

Wenzel Peter, 90, Esteemed Tn. Wayne Man, Mrs. Klug Die

Wenzel Peter, aged 90 years and six months, retired farmer and livestock dealer, and one of the town of Wayne's oldest and most venerable residents, passed away in St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, on Sunday evening, June 23. Death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage, which followed a year's illness.

Mr. Peter, who owned a number of farms and properties in the surrounding community, was born Dec. 23, 1855, in Germany. He came to this country in 1875 and settled in the town of Ashford, where he lived a few years before moving to the town of Wayne. He came to his present home in 1894.

He was married to the former Katharine Petersik on Nov. 20, 1876 at St. Killian. His wife, who has reached the advanced age of 94 years, survives. The esteemed couple had the honor and blessing to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, which they did quite elaborately in November, 1926. They observed their 60th anniversary in 1936 and would have reached the 70th anniversary this coming November.

Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter, four of whom preceded their parents in death. Surviving are Mrs. Anna Felix, Celia (Mrs. Joseph Mayer) and George Peter, all of the town of Wayne. The deceased is further survived by 15 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren, a son-in-law and a daughter-in-law, and many other relatives.

Mr. Peter was a member of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin and also the Holy Name society of St. Killian's parish, St. Killian.

The remains were in state at the Miller funeral home here, from where funeral services were conducted at 8:45 a. m. Wednesday to St. Killian's church. The Rev. John E. Reichel officiated at the requiem mass and burial took place in the family mausoleum in St. Killian's cemetery.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday at St. Killian's church. The Rev. John E. Reichel officiated at the requiem mass and burial took place in the family mausoleum in St. Killian's cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our relatives and friends who so kindly assisted us and expressed sympathy in our bereavement, the death of our dear husband and father, Wenzel Peter. Special thanks to Father Reichel, the organist and choir, drivers of cars, pallbearers, members of the Holy Name society and Catholic Knights, for the many beautiful bouquets and beautiful floral pieces, to Millers, the traffic officers and all who showed their respect by calling at the funeral home or attending the last rites.

MRS. KATHERINE KLUG

Mrs. Katherine Klug, 88, beloved resident and one of the oldest citizens of this village, died suddenly at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday, June 26, at her home on Main street. She had not been ill and was very active up to the time of her death.

Mrs. Klug, a resident of this village more than half a century, was born June 20, 1858 at Addison where she grew to womanhood. She was married to Gustave Klug and the couple resided in West Bend for several years before coming to Kewaskum 53 years ago. Her husband preceded her in death many years ago.

Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Klug, one of whom, Mabel (Mrs. August Hanst) of Milwaukee predeceased her. Surviving are Mrs. Anna Strachota, Ida (Mrs. Oscar Koerbel), Meta (Mrs. Art. Koch) and Elmer of this village, Alex of Random Lake, Lena (Mrs. Emil Kruse) and Linda (Mrs. Frank Geiger) of Milwaukee. She is further survived by 15 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The remains are in state at the Miller funeral home, where funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Wm. G. Schwemmer will officiate and burial will be in the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church cemetery. Miss Charlotte Romaine will be soloist at the services, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Elwyn Romaine.

Six grandsons of the deceased will act as pallbearers.

ALBINGER-SCHAEFFER In a nine o'clock nuptial high mass read by the Rev. R. G. Kastner in St. Michael's church, St. Michaels, on Saturday morning, June 22, Miss Marie Schaeffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schaeffer of Route 1, Kewaskum, exchanged wedding vows with Clarence Albinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Albinger of Newburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of veivary marquisette with a long train. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of rhinestones and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies and feverfew.

For her attendants the bride chose her sister, Miss Eleanor Schaeffer, as maid of honor and Mrs. Edwin Gross, another sister, as bridesmaid. Carol Ann Becker, niece of the bride, was the little flower girl. The maid of honor wore a yellow nylon taffeta gown with matching headpiece and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses with snapdragons and feverfew. The bridesmaid was attired in orchid, her gown being fashioned with chiffon skirt, satin top, sweetheart neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She wore a matching headpiece and carried yellow roses with snapdragons and feverfew. Both attendants and the flower girl wore heart shaped locketts, gifts of the bride.

The groom was attended by his brothers, Paul Albinger, as best man, and Lawrence Albinger as groomsmen, Alton Albinger, nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony and later the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to Yellowstone park. They will make their home at Saukville where the groom is engaged as a mechanic at the Saukville Auto Sales. The bride was employed at the Amity Leather Products company in West Bend prior to her marriage.

VAN BEEK-SCHLADWEILER

St. Michael's church at St. Michaels was the scene of a wedding ceremony on Wednesday morning, June 19, when Miss Deborah Schladweiler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schladweiler, Route 1, Kewaskum, became the bride of John Van BEEK Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van BEEK Sr. of West Bend, Route 2. The couple exchanged vows during a nuptial high mass read at 9 a. m. by the Rev. Vincent Schneider, cousin of the bride.

The dark haired bride wore a hermet and taffeta gown, which had long sleeves and a long train. Her fingertip veil was gathered to an orange blossom head piece and she carried a sheaf of carnations. Her sister, Miss Viola Schladweiler, as maid of honor, wore yellow net and taffeta with a matching head piece and carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas, carnations and roses. Mrs. Robert Peters, sister of the groom, and Miss Bernice Schladweiler, another sister of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Mrs. Peters wore blue net over taffeta, while Miss Schladweiler wore pink net over taffeta. Both wore matching head pieces and carried colonial bouquets. Little Miss Sharon Schmidt, a niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Her frock was yellow marquisette over taffeta and she carried a

MISS BRUHN RETURNS HOME

Miss Esile Bruhn returned home the past week after spending the past few months visiting her brother Richard and family in Panama and her brother-in-law and sister in St. Louis, Mo. Her brother, William Bruhn, who accompanied her to Panama, returned here some time ago.

Holy Trinity Parish Picnic Fine Success

The second annual parish picnic sponsored by Holy Trinity congregation in the village park last Sunday was a splendid success in all ways. The parish was blessed with sunny skies and warm weather—ideal for a picnic—and large crowds of people assembled in the park both afternoon and evening for the affair.

The picnic was a grand success financially and the committee in charge wishes to thank everyone who attended the affair and especially all those who assisted at the event or helped in any other way. The proceeds will be used toward the new parish hall now being completed in the church basement.

Concert music throughout the afternoon and evening was supplied by Al's Melody Kings and between their concert recordings played over a loud speaking system kept the people entertained. Other entertainment, the games of skill and amusement and refreshments gave the folks an enjoyable time. The only drawback was the shortage of beer and soda water, this refreshment stand was sold out and closed up early in the evening. Because of the rush in business, some stands ran out of prizes early in the evening and committee members scurried to local stores to pick up as many more articles for prizes as they could.

More than $150.00 in valuable merchandise prizes were given away at 10:30 p. m. and the lucky winners were as follows:

- 1. Barton Electric Washer ($69.50)—No. 14,566, Pvt. Vince Polyak, 2025-A N. 13th St., Milwaukee.
- 2. Student's Kneehole Desk ($45.45)—No. 2,057, Clarence Buntjar, Kewaskum.
- 3. Coronado Radio ($22.95)—No. 9,884, Geo. Kreh, West Bend.
- 4. Floor Lamp ($19.95)—No. 15,365, Paula Petri, Kewaskum, R. 2.
- 5. Set of Table Lamps ($18.95)—No. 16,827, Kone Koenig, West Bend, R. 1.
- 6. 5 Gallons Motor Oil ($5.00)—No. 10,998, Margaret Metz, Kewaskum.

Heisler, Polenske Take Over Taverns

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heisler, who last April purchased the Christ Welter tavern and adjoining buildings on Main street from Mr. and Mrs. Welter, and their sons, Franklin and Louis Jr. this week moved from their former tavern and residence on Fond du Lac avenue into the living rooms at the rear and above their new tavern. Mr. Heisler, who will continue in the tavern business for the present, will not open for business for a couple of weeks until all the furniture has been placed and stock and equipment made ready. Mr. and Mrs. Welter and son recently moved to the northern part of the state.

Mrs. Jennie Schlosser and son Harold, who occupied the rooms at the rear of the Heislers' new place, Thursday moved to the home of the former's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halfman and family at Campbellsport where Mrs. Schlosser will occupy these rooms themselves as part of their living quarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence F. Polenske, who purchased the Heisler tavern and property, moved here with their three children from West Bend on Thursday and are now occupying the upstairs living rooms. The Polenskies will take over the tavern on Monday, July 1, and expect to be open for business on that date.

Brooks Team Noses Out Falls for Third in Row

In a tight pitcher's battle at Menomonee Falls Sunday the Kewaskum team of the Land o' Brooks league knocked the previously unbeaten Falls team out of the league lead by noosing them out, 4 to 3. The victory was the unbeaten Kewaskum nine's third in a row and boosted them up to the top of the standings with Mayville which has won 4 games.

County Vets Elect; Rosenheimer Named

At a well attended meeting of the Washington County Veterans' association held at West Bend on Monday night, Attorney Steve O'Meara of West Bend was elected president of the veterans' association. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Leroy Waterman, Germantown and Lehman Rosenheimer Jr. of Kewaskum; secretary, George Kiehrer of West Bend and treasurer, Robert Riley of Hartford.

Important business was transacted and 34 new members joined the association. The meeting closed with a very inspirational talk by County Judge Frank Bucklin who outlined the primary objectives of the Washington County Veterans' association. Bucklin stated that he sees a great future for the association and that the veterans of Washington county should play a very important part in maintaining good government in the county.

Frank J. Bauer of Campbellsport Dies

Frank J. Bauer, 48, a civic and business leader at Campbellsport, and a member of the Fond du Lac county board for the last 10 years, died in his sleep Saturday night at the family home in that village. He was found dead at 11 p. m. Mr. Bauer who had been about the village throughout the day, retired early in the evening after complaining of not feeling well.

Mr. Bauer was president of the First State bank in Campbellsport, owner of a garage and proprietor of a large fleet of milk trucks. He was numbered among the original group of operators in the state to transport milk in tank trucks. He was a member of the Campbellsport Lions club and a past president of the group. He also belonged to the Fond du Lac council 668, Knights of Columbus, and of the Elks and Moose lodges in that city.

He was born Sept. 25, 1897, and was a resident of Campbellsport since he was seven years old, having moved there with his parents, Joseph and Anna Bauer, from Necedah, the place of his birth.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mary Farrell, to whom he was married Oct. 14, 1919; his parents; a daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Bertotti; a granddaughter, Sharon Kay, and the following brothers and sisters: Edward M., Joseph Jr., Floyd T. and George W. and Mrs. Theresa Farrell, all of Campbellsport; Mrs. Lillian Sprangel and Mrs. Viola Scheid of Milwaukee and Mrs. Florence Mitchell of Plymouth.

