

Holy Trinity School to Open Wednesday

Holy Trinity parochial school will reopen on Wednesday, Sept. 5, for the 1945-46 term with a high mass in honor of the Holy Ghost.

Sister Maurita, who formerly taught at St. Joseph's in Fond du Lac, will replace Sr. Reginald, who taught the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

All the children of the congregation who will attend the school registered last Monday, Aug. 27. The children under six years of age were given the necessary tests to prove their ability to do the required work.

PUBLIC SCHOOL OPENS 4TH

The Kewaskum public school will open on Tuesday, Sept. 4, at 9 o'clock, one day earlier than the parochial school. The complete staff of teachers and other details concerning the opening of school were published last week.

CARS IN COLLISION

Wyman Kuehl, Route 3, Kewaskum, was involved in an accident occurring on Highway 144, the lake road, about three-quarters of a mile south of Highway 32 at 10:15 p. m. Sunday.

SCHNEIDERS HAVE DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schneider of Milwaukee are the parents of an 8 1/2 pound daughter born at St. Joseph's hospital in that city on Wednesday, Aug. 22.

POST OFFICE CLOSED

The post office will be closed on Labor day Monday, Sept. 3. No rural delivery after 9 a. m. No window delivery and no money orders issued.

Column on the Side

Holidays and accidents go hand in hand and Wisconsin residents are urged to observe extra caution over Labor day week-end.

This year, in particular, with the end of gasoline rationing, there will be much more traffic on the highways than for the last several years.

Bernice Kutz Bride of Pfc. Lloyd Faber

In a private nuptial ceremony read by the Rev. Gerhard Kaniess at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Aug. 25, in the St. Lucas Ev. Lutheran church, Miss Bernice Kutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kutz of Campbellsport, became the bride of Pfc. Lloyd Faber, son of John H. Faber of this village.

The bride wore a gown of white net over satin and a fingertip veil edged in lace which fell from a beaded crown. She carried red roses, white asters and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at 5:30 p. m. to 35 guests at the home of the groom's father here.

Luscious Ice Cream—Favorite Summertime Dessert (See Recipes Below)

Select Desserts Carefully

The choice of dessert should be a careful one — a light dessert if the meal has been rich and hearty; a substantial one if the meal has been on the light side. A dessert should be the perfect close to a meal, not just something thrown in because we think there ought to be an "ending" to eating.

One of the best ways to selecting the appropriate dessert is the guide that the seasons offer. In summer we can depend upon fruits and berries, plentiful supplies of eggs, milk and cream. In winter, of course, there are some fruits, but it's a good idea to make puddings the mainstay.

Lemon Cream

- 2 well-beaten eggs
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup light corn syrup
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 cup light cream
 - 1/4 cup lemon juice
 - 1 cup crushed, sweetened berries
- Whole berries for garnish
- Beat eggs and sugar. Mix corn syrup, milk, cream and lemon juice. Add to egg mixture. Freeze in automatic refrigerator tray until just set. Beat until light. Add crushed berries. Continue freezing until firm, about 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Garnish with whole berries.

An unusual sherbert with a tang that is bound to please is the following, using ginger ales.

Ginger Ale Sherbert

- 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 3/4 cup hot water
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1 cup water
- 1 pint pale, dry ginger ale

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve in hot water. Add sugar and stir until it dissolves. Cool; add lemon juice, water, pineapple juice, water and ginger ale. Freeze in ice cream freezer until crank turns hard. Remove dasher and packing.

Let stand 2 to 3 hours before serving.

Make New Things From Old: Old worn-out tablecloths can be made into attractive place mats by cutting them into squares with pinkish shears.

If towels have faded, dye them in colors to match the bathroom.

Old shower curtains can be cut down in size and used as curtains in the pantry, bathroom or kitchen.

When shades become discolored and old, they may be covered with attractive prints in cotton, cretonne or chintz to match the room's decorative scheme.

Worn-out pajamas with the leg parts still good can be used to pad out the ironing board by cutting to size.

Discarded curtains make nice pot holder filler; or, they may be sewed together (six layers) after cutting, into dishcloths.

Home of Future Not Expected to Be Radical But Will Express Trend Toward Simplicity

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

We hear much talk these days about the new era, and the ending of the old. This will be apparent not merely in vague and remote political policies, social changes, economic upheavals. It will be expressed for most of us in much simpler terms—in the clothes we wear and the food we eat and the houses we live in.

Already on the drafting boards of the designers are plans for some of these new era homes and drawings of new era furniture. And the prospect seems strange and wonderful—and yes, venturesome, as if we were charting an entirely new course that man had never traveled before. And in some respects, of course, this is true; but in other ways, our experiences seem curiously akin to the adjustments man has been making down through the centuries—translating history into terms of everyday living, into such tangibles as chairs and chests, ta-

Peppermint Wafer Dessert

- 1/2 pound peppermint stick candy
- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1/2 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1 1/2 cups evaporated milk, chilled and whipped
- 1/2 pound chocolate wafers

Crush candy; add light cream. Heat in double boiler until candy dissolves. Add gelatin softened in cold water. Chill until partially set. Fold in beaten, chilled evaporated milk. Break chocolate wafers in half and stand around outside of a 9-inch pan. Place layers of wafers on bottom; spread with 1/2 of the gelatin mixture. Top with second half of wafers and spread with remaining gelatin mixture. Chill for 12 hours. Cut in squares and serve.

Cherries are another great favorite for dessert. The family will enjoy these tarts made with either fresh or canned cherries:

Cherry Tarts

- 2 cups canned or fresh sour, pitted cherries
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons currant jelly
- 6 baked tart shells

Drain cherries. Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan; add cherry juice or a small amount of water (1/2 cup). Cook together 15 to 20 minutes until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire; add butter and jelly. Fold in cherries. Pour into tart shells. Bake in a hot oven (475 degrees) about 5 minutes.

There are some evenings when most of us enjoy a bit of well-chilled fruit with a few crisp cookies. In this case, you will want the cookie jar full with these Orange Honey tarts that taste better as they mellow:

Orange Honey

- 3 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup honey
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts
- 1/4 cup chopped candied orange peel
- 1/4 cup chopped candied lemon peel

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla extract. Beat well. Add flour mixture, nuts, orange and lemon peels to creamed mixture. Mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls into well greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 10 minutes.

What My Community Should Do in Postwar Planning

By Geneva Bush Gibson

"GOING my way?" inquired the soft-voiced, smiling marine sergeant as we boarded the same train at our mutual home town station.

During the two-hour ride into the city we talked of many things including the fact that he wanted a small business of his own after the war perhaps on the Al-Can highway.

How I wish I might have said, "Before you make an Al-Can deal, get in touch with our home town Re-Employment Committeemen." I couldn't, however, for my community has not yet undertaken collective postwar planning.

Newton county, an agricultural county of 10,775 population in northwestern Indiana, has announced its Co-operative Planning, the result of a year's study by a committee of 25 comprising men and women representative of all phases of community life. Full-page advertisements paid for by various service clubs of the different towns were run in all of the weekly papers in the county.

Re-Employment of Veterans.

The ad began, "More servicemen will return home with the progress of the war. The Re-Employment Committeemen of Newton County, Indiana, in conjunction with its advisory committee and the Agricultural advisory committee, are on the alert. All citizens, both in service and not in service, should realize that the return of the servicemen will mean certain adjustments. This work will be available so that when Sam, who wants to be a partner in a grocery store, comes home, he can be sent to see old Mr. Fuller who wants to retire from active work and become a silent partner.

On the second committee, the Memorial, I would have five members, all men interested in sports; the high school board athletic chairman, the grade school athletic chairman, a business man, a farmer, and a veteran, the latter to be chairman.

Trees As Memorials.

Windstorms have played havoc with the beautiful trees of our town is noted. What better memorial to our war dead than stately trees? I should like to see the village, which is now free from debt, plant American elms and hard maple trees in the parking; the American elm because it is a quick growing tree and the hard maple because it has the most beautiful autumnal foliage of any tree I know.

As a memorial to our gallant fighters who return, I should like to have a well-run sports program. A number of things may be considered, an outdoor swimming pool, a diving pool at the high school, with the school showers and dressing rooms available to the swimmers. The initial cost might well be met by popular subscription with the school operating the pool afterwards.

During the summer vacation, the pool could be open suitable nights from 7 to 11 with swimming classes scheduled on alternate days from 4 to 6. The athletic coach should be the director. In the winter the pool could be flooded and used for ice skating.

Softball might well be revived, for the grounds are still available and it would not take long to hook up the lights. Four organizations such as business firms could each sponsor a team with one or two nights a week set aside for double header games. There should be no admission charge, but a collection should be taken to pay for the lights. Moreover, consideration should be given to reinstalling croquet courts in the park for the youngsters and marking off space for horseshoes for the oldsters.

My town faithfully follows high school basketball, which provides excellent winter recreation. A survey should be made, however, to see how the high school gymnasium may be used winter evenings for adults for calisthenics, volley ball, handball, basketball and folk dancing.

In all of this sports program the goal must be to use available community resources to provide a varied program to reach the greatest number of people.

Educational Needs.

