Bernadette" is an impressive picture; it was done beautifully, reverently, with dignity. Jennifer Jones, new to the screen, seems to have been perfectly cast as the heroine; many of the best actors and actresses in the theater and the motion pictures are in the cast, and all have given their best.

She's the ghost of a Spanish gypsy girl, Betty Farrington, character actress, got the role.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

THE talented folk responsible for the Inner Sanctum thrillers (Saturday evenings, CBS) are hoping the police won't think they're prophets. A while ago their weekly sketch was called "The Candestick Murders"—a few days later one of New York's most shocking murders took place, when a young woman was killed with a candlestick. Soon afterward the city was horrified when many of the pigeons that fly about St. Patrick's cathedral (near the CBS studio) were poisoned—that week the Inner Sanctum mystery was "The Bird of Doom," and had Laird Cregar, of the movies, poisoning pigeons. It begins to look as if somebody around there had a crystal ball.

A large amount of money, time and labor was spent on the dream sequences of "Lady in the Dark," but they couldn't possibly be lovelier or more dream-like than those in the Claudette Colbert-Fred Mac-

Murray "No Time for Love." That hilarious comedy bears a striking resemblance to the story of the Ginger Rogers picture, and deserves to be rated among the year's top productions.

At the suggestion of Betty Davis, star of the picture, Warner Bros. have changed the name of Douglas Drake to Johnny Mitchell, the name of the character he plays in "Mr. Skeffington." Gig Young also was named from a film character, his role in "The Gay Sisters."

Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war.

Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country.

Call your Renderer, Wm. Laabs, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflated price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. Call at your nearest Phone West Bend 73 or Campbellsport 23E1 and reverse charges when you call. Yours truly, Wm. Laabs, Renderer.

SENIOR ENGLISH CLASS GIVING

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEECHES

Expressing their own ideas and relating information they have uncovered, students of the senior English class under Miss Hulda Kohlbeck are thus giving extemporaneous speeches.

Following introductory talks on dogs, the students spoke on suggested changes in the school system. These ran the gamut from the very practical suggestion for a better heating system to the very impractical suggestion of swimming for boys. The female contingent repeatedly advised "Athletics for Girls;" the male quota as often recommended "Aerobatics for Boys."

Another subject relative to an enlarged curriculum was "More Foreign Languages."

Bernice Luepke suggested a cafeteria or hot lunch service at school for the two-thirds of the student body who must eat dry sandwiches and other wax-paper tasting foods. She further suggested a loud-speaking system to save student and teacher time and to be sure everyone could hear the announcements made in general assembly.

Among the topics most frequently selected was social activities. Dancing in the gym after basketball games and during the noon hour was strongly advocated; greater participation in planning and attending parties was recommended; a school calendar available to the students with faculty advisors listed and tentative dates scheduled for all activities was unanimously favored.

Top suggestion on social activities was Dave Bartelt's "Recreational Facilities through the School to Eliminate Juvenile Delinquency."

Two voices spoke out on letter awarding; these were John Stollpflug on letters for band and Jim Bartelt on letters for forensics. The contents of Stollpflug's speech follows:

"AWARDING OF LETTERS"

There is one ambition besides getting a diploma that every student going to high school has and that is to get a letter of his or her school.

In the years past while our school had a band, it was customary to award a letter to anyone participating in band for three years. Now it is impossible for any boy who does not go out for sports or any girl who is not a cheer leader to get a letter. We all know that not every boy can be an athlete nor every girl a cheer leader so that let the rest of us out.

There are some of us who were originally in the band who are still in school. I'm sure every one of us, if we would have had the opportunity, would have earned a letter. Being an ex-band member myself, it may sound funny but I suggest that it be brought up at the next student council meeting to see if the members of the old band would not receive letters even if they weren't in the full three years.

The same desire of students to be able to show school spirit and school pride by earning a letter can be satisfied, according to Jim Bartelt, by awarding letters for successful speech work.

Speeches for the first day were confined to some limited topic on dogs. Some of these were: "Canny Canines," "Dogs are a Nuisance," "Man's Friend, the Dog," "Dog of War—the K-9 Corps," and "The Smart Dumb Animal."

These extemporaneous speeches are only one phase of the forensic work for which all the students are being prepared in the English classes. The freshmen are doing extemporaneous reading, the sophomores orations, the juniors declamations. These types of competitive public speaking are being taught on a rotated schedule so that any student may compete in any field of speech at the local forensic competition tentatively set for March 10.

Miss Kohlbeck is in charge and Miss Elizabeth Badalik is assisting with the freshmen.

FOX VALLEY TRI-COUNTY MEETING

The regular February Fox Valley Tri-County meeting was held at the Hotel Retlaw in Fond du Lac Feb. 9. Miss Hulda Kohlbeck, Miss Elizabeth Badalik, E. Mitchell, Clifford Rose and Lee Rose of the Kewaskum high school faculty were among the 27 who attended.

A motion was made by Mr. Paska and seconded by Mr. Rose that we should hold just one forensic meeting for the entire conference this year. Motion passed.

A motion was made by Mr. Mossberg and seconded by Mr. Paska that the Tri-County forensic meeting be held at Lamira. Motion passed.

A motion was made by Mr. Paska and seconded by Miss Kohlbeck of Kewaskum that the conference treasury should absorb any deficit or acquire any surplus made in the forensic meeting to be held at Lamira this year. Motion passed.

