

Sister M. Seraphia, Former Anna Fellenz, Expires at Convent

Native of Kewaskum Served as Superintendent at St. Agnes Hospital More Than 20 Years

Sister M. Seraphia, 65, the former Anna Fellenz, native of Kewaskum, who served at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, since 1920, a period of more than 25 years, and was its superintendent from 1920 to 1941, died at 11 a. m. Friday, Sept. 20, at St. Agnes convent there.

Sister Seraphia would have celebrated her golden jubilee as a member of the St. Agnes sisterhood next year. She was born March 12, 1875, at Kewaskum and attended Holy Trinity parochial school here. She entered the convent May 1, 1894, and was professed on Aug. 15, 1897.

The nun, who is well known in Fond du Lac and this vicinity for her contributions to the welfare of St. Agnes hospital and convent and Fond du Lac community in general for 40 years, was appointed assistant superintendent of the hospital in 1920. She became its head in 1920 and served as superintendent until 1941 when she was assigned charge of Thomas county hospital at Colby, Kans. She returned from Colby recently having been in failing health for the last year.

In 1923 she was elected treasurer general of the St. Agnes community, a position which she held until her resignation in June of last year. In 1940 she was elected vice-president of the Wisconsin Catholic Hospital association at the organization's annual meeting at Racine.

Sr. Seraphia is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Barbara Schaefer of Wabeno, Miss Christina Fellenz of this village, and Miss Mathilda Fellenz of Milwaukee; three brothers, Henry of Milwaukee, Phillip of Indianapolis, Ind., and Frank of Salt Lake City, Utah, formerly of West Bend, and many nieces, nephews and cousins, among the latter being Miss Clara Simon of this village.

Funeral services for Sister Seraphia, one of the oldest members of the sisterhood in point of service at the hospital, were held at 9 a. m. Monday in the Sisterhood of St. Agnes convent chapel when a solemn requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Edward McCarty, chaplain of the convent. The Rev. Joseph Herod was deacon and also delivered the sermon. The Rev. Joseph Green, chaplain at the hospital, was sub-deacon. In the sanctuary were the Revs. Henry G. Riordan, George C. Eiders and Esdras Garpey. Burial was in St. Joseph's Spring cemetery.

Dr. Leo A. Brodzeller and Bernard J. Brodzeller, Milwaukee; Philip L. Brodzeller, West Bend; Sylvester Schaefer, Wabeno; Seraph Schaefer, and Robert Schaefer, Milwaukee, nephews of Sr. Seraphia, served as pallbearers.

The services were largely attended, there being the following relatives and friends from away who paid their respects:

Mrs. Joseph Schaefer and son Sylvester, Wabeno; Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Brodzeller, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Brodzeller and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Schaefer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Seraph Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rehnartz, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fellenz, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Paeber and daughters, Milwaukee; Phillip Fellenz, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brodzeller, Gerhard Fellenz, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ogrenford, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Klumke, Misses Marie Land and Thekla Klumke, West Bend; Miss Christina Fellenz, Miss Clara Simon, Mr. and Mrs. Aloys Volm, Mrs. John Thull, Misses Amelia and Agnes Mueckelohde, Kewaskum; Mrs. Barbara Fellenz, Wauwatosa; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simon, St. Kilian; Mrs. Kilian Simon and children, Ashford; Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin, Wausau; Mrs. Roman Schmidt, Leroy; Misses Cora and Rose Simon, Sturgeon Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Felix Simon and family, Fond du Lac.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Agnes hospital, nurses of the hospital and members of the Fond du Lac Medical society were also among those present at the last rites.

MRS. HULDA FRANKE
Funeral services for Mrs. Hulda Franke, 62, of Oakfield, a native of the town of Wayne, were held Wednesday, Sept. 18, at Oakfield with burial taking place at Kewaskum. Mrs. Franke, who was born in the town of Wayne on Dec. 4, 1884, died Monday, Sept. 16, at her home. She was married on June 19, 1902, in St. Peter's Lutheran church, Theresa. Survivors include her husband, 13 sons and daughters.

Kewaskum Local of Milk Co-op Names New Officers

Glenn Barber, West Bend, R. 2, was re-elected president of the Kewaskum local, Pure Milk Products Co-operative, at the annual meeting held in West Bend Monday night.

Other officers named were George Wardius, West Bend, R. 4, vice-president; Donald Koch, Campbellsport, R. 2, secretary-treasurer, and Robert Peters, West Bend, R. 4, Gregor Wels, Campbellsport, R. 2, Lewis Hendricks, Campbellsport, R. 1, Eska Tranholm, West Bend, R. 2, and John P. Wagner, West Bend, R. 4, directors.

Barber was named a member of the state advisory board and Reuben Martin, Kewaskum, R. 2, and Arthur Vohs, Campbellsport, R. 1, were named delegates to the state convention to be held in Fond du Lac on Oct. 29, and Vohs also was chosen to sit on the convention by-laws and resolutions committee. Alternates selected were Fred J. Beinborn, Saukville, R. 1, and Hendricks.

The program included a report by William O. Perdue of Fond du Lac, general manager, and Earl E. Skalksky, Washington county agricultural agent, and Arthur Stoffel, West Bend, former member of the state board of directors, spoke briefly. The meeting attended by nearly 60, ended with refreshments.