Last but not least is the Education committee which should consist of five members: the high school principal, the grade school principal, a town father who has children in school, a farm mother who has children in school and a high school alumnus, the latter to be chairman.

The business of this Education committee should be to make a survey of the postwar educational needs therefore, makes a maximum contribution toward the creation of payrolls and jobs.

Sound postwar planning should result not only in more jobs in your community but in permanent advances for the United States. In a democracy, progressive community action is essential to social and economic progress. — From "Postwar Jobs and Growth in Small Communities," Committee for Economic Development handbook.

paper Union in connection with the recent Midwestern Writers' conference at Northwestern University. Miss Gibson, the author, lives in Sheboygan, Ill., a town of 1,000 population in Iroquois county, which is one of the leading agricultural counties of the Prairie state. After graduation from the school of journalism at the University of Illinois, she became a teacher of journalism at the Champaign, Ill., senior high school. At present she is a free lance journalist and chairman of public information for the Iroquois county chapter of the American Red Cross.

the building interests whose task it will be to supply the additional homes and business structures. As the grain man deals with farming interests, yet resides in town, he should be able to see both sides of the picture. The Red Cross home service chairman and a minister are recommended because of their contacts with servicemen.

When this committee has worked out an information questionnaire, it can be published in the local paper, for our weekly paper goes to all the boys and girls in the service.

With the questionnaires returned, the committee can begin to compile information. Then they can canvass the community to see what jobs will be available so that when Sam, who wants to be a partner in a grocery store, comes home, he can be sent to see old Mr. Fuller who wants to retire from active work and become a silent partner.

On the second committee, the Memorial, I would have five members, all men interested in sports; the high school board athletic chairman, the grade school athletic chairman, a business man, a farmer, and a veteran, the latter to be chairman.

Every Day Living for Boys.

Perhaps eighth grade boys should be taught simple cooking, selection and care of their clothes, bedmaking, and room care in a course called, "Every Day Living for Boys." Both boys and girls might be taught simple gardening practices and encouraged to have their own garden plots during the summer.

As a part of the high school survey it would be right to consider if the history courses are providing the citizenship training we want and if the English classes in addition to teaching our young people to speak and write correctly are giving them the proper evaluating standards so that they will know how to judge a newspaper, magazine, book, movie, and radio program, thus discarding the trash and fastening their minds on the things worth remembering.

Since cooking and sewing were required of eighth grade girls, it would seem sensible to require of the freshman girls a home management course which could incorporate some principles of home nursing. Then during the three summer vacations of their high school days they might undertake such projects as canning vegetables, house cleaning and cooking, with credit to be given for such projects after due inspection by the teacher in charge.

A first aid course comparable to the one taught by the American Red Cross should be required of every boy and girl after he is 16 years of age and before he is graduated.

In a recent forum on divorce conducted by the Town Club of Chicago, Samuel A. Rinella, divorce attorney, declared, "Every day school should be in everything from carpentering to radio announcing but not enough, if anything, is done about instructing men and women in marriage."

Mr. Rinella's statement is so true that I think the Education committee should consider recommending a required semester's course in the senior year for both boys and girls in general sociology, marriage and the family.

In 1965 the folks of Pleasant Valley, a little village in the foothills of the Alleghenies, piled the relics of the Civil War that had just ended, the old brass cannon, the battered muskets, the broken swords, and the rusted bayonets into one heap. They melted them down and from them cast the gentle bells of Pleasant Valley to ring out over green fields and fertile farms as a memorial to their loved ones lost in that war.

Likewise, it is my hope that the Postwar Planning of the Re-Employment, Memorial, and Education committees will result in making my community a Pleasant Place in which to live.

termining the kinds of jobs which can be performed by veterans having various disabilities, and to provide for in-training and up-grading, seeking to utilize skills acquired by the veteran in service.

This means lessening the distinction between services provided for veterans as against resources available to demobilized war workers and other civilians.—Louis L. Bennett in "Problems of Homecoming" in the Survey Mid-Monthly magazine.

and make recommendations to the boards of education.

Perry L. Schneider, head of the evening elementary school division of the New York City board of education, says that there is a growing demand by adults for short non-credit courses in cultural subjects such as history, global geography, economics, current events, literature, music, art, crafts, and hobbies. He believes that it will be necessary to educate parents for reduction of juvenile delinquency.

Some of the courses Mr. Schneider suggests may be applicable to small schools. Perhaps the folks in my community will want not only the agricultural night classes which have proved popular but classes in manual training, personal typing, foods, sewing, interior decorating or child psychology.

For those adults who still enjoy taking part in plays, a community players' club might well be organized to meet once a week and to present one or two plays for the entire community. Those who like to sing might form a community chorus which could present concerts while those who like to play a musical instrument might form a community dance band to sponsor six dances.

Since our public library has a small stage, these three groups could easily use that as their meeting place so as not to monopolize the high school gym, which is a combined gym and auditorium. These clubs as well as adult evening classes should be considered a part of the high school teacher's work and enough teachers should be asked to take care of the demands.

Of even greater educational concern is the quality of the grade school and high school instruction, for servicemen will want good schools for their children.

It will be well to consider restoring to the elementary school the subjects that were dropped because no teachers were available: art, cooking, sewing, and manual training. Likewise attention should be given to possible new subjects.

Modernizing the Emperor.

Thus during most of Japanese history; in fact, up until just after the arrival of Commander Perry in 1852, the Mikado was an ethereal spiritual being, not a ruler; and it came as a definite shock to many Japanese that their emperor-to-be should sail off to England and France to absorb western culture.

In fact, some of the more intense patriots actually threw themselves on the railroad tracks in front of the train carrying Hirohito to Yokohama in protest against the departure.

Naturally Hirohito may have changed a lot during the 25 years since his trip. Naturally, also my friend Sawada was prejudiced in his favor. However, the story of that voyage was one of a young man anxious to mingle with his fellowmen, astounded the emperor-worshippers by wrestling on the deck with his aides, get a bloody nose, and dance democratically with the servants of the Duke of Atholl in the same "barbaric" Scotland, which, according to Shinto priests, is made from the mud and seafoam left over after creation of the "heavenly isles" — Japan.

Hirohito even managed to deliver a public speech to the lord mayor of London; and no emperor in all the history of Japan had ever delivered a public speech before. In all Japanese history, furthermore, no emperor had purchased an article of any shape or size or form. In Paris, however, Hirohito insisted on going alone and buying a necktie, and later a pearl for his mother.

Hirohito Goes Underground. His greatest ambition, however, was to ride on the Paris subway or "metro." Before leaving Tokyo, Hirohito's staff had been strictly forbidden to let the heir to the throne ride on any subway; but despite this, the crown prince bolted most of his staff and ventured underground. He insisted on buying the tickets himself and handed them to the fat lady guarding the gate.

But he handed them to her in a bunch, instead of spreading them out fan shape, so that she could not punch them quickly. All of which brought forth a storm of abuse in metro French, heaped on the head of the future ruler of Japan.

CAPITAL CHAFF

¶ The 1946 congressional elections probably will see the bitterest fight and the most money spent in years. Both sides are gearing for a showdown, partly as a result of the British elections. Conservatives are saying, "It can't happen here."

¶ Truman was kept informed regarding all these incidents — tip-off that Japan was weakening came after Russia declared war, and the Japs did not declare war in return.

¶ Congressman John J. O'Connor, victim of the Roosevelt purge and who has never forgotten it, is among those backstaging the Christian front campaign against Gen. William O'Dwyer. Another instigator is Father Edward Curran. . . . O'Dwyer fought the Christian front when he was Brooklyn prosecutor.

¶ The army is due to cutback on almost everything except hospitals. Several new ones will be built including a $20,000,000 army hospital in Puerto Rico by the L. W. Robert firm of Atlanta. He was secretary of the Democratic national committee.

¶ Though one unfortunate incident occurred at the Lee Sheraton hotel regarding the treatment of a returned veteran, it is only fair to say army billeting headquarters gives the hotel an A-1 record in general treatment of veterans in Washington.

¶ Inside fact is that Russia and Japan had been fighting for about two weeks before war was officially declared — but the shooting was labelled border skirmishes. Tokyo didn't want any declaration of war while Stalin wasn't quite ready to launch a big offensive.

EMPEROR ONCE DEMOCRATIC

Twenty-three years ago, this writer, visiting in Japan, got considerable first-hand information about the emperor from a young Japanese Quaker, Renzo Sawada, who had been picked to accompany Hirohito, then crown prince, on a trip to see the western world.

Why Sawada, educated in a Quaker school in Tokyo, was chosen to accompany the young prince on this history-making trip, I do not know, except that the Imperial council of education wanted a commoner of Hirohito's age who spoke English and French to travel with the future emperor.

Never before had a ruler of Japan left its shores. In the past scarcely was the emperor even seen by his subjects. Some idea of his isolation can be gained from the fact that the word "mika" means "awful"; the word "do" means "place"; and the name "Mikado" means "awful-place."

In the old days, priests came to worship at the "awful place," but they never saw the emperor whose other name even today is "Tenno," meaning "son of Heaven." The emperor is synonymous with the sun and from this comes the Japanese flag, with 16 spreading rays symbolic of the rising sun and the emperor.

