

Kewaskum First Village in State to Top Quota in Sixth War Loan; Also Leads County

Village Quota Already Oversubscribed Wednesday, Five Days Before Drive Begins; Goal of $35,175 Exceeded by $5,000; Drive Off to Fast Start in County

EXTRA!

Thursday's Milwaukee Journal reported Kewaskum as the first village in the state to top its quota in the sixth war loan drive, according to Walter Kasten of the state war finance committee. Although the drive does not begin until Monday, Nov. 20, Village Chairman Lehman Rosenheimer and the local minute men met in Monday evening, started soliciting Tuesday and surpassed the quota Wednesday. Chairman Rosenheimer said $40,000 in bonds had already been sold Wednesday, nearly $5,000 over the quota of $35,175, with the drive continuing. A phone call from Harold O. Leiser, county war finance committee chairman, Thursday morning to this office informed us of Kewaskum's record. Thursday first is getting to be a custom with Kewaskum. Three weeks ago the village was one of the first in the county to exceed its war fund quota and this by 50%, last week it was first in the state and county with election returns, and now the bond drive. Kewaskum stands behind its boys in the service 100%.

From house to house and farm to farm the minute man organization of Washington county is underway in the sixth war loan drive. At this time it is too early to give any results but from all early indications received, the sixth war loan drive is getting underway with more enthusiasm than in any other drive.

All of the minute men met in their own community on Monday night of this week and received their instructions and material for the sixth war loan drive. These meetings were enthusiastically attended by practically all of the minute men in the organization. The attendance was really wonderful when one considers that there are 600 men and women who serve as minute men on Washington County War Finance committee in their own respective local communities. At each of these meetings, the chairmen of the various communities stressed the fact that it was the object of the Washington County War Finance committee to put Washington county over the top before Nov. 20. Speed is the key word in this drive.

Washington county's quota in the sixth war loan drive for individuals is $1,050,000. This is virtually the same that it was in the fifth war loan drive when Washington county went several hundred thousand dollars over the top. The corporate quota of $367,000.00 was without question of doubt expected to be oversubscribed before Friday night of this week. The banking committee has charge of this solicitation in which corporations, municipalities, societies, etc. are contacted. This drive is under the direct charge of Louis Kuehntau, chairman of the banking division.

Remember, that all bonds bought during the months of November and December will count as sales made during the sixth war loan drive. In view of this, it is the subscription that your minute man is looking for.

WHAT GERMANS BELIEVE

American citizens coming from Germany in the return of the exchange ship Gripsholm told some amusing tales of how German people are led to believe that this country is slowly starving to death. The Germans know from bitter experience that a nation, like an army, fights on its stomach. Picturing the United States as a hunger-weakened opponent, it is propaganda that is easy to believe by a people who have lived with starvation.

All of which brings to mind the story about how Hitler was given information by his secret agents that America was starving. The agent reported that Americans were so concerned about food that when one American meets another on the street he asks "what's cooking?"

W. Kuert, Forest Lake Resort Owner is Dead

William Arnold Kuert, 65, widely known owner and manager of Forest Lake resort near Kewaskum since 1921 and a Spanish-American war veteran, died at his home there at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, Nov. 11. He had been suffering with dropsy and heart trouble the past year and a half.

Mr. Kuert was born Feb. 24, 1879 at Kenton, Ohio, and moved to Chicago in 1911, the same year in which his first wife, nee Rachel Forth, preceded him in death. On Oct. 14, 1914, Mr. Kuert was married in Chicago to Miss Louise Brinkman, who survives. From 1916 to 1921 Mr. and Mrs. Kuert came to Forest Lake northeast of Kewaskum each year for their vacation. They liked it there so well that in 1921 they purchased the lake resort. Before coming to Forest Lake Mr. Kuert was employed with a concern of manufacturers and jobbers of dry goods and general furnishings in Chicago.

During the time Mr. Kuert was proprietor of Forest Lake resort he made many improvements, enlarging the resort and making it more convenient and comfortable for his patrons. Many people from Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities spend their annual vacations and week ends at Kuert's resort, where fishing, bathing, swimming, skating, skiing, tobogganing, dancing and various indoor and outdoor games are available. When a young man Mr. Kuert attended the U. S. Military academy at West Point, N. Y. by special appointment of President William McKinley. He served as quartermaster in the U. S. army during the Spanish-American war.

Besides his widow, deceased is survived by a son by his first marriage, namely Wm. Forth Kuert of Las Vegas, Nev.; two grandchildren and two brothers, Charles C. Kuert and Ira J. Kuert, both of Los Angeles, Calif.

The body lay in state at the Miller funeral home here from 2 p. m. Sunday until 9:30 a. m. on Monday, following which it was taken to the H. Mueller funeral home in Chicago where funeral services were conducted on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial took place at Elmwood cemetery in Chicago.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all my neighbors, friends and relatives who helped me in any way during the time of illness and after the death of my dear husband, Wm. Kuert. I am especially thankful for the beautiful floral pieces, to all who showed their respect by calling at the funeral home and to Miller's funeral home.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Adopted Babies

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Be grateful to God that you can take an unfortunate child or two into your home, and give a small waif whose life might otherwise be blighted a better chance.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

TROUBLES take all sorts of forms in this strange mixed-up world of ours; three-fourths of the wives of the world are in constant apprehension of having children too fast. The other twenty-five per cent is even more miserable because the babies won't come.

Barbara White is in the latter category; her tragic letter lies before me as I write.

"Benay and I have been married 11 years. After five years, with no hint of a baby coming, I persuaded him to agree to adoption. We both had hoped for children, we had every other blessing life can supply, in health, friends, fortune, devotion to each other, but our hearts ached for one more.