Stolen Car Recovered After Accident Here

A 1935 Buick sedan owned by a Milwaukee party which was stolen in that city Saturday was recovered the same night when the driver was involved in a traffic accident on Highway 55 north of Kewaskum between the Rudolf and Wallace Krueger homes. There the driver of the stolen machine lost control of the car and it left the road, ran into a field and struck a light pole. Mr. Krueger and son heard the crash but by the time they reached the scene and passing truck drivers stopped, the person or persons in the car had fled and left the car abandoned there. The accident was reported to Ed. Haack, Kewaskum law enforcement officer and the next morning he in turn notified Sheriff Ray Koth after Fond du Lac county officers failed to investigate the crash. It was then discovered that the auto was one reported stolen in Milwaukee. No trace has been found of the driver of the stolen vehicle although authorities are busy working on the case. The front and right side of the car were damaged.

OTHER CARS IN ACCIDENTS

Richard Van Ryzin, Appleton, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, for treatment of injuries sustained when his car ran into a ditch and tipped over in the Kewaskum swamp stretch of Highway 55. The mishap occurred Sunday night.

A car driven by Lloyd Brussel, Kewaskum, ran into a telephone pole on Sunday evening on Highway 55 a short distance north of Cumma's corners, south of West Bend. Brussel emerged unhurt but his car was extensively damaged.

High School Gridders Lose Opener to Kohler

The Kewaskum high school six-man football team opened its 1946 schedule by losing a non-conference game to Kohler High on the home field Saturday afternoon, 26 to 22, before a good crowd of people.

The Indians took an early lead in the contest and led through most of the game. They were ahead by a couple of touchdowns when Coach Ernie Mitchell inserted his second stringers in the game. This enabled Kohler to catch up but Kewaskum again pulled ahead in the second half with the first team back on the gridiron. A Kohler rally in the last period won the game for them although the Indians were driven to another touchdown and were only a few yards from the Kohler goal line when the final horn ended the game. Had there been a few more seconds of playing time the locals almost surely would have won.

On Friday of this week Kewaskum played another non-conference game against St. Mary's Springs academy at Fond du Lac and expected to get a stiff test. St. Mary's has a full lineup of lettermen and Coach Warren Brick has been working with a squad of 49 prospects. Kewaskum, which has won the Tri-County conference title the last three years, defeated St. Mary's last year, 12-6. The team will play its conference opener with Brandon here next week Friday, Oct. 4.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our beloved son and brother, William Gessner, who passed away five years ago, Sept. 25, 1941:

Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep!
A calm and undisturbed repose,
Unbroken by the last of foes,
Asleep in Jesus' far from thee
Thy kindred and their graves may be;

But thine is still a blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep,
Sadly missed by his mother, sisters and brothers.

600 See Belles Beat Plymouth in Playoff Here; Title Game Sun.

More than 600 howling baseball fans, one of the largest crowds ever to attend a game here, saw the Campbellsport Belles defeat the Plymouth Cheesemakers, 12 to 4, on the neutral Kewaskum diamond Sunday to determine the winner of the first half championship of the Kettle Moraine league. Fans and players from nearly all of the teams in the circuit and from throughout the community came to watch this title game. There were very many from Plymouth and Campbellsport.

Campbellsport and Plymouth tied for first place in the first half of the split season and last Sunday's victory gave the Belles the title in that round. Plymouth was undisputed winner in the second half and so these same two teams will clash this coming Sunday on the Kewaskum field to determine the league's grand championship. Good weather should bring out an even larger crowd. The Kewaskum Utensils, winners of third place, beat both Campbellsport and Plymouth in the second half of play but were upset by two weaker teams, Cascade and Randolph Lake, to lose out for the title. An upset at Sheboygan where Kewaskum was noosed out in the last of the ninth inning after leading throughout the contest kept the Utensils from tying for the title in the first half.

During regular league play in their last meeting Plymouth trounced the Belles 14 to 6 but it was the other way around last Sunday when Campbellsport's batting

The Sweeping Tides

by H.M. EGBERT

CHAPTER I

Mark Darrell crouched beside his timber-cruiser, Nat Page, at the engine of the motor-boat, peering out through the storm.

Through the great clouds of spray that went sweeping past them, everything was alternately as black as pitch and suddenly illumined again by the one-two, one-two of the lighthouse beam, as it clove the night.

The foghorn, which had been intermittently sounding its dull note for the past hour, had ceased; evidently the fog had lifted, though that fact was not apparent to the two men in the boat, cutting her swath through mountainous sea that threatened each instant to capsize her.

The drenching rain showed no sign of lessening, and the howling of the wind had become an inferno as they approached the lighthouse point, a long ridge of land projecting from the black, rugged coastline of the northern St. Lawrence. The little boat, apparently heading straight for the rocks beneath the lighthouse, seemed doomed to swift destruction.

Nat Page turned and shouted in Mark's ear, "No hope of rounding the point. But there's the little cove among the rocks at the point. We'll make her."

"We'll make her," Mark shouted back.

And neither man believed it, for here, off the point, the seas were frightful. Huddled up in their drenched furs, the two watched the treacherous, black, shifting panorama of shore and rocks, while the boat, already growing water-logged, rolled crazily in the troughs, and barely seemed to surmount the towering crests above her.

It had been a foolish act to start across the St. Lawrence that treacherous noon in spring, when the ice had only lately gone out of the river, and the first ocean liners had but a week before forged their way upstream to Montreal. But those logs in the icebound St. Victor would be ready for running in a week or so, and that would mean a little more cash for the new enterprise. And Horace Broussac's curt note from Montreal, demanding that the sale of the mill and lumber rights be canceled, had disturbed Mark a good deal.

It was disturbing Mark even now, though their lives seemed a matter of seconds rather than of minutes. The thud of the breakers on the rocks was louder than the wind. Straight ahead, visible on the one-two of the light gleamed, was the tall lighthouse tower, all about it the black implacable silence of the cliffs; underneath the rush and roar of the cross-currents at the point, the dash of the waves, the back-suction of the undertow, the blinding spray.