In those days, the Mikado was the theoretical owner of all the land and all the people and their possessions. He was their God and protector. His lance and shield came from Ama, "the ancestral region." Thus arose the cult of Shintoism which actually means "rule of the superiors" or "way of the Gods." Even the word for government in Japan, "matsurigoto" means "shrine visiting" or "religion."

Modernizing the Emperor.

Thus during most of Japanese history; in fact, up until just after the arrival of Commander Perry in 1852, the Mikado was an ethereal spiritual being, not a ruler; and it came as a definite shock to many Japanese that their emperor-to-be should sail off to England and France to absorb western culture.

In fact, some of the more intense patriots actually threw themselves on the railroad tracks in front of the train carrying Hirohito to Yokohama in protest against the departure.

Naturally Hirohito may have changed a lot during the 25 years since his trip. Naturally, also my friend Sawada was prejudiced in his favor. However, the story of that voyage was one of a young man anxious to mingle with his fellowmen, astounded the emperor-worshippers by wrestling on the deck with his aides, get a bloody nose, and dance democratically with the servants of the Duke of Atholl in the same "barbaric" Scotland, which, according to Shinto priests, is made from the mud and seafoam left over after creation of the "heavenly isles" — Japan.

Hirohito even managed to deliver a public speech to the lord mayor of London; and no emperor in all the history of Japan had ever delivered a public speech before. In all Japanese history, furthermore, no emperor had purchased an article of any shape or size or form. In Paris, however, Hirohito insisted on going alone and buying a necktie, and later a pearl for his mother.

Hirohito Goes Underground. His greatest ambition, however, was to ride on the Paris subway or "metro." Before leaving Tokyo, Hirohito's staff had been strictly forbidden to let the heir to the throne ride on any subway; but despite this, the crown prince bolted most of his staff and ventured underground. He insisted on buying the tickets himself and handed them to the fat lady guarding the gate.

But he handed them to her in a bunch, instead of spreading them out fan shape, so that she could not punch them quickly. All of which brought forth a storm of abuse in metro French, heaped on the head of the future ruler of Japan.

¶ The 1946 congressional elections probably will see the bitterest fight and the most money spent in years. Both sides are gearing for a showdown, partly as a result of the British elections. Conservatives are saying, "It can't happen here."

¶ Truman was kept informed regarding all these incidents — tip-off that Japan was weakening came after Russia declared war, and the Japs did not declare war in return.

¶ Congressman John J. O'Connor, victim of the Roosevelt purge and who has never forgotten it, is among those backstaging the Christian front campaign against Gen. William O'Dwyer. Another instigator is Father Edward Curran. . . . O'Dwyer fought the Christian front when he was Brooklyn prosecutor.

¶ The army is due to cutback on almost everything except hospitals. Several new ones will be built including a $20,000,000 army hospital in Puerto Rico by the L. W. Robert firm of Atlanta. He was secretary of the Democratic national committee.

¶ Though one unfortunate incident occurred at the Lee Sheraton hotel regarding the treatment of a returned veteran, it is only fair to say army billeting headquarters gives the hotel an A-1 record in general treatment of veterans in Washington.

¶ Inside fact is that Russia and Japan had been fighting for about two weeks before war was officially declared — but the shooting was labelled border skirmishes. Tokyo didn't want any declaration of war while Stalin wasn't quite ready to launch a big offensive.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Time: The Inevitable Cure

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

When your soldier boy comes home, remember that time is the cure for the problems that will come with him.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WHEN your soldier boy comes home, remember that time is the cure for the problems that will come with him.

Whatever the situation is, time will alleviate its hardest features; time will bring new interests, new turns of the wheel that will make living tolerable to him.

Be infinitely patient; not too cheerful, not too sympathetic. Keep about him as pleasant an atmosphere as you can, and wait for time.

Perhaps he may have to adjust himself to the loss of a hand, or a leg. Perhaps his sight is gone. Perhaps some facial injury will cause him pain and difficulty for the rest of his days.

Or perhaps—and this is the most dreadful of all—his mind will be slightly disordered. Not enough to make him an institution case, but enough to distress those who love him, depress him almost to despair, and make readjustment slow and hard.

Meet all this with serenity and faith. Time works miracles. Torn ligaments heal; lost limbs are missed much less than anyone afflicted by that loss can believe. And love and courage and time—time build up ruins and tie the scattered threads of life into new patterns.

After the Parties. So when your soldier boy comes home, meet him with the usual royal welcome. Fried chicken and layer cakes, joyous telephoning and visiting, presents, entertainments, unlimited family affection and interest.

But when this flurry is over, the strain comes, and that is the moment when you have to have your strength and philosophy ready. Here is the story of an American mother who has had that crisis to face.

"My twin sons, Rafael and Raoul, went into the service in the army two years ago," writes Mrs. Frank Espinosa of Tucson, Ariz. For a while they were together, then Raoul was sent to the Marianas, from which he returned six months ago, having lost both legs. Rolly is still in this country.

"The mass horrors of war are beyond all comprehension, but surely there is no sadder case than that of a magnificent 22-year-old who comes home hopelessly crippled. His father aged 20 years overnight, and for all my prayers, all my determination, I could hardly bear the shock of meeting him.

"In his wheel chair, he held a sort of travesty of homecoming reception; then we had to face the grim fact—put away forever the old fishing-rod, the football clothes. The city of friends and family cut him terribly, yet he had to see people. We are not rich, my husband's salary is adequate, but no more.

Our home is a six room cottage in a plain block of similar cottages. The boys used to go away camping in hot weather, and for several seasons, my husband took a job in a mountain hotel, and I went there with him, and helped in the dining room. But we could afford no luxuries for our stricken boy. We could not take him away from the eyes of neighbors and friends.

"For months he sat and brooded.

"A look I thought never to see again."

Even Children in Farm Regions Called Poorly Nourished "Sixty-four per cent of the rural children and 60 per cent of the village children had poor diets" in a recent survey conducted in Bennington county, Vermont, by medical authorities, Mrs. Marion Harris declares. The eating habits of about 1,700 school children were studied through the diet records from 700 rural and 1,000 village children. "We said that a child eating a good diet should have, sometime during the day, a total of five fruits

THE ROAD BACK

Families of war veterans will have to put up with a period of reorientation, while the young man struggles to readjust himself to the old ways of life. Whether this trying time is long or short depends a good deal on the man's character, and on the experiences he has endured. A soldier who faced death for many months will have a harder course than one who served as a clerk, far from danger.

Then too, the problem is frequently complicated by wounds, loss of limbs or senses, or by mental disturbances. The sense of helplessness is especially oppressive to a sensitive young man who has always been strong and active. Mothers, wives, sweethearts, in fact everyone associated with these unfortunate fellows will have to make a constant effort to help them back to a cheerful viewpoint.

How one soldier regained his happy outlook is recounted by Miss Norris in today's article. He is only 22, but he has to face the future without legs. Yet in time he found new interests—wood-carving, helping with the family cooking, caring for a few chickens and a dog. Simple, homely things, but they are often the best cure for the aftermath of war.

He would try to brighten — my poor boy! — he could not do it. Raoul came home, and was happily married last June. Maria, my daughter-in-law, generously agreed to a quiet wedding in our parlor, so that Rolly could be present, but Rolly would not be best man. It was all sadness, darkness, hopelessness for the three of us at home.

Carved Wooden Dolls. "Then—I hardly know how, things changed. For one thing, we bought him a dozen chickens, and it is extraordinary how they amuse and interest him. For another, I let him help me with cooking and got him a little cook book. Now he asks me to get taragon vinegar or maraschino cherries for various dishes, and putters away with chopping bowls and egg-beaters while I am getting meals.

"Best of all, he carved me a little Scotty out of soap one day, and it was so good that I have kept it, under a glass bowl, and have encouraged him to carve other things. Now he is carving the most remarkable jointed dolls of white wood; they are so fine in their natural little childish faces and forms that he has not only found an immediate market for the few he has done, but may really hope for a fine livelihood from them. This still seems to my husband and me too good to be true, but it is surely coming.

"Lastly, two weeks ago, to celebrate the first little success of the dolls, we brought him a baby Scotty, a little mass of bouncing black wool, and a few hours later, when Brig was asleep in Rolly's arm, I saw a look on Rolly's face that I thought never would be there again.

"In gratitude to God," this letter ends, "my husband and Rolly and I send you his story, to encourage other mothers to be patient, and to believe that things will be better in time."

Keeping Knives Sharp Most kitchen knives get dull because they are improperly stored, used for the wrong job, and never properly sharpened. To sharpen paring knives put a sharpening stone on a flat surface, pour on a few drops of light or medium household oil, and, holding the knife in your right hand, with your left forefinger bearing down slightly on the knife tip, "shave" the stone first toward you, then away from you. The knife is horizontal to the stone throughout the sharpening process.

The Once Over

MCGOOFFEY'S FIRST READER

Oh, see the automobile! It is a new automobile. How do you know it is a new automobile? Because no door is hanging by one hinge and most of the windshield glass is still intact.