"Six years ago we adopted a delicate, unwanted baby, six weeks old. Under my love and care she grew to be an exquisite little creature whose charm made even strangers in the street notice her. When Barbara was two we adopted a little sister for her, Sonia, dark-eyed and vivacious, a lovely contrast to the older girl. For two years Ben and I revelled in happy parenthood, then came the blow. Barbara's mother had married again, was prosperous, wanted her child back. Our state adoption law, stupidly enough, insists that the real mother shall know who has her child, and Barbara's mother came straight to us, and we gave her up.

"Parting with her had all the bitterness of death, especially as the real mother is a careless, selfish type wholly unfit for the care of a sensitive, precocious child. I have not seen Barbara since, though I loved her as I believe few mothers love their own children.

"We then applied for another child, a long slow process, for children available for adoption are few. Finally we were promised one, boy or girl, we did not care, nor did we know, for this baby was unborn. The unmarried mother, 18, had come a long way from home to have her baby in secret, and had determined never to look upon its little face nor know who took it.

"One whole burning summer day I waited at the hospital for my child—and when it came the young mother drew it to her heart and said with tears that she never would part with it, cost the telling of her secret what it might. Seeing my disappointment the hospital authorities promised me another baby, soon to be born. But here again the mother, another young girl, refused me, and I came home empty-armed.

"That was a year ago. Once since then I made an attempt to find a child. A friend in another city told me of a poor woman who already has five small children, who is obliged to accept charity, and who dreaded the burden of another, as it means the sacrifice of a good job. But she merely laughed at the idea of adoption and said that somehow she could manage to care for another child.

"The effect of this on me has been very bad. I have everything now that I ever had, including a beautiful girl of four. But to know myself sterile and to be obliged to beg

RESENTFUL

Childless women generally yearn for children. Barbara is such a one. She has a fine home and a loving husband. Six years ago they adopted a baby girl, Babsie, who satisfied Barbara's maternal desires for a time. Then she wanted another. They obtained little Sonia, who was also very lovable. With two children Barbara's heart was filled.

After two years, however, Babsie's mother demanded her child, and Barbara reluctantly gave her up. Ever since Barbara has been trying to get another unwanted baby. Several times she has come close, but each time the mother changed her mind.

The unsuccessful quest is affecting Barbara's whole outlook. She is envious and resentful of women who achieve motherhood, although they are obviously ill-fitted and often undesired. So bitter is she becoming that she falls into fits of despondency. She is asking Miss Norris for advice in this personal crisis.

of these luckier women the priceless joy of motherhood has roused in me so deep a resentment, so painful a sense of the injustice of life that I am becoming unbalanced;—not that, really, but given to fits of despondency I cannot seem to break. For the sake of a wonderful husband and a lovely child I ask your help."

That help must come from within, Barbara, only you can cure yourself. But I am sure that a wider look at the situation will help you to philosophy—or rather to simple common sense. The world is in a bad way, it will take millions of capable and warmhearted women like yourself to cure it. Countless women have been roughly separated from their children; countless others suffer the agony of seeing those children bewildered, hungry, homeless. Mothers are working in men's jobs, homes are broken by divorce, the sum of juvenile delinquency has reached unprecedented heights.

True, many women who bear children constantly are totally unfit for motherhood, and many children living in underprivileged homes are less fortunate than those you might adopt. But take a wide, far look at the situation, and be grateful to God that you can take an unfortunate child or two into your home, and give a small waif whose life might otherwise be blighted a better chance. Forget your own humiliation in having humbly to beg for children from women far inferior to yourself, remember only that you can give joy and safety, love and care to the helpless creatures who so need it. Whether the woman who actually bears a child does that child a favor is a disputed question. But there is no question of the benefit bestowed upon some forlorn little derelict by a woman who, like yourself, can give it a safe and sheltered childhood.

An Adequate Lunch Needed
One big meal at night won't make up for a scanty breakfast or lunch served to the school child or the factory worker, says May E. Foley, extension nutritionist at the Massachusetts State college. Lunch should provide a full third of the day's nutritional needs. It should consist of a fruit or vegetable, a hearty food such as eggs or cheese, whole grain or enriched bread, something sweet, and milk. When a thermos bottle is used, hot soup or chocolate can be included.

Be "Traded In" Are Foreseen
One-third of the cost of a $5,000 home is in mechanical equipment, plumbing, heating, refrigeration, wiring and appliances, all of which become obsolete in 10 to 15 years; thus if a home is one-third obsolete it becomes economic to trade rather than rescue it, he contended. Pointing out the practice of trading cars before they wear out, he predicted that salvage on a home would in most cases exceed the down payment on a new one.

THAT THIRTEEN-CENT STAMP
Special delivery stamps jumped from a dime to thirteen cents November 1st. And you can't even get two for a quarter.

It is getting so that for what it costs to mail a letter a fellow can almost deliver it himself.

Why the increase in the price of special delivery stamps? Have they changed the size again? No. Are they turning it out in more colors or shapes? No. Do you get a chance on a turkey or something with it. Nope!

And why the thirteen cents? Why not fourteen? Or twelve? What is there about the economic situation that fixes the autumn rate for specials at exactly thirteen cents, no more, no less, retail and wholesale?

Elmer Twitchell has been making inquiries. He says he has been told that it is the art work on the stamp. It shows a nice brick building with a lady in a doorway taking a letter from a mailman. In the foreground stands his motorcycle. "The motorcycle has been standing there in that engraving so long it is all rusted up and they've got to get a new one," said Elmer. "And that takes time, influence and money. Also it's out of gas."

"The old gal getting the letter is dressed in the garments of the McKinley era," he continued. "When people pay ten cents for a postage stamp they want something classy. Well, Washington is going to put a glamour girl in the doorway, and glamour girls are up 80 per cent since the war."

"If you look at the old stamp closely you will notice that the guy with the letter is standing with one foot on the street and one foot on the doorstep. He's been standing that way for years, ever since away back before Coolidge. So what? So he's got a stiff leg and they've got to treat it, and all the doctors are in the war so they've got to treat it through politicians. You know what that costs."