Funeral services were held at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday from the Berge funeral home, Campbellsport, and at 9 a. m. at St. Matthew's church there. A solemn requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. A. C. Biber, assisted by other priests. A number of priests were also seated in the sanctuary and sang the Benedictus at the graveside. Burial was in the church cemetery.

In a heartbreaker at Sheboygan Sunday played in the Sheboygan Indiana State league park, the Kewaskum Utensils lost a tough game when they were nosed out in the last inning with two men out, 9 to 8. Leading 8-3 until the 8th inning and apparently having the game on ice, the Utensils allowed Sheboygan to get 2 runs in the 8th and 4 in the 9th to go down in defeat. The upset dropped Kewaskum from undisputed second place to a tie for third with Campbellsport. Quite a few local fans followed the team to Sheboygan.

The hardest part of the defeat was the way the Utensils lost. With two out and the score tied at 8-8 in the last of the ninth, Kewaskum had a player trapped half way between third and home. Four players were running him down but while they were tossing the ball back and forth he got past them somehow to score. Had one of the men chased him more right at the start instead of tossing the ball to another player, he might have tagged him out.

Kewaskum scored 3 runs in the third to lead until the fourth when Sheboygan pushed 3 counters over. The locals tied it up in the fifth, and scored 2 more in the sixth, 2 in the seventh and 1 in the eighth, to go ahead 8-3. The opponents got 2 across in the eighth to make it 8-5 and then came the ninth. The first man fanned, the next two singled and then Pilling popped out for the second out. The next man singled and then cleanup batter Torgerson broke up the game with a smash down the right field foul line which rolled to the fence. The ball was lost momentarily in the high grass along the wall and by the time Tessar threw it in the runner was streaking for third base. He rounded third for home but the throw trapped him half way between. He scored, however, on the fatal run-down mentioned above.

The Utensils connected for 14 hits off Luft, former Wisconsin State loop pitcher, while Marx gave up 13. The hitting of Paul Kral, who caught the first 8 innings, and Tessar featured Kewaskum's attack. Each got 3 hits, one of Kral's being a triple and a fly double and one of Tessar's being a double. Ziechert was the hero for Sheboygan with 4 hits, followed by Ohschmidt with 3.

The big game of the season will be played here Sunday when Kewaskum plays host to the rival Campbellsport Belles. The Belles and the locals are tied for third place. Players and fans of both teams have been pointing for this game all season and it should be a honey. We understand there has been a lot of money laid down on the line for this tussle and both teams will be out to win, so don't miss it. Chuck Schramm, Belle speedballer, will oppose Honeck or Marx on the hill. Next Thursday, July 4th, the Utensils will bring the first half of the season to a close with a game at Random Lake. This will be another tough one as Random Lake, which has been going strong lately, holds second place in the loop.

Water Here Unsafe for Swimming; Bus Takes Kids to Lake

Reports from the state department of hygiene show the water at the Kewaskum beach unsafe for swimming. The beach is closed and no swimming is allowed by order of the local authorities.

Because of this condition a free bus will leave from the high school daily Monday through Friday at 1:10 p. m. for Mauthe lake and leave to return at 5 p. m. The bus is intended for boys and girls from school age up. Any younger than school age should be in the care of older boys or girls if they are sent. Excellent protection and facilities for swimming are offered by the regular life guard stationed there and Raechel Brauchle and Ernest Mitchell from the village. Recreational games are being arranged also.

Swimming Courses Start

Beginning Monday regular swimming and water safety instructions by certified Red Cross instructors will be installed for all those interested. Registration for this free instruction will be on Friday and Monday. Children from six up will be accepted. It is recommended that parents encourage regular attendance at these classes to obtain the desired result since swimming is not only a fine recreation but a means of saving your own life or helping others in distress. Both beginners and advanced classes will be taught.

Men's Softball League

Monday at 6:30 will begin the men's softball league at the high school grounds. This will be a practice and organization meeting and everyone at all interested is encouraged to attend.

BADGER FIREMEN'S TOURNEY AT CEDARBURG ON SUNDAY

A double event will be observed at Cedarburg Saturday and Sunday, June 29 and 30, when the 43rd annual tournament of the Badger Firemen's association will be held and the Cedarburg fire department will mark the 30th anniversary of its existence. A feature of Sunday's program will be a parade of all fire departments in the association. The usual contests will not be held. Awards will be given to fire departments having the largest number of members in the parade. Kewaskum is a member of the association and many from here will attend.

August Becker, 96, Dies

August Becker, aged 96, died early Friday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lechke at Mayville, with whom he was staying at present. He was the father of the late Jacob Becker of this village and Henry Becker of Kohlsville and stayed at the Becker home here part of the time. Call the Miller funeral home, Kewaskum, for further information. Funeral arrangements had not been made at this writing.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. A. C. Johnson and daughters, Audrey and Beverly, and Mrs. William Harbeck had their tonsils removed at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, on Tuesday, June 25. They returned home Wednesday. Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Buettner of this village had their tonsils removed at the hospital Wednesday, June 26.

SCHLADWEIERS MOVE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Schladweiler have moved from West Bend into the upper apartment of the Christ Welter home (formerly owned by Lester Dreher) on Fond du Lac avenue. Mr. Schladweiler is engaged as a mechanic at the K. A. Honeck garage.

SUPREME COURT SAYS:

Landlord, and Not the Pilot Has Title to Land over Home

WASHINGTON.—The landlord has property rights in the air above his home or business, the Supreme court has declared in a precedent-breaking decision for America's new age of flight.

First, the high tribunal declared that a landowner has title to as much of the air-space above his property as its use and enjoyment requires. Second, repeated invasion of such air-space by low-flying aircraft is akin to trespassing and subject to legal redress.

The court reached its conclusion by a 5 to 2 decision after looking into the protests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Baubys, a North Carolina farm couple whose chickens were so badly scared by army bombers from a nearby airfield they flew into fences and broke their necks.

The situation became so bad, Caubys said, that he was forced out of the chicken business and his home made uninhabitable, with his family suffering from fright and nervousness.

The U. S. court of claims here said the couple was entitled to $2,000 damages. The Supreme court said

French Dampen Nazi Hopes For Rebirth as Red Check

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The ghost of Adolph Hitler, reported to have been executing a little jig dance of joy in Europe's political rubble heap, like the one he performed after signing the armistice of defeated France, is probably not quite so cheerful today.

His prediction of chaos or communism in Europe, a wishful "apres moi le deluge," hit a setback for the second time when the sturdy, middle-of-the-road Frenchman got behind the middle-of-the-road Republican Catholic party, and defeated the Communists, just as an earlier vote killed the constitution which the Reds wanted.

Because Hitler knew his greatest hope for a Nazi rebirth was a Communist Germany, his spirit probably rejoiced when the iron curtain went down on Germany's eastern frontiers, and one of Russia's border countries after another were bulldozed into one-party, leftist-front rule.

With France turned Communist, Germany would be an island in a red sea, and would soon have to take on protective coloring, it was assumed. The next step, according to Hitler's hope, was the reaction to Nazism.

Now, for the first time since V-E Day, France seems to have shaken off her carmine shackles. Before the recent election, some quarters were predicting that if the French middle class and peasants could not get rid of the left-wing domination by ballots, they would try it with bullets. The left-wingers themselves were warning of a reactionary revolution, and as late as the spring of this year dire warnings were being sounded.

Donald B. Robinson, former civil affairs officer in France, wrote in the April Mercury magazine that: "In no nation of northwestern Europe are there such distrust and loathing between classes and groups as in France today. The bitter division which has driven General de Gaulle into retirement, and constantly threatens the precarious equilibrium maintained by the left coalition, is rooted in implacable hate between the moderates, centrists and rightists on the one hand and the Communists on the other. . . . This situation complicated the Allies' problems in regard to Germany. However, with France now staggering to her feet, there is a chance for more harmony among the western Allies, and it is possible that Germany, with proper controls and minus a huge slice of the rich mineral land of the Saar in French hands, may have her three zones sufficiently united to begin to support herself; to start to pay some of her bills with the consumer goods that her neighbor nations want from her, and can't get anywhere else.

The results of the French elections are particularly gratifying from the standpoint of the western Allies because they appear to have established a degree of harmony among the more conservative French elements without revealing a reactionary trend.

MRP Seeks Unity Against Class War

The triumphant Popular Republican movement (MRP) had a platform which, according to French authorities, went beyond the political field to take a moral stand. The platform stressed the need for re-enforcing unity among the newcomers (the right wing elements of the Socialist party made up of members of the old resistance), and all those opposing the efforts by the Communists to incite class hatred.

At the same time, the MRP disavowed all connection with the Radical Socialists, who, despite their name, are considered too conservative by many members of the resistance who formerly had joined in a common front with the Communists.

The election results may mean a change in Russian policy, for in spite of themselves, the western Allies have been forced to take unified action if any action at all was to be taken. It is possible that Russia was merely stalling, hoping to establish her influence in Europe, including France. Now that this strategy has failed in regard to France, she may be more cooperative. Either that . . . or resign herself to taking an Allied western bloc and liking it.

Lobbyists Fill 14 Columns

The lobby barometer of the present congress has run up a pressure record this session which is probably an all-time high. Never in the history of the capital have there been more pressure groups operating, as the listings under "associations" in the classified section of the Washington telephone directory testify.

The "associations" fill 14 columns and very few are not interested in some kind of legislation, pending or prospective, and interested enough to have an office in the capital or at least a telephone number. There are a lot more with offices under the hats of their representatives, which prefer to remain anonymous to the public.

Alphabetically speaking, the American Automobile association leads the list, and the Zionists and George Zoek conclude it. One newcomer nudged itself right up to second place—the Amvets, one of the 26 veterans organizations listed, including the American Legion and the Buck Privates association as examples of the old and the new.

Alcoholics Anonymous appear, not as anonymous this time. There is the Association of University Professors, and right next door, the University Women, which makes it congenial. There are bakers, bankers, members of the bar, and (no relation) bottlers of carbonated beverages.

The "antis" are present—four of them: Anti-Cigarette alliance; Anti-Defamation league; Anti-Rent Tax committee; and, of course, the Anti-Saloon league, to balance the Liquor dealers and the Distillers institute further on down the page.

Certain happier combinations suggest themselves. Take the National Caterers and Sandwich Makers association and the Mayonnaise and Salad Dressing manufacturers who together symbolize a fine old American institution.

There is specialization in lobbying, too. Don't think the National Association of Ornamental Nonferrous Metals manufacturers lets the National Association of Ornamental Metal manufacturers tend to their special needs.

And when it comes to boxes, you cannot put them all in one pile either. The weatherproof, corrugated variety, the weatherproof fiber containers and the plain fiber boxes, each has their own row, not to mention (though you had better if you are a congressman, unless you want to fill one of their products) the ordinary National Wood Box association.

The president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International union says uninterrupted production is necessary today if enormous inflationary pressures are to be repelled. He must have noticed the general swelling of many crania of late.