Who is the man looking at the new auto? The name is Joe. Will it do Joe any good to look at the new auto? No.

Why will it not do Joe any good to look at the new auto? Because it is just a sample. Is it the only sample of the postwar auto? No, some company brings out one every week.

What is the sense of letting Joe see samples of the postwar auto if Joe cannot buy one? The idea is to cut Joe in on a peek into the future, f.o.b. Detroit.

What has the postwar auto that the present models lack? Everything, including a windshield wiper that works, and handles that don't come out in your hand.

Has the postwar auto many innovations? Photographs as if it had.

What's so different? The front. But don't they always change the front of an auto? Yes, but this time they have gone the limit.

What is that big thing behind which the car seems to be hiding? That is the postwar bumper. Will there be more collisions in the postwar world? Perhaps not, but they will be louder.

Where is the engine? The engine is where it always was. Wasn't there some talk of putting it under the rear seat? Yes, there has been talk of that ever since Henry Ford first frightened a horse.

Will there be an engine under the rear seat some day? Not until they develop asbestos pants.

Is the gas tank in the same location? Yes, the gas tank is in the same location. Couldn't they put that up front as a novelty? Only if you think fireworks constitute a novelty.

Oh, look at Joe. He is getting into his old driver. Yes. Why? Because Joe knows a wreck in the hand is worth two blueprints in the bush in covering a distance between two given points.

INFLATION NOTE Yearling race horses are bringing terrific prices at the summer dispersal sales. The average is around $7,000. In some cases they are bringing $30,000 and more. A few years ago at Saratoga there was the other extreme and we recall Tom Piatt, a noted breeder, withdrawing his yearlings in a huff when the auctioneer found it hard to get bids much over $500.

Does little Jennie think her pop Loves some girl in a barber shop? Does popper think it's wrong or right? You'll have to listen Sunday night!

Does little Edgar, nearly eight, Play pool and drink and stay up late? Should he be spanked or viewed with pride? The air-wave judges will decide!

Their troubles some folks love to share. When they can get upon the air; Their private lives to all they'll show— If they are on the radio.

W. B. Stout, past president of the Society of Automotive Engineers, predicts that an atomic engine no bigger than a human fist will some day drive an auto for life. There will probably be some fellow who will always complain that he is not getting high test electrons.

HONK! HONK! His motor ran by atoms— He thought that it was swell; He merely pressed a button . . . Farewell, old man, farewell!

The atomic ray is the talk of the world and people are blaming all most everything on it. We heard a man yesterday solemnly insisting that the bad weather was due to the experiments. Roy Kelly, the king guide on the Niantic bass grounds, thinks it ruined the fishing this summer.

Ima Dodo rushed right down to the hardware store to get some atomic bombs to kill rose beetles. "That'll show if it's really any good," she says.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Surplus Property for Vets

The Surplus Property board has made arrangements through the Smaller War Plants corporation to sell surplus war property to honorably discharged veterans who have entered business or farming in amounts up to $2,500 on A-1 priorities without buying through regular dealer channels.

Surplus items for any commercial, industrial, manufacturing, financial, service medical, dental or legal, or agricultural enterprise with invested capital not exceeding $50,000, owned as sole proprietor by a veteran, or when non-veterans have not more than a half-interest, are eligible for purchase with the SWPC acting as buying agent or clearing house on all purchases.

All sales to the veterans will be made to SWPC under OPA regulations and in no instance will the price be greater than original cost to the government, less allowance for depreciation, obsolescence, etc.

The $2,500 limitation is placed on amount of sales so that a broad and equitable distribution of surpluses available may be afforded to all veterans who apply.

A typical procedure on a veteran's application could be as follows: An honorably discharged veteran living in Troy, N. Y., is opening a plumbing and heating supply business in his community. He needs a light delivery truck, office equipment and other items. The nearest district office is at Albany. He makes formal application in writing to this nearest office, giving all the necessary details. SWPC reviews all factors and decides the applicant has a good chance to build a successful business. His needs are recorded and as the property is available SWPC will purchase the items to fill, as far as possible, all requirements of the veteran. The veteran pays SWPC the amount involved on the purchase of the truck from the surplus property disposal office, either in cash or, in some special cases, under an arrangement of terms.

Questions and Answers

Q.—When a man has suffered wounds in action how is disability rating for pension purposes determined by the Veterans Administration?

A.—The Veterans Administration says that in the payment of service-connected disability pensions the percentage of impairment is determined on available records by a rating board. The percentage of disability is based upon the average degree of impairment in earning capacity, so that there may be no penalty on any individual for ability to overcome the handicap of disability.

Q.—What are the purchase price limitations in the extension of an agricultural loan guaranty under the G. I. Bill of Rights?

A.—The purchase price must not exceed the "reasonable normal value" of the property as determined by proper appraisal. The purchase price must be within the veteran's ability to pay and succeed in his operations. The local certifying committee will have to certify to the Veterans Administration on its opinion as to whether or not the proposed purchase price of the property exceeds the reasonable normal value of the property.

Q.—Do navy chaplains receive medals? Have any been awarded?

A.—Chaplains in the navy may receive medals and decorations. Lt. Gen. Merritt F. Williams was awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp, sunk in the Solomon Islands. Lt. Comdr. Joseph T. O'Callahan, chaplain of the bombed carrier Franklin, has been recommended for the medal of honor.

Q.—Can the mother of an only son request that he be kept in the U. S. and not be sent overseas?

A.—The war department says that a soldier who is an only son is subject to overseas duty if he is qualified. The fact that he is an only son will have no bearing upon his assignment.

Q.—What is a death gratuity for a veteran?

A.—A death gratuity is a lump-sum gift from the government made to next of kin when a member of the armed forces dies. The amount is equal to six months of the deceased person's pay.

Q.—What is the maximum interest rate which may be charged on a guaranteed G. I. Bill of Rights loan?

A.—Four per cent per annum, with the government paying the interest on the guaranteed part of the loan for the first year.

Q.—Can you tell me how many veterans have been placed in jobs after discharge through United States Employment service?

A.—The War Manpower commission says that approximately 988,000 have been placed in jobs by USES through June, 1945.

Q.—Can you give me some of the reasons for a dishonorable discharge from the army?

A.—Mutiny, treason, spying, moral turpitude, misconduct judged by a court martial, conscientious objection to performing military duty or wearing a uniform, and desertion.

Household Hints

Wash burners on gas stove once a week in a solution made of one gallon water, two tablespoons washing soda and soap flakes. Rinse and dry well.

To clean fireplace bricks, cover them with paste made of powdered pumice and household ammonia. Let dry for an hour, then scrub the bricks with warm, soapy water.

Don't throw away lemon and orange skins. Bake them in a moderate oven until very crisp. When cold grate or grind them and store in a well corked bottle. A pinch in a pudding or cake makes a great improvement.

When threading a sewing machine needle, hold something white under the needle and it will thread more easily.

To exterminate white flies on house plants, cover with a newspaper canopy and have someone blow smoke under it.

Wipe off the fruit you have bought with a clean, slightly damp cloth before putting it away. This will clean it and check any rot that may have gotten on it from other fruits.

TREAT LATE CABBAGE FOR INSECT CONTROL

This is the season when late cabbage, cauliflower, and similar crops are affected with an insect known as the cabbage worm. For gardeners and those having small areas of these crops, the most effective means of control is to dust with rotenone. This ingredient is non-poisonous to man, but effective on insects. Apply the dust with a hand duster, preferably early in the morning when the dew is still upon the plant.

POTATO CROP PROSPECTS APPEAR PROMISING

A careful check made during the past week of a number of potato fields in Washington county shows the complete absence of late potato blight. However, many fields appear as though they have been stricken with blight as the leaves, and in some instances, the vines, are drying up at an alarming rate. Careful checking of these fields indicates that serious injury has been caused by two small insects, namely the leaf hopper and the flea beetle. Both of these insects can be controlled by applying a Bordeaux spray or any of the potato dusts upon the market. A dust just recently made available contains DDT as the active ingredient and on demonstration plots has proved very effective.

The potato crop as a whole looks very promising and fairly good yields can be expected according to present prospects. However, growers will find it very profitable to continue with their regular spraying or dusting program.

FARM SHORT COURSE SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

The College of Agriculture is making available about 25 scholarships for students who plan to attend the farm short course next November. These scholarships have a value of about $75.00 or about enough to pay for one-half of a student's necessary expenses. They will be awarded to the first 25 worthy students from Wisconsin who apply for them. Any Washington county young man interested in attending the short course should make application at once by writing the county extension office, post office building, West Bend, for application blank and further particulars.

MANY FARM ACCIDENTS CAN BE AVOIDED

During the past year more than 4,000 people in Wisconsin lost their lives through accidents. Many of these were avoidable. Accidents just don't "happen"; usually there is a cause for them, and in practically all cases the cause could be removed by a little extra effort or thoughtfulness on our part.

