1,553 Pints of Blood From This Locality Sent to War

The 1,553rd pint of blood was sent last Friday by citizens of this locality directly to the fighting front. This record has been made by our citizens during the past two years. If you who have helped make this contribution feel proud, you certainly have a right to. Perhaps this means the return of a thousand or more veterans who would never have returned if it had not been for this contribution.

The local Red Cross chairman of this program reports that the blood donor mobile unit will again set up its field hospital at the West Bend high school on July 7th. Those of you who know what time of the day you will be free on July 7th can phone 592 or 15 at West Bend and make your appointment now.

COMMENDS KEWASKUM'S RECREATIONAL PROGRAM

Here's what our neighboring newspaper, the Campbellsport News, had to say in last week's issue concerning Kewaskum's recreational program which has been planned for the summer months for the youth of the village:

"We note with increasing interest that our neighboring town, Kewaskum, has made plans to have a recreational program for the summer months for its young people. We commend those who are responsible for this fine move and wish we might be able to equal that very fine program in our town.

"Members of the clergy, the principal of the high school, the village president and representatives of the board of education met and decided to hire the high school athletic instructor to direct the educational program at Kewaskum. This is a fine idea and one which has proved very successful in other towns. It directs the abundant energies which most of our children have, into useful and educational channels.

"There is little to offer our own youth in the village and especially should there be some sort of supervision during the period when there is no school. Even a couple of hours a day for several days a week would be sufficient to help absorb the unspent energy of children of school age.

"What are we doing for our young people? It's up to YOU!"

The writer readily agrees with our neighboring publisher that those responsible for instigating a recreational program in our little city deserve a word of praise and the co-operation of the community for their consideration in providing supervised recreation, educational entertainment, healthful exercise, protection and guidance for the young people. Their fine movement gives Kewaskum the honor of being one of the first of the smaller towns in this area to take up such a worthwhile program. It will keep the young folks off the street out of mischief, away from danger and lessen the worries of their parents. A wide variety of recreational activities are planned by Ernie Mitchell, who has been engaged as director, such as softball, basketball, swimming, volleyball, basketball, and other sports and games.

Local Blacksmith Shop Sold Monday

Thomas Bouchard of Milwaukee on Monday purchased the Stark estate business property on East Main street, consisting of a blacksmith shop and residence, from K. A. Honeck. The new owner will conduct an up-to-date blacksmith and welding business in conjunction with the making of automobile wagons. The business up to the present time has been conducted by Charles Krueger, who rented the property. With Mrs. Krueger, he will move soon as a suitable place can be found.

Mr. Bouchard has had about 10 years of experience in the blacksmith and welding trade. For the past few years he was employed in the welding department at the Allis-Chalmers plant in West Allis. Before that he was a welder in a ship building plant and also conducted a blacksmith business in the northern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Bouchard and their four children moved here from Milwaukee last Friday into the residence quarters in the rear of the Schalles building on Main street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Elsie Bruhn, now in the W.A.C.'s, who operated a food shop there. As soon as Mr. and Mrs. Krueger move out of the building purchased by the Bouchards the family will move into the flat above the blacksmith shop.

The new owner has already started work in his new shop. He will begin horseshoeing, gas welding and building up old plow shares as soon as he can obtain another blower or forge which he expects to have within a couple of days. Mr. Krueger will also continue in business until about the middle of May when Mr. Bouchard will take over sole possession. He is purchasing much new equipment and machinery and will be fully and modernly equipped by that time.

Mr. Bouchard wishes to inform the public that he will weld copper, aluminum, bronze, brass, cast iron, steel castings—in fact anything but white metal. He will also be equipped to do hard surfacing of plow points with a trip hammer. This method makes the job much quicker and prevents the plow points from becoming dull and breaking. He still has stainless steel rods on hand which cannot be purchased at any price now.

Kenny For Governor Celebration at West Bend Saturday Night

Keynote Address by Congressman Keefe; Civic Groups and Service Organizations Join in Preparation for Interesting Event; Kenny Will Highlight the Program

Headed by the West Bend Chamber of Commerce and the Washington County Kenny-for-Governor club, several civic and service organizations are planning a big event at the McLane school, West Bend Saturday night—the Kenny-for-Governor celebration. Our congressman, Frank Keefe, will be there from Washington with a keynote message. D. J. Kenny will announce his program and outline his plans as a candidate for governor of Wisconsin.

Other interesting features in the celebration will include music by the West Bend high school band, vocal solos by John Reis, West Bend, and Clifford Rose, Kewaskum. Mayor C. J. Schloemer will extend a welcome and County Chairman Guido Schneider will speak briefly. The Boy Scouts will usher.

Newspapermen and prominent leaders from all sections of the state will be in West Bend Saturday night to hear candidate Kenny and Congressman Keefe. It is hoped that the people of Washington county, as well as the surrounding communities, will be on hand for a rousing celebration.

We want to show the people of Wisconsin that our county is backing up D. J. Kenny 100% in his candidacy for governor. We want to make it a typical Washington county event, the kind that has made our county famous over the entire state.

Co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce and the Kenny-for-Governor club are the Rotary, Kiwanis, Woman's club, Town and Country club, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars from West Bend, and also the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Lions, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars from Hartford. All Legion posts and Veterans of Foreign Wars organizations in the county will have representatives at the meeting. This will include the Legion posts from Kewaskum and Germantown and Veterans of Foreign Wars from Silinger. Color guards from several posts will be available for the pasting-of-colors ceremony.

Chairman of the Kenny celebration program will be District Attorney M. J. Meister, who is also chairman of the Kenny-for-Governor club in Washington county. This non-partisan club is made up of representatives from every town, village and city in the county from all political parties—Democrats, Republicans and Progressives are joined together in one common goal—to make D. J. Kenny our next governor.

Congressman Frank Keefe always has a worthwhile message and will give us some up-to-the-minute views of what is going on in Washington. He never fails to get a good audience when he speaks in West Bend because he has the habit of saying what he thinks and meaning no words about it.

This is the first time in the history of our county when one of our citizens has been a candidate for governor of Wisconsin. It is no small honor to have one of our prominent local citizens aspire to this highest office in the state. Let nothing prevent you from being a part of this historic meeting. It will be well worth every minute of your time to be at the McLane school Saturday night. The program which starts at 8 p. m. will be informative and interesting to every member of the family.

Boy, Aged 6, Injured When Struck by Auto

Rbert, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurie Hammer of this village, is recovering at his home from a slight concussion of the brain and body bruises which he sustained on Saturday, April 8, when he was struck by an auto driven by Henry Fick of New Fane, Route 1, Kewaskum. The accident occurred as the little fellow was crossing the road where the bridge spans the creek on County Trunk Highway H, better known as the Wayne road, a short distance southwest of Kewaskum.