"Then you'll observe that the lady in the doorway has the door almost wide open. And it's been that way for decades. With the fuel situation what it is, Secretary Ickes wouldn't stand for that. He ordered the door closed!"

"Did you ever try to close a door on a postage stamp? It's no cinch. It means a new house, a new doorway, a new door, a new woman, a new mailman and a new motorcycle."

"You can't change the house on account of priorities. A new door has to be processed. No new women are issued without fifty forms, questionnaires, applications, etc. A lot of mailmen were washed away in the last hurricane, and then there's less by erosion. And they ration motorcycles."

"Thirteen cents for a new stamp! Why it's dirt cheap," concluded Elmer.

THAT EXTRA PAIR OF PANTS
WPB is reported about to modify the limitations on men's suits. Since Pearl Harbor the extra pair of pants, the trouser cuffs, patch pockets and belts have been against the rules.

Pants have gone to war, it has steadfastly held.

Only if you knew a bootlegger in the pants business could you get a spare pair.

When the original pair disintegrated or got caught on a nail you could bring it in and argue the tailor into cutting another set, if he had the material, a good kindly nature and no fear of inurement, as a scuttler of the war effort.

Pants for victory! That was the slogan.

With such others as "Spare the trousers and help win the war!" "Your pants can ruin Hitler," "Be a one-pair-of-pants man and preserve democracy!" and "Let your pants go all-out for civilization!"

Be that as it may some modification of WPB rules are ahead. It is reported unsold on the claim that a man is a more useful citizen with an extra pair of pants—that his morale is better—that a spare pair constitutes the Fifth Freedom.

Then there was the slogan against belt-in-the-back-of-the-coat. "One less belt in the back will give Hitler one more belt in the front."

We got a laugh out of the statement: "The clothing manufacturers are against a return to an extra pair of pants." Why wouldn't they be? They sell suits more often when the consumer has no "reserves." Belts? Let 'em go! Cuffs? Away with them until the global triumph comes! Vests with double-breasted coats? Who cares in an all-out war!

Elmer Twitchell says that all the war criminals will not have been punished until the list takes in the people who designed this season's women's hats.

The blow will be easier for the sandriots to stand in addition to its stand against two pants OPA declares itself against two coats.

Marshal Rommel is dead. It is reported that even the doctors and nurses had trouble catching up with him.

Ernie Pyle's Slant on the War:

History's Greatest Armada Landed on Normandy Coast

Nazi Pillboxes Wreck Tank But Crew Wanted to Return

By Ernie Pyle

(Editor's Note): Pyle retells some of his experiences while he was with the Doughboys during the French campaign. He is now taking a long-needed rest in New Mexico.

NORMANDY BEACHHEAD, D DAY PLUS TWO.—I took a walk along the historic coast of Normandy in the country of France. It was a lovely day for strolling along the seashore. Men were sleeping on the sand, some of them sleeping forever. Men were floating in the water, but they didn't know they were in the water, for they were dead.

The water was full of squishy little jellyfish about the size of your hand. Millions of them. In the center each of them had a green design exactly like a four-leaf clover. The good-luck emblem. Sure. Hell, yes.

Ernie Pyle

I walked for a mile and a half along the water's edge of our many miled invasion beach. You wanted to walk slowly, for the detail on that beach was infinite.

The wreckage was vast and startling. The awful waste and destruction of war, even aside from the loss of human life, has always been one of its outstanding features to those who are in it. Anything and everything is expendable. And we did depend on our beachhead in Normandy during those first few hours.

For a mile out from the beach there were scores of tanks and trucks and boats that you could no longer see, for they were at the bottom of the water—swamped by overloading, or hit by shells, or sunk by mines. Most of their crews were lost.

You could see trucks tipped half over and swamped. You could see partly sunken barges, and the angled-up corners of jeeps, and small landing craft half submerged. And at low tide you could still see those vicious six-pronged iron snare traps that helped snag and wreck them.

On the beach itself, high and dry, were all kinds of wrecked vehicles. There were tanks that had only just made the beach before being knocked out. There were jeeps that had burned to a dull gray. There were big derricks on caterpillar treads that didn't quite make it. There were half-tracks carrying of face equipment that had been made into shambles by a single shell hit, their interiors still holding their useless equipment of smashed typewriters, telephones, office files.

There were LCT's turned completely upside down, and lying on their backs, and how they got that way I don't know. There were boats stacked on top of each other, their sides caved in, their suspension doors knocked off.

In this shoreline museum of carnage there were abandoned rolls of barbed wire and smashed bulldozers and big stacks of thrown-away lifebelts and piles of shells still waiting to be moved.

In the water floated empty life rafts and soldiers' packs and ration boxes, and mysterious oranges.

On the beach lay snarled rolls of telephone wire and big rolls of steel matting and stacks of broken, rusting rifles.

On the beach lay, expended, sufficient men and mechanism for a small war. They were gone forever now. And yet we could afford it.

We could afford it because we were on our toehold, and behind us there were such enormous replacements for this wreckage on the beach that you could hardly conceive of their sum total. Men and equipment were flowing from England in such a gigantic stream that it made the waste on the beachhead seem like nothing at all, really nothing at all.

A few hundred yards back on the beach is a high bluff. Up there was a tent hospital, and a barbed-wire enclosure for prisoners of war. From up there you could see far and down the beach, in a spectacular crow's-nest view, and far out to sea.

And standing out there on the water beyond all this wreckage was the greatest armada man has ever seen. You simply could not believe the gigantic collection of ships that lay out there waiting to unload.

Looking from the bluff, it lay thick and clear to the far horizon of the sea and on beyond, and it spread out to the sides and was miles wide. Its utter enormity would move the hardest man.

As I stood up there I noticed a group of freshly taken German prisoners standing nearby. They had not yet been put in the prison cage. They were just standing there, a couple of doughboys leisurely guarding them with Tommy guns.