Buses that glow in the dark will minimize the stalled-vehicle hazard to night driving, says Business Week magazine. On the principle that if you gotta stop, you gotta glow, I suppose.

Politics wrap Mr. Truman as tightly as the Lilliputians tethered the sleeping Gulliver.

The average life of American business concerns, says the 20th Century fund, is five years. Probably that's what they were referring to when they used to talk about infant industries.

AVOID ACCIDENTS

Farm Safety Week July 21 to 27

By EDWARD EMERINE

WNU Features

Annual "Farm Safety Week" will be observed this year during the week of July 21 to 27, the National Safety council has announced. And to me it seems like one of the best ideas yet advanced and one that should be stressed in every rural community.

It was my mother who used to say: "Be careful, son." Sometimes I thought she stressed her warning too often. But maybe she didn't. For I lived 20 safe and sound years on a Colorado ranch without an accident. Other lads were not so fortunate.

There was a neighbor who lost his hand in a threshing machine. A cousin of mine had his foot mangled by a mower. There were broken arms and legs from falling off windmills and barns. A warm, personal friend was crushed by a tractor. I realize now that farming and ranching are two pretty dangerous occupations. There may not be so many accidents because of runaway horses as there used to be, but almost every machine on a farm can cripple—or kill.

No Doctors Close to Farms. I remember one hunting accident on a neighbor's farm. A young man was badly shot. His life might have been saved had a doctor been available. That's one of the dangers of farm accidents—doctors are always in a town, often many miles away.

Farm Safety Week is a worthwhile movement which is gaining impetus each year. Governors of many of the big farming states issue timely proclamations calling attention to it. Farm implement manufacturers and dealers feature posters and displays, and in some places safety demonstrations are held.

As everyone who lives, or has ever lived, in a farming community knows, farm accidents—though apparently rare—happen entirely too often. Most new machinery has safety devices which should be used. Proper clothing is more and more important in mechanized farming.

Urges farm safety, not only during Farm Safety Week, July 21 to July 27, but every day of the year.

Fishermen's Luck

JASPER, MO.—Fishermen's luck as shown by the cartoonists actually happened here. Two local residents, Roy R. Boucher and Clarence E. Brown, went on a fishing trip to Grand Lake, Okla., where they spent a full day fishing and returned with one tiny fish each.

Mrs. Eli W. Scott, a neighbor woman, met them, displaying two large catfish which she had caught in a small creek on Boucher's property, not more than 100 feet from his house!

COLLEGE GRADS:

All June graduates seeking jobs will be employed by July 1, at starting salaries as high as or higher than last year's levels—this is the prospect at 90 out of 108 American universities and colleges, according to a survey by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Another nine of the schools reporting in the survey expect from 75 to 95 per cent of their job-seeking graduates to secure employment.

ARMY MATERIAL:

It is going to be literally a "cold winter" next winter for some 4,500 army ground forces troops of three separate task forces.

To determine whether existing equipment will function and what new equipment is required for ground forces to fight under all winter conditions, task forces "Frigid," "Frost" and "Williwaw" will leave soon for Fairbanks, Alaska, Camp McCoy, Wis., and Adak, Alaska.

"off we go" NEWS OF FLIERS AND FLYING

WILL USE PILOTAGES

During the war the Air Transport command trained a few "pilotages," pilots who are also navigators, at Rosecrans field, St. Joseph, Mo. And now the commercial airlines show a trend toward doing away with the specialist navigator and using only pilotages.

This is true not only with the international airlines, but it may be extended to domestic lines as well. Right now Pan American Airways and the international division of Transcontinental and Western Air are putting pilots through schools of navigation. The present plan is to let them fly co-pilot after they have completed their navigation courses and naturally move on, in time, to first pilot. This means that eventually all pilots will also be navigators.

MINNESOTA AIRPORTS

Minnesota has already doubled the number of public airports in use since prewar days, says L. L. Schroeder, state commissioner of aeronautics. Minnesota now has 78 operating public airports compared to 36 before the war. Number of civil aircraft has increased from 500 to 700. The state is developing a state-wide airport system. Construction work on airports has started at Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes and Park Rapids, and other towns are ready to go on flying field improvements.

FLYING THE NEWS

Philadelphia Evening Bulletin reporters and photographers now have their own plane with which to execute quick assignments anywhere within 1,000 miles or a six-hour cruising radius. In Florida, the Daytona Beach Examiner, a weekly, made its bow April 18 and two days later it inaugurated airplane delivery to New York City and Miami. Fred W. DeMotte is editor and publisher.

Kites which can be made to dive and maneuver like airplanes—originally designed for use as aerial targets for war-time training of anti-aircraft gunnery crews—have been placed on sale by the WAA.

VA MAXIMUM PRICES

Maximum prices set by the Veterans' administration for primary instruction in light planes, it is reported, must not exceed $11.50 for dual or $8.50 for solo. Other maximum prices will be $20 an hour for instrument training and $45 for multi-engine courses. Some feel that $20 is too low for instrument instruction in AT-7s and BT-13s, and that the price should be $20 for planes up to 160 hp, $25 for those between 165 and 240 hp and $30 for planes over 240 hp.

PLANES FOR RESORT

Jackson Hole, Wyo., famous as a summer and winter resort, can now be reached by Western Air Lines. Also, the Evanston, Wyo., air service is planning regular trips to the fishing and hunting region.

Regional and district offices of the CAA may begin accepting preliminary applications for government assistance under the federal airport bill about October 1, Charles B. Donaldson of CAA has announced.

ONLY SEVEN . . . The "Sacred Cow" insignia worn by Master Sergeant Freddie Winslow is one of the most exclusive in the world. There are only seven in existence. It is worn by members of the crew of the presidential plane, "Sacred Cow," used by President Truman.

LEND-LEASE PLANES

Former lend-lease aircraft which have been returned by the British, more than 350 surplus Stinson AT-19 cabin monoplanes were offered for sale beginning June 3 at $1,500, $2,000 and $2,500 each, depending upon condition, the War Assets administration has announced. To be sold for cash only, with no discounts, first chance for purchase will go to priority holders. They are eligible for CAA certification for civil flight use. The planes, which had their wings removed before shipment to the U. S., have not been reassembled. The planes are located at Chambers Field, Naval Air station, Norfolk, Va., and may be inspected there.

Construction of seaplane bases is authorized under the terms of the federal airport act.

CAA NOTES

Representatives of the CAA and the national association of state aviation officials recently agreed on a model state aviation law to be known as state aeronautics commission or department act. . . . The medal of freedom has been awarded T. P. Wright by the war department for his work on the strategic bombing survey. . . . Aviation training films soon will be available at 29 civil aeronautics administration airway traffic control centers.

NO HURRY, BUT—

Mrs. George Utt, age 69, wasn't in any particular hurry, but she had never ridden in an airplane and she wanted the experience. So she boarded a plane at Seattle, Wash., and flew to Madison, Wis., where she was met by her brothers, Art and Bert Brogley of Platteville, Wis.

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians used to travel by flyver. He had six members in his organization then. Now he has 70 and travels by airlines.

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

Well-dressed cows will soon be wearing zippers, says Business Week. But they won't be really well-dressed. Underwire they would wear girdles.

Airplanes can now stop in the air, says Aviation News. Probably to put off passengers who haven't a ticket.

I'm not a Socialist, but if the government is going to have to take over mines and railroads every year, it seems to me we may as well keep them and save on book-keeping. As it is, the taking-over is a farce.

You never miss the sunshine until the clouds block it out.

Two JOBS . . . Rev. Charles F. Tame of McDonald, Pa., is pastor of the First Methodist church in his home town. Also he is umpire of the Greater Pittsburgh league five days each week—Sundays excluded, of course.

The president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International union says uninterrupted production is necessary today if enormous inflationary pressures are to be repelled. He must have noticed the general swelling of many crania of late.

Buses that glow in the dark will minimize the stalled-vehicle hazard to night driving, says Business Week magazine. On the principle that if you gotta stop, you gotta glow, I suppose.

Politics wrap Mr. Truman as tightly as the Lilliputians tethered the sleeping Gulliver.

The average life of American business concerns, says the 20th Century fund, is five years. Probably that's what they were referring to when they used to talk about infant industries.

Flour mills in the U. S., except those in the Southwest, will not be able to grind their normal or full amount during the month of June, due to the scarcity of wheat supplies, the Millers' National federation has declared.

Many mills in the Kansas City area are closed down, and soft wheat grounds on the Pacific coast and in the Middle West are as much as 50 per cent below normal. Texas and Oklahoma mills, located in the heart of the new crop, are operating about 75 per cent total capacity.

AUTOS: For Disabled The Chevrolet division, General Motors, has reported that special driving equipment for physically disabled persons soon will be available in all models. This will include installation of vacuum-controlled, hand-operated brakes, clutches, throttle starters and dimming switches which will make operation possible without the use of feet.

None of the usual foot-driving equipment will be removed, however, allowing operation in the normal manner. Other manufacturers have similar projects on the way.

APPLES: Higher Prices In Washington, the OPA has allowed new maximum prices for apples from the beginning of the 1946 season through October 31 to allow for increased production and packing costs. The order was made effective June 12.

SPRING WIRE: Holds Up Autos Why can't you get that new car? The National Automobile Dealers' association lists a number of reasons, including coil springs. Worst of material shortages is hard-drawn high-carbon spring wire used in the construction of upholstered seat cushions and backs. It was this shortage which caused several plants to curtail production for several days.

Many of the limited number of passenger cars now being delivered are coming off assembly lines without bumpers. Auto manufacturers estimate they will not reach normal production volume until the end of 1946.

OATS CROP: Loan Program The department of agriculture has announced that the 1946 crop oats loan program will have an average national loan rate of 53 cents a bushel, reflecting 75 per cent parity as of February 15, similar to the 1945 program.

Only oats grading No. 3 or better will be eligible. Grain grading weevily, smutty, ergotgy, garkly, or containing more than 14.5 moisture is excluded.

Deputy sheriff Jim Doane sets out to track down a gang of train robbers. After meeting Dolores Alvaro and Monte Garcia he returns and goes to see Star La Rue. Jim forces La Rue to deed over the ranch which he had stolen form Dolores' father. Later he encounters a posse led by sheriff Flick. They are pursuing five riders. One of them turns out to be Dolores. Jim discovers her in hiding, she seizes his horse and dashes away. Next day Jim hears from the sheriff that he has been deputized to assist in apprehending bank robbers. Jim fears that one of the gang is Dolores. Nevertheless, he takes Garcia with him, and they start out on the trail.

CHAPTER VIII

After a mile or so Doane worked cautiously up slight rise. He looked to Monte when he came back, and they went on, changing direction a bit.