Mark gripped the side of the boat as a great ledge of rocks rose almost beside them. They had escaped that by a miracle of luck. At the wheel Nat Page was fighting with all his might to keep the little craft head-on, to save her from being battered against the rocks like a swirling log in the St. Victor.

which her late father had had charge. She wouldn't see him, and Mark had sensed an indescribable hostility among the sullen habitants. They lived by fishing, and each spring they joined the sealing squadrons off Newfoundland. They were not woodsman, like the people of the upper St. Lawrence, probably resented the presence of an American, even though Mark could speak French with fair fluency.

The landlord of the tiny hotel, patronized only by traveling salesmen, had been dour and uncommunicative, a Frenchman of Scots ancestry, like so many of the people. But Broussac had been with Mark, and Broussac had been effusive, conciliatory, and evidently the man whose word counted in the tiny settlement, where he had a summer home.

The cheap little milling outfit would serve as a start. Loggers, brought from higher up the river, were hard at work along the banks of the St. Victor. Broussac had promised two thousand cords of logs at the runways before spring. Mark was satisfied with his purchase, still more so with the fine growth of heavy timber. For the first time in his life he was his own master.

It was Broussac's curt letter from Montreal that had decided Mark to take Nat Page to St. Victor at once, and look into the situation. There was no transportation in April, except by motor-boat from the south shore. They should have reached derly man and a boy, clothed in sleek, dripping slickers, were approaching them, a coil of rope in their hands. Behind them, clothed also in a slicker, a girl was standing.

"They are all right, Madame!" the elderly man shouted to her.

"Bring them up to the cottage immediately!"

She turned, and next moment Mark and Nat were being assisted up a long gravel trail, then up two flights of concrete steps, to the plateau on which the lighthouse stood.

Here were other structures too, presumably housing the stores, the dynamo, and the apparatus for the foghorn, and opposite them was a long, single-story cottage, with a light shining in one room.

The girl turned, holding up a lantern, and inspecting the two young men. She looked about one-and-twenty, her dark hair was tumbled about her face, her hood dripped, and Mark noticed, by the lantern light, the firm setting of the corners of her mouth, odd in so young and beautiful a girl.

"Bring them here, Andre; I will question them," she said. Again Mark thought that odd.

She addressed Mark in French. "Monsieur, we have been watching your boat half the afternoon, and were afraid you would never make the landing. You owe your thanks to God," she said. "There is but one question. Is either of you the Monsieur Darrell, who was here last fall?"

"It is he—this one!" cried old Andre suddenly.

"I am Mark Darrell, and this is Mr. Page," Mark replied. "You must be Madame Kinross, whose lands I have leased."

A growl like a bear's came from old Andre's throat. For a moment he looked as if he was about to hurl himself at Mark. Madame Kinross' quiet, level tones restrained him.

"Be quiet, Andre!" she commanded. "These men are guests. They cannot go back until tomorrow. Put some more logs into the stove in the spare room. And bring them dry clothes. I, Messieurs, shall heat you some soup and coffee."

She disappeared into the back of the house, and old Andre viciously flung open the door of the room that occupied the other wing of the one-story house. It was damp and cold inside, but a flicker of fire came from a stove. Andre lit a candle and placed it on a table. He thrust two logs into the stove, and turned, grinning malevolently at Dan and Nat through his gray beard.

"It was the devil saved you from the sea," he growled. "Tomorrow you can go back to him."

There were two cots in the room. From a closet the old man pulled some clothes—trousers, pullovers, macaws, and socks.

"It is because she told me to do you here!" he snarled. "We do not want you here!"

"Well, there's a nice, pleasant customer for you, Mark," grinned Nat, as the old man stamped out of the room. "I had a hunch folks weren't so friendly hereabouts when I looked over your timber last fall, but if they're all like him—" the wharf before dark, except for the sudden storm. Now there was about one chance in ten that they might make the little cove at the point. They'd never round that point.

Tons of green-white water hurled him forward.

"We'll make her!" Nat shouted once more. His voice was exultant, a defiant challenge to death. A swirl of white water half-engulfed them. The boat righted herself and sped on. Another ledge of rocks, another, leaning up, needle-fanged, out of the white water. Darkness. The eye, the double eye of the light above them—

Then, miraculously, the little sandy beach among the rocks at the point. But they'd never make it. They were approaching it diagonally, and a ledge of rocks on either side shut off the direct approach, and the boat was being sucked sidewise into a vortex of boiling water.

A Miraculous Escape From Drowning

Nat's shout was cut off by the crash of the little craft as the underfangs ripped the bottom out of her. She sank like a stone, and in an instant Mark and Nat were fighting blindly in that frightful surge of seething water. And for some seconds Mark knew nothing except the tense, vivid joy of physical combat with the tons of green-white water that hurled him forward, sucked him back, then raised him like a roller-coaster and sent him plunging forward.

His hands clutched gravel. He drew in a deep breath and clung. The undertow grasped him and buffeted him; then another surge swept him forward again, and in the double light of the eye overhead, he saw Nat's figure doubled up on the shingle ahead of him.

On hands and knees he crawled forward, over the groaning shingle, still wave-swept, dazed, feeling as if his whole body had been beaten into pulp. But Nat was on his feet now, and staggering toward him. His hand grasped his. The two young men stood silent, motionless, suddenly aware of the miracle that had befallen them.

