The Kewaskum Indians bowed to a big, aggressive Sheboygan Falls quintet Wednesday night, 35 to 22, in the Falls gymnasium. Playing the first game of the season with little practice, the Indians were very inconsistent. At times they looked very good and threatened early in the fourth quarter to move into the lead when they pulled up to a 25-21 score but they faltered badly in the last few minutes.

Next Tuesday, the Sheboygan Falls five will play at Kewaskum. The B teams play at 7:15 p. m. and the big game will be at 8:30.

Kewaskum to Play Lakes, Rivers Opener Sunday

Kewaskum's two basketball teams sponsored by the local American Legion post will open play in the Land o' Lakes and Land o' Rivers leagues this Sunday evening, Nov. 24. The Lakes team will play at Grafton and the Rivers quintet is scheduled to play at Port Washington.

During the past week a new team, Hustiford, was admitted to the Lakes circuit by League Director Martin C. Weber, Merton, changing the loop to seven teams. This necessitated a revised schedule in both leagues and although no word has been received from Weber yet, a last minute change may find the Kewaskum Rivers team playing at Grafton also instead of Port Sunday. With the new team in the Lakes circuit an 18-game schedule will be played instead of the original 20. Each team meets the others three times.

The way the schedule now stands, Kewaskum will play its first contest at home on Sunday, Dec. 1, when Thiensville comes here. On Tuesday night the local teams played a practice game at West Bend. All players of both teams were given a chance and as it was for practice only little attention was paid to the score.

Disabled Veterans Thank Jr. Red Cross for Gifts

A letter from the assistant field director of the Regional Station Hospital, San Antonio, Texas, expresses the cheer which Halloween gifts prepared by Junior Red Cross members at Holy Angels school, West Bend, brought to the patients. Addressed to Mrs. Albert Gensman, Junior Red Cross chairman, it reads as follows:

"Thank you so much for the lovely Halloween tray and table favors as well as the festive carnival caps. 'If every member of your chapter could have seen the patients proudly wearing the Halloween caps before and after the party they would have felt that their efforts were well worthwhile. The tray favors were given to the dietitian for use in the wards for the bed patients. 'We have received many complimentary remarks about the Halloween favors. Many patients asked where they were made. 'The staff of the American Red Cross join the patients in their appreciation of your contribution. 'Patients at Wood Enjoy Nut Cups Acknowledging the nut cups made, filled, and sent by home economics students of Miss Ella Kuchitau, the field director of the Veterans hospital at Wood, Wis. wrote as follows:

"We wish to thank the West Bend Juniors for their contribution of the 200 cups filled with candy and nuts. 'Time passes rather slowly for most patients and anything special that can be brought into the day is always welcome to an otherwise routine 24 hours. County Board Ends Busy Fall Session

The Washington County Board of Supervisors concluded their November session on Tuesday afternoon with Chairman E. M. Romaine of Kewaskum presiding. Approval of a proposal to relocate Highway 41 and the sale of the Oak sanatorium for $60,000, transfer of the county traffic officers to the new jurisdiction of a sheriff's committee, adoption of a budget calling for a total county tax levy of $394,744.06, and election of the highway committee, and other officials marked the annual fall session.

The resolution to relocate and improve Highway 41 as an eventual superhighway was adopted by a vote of 28 to 6. Chairman Romaine of Kewaskum and supervisors Campbell of the town of Kewaskum and Peter of the town of Wayne voted in favor of the resolution.

The board accepted a bid of $60,000 by the Sisters of St. Dominic, Racine, for the Oak san near Pewaukee after the Waukesha county board last week also accepted the bid. Washington and Waukesha counties have jointly owned the san for 29 years and closed it some time ago.

Chairman Romaine was empowered to appoint a sheriff's committee of five members which will have supervision of the sheriff's department after the first of the year. Under this arrangement the county traffic officers will be transferred from the jurisdiction of the county highway committee to that of the sheriff's committee, the members of which will be appointed between now and Jan. 1. The new arrangement will make the county traffic patrolmen subject to deputization by Sheriff Ilay Koth. The new committee will have the power to appoint the traffic officers and will also have complete supervision over operation of the county's police radio system.