For long periods of time now they halted. Doane cannily took advantage of the roll and irregularities of the country, following the gullies and depressions. A mounted figure against the skyline could be seen for miles; so could dust. They drew up the rim of a small, ragged range of rock hills and buttes. Again Doane pulled rein, studying the approaching riders for a long while.

"They'll hit through at about those next buttes," he decided. "That ought to suit us as well as anywhere else."

"This is to be ambush?" asked Monte thoughtfully.

"No," snapped Doane. "We give them the chance to surrender first."

"We are two against five. I do not think these approaching riders will want to—well, surrender."

"We'll take those odds. I'll be glad of 'em!"

"I do not quite understand, my friend."

"Ever since I was a kid, Monte, I've been riding on the side of the law," muttered Doane softly. "This Maxmilla affair now—just one thing left for me to do—straight road. I got to do it. Flick knew I would. This is bank robbery, killing! . . . But the way things are, Monte, I guess I don't want to ride back. Anyhow I like the odds!"

"Yes?"

"A steel-hard intensity came into Doane's voice: "Monte, you asked me a question a while ago and here's your answer. You're going to do this thing I can't do. I owe that girl everything—my life; the law owes her something, too. I figure, because of its one-time blindness. D'you see that? When things break now, Monte, you're going to get her out—alone! See? You got to do it! Don't mind anything else. That's why, if you hadn't offered to come with me, I'd have made you come. But I've known from the start that that was your reason for being with me. Now it's a thing you've got to do!"

Monte smiled gently, and made one of those gestures habitual to him. He seemed about to speak. A new iciness was in those strange eyes. Monte's supple, white hands toyed alternately with the handsome pearl-handled at his hips.

The contrast in the bearing of the two men was decided. One smiled slightly, and the other's lips were tight, grim lines. Monte's grace was even debonair, and Doane's every muscle was steel—a steely will commanding steely muscles with rounded purpose. While Monte's eyes were filled with ice, Doane's were hot as blast fires on the steel of his purpose. Had it not been for the raging tumult below the steel of him, Doane might have seen deeper into the man at his side and read a purpose strong as his own and as deadly. For one thing the two men had in common—the deadliness of them!

A Desperate Plan To Save Dolores

On the instant the scene changed. Something moved the coming five riders to forge into a fast lope. Watching them, Doane swung back from the rim. Under shelter, the roan shot forward, Monte beside him. At a furious pace they beat along the far side of the hills, through the boulder-strewn depressions and across the side gullies, in an effort to round the first butte and ride into the face of the five.

Between the buttes of the sharply-defined ridge was a small, slot-like pass, hemmed by sandstone walls of odd formation. Wind-eroded pipes stood up against the walls like deformed fingers or lob-headed stalagmites. Their feet rested in talus from the walls above, banks of slash-edged rock that had fallen down. One end of the tiny, desert-formed pass could not be seen from the other.

Reining the roan, Doane could hear the rattle of shod hoofs echoing between the walls. Monte moved to one side. They halted in the floor of the pass. No words. Monte suddenly held the tip end of his reins between smiling, white teeth; in his two hands were the pearl-handled revolvers. Strange expression on his face; grim light in his eyes!

Doane's gaze was fixed on the head of the pass. Waiting. Motionless. He was a figure of steel, steely gun in one hand, muzzle slightly lifted. The blue color of the roan in the afternoon light added to the illusion. Not long to wait—

Hard-riden mounts rounded the turn. As swiftly spade bits checked them, brutally threw the saddle animals to haunch. Dust spun up under-hoof. And a blanket would have touched the band of five riders with its four corners, covering the man in the saddle.

For ten seconds riders sat saddle without movement. It was as though the walls of the pass had suddenly closed in and shut these seven off from the rest of the world. Doane's voice was brittle as breaking glass, calling down through the pass:

"Surrender—in the name of the law!"

A harsh laugh answered him. The distance was too great to plainly distinguish features. For an instant Doane wondered how he knew that laugh, where he had heard it before? The sound roused some slow, deep anger in him. It was something instinctive.

"So it's you, huh?"—followed the voice up the canon.

The voice brought instant recognition. The significance of it was stunning. The speaker was Star La Rue!

A tumult of thought broke in Doane's brain. He remembered several things as one. The Maxmilla Cowman's Mortgage and Loan bank had suffered this loss by robbery and killing, according to Flick's telegram—and that was the bank in which La Rue had interest. La Rue, then, must have hit trail from town even before Flick got away with the main posse!

Doane was suddenly able to recognize the four riders with La Rue, substantiating his conclusion. The four were those deputized men Flick had pushed on northward, to Maxmilla City; the four riders Doane had discharged from Rancho Hermanos the morning of his arrival, who had later met up with Flick in San Loreto, joining his first posse in search of the girl. Doane gazed at the five men and his lips curled.

"We've met buzzards instead of hawks, Monte!"

The five were edging slowly forward up the floor of the tiny pass, tense in their saddles. The distance lessened. Doane had a single glance at Monte. At his side Monte was a picture of motionless grace, lips drawn in a set smile.

The first taut deadness of the scene was even intensified. The five riders did not come forward like one posse approaching other that the mind struggled to grasp. A bullet cut Doane's thigh. No pain; just the numbing concussion of it. In the middle of the next stride he felt the roan wince under him. The animal collapsed, hurtling over, rolling with the momentum of the fall. . . .

Doane tugged to get free. One leg had gone under the roan's side. Twisting like a cat, he fired over the fallen animal. Dust swirled over him. The following trigger-pull found his weapon empty.

Almost simultaneously another thing happened. Monte's fast guns were done. With a graceful leap, he vaulted free from the saddle of a heady horse, turned, and as Doane fired his last shot, ran for the shelter of the fallen roan's body.

Monte suddenly paused. He seemed to balance himself—sway—and he came forward only by some supreme effort of will. There was still that set, white smile between his lips. Shivering as though with palsy, hands with the handsome guns outflung, Monte lunged a pace more and fell half across the down horse. Doane caught at his shoulder to pull him.

A rumbling, great echo growled hoarsely into silence. Suddenly the pass was quiet.

The battle had lasted not longer than fifty seconds. A single mounted man was feeing down the pass, a riderless horse following. The rattle of shod hoofs was the only sound. Silence now—on the heels of death!

Caught as he was, Doane tugged futilely to pull Monte on to his shelter.

"Nevaire mind—my friend," muttered Monte. The words came through clenched, white teeth. "Nevaire—"

Monte lay still. Now even the clatter of hoofs had ceased. Struggling, teeth gritted, Doane got at his belt and reloaded. Twisting back, he peered over the roan.

The mounted man had halted at the turn of the pass, waiting undecidedly. Doane saw Suarez and the rider fallen across him, the gun that had just become voiceless in the man's hand. At another spot a boot stuck grotesquely into the air. That might be La Rue. Or again it might not.

Doane pulled again at his caught foot, trying to drag it free with the other boot as a lever on the back of the dead roan. The trapped leg was losing feeling. The wound in his thigh had begun to pain and blood was soaking through his clothing. The man down canon might return at any moment. He wondered about Monte. The fallen Monte Garcia did not stir. Doane reached slowly to touch his shoulder again—

That was when he saw La Rue! At a distance of less than twenty paces Star La Rue's Jeadly, intense eyes peered over the belly of one of the fallen horses. That instant Doane also knew that Monte Garcia was not dead. For Monte, wounded, the useless "guns" in his hands, hissed softly:

"Down!"

The hiss was cut short by the explosion of La Rue's extended weapon. The bullet clipped Doane's skull. He fell back stunned. . . .

Time passing might have been a second or a moment. When Doane remembered he was wiping blood from his eyes and his left hand was red from the wrist down. But the right still held his gun.

Jim Shoots It Out With Star La Rue

His head cleared instantly. To expose any part of his body in an attempt to free himself gave opportunity for La Rue to fire again. Or the instant La Rue sensed his plight he would close on him like a trapped animal. There was Monte to consider. To bring battle over the roan's side now would mean certain death to the helpless Monte. Meanwhile the man at the curve of the canon might have the presence of mind to hit for high ground.

Seconds of time were suddenly infinitely precious. Lying prone, Doane pried with his free boot against the roan. That was the leg with the bullet wound in the thigh! A soft groan escaped his lips. He pushed with all his strength. The trapped foot gave an inch or two— jammed tighter than before. Doane doubled over. With his fingers and hands he began to scrape under the leg— pebbles, rocks and sand.

He fought silently and desperately. Seconds took on the time dimensions of moments. Gradually he was scooping out a tiny depression under the leg. But time was passing. Time! Once more he strained to pull free. Then Monte's soft hiss reached his ears:

"Coming! He's coming!"

There was maniacal strength in Doane's body. Like a wild thing in a trap, he tore free. La Rue took snap aim at a suddenly exposed arm or shoulder. But Doane was loose, foot with boot half torn from it before him. It was a single gesture that turned him on his belly, crawling, coming up.

Gun in hand, crouched, he leaped out!

The lightning of two guns came as one. It was a single last echo that roared on the walls and seemed to vibrate in the rock and fantastic formation of pipes and lob-heads.

A horse reared high, toppling backwards. Suarez, one-time foreman for Tres Hermanos, suddenly quivered in every muscle and landed sidewise from his saddle. He hit earth face down. Men shouted—

Things happened in flashes. Another horse went unmanageable. A man reeled to foot and fell half across Suarez. La Rue left the saddle, seemingly untouched in the hail of lead. Monte plunged into Doane's field of vision. The white smile still on his lips.

Roaring confusion. Racket of hoofs on rocks, animals gone mad. Dust. The fast, terrible bark of the guns over all.

of the law. Like fire, a new thought snapped in Doane's brain. There was sudden fierce joy in his burning eyes. His lips bit off words, to the approaching La Rue: "Stop where you are!"

He heard La Rue's laugh answer him again. The distance was halved a little over forty yards now. Thirty! The five riders had spread a bit. Each man for himself. Doane could see faces now—white-lipped, stiff, set! He could see what was coming. La Rue called: "All right, Mister Doane. We'll—surrender!"

A gun leaped in La Rue's hand, belched fire, as though to accent the false word. Like a leaden oath hurled after it!

Men crouched in their saddles, like wolves crouching for the throat-leap. In the resounding echo of La Rue's shot there came a rattle through the pass, like machine-gun fire.

Doane spurred forward, shooting low over the saddle, the gun a living thing in his hand. Fierce exultation filled him. No conscious thought; no time to consider. This issue was forced. He had declared himself clearly; La Rue understood. Here somehow, between desert walls, was marked the end of a long, long trail.

Monte Garcia's lightning weapons flashed. Monte smiled over white teeth that held the tip ends of his reins. One after the other the two handsome, pearl-handled weapons in his hands exploded. The precision was like something mechanical. His face was a smiling poker mask.

The two rode into twice the fire they gave!

Punctuated, a terrible roar filled the narrow desert pass. The echo rebounded on the walls and seemed to vibrate in the rock and fantastic formation of pipes and lob-heads.