But voices were shouting out of the rain-swept darkness. An el-

Indiana Town Lifts Itself By Its Bootstraps

MILFORD, IND. — An experiment, called by the experts a lecture-seminar in rural sociology, has been conducted at Milford, Ind., a small rural town of 1,000 population in northern Indiana. The experiment is a success. It has transformed a sick, withering community. A decadent town, which for a dozen years has been slipping down the economic ladder into business failure, social lethargy and complete lack of community interest, has been brought back by a reawakening and revival of community spirit. This upsurge of unselfish co-operative effort, has attracted national attention among farm and civic leaders and students of sociology and psychology throughout the nation.

The answer to this lecture-seminar which brought to this small community the big names, a veritable "who's who" in education, church work, sociology, business, industry and agriculture, is quite simple in the mind of this reporter. The answer is the same in any community, in any nation or in any community of nations. It is the elimination of selfishness and intolerance. It is that simple.

Symptoms which corroded and ate away the civic consciousness and social life of Milford are evident today in many American communities. In many of these communities, the peace conference and the meetings of the United Nations. These symptoms include business failures and empty storefronts . . . lack of collective leadership, bickering and narrow provincial attitudes in some churches . . . selfishness, greed and intolerance . . . deterioration of the public schools . . . the loss of the population in high school age groups and older . . . government by a small clique of selfish ultra conservatives . . . loss of trade to nearby cities and towns, and a clash of interests between townsmen and those living on farms.

Minister and Editor

Sparked by the interest of a young minister of the gospel, the Rev. Harry Graham, who also is a lecturer for the local Farm Grange, aided and abetted by the members of the Lions club and the publisher of the local weekly newspaper, Arthur Baumgartner, a returned G.I. and publisher of the Milford Mail . . . these symptoms have been analyzed, their causes determined. As a result, the town of Milford today is convalescent and well on the way to recovery.

Madame Kinross Is Also Unfriendly

"We'll find out what it's about tomorrow," answered Mark.

They had just changed into their dry clothes, and hung the wet ones over the stove, when Madame Kinross' clear voice was heard outside the door.

"If you gentlemen will go back into the kitchen, you will find what I have been able to provide in the way of food for you," she called.

Mark opened the door slightly. "May we not thank you, Madame Kinross?" he inquired.

"Not now or ever," she answered curtly, and turning back into her own room, closed the door.

Mark and Nat made their way back into the kitchen, where, by the light of candles, they found steaming soup and coffee, fresh bread, canned beef and jam. Battered and weary as they were, they fell to with the gusto of youth.

Nat grinned as he mouthed his food. "Queerer than I thought," he added. "Seeing that the lady leases her lands to you through Broussac. Must be some explanation."

"Broussac's the sort of fellow who'd try to cancel a deal if he got a better offer," answered Mark. "I've got an idea he'll find some means of getting up here pretty quick. I wired him I was starting for St. Victor after I got that note from him."

"They ate and yawned, warm now, and dog-tired. Both were good-looking young men of the virile, clean-cut type. Mark's light-brown head and Nat Page's darker one nodded over the food.

"I feel as if I could sleep a million years," said Mark, staggering to his feet. "I'm going to bed."

"You never said anything better," answered his friend.

with Hope replacing the erstwhile Great Lover? The cast is excellent; it includes Joan Caulfield, Patric Knowles, Joseph Schildkraut, Cecil Kellaway, and two actresses who've long been famous on the stage—Constance Collier and Mary Nash.

John Flynn, who was recently signed for an important role in "Pursued," was aboard the destroyer Corry when she was sunk off the coast of Normandy. He was picked up by the Forrest, on which the gunnery officer was Robert Montgomery.

"Highway Mania," latest of RKO's "This Is America" series, is important to all of us. It drives home the fact that, at the present accident rate, 500,000 lives will be lost in the next 10 years. Thirty million motor vehicles traveling on 3,000,000 miles of roads—there are bound to be accidents, but some could be prevented; "Highway Mania" may help to prevent them.

Gossip of the moment reports that Andy Russell may not finish out his term on "The Hit Parade," with new singers being auditioned for the spot. Meanwhile Andy's booked to join Carmen Miranda, Gloria Jean and Steve Cochran in United Artists' "Copacabana."

More than 20 years ago Rudy Vallee and Bennie Krueger were playing alternately for a Yale prom. Rudy asked Bennie if he might play his sax; Bennie said "no." But last Christmas Krueger gave Vallee that saxophone. And now it's Krueger's orchestra, which you've heard on the air with Vallee all these years, that supplies the music on the new Vallee program, on NBC Tuesday evenings.

In "It Happened on Fifth Avenue," Don DeFore portrays a young man who's full of pep, seldom off his feet. That was just fine, until adhesions formed around an old knee injury, and they had to be broken by a doctor, practically between scenes!

When Harriet Hilliard, co-star with her husband, Ozzie Nelson, in "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" was in her teens, she was a foil for one of the most famous acts in history; her partners were Ken Murray and Bert Lahr!

Walter Sande, who supports George Raft and Lynn Bari in RKO's forthcoming "Nocturne," is building his home around a machine shop. An expert metal maker, whose services the government used during the war, Sande found a three-acre tract in Tarzana with a fine machine shop, all equipped. So he bought it, and now is having his home built there.

ODDS AND ENDS—After finishing "Katie for Congress," Loretta Young was given a month's vacation, which she planned to spend in South America with her husband, Tom Lewis . . . Victor Mature, whose last picture for RKO was "Seven Days' Leave," has signed with that studio for another year . . . "The O'Neills" have been so popular since their return to the air that they're to have a half-hour show once a week, on ABC . . . Tony Martin, set to portray Rudolph Valentino in the picture based on the actor's life, seems set also to remain in Hollywood . . . Dan Seymour, of "Clock and Dagger," says he lost 120 pounds by "thinking thin!"