Bobby had accompanied a group of neighboring children to the creek to go fishing next to the bridge. As he started to run across the highway for the opposite side of the bridge, he apparently failed to see the oncoming car driven by Fick, who was unable to avoid striking him.

LOCAL WOMAN'S AUTO SAVED FROM SMASH-UP ON CROSSING

In a peculiar accident which occurred near the South Water street railroad crossing in West Bend at 4:45 p. m. Monday, a car driven by Mrs. Clarence Seifert of Kewaskum escaped damage when it became stalled on the cross-tie. The railroad switching crew, making fly-by switches at the time, saw the car on the tracks and immediately stopped the locomotive to prevent two box cars from passing over the crossing where they would have crashed into the stalled auto. The box cars smashed into the switcher of the locomotive with such an impact as to demolish it. Acetylene torches had to be used to remove some of the broken pieces from the engine. The alertness of the train crew saved the car which had been abandoned by its occupants.

War Movies Sponsored by Legion Post Shown

The second of a series of war pictures sponsored by Kewaskum Post No. 381, American Legion, were shown at the high school auditorium Monday night. Besides Legion members and their wives, others invited to attend included members of the Kewaskum fire department and their wives and a number of others.

The first movie shown was "Prelude to War" originally produced for showing to our armed forces and now released to industry. This film was prepared by the army to show why we fight. In exciting sequences—many from German Japanese and Italian official films—it shows the start of the treacherous attack by the Axis countries on their innocent neighbors. The cold-blooded plot of world conquest with America as the final and richest victim, is clearly revealed in dramatic action pictures.

The second film was "The Nazis Strike" picturing the actual start of the war—the blitzkrieg on Poland. It contained much sensational footage captured from the Germans and revealed the cruel pattern of Nazi attack, from propaganda and "incidents" to the now-famed Panzer attack on the army and the helpless people of Poland.

The final picture shown was "The Battle of Midway," a one-reel industrial version of the navy film by the same title. This picture was especially adapted with special commentary to illustrate the part industry and labor played in this victory.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Can You Do It?

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

The four of them lived with great quiet and courage and infinite adventures.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

Can you write your soldier—or sailor or marine or airman—that life is going to be wonderful for him when he comes home?

Can you truthfully tell him that all is serene at home, all small frictions smoothed out, everything going well, and everyone waiting for the glorious news of the peace that will bring him back?

Are you making definite post-war plans for him, so that if he has always dreamed of being an engineer, or an airman, or a doctor, the means and the way will be ready for him?

Are you watching national legislation closely, so that you can write your congressman urging the passage of this bill or asking the suppression of that?

Are you out of debt, and putting bonds safely into that little deposit box at the bank, so that when he comes home he will have a little nestegg that will enable him to take a breathing spell when he is honorably discharged from the service? A nestegg that will spare him the bitter humiliation of job hunting among the luckier fellows who had flat feet or bad eyes, and so could stay safe at home and progress in their jobs from promotion to promotion, while he was saving the civilization of the world?

Do you write him all your petty troubles? That everyone has flu, that Papa is worried about the doctor's bill, that his wife, pretty little Betsy who cried so hard when he went away, seems to be having a pretty good time with the boys from camp; that you have to move and there isn't anywhere to go; that everyone hopes that this senseless war soon will be over, it won't accomplish anything anyway, and that his old chum Tom has been made one of the bank's vice presidents, imagine that at 31!

Women actually do write letters like that. More than one heartsick, homesick, mosquito-bitten, swamp-soaked boy has sent such letters to me with comments that ask, sometimes in extremely violent terms, "what the heck?"

Any woman who writes such letters belongs to the Fifth Column. What those boys ought to hear is that we are proud of them down to the last fiber of our minds, souls, and bodies; that cruel and aggressive nations must learn that they may neither torture their own people nor swarm like pirates over the borders of peaceable countries, and that they—our boys, are teaching them that lesson, swiftly, decisively, and—God willing!—for all time.

That we know God is willing, and that we believe it will be for all time, and that when the boys come back they shall have a hand in deciding just how it shall be done.

That nothing that we have to face at home, in the way of taxes, privations, shortages, food stamps, shoe stamps, is anything more than a joke—compared to what they are sacrificing and risking. Or better yet, a challenge, a chance to show

ENCLOSE A SMILE!

All of us know the importance of mail to our men on the fighting fronts. All of us know that despite whatever little sacrifices we make at home that he is making the greatest. While he is thousands of miles away—that soldier, sailor or marine of ours—his desire for news of what takes place at home is a keen one. When he doesn't receive his quota of letters naturally he's apt to feel letdown.

It's up to all of us to provide our servicemen with the news of what we are doing to safeguard his interests at home while he is protecting ours. When we write let's not mention our petty troubles. That everyone has the flu; that Papa is worried about bills; or that the wife who cried when he left seems to be having a pretty good time since he's gone. Let's make the mail cheerful. Let him know that we're doing our utmost to see that things will be pretty smooth sailing when he returns. Enclose a smile; pack a lot of laughs in letters to him. You can do it!

our fighting men that in our way we are eager to go as far as they are going.

So if you are dragging along in the usual way, letting bills accumulate, grumbling about inconveniences, not too scrupulous about a little black-marketing here and there, living up to the last cent of your income and generally a little more, then pull yourself up right now with a jerk.

Whatever your income is, did it ever occur to you that you could live on exactly half of it, if you had to? This is the simple truth. Millions of families are living on half your income, and living respectably, too. There is a widow in my town who found herself left 15 years ago, with three children to care for on $60 a month. She never took one penny of help. She rented a one-room cottage for $11 a month, and the four of them lived—oh, not easily, not luxuriously, but with great gaiety and courage.

Today she runs a small restaurant for a good salary. Two girls are married, one has a job with the telephone company; the son is down in southern seas with the fleet. When he comes home a present from his mother and sisters is going to be a small but profitable newspaper and magazine business. The old man from whom they bought it will run it until he gets back. Then Chuck can either carry it on or sell it—anyway, it's a temporary solution of that bitter problem that cost our men such humiliation after the last war.

There were men in uniform asking you huskily for money for a cup of coffee, after the last war. In England, all over Europe—yes, and here, too. Some of them wore decorations; some were crippled. Is your boy, after this war, going to be one of them?

Blankets Shrink

Blankets shrink some in laundering. If they are constantly jerked in pulling them up around the neck, the undue strain hastens the wearing out of the blanket. Blankets on the market today range from 76 to 90 inches long. The 76-inch length is too short for satisfaction except on children's beds. The 84-inch length is long enough for ordinary use. But if the mattress is very thick or the sleeper very tall, the 90-inch length is needed for comfort and long wear.