Here are some of the precautions which would have prevented these distressing, shocking deaths on the farms of this state:

- Keeping steps, ladders and railings in good repair—railings on all stairways; keeping motor cars in good condition, driving at moderate speed, using driving signals, heading railroad and arterial signs; handling horses, bulls quietly and cautiously, using care in operating all machinery, stopping machines before oiling, adjusting or cleaning; utmost care in use of gasoline, kerosene, and electrical cords and connections; plain labels on poisonous articles; preventing small children from reaching sharp tools, hot containers and poisonous solutions; safety in bathing and swimming places; fastening scatter rugs so that they will not slide, and putting toys in proper places instead of under foot.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Japs Guard Against Uprising; Plan to Demobilize 7,000,000; Nation Shifts to Peace Economy

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Following the joyous news of Japan's capitulation, many persons the country over reverently made their way to church to offer prayers in gratitude for the cessation of hostilities. The crowd worshipping on the steps of St. Patrick's cathedral in New York City was typical, with a constant stream arriving to express their thanksgiving.

PEACE:

Tighten Imperial Grip

Even as General MacArthur arranged the complicated procedure for Japanese surrender and occupation, the U. S. prepared for the major readjustments looming ahead before the nation once again could tread the paths of peace.

With the Japanese government anxious to bring about a cessation of firing before the preliminary surrender parley in Manila, the conference was postponed to permit members of the imperial household to fly to the far-flung Asiatic battlefronts to enforce the emperor's orders to lay down arms.

Appointment of tough and able 57-year-old Prince Higashi-Kuni as Jap premier disclosed an effort to bring all of the weight of the imperial family behind the surrender acceptance to avert any outbreak of disorders which might upset the internal situation.

While it was expected that some fanatical officers may try to fight on, or commit hara-kiri, the great mass of Japanese were expected to give up peacefully. "There will be no trouble when American soldiers go to Japan if it is the wish of the emperor," said one Jap naval officer.

With the end of the war, the services' carefully prepared demobilization plans were scheduled to be put into effect, with the draft continuing for men under 25 years of age unless the President or congress ordained otherwise.

Approximately 261,000 enlisted men and 40,000 officers are eligible for release under the navy's newly announced discharge plan requiring 44 points for the enlisted men and 49 for the officers.

Designed to relieve men with the longest service, the navy program will permit release about 2,000,000 men within the next 12 to 18 months, which, with the army's plan for discharging 5,000,000 G.I.s within a year, will result in a total demobilization of 7,000,000 by 1947.

Except for four categories of specialists, all army personnel with 85 points or more will be immediately released, along with men 38 years of age or over. Until such a time as the size of the occupation force needed in Japan can be determined, however, there will be no reduction in the present point system, it was indicated.

With G.I.s in the Pacific eligible for discharge due to be released, men with low-point scores in the U. S. or with only brief European service must prepare to accept overseas assignments, the army declared.

Ease Controls

Through five million people were expected to be discharged from war work following cessation of hostilities, industrial plans for a rapid conversion to civilian manufacture promised early re-employment.

Fortunately, such basic industries as steel will be able to furnish civilian materials with little delay, and plans have been set up to continue government supervision over scarce items to permit more even distribution and prevent speculative hoarding and pressure for price increases.

With its financial position greatly bolstered by heavy wartime production, and with banking funds available before settlement of cancelled war contracts, industry generally is strongly healed for reconversion. Meanwhile, civilians have record cash balances and bond holdings.

At the same time, the king revealed that the war's end would not bring about a release of wartime restrictions, with the Laborites seeking power during the reconversion period to maintain control over materials and services to assure proper distribution at fair prices.

Besides nationalizing the Bank of England to promote employment and development, and socializing the coal mines as part of a program to integrate the fuel and power industry, the Laborites propose to reorganize transport; provide social security and industrial insurance; buy land for housing, and set up machinery for planning investments in new business.

Speaking at the third international conference of UNRRA at London, Lehman revealed plans for coping with the Asiatic relief problem, disclosing that plans already have been formulated for the shipment of supplies to China over the Stilwell road and through coastal ports. Of the 100 million Chinese reported destitute, many are expected to succumb even if relief should be offered immediately.

The London meeting was enlivened by Australia's demand to broaden the UNRRA control council to nine members instead of the present Big Four to provide smaller nations with greater representation in the allocation of funds.

FRANCE: Break Marshal

Leader of France's liberation movement, Gen. Charles de Gaulle spared the life of Marshal Henri Petain by commuting his death sentence for plotting against the internal safety of the country to life imprisonment. Nevertheless, the jury's additional sentence of national indignity stood, imposed even after Petain's final assertion: "My thought, my only thought, was to remain with the people of France as I promised instead of abandoning them in their agony."

My honor belongs to your country. . . . Most controversial French case of the century, Petain's trial found the country sharply divided, with charges on the one hand that the old marshal had delivered the state up to the Germans, and counter-charges on the other that prewar politicians were using the proceedings to whitewash themselves.

With G.I.s in the Pacific eligible for discharge due to be released, men with low-point scores in the U. S. or with only brief European

Army Teaches G.I.s Virtues of Thrift

How widely the members of the armed forces have been taught the virtues of thrift is indicated by figures supplied by the war department office of dependency benefits.

As of the end of June, there were 3,714,910 active monthly Class-E allotments-of-pay, which are voluntary assignments of pay to a soldier's dependents, a bank, an insurance company, etc., and are distributed from the family allowances to which the government contributes. Over 40 million dollars have gone to insurance companies in the last three years to pay premiums on soldiers' civilian life insurance.

In June alone, $263,227 went to building and loan and savings and loan associations under the recently authorized plan permitting G.I. Joe to save for a home.

These figures refer only to enlisted personnel, and they are only part of G.I. Joe's savings for he has accumulated hundreds of millions of additional dollars in war bonds and in soldiers' deposits. Furthermore, a large proportion of army officers have authorized similar assignments of pay as a nest egg for their post-war plans. And as indicated by letters received by the ODB, many foresighted wives and parents of soldiers are not spending these allotments as fast as they are received but are saving some of it through War Bonds and other channels.

CROPS: Another Good Year

Owing to record yields of wheat, oats, peanuts, rice, peaches, pecans and commercial truck crops; near record prospects for hay, tobacco, soybeans, sugar cane, and large production of potatoes, sorghum, grains and flaxseed, the department of agriculture predicted the 1945 harvest would be the third best in history.

With the wheat crop estimated at a record 1,146,283,000 bushels on the basis of conditions as of August 1, and with oats at 1,546,032,000 bushels, feed grain production was at a high level despite the estimated drop in the corn harvest to 2,844,478,000 bushels.

One of the bright spots in the crop picture was the estimated increase in sugar cane production to 6,976,000 tons, and rise in sugar beet output to 9,332,000 tons, promising to relieve the tight supply in the commodity.

After the most extensive study of farmland resources ever taken by any nation, the soil conservation service reported that more than 90 per cent of the country's farmland was in need of treatment to protect it from erosion and maintain fertility.

More than 3,600,000 man years of labor would be required for the huge task, the service said, along with 327,441 years of motor equipment; 1,069,978 years of horse-drawn facilities, and 2,544,106 tons of seed.

Of the 417,500 acres of farmland now under actual cultivation, the service said that 43,000,000 should be retired because of steepness, erosion, wetness and stone.

LABORITE BRITAIN

With Great Britain and all the rest of the world awaiting the pattern of postwar life in the United Kingdom, King George VI presented the victorious Labor party's legislative program, with nationalization of the Bank of England and the coal mines heading the agenda.

At the same time, the king revealed that the war's end would not bring about a release of wartime restrictions, with the Laborites seeking power during the reconversion period to maintain control over materials and services to assure proper distribution at fair prices.

Besides nationalizing the Bank of England to promote employment and development, and socializing the coal mines as part of a program to integrate the fuel and power industry, the Laborites propose to reorganize transport; provide social security and industrial insurance; buy land for housing, and set up machinery for planning investments in new business.

Speaking at the third international conference of UNRRA at London, Lehman revealed plans for coping with the Asiatic relief problem, disclosing that plans already have been formulated for the shipment of supplies to China over the Stilwell road and through coastal ports.

WORLD RELIEF: Needs Boosted

With the termination of the war in the Pacific expected to multiply its problems, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration Director Herbert Lehman declared that more than two billion dollars in additional funds would be needed to help stricken countries before their restoration of stable economies.

Speaking at the third international conference of UNRRA at London, Lehman revealed plans for coping with the Asiatic relief problem, disclosing that plans already have been formulated for the shipment of supplies to China over the Stilwell road and through coastal ports.

The London meeting was enlivened by Australia's demand to broaden the UNRRA control council to nine members instead of the present Big Four to provide smaller nations with greater representation in the allocation of funds.

FRANCE: Break Marshal

Leader of France's liberation movement, Gen. Charles de Gaulle spared the life of Marshal Henri Petain by commuting his death sentence for plotting against the internal safety of the country to life imprisonment. Nevertheless, the jury's additional sentence of national indignity stood, imposed even after Petain's final assertion: "My thought, my only thought, was to remain with the people of France as I promised instead of abandoning them in their agony."

My honor belongs to your country. . . . Most controversial French case of the century, Petain's trial found the country sharply divided, with charges on the one hand that the old marshal had delivered the state up to the Germans, and counter-charges on the other that prewar politicians were using the proceedings to whitewash themselves.