With "Take It or Leave It" still as popular as ever, the sponsor has again picked up Phil Baker's option—same time, Sunday nights on CBS. Incidentally, Phil moves the program to Hollywood for eight weeks, starting October 6.

Vincent Connelly, Mary Margaret McBride's "Vincent," has bought my favorite New York bookshop; in this celebrity-laden neighborhood, it's practically a club. Connelly says he's bought it for a hobby, because he's always liked books.

Prominent at the lecture-seminar was Charles Dana Bennett, consultant for the foundation, and Douglas Stuart, Chicago, president of the Quaker Oats company and president of the board of the foundation. The foundation paid the expenses of bringing the speakers who appeared on the seminar in the interest of finding a remedy.

The foundation now is printing some million pamphlets for distribution, setting out the findings and the remedies for obtaining like results in other towns as a result of the experiment at Milford.

It's as funny as anything Hope has ever done, maybe even funnier. Of course, the story doesn't bear much resemblance to "Beaucaire" as played by Valentino a long time ago, but who'd expect any resemblance,

BIG BUSINESS
Twenty-five million dairy cows in the United States produced 122,000,000,000 pounds of milk in the year 1946. This is an average of slightly under 5,000 pounds of milk per cow. The production of this milk represents 29 per cent of the total U. S. farm income. Of the total milk production 198,000,000,000 pounds left the farm. Ten per cent of this went into cheese production. A considerable amount was used in the production of evaporated and powdered milk. Naturally, the largest percentage went into fluid milk channels, enough, in fact, to go around despite this period of food shortages. Wisconsin led the states with 17 per cent of the total of wholesale milk sold.

To those who eagerly await their new Chevrolets...

Here Is the Latest News about Chevrolet Deliveries

Everybody from factory to dealer is doing everything that can be done to speed deliveries to you

We have been informed by the Chevrolet Motor Division that the past month has witnessed only a slight improvement in the rate of production of new Chevrolet passenger cars. As a result, shipments of new cars to dealers for delivery are still far below the level we and the factory had hoped to attain by this time. In fact, through August, Chevrolet's output of cars in 1946 was only 22.6% of the number turned out during the corresponding period of 1941.

We know that Chevrolet is doing everything possible to step up its production totals—to ship more and more cars to us and to its thousands of other dealers throughout America... and we know, too, that we are assured of getting our full proportionate share of the current output and of future production gains.

Disappointing as the total figures have been—and despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year—it is nevertheless true that Chevrolet led all other manufacturers in production of passenger cars during June 1946, and has continued to maintain its lead in total production from that day to this.

We shall continue to make deliveries of new Chevrolets to our customers just as fast as we receive them; we regret delays as deeply as you do; we thank you for your friendly patience and understanding; and we promise you a new high motoring experience when you take delivery of your new Chevrolet, giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

Keep Your Present Car Alive
Meanwhile, may we suggest that you safeguard your transportation by bringing your car to us for service now and at regular intervals. Let us help you to keep it in good running condition—to maintain its performance, appearance and resale value—until the day when your new Chevrolet comes along.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Going Fishing?
Here's How!

To hear Willie Wells and Basil Strube arguing about trout fishing, you'd think it was more important than the atom bomb.

Willie favors dry flies, Basil pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Willie swears by a Royal Coachman; Basil won't hear of anything but a Silver Doctor. And by the time it comes to steel rods versus bamboo rods... #IX&!!

But on Saturday, each got back from Seward's creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than several ounces!

Each had used his favorite kind of fly, his favorite rod and his favorite place to cast. So over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right... which is how so many arguments should end.

From where I sit, if we all respected one another's different opinions—whether about trout flies, or drinking beer, or voting, it would be a whole lot pleasanter.

Many Ways Are Given For Preparing Fresh Fruits

Baking is a good way of preparing apples and other fruits because it's easy and it also saves precious minerals and vitamins.

Fruit Feast

If you're one of those people who can't think of enough ways to serve fruit, then look over some of our suggestions today. They will get plenty of fruit into the diet as well as plenty of ways to serve it.

Use fruits fresh as often as possible to eat just as they come from orchards and gardens. Try chilling them just a bit if you want them to be really palatable.

French Peach Pie

6 to 9 peaches, 1 9-inch unbaked pie shell, 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 cup flour.

Mix flour, sugar and spices. Cut in butter until crumbly. Arrange peaches (peeled and cut in quarters or eighths) in the unbaked pie shell.

Baked Apricot Custard

2 eggs, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon lemon extract, 1 cup scalded milk, 12 canned apricot halves, 12 pecan nuts.

Beat eggs slowly, add sugar, salt and extract. Add hot milk, slowly, and stir until sugar is dissolved.

Apple Pan Dowdy

4 tart apples, sliced, 3/4 cup brown sugar or maple syrup, 1 cup cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Orderly Storage for Shoes Easily Solved by Closet Rack

By GLADYS MILLER. Shoes are such a problem. Not only is it difficult to buy them, but there is the bother of having the right pair for the occasion and the costume.

LYNN SAYS:

Fruit Tips: Try to find fruit that is ripe but still not spoiled. Wash and dry carefully as soon as you have brought it home.

Never pile soft fruits on top of each other, but try to lay flat over a surface. Chill just before serving.

1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1/4 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Grease a round or square cake pan. Heat oven to moderate, about 350 degrees. Wash apples, core, peel and slice. Place them in baking pan and sprinkle with sugar or maple syrup.

Banana Praline Ice Cream

(Yields 1 quart) 3 very ripe bananas, sieved, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup milk, 2 eggs, separated, Dash of salt, 1 cup rich or evaporated milk, chilled, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup broken pecan meats.

Add lemon juice, sugar and milk to bananas. Beat egg yolks until golden colored and fluffy; add to banana mixture.