A horse reared high, toppling backwards. Suarez, one-time foreman for Tres Hermanos, suddenly quivered in every muscle and landed sidewise from his saddle. He hit earth face down. Men shouted—

Dark Breads Save White Flour (See Recipes Below)

Bread Substitutes

Our recently developed shortage of bread and wheat products is calling for greater ingenuity than any shortage we faced during the war. With planning and foresight, this shortage may be met satisfactorily.

Should there be a shortage of left-over bread for stuffings and the like, use potatoes, for they, too, are plentiful. In fact, you might also like to use part potatoes for bread, rolls and muffins. These take little fat and sugar and are perfectly delicious.

If you like hot rolls for dinner, here is a wonderfully easy recipe for you. You can make up the whole batch and then remove only what you need from the refrigerator as needed.

Oatmeal Refrigerator Rolls.
1 1/2 cup shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup boiling water
1 cup rolled oats
1 cake yeast
1/2 cup lukewarm water
1 egg, beaten
2 1/2 cups sifted flour

Add boiling water to sugar, salt, shortening and rolled oats. Stir well. Cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add with beaten egg to oatmeal mixture. Stir in half the flour, beat well and add remaining flour. Place in greased bowl. Cover with waxed paper and store in refrigerator. When needed, remove from refrigerator, form into cloverleaf rolls in greased muffin pans. Cover and let rise until almost doubled. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes in a fairly hot (425-degree) oven.

If desired, the above rolls may also be made with bran. Use 1/2 cup bran in place of the oatmeal, and 3 1/2 cups of flour.

Partial Whole Wheat Bread (Makes 4 loaves)
3 cups milk
1 cup lukewarm water
4 teaspoons salt
4 cups molasses
4 tablespoons shortening
About 6 cups flour
About 2 cups whole wheat flour
2 cakes quick-acting yeast

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water and add to it 1 teaspoon sugar. Allow to stand for 10 minutes. Scald milk and add to it the molasses and salt. When milk has cooled, add yeast mixture.

Sausage Spoon Bread.
1 pound sausage meat
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 teaspoons minced onions
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup corn meal
3 eggs
1 cup milk

Cook tomatoes, onions and salt to boiling in saucepan. Slowly add corn meal, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. Brown the sausage, drain off fat and add 1/4 cup of the fat to the corn meal. Beat eggs, add milk and combine with first mixture. Bake uncovered in a greased 9-inch square pan, in a moderate (375-degree) oven for about 45 minutes. Serve hot.

Mix the two flours together and add all but 1 cupful. Some flours do not require as much liquid as others, so it is not advisable to add all of the flour until it is known that all of it is needed.

Then, add softened shortening, mix well and turn out on floured board. Knead until the dough becomes elastic and does not stick to the board. Place in a greased bowl, cover and allow to rise until double in bulk.

Remove from bowl and make into loaves. Place in greased tin which should be large enough to be 3/4 full when the bread is molded into them. Let loaves rise to the top of the pans or until about double in size. Bake in a pre-heated, moderate (350-degree) oven.

Dark Rye Bread. (Makes 2 1/2-pound loaves)
2 cups scalded milk
1/2 cup shortening
4 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 packages yeast
2 cups lukewarm water
12 cups rye flour

Combine scalded milk, shortening, sugar and salt. Stir to mix well, then cool to lukewarm. Add yeast, crumbled in lukewarm water. Blend in rye flour, mixing until dough is well blended. Knead on a well-floured board for 10 minutes. Let rise in a warm place, in a covered, greased bowl until double in bulk (about 1 1/2 hours).

Divide dough and form into two loaves. Place in greased, round 9-inch pans and let rise again until doubled in bulk in a warm place, (about 20 minutes). Bake in a moderately hot oven (400-degree) for 1 hour. Do not store until cold.

Sausage Spoon Bread.
1 pound sausage meat
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 teaspoons minced onions
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup corn meal
3 eggs
1 cup milk

Cook tomatoes, onions and salt to boiling in saucepan. Slowly add corn meal, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. Brown the sausage, drain off fat and add 1/4 cup of the fat to the corn meal. Beat eggs, add milk and combine with first mixture. Bake uncovered in a greased 9-inch square pan, in a moderate (375-degree) oven for about 45 minutes. Serve hot.

Household Hints

To remove a fishy smell from dishes, soak them in salt water before washing them.

Men's shirt collars will fray less if turned up before being laundered.

A lump of glossy starch rubbed over the grease spot on the wallpaper will absorb the grease.

There is more carotene in carrots that are in their prime than in young or old carrots.

Green peppers and celery sprinkled with tomato sauce and added to leftover meat make a good sandwich spread or filler between layers of biscuit dough.

To lengthen a hemless dress, get one-fourth-inch colored braid and sew in slightly overlapping rows to the narrow bottom seam.

Machine stitch around buttonholes twice before working them by hand in children's underwear and nightclothes. Buttonholes will last longer and children will be more likely to handle their opening and closing themselves.

Set at work whenever you can. Tired backs and feet slow up work and make you less efficient. Much ironing can be done sitting as well as standing. Sit while you pare vegetables. Keep everything you need within easy reach and use your best tools for each task.

Horticulturists tell us that it is all right to crowd plants in your window box, not only for a richer display but with roots restricted the energy goes to produce more flowers and lusher foliage. Soil, however, should be enriched to compensate for lack of quantity.

Forget Curtain Care by Using New, Easy-to-Clean Materials

By MARION ATRINS

Nylon curtains are one way to reduce curtain care to the minimum. They are as sheer as chiffon and if you choose the nylon marquisettes, nylon ninons or nylon nets, your curtains will drape well and hold their fullness. The smooth fibers in nylon make it one of the materials that sheds dust easily. If you do want to wash nylon curtains, they dry quickly and require little ironing and no stretching!

Fiberglass which looks like a crisp taffeta overdrape could be left up all summer with perfect satisfaction for sunlight doesn't hurt it and it doesn't water-spot. Stains and dust can be wiped off of fiberglass with a damp cloth, so you won't have to worry about cleaning it.

Cool-looking curtains for summer windows that require little care may be made of net finished with koroseal, another of the new fabrics that cleans with a damp cloth.

It is very light and comes in beautiful colors that will make decorative summer curtains.

Paper overdrapes are practical for summer windows and are very popular. They are in chintz flower patterns on dark backgrounds and will not show soil.

Another way to free yourself from curtain care is to take down both sash curtains and overdrapes and "frame" your windows with a decorative cornice. These cornice frames can be made of plywood, sometimes cut in a scroll pattern on the edge toward the window. Plain or quilted chintz or a simple hand-painted decoration which you could do yourself would make them decorative high spots in your room. Wall paper borders, or floral patterns cut from wall paper or chintz can be used to outline a window. This is effective at windows where Venetian blinds are used.

200 at County Homemakers Achievement Day June 11

Mrs. H. B. Esselman, West Bend, Route 2, member of Newburg Homemakers, was elected as president of the Washington County Homemakers' achievement day in Slinger on June 11. Other officers are Mrs. Roland Baer, vice-president, from the Bookfield Homemakers, and Mrs. Bay Lepien, secretary, of the Devid Lake Homemakers.

The Washington county homemakers' achievement day is an annual affair held as a climax to the winter activities of the homemakers' groups. Two rural homemakers and their friends attended.

The program was as follows: Welcome, Mrs. George Arnold; "Let's Sing," Louis Reich; talk, Gwen Broege, home agent; roll call by clubs, Mrs. George Arnold; vocal duet—"New Life," Mrs. A. Schulte and Mrs. W. Werner; solo—"Tell Me Why," Mrs. Wallace Kubandt; "Physical Aspects of Growing Older," Mrs. Earl Gillen, registered nurse; piano duet—"I Trovatore," Mrs. O. Zwald and Mrs. Wm. Werner; introducing the center chairman, Mrs. H. B. Esselman, Mrs. George Arnold, Mrs. Ed Mayer; "The Dress Form Meeting," a reading, by Mrs. H. P. Esselman; "Landscaping Your Home," Lawrence G. Holmes; "Appreciating Rural Living," Charles D. Stewart; "Tractor Safety," Audrey Peters. Committees in charge of the affair were: Program—Mrs. Geo. Arnold, R. I. Germantown; Mrs. Roman Hellman, Germantown, and Mrs. Wm. Kuhn, Bookfield; Arrangements—Mrs. Wm. Werner, Slinger; Miss Lulu Mayer, Slinger, and Mrs. John Klier, Hartford; Jackson Homemakers had charge of arranging the 100 exhibits of articles made by homemakers this past year. Dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid of the Evangelical and Reformed church of Slinger.

This achievement day culminates the activities of most of the group who will reorganize in the fall.

4-H Leadership Camp Proves Fine Success

The Washington county delegation to the 4-H leadership camp at Lake Geneva reported a very enjoyable and instructive three days according to Miss Ingrid Broege, county home demonstration agent, and Kenneth Weid, county club agent, who accompanied the group.

Audrey Peters, county safety speaking winner, captured second place in the district contest. She was heard over radio station WJLO at Janesville on Friday morning, June 14. Washington county is a burlesque melodrama in pantomime entitled "Hisses and Kisses" started off a series of stunts by every county given at the evening assemblies. Taking part were Mrs. Wallace Kubandt, narrator; Arlin Fraedrich, Irma Kurta, Betty Lucka, Ralph Liepert, Donald Bioecher, Frederick Seideman, Arline Aulenbacher, Fred Mehre and Eileen Breuer. A traditional Indian camp fire ceremonial saw Mary Jane Lhotka, Phyllis Indermuehle, Audrey Peters, and Betty Lange as Indian maidens when the campers found their way to the camp fire site "up in Happy Hollow."

The trip by school bus with plenty of singing and school yells proved enjoyable and interesting—a few extra miles being driven on one occasion when we took the wrong road. Frederick Seideman ably handled collection of fares. Oliver Vogel, supervisor of the boys sent, says it wasn't too difficult to get the boys to quiet down after taps and sleep was packed with activity and when it got cold on Thursday night, June 13, found some campers warm and others not so.

The group participated in various activities including sessions in dairy judging, music, folk games, crafts, and the Lake Geneva chorus. At a concert presented at the closing assembly Mary Jane Lhotka and Phyllis Indermuehle sang a duet. All enjoyed a trip through Yerkes Observatory before returning home.

The real value of this leadership camp will be measured in the new ideas and inspiration the delegates are able to bring back to their clubs.

COUNTY AGENT NEWS NOTES

MILWAUKEE KIWANIS VISIT COUNTY FARMS

Milwaukee Kiwanis club members last week toured Washington and Dodge counties to see how our soil heritage is being conserved by the soil conservation program. Those from Washington county included in the tour were Elywn Romaine, chairman of the Washington county board; R. E. Reincke, area conservationist; Philip Hann, Washington county farm technician, and E. E. Skalsky, county agricultural agent.