The prisoners too were looking out to sea—the same bit of sea that for months and years had been so safely empty before their gaze.

They didn't say a word to each other. They didn't need to. The expression on their faces was something forever unforgettable. In it was the final horrid acceptance of their doom. If only all Germany could have had the rich experience of standing on the bluff and looking out across the water and seeing what their compatriots saw.

The hospital was in our hands, but just barely. On up the street a block there seemed to be fighting. I say seemed to be, because actually you can't always tell. Street fighting is just as confusing as field fighting.

One side will bang away for a while, then the other side. Between these sallies there are long lulls, with only stray and isolated shots. Just an occasional soldier is sneaking about, and you don't see anything of the enemy at all. You can't tell half the time just what the situation is, and neither can the soldiers.

About a block beyond the hospital entrance two American tanks were sitting in the middle of the street, one about 50 yards ahead of the other. I walked toward them. Our infantrymen were in doorways along the street.

I got within about 50 feet of our front tank when it let go its 75-millimeter gun. The blast was terrific there in the narrow street. Glass came tinkling down from nearby windows, smoke puffed around the tank, and the empty street was shaking and trembling with the concussion.

As the tank continued to shoot I ducked into a doorway, because I figured the Germans would shoot back. Inside the doorway there was a sort of street-level cellar, dirt-floored. Apparently there was a wine shop above, for the cellar was stacked with wire crates for holding wine bottles on their sides. There were lots of bottles, but they were all empty.

I went back to the doorway and stood peering out at the tank. It started backing up. Then suddenly a yellow flame pierced the bottom of the tank and there was a crash of such intensity that I automatically blinked my eyes. The tank, hardly 50 feet from where I was standing, had been hit by an enemy shell.

A second shot ripped the pavement at the side of the tank. There was smoke all around, but the tank didn't catch fire. In a moment the crew came boiling out of the turret.

Grim as it was, I almost had to laugh as they ran toward us. I have never seen men run so violently. They ran all over, with arms and heads going up and down and with marathon-race grimaces. They plunged into my doorway.

I spent the next excited hour with them. We changed to another doorway and sat on boxes in the empty hallway. The floor and steps were thick with blood where a soldier had been treated within the hour. What had happened to the tank was this: They had been firing away at a pillbox ahead when their 75 backedfire, filling the tank with smoke and blinding them.

Also, they had come out wearing their leather crash helmets. Their steel helmets were still inside the tank, and so were their rifles.

"We'll be a lot of good without helmets or rifles!" one of them said. The crew consisted of Corp. Martin Kennelly of Chicago, the tank commander; Sgt. L. Wortham, Leeds, Ala., driver; Pvt. Ralph Ogren of Minneapolis, assistant driver; Corp. Albin Stoops, Marshalltown, Del., gunner, and Pvt. Charles Rains of Kansas City, the loader. Private Rains was the oldest of the bunch.

Moveable Houses That Can Be "Traded In" Are Foreseen
Homes traded in like cars and resold in "used house markets" will open thousands of postwar jobs in all industries, it was predicted recently by J. Gordon Lippincott, noted industrial designer.

This postwar house, already in the blue print stage, is designed to be traded in as we trade our cars today. Attic and basement are eliminated to make moving easy and the demand in the used house market will make resales tremendous.

With Our Men and Women in Service

AWARD TECH. SGT. KOHLER BRONZE STAR IN ENGLAND FOR OUTSTANDING SERVICES

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, ENGLAND—Tech. Sgt. Earl J. Kohler, 39, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Kohler of this village, above receives the bronze star from Brig.-Gen. Edward Anderson for "meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services from 5 March, 1944, to 10 July, 1944."

Sgt. Kohler is machine shop chief at this P-51 Mustang fighter base in England. He services the planes in the famous fighter group commanded by Col. Don Blakesteer of Fairport Harbor, Ohio.

Prior to entering the army Jan. 5, 1942, the Kewaskum soldier was a tool and die worker with the Gell Bros. Manufacturing Co. at West Bend. He has served with the AAF in England since January, 1943.

RED ARROW VET HOME AFTER 31 MONTHS OVERSEAS DUTY; WOUNDED ONCE, HAD MALARIA IN 3 NEW GUINEA CAMPAIGNS; WEARS MANY DECORATIONS

Cpl. T. Alfonso J. Schladweiler son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schladweiler of Route 1, Kewaskum, a member of the famed 32nd or Red Arrow division, is back home after 31 months of action overseas in the South Pacific area against the Japs. Cpl. Schladweiler took part in three major campaigns in New Guinea, the first one of which was with the first troops to land on the island. During those campaigns he was wounded once by a shrapnel which struck him in back of his right ear and was hospitalized four times with malaria. Al dropped in at the Statesman office on Wednesday afternoon and very graciously answered our questions. He has been in service more than 3 1/2 years. He entered the army on March 21, 1941, and just exactly one year later, on March 21, 1942, and almost to the hour, he was aboard a ship bound under the Golden Gate bridge, sailing for the far Pacific. He landed in southeast Australia and later moved to the northern part of Australia where he spent five months. Following this he was sent to New Guinea where he took part in the first campaign for three months. He returned to Australia for about three months of rest and then made another landing in New Guinea. He stayed there fighting along eastern and northeastern New Guinea until the time he left his outfit in British New Guinea to return home. Cpl. Schladweiler spent long months in the fox holes of the island and saw more than his share of hot action. Al was with the 32nd Division, 177th Infantry, the same division in which Gen. Douglas MacArthur was in World War I, composed of Wisconsin and Michigan men while waiting for his ship back home at the base in New Guinea. Cpl. Schladweiler says he met John Thull of Kewaskum, who asked him to say hello to all his friends back home. Aboard the same ship coming back to the States was Sgt. Tech. Paul Hron, son of the Frank Hrons of West Bend, and Pfc. Lester Lenz, son of Mrs. John Lenz of West Bend. The latter are also members of the 32nd division with an equal number of months of overseas duty behind them in New Guinea and Australia. Pfc. Lenz reported that in Australia he met several boys from the community, including Myron Belzer of Kewaskum. Schladweiler's ship left New Guinea on Oct. 15 and was at sea just 15 days before docking at San Francisco, Calif. on Nov. 1. He left Camp Stoneman, Calif., Nov. 3 and arrived at Fort Sheridan, Ill. on the 8th. He arrived back in Kewaskum the same day to spend a 21-day delay enroute, after which he will report to the army's redistribution center at Hot Springs, Ark. for two weeks of rest camp and reassignment. Al wears many decorations, including the pre-Pearl Harbor and Southwest Pacific theater ribbons containing three bronze stars designating participation in three major campaigns in New Guinea, namely the Papuan, British and Dutch campaigns. He also wears the good conduct ribbon, a presidential regimental citation for taking part in the first campaign in New Guinea, and the combat infantry medal. On his lower left sleeve he wears five overseas stripes, one for every six months overseas, and one harsh mark which is awarded for every three years in service. Al says he is happy to be home but regretted very much to leave his buddies in New Guinea. He adds that Kewaskum never looked better. Col. Schladweiler will be married to Miss Ruth Reysen Tuesday.