Banana Scallops

(Serve With Meat) Slice peeled yellow or slightly green-tipped bananas crosswise into pieces 3/4 to 1 inch thick.

To make banana scallops, follow directions given in the column, and fry very carefully so that the scallop will be evenly browned all over.

The Once Over by H.I. Phillips ELMER TWITCHELL ON THE BEER OUTLOOK

"Well," said Elmer Twitchell, "I see where it is announced that on account of the government's 15 per cent increase in grain allotments to the breweries the beer shortage will be over in a few months but I am still betting that there is a big battle ahead before the old time glass of beer comes back.

"I admit there has been a real beer shortage and that with costs of operation and high taxes the shortage of beer and the growler had to go. But my point is that once the size of anything sold to the consumer is cut down it rarely comes back.

"In my opinion the barkeepers could have served a much larger glass at the price they were getting and not have gone to the poorhouse. But be that as it may, what America needs as much as anything else is a good five-cent glass of beer.

"There will be no rest, peace and contentment in this country until a man can get a decent glass of suds at a decent price. You can talk about all the things that have caused unhappiness, trouble and low morale here, but among the top causes is the custom of serving beer through an eye-dropper and getting as high as 20 cents a glass for it.

"This nation knew its most contented and peaceful years when beer was passed out in a glass that was hard to lift and when, all over town, there were signs 'The Biggest Glass of Beer in Town for a Nickel!'

"There was little of the brother-hate-brother stuff, every man didn't suspect every other man's motives, was almost talking to himself, the country wasn't echoing to the cries of 'We're being exploited,' and war was about the last thing anybody had in mind.

"Bring back the five-cent glass of beer and the free lunch and civilization will take on its old-time appearance!"

Elmer was quite excited. "It's something the U. N. should put on its agenda," he declared. "Let it drop half the stuff it is studying as the cause of war and just study the beer situation. Let it drop everything else, and come out for the return of the free lunch! Even Russia will be appeased!"

THE SOARING ORANGE

The ceilings have been taken off all fruits except oranges and bananas, lest the prices run away. Personally, we can't remember back to a time when the price of an orange didn't seem to be not only to be running away but going for the record.

Secretary Anderson, we note, also has suspended ceilings on "edible tree nuts." That simplifies our food problem for the fall and winter, provided we can get a priority on ladders and shoe-spikes.

Kathleen Norris Says: What's Wrong With Daughters, Asks Dad

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"Fran, one of the twins, was married two years when she came home with a baby boy, couldn't stand Phil a minute longer."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

HERE is a letter from the father of three girls. It would make me laugh, with its peppery dissatisfaction, if it did not come nearer to making me cry.

"What the heck is the matter with girls nowadays?" asks Paul McAllister. "My wife and I had three—we wanted a boy, of course, but we got three pretty, active girls, who grew up to keep the place in an uproar with their dates and their clothes and their boy friends. There wasn't a day for five or six years that someone didn't want a new dress, or want to give a party, or was crying over some invitation that didn't come through or some boy who didn't like her."

"That was bad enough. Then all three married; the little one first and the twins at a double wedding a year later. That set me back about five grand, but no matter—the girls were settled."

"Settled! My gosh, they don't know the meaning of the word. Fran, one of the twins, was married two years when she came home with a baby boy, couldn't stand Phil a minute longer. Eight months later Barbara landed back on us; she has no child. We thought she would marry again, but that was five years ago, and she hasn't."

"Now, six years married, with two little girls, Eleanor is home. Well, there's some excuse there. Her husband is lazy, doesn't make any money, says he is tubercular and wants to live out on the desert."

Discordant Household.

"Fran gets a hundred a month alimony and gives her mother 30. Barbara gets 300 and says she'll go on this way forever, partly to spite Ross. Here we all are, mother, father, three daughters, three small children, and a good deal of refined arguing and criticizing goes on—we're too big a family, that's the truth. The girls cry over their marital troubles, blame each other, make up—surely this isn't the way people ought to live, one old man and a lot of detached women who don't have homes or husbands! Eleanor has no money to spend, and talks of a job. Barbara is pretty well pleased with her settlement and her freedom from responsibility, and the contrast makes it hard for the other girls. It's the darndest situation I ever saw. They help, of course, and we all love the kids, but it means that my wife, getting on in years now, is running a family boarding-house."

"Aren't marriages supposed to stick any longer? Barbara hasn't got a thing against Ross; Eleanor might have gone out with her sick husband to Arizona and stayed with him to the end; Fran says now that Phil—who has married again—is one of the finest men she ever knew. I've known folks who weren't married who stuck to each other a lot better than this."

"Rents and housing shortages in our town make it impossible for any of them to find inexpensive apartments anywhere. Our house is roomy and comfortable, and Barbara talks of building on a big room for herself when it is possible. But a house with three young wives in it and no young husbands seems to me pretty queer. The girls ages are only 24, 24 and 22. This could go

PARENTS FAILED TOO

A perplexed father, whose three daughters have all obtained divorces and returned home, asks Miss Norris what has happened to the "old-fashioned" attitude toward marriage. He says the girls are all young—under 25, and that they had no real grounds for divorce. They simply came up against some difficulties and disillusionments, normal enough even in the happiest unions, and they quickly determined to get out of a situation that wasn't entirely satisfactory. Now they are in their father's house, with their babies. While it is a big house, there isn't room for four families. Bickering and criticizing is unavoidable.

He goes on to explain each girl's situation and the history of her marriage. Then he tells Miss Norris that he isn't exactly asking for advice, but he wants sympathy. If modern girls had a little more endurance and courage, he says, they could stick it out, and make successes of their marriages.