Two demonstration farms were visited in the county, the first being the Harry Pickard farm in Polk township. Here the Kiwanians saw contour strip cropping and pasture renovation. Also, a wood splitting machine, a great saw saving device, proved to be of much interest. The tour next visited the John Walsh farm on Highway 53 about two miles south of Hartford. Here terraces were seen, and their effect on saving the soil was explained. E. E. SKALSKY.

BEEF CATTLE PRODUCTION PAYMENT PROGRAM EXPIRES

The offer of Commodity Credit Corporation to make beef cattle production payments expires June 30, 1946. It's Self-Propelled! It's a Clipper Combine... OF COURSE IT'S A MASSEY-HARRIS

Yes, the new Self-Propelled Clipper by Massey-Harris is the big farm news of the day. Massey-Harris pioneered and proved the practical advantages of Self-Propelled Combines even before the war with 12 and 14-foot models. Almost immediately a demand arose for a smaller Self-Propelled Combine to bring the same 4-way savings to the small and average size farm. It's here, now! The famous Massey-Harris 3-point Clipper, now Self-Propelled! All the original Clipper firsts—(1) Full 7-Foot Cut; (2) Five-Foot Rasp Bar Cylinder; (3) Full-width straight-thru separation... plus Massey-Harris Self-Propelled design. One engine, one operator, more grain, less time... these are the high-production, high-profit advantages you'll enjoy when you harvest your crop with the Self-Propelled Clipper.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL NOTES

We were really "on the beam" the night we played Adell at Hingham. It was a shut-out with Kewaskum having 16 runs while Adell had none. This game was played under lights on Thursday night, June 26. Last Sunday, June 23, we played at Beechwood. We won that game also by a score of 19 to 9. That game was the last one scheduled for the first half of the season. We have one more game to play though in this half and that's the postponed game game has not as yet been set.

Thanks, Bingen, for transporting us to Hingham and for the use of your truck last Sunday.

See you next week.

New 'Surplus' Law Gives Veterans Better Chance

DESPITE the fact that congress has granted veterans of World War II a No. 1 priority on purchase of surplus war property, these veterans are in for another disappointment. Much propaganda has gone out over this latest fiasco on disposal of war property to veterans, but Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, administrator of War Assets administration, frankly states that only a limited number of specified items have been set aside for exclusive purchase by veterans.

And that's the fly in the ointment, for the impression prevails that under the new law the veterans will get about anything and everything in surplus and there won't be much left for the general buyer. That simply is not true.

All the new law does is put the veteran in a little better buying position, and it is highly probable that there will be no marked effect on surplus disposal as now conducted.

The limited list is supposed to include certain types of automotive vehicles, tractors, construction, mining and excavating machinery, agricultural machinery, medical, surgical and dental apparatus and typewriters. The priority does not apply to land or buildings.

If past experience is to be any criterion, there will be from ten to a hundred requests for every item offered the veterans under the new priority, because there is not a sufficient supply available and likely there never will be.

Goods Will Be Allotted Veterans likely will be limited to a single unit of purchase. For instance, a veteran likely will be permitted to buy only one typewriter, but if he wants to buy a tractor too, his certificate may be modified to permit this, provided there is a tractor available. But apparently if he is in business he couldn't buy a dozen tractors or a dozen typewriters.

General Gregory says that there will be no system of government retail outlets selling surplus direct to veterans, and congress has made it clear it intended no such enterprise. So if you are a veteran and make application to buy a truck, here's what will happen. Say there are 30 trucks available. The regional office has 100 certificates of application and 10 personal use certificates on file or a proportion of 1 to 10. Notation will be sent to the three applicants for personal use whose certificates bear the oldest dates, and the 27 applicants for non-personal use whose certificates bear the oldest dates. So 70 veterans will be disappointed. As more trucks become available, however, the veteran who is unable to exercise his priority on a personal use certificate will be sent to the three applicants for personal use whose certificates will be placed in an inactive file.

There has also come to the attention of the WAA some instances of veterans being used in connection with black market purchases of surplus property. Every effort will be made to ferret out these operations where a veteran, either in collusion or unknowingly, uses his priority to purchase goods intended for sale in the black market.

Many Items Not Wanted How widespread this practice is, of course, is not known at this time, but veterans themselves are urged to help in ferreting out instances of such illegal procedures, since such purchases deprive deserving veterans of those consumer goods intended for them alone. Some of these attempts to force surplus property into black market have been discovered through the type of goods purchased. For instance, experience has indicated to officials there are only a few types of goods in which a veteran is actually interested, even in the consumer category, and when priorities are asked for goods outside this class, officials are likely to make an investigation of the transaction.

A Model

"Your wife seems to have a strange look on her face lately." "Yeah, she's tryin' to resemble her latest photograph."

A Long Wait

Lawyer—Then you say this man was drunk? Witness—I do not; I simply said he sat in his car for three hours in front of an excavation waiting for the light in the red lantern to turn green.

Neat Retort

Fussy Lady—Does your mother know you smoke? Small Boy—Does your husband know you speak to strange men on the street?

The Auto Telephone

Telephone service to and from your auto is now a reality, and the A. T. & T. announces its first subscriber. This marks the end of the motor car as a pleasure vehicle.

A St. Louis man has the first auto-telephone. He can pick up the receiver in his machine and reach 27,000-000 telephone outlets of the A. T. & T. "Ring me up sometime when I'm NOT home" is no longer a gag.

Routine cracks will presently be, "I tried to get you on the phone but your limousine was busy," and "Central, call that beachwagon again. I know he's in it."

You can get a phone in your bus for $15 a month. This gives you a phone number, a book and the right to get a wrong number while going around curves at high speed.

It is going to make the life of a driver more confusing than ever. Up to now he has only had to watch the road, observe the stop lights, listen to the radio and make conversation with the backseat driver. From now on he will have to remember names, look up phone numbers, keep the phone book handy and argue with the complaint operator as well.

Be ready for these answers any day now: "The taxi you called has hung up." "The beachwagon has been temporarily disconnected."

"Are you sure you are calling the right flivver?" "I had that sedan on the phone a minute ago but it went into a ditch."

The outlook is depressing. It was bad enough to have the kids in the back seat taking the hardware off the doors, disconnecting the ceiling lights and playing handball with a hotdog and a mustard pot without having them trying to get playmates on the telephone 2,500 miles away.

One of the great benefactions of the auto was that it gave man a chance to get away from it all. Must he now be practically in a phone booth when he is bounding over the wide-open spaces?

Listen, central, if anybody asks for my car, say we communicate by smoke signals only.

An extra patty of butter to Damon Runyon for his exposure of some of our leading radio programs as piping pretty vulgar stuff to the kiddies. "It comes as a great shock to me," he writes, "when some great performer whose programs are awaited with eagerness blats out vulgarisms that cannot fail to be offensive to most ears. I see no excuse for it. I have heard too many tremendous performers who got their laughs without descending to bad taste."

Orson's Worst Night

In all his experiences with "Around the World" (or "Welles-A-Poppin'") Mr. Welles will not soon forget his most terrible night in the theater, which must have been at the try-out of this play in New Haven. Everything went wrong. The movies in the introductory episode, the key to the whole story, would not focus and after five minutes of confusion Orson came out and was beginning to explain that it would be necessary to forget them when suddenly they began screening clearly. The moment Mr. Welles bowed off, the screen went white again. This time Orson, maintaining amazing poise and good humor, came out and made the curtain speech of the year. "We don't know any more what the trouble is than you do," he said. "But my mother always told me this would happen to me someday."

Newsman Admit Apprehension of A-Bomb Mission

By WALTER A. SHEAD WNU Correspondent

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN (Via Navy Radio)—Civil and military welcoming committees out of the way, with the beauty and color of the Paradise of the Pacific a pleasant memory interlude in the midst of this serious military experiment the "Big Apple" today has her nose pointed westward on the second leg of our hop toward Bikini atoll and the atomic bomb test, the results of which may revolutionize naval tactics. The waters of the Marshall Islands are not new to the Appalachian and the members of her crew who first took her into combat duty in these very waters . . . the conquest and capture of Kwajalein, which is our next port of call. She is a sturdy ship and bears few scars of her tour of duty in the war in the Pacific in the Marshalls, the Admiralties, the Solomons, at Leyte, the Marianas, at Guam and other action since Pearl Harbor. On this tour she is the press ship of Adm. W. H. P. Blandy's task force and aboard are picked newspaper men and representatives of the other media such as news reels, radio, technical magazines, television and others. Although most of them are on other ships of the group, such as the Panamint and the Blue Ridge, there is a sprinkling of scientists aboard and a sort of friendly ribbing going on constantly between the "lay" or mine-run members of the press and these scientific writers, many of whom are members of the "I Am a Frightened Man Club" and predict dire results and dangers to personnel of this task force when the bomb burst, scheduled July 1, takes place.

In spite of their fun-goking, the newspaper men generally privately admit they feel some apprehension and beneath the raillery there is a feeling of tenseness among many of us which increases daily.

The trip thus far from Navy Pier in Oakland to Honolulu, where our two-day stay was all too short, has been like a pleasure cruise but now we are getting down to the serious part of this most stupendous military experiment in history. The information officers aboard ship offer every facility and we are scheduled for a series of round-table conferences to orientate us to the main objectives.

One of the most interesting phases of this operation is the time element. Fourteen different time zones are involved in the operation by virtue of the location of Bikini west of the International Date Line. For instance if the first atomic bomb is dropped at 10 a. m. Monday, July 1, it will be 3 p. m. Sunday, June 30, in Chicago.

As this is written out of Pearl Harbor we still have some 2,200 miles of trackless blue water to traverse at a speed of approximately 11 knots or about 13 miles an hour. Before we reach Kwajalein where we will spend a day viewing the elaborate installations which have been set up in quarters, laboratories, air facilities as a base for the army air corps which will drop the bomb and the 37,000 men.

The logistics and the planning which have gone into this operation will rival those in the invasion of Normandy and scientists in and out of the navy have ready for installation the most elaborate measuring devices to meter actual effects of the explosion on the target array of combat and other ships, army and navy material, live animals tethered aboard some ships and ordnance for army, navy and air of all descriptions.

In addition recording devices, specially constructed cameras for television, radar controlled drone planes, which will fly through the atomics, at cloud varying heights will bring back samples of the radioactive materials and vapor to be rushed to the laboratories for test. It is this radio activity for the exploded atoms which may be used for the benefit of mankind in peacetime pursuits. As a matter of fact, the Manhattan district is now releasing or has released small portions of radio activated substances to universities and laboratories.

Your Home Town Reporter is quartered with three bunk-mates. They are Norman Cousins of American Broadcasting; Dr. William Hitzig, New York of U. S. Magazine; and Dr. Frank Thone, Science Service, of Washington, D. C. Several fellow Hoosiers are aboard ship including Capt. Joseph B. Renn, commanding officer, who hails from New Albany, Ind.; Wayne Guthrie, city editor of the Indianapolis News; Robert Benson, managing editor of the Terre Haute Star, and Ray Shields, managing editor of the National American Legion BT.