On Sunday his wife, Mrs. Adelyne Kuehl, went to Hines to visit her husband. Pfc. Kuehl will arrive here again Sunday to spend a 15-day furlough with his wife and child and his parents, the Albert Kuehls near St. Kilian.

In a letter to his folks, Mr. and Mrs. John Marx, Lieut. (j. g.) Sylvester Marx of New York City, N. Y. writes that he has been promoted to lieutenant, a rank equal to that of a captain in the army. Lieut. Marx is doing navy work at the Ford Armament plant in Brooklyn. His wife resides in Milwaukee.

This Thanksgiving Season, perhaps more than any other, should be a time for giving thanks to a kind Providence for the good things that have come to us.

There's much for which to be thankful. Our industries have met the challenge of war. With fortitude and skill workers have labored long hours, producing all of the things needed to wage victorious battle. Our farmers have toiled to produce larger and ever larger yields. A "salvo" to them, and their Victory Garden "cousins," for the miracles they have performed in feeding a nation and its fighters. Our railroad workers continue their untiring, round-the-clock effort. On them has fallen the responsibility of moving millions of uniformed men, equipment and supplies. Their accomplishments have amazed a nation. Our armed forces are pushing forward in every theatre of war—forward to the complete collapse of the Axis powers—forward, ever forward, to the day when every uniformed American will be home again. To them, our undying gratitude!

Yes, there is a "break in the clouds of war"—an ever-widening break. Final Victory is coming, and here at "North Western" we are thankful for the privilege that is ours to play a part in the swift-moving drama.

A BOY DIED LAST NIGHT...

A BOY died last night. It doesn't make much difference now about his name. It might have been your son, your brother, your husband. The important thing is that he died. In poison and awful loneliness out somewhere on a waste of sand, out in a starless silence, 10,000 miles from home.

"Missing in action" read an obscure line in this morning's newspaper. That was all. Now he lies there, a cramped, twisted mass of flesh, that yesterday was his body. The line head and the shining face and the broad shoulders remain only in a picture that looks out upon a quiet living-room on a shaded street an eternity away.

Last night, in those agonizing hours of unspeakable isolation, he went through a thousand deaths without the one thing that might have helped a little—the sound of a familiar voice, the pat of a friendly hand. Men die last night in their beds at home, surrounded by those who care. Last night he died in utter desolation in an unimaginable loneliness.

The pain was terrible enough. But then there had to be that dreadful burden of thought in those endless last hours. Mom and Pop. The Brown blooming again in the backyard. The good old roadside in the driveway. That last sweetheart kiss at the station. Those dances last summer. That ball-dance / later in his blouse. All those plans for the future. Couldn't somebody find him, please? The wrenching pain again.

Too much for you, all this? But it really happened last night, just like that. It's going to happen a thousand times—ten thousand times, and perhaps a million times in the nights to come. If people could only understand it. If they would just grind deep into their thinking the stark, terrible reality of it, every petty, selfish interest would be swept away. They would sacrifice anything and everything just to make themselves worthy of that boy.

He died last night, you see. There's no way to get around that.

We All Have Much To Be THANKFUL FOR

Nearly every family has felt the tragic hand of War in one way or another. But we all have much to be thankful for despite widespread worry and suspense over the well-being of loved ones still in the armed services far from home.
The War is going well. Final victory for the forces of Freedom is certain. This great land of ours has been spared the ravages of occupation or bombing.
Let's return thanks on Thanksgiving Day for the many blessings we are still able to enjoy in a world gone mad with global conflict.

EUROPE:

Budapest Imperilled

Once, like Paris, a center of European gaiety with colorful sidewalk cafes enlivened by gypsy music, Budapest became a fevered and somber city as Russian armies hammered toward the Hungarian capital.

Having broken across the Tisza river, some 50 miles to the east, the Reds bore down on Budapest as German and Hungarian armies were hard pressed to hold broad lines across the country's rolling plains, gateway to Austria.

'Sacred Soil'

As the Germans and Hungarians dug in for a stand about Budapest, the Nazis fought fiercely on the East Prussian front to slow up the Russian advance across the "sacred soil" of this historic home of the Junkers.

As the Germans braced in East Prussia along prepared lines some 20 miles into the border, the Russians, following their traditional military policy, shifted the weight

To prevent enemy agents from obtaining vital military information through contact with U. S. troops, the army is rigidly enforcing stiff regulations against doughboys mixing with German citizens.

Troops may not make any social calls at German homes. They may not contact German girls. Because of service by German bartenders, they may not buy beer outside of mess bars.