The fault, replies Miss Norris, lies as much with himself and his wife as with the girls. If these daughters had been impressed all along with the seriousness of marriage, its trials and difficulties, they would have been better prepared for the great step that they took, perhaps too young.

on for a long time. I'm not sure that I want your advice," this letter ends, "but I want sympathy, lots of it."

You have it, Paul. But don't forget that much of the responsibility for this situation rests with you and with your wife. These girls were not brought up to a realization of the seriousness of marriage, and the danger of the delusion that divorce is an escape from its inconveniences. They felt, as young wives, that marriage was like a school or a house, or a hat. If you don't like it, change it. Don't put up with the inevitable disappointments and disillusionments that are part of even the happiest marriage. Just get out, the way you'd get out of a job that suppressed and displeased you.

Can't Get Out Painlessly. Marriage isn't like that. Its roots go deep—deep into a woman's life. She cannot tear them up and throw them aside without injuring many lives, especially her own.

Years ago I knew a girl named Elsie. She married at 18 with the statement that she didn't care for Herb, but she wanted to be married at 18. At 27 she had been seven years divorced, had grown older, wiser, better. She fell in love, while on an ocean voyage, with the son of a distinguished, conventional, wealthy Baltimore family. They were married and went to his home where she was cordially welcomed. No one knew of her divorce until one night, at a dinner party, her first husband appeared, drunk and truculent. The episode was passed over somehow, but her baby, born too soon as a result of agitation, died. There never has been another child.

Don't blame the girls, Paul. Blame the parents who didn't train them to be strong women and good wives.

Wants Opera Career

Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, has decided that she wants to make music her profession, and for more than six years during which she has been studying quietly she has not sung in public. She is almost sure to have an operatic and concert career. Margaret has a voice that needs no White House accompaniment and she plans to live her career on her own merits. She intends to sing under the name of Margaret Wallace, her mother's family name.

He claims to be tubercular . . .

Overdose of Perfume Overcomes, but Doesn't Conquer

Overanxious women are given to overwhelming men with an overdose of perfume. That is the opinion of Rita Terrell of New York, who gave a cautioning word on the subject at the Associated Toiletaries convention in Chicago.

Men are scared to death and get the jitters when they realize women are trying to conquer them with too much perfume. The perfume expert says that used in the right amount perfume will do more to subdue a man than all the apple pies mother made. Don't just throw perfume on yourself, she warned. Men must be treated with more subtlety.

Marie Antoinette, she hinted, sprayed the drapes in her living room with her favorite scent. A clever modern trick is to put a touch of fragrance on all your accessories. And be careful to suit the perfume to the occasion.

Faith Moves Mountains

Boychoir School Rated Unique Youth and Educational Project

WNU Features.

Faith still moves mountains, provided it has as its motivating force a person who refuses to recognize obstacles which to most people would seem insurmountable.

Down in Columbus, Ohio, the unbounded faith of one man has proved the major factor in formation and development of the Columbus Boychoir School, which in the short span of six years has been accorded national and international acclaim in the realm of youth projects and educational enterprises.

The idea of a boy school choir was conceived by Herbert Huffman, musical director of the school, who for several years had been minister of music in a Columbus church.

Founded on Faith. When the school opened its doors in September, 1940, its chief assets were Huffman's faith and the enthusiasm of Harry C. Marshall, headmaster.

Although books, blackboards and teachers' salaries were among the missing items, the lack of these usual essentials in the school was not a hindrance. The men and boys worked together for the development of their ideal until their own enthusiasm began to pay dividends.

In launching the unique educational project, the founders termed it a "venture into choral training using music as the means, not the end—a motivation, not a goal." The directors decided that choral training held untold possibilities for the educational and moral development of each boy.

Actually, the choir had existed two years prior to founding of the school. The boys had rehearsed after their own schools let out, but time did not permit sufficient personal contact between teacher and boys.

Form Unique School. The solution was the Columbus Boychoir School of four grades, using the standard scholastic curriculum with emphasis placed on choral training. Admission to the school—then and now—had two requisites, musical aptitude and the possibility of a good voice. Forty-eight boys attended the opening session, the enrollment increasing consistently to reach the present total of 97.

A non-profit, interdenominational institution, the school relies on returns from its own concerts and public subscriptions for support. Although the teachers in the early days of the struggling school were given no assurance of a salary, they came anyway as a result of their faith in the genius of Huffman and the conviction that their ideal eventually would be realized.

Make Town Hall Debut. In the third year of its existence, the unique, tuition-free organization got its long-awaited opportunity. Siegfried Heast, representative of the National Concerts and Artists corporation, attended a rehearsal of the Boychoir in Columbus. Captivated by the group, he advised a Town Hall debut in New York. Ignoring the financial drain, the choir went to New York to score its first outstanding success. Reviewers were lavish in their praise.

Only disappointment following the Town Hall debut was that the anticipated request from N.C.A.C. to manage the Boychoir failed to materialize. Now, however, the N.C.A.C. has full management of the choir's affairs.

Second major opportunity for the choir came three years ago when the choir appeared in concert at the Radio Institute's annual convention at Ohio State university. Leading radio executives arranged to present the Boychoir in a six-month series of broadcasts.

Radio appearances and concerts brought the work of the choir to the attention of music lovers throughout the nation, with subscriptions guaranteeing future of the school beginning to pour in. Two-thirds of the back salaries now have been paid. Huffman, who had received nothing for his labors for the first five years, has started to draw his well-earned wages. The school, which started with faith and a $6,000 budget, has set its goal at $25,000 next year.