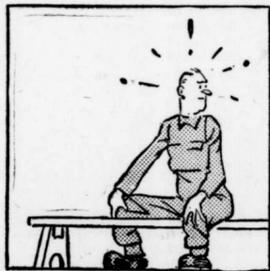

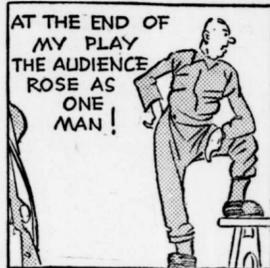

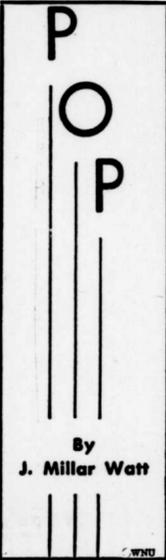

The Delights of a Favorite Old American Dish Can Be Yours in a Jiffy With Frozen Baked Beans

Homemakers can add a nutritious and traditional American dish to their menus by using the new frozen baked beans.

The method of cooking varies slightly with the different brands. Some of them have molasses added and others are packed in tomato sauce. All have been cooked thoroughly and just need to be heated. The frozen beans may be put in a sauce pan with two tablespoons of water and heated about 15 minutes on top of the stove, or they may be warmed up in the oven. Molasses, chili sauce, mustard, onion or a slice of bacon may be added for flavor. Don't thaw the beans before cooking. If they thaw don't try to refreeze them, but use them at once. They are at their best in flavor and texture when kept frozen right up to the cooking time.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The importance of the tire conservation program, effected in 1942, will be appreciated when it is known that the number of passenger car tires rationed and those sold on new cars in 1942 equalled 8.8 per cent of the passenger car tires shipped for all purposes in 1941.

Neglected small tire tread cuts and bruises can become serious rubber wasters. A small cut, even though it does not go entirely through the fabric, lets in dirt, water and foreign matter. Constant flexing increases the size of the cut until the tire is beyond repair. Prompt repair is a patriotic duty these days.

Performance of U. S. Fighting Planes Best in World, Thanks to Advisory Committee for Aeronautics

Tests and Research Keep America Ahead In Grim Competition

By BARROW LYONS
WNU Washington Correspondent

American facilities for developing new models of military airplanes are being enlarged, and new personnel is being added to avoid a tragic thing that has happened on several occasions. New models of planes have been sent into battle before they were thoroughly tested in the laboratories of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, one of the government agencies least known because most of its work has been secret, but one which has made a great contribution toward winning the war as any civilian agency.

In a determined effort to gain mastery of the air and save thousands of lives by hastening victory, by further improving the performance of American aircraft the NACA soon will increase its present staff of about 5,000 technicians by 1,500 additional men and women. The staff at Langley Field, Va., which has the largest staff, will be increased by about 750. The Cleveland laboratory will get about 550 new employees, and the research staff at Moffett Field, Calif., near Palo Alto, will be increased by about 250 more technicians.

The nation depends upon the men and women who staff these laboratories more than any others to keep ahead of the Nazi scientists in designing aircraft that will take and hold control of the skies. If the Germans were to design aircraft that could outfly and outshoot our own—and those responsible for American aircraft design declare that possibility exists—the war in the air over Europe might come to a stalemate.

The army and navy have recognized the supreme importance of these laboratories by giving their employees special draft consideration. They are inducted into the army, and then transferred as inactive reservists. They are always on call for active duty; but they do not wear uniforms and they receive civilian pay and United States Civil Service status.

Junior Engineers Needed.
At present there are needed aeronautical, mechanical and electrical engineers of junior grade. They receive $2,400 a year. Physicists, mathematicians and naval architects of the same grade are needed. Craftsmen, such as instrument makers, tool makers, electricians, metallurgists, pattern makers and airplane mechanics are needed. They receive prevailing rates of government pay on an annual basis.

Women may qualify for a variety of positions. Those with skill in mathematics and physics are assigned to research projects, while those with training as stenographers, typists and clerks are also needed.

But the committee is not looking today for just ordinary help. The projects which these people are working on are among the most vital to war success, and the committee is looking only for unusual young men and women, who can be advanced as vacancies occur—people whose loyalty and intelligence and ability can be depended upon.

The committee was born in the last war from the necessity of our armed services for airplanes that could compete with those of the enemy. When war broke out in Europe in 1914, leadership in aircraft development had passed from American hands. In March, 1915, congress authorized an advisory body to be appointed by the President and to serve without compensation.

Membership, increased from 12 to 15 in 1929, included heads of military, naval and civil aeronautical organizations of the government, of the bureau of standards, the weather bureau, and the Smithsonian institution, and specially qualified members from civil life. The chairman is elected annually. The paid staff is headed by Dr. George W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research, and by John F. Victory, secretary of the committee, who directs its administrative work.

The first appropriation was $5,000 a year for five years. With that meager start the committee set about regaining for America a position of leadership in military flying. The NACA emerged from World War I with a research laboratory building at Langley Field, and with its first wind tunnel under construction. With appropriations of about $200,000 a year in the era of disarmament and peace treaties, this laboratory laid the foundation for the new science of aeronautics, which again brought leadership to America.

Nazi Research Expanded.
But when Hitler came to power in 1933, he recognized that he must have the strongest air force in the world if he was to subdue the world. With foresight and intelligence, Germany began by concentrating upon scientific research. German laboratories were expanded and multiplied, until at the time of the Pact of Munich the German aeronautical research establishment had become

A FIGHTER PLANE, the Brewster XF2A-1, is shown mounted on struts in the full scale wind tunnel, ready for testing. five times the size of that of the United States. But not until Germany was convinced that it could make aircraft superior to that of any other nation did it go into mass production.

The NACA recognized the menace, and in 1937 started a study of the relation of its organization to national defense in time of war. The result was a doubling of the research facilities at Langley Field, and the authorization by congress of two additional major research centers—the Ames Aeronautical laboratory at Moffett Field in 1939 and the Aircraft Engine Research laboratory at Cleveland in 1940.

These are operated in close teamwork with the military services and the aircraft industry. It works like this: Suppose the army air forces want a certain aircraft manufacturer to produce a new type of pursuit plane. The design engineers at the factory confer with experts of the materiel command of the air forces at Dayton, Ohio, and agree tentatively upon general design and specifications. Both groups then confer with NACA experts at Langley Field to incorporate the latest knowledge gained through research.

NACA Checks New Models.
The program calls for the factory to go into production by a certain date. The manufacturer assembles tools and material and makes contracts for sub-assemblies. The army materiel command plans and provides the military equipment, including instruments, armor and armament. The NACA responsibility involves, first, making of dynamically balanced small flying models for experimentation in its free-spinning wind tunnel and in the free-flight wind tunnel.

The free spinning wind tunnel is a vertical tube 20 feet wide with a propeller mounted on the top and drawing air upward. Into the middle of this ascending column of air the airplane model is tossed with its controls set to continue to spin. The controls operated by remote electromagnetic force, are moved just as a pilot would move them to bring the plane out of the spin.