Talking with German people is an "unnecessary contact" the army has ruled, bringing fines of from $25 to $65.

of their attacks northward toward a narrow belt of Baltic seacoast at Latvia, where some 100,000 Nazis were reported cut off from the remainder of the enemy line in the east.

Gain Port

Formerly forced to truck supplies overland 400 miles from Cherbourg, or from temporary beach harbors along the channel coast, the Allies materially improved their communication lines by gaining full control of the great Belgian port of Antwerp.

Control was gained when Canadian and British troops cleared the Germans from both sides of the Scheldt river leading inland to the port. As the Allied attack developed, the Nazis pulled out the major bulk of their 40,000 troops to prevent being encircled from the rear.

As the Allies moved to improve communications, the U. S. First army resumed its offensive about Aachen, driving through the once picturesque, now splintered, fir, pine and silver birch Hürtgen forest on the road to the vital industrial Rhineland.

Shoes Will Be Brighter Next Spring

Although civilian shoe production will not return to normal till after the war, retailers will feature brighter lines next spring, surveys of the national shoe fair in Chicago revealed.

There will be an airier style, too, with women's shoes open at the toes and heels, and "casuals" for comfort wear coming into greater prominence in line with prewar trends.

NEWS BRIEFS . . .

Outside of Europe the world's total production of food in 1943-44, measured in calories of farm output, is about the highest in history. But the increase since the war began probably does not exceed the estimated increase in the world's population. In North America the farm production of food in 1942-43 was about 30 per cent above the prewar level, and still higher (about 40 per cent) in 1943-44. In South America farm production of food in the 1942-

POSTWAR AIR:

World Traffic

Representatives from Allied and neutral nations met in Chicago for the international civil aviation conference, principal question arising was in what way could countries best cooperate in the development of extensive postwar traffic.

At the opening session, three methods were proposed. The U. S. suggestion advocated a free development between friendly and progressive states, with an international body which would merely consult and advise on allocation of air routes, rate fixing and regulation of competition.

On the other hand, the British called for the regulation of postwar air traffic through a strong international authority, which, like the U. S. civil aeronautics authority, would assign routes and have a voice in rate making.

Australia and New Zealand presented the extremist view of pooling all aerial resources into an international operating company.

WAR PRODUCTION:

V-E Cutbacks

One-third of all war contracts will be terminated within three months after the defeat of Germany, a War Production board official announced, with speedy settlements with manufacturers assuring smoother reconversion.

To date, the government has let $25 billion dollars in war contracts, it was revealed, with completions totaling 240 billion dollars. After cancellations, about 65 billion dollars of contracts are now outstanding, one-third, or about 20 billion dollars worth, of which would be terminated on V-E day.

Of 37,000 contracts valued at 9 billion dollars cancelled thus far, 28,000 have been settled for 340 million dollars, WPB said.

V-E Shipping

Germany's defeat will not lessen the demand for the U. S. merchant marine, the Office of War Information reported, with military and reconstruction traffic continuing to flow from the continent, and more shipping needed to transport increased forces and supplies over vast distances in the Pacific.

Presently engaged for the European conflict, it was said, and eastern ports will be used to relieve some of the tremendous traffic that will be imposed on those in the west.

Previously, OWI revealed, no less than 5,000,000 tons of shipping are being used just to transport supplies from overseas bases to fighting fronts.

Unusual Quads

In the first case of its kind known in medical history, 30-year-old Mrs. Kathleen Hatcher Cirminello of Philadelphia, Pa., gave birth to quadruplets in two minutes in a cesarean operation.

With her back being pressed closer and closer to the wall, Japan's Premier Koiso called for greater war production, declaring that many troops had died for lack of munitions. Almost as Koiso spoke, the enemy reported B-29s reconnoitering over Tokyo.

CATTLE:

Record Marketing

With more than 40 per cent of federally inspected beef, veal, pork and lamb going to the government, supplies of better grades of meat remained in scarcity last month despite record-breaking marketing of cattle.

Shipments of cattle were 37 per cent greater than for the 10-year average for October, and receipts of calves were 71 per cent greater. Although showing a substantial increase over September, marketings of hogs and sheep were lower than in October of 1943.

Hog Prices

After an unsettled market had lopped 75 million dollars off of the value of the nation's hog crop, higher bids by packers stemmed the downward spiral of prices. The packers' action followed War Food administration hints that the government would cut subsidy payments, amounting to $1.30 per hundredweight, if average prices for good and choice hogs and barrows were allowed to drop below a $13.50 per hundredweight average. Lower grade hogs, however, would not be included.

As marketings increased during the first week of November, packers became more choosy in the purchase of hogs, declaring that during the periods of lower receipts they were compelled to pay ceiling prices for many shipments just to keep their plants busy.

CASUALTIES:

Total 487,692 With the army suffering the bulk of the losses, U. S. battle casualties on the far-flung fronts totaled 487,692. Army casualties reached 229,121, of which 80,666 were killed, 117,212 wounded, 53,622 missing and 53,621 made prisoners. After more than a year of bitter fighting in Italy, where Allied forces pressed their offensive against strong Nazi fortifications, U. S. losses were estimated at 90,000. Latest navy compilations placed casualties at 70,571, of which 28,231 were killed, 29,441 wounded, 9,421 missing and 4,478 made prisoner.

STAR STATE

Texas led all states in mineral production in 1943 and was the only state producing minerals valued in excess of a billion dollars in that year, the bureau of mines, department of the interior, revealed. With its mineral output valued at $1,116,055,000 last year, the Lone Star State ranked for the ninth consecutive year its rank of first in the United States in the value of such products. The total represents 16.97 per cent of the national mineral production value.

Election Result:

FDR Victory As Dems Gain In Congress

Sweeping into office many senators, representatives and governors, favorable to President Roosevelt's foreign policy, the Democrat's presidential and vice presidential candidates received a total of 413 electoral votes, or 36 less than received in 1940.