With G.I.s in the Pacific eligible for discharge due to be released, men with low-point scores in the U. S. or with only brief European

CONSUMER BACKLOG: Big Order

The American people bought nearly 23 billion dollars less of automobiles and parts, and furniture and householdings in the three years, 1942-44, than they would have if these goods had been available in prewar volume, the department of commerce estimates.

In automobiles and parts actual expenditures totaled 1.8 billions, with expected expenditures under normal conditions, 16.2 billions and the deficiency in purchases, 14.4 billions.

In furniture and householdings, actual expenditures were 11.4 billions, and expected expenditures under normal conditions, 19.7 billions, deficiency in purchases approximated 8.3 billions.

The department of commerce emphasizes that these figures can not determine the volume of deferred consumer demand since much of it is gone forever, but adds that they do point up the magnitude of the demand for such goods when they become available to consumers in prewar quality.

WHEN Mary Pickford was picked by the winning contestant on the Mutual network's "Queen for a Day" program as the person the "Queen" wanted to have tea with, Mary liked the idea of the program so much that she invited the mother of Mervyn LeRoy to hear it broadcast. Mrs. LeRoy, who she promptly called her son, and talked so enthusiastically that he decided to make a Technicolor picture on the "Queen for a Day" idea of creating 24-hour Cinderellas. Monogram played host to "Queens" on the successive days. They watched Peter Cookson, Warren William and Anne Gwynne work on the "Suspense" set, then visited the night-club set of "Swing Parade."

Susan Hayward has left Paramount where she got her start, and signed with Walter Wanger for seven years. Her first picture will be the technicolor Western, "Canyon Passage," with Dana Andrews and Brian Donley. She'll be working at Universal, right along with her husband, Jess Barker, who's playing a featured role in "As It Was Before."

There's a fine new radio show scheduled to start September 11. Cornelia Otis Skinner and Roland Young will be heard in more of the delightful "William and Mary" sketches, written by Miss Skinner, which were heard on the air a while ago. Barry Wood will be the singing master of ceremonies, and Ray Block's orchestra, a new mixed choral group, and a guest star will complete the program.

"A Night in Casablanca" will launch the Marx Brothers as independent film producers, and the Marxes will try it out on a stage tour of Pacific coast theaters and service camps. That is, they'll do five sketches that have been developed from the script, about 400,000 persons will see them, and the material that gets by with this critical audience will go into the picture.

Jack Douglas, writer and actor on the Phil Harris radio show, was given a baby shower by Harris and the cast when John Douglas Jr. arrived. One gift was a cradle which has rocked the babies of the Ronald Colmans, Ruth Hussey and Constance Moore, respectively.

William Goetz, head of International Pictures, is "agin" long feature films, so his "Tomorrow Is Forever," starring Claudette Colbert, Orson Welles and George Brent, will reach the screen in less than 10,000 feet—will run less than two hours.

Twentieth Century-Fox plans to remake that lovely story, "Berkeley Square," in which Leslie Howard and Heather Angel originally appeared. But the story will be rewritten, and this time Maureen O'Hara, Gregory Peck and Jeanne Crain will have the leading roles.

"The Strange Adventure" has an Academy Award line-up; Clark Gable, Greer Garson, Thomas Mitchell, Director Victor Fleming and Cameraman Joseph Rutenberg have all won their Oscars. The chickens which chase the actors have no Oscars, but they're prize stunt hens.

Want to appear on a quiz show? Then take a tip from Quizmaster Fred Uttal, who selects quiz contestants for the Wednesday night CBS "Detect and Collect" show. Fred says he looks the audience over and picks those with "the most eager hands."

ODDS AND ENDS—Cpl. Mickel Panajeff is spending his 30-day furlough working in "Night and Day" at Warners. . . . After two and a half years in the Coast Guard, Gig Young returns to Warners; he was last seen in "Old Acquaintance," with Bette Davis. . . . 20th Century-Fox has re-opened Allyn Joslyn for another year—he's currently appearing with Peggy Ann Garner in the film version of "Junior Misk." . . . Dix Davis, "Randolph on the ABC," "Date With Judy" program, has signed for the role of Hugh Herbert's son in the Sunday CBS "That's My Pop." . . . RKO will have two Danny Kaye technicolor comedies in 1945-46.

Imagine a radio audience listening to an exposition of the Einstein theory—and asking for more. That happened when "The Human Adventure" broadcast an explanation of it. The response was so great the program had to be repeated!

A broadcaster's nightmare happened on "Hollywood Mystery Time" when Constance Moore finished one page of her script and found the next page missing. Never missing a line, she ad-libbed till somebody passed her a script.

India's Army Force For Unifying Country

Common Language and Habits Tend to Break Down Former Prejudices; Troops Take Leadership in Communal Affairs.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street NW, Washington, D. C.

One heartening postwar picture arose out of the welter of hope, fear and expectation which held Washington in its grip through the news of the atomic bombs, the entrance of Russia into the war and then the exciting flash from Japan that kept us on tenter-hooks so long. When there seemed little to contemplate about but the lush growth of evil which had sprung from the planting of the dragon's teeth of war, I found, strangely enough, in the office of the representative of India in Washington, the belief that the war would turn out to be, in one respect, a blessing to that perturbed country.

India has furnished an army of 2 1/2 million men (the largest volunteer force in the world) in the prosecution of this war and that army has turned out to be "the greatest school of adult education" in the world. That's what the Indians proudly call it. True, soldiers in other armies have been "taught while they fought," but few have ever been able to add so much to the total knowledge of their nation.

I am told that after the last war, when an Indian village was found, especially in the Punjab, which was a little better run, with more progressive ideas and a more active social consciousness, it would also be discovered that its moving spirit was an ex-soldier—an Indian (Hindu or Moslem, Rajput or Sikh, no matter) who had brought home ideas on sanitation and hygiene, co-operation and understanding, absorbed during his period of service at home or abroad. But now the potentialities of this military missionaryship are immensely greater. Not merely because the Indian army is so much bigger, but because already it has served as a great melting pot, breaking down ancient prejudices and taboos which heretofore have made Indian unity impossible.

General Cariappa has a sense of humor and a perfect command of English (basic, colloquial and classic) in which to express it. (He went to school in England as a boy.) He told me the following story to illustrate the ramifications of the language problem in the Indian army:

A young British officer remarked to his native sergeant that it was really remarkable that in his comparatively small unit of only 300 men, six different languages were spoken.

"Oh, more than that, sir," the sergeant answered. "Nine different languages are spoken here. There are the six provincial languages. Then there is English, which you and I speak. Then there is Hindustani, which we all must speak. Then there is YOUR Hindustani!"

It is true that most of the Indian army has remained within the continental limits of the country, but that is not really strange, General Cariappa explained, since it takes 18 men "in the tail" as he put it, to keep one fighting man going. Many foreigners, seeing so many uniforms in India, received the impression that the whole army was "sitting down." These men, of course, are not combat troops held back for political or other reasons, the general said, but are largely the work troops, the great service of supply required to keep the armies in the field going.

The general claims that Indian soldiers are second to none as fighting men. The greater proportion of them are Madrashi, not at all the traditional fighting tribes who in the past have constituted what was called the "martial race." That term, long outmoded, has long since been dropped. The excuse for its use disappeared much earlier.

In the past there may have been some basis for this concept. Fighting begets fighters. As the British conquest of India moved slowly northward it left peace behind but ignited war ahead of it. So the northerners were the last whose vocation, or at least avocation, was mortal combat. The southerners returned to the gentler arts. But to return to the general. He quoted that truism which all military men know is sound: "There are no bad soldiers. There are only bad officers."

Let me end this column as I began it. If General Cariappa is typical of India's officers, there is hope, not only for a powerful Indian army, which I, with the rest of you, pray India will never need, but hope that the truisms which all military men know is sound: "There are no bad soldiers. There are only bad officers."

When I saw General Cariappa he was politely but none the less deeply pained over some of the reports in the American press which belittled India's participation in the war. He explained (which we in Washington knew) that there were two Indian soldiers to every one British soldier in the Burma fighting.

General Cariappa is working to prepare a completely independent Indian army. It is also, I dare to suggest, for an independent India. As a soldier, the general refused to discuss politics, but he said that naturally every loyal Indian looks forward to the independence of his country — "Something," he said, "which every one of our soldiers who has been fighting for the ideals of the United Nations expects." Like his fellow-countrymen and the British officers with whom I have talked, General Cariappa is proud of the seeds of unity which have been sown in the army.

In the first place, the army speaks and also reads and writes one language. Most of the soldiers when they enlist are of the peasant class and are illiterate. When their training commences they are immediately taught to read and write in Roman Urdu, which is a simplified Hindustani written with English (Roman) letters. Aside from the value of eradicating illiteracy, the knowledge and use of a common language removes one of the chief obstacles to harmony and understanding among the people. (There are 12 principal languages and 100 dialects spoken in India.) Many prejudices are broken down when the language barrier is broken down. When the war is over at least 2 1/2 million Indians will have the bond of a common tongue.