If the controls are effective, the airplane recovers by going into a dive and is caught in a net. If the controls are not effective, the model continues spinning. Adjustments are made in the control surfaces until satisfactory control is attained. Information to revise the design of the controls is relayed at once to the army and to the manufacturer, and is used to correct the design. A second model is prepared with similar care and is tested in the free-flight tunnel. That is a wind tunnel 12 feet in diameter inclined at an angle which will permit the model to glide forward through a moving stream of air. The model is equipped with delicate electrical mechanisms which operate the controls, and which enable the research staff to determine what changes are necessary to assure, in advance of production, that the new design will be easily maneuvered and controlled and will have stability.

When these tests have been made, and the necessary information obtained, the NACA makes larger and sturdier models with solid steel cores to be firmly mounted on recording balances in wind tunnels operating at air speeds up to 600 miles an hour. These tunnels measure the lift and drag, as well as the pitching, rolling and yawing movements of the plane at various angles of attack.

Add 20 Miles Per Hour.
When the first full-sized plane is produced, it is placed on the NACA full-scale wind tunnel to determine how to increase further its speed by reducing the drag through better streamlining, or removing, or reshaping protuberances. In such full-scale tunnel tests, the NACA has never failed to add at least 20 additional miles per hour to the speed of a plane about to go into production.

Special tests are provided for particular types of planes. For high speed fighters, aerodynamic experiments are conducted in low air pressures, such as are encountered at high altitudes. In a huge domed structure, pressures are created to simulate air conditions at altitudes up to 12,000 feet. Taking off and landing abilities of seaplanes are tried out in a basin 600 feet long, containing seawater. A large scale model of a seaplane, or of the floats only, is towed behind an electrically powered crane, at speeds up to 80 miles per hour. Experimental planes are flight tested under carefully controlled conditions, and a record is made of its performance on movie film. The test pilot is given orders by radio telephone from the ground, and he performs the turns, loops, dives, climbs, and other maneuvers.

One of the recent outstanding contributions of the Ames laboratory has been the use of exhaust heat from airplane engines to heat the leading edges, wings, tail surfaces, and windshields of airplanes to prevent the formation of ice. This has permitted safe flight under conditions that otherwise would have grounded planes. The ice hazard has been eliminated.

But the list of advances which have been made applies to virtually every component of the airplane. More than once the NACA laboratories have saved the commercial life of some aircraft company by giving it the necessary scientific information to bring into practical use advances in design the company had made, but which fell short of military requirements. The success of the Flying Fortress design was made possible by scientific knowledge developed in NACA laboratories.

After the war, when America enters an era of great commercial aviation expansion, the NACA laboratories expect to continue to provide the basic scientific research upon which American air supremacy is based. It now has a plant worth some $70,000,000, which at least equals the research facilities of the Germans. It probably will continue to be in competition with German scientists and facilities, but our armed forces hope congress never again will let it fall behind in staff and equipment.

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

LOVE begins at 40 in the movies these days, which is mighty lucky for our male stars. Collegiate romance went out when war came in. So the majority of men on the screen today with box office names, who get the glamour girls for the final clinch, are all over draft age. Some even get the bobby sox set drooling.

Ever since Uncle Sam's initial call for help in the various United States armed forces, Hollywood's younger actors have been exchanging civilities for uniforms. With Jimmy Stewart, Ronald

James Stewart

Regan, Glenn Ford, Victor Mature, Bob Taylor, Tyrone Power, William Holden, et al in the line of pitching for the destruction of Hitler and Tojo, the studios were wowing for male names to woo such lovelies as Janet Blair and Susan Peters on the screen.

Janet Blair

Replacement of sturdy heroes was a problem. When producers looked around for new lovers they found in the ranks of older players, undisturbed by the selective service act. There was a definite question mark for a while as to how the high school and college girls would react to older men in romantic roles.

A Quick Switch
After a try or two, and a look at the grosses, fear fled. From them on men who had played character roles for years started to pitch woo. Others who hadn't held a heroine in their arms before a camera in years were suddenly given the opportunity to enfold 'em in long and passionate embraces.

There was plenty of love light in the old boy vet. It was all right with everybody, including the ladies. It seems a man's man so far as screen love-making goes.

Getting On
There's Ronald Colman, William Powell, Spencer Tracy and Humphrey Bogart left to play love scenes with young cuties. Well, they do, and very well, too. Gosh, haven't they been made about our mature leading ladies and how hard it is to find young men to play opposite them. Suppose we take a gander. Our top screen stars today are Greer Garson, Claudette Colbert, Bette Davis, Irene Dunne, and you must admit they've been around quite a while. To me that's healthy and a sure sign that movies are growing up, because in the old days if a girl was over—say 18—they talked about her life as being over—or at least unable to attract attention.

Returning From Mexico
Miliza Korjus of "The Great Waltz" fame begins her American concert tour October 4. She's been living in Mexico City. When she arrives here she'll be an American citizen. Many think "The Great Waltz" was Metro's most beautiful musical. I'm not sure they aren't right. . . . Lewis Milestone done up in unpleasants sweaters running up and down Beverly Hills to take off that poundage, streamlining for action. I can remember the day when he hired a man to wake him and actually pull him out of bed. Joe Cotten plays the lead opposite Ginger Rogers in "Double Furlough," so Dore Schary's search is ended. Cotten goes into Alfred Hitchcock's next but that isn't ready yet.

Waits and Gets Hedy
Ray Bolger waited for the deal he wanted and has signed a term contract with Metro. His first will be "Holiday in Mexico," opposite Hedy Lamarr, with Arthur Freed producing. . . . Sam Goldwyn borrowed Walter Slezak from Twentieth for "Sylvester the Great" with Bob Hope. He'll play a corrupt governor of a Caribbean island. Sam had a Gallup poll taken about the title for that picture. One that came in first was "Princess and the Pirate." That's the one I'd go for, too. . . . Metro's thinking of doing the life of Robert Louis Stevenson. I've wondered why that wasn't done before. What a great man! I hope they'll let Stevenson's grandson, Austin Strong, author of "Seventh Heaven," do the screenplay. He's at Santa Barbara visiting his mother.

Fame at Last for Hedda
The Bed Pan, Fort Bragg's sheet, wants my puss to hang in their rogue's gallery. G. I. Jones asked for it. "Goldwyn's Golden Touch," running in a current magazine, is one of the better stories about Sam, but the real yarn about Sam Goldwyn hasn't yet been written. His golden touch started when he married Frances Howard in 1925. I knew him before—and after. . . . Metro finally has a good script from "Without Love" for Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn.

Well, It Could Be
Harry Cohn offered Travis Banton a contract after the way his "Cover Girls" looked. Speaking of that, Harry's pals wonder if he expects his new baby to look like a cover girl. . . . The Danny Winklers' baby is a whopper—nearly 10 pounds. Ezra Stone, the original "Henry" of the Aldrich family, is now Papa Ezra. Son's name Joseph. . . . Hedy Lamarr's son, Jamie, aged 5, spent a day on the set with her. He wasn't impressed with anything—not even mother.