While President Roosevelt's vote was less than in 1940, he will have with him a far more friendly congress than has been true for several years.

GAIN GOVERNORSHIPS

Unless late servicemen votes change the picture, which is not considered likely, the Democrats will have a total of 25 governors to 23 for the Republicans, as against the previous lineup of 26 Republicans and 22 Democrats. Republican executives were defeated in Ohio, Massachusetts, Missouri, Idaho and Washington. The Republicans captured the governorship in Indiana and North Dakota from the Democrats. It is possible that the 15,000 servicemen votes in Utah may change the present lineup.

COUNT SOLDIERS' VOTE

As only a few of the states are tabulating the service vote separately, it is impossible to determine their actual vote. Many of these votes will not be counted for some days, some as late as December 3. Partial returns from a few areas, all from states won by the Democrats, gives President Roosevelt 74 per cent of the votes. These are states which are tallying presidential soldier ballots separately and would not necessarily indicate the trend of voting for the nation as a whole.

Washington Digest Robot Gives World Taste Of The War of Tomorrow

Destructive Power of New Weapon May Be Turned Against Both Armies and Civilians in Future Conflicts.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

By the time this reaches print, the true story of the robot and the whole story, including the last chapter, will be revealed. Perhaps it will be withheld until Germany is on her knees and the heavy censorship which has descended over the last, desperate blows of the cornered animal can be lifted.

The part of the story which is now being revealed is that of a menace which dropped to a low in August of this year, when only 4 out of 101 bombs aimed at London reached their destination, began to rise again after that until, at this writing, V-1s are falling on the British capital and vicinity three times a week.

What is more, only the V-1s are being mentioned. Although the V-2, a rocket much larger than the V-1, was described by a while, and a more mysterious V-3 was mentioned some time ago, today no word is spoken of either. What is mentioned is that war damages are being repaired in London by some 132,000 laborers. This total is 40 per cent of Britain's total building personnel. Only 40,000 men were employed for this work in 1941 during the battle of Britain.

Those attacks now going on, like all of those since the Allies took over the invasion coasts and captured the launching sites, are made by robots launched from the backs of planes piloted by live pilots. It is generally admitted that they will keep right on coming as long as Germany is in the war. The robot war isn't over. Londoners are still moving nightly in the shadow of death.

The British Information service has released a film which tells the story of what happened when the V-1s were coming over from the launching platforms. It is a terrible human document. As one woman correspondent who has just come back from the front remarked: "That is worse than anything in France."

Broke Full Force Of Attacks

A man who knows robots pretty well from first-hand contact told me "If the flying bombs (V-1s) had been launched as the Germans planned to launch them, in the quantities in which they were then able to produce them, and from the launching platforms already installed, they would have been sent against London at the rate of a thousand a night, every night."

That, of course, would have meant the annihilation of any city. Briefly, the developments which broke the German plan were these: In April of 1943, British secret agents sent in vague reports of German plans for some type of long-range bombardment.

Intelligence service discovered a new weapon being developed on the Baltic coast; the RAF made photographs. Many pictures were taken and finally a large factory was discovered at Peenemuende, an island in the Baltic, with a miniature airplane shaped thing on the ramp. Scientists deduced that the weapon was a pilotless, jet-propelled plane.

Peenemuende and other manufacturing sites were destroyed. By winter, 100 ramps were discovered along the Baltic coast. They were bombed, repaired, re-bombed. By the following summer new ones had been completed. Secret service picked together a description of the bomb. Defenses (barrage balloons, etc.) were prepared.

The first robot attack began at the time of our invasion of Normandy. In the first month only 40 per cent of the bombs were brought down by defense.

The defenses were changed; the defense belt was moved to the coast so the gunners could get an uninterrupted view of the oncoming robots. By July, 74 per cent of the robots were being brought down. The RAF with speedier fighters helped to get improved.

The situation improved until August. . . . All this is highly condensed and only suggests the tremendous work involved as well as the loss of 450 British and American aircraft including many heavy and medium bombers, involving approximately 2,900 pilots and aircrews.

That is past history. The future, as I say, is shrouded in mystery. As for the present, the method of carrying the robots on the backs of live-piloted planes makes their target in any direction. So the attempt is made to stop the thing at its source and so-called "intruder" planes try to bring over the German airbases where it is known the pick-a-backs take off and destroy them as they rise. Some are destroyed there. For the rest, it is an endless patrol of the North sea and the Heligoland Bight, searching the whole heavens for the planes themselves or trying to spot the robots after they are launched and dive-bomb them down or pick them off with ack-ack, or hope they will entangle themselves with the wires from the captive balloons.

The robot has not yet said its last word. . . .

Hits 'Inconsistent' Diplomacy of U. S.

Before we can get any sort of international organization working, we, the United States of America, must have the confidence of the other nations of the world.

We, "US," have a pretty good reputation, a "reservoir of goodwill," as Wendell Willkie called it. But we have also a few blot on our escutcheon. And it might be well for all of us to read a book which, although I can't recommend it with all its conclusions, fascinates me.

It is called "Our Jungle Diplomacy," and was written by a former member of the American foreign service, William Joseph Sands, in collaboration with Frank M. Ladd. It made me think.

Mr. Sands' thesis is that our diplomacy has been operating "in a jungle of our own creation," and cites in detail certain specific examples to show where his findings are startling: Japan's annexation of Korea, he says, follows the pattern laid down by the United States in regard to Hawaii, Pearl Harbor, he boldly traces back to Panama!

Mr. Sands has some rather jolting ideas on power politics. He says that although the United States has no consistent foreign policy, we have, nevertheless, indulged in power politics. But, he hastens to add, power politics is not per se, unwise or immoral. (It depends on the power.)

But whatever has been the long-range effect of our diplomatic conduct in South America, Sands believes that "the chief fruit of our jungle diplomacy is the disastrous war in which we are now engaged."