Lack of housing and boarding facilities for out-of-town applicants has prevented many deserving boys from taking advantage of the unique opportunities offered by the school. To remedy this situation, more than $100,000 of a $150,000 quota has been raised in an intensive building campaign.

Plan Major Tours. For the past six years, the Boychoir confined its choral activities to Columbus and its environs. Expanding its activities, the choir conducted its first organized tour through the East last spring.

In response to requests from parents in all parts of the country, the Columbus Boychoir summer camp at Chautauqua, N. Y., was established to make the unique training of the school available to boys from other communities.

Supported at first by nothing but an abounding faith, Columbus Boychoir School today ranks as one of the nation's major achievements in the artistic and educational world.

Court Sets Aside Will Typifying Spinster's Hatred of Men

NEWARK, N. J.—The last earthly wish of Miss Louisa Strittmater—to show her utter contempt for men—was rejected when a court set aside her will, which would have cut off her male relatives without a penny for her male relatives without a penny for the National Women's party.

Neighbors said the elderly spinster's bitter hatred of men induced her to hoard her money in her home because she could not find a bank run by a woman. Part of her $15,000 estate was in gold coins dug up from the basement of her home in Bloomfield, N. J., after her death on December 9, 1944.

In setting aside her will, Vice-chancellor John O. Bigelow said the woman's hatred of men went beyond the borderline of sanity.

"Miss Strittmater regarded men with an insane hatred and looked forward to the scientific day when women could bear children without the aid of men," the prerogative court justice said.

"In 1937 she wrote: 'It remains for feminist organizations to make exposure of women's 'protectors' and 'lovers' for what their vicious and contemptible selves are,'" Bigelow said.

Two male first cousins, who had been left out of the will, and a second cousin will share in the estate.

Soft Life at College? Plenty of Mattresses

TEMPE, ARIZ.—After trying in vain for several weeks to get delivery on 1,000 mattresses purchased from War Assets administration, Arizona State college finally got action. Trucks began delivering mattresses at such a rate that 2,300 of them had been stacked up before delivery could be halted. It seems 10,000 are en route to the college, the result of a clerical error.

Tokyo G.I.s Form No Swearing Club

TOKYO.—Deciding that obscene language which they have acquired in years of exposure to all-male company might shock the home folks, American soldiers preparing to become civilians have formed the "I Swear Not To Swear" club. Two yen (13 cents) per nasty word is the fine for each slip. Biggest flow of fines follows meals, because soldiers "cuss" chow out of habit.

Too Many Volunteers, Fire Truck Suffers

SHARP'S PARK, CALIF.—Because "everybody wants to drive the fire truck—especially those who don't know how"—the volunteer fire department has warned that unauthorized drivers will be prosecuted. In announcing the ban, Secy. O. F. Tonella said that an unauthorized driver recently took half the firehouse door to a fire—on the truck's bumper.

VOTE FOR MICHAEL J.
GONRING
DEMOCRATIC
FOR County Clerk
of Washington County

To The Voters of Washington County:

I would like to serve you as your County Clerk. Am 47 years old, was born in Washington County and have lived here all my life. I have been a taxpayer here for 26 years.

Have been very active in civic affairs for over 20 years. Was Chairman of the Infantile Paralysis Committee for 6 years, am at present Vice-Chairman of the North Washington County Chapter. Have always been very active in Red Cross work. Was a member of the Washington County War Finance Committee.

Was a member of the Washington County Board for 8 years, and as such served on two very important committees—Finance and Budget, and Public Property. I am well acquainted with the duties of the Clerk's office, having spent much time there during 8 years on the County Board.

If elected, I will personally conduct the affairs of the Clerk's office and put in my full time there.

4-H Leaders of County Enjoy Picnic-Meeting

Seventy adults and junior leaders from all sections of Washington county enjoyed a business meeting and picnic last Wednesday evening at Thomas's Little Cedar lake resort.

The meeting opened with Ruth Kuhnaupt, Jackson, leading singing, followed by roll call of clubs, minutes, etc. Appreciation for an excellent county 4-H fair was expressed.

Great interest was shown in a suggestion by Paul Cypher, leaders federation president, that a committee look into the possibilities of a Washington county 4-H forest. It was mentioned that several other counties have 4-H forests which have grown into very excellent camping sites and recreation areas. It was thought that the project could well start from small beginnings on land that has proved itself unfit for continuous cropping and which would be in proper land use as forest.

The committee, Wallace Kuhnaupt, Jackson; John Kopp, Kohlsville; Paul Cypher, Barton, and Mr. Indermuehle, Jackson, will welcome suggestions, helps and comments from anyone interested in the start of such a county forest.

Discussion of late fair by Mr. Skalskey and record books by Miss Broege rounded up the business of the evening. Record books are to be in the county office by Oct. 1. Those exhibiting at late fair on Oct. 19 will have their records in three days after the fair.

The group found their way down the moonlit hillside to the shores of Little Cedar where Indian Chief Norbert Dettmann and his four Indian maid-ens, Phyllis Indermuehle, Mary Jane Lhotka, Audrey Peters and Betty Lange presented the Old Indian ceremony lighting the council fire.

As the fire blazed high the group divided in two had a great time at "challenges," one group trying to outperform the other. Smoking the solemnest peace pipe, doing the most Indian-like war dance, presenting best dialect reading, wheelbarrow race down the hill, were only a few of the challenges which came from the group. Campfire singing was led by Mary Jane Lhotka.

A delicious lunch planned by Miss Broege, county home agent, was enjoyed by all. Folk dances in the hall concluded the evening. Leading were Mrs. Walter Ohmann, Marjorie Mayer, Clarence Janz, Mrs. Wallace Kuhnaupt, Miss Broege, Mr. Skalskey, and Mr. Wedin.