Disabled Vets Producers

Disabled veterans on occupational therapy farms operated in connection with 31 veterans' administration neuropsychiatric hospitals will this year attempt to surpass their last year's record production of 9,957,000 pounds of foodstuffs valued at $948,676.

The highest goal set for this year will aid in conserving other foods for feeding the hungry in Europe, but it will also furnish thousands of patients in VA hospitals with fresh vegetables, fruits, eggs, milk and meat. Although the agricultural activities on VA farms are operated primarily to provide beneficial therapy for patients, all of the food grown is used in hospital kitchens and none is wasted.

During the past year, more than 2,000 patients in the 31 VA hospitals spent a total of 2,263,000 man hours cultivating gardens and tending cattle, sheep, hogs and chickens. They provided the dietetic departments of the hospitals with a total of thousands of pounds of badly-needed food products.

The largest farm is at Chillicothe, Ohio, where 1,444 acres is devoted to truck gardening, wheat and barley crops and pasture for dairy herds.

Questions and Answers

Q. My husband was killed in action on Luzon and I have had several tell me I may be entitled to a loan to build a home under the G.I. bill of rights. Is this true? And if it is not, then I as one of the many widows of this war think we should be able to. I have three children and have to pay $48 per month for rent which could be put into my own home.—Mrs. S. M. S., Littlefield, Texas.

A. As a widow you are not entitled to loan privileges under the G.I. bill. You are, however, entitled to (1) all your husband's back pay, plus a gift of six months pay from the army, (2) a pension for life for yourself and a pension for each of your three children until they are of age. Unless you have already done so, you should make application immediately for back pay allowances to claims division, general accounting office, office of special settlement accounts, 27 Pine street, New York 5, New York. For your pension write all details or visit personally your nearest Veterans' administration hospital or office at Amarillo or Wichita Falls.

Q. My husband has been in service 18 months, 5 months in the states and overseas 13 months. We have one child. What I want to know is does he get two points for the 11 months overseas. Do they get two points a month now? —Mrs. F. C. T., Marshall, N. C.

A. He receives one point a month for each month of service and an additional point for each month overseas, up to September 2, 1945.

Q. My husband has been in service 18 months and overseas 10 months. He has 42 points. All the boys who went with him have already come back. If my husband is still in the hospital, he has been there over 3 months. Do you think he will get home soon?—Mrs. O. C., Tishomingo, Miss.

A. I have no way of knowing how long he will be in the hospital. If he has 40 points, he should be home by June 30, 1946, unless he is detained for some other cause.

Q. I am a widow with four children, my husband died in 1916 during World War I. His death was not connected with the war. I have reared my children from the time of his death until now, 30 years, without an income of any kind. He died before he was enlisted in World War I. Am I entitled to a widow's pension?—Mrs. K. M. C., Union Church, Miss.

A. No, since your husband was never in the army, you are not entitled to a veteran's pension.

Q. My husband was discharged from the army November 21, 1945. He had a war bond coming at that time and hasn't received it as yet. Where should I write to find out about this?—Mrs. J. L. C., Lewisport, Ky.

A. Write to war bond division, U. S. Army, 4300 Goodfellow blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo.

Q. My husband was drafted into the army in August, 1944. He landed in India in August, 1945, and is still there, not expecting to be home any time soon. How many points does he have?—Mrs. M. D. P., Blue Springs, Miss.

A. As of September 2, 1945, your husband had 13 months' service, or 13 points, plus 1 month overseas or an additional point. If he has no children and no decoration or battle stars, he then has 14 points. No, he will not continue to earn points after September 2, 1945, the army now considering length of service.

Q. I am the mother of a serviceman. He is not out yet and my problem is this: I want a home. He has provided for the little boys and me, but there is not enough to buy a home and his father is dead. The people who have money are all buying up the property and I fear we won't have any place to go. Who can help me?—Mrs. E., Crystal River, Fla.

A. When your son obtains his discharge, he will be eligible to apply for a loan up to $4,000 for the purchase of a home or a farm under the G.I. bill.

CALIFORNIA PRIMARIES MARK TURN OF AN ERA

WASHINGTON. —The California primary result has caused the most intimate interpreters of politics there to conclude CIO-PAC is through in politics in the nation's fifth largest state. Indeed, local CIO managers there are murmuring they must reorganize and get a new line.

True enough, they did not lose many candidates for Democratic nominations to the Republicans excepting the head of their ticket, the candidate for governor, but everywhere they showed such weakness they may even lose their hold upon their own men. The head of their ticket, Robert Kenny of Los Angeles, was not only backed by CIO-PAC with considerable money (I cannot ascertain the precise sum), but has been generally described as "extremely leftwing." The Jimmy Roosevelt - Ickes organization also put in energy and money. The weakness of Kenny's race left politicians with the conviction that the support he had is definitely to be availed by anyone with ambition for California public office.

Indeed, there immediately developed a tendency among candidates who won the Democratic nomination to sever themselves from the CIO-PAC and leftwing connections. They are saying they never agreed with Kenny, and are strongly anti-CIO. It is evident they will have to get away from the Mesalliance if they are to save any of the ticket from the Republicans in November.

STRIKES ANGER VOTERS

Close California observers think the final blow which ruined the CIO line—the last straw if one was needed—was the Los Angeles strike. Traffic was paralyzed completely for several days in probably the worst traffic tie-up of the nation's history. Atop a street car and bus strike, the national rail strike occurred, and none of these was especially popular with the public. People got fighting mad at this total disregard of their interests and of their rights, including the right to work, to subsist and to have public service.

The Communist support, Russia appeasement and such familiar doctrines of CIO-PAC proved heavy burdens, as did their domestic economic wage policy, which has now taken a new sensational turn among their auto workers, namely this: As the wage increase which they forced in the long strike has been followed by price increases on autos, UAW has decided to make demands for additional wage increases to meet the price increase—which, of course, will force another price increase and require them to get another wage increase, and—how long does this go on!

WARREN POPULAR

But the overshadowing instance of the result which ruined CIO-PAC was the way Republican Governor Warren pulled a majority of the Democratic votes away from the Democratic CIO ticket. He has been a good governor and the Democrats just simply would not stand any longer for domination by the Roosevelt - Ickes - CIO-PAC coalition. They left Governor Warren with only a prohibitionist to run against in November. They kicked out their own candidate and took the Hiram, the first governor since Hiram Johnson to be re-elected in California.

When such a thing happens in California, a state which has been balmy in its politics of the past (you could at one time get nearly any kind of a movement started for nearly anything from ham and eggs to Technocracy and "Thirty every Thursday"), you may be sure it bears symptoms of an historic national event.

People are coming to their senses. For California, in their primary, they marked the turning of an era.

PRIVATE ON RADIO

Private information has come to me suggesting one of the large Russo - American good neighbor organizations has taken steps to try to assure that public opinion favor Russia. This organization has a committee assigned to the purpose of driving from the American rostrum, particularly the radio, any person making adverse suggestions. They also promote their own people—supersensitively, of course.

The scalp of one nationally known radio commentator already is accredited to this special committee. How it influences the Crossley or other ratings of the radio trade, I do not yet precisely know, but by fan letter attacks upon sponsors, they apparently achieved their goal in one notable instance. They can also organize a fan campaign of impressive proportions for advocates of Russian foreign policies, which, I am told, accounts for some of the singular opposition to American foreign policies.

With the newspapers, they have been less successful, I am told. One of the first things an editor learns from experience is to spot semantic fan propaganda of this type. This sort of stuff has long been used commercially by press agents, but never organized in such an extensive and calculating long term campaign manner to influence American consideration of foreign affairs. In the magazine field, their influence also has been judged by investigators to be rather important, but upon the supersensitive radio they have done their best scuttling.

Our Daily Bread

Reil Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"There is hardly a household in America whose mistress could not cut down food waste."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

NO WOMAN knows how far she can cut down the food waste in her house, until she tries," writes Mrs. Elmer Hillgrass of Santa Barbara. "I've never thought of myself as wasteful, but I've always set a generous table, as my mother did before me. "My family includes a good husband, a brother just back from four years' service, my mother and her ten-year-old son, and my own two babies. Milk, meat and grocery bills have run around $170 a month; that is, averaging $24 a month per person—not high, considering the cost of everything nowadays.

"However, when the call went out for food economy, I determined to see what I could do, took the whole family into my confidence, and set to work. Brother Chester approved, because in Europe he saw the bitter need of food shipments to the starving; Elmer approved because our bills were worrying him a little and he saw this plan killing two birds with one stone, and Mother approved because she thinks we haven't character enough and hoped this would help.

"Bread was one of our weak spots; do what I would, we threw out what amounted to a loaf or two every week. Cut slices, cold toast, the end of a french loaf all grew stale and sometimes mouldy, and when my jar of crumbs was full there seemed nothing to do with it but throw it away.

"That I stopped. While conceding to my family that fresh bread is much more tempting than stale, I determined that no bread should ever be thrown out again. Housewives know a hundred uses for old bread, I employed them all. Odd bits, crusted in a little margarine, went into soups; old slices were freshened and put under asparagus, scrambled eggs, creamed things. "Once a week every last scrap was toasted, buttered, put into a tureen and covered with hot salted milk—and that, with dessert, was our supper. Everyone liked it, and it was finished to the last ladleful and my bread box was washed, aired, and ready for fresh supplies. "Once the bread problem was conquered, the rest came easy. Every saucer of tomato sauce, every chicken or steak bone, every half-onion or spoonful of the babies' uneaten carrots or spinach went into the soup pot. Doughnuts, grapefruit, chops weren't bought by the dozen any more, but on a strict ration of five, for my five adults. I say 'chops' but we rarely have chops; the proportion of bone weight and fat makes them a wasteful meat. Pot-roasts, stews, ground beef, lamb shoulders, all these are varied by the cheaper foods, frankfurters, tongues, pigs feet, beef short-ribs, tripe, fish, curries of all sorts.

"These are my figures. In March a year ago we used 70 loaves of bread, 80 pounds of meat and 17 pounds of fish. In March this year we bought 41 pounds of meat, 44 loaves of bread and 15 pounds of fish. The money saving is very noticeable. Our milk still stands at 4 quarts a day; eggs we get from our own chickens, about one dozen a day. The family is deeply interested in this experiment of food saving, and claims that it never has lived better. In fractions this means that we save about one-third in cost and bulk of food, and throw out almost nothing that is edible. I don't cut on my vegetable or fruit bill, and haven't calculated in here the help that homemade small breads give me, cornbread, muffins, and so on, because that ratio remains about the same.