But more than that, they will have lived together, eaten together, in the field at least, lived in close companionship in barracks and developed teamwork and tolerance. There has been some suggestion that Basic English be made the official language of the army in India, and while, for the present, Hindustani appears more practical, the former has been taught on a large scale.

General Cariappa has a sense of humor and a perfect command of English (basic, colloquial and classic) in which to express it. (He went to school in England as a boy.) He told me the following story to illustrate the ramifications of the language problem in the Indian army:

A young British officer remarked to his native sergeant that it was really remarkable that in his comparatively small unit of only 300 men, six different languages were spoken.

Farmers' Welfare Dependent On Industrial Prosperity

The nation's six million farm families, together with other millions almost wholly dependent upon agriculture, should feel a deep and growing concern about forces now at work. These forces either will or will not bring about industrial peace, and a full and complete postwar economy in the country.

As so often has been pointed out, agriculture and the 35 million people supported by it are mainly dependent upon labor and industry for material prosperity. It is axiomatic there can be no prosperous agriculture without large purchasing power in the non-agricultural fields.

Better Diet for All

Roughly, this measure has a two-fold purpose. . . . to make an adequate diet possible for every family and to increase the demand for farm products.

There is an old adage that "you can't reason with a hungry man" and so empty stomachs have a direct bearing on political action and political beliefs.

Economic Balance Sought

It is true that in some areas there have been rumblings from farmers against high wartime wages . . . that these wages have lured men away from farms . . . that workers should have saved enough to tide them over.

High on the list of needs in agricultural legislation is the program supported by farm organizations, to regroup farm credit and loaning agencies into one independent agency.

The Farmers Union, with its large membership in the plains states, from the Dakotas south through Oklahoma and Texas, would tie in this new credit agency with the large over-all program of the Triple A and soil conservation. They would set up an elected farm committee in each county with veto power.

A Bell for Adano

place their bell stolen by the Nazis. Despite orders issued by General Marvin, barring carts from the city, Joppolo recalled the orders, to permit food and water to enter the city. The people of the city had arranged a party of appreciation for the Major. The bell arrived, as did also orders from General Marvin relieving the Major of command.

CHAPTER XXII

Major Joppolo was excited. He called up Lieutenant Livingston and thanked him for his part in getting the bell. "Why hell," he said, "it ought to be up this afternoon. Maybe we can ring it for the party tonight. You're coming, aren't you?"

"Wouldn't miss it, Major." "Well, see you there, Captain. Thanks, hell of a lot." "Don't mention it. Say, there's just one thing, Major."

"What's that?" "I'm a Lieutenant. It takes a long time to get to be a Captain in the Navy."

"Is that a fact?" the Major said. "Well, you ought to be a Captain soon," and he hung up. He picked up the note and finished it.

"Thought you might be interested to know a little more about Corelli and the background of the bell. Toot Dowling, who, by the way, is very generous to give up his bell—I don't think it would hurt to write him a letter about it. (U.S. Corelli, care Postmaster, New York.)

"Toot told me a little about Corelli. He said his full name was Vincent Corelli and he had a destroyer in the last war. I had it a bit wrong the other day. What happened was that Corelli was on an escort duty in the North Atlantic, and this Italian freighter got in a borell left his station with a convoy and he went and took off all the Italians with breeches buoy although I don't know how much you know about navigation, it was very dangerous to close with the freighter in that kind of a storm. That was on November 12, 1917, Toot says. Of course Toot is an old classmate of mine and a lousy football player and I never knew what to believe when he says it. But I think this dope is correct and hope you enjoy the noise it makes."

"If you ever get in any trouble, just come around to the Navy, and I'm sure they'll be able to fix you up."

"For collaboration between the services," "Rock Robertson (Lt. Comdr., USN)."

Zito moved near to the desk while the Major read, and when he was finished, the usher said, "We have a new bell, Mister Major."

"We have a new bell, Zito." "Is the tone good enough?" "I hope so, Zito. I think so." "Is there some history to it?" "Yes, Zito, I'll tell you about it when the bell is up. Do you think I ought to make a little speech explaining the bell to the people here?"

ness about it? You know I forced the Navy to let them go out." Purely by way of teasing, Borth said something he had said to regret later: "Sure," he said, "you could catch hell for that. You could get sent back to the States."

And Major Joppolo said: "They wouldn't do that, they couldn't." Borth said: "Why couldn't they? I heard about a fellow in airborne who got sent home just for getting drunk."

Major Joppolo said: "They couldn't, Borth, there's so much to do here. Think if they got somebody dope like that fellow up at Pontebasso."

Borth said: "You don't like yourself much, do you?" Major Joppolo said: "Oh lay off, Borth, sometimes you aren't funny."

At 12:25 Zito came running down to the Albergo dei Pescatori to tell the Major that the bell was uncrated. "It looks nice," he said.

The Major tried to get Borth to go up with him to look at the bell, but Borth said: "This eggplant is so good, I don't see how I could leave it."

So the Major went up with Zito. On the way the usher said: "Before I forget it, Mister Major, the officials are very anxious to meet with you at four o'clock. They said it was important."

A moment of worry showed itself on the Major's face. "Is it about the fishermen, Zito?" Zito said: "I am the usher, Mister Major, the officials do not tell me what is on their minds." Then

And then everything was wonderful in the mind of Victor Joppolo. He knew exactly what he would say. Words came to him which were beautiful and were the truth about the new bell and its meaning for Adano, and about what he, Victor Joppolo, wanted for the people of Adano. The words were as clear as anything can be, and as true.

At about two o'clock the courier came by motorcycle from Vicinamare. From his office Sergeant Borth saw him throw the pouch onto the sidewalk in front of the Palazzo. Mail, even official mail, was enough for an event so that Sergeant Borth got up and went across to the Palazzo and up to Major Joppolo's office to see what there was.

There was nothing for Sergeant Borth, but as long as Major Joppolo was out, Sergeant Borth decided to rifle through what there was.

his shoulders and said: "It is all right." "I know old Guzzo. He does not exaggerate. When he says something is fair, he means it is perfect. The bell will be very good."

"I'm glad," the Major said. "A few minutes past one o'clock, Major Joppolo went home to his villa to take a nap. He wanted to save up some strength for the party—but he also wanted to think a little about his speech on the bell."

He lay down on his bed. At first his thoughts were confused, because he was excited. But gradually the thoughts began to sort themselves out, and everything came very straight to Major Joppolo.

He would say a few words, he thought, about the removal of the old bell. Then he would tell about how the people of Adano had interested him in trying to get a new one. Then a few words about Corelli, and what he had done for Italians in the last war, and then the meaning today of the inscription on that bell, the words from Leviticus: "Proclaim liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof."

And then everything was wonderful in the mind of Victor Joppolo. He knew exactly what he would say. Words came to him which were beautiful and were the truth about the new bell and its meaning for Adano, and about what he, Victor Joppolo, wanted for the people of Adano. There was nothing for Sergeant Borth, but as long as Major Joppolo was out, Sergeant Borth decided to rifle through what there was.

In time he came on a paper addressed to Major Joppolo. He read it:

"I. You are authorized to proceed by first available transportation to A.F.H.Q., Algiers, via port of Vicinamare."

"2. Reassignment of station will be made by A.F.H.Q."

"3. Reason for this order is that reference (1) did willfully and without consultation countermand orders issued by General Marvin, 49th Division, re entry of mule carts into town of Adano."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

RECONVERSION PROBLEMS FACE OFFICIAL WASHINGTON. A lively fuss is being raised against the government failure to provide for reconversion.

Behind the failure to make a plan (and this is apparent, if it has not been fully reported) it has not been fully reported) the various government departments. The army has never forgotten its scare at prematurely anticipating the end of the European war.

The army is keeping its production going at a terrific pace, and told the Mead committee (although this was not published in the report) that it is drafting 3,000 men a month while discharging 4,000 a month for a net add of 1,000 a month.

INTERNAL BICKERING. To the problem, Mr. Truman put his best new man, John W. Snyder, who found it to be a nest of economic and political bores constrictors, and his grasping so far has not indicated whether he will throw them or they him.

So we have had such a condition as this following incident discloses: A business man came to Washington seeking authority to build a plane to supply parts for the automobile industry, admittedly the key in reconversion. He was told he could go ahead as his effort was immediately desirable.

Not in Reverse. Mrs. Katz—I want to know how much money my husband has drawn out this month. Teller—Sorry, Mrs. Katz, but I can't give you that information.

Stand at Ease. The landlady stopped the new lodger on his way to the dining room. "How did you sleep last night?" she asked. "I'm afraid the bed in No. 13 is a trifle hard."

For Parents Only. Little Jill approached her teacher as the other children were leaving for home. "Miss Blivens," she inquired diffidently, "what did I learn in school today? My daddy always wants to know."

UNIONS SHOW GAINS. The union war worker is the man who made the biggest wage increase during the war. The Little Steel formula was shot so full of holes by the unions (upgrading pay devices, vacations, pay for portals to courts and perhaps a new labor board setup or at least to provide a sensible agreement, under which men may work and the nation produce in the brave new world.

Involved legitimately are the problems of prices and wages. These related problems are in a far worse muddle than the Washington reconversion machinery.