The Kewaskum Jolly Workers 4-H club met at the home of Jeanette and Irene Kanies on April 15 at 2 o'clock. The president, Bernice Kober, called our meeting to order and we sang and played games. We sold our 4-H pledge and appointed three girls for the committee. They are Adeline and Ruth Volm and Bernice Kober. We got recipe books from our leader, blanks to fill out and 4-H pins. The meeting was then adjourned by Diane Schaefer. We had lunch served by Mrs. Kanies. Our next meeting will be held by Bernice Kober on May 13 at 2 p. m.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear daughter, sister and granddaughter, Ruth Ida Spoerl, who passed away one year ago, April 20, 1943:
 As we loved her, so we miss her,
 As there dawns another year,
 Loved, remembered, longed for always,
 Bringing many a silent tear,
 Her life a beautiful memory,
 Her absence a silent grief,
 She sleeps in God's beautiful garden
 In the sunshine of perfect peace,
 Sadly missed by her mother, Mrs. John Spoerl, sister, brother and grandnephew.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Daughter Can Make These for Mother (See Recipes Below)

Food Is Fun!

It's a good idea to let small fry take hold of the kitchen duties once in a while and give mother a rest. The children will enjoy doing new things and mother can feel she is contributing to their all-round development.

Naturally it isn't a good idea just to open wide the doors in the kitchen and leave the children up to their own devices. What I'm suggesting is that they be allowed to make up something they've watched mother do so often they know how.

There's a lot of satisfaction in making cupcakes, especially if they are iced with tinted icings and sprinkled with finely chopped nuts.

*Delicate Cup Cakes (Makes 18)

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons double acting baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or substitute
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, unbeat
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually. Cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla.

Bake in greased cupcake tins in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 minutes or until done. Spread with confectioners' sugar icing or your favorite chocolate frosting. Decorate with chopped nuts, colored candies or tinted cocoas.

Frosted Fruit Bars (Makes 48 bars)

- 1 egg yolk
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/4 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

The Score Card: Good news is in store for homemakers for there will be plenty of eggs on the market and cabbage and spinach. All of these foods give a boost to health and to your menus.

You will be eating about a pound less cheese this year than last. The kind available mostly will be Cheddar—also the kind most popular. Kinds least obtainable will be limburger cream, roquefort and Italian. About 5 million more pounds of cheese are going to servicemen to help provide milk nutrients needed by armed forces. Cheese will also go to our Allies and to the Red Cross, which helps provide for our prisoners of war.

Lynn Says

Monday—It's that soy bean again! Now it's being made into a fiber for textiles in blends with cotton or wool.

Tuesday—Modern English paintings are bringing pretty good prices at London auctions these days. A collection of T. M. Richardson's pictures fetched over $22,000 recently—with a number of individual works bringing 12 and 14 thousand.

Wednesday—A painter of long experience tells us that the best way to care for hardwood floors is to clean them with benzene and when thoroughly dry, give them a waxing.

Thursday—One headache the furnace manufacturers have to worry about is—their products last too long. But don't jump at the conclusion that they mind because they're greedy and want the replacement business. Their worry is finding parts for boilers 50 years old. What's more they do it!

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menu

- Pork Chops — Cream Gravy
- Mashed Potatoes
- Buttered Spinach
- Raw Vegetable Salad
- Rye Bread — Beverage
- *Delicate Cup Cakes
- *Recipe Given

1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 cup nuts, chopped
1/2 cup dates, pitted and cut
Mix egg yolks, brown sugar, molasses and blend in sour cream. Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, salt and ginger. Blend into first mixture. Stir in dates and nuts. Spread into greased pan and bake for 15 minutes in a hot (400-degree) oven. Cool in pan. Frost with: 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar beaten into one beaten egg white. Add salt and lemon extract.

Have you tried the new toppings that don't require elaborate preparation? Most of these are low on sugar and ideal to use on cakes the children have made. Here, too, is a good basic cake recipe to which to use them:

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add eggs. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk and vanilla to creamed mixture. Pour into greased, floured 8-inch cake pans and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about 35 minutes.

In using any of the following toppings, frost only top of cake. Square layer cakes take less icing than layer cakes.

- I. Raisin Topping.
- 1 cup raisins, ground
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- Dash of cloves

Mix ingredients in a saucepan and stir constantly while cooking until thickened—about 5 minutes. Cool slightly. Spread on warm cake.

- II. Apricot Topping.
- 1/2 to 3/4 cup apricot jam
- Spread on warm cake.
- Meringue Topping.
- 1 egg white, beaten stiff
- 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon flavoring

Beat sugar into egg white with flavoring. Fold in softened butter and spread on cooled cake.

- Honey Icing
- 2 tablespoons butter, softened
- Beat sugar into egg white with flavoring. Fold in softened butter and spread on cooled cake.
- 1 tablespoon hot milk
- 1/2 cup coconut
- Dash of salt

Mix all ingredients together. Spread on warm cake and broil slowly until icing bubbles and browns but does not burn.

Indian BEEF

by HAROLD CHANNING WIRE
W.N.U. RELEASE

LEW BURNETT has been engaged by TOM ARNOLD owner of the Cross T, to act as trail boss on the drive from southern Texas to Ogallala in the spring of 1875. Tom, with his son and daughter, STEVE and JOY, are moving to Wyoming. Tom must deliver 3,000 longhorns to the Indian agent by September 1 or lose a profitable contract. Lew has reason to believe that the Indian Supply Co. is trying to delay the Cross T herd. He heads west, and successfully brings the herd through dangers from dust storms and drought, to the banks of the Red River. Lew rides on to Doan's store, and finds that none of the other herds have crossed yet. Back at camp, he has another run-in with ED SPLANN,

CHAPTER VIII

The Indian Supply Company's Open A might be among those herds held up on the south bank by the high water of the Red River. Or they may have crossed before the rains. He wanted to know some way without his own presence being known. Unless there had been a leak, his Cross T had vanished completely as far as the Open A knew. Lew slid his horse down the high riverbank and then on the gravel shore rode to a lone agave. Little side ravines began to cut the red wall in half an hour's riding. He came to Doan's flatboat ferry tied up because of the flood. He had seen no one. He rode on to a point that would bring him up behind the store and hid his horse in the willows.

Noise of the crowd that had gathered here floated off the gravel, walked directly up into it, the wild, mingled voices of two or three hundred restless men spending their time and money in the only two ways that Doan's store offered.