I would not go so far as to say that a less junglar diplomacy on our part alone could have preserved the peace in the face of a confirmed aggressor, but I must admit that our statesmanship has not acted as much of a pacifier so far.

Sands quotes the famous saying of the great military authority, von Clausewitz, to the effect that "war is the continuation of a nation's policy by forcible means," and then he says that since we had no policy in the extension of the war in the Pacific is an extension of Japanese policy. Sands says (and makes a very convincing argument) that that point was clear when the Japs took Korea 40 years ago.

And then he comes to this striking conclusion: "Two courses were open to us. . . . We might have prepared to challenge the rising power of Japan. . . . or we might have adopted a policy of gradual retreat in the Pacific and genuine conciliation in the Americas, which might have enabled us to avoid the clash of power politics in the Far East, might have made our intentions plain, and might have evoked our moral position less equivocal in Latin and Asiatic eyes."

Read "Our Jungle Diplomacy" as an astringent to inflated national egotism, if for no other reason. It is a refreshing mental menthol.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Some 11,000 practical farmers in two-thirds of the nation's counties, cooperating with the department of agriculture extension service, are checking land values and other agricultural facts in preparation for service as personal advisers to veterans interested in farming.

Japanese papers now number only two pages a day.

The Japanese-controlled Batavia radio has announced that 40 young natives who have completed a month's training in "oral publicity work" will leave Java for England in the enlightenment of the masses regarding the aims of the military administration.

German children have been forbidden to spend time making their own toys under a new decree requiring them to do "more home-work" for the armament industry.

The median level of education of American soldiers in this war is the second year of high school. In 1918 it was the sixth grade.

The Japanese have announced that they are planning to manufacture large quantities of "synthetic beer" that will be shipped to the fighting front to "comfort" Japanese soldiers.

The census bureau says there were 118,484 infant deaths in 1943 compared to 113,400 in 1942. Since there were more births in 1943, the death rate remained virtually the same, or 40.4 deaths per 1,000 live births.

The office of defense transportation has warned bus and truck operators that synthetic tires and tubes will have to be handled and used with greater care than that usually given rubber products if they are to last long.

WHY QUINTUPLETS use this great rub for SORE THROAT COUGHS & COLDS

Wonderful for Croup-Who, Too! Ever since the world's first synthetic Quintuplets catch cold—their chests, throats and backs are immediately rubbed with Musterole. Musterole gives such blessed prompt relief because it's more than just an ordinary "salve." It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern "counter-irritant." It not only relieves coughs, sore throat, aching chest muscles due to cold, makes breathing easier—but it actually helps break up congestion in upper bronchial tract, nose and throat.

And Musterole is so much easier to apply than a mustard plaster. Why? Because it's so soft and so gentle. It's just rub it on! No fuss. No muss. No pain. No danger. It's a modern Musterole. Regular, and Extra's Mild Musterole, Regular, and Children's Mild Musterole.

REMEMBER the gaping holds of ships sunk without warning at Pearl Harbor? Remember, too, the men killed during the infamous sneak attack? This is the fight that Japan started ... the fight that we're out to finish!

Don't fool yourself, the Japs are tough. It will take long, bitter, costly fighting to blast them out. It will take new and specialized equipment. B-29 Superfortresses ... amphibious tanks ... airplane carriers ... P-47 Thunderbolts and new secret weapons. And a veritable Niagara of oil and gasoline!

Your War Bonds helped train and feed and equip the American armies that smashed through at St. Lo ... Nancy ... Sedan. Yes ... your War Bonds are helping to win the Battle of Europe. But now how about the Battle of Japan?

The job is big—you've got to dig!
It costs billions of dollars a month to fight the Battle of Japan. The money must come from every patriotic American. It's an investment in America—your future. That's why you are asked once again—in this great battle for final Victory—to buy your extra $100 bond today.

And here are 6 more reasons for buying at least an extra $100 WAR BOND in the 6th!

4. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you.
5. War Bonds help keep down the cost-of-living.
6. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing postwar purchasing power.

STUDENT COUNCIL MINUTES

A meeting of the student council was held in the science room on Tuesday, Nov. 14, at three o'clock with President Rachel Brauchle presiding. All members were in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted.

Taking up old business, we learned from Mr. Rose that it is unlawful to clean or repair a flag in any way.

An honor roll has been purchased by Mr. Rose and will be displayed at a later date.

Mr. Rose is endeavoring to contact a juke box distributor and buy a juke box for the use of the student body at parties, etc.

New business consisted of the following:

Some of the students have not been receiving their gopher pills during the first hour on Monday morning. Those not receiving them are the citizenship class and the study hall students.

It was suggested that something be done about the odor coming from the cabinet near the information desk where lunches are kept.

It was suggested that we be more patriotic at our general assemblies and that we salute the flag and sing the national anthem more often.

The fire alarm bell should be checked, and also the bells to call and dismiss classes.

It was suggested that a first aid course be given. A committee composed of Valeria Koerble, Angie Bilgo and Bernice Trapp was appointed to contact Mrs. Licht about the matter.

A student council convention will be held during the Thanksgiving recess on Nov. 24 and 25 at Madison. The school will finance the trip for delegates if the parents of any council members will permit them to make the trip. They are to confer with the president by Thursday if they may attend.

A matinee party was held on Friday, Nov. 17. Students who sold subscriptions to magazines were admitted free. All others paid ten cents. A

by Lois Koch

After a busy period of working on the library and the text books, the library club has planned to have some social activities (pleasure).

Lois Zanow '45, Ruth Birkholtz '45 and Alice Backhaus '48, were elected to the offices of president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. The club members have assessed themselves dues of five cents per meeting making a total of ten cents a week.

An educational tour of the libraries in Milwaukee has been planned for sometime in April. They will visit Shorewood high school library, Milwaukee, State Teachers' library, Marquette university library and the public library. To finance this trip the library club has obtained the concession to sell soda water at the home basketball games.