It was agreed that the forensic meeting should be held March 21 at Lamira that the prices for the contest should be 11c, 17c, 25c. The forensic coaches should send, at the latest, by March 20, twenty topics for extemporaneous speaking to Principal Sleski at Lamira. The afternoon session will consist of oratory and extemporaneous reading and will start at one o'clock. The evening meeting will start at 7:30 and will consist of declamations and extemporaneous speaking.

Lee Rose of Kewaskum is going to make the plaques for the forensics and for the basketball trophy.

PHOTOGRAPHER VISITS SCHOOL AGAIN

We were fortunate to have Mr. Sinclair take pictures for our annual this year. He had promised that he'd come early in October but was rationing postpaid it until Feb. 14, 1941.

He took individual pictures of the faculty, seniors and all those who were absent the day individual pictures were taken. The remaining classes were taken as group pictures, including girls' chorus, football, basketball and baseball players, student council, cheer leaders, primary, intermediate and grammar rooms.

ENGLISH CLASS HAS PARTY. ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The English 9-B class had a class party the first Friday in the new semester. The greater part of the party was occupied with a spelling bee. Club members were divided into two teams.

Donald Wierman's team was victorious by one word over Gertrude Pazel's team. Refreshments consisting of soda pop, chocolate cupcakes and candy, concluded the party.

After dues were collected at the English 9-B club's weekly meeting, a motion was made and carried, to elect new officers for the second semester.

New officers are: Harold Reindl, president; Lester Schaub, vice-president; Evelyn Spaeth, secretary, and Jean Rosenheimer, treasurer. Miss Badalik was re-elected club advisor.

National Recognition for a Wisconsin Civilian Defense

John E. Martin, acting director of the Office of Civilian Defense at Washington, in a wire to John R. Chapple, chairman Wisconsin State Council of Defense, said:

"We know of no other State Defense Council which has taken such rapid and effective steps." Mr. Martin extended congratulations to the Wisconsin for "patriotism, initiative and resourcefulness."

Governor Walter S. Goodland said Mr. Martin's recognition of Wisconsin was "highly pleasing" and added his appreciation of Civilian Defense workers of Wisconsin, saying:

"Every such worker in Wisconsin has my warm respect for duties being performed in the protection of the home front. Civilian Defense has many important jobs to do as long as the war lasts."

S/SGT. SCHMIDT EXPECTS TO RETURN HOME FROM CHINA

S/SGT. Howard Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, who is with the signal corps somewhere in China, writes that he expects to be sent back to the States and home soon. He has had over two years of overseas duty in the China-Burma-India theater. Howard also writes that his Christmas packages are arriving now. Road on:

U. S. Army Somewhere in China, Jan. 27, 1941

Hello, Bill;
Think it's about time that I drop you a few lines from an advance U. S. Army base on the other side of the world. With these few lines I want first of all to thank the Bar-N Ranch together with the local people for the very nice billfold that they sent me and which I received just this afternoon. Quite a few months after it was mailed I guess. I am sure that this will always remind me of all the swell people back in good old Kewaskum all the time.

A little over a month ago I was transferred to this base and I am thinking now why couldn't I have been transferred lots sooner for really, this is one swell place and I like it very much. We are located a few miles from the nearest big city and get to go there once or twice a week, which is plenty. While in this city a few days ago I took some pictures in color and while I took these snaps I got to notice several things that seemed of interest to me. One of them was how the people live in their houseboats on the rivers. They tried to record this on film but don't know how well I made out. Good I hope. As you walk across this bridge you notice in the water below lots of different sizes and shapes of houseboats and sampans, this combined with log floats which are seen everywhere in the river, the logs being trunks of bamboo trees. These houseboats are tied one to the other and are spread along both banks of the river which is so crowded rather muddy when I saw it.

Between these shores and the scattered houseboats you see the coolies pushing their sampans of different sizes and shapes or a few other coolies perched on a float made of many trunks of bamboo trees. One thing I did notice by outstanding about this town compared with the other cities or villages I have been in while in China was that it is very clean, not like an American city or village, but compared with some of these other places it is clean. There are nice stores here and a few nice streets, a couple of movie houses I think and several restaurants where you can go and get a bite to eat and a bottle of wine which, by the way, is the best wine I have run across in China—grape wine. The scenery around here is very beautiful with lots of rock formations like you might see at a place like the Dells or some other site such as the Dells. Sort of steeples or rock bulges I would say. They rise to towering heights out of this valley and really do make a wonderful picture.

A walk back we all got a treat and that treat was none of our than some good American beer and the first I had tasted in about 18 months. And boy, was it good. We each got four cans and the four I got were from Pabst of Milwaukee. This really made it taste good. Now I suppose I will have to wait 'til I get home for more of it. All the last few days sort have been our Christmas. The reason is that finally the Christmas mail is reaching us, only a month late but here in China, where Christmas is just another day, if you didn't know the date you wouldn't know the celebrated day for here were no indications of it being a holiday over here. We all had fun opening our gift boxes and seeing just what we'd get. Lots of the gifts were dandies and I know all of mine were just that.

Well, Bill, finally after so-called awaiting it out for over two years of overseas duty we got the word that the war dept. had decided to relieve the boys in the China-Burma-India theatre. Thus since I was one of the very first to arrive over here, I am sort of expecting to see all you folks very soon. That is sometime during the summer or early fall so now I know that I won't have to spend another Christmas in the Orient—a thing that is enough to make one fappy all over.

Guess I will close down for the time being and wish you all lots of luck and best health. Cheer! and thumbs up!

Your friend,
Howard