All tree growth in a circular area of a quarter of a mile had been cut for buildings and firewood. The dusty clearing was jammed. Saddle trail horses rimmed it in a solid line near the trees. In the shade of high Pittsburg freight outfits men squatted around card games and dice. He didn't see a bottle. They drank their whisky out of kegs. One group of horses separate from the others made him shake his head with an old disgust. They belonged to the army. He looked at the small hornless McClellan saddles, hung with enough gear of canteens, rolled tents and gun scabbards to weigh a horse down without carrying a man, and he thought again it was no wonder that the Indians, riding bareback and themselves half naked, could run circles around these troopers of Uncle Sam's. Then this knowledge that the cavalry was here turned him sober. There had to be a good reason to bring a patrol this far south.

He made a wide tour of the other horses but saw no Open A brand, and all the gambling men he passed were strangers to him. He nodded to some and walked through them toward the store. Near it a pile of bleached buffalo bones stood as high as a haystack. That meant the hoesmen were trading here now. They gathered these skeletons left by the old-time hunters and brought them in—the only crop many of them would ever harvest on their dry homesteads.

Whoever Doan was he didn't know. This place was here before his first trip up the trail. But the man had built with certain knowledge of Indians and Texas weather. The store was long, narrow, with red earth mounded over the low roof. As soon as he walked in, even while his eyes caught little at first in the dim light, he had a quick sense of something wrong. The room was not crowded. Trail men took their drinks outside. He saw mostly, among the fifteen or twenty figures, the blue, yellow-striped uniforms of the army moving across the damp clay floor. The talk was low; the smells of tobacco and liquor and oiled leather were right.

Then farther inside he knew. It was the big Swede's jovial voice he missed so quickly. Ole Soderlund wasn't here. He had counted on Ole. They were friends and they could talk, and that talk would never leak out of the Swede's head.

A man he didn't know was on a high stool behind the counter at the back of the room. He was white and wore a black suit with a white shirt, oddly out of place in this frontier store. Shrewd eyes in a pinched face were watching him closely.

He reached the counter. "Soderlund gone?"
"Only a curt nod answered him. 'For good?'"
"Sold out."
"He could feel a guarded suspicion behind the shrewd eyes and he wondered. Did he look like anything but another trail hand?"
"Something you want?"
"Maybe," he said and turned away, putting aside for now the one question he had come here to ask.

"No, it's the Dakota Cheyennes. They're out on a hunting permit after antelope. Six hundred of them. But antelope scares. Trail beef is a lot easier." The lieutenant looked stern. "Don't ask me for help if you get caught. You Texans have got no right crossing the Nations. There's a treaty against that."

"Sure, a treaty!" This boy was talking out of a book. "Did any Texan sign it? I know. We ought to drive clean around by way of the Mississippi!" Lew grinned and started on. "No hard feelings, Bub. Come and get a good meal if you sight my camp."

The Cheyennes loose were bad news. He understood about the Dakota Cheyennes. By what fool decision the government was set on making Northern Indians live in the South he didn't know. It wasn't home and they wouldn't stay. Only three years ago they had a break in the dead of winter. Eleven hundred that time, leaving a swath of burned ranches and dead whites as far as Dakota. Troops brought them back.

A great chief, Red Cloud, had led that break. Red Cloud was not here now; he was a guest at the capitol in Washington where ladies of the Indian Friends' society were making fools of themselves and a bigger one out of him. It was all in the papers. As good a way as any, Lew guessed, to tame a wild Cheyenne. But there were young chiefs with the tribe, more dangerous even than the old one because they knew white men's tricks and had known white women. He could handle them if they stayed sober. Outfit men and present a few old mossyhornes from the herd. But full of whisky—

He was back again at the counter, spreading out his coat. He stacked five silver dollars on the boards. "Right?" The man nodded and he rolled his coat around the bundle

"Who's looking for the Open A?"

once more, and then, casually, he asked, "Has an Open A herd crossed here yet?"
"A thin hand reached out from the cartwheels and dropped them into an iron cashbox. 'Who's looking for the Open A?'"
"I asked, didn't I?"
"You did. That's what I want to know."

He shrugged, warned, "Never mind. My question wasn't so important." He walked out slowly, talking his time, yet even more guarded, and threw a long look around the clearing before he turned toward the river. He had seen nothing. But as soon as he was gone a man whom he might have recognized stepped from behind the buffalo-bone pile and hurriedly entered the store.

The late afternoon turned gray beneath a bank of thunderclouds. Dark niggerheads piled up, flat at the base, round on top. Loping back along the river bottom, that was his only troubling thought. A storm would spoil the evening's stampede.

Night fell swiftly. He climbed up into the darkness of the flat shelf. Campfires of these herds at the crossing were out of sight now, but ahead was a single huge blaze to guide him.

Still a mile off, he could see figures moving in that wide circle of light. Trees stood up above them tall and red. He caught a drift of music and grinned. An organ had never been played in this spot before.

Quarternight came in from the outer darkness and stopped to say, "I only left a two-man guard, Lew. Moonlight and Splann offered. Guess it's safe enough for a while."

"I guess," he said.
The line of men was already moving past the fire pit. They loaded their tin plates with steaks and laid braised ribs on top. At the table they marked their places by dropping their hats on the bedrolls drawn up for seats, came back to the pit again for beans and corn bread out of the Dutch ovens and pickles from the chuck-wagon keg. They poured blackstrap molasses over their bread and grinned when the cook tossed each one a can of sardines. But all talk soon died. Eating was a sober business.

Only Joy said, "Lew, just like Christmas!" and smiled at him, her eyes lingering with a steady warmth as if to tell him something.

He didn't understand the look, but this meal was like Christmas dinner, that one time at home on the Cross T when crew and family ate together in the big front room. A ruddy glow from the pit flooded the bent dark and light and bald heads as if from the fireplace of the room, while branches of elm and oak arched a roof above them.

He was halfway along the table with Rebel John, his inevitable partner, at his right elbow. Tom Arnold occupied one end, Joy the other. He watched Tom.

This was their last meal on Texas soil. He looked around the table and knew that some of these men, chances were, would never come back to it. He saw Joy watching him again.

"What's the news from Doan's?" she asked.
"Not much." The dress she had on tonight was suddenly familiar, made of fine cream-colored linen with a high collar and long sleeves. A narrow red ribbon drawn tight about her waist shaped a woman's full softness. She had worn that dress the night of the Ox Bow dance, when Clay Manning had told the world she was going to be his wife. "A dozen herds," he said, "held up south by the flood. Hoesmen are crowding in along the river. Saw a troop of yellow-legs around," he added but didn't say what they were there for. No use bringing up about the Dakota Cheyennes.

He saw Clay, around the corner of the table at Joy's right, lift his blond head. "What outfits did you see?"
"Strangers mostly." He waited, feeling there was another question in Clay's mind. But Clay dropped his head and went on eating.