Clearly then, this is not a problem to be handled by political panaceas such as a spending program, or even by straightening out the government's muddle of bureaucratic conflicts, the adoption of the Mead recommendations, or a mild success for labor-management.

T/4 BACKHAUS HOME FROM ETO; OVERSEAS 12 MONTHS

T/4 Howard Backhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Backhaus of this village, arrived home on his birthday Sunday, Aug. 26, to spend a 30-day furlough after 12 months of duty in the European Theater of Operations. He served in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany with the 2nd Battalion, Headquarters Company, 129 Regiment, T/4 Backhaus returned to the States on the Queen Mary which docked in New York the forepart of last week. He was sent to the personnel center for redeployment at Camp McCoy, Wis. and then was given a furlough. Howard took part in five major battles, for which he was awarded five battle stars, the combat infantryman's badge, a presidential citation, bronze star and good conduct medal. Following his furlough, T/4 Backhaus will report back for reassignment at Camp McCoy.

T/5 ZACHO HOME FROM ETO AFTER SIX MONTHS OVERSEAS

T/5 William K. Zacho, son of Mike Zacho of Route 2, Kewaskum, has arrived home to spend a furlough of several weeks after six months of duty in the European Theater of Operations. He served in France, Germany and England with the 16th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron. After arriving in the States he was sent to the personnel center for redeployment at Camp McCoy, Wis. where he was given a furlough. After his furlough at home T/5 Zacho will return to Camp McCoy for reassignment.

PFC. ALFRED UELMEN HOME AFTER 17 MONTHS OVERSEAS

Arriving home Saturday morning, Aug. 18, Pfc. Alfred Uelmen, a former resident of Kewaskum, and son of the Joseph Uelmens of West Bend, also former village residents, is enjoying a 36-day furlough with his wife, Mrs. Verona Uelmen at Plymouth after 17 months of service in the European Theater of Operations.

Pfc. Uelmen returned to the States in 10 days by boat, docking in New York and was sent to New Jersey before going to the personnel center for redeployment at Camp McCoy, Wis. He will report back at Camp McCoy at the termination of his furlough, Sept. 23, and from there expects to go to Houston, Tex.

Attached to the 22nd Medical Depot, he served in England, France, Luxembourg, Czechoslovakia and Austria. For the five campaigns his unit participated in, he wears five battle stars on his ETO ribbon and the good conduct ribbon.

Pfc. Uelmen has been in service the past 25 months and was stationed at Camp Grant, Ill. and Louisville, Ky. before going overseas.

S/SGT. BACKHAUS WILL BE DISCHARGED SOON; WRITES

S/Sgt. Lloyd Backhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Backhaus of the town of Kewaskum, overseas yet now stationed at Clovis, New Mexico, sends a few lines to inform us that he expects to be discharged from the U. S. army under the point system in September. He writes:

Clovis Air Base
23 Aug. 1945

"Hi, Bill:

"Just a short note to inform you that it isn't necessary for you to continue to send me the paper. Have 104 points and I'm NOT going to be a peacetime soldier, so I'm all FINISHED.

As ever, Lloyd
"P. S. Asking you a small favor. When you see me next month yell 'Hi, Mr.' cause that's music to my ears."

LT. GEO. PETE HOME FROM FRANCE; VISITS FOLKS HERE

Noted Leader of French Underground Will Speak

Marcel Alexandre Maillard, a Frenchman who fought the Germans both as an officer in the French army and as a leader of the underground, who was captured three times and escaped three times, who was a prisoner in the notorious internment camp at Buchenwald and who was tortured by the Gestapo, will tell of his experiences in an address at West Bend on Tuesday, Sept. 4.

The meeting, a 6:30 p. m. dinner affair, is being sponsored by the West Bend Kiwanis club and it will be held in the Fellowship hall of the Fifth Avenue Methodist church. An invitation has been issued to West Bend Rotarians and members of the county war fund, war finance and other organizations to attend.

M. Maillard will be sent to West Bend by the Wisconsin War Fund. He is one of several speakers whom the war fund state headquarters in Milwaukee will send throughout the state to acquaint the public with the need for relief in countries that were occupied by the Germans.

Wisconsin War Fund is affiliated with the National War Fund, which raises money for the organizations that supply this relief, as well as for the USO and other war relief organizations.

M. Maillard was captured twice while serving in the French army, and escaped both times. When France collapsed he joined the underground. He obtained an official position with the Vichy government that enabled him to arrange for French boys to escape to North Africa.

Later he managed to obtain appointment as a major in the French railway police. This enabled him to organize an underground network of railway employees through which he furnished London with detailed information regarding German troop movements. He also helped direct sabotage, and his work included arranging for the transportation of arms and explosives in official Vichy and German trains.

Eventually he came under suspicion, and the Gestapo tried to arrest him. He escaped, and thereafter lived and worked with the members of the underground. Finally he was arrested, and was tortured by the Gestapo in an effort to make him reveal the names of his associates.

Then he was condemned to death, but because of the approach of the American army the sentence was revoked and he and other prisoners were sent to the Buchenwald internment camp. After he had been there eight months the approach of the American army caused the Germans to attempt to transfer him to the equally notorious internment camp at Dachau.

He tried to escape from the prison train and failed, but tried again and succeeded. After a week in a forest, with nothing to eat but dandelions and snails, he found the American army. A few days later he was in Paris, celebrating V-E day.

M. Maillard is in the United States on a special mission for the French Ministry of Information.

HONORED AT TWO SHOWERS

Miss Eleanor Schief, who will become the bride of Roy Mayer of Milwaukee on Saturday, Sept. 1, was honored at two showers the past week. On Friday evening a kitchen utensil shower in her honor was given at the Schief home by Miss Schief's sisters, Miss Marcela and Mrs. Howard Mayer, and Miss La Verne Terlinden. About 16 guests were entertained. On Monday night the bride-to-be's cousin, Mrs. Les Kurtz of Menomonee Falls gave a canned goods shower in her honor at the Kurtz home. About 15 guests were entertained, including the Schief girls from here.

HONOR MARINE AT PARTY

Quartermaster Sergeant Elmer Rafenstein of the U. S. Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rafenstein of Milwaukee and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heiser of this village, who just returned home after three years of action in the South Pacific area, was guest of honor at a homecoming celebration in the form of a lawn party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Heiser near Theresa Sunday. About 50 relatives and friends were entertained at the gathering, all of whom brought foodstuffs and refreshments to make the occasion complete.

A sumptuous dinner and supper were served out-of-doors and snacks and refreshments of various kinds were enjoyed throughout the day and evening. Entertainment was furnished by the Blatz Old Heidelberg quartet of Milwaukee with singing and comedy numbers as well as other singers. Sgt. Rafenstein's father is a member of the quartet. The day was spent sociably, the amusement including singing, card playing, games and prizes for the children. The following from Kewaskum were in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Martin and daughter Mary, Mrs. Louis Heiser, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harbeck and daughters, Carole and Sharon.

KNITTING CLUB PICNIC

Young ladies of the local knitting club, with their husbands and friends, enjoyed a picnic and outing in the village park on Sunday. Lunch and refreshments were enjoyed and a sociable time was had.

4-Day Teachers' Workshop Features Fine Speakers

The annual teachers' workshop for all rural and state graded school teachers of the county closed Thursday following four days of sessions featuring noteworthy guest speakers. A number of teachers from Kewaskum and community attended.

The conference started off Monday with the introductory address by Jerold C. Buckley wherein he emphasized the importance of detailed and systematic planning in both program and curriculum building. Also on Monday's program was Paul Kaiser, former county superintendent of Dodge county, who discussed visual education, a subject in which he has established a state-wide reputation.

Miss Marion Trachte, county nurse, discussed the place that the teaching of nutrition should have in a modern school curriculum, and Judge F. W. Bucklin, speaking at the noonday luncheon in the Fifth Avenue Methodist church, addressed the audience on the subject of developing a national conscience in our dealings with

MODERN HEALTH TALKS

By ROBERT G. ROBERTS, D. C.
Questions about your health will be answered in this department.
Address your inquiry to this newspaper.

YOUR BODY?

Many folks, in answer to this question, would say, "No—I eat good, well-balanced meals, and so I am not starving my body."

But today, in this discussion, I am not thinking of food—but rather of the ability of your body to digest and eventually assimilate the digested food particles.

It is the function of the mouth, stomach, and small intestine to prepare the food for the body. Certain body chemicals are called into play to digest certain foods. In the mouth ptyalin begins the work of converting starch into sugar. In the stomach rennin acts on milk protein—and pepsin converts meat protein so soluble peptides.

Besides chemical activity, there is also rhythmic muscular activity called peristalsis, which is constantly churning and mixing these foods and enzymes, and constantly moving them onward.

other nations. On Tuesday morning the teachers heard a short address by Winston Brown, superintendent of Waukesha county schools, who spoke of the tremendous responsibilities teachers have in forming the character of a small child.

On Wednesday the assembly heard Eldon W. Mason, director of the Junior Red Cross for the midwestern area, and who has a wide experience in the field of education.

The annual workshop was well attended and all present benefited.