Remarkable Record. "But isn't a saving of one-third encouraging and illuminating?" concludes this cheerful and helpful letter. "Elmer and I say that no matter what the food situation gets to be in the future, we never want to waste again." "Everyone, I suppose, cannot follow this brilliant example, and reduce food consumption so remarkably and with such success. But there is hardly a household in America whose mistress could not cut down food waste in some such proportion as that accomplished by Mrs. Hillgrass. Apart from the national food demand, and international food demand, there will be immediate financial saving, and perhaps a lesson to the younger members of the family that will stand them in good stead in their own homes some day. Scrimping and parsimony and squeezing pennies is ugly business, but to live more simply and at the same time interest and satisfy the family; to serve not only our own government and help to end the suffering of the world—those are objects worth any woman's time and effort, those are as important today as was the actual winning of the war.

Shells Become Bells Three hundred Korean churches whose bells were confiscated during the war have been equipped with substitute chimes made from Japanese 240-mm. mortar shells originally earmarked by American military authorities to be dumped into the sea. Church authorities acknowledge as their benefactor Maj. Roy B. Southworth, ordnance officer, who intercepted a carload of live shells earmarked for disposal, had them rendered harmless and presented them to the churches.

Original Manuscript of 'Old Mother Hubbard' Auctioned Discovered not long ago by a great-great-niece of the author and immediately snapped up and sold to an American collector for a very big sum, the original Ms of the Old Mother Hubbard nursery rhyme was displayed recently at an exhibition in London of Children's Books of Yesteryear. ## THE STAFF OF LIFE

We have all been requested, in the strongest terms, to save all the bread we can. This is to conserve wheat so that there will be enough to ship to the starving peoples of Europe and Asia. Wheat is the most satisfactory food to feed the hungry, so the emphasis is on this grain. Of course, we should avoid wasting any food at this time, for many other products besides wheat are scarce, especially meat and butter. Hungry people in devastated countries need these too. We should make a real effort to eat up leftovers, to avoid loss by spoilage, and to find substitute dishes for scarce items.

One woman who successfully did all this wrote of her experience to Miss Norris, who is passing it along to her readers. It is a simple, cheerful story, of how a busy mother trimmed down the waste in her household, and yet served better meals than ever. She also was able to reduce food bills by about a third.

Miss Norris commends this woman for her unselfish desire to help others. At the same time she was rewarded by a substantial monetary saving, no little item in these days of high living costs. Every family, says Miss Norris, could save a good deal of food, even if not as much as this woman did. It is every housewife's obligation to be as economical as she can in this time of crisis.

lived better. In fractions this means that we save about one-third in cost and bulk of food, and throw out almost nothing that is edible. # DELAWARE

The First State

By EDWARD EMERINE

DELAWARE is that BIG little state in the heart of the East coast, where so many riches are confined to a small area. It is rich in soil and climate as well as in material things—industries, banks and corporations. It is also rich in traditions and history, in military and naval heroes, in venerable homes, churches and public buildings. It is called "The Diamond State."

"After having seen . . . the banks of the Brandywine a scene of bloody fighting, I am happy now to find upon them the seat of industry, beauty and mutual friendship," said Lafayette when he visited Delaware in 1824.

For more than 300 years the citizens of Delaware have played a significant part in the development of the nation. It was one of the original 13 colonies and in 1787 it became the first state in the Union, ahead of all others in adopting the Constitution.

In 1638 the Swedes established a permanent settlement at Fort Christina, now a part of Wilmington. This colony superseded the ill-fated one by the Dutch in 1631 at Zwaanendael, now Lewes. Through the colonial period the Delaware counties were ruled successively by the Swedes, the Dutch and the English, under the duke of York and William Penn. In 1776 they declared their independence, emerging as the State of Delaware.

Industry, trade and commerce flourished. The inventions of Oliver Evans of Newport made the state one of the great flour-milling centers of the world. In 1802 the Dupont powder mills were established. The Delaware and Chesapeake canal was completed in 1829. Railroads, modern highways and airplanes came later, attracted by the progressive spirit of Delaware. This little state and its people have stood the test of time.

Most of the early settlers—Swedish, Finnish, Dutch, Scotch, Irish and English—were accustomed to tilling the soil. Situated within 250 miles of one-third of the population are taken. Delaware bay yields oysters, clams, crabs and lobsters. Fruit canning and evaporating industries have large plants in Dover, Milford, Middletown and Smyrna.

Delaware has a clear-cut recreation area—the shore line north and south of Cape Henlopen where the Delaware bay meets the Atlantic ocean. There is excellent salt water fishing there as well as swimming and bathing. Fresh water streams provide good fishing for bass, crappie, pike, yellow perch and catfish. The lower part of Delaware offers excellent gunning for small game. Some neighborhood clubs sponsor fox hunting. There are 50 fresh water lakes in the state. Everywhere in Delaware is a landscape worth painting. With farms and orchards along the Delaware river and bay, the state is capped by hills in the north and

WALTER W. BACON
Governor of Delaware

Now in his second term in the State House, Governor Bacon was born in New Castle and has spent almost his entire time in that state. After a business career, he became mayor of Wilmington in 1935 and served three successive terms. He took office as governor in 1941 for a four-year term, and was re-elected in 1944 for another four years.

Brandywine creek, into wooded highlands on the north and undulating lowlands on the south. It was first named Willingtown, the name being changed about 1746 in honor of the earl of Wilmington.

Dover, the capital, is near the center of the state. It is the market and shipping point for fruit, vegetables and other products grown in the low, fertile orchard and farm lands that surround it. In 1694 about 200 acres was bought for the town and a courthouse and prison were built some time before 1697. Nothing was done about laying out Dover, however, until 1717. It became the capital of the state in 1777, the seat of government being transferred from New Castle.

The University of Delaware is at Newark in the northwestern corner of the state. Lewes, at the mouth of Delaware bay, is the saltiest town in the state and known to every ship captain who has ever rounded Cape Henlopen in a gale. Milford was early noted as a shipping and shipbuilding town. New Castle, six miles south of Wilmington on the Delaware, is the oldest town in the Delaware valley and has many historical attractions. Rehoboth is the largest summer resort in Delaware, due to its excellent beach.

Delaware's Statehouse

Of historical interest is the old State House of Delaware at Dover, built on the site of the Kent county courthouse erected in 1722. By 1787 the facilities of the old courthouse were no longer adequate for the needs of both county government and the state legislature. It was decided to "pull down the old courthouse and use the hard bricks for the foundation of the new building" as there was not enough money for a stone foundation.

Funds were raised by a state lottery and construction of the new building started in 1792. Three years later the general assembly authorized the completion of the battlements, covered the roof with copper, erected stone steps, paved in front of the building and placed seats in both houses of the legislature.

The Blue Hen Chicken

A Delaware tradition brought about the adoption in 1939 of a "Blue Hen Chicken" as the state bird. It was during the early days of the Revolutionary war that the men of Capt. Jonathan Caldwell's company, recruited in Kent county, took with them game chickens noted for their fighting ability, said to be of the breed of a famous blue hen.

Captain Caldwell's company was attached to a regiment that fought at Long Island, White Plains, Trenton and Princeton. When not fighting the enemy, the soldiers amused themselves by pitting these Blue Hen Chickens. When in battle, the Delaware men fought as valorously as these fighting cocks and became known as "Blue Hen's Chickens."

During the Civil war a company of militia organized in Kent county and adopted for themselves the name "Blue Hen's Chickens." ruin and ceased to exist. Wilmington was incorporated in 1832 and at that time had a population of 7,128. Today, Greater Wilmington is over 200,000. About 90 per cent of the people are native-born, and of the foreign-born the majority come from England, Ireland, Italy, Germany, Poland and Russia. The city's deep river and central location on the eastern seaboard makes its continued growth readily assured.

Wilmington on the Delaware

On a day in March of 1638, a group of Indians stood on the banks of a river and watched a high-pooped ship nose its way shoreward. A small boat was lowered and men of a strange race rowed to a natural landing place of flat rocks. The strange men were Swedes, dispatched to the new continent to establish a colony. The voyage had been in charge of Peter Minuet. A fort, church and homes were soon

Miniature Golf Had Wide Spread, Short Popularity

No American had ever had such widespread yet short-lived popularity as did miniature golf in 1935. Although the craze mushroomed and largely died out in that year, most of the 30,000 courses, which cost a total of $135,000,000, were gold mines, many earning from 15 to 25 times their original investment.

Weddings

Mrs. Van Beek watched her son's wedding in a black dress with white accessories and a corsage. The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage. Mr. Schiadelweier gave his daughter in marriage.

The groom was attended by his brother, Edward Van Beek as best man, while Robert Peters and LeRoy Schiadelweier attended as groomsmen and Tony Schmidt and Edgar Wolf as ushers. A wedding dinner was served to 70 guests at the bride's home, and later in the evening a supper was served to 150 guests. A dance at the Lighthouse ballroom was attended by many other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Beek will reside in West Bend at 119 N. Main street. Mrs. Van Beek was employed at the Amity Leather Products company in West Bend before her marriage and the groom is an employee of the Kewaskum Utensil company.

FROHMANN-GROSCLAUS
Miss Esther Grosklaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Grosklaus of Waukegan, became the bride of Edwin Frohmann Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Frohmann Sr. of Route 1, Kewaskum, in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Milton Straube at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, June 22, in St. Paul's Evangelical church, Waukegan.

The bride wore a white embroidered satin and net gown. A net and seed pearl Juliet cap held her three-quarter length veil and she held an arm bouquet of white roses, carnations, snapdragons and feverfew centered with a white gardenia.

Pink and blue brocaded satin were worn by Mrs. Clarence Stageman, matron of honor, and Mrs. Victor Brateneder, bridesmaid. Tulle and net headpieces and arm bouquets of mixed flowers completed their attire. Their fold crosses were gifts from the bride.

Orville Frohmann attended his brother as best man, and Victor Brateneder as groomsmen.

er was the groomsmen. Ushering was done by Orville Frohmann and Milton Grosklaus.

A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony, and in the evening a dinner was served at the Dixie Leger cabin. Following a wedding dance at Waukegan in the evening the couple left on a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Michigan. Upon their return they will reside in Kewaskum where the groom is engaged as a mechanic. His bride is a former employee of the West Bend Woolen Mills.

LIERMANN-GLANDER

St. John's E. and R. church, Random Lake, was the scene of a wedding ceremony read at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, June 22, in which Miss Myrtle M. Glander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glander of that village and Carl H. Liermann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Liermann, R. R. Kewaskum, were united as man and wife.

The bride was attended by three of her sisters, Miss Verna as maid of honor and the Misses Meta and Gladys as bridesmaids together with Miss Harriet Beger, Little Miss Sharon Liermann served as flower girl.

Attending the noon were Erroy Liermann as best man and Norman and Willard Glander and Gerhard Schwenzan as groomsmen. Ushers were Willis Meyer and Roy Reysen.

About 150 relatives and friends were entertained at the home of the bride's parents at a reception following the ceremony. Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will make their home on the groom's farm.