It was Steve, directly across the table, who brought out casually, "Didn't see the Open A, did you? Guess they're too far on."
"No," he said, "don't think they are, Steve," and watched a change set instantly across the boy's face. "They didn't have enough start on it. The river's been higher than it is now, maybe up for a week. You can tell that by ring marks on the trees." He saw the tight look grow. "We're even with them, I figure, and got a good chance to get ahead."

He had been feeling better about Steve these past days. The bounded look of watching his back trail seemed to have gone, as if Steve felt easier somehow as they approached the north line of Texas. But that look was there again now. In some way the Indian Supply herd being behind them, and not ahead, made a difference.

Yet he was learning a man's guard and that boyish giveaway passed quickly. Only Tom Arnold showed he had caught it. He paused with a coffee cup half lifted, his puckered gaze fixed intently on his son.
When Owl-Head had cut the pies exactly in halves and had given each man his piece he saw that the red-freckled kid was not the only one who'd had plenty. Tom Arnold finished part of his and sat there waiting, until the other plates rattled empty again. He stood up.
"Lew," he said, "it's a shame to have anyone eat seconds at a meal like this. I'm going out to relieve Moonlight and Splann." He paused down at Steve. "You want to come along?"

"Say!" Steve objected. "Why me? What's the rush anyway?" His back stiffened, his face going young and truculent. Never was a time, Lew thought, when the pup didn't show himself at his worst to his father. He expected the old flare between them.

Instead, gently, Tom urged, "Come on, son. I want you to ride with me."
There was a moment of remaining stubbornness and challenge, and then he felt that Steve could find no way to meet his father's strangely quiet urging. In the outer rim of firelight the old man laid one arm across his boy's shoulder. They vanished into the dark like that, walking slowly.

Lew uncrossed his legs and stretched them out and, making a cigarette in brown corn paper, he offered idly, "Anyone short on tobacco? I laid in a supply."
He saw Clay swing his broad back to the table and sit there as if listening into the night. But as no sound came from that direction, south, where the longhorns, well-watered and fed, were sleeping peacefully. And there was nothing to see. Clouds had blotted out the stars, filling the world with absolute blackness beyond the circle of firelight.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

TAKING OFF DOORS

Question: We are remodeling our house, and it is necessary to take off a number of doors temporarily. What is the best way to do this?
Answer: The proper way to take a door off its hinges is as follows: First, open the door part way and put a block or a book under the outside bottom corner. The bottom hinge then should be separated, followed by separating the top hinge. If the top hinge is separated first, slipping of the door would create so much leverage that the bottom hinge would be bent or broken. In putting the door back, the top hinge should be connected first and then the bottom hinge. As a general thing, the two parts of a hinge are held together with a pin that can be driven out with a flat-end tool like a screw driver.

SMOKE AND DUST

Question: When we are feeding the furnace the smoke and dust come through the registers upstairs.

When the feed door is closed it stops. What is the cause?
Answer: You evidently have an opening or crevice around the outside shell and the furnace door. Check this possibility, and if any opening is found fill it with iron cement, which you can get at your hardware store.

Saving Heat

Question: Our oil-fired heating system cannot be converted to coal. We had an estimate given us by an insulating contractor to install insulation in the attic and side walls. Since this cost is considerable, I want to be sure that it will save heat. Is the insulation in the attic likely to settle?

Answer: With the walls and attic insulated you should make a substantial saving in fuel, roughly between twenty and thirty per cent. Insulation in walls is likely to settle only if the work is done poorly, or if there is considerable vibration in the house. In the latter instance, the amount of settling generally is so small that the efficiency of the job is not affected to any great extent.

Laying Brick Steps

Question: Can you tell me how to lay brick? I want to make some outside steps for a small house.
Answer: It would require too much space to give you this information. But you can get the instructions from the Common Brick Manufacturers association, Cleveland, Ohio. Books on masonry work can be found on the shelves of your public library.

Taking up Linoleum

Question: How can I remove linoleum that has been cemented to the floor?
Answer: Begin by tearing off all the linoleum that can be loosened. The cement holding the remaining pieces can be softened by flooding with water, which will work underneath. Remove the remainder of the linoleum paste and felt, if any, with hot water.

Refrigerator

Question: As we must discontinue the use of our electric refrigerator for a while, can I just turn off the electricity or must I have a serviceman come and close it?
Answer: The refrigerator can be shut down by cutting off the electricity and leaving the refrigerator door open. If the box is to be shut down for a long time, I would advise having a serviceman put it in order.

Creosote Stains

Question: How can I keep the creosote from my chimney from coming through and staining the wallpaper?
Answer: Staining of the wallpaper might be prevented by furring out the chimney wall and finishing it with a gypsum wallboard or lath and plaster. If the creosote condition is very bad, it may be necessary to rebuild the chimney.

Stain Waxes Off

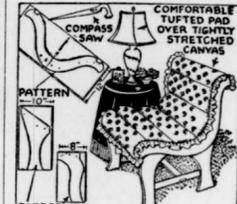

Question: The finish on the rungs and seat edges of my maple dinette chairs is wearing off, and the natural wood shows through. How can I refinish these spots to blend in with the rest of the finish?
Answer: Smooth the exposed wood by rubbing with fine sandpaper; then wipe with benzene, being careful of fire. Finish with a coat of varnish stain of the same color as that of the set. You may have difficulty in matching the finish and it may be necessary to refinish the set.

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

PERHAPS you've made lawn chairs with straight cuts of the handsaw. It is almost as easy to cut curves as to make square cuts but a pattern and a little extra care are necessary for perfect results.

In this design curves add comfort as well as beauty, and a tufted cushion distributes the weight so that springs are not missed so much. The curved pieces are shown at the left. You can see how easy they are to cut out of odds and ends of one-inch lumber that you may have on hand or can get at the nearest lumber dealer. The reinforcing pieces are all square cuts.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared an actual-size pattern for all the curved sections of this chair. Complete dimensions and directions for the chair construction and for making the tufted cushion, with list of materials included. This is pattern 285 and will be sent postpaid for 15 cents. See the romantic interest, David Bartelt, (Bronson) change after he finds he's "in the Army Now." His heart interest is characterized by Mary Bremser, (Letty). You'll laugh with and at Ione Koerbel and James Bartelt as they bring to the stage the roles of "Ma" and "Pa" Robertson. Grandma, too, puts in her appearance; she is Beatrice Vornahl. Another love affair blossoms in the persons of "Raymond" and "Deanne." These roles are played by John Stelldorf and Harriet Stoffel. Others to look for are Marjorie Bartelt as "Dale," Lillian Werner as "Corinna," Adeline Zacho as "Essie" and Allen Tassar as "Prentiss."

ST. KILIAN SCHOOL NEWS

The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades had 100% attendance on Monday, April 17, after one week of Easter vacation.

Two school nurses, Miss Pfeil and Miss Claus, visited our school and examined our children as a health check up. So far we have been fortunate in regard to contagious diseases.

Our school won second prize in the recent safety slogan contest of Fond du Lac county. The slogan submitted was, "Like soldiers in a file, watch your step every mile." We are proud to be winners. Our prize of $30 will go toward worthwhile library books.

At 2:30 Friday, April twenty-first, the children of the "big room" received the sacrament of confirmation. The seventh and eighth grades are busily writing their essays which must be handed in by May first. This essay contest is sponsored by the Knights of Wisconsin.

Sister M. Annette attended a meeting of principals from various schools in the Milwaukee archdiocese. The meeting was held in Milwaukee.

The good ladies of our parish gave our school a thorough cleaning during the Easter holidays. We extend a hearty "thank you" to all who helped.

CPL. WIETOR'S OUTFIT IN ENGLAND COMPOSES SONG

A letter written Easter Sunday was received the past week from T. Cpl. Leo Wietor, son of the Frank Wietors of Wayne, who is in training in England. He writes that the fellows in his outfit are composing a song, "We're Going Home in Forty-Four," and also encloses a clipping from another newspaper about the customs observed in England for Easter. His letter:

4/9/44
Somewhere in England
Dear Friends:
Today being Easter Sunday, a beautiful day out and a day off for me, I thought I'd drop you a few lines and let you know that I am getting along fine and am on the job each day. Most every one in this battalion attended services this morning and the chaplains were quite pleased with the turnout in attendance.

We just had mail call and my buddy, Blankenhorn from Monroe, Wis., opened a package and it contained some good old home-made Badger sausage so we are enjoying Easter as best we can. I receive packages quite regular and when they do come the men in my hut all get in a huddle and we usually share the eats alike.

We have a few song birds in our outfit and we are composing a new song entitled "We're Going Home in Forty-Four." Here are the words:

"We're going home in forty-four, To meet the most familiar shore, Some to the East, some to the West. Each man to the state that he loves best.

We're going home in forty-four, And I regret about the war, There's so many things in store at home.

We're going home in forty-four," Am also sending a clipping of how Easter Eve or Holy Saturday is observed here in England.

I receive the Statesman regular and appreciate it much.

Best wishes to all friends back home and those in the service.

Cheerio,
Friend Leo

PVT. KORTH RECEIVING BASIC TRAINING; WRITES

This office received a letter from Pvt. Gilbert Korth, son of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Korth, who left for army service several weeks ago and is receiving his basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif. Here's his letter, in which he writes that he likes army life:

April 8, 1944

Dear Friends:
I received your paper and enjoyed reading it very much. A person does not think that the home town paper means very much when he is at home but when you get far from home that little home town paper will bring you all the news of town and that's something a guy really enjoys reading.

I sure think the army is all right. I will be stationed here in Camp Roberts for 17 weeks in which I will receive my training. The only thing that I don't think I am going to like is that sun. It really gets hot. But that goes with California. For the past weeks I have been firing the 30 m. rifle and the 30-calibre machine gun. Later we will be firing the 81 m. mortar. And when this Co. A which I am in gets finished with these 17 weeks of basic training we're going over and bring Hitler back to Camp Roberts for his basic training.

A friend,
Gilbert Korth

PVT. KARL HCME, HAS MEDALS

Ralph is a tail gunner in a plane. In a letter to his mother, he asked her to send this office his new address and added that he thinks he will keep this one now until he hits the States again. He writes that he is very well and happy and enjoys working for Uncle Sam but there's little news to write about. That part of his address allowed by the censors for publication

Twenty-five Years Ago

The Kewaskum Advancement association held its annual meeting and elected the following officers: Val. Peters, president; S. C. Wollensak, vice-president; Geo. H. Schmidt, secretary; John Marx, treasurer.

A letter was received by August Vooks, Sr. of the town of Farmington from his son, Pvt. August Vooks, who was badly wounded in France. He mentions that his right arm is broken and that he must write with the left one, also that his folks probably supposed he was dead because he didn't write for so long. Pvt. Vooks arrived back at Camp Grant, Ill. last week after a 13-day ocean trip. He writes that he never expected to see Camp Grant again.

Fred Moll returned home from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., having been mustered out of the army. John A. Roden, who was stationed at Camp Lee, Va., arrived at Camp Grant where he will be mustered out.—St. Michaels correspondent. Pvt. Charles Fleischman returned from Camp Hancock, Ga.—Elinor correspondent. Alfred Firkis returned home from Camp Logan, Tex., having received an honorable discharge.—New Pans correspondent. Ed. Wollensak and community who arrived home after being discharged from the army include Arthur Schleif, Camp Johnson, Ga.; Allen Breseman, Camp Hancock, Ga.; Cpl. Alfred Ramthun, Camp Hancock, Ga.; Frank Peck, Camp Green, N. C.

Nell Wollensak left for Esgood, Colo. to visit some time with his uncle, Andrew Wollensak, and wife, who own a large ranch there.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO

(1918)

Word was received here that our boys stationed at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Tex., had moved to somewhere in the United States on their way to France.

Chas. E. Krahn left for his southern trip and expects to be gone two or three months. Florida is his destination.

Among the postmasters re-appointed by the President in Wisconsin is Geo. H. Schmidt, Kewaskum.

Cpl. Edwin Backus, 119th Machine Gun Co., Waco, Tex., who was quite seriously ill with pneumonia, is getting along nicely. Fred Schaefer, Jr., who is in the cavalry at the same camp, was hurt recently by his horse falling upon him.

Kewaskum's first fuelless Monday was observed recently with utmost patriotism. Each place of business except the meat markets, bakery and banks were closed all day. The meat markets and bakery were open in the morning only. Our little city resembled a place devoid of population. The people now have four days a week to conserve products, namely Monday, fuelless; Tuesday, meatless; Wednesday, wheatless; Saturday, porkless.

MODERN HEALTH TALKS

By ROBERT G. ROBERTS, D. C., West Bend, Wis.

Questions about your health will be answered in this department. Address your inquiry to this newspaper.

SPRING COLDS

Many people are troubled with spring coughs or colds which persist for several weeks. Children often acquire these respiratory ailments and parents are quite concerned about them. As a result, the children are dosed with cough medicines, nose drops, chest rubs, etc., but the cough or cold "hangs on." Many of these products only increase congestion and are definitely harmful to young children.

Unless these infections are cured, they spread easily, due to the continuous mucous lining of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. They are troublesome ailments and often result in more serious diseases.

An effective cure for acute and chronic ailments of this type is Chiropractic manipulation and physiotherapy. By these methods, the lymph glands of the head, neck, and the tonsils can be drained of their excessive poisonous wastes. A better blood supply is established so that the mucous membranes are better able to cope with the infection. The nerve supply to the affected area is corrected to bring about better tissue tone and create faster healing. Better body elimination is promoted so that the body may be cleaned of its excessive wastes.

These simple aids constitute the most sensible, natural method of curing prolonged coughs and colds.

Yours for better health,