The budget has a total tax levy in the amount of $394,744.06. It includes revenues from other sources, estimated at $145,350, making a net county tax levy of $249,394.06. Elected to the highway committee were Supervisors Sell, Jaeger and Kuhn. George A. Kolb was re-elected county service officer, with Supervisors Schloemer, Dehmel and Stauss being elected to the county service committee. A. H. OPA Price Control Board Serving County is Closed

The price control board at Fond du Lac, serving the counties of Washington and Fond du Lac closed on Nov. 4. Bennett S. Bird, chairman of the local board announced last week.

"This step marks the conclusion of almost five years of unprecedented patriotic service by 500 citizens of Fond du Lac and Washington counties, who, through their thousands of hours of volunteer work, have prevented inflationary dangers from taking effect and saw that their neighbors had an equal right to their fair share of scarce commodities during the days of rationing," Mr. Bird said.

Members of the Fond du Lac and West Bend price control boards stayed on the job for more than a year after the end of the war. Production has had a chance to catch up with demand. Now that President Truman has announced the program for accelerating the remaining wartime controls, Price Administrator Paul A. Porter has determined that the remaining functions of local boards can be continued by the district OPA office at 161 West Wisconsin avenue, Milwaukee 2, Wis.

Mr. Bird gave the following information as to the conducting of OPA business in the future:

1. Trade and consumer inquiries about price control formerly handled by price control boards should be addressed to the OPA district office in Milwaukee.

2. Certificates of transfer covering sales of used passenger automobiles may be obtained from principal auto dealers. Dealers should request additional supplies from the OPA Regional Mail Center at 565 East Illinois street, Chicago 11, Ill.

3. Certificates of transfer covering the sale of used automobiles shall be filed with the district OPA office at 161 West Wisconsin Ave., Milwaukee 2, Wis.

4. Sugar rationing has been administered from the district office since last January. In the future, sugar forms required by the trade and consumers may be obtained from the district office at Milwaukee.

5. Pending compliance actions by the board will be transferred to the district office.

6. The local board office closed for the transaction of public business on Nov. 4. However, the paid clerical personnel will continue on duty during the month of November in order to transfer records to the district office and to perform the many other duties involved in closing the board.

Couple Found Dead in Auto of Exhaust Fumes

The bodies of Kevin Riesch, 31, of Route 1, West Bend, and Mrs. Hugo Rietz, 33, a farm wife of the town of Jackson, were found Monday morning in the automobile of Riesch which was parked on the Rietz property. Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning, and authorities advise that no inquest would be held.

According to the story given to the authorities, Rietz and his wife had attended a movie in West Bend Sunday evening. On their return home they were stopped at a tavern where they met Riesch, a cattle buyer for a West Bend cattle company. The Rietzes left for their home around midnight. Shortly after their arrival the lights of another car appeared in the farm yard, whereupon Mrs. Rietz told her husband that she was accompanying Riesch and left home.

Upon arising at 6:30 the next morning, the husband saw the car again parked in the yard, investigated and found the two dead in the front seat. The car's motor was still running. Sheriff Ray Koth and Dr. Raymond Frankow, coroner, were summoned and determined the deaths as accidental from the exhaust fumes.

4-H Leaders Return From Tractor School

Clarence Janz, West Bend, and Norbert Dettmann, Boltonville, report a very excellent tractor maintenance short course at Madison on Nov. 11-13, according to Kenneth Wedin, county 4-H agent. The two young men were picked to attend the course because it was thought that they would do a good job of conducting tractor maintenance schools in the local area for tractor operators.

Plans are being made for a series of three evening schools in West Bend and three in Boltonville. Dates and places of the West Bend schools are as follows:

Nov. 25—West Bend Motor Company, Nov. 27—Kuester's Garage, Dec. 2—H. E. Cooley & Sons.

The Boltonville schools are not yet arranged.

The two leaders emphasize the fact that they are not teaching tractor overhaul and repair but proper maintenance. Tractors will be on hand for laboratory work at each one of the classes. Movies relating to tractor maintenance will also be shown. A group of twenty-five or twenty tractor operators can be handled for each series of schools. Tractor operators interested can contact Clarence Janz, Route 1, Box A-1, West Bend; Norbert Dettmann, Route 1, Randgen Lake, or Kenneth Wedin, county club agent, post office building, West Bend, so that a good working group can be organized.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Turkey and Trimmings Should Be Prepared, Served Simply

Let the turkey take the spotlight on Thanksgiving Day by using simple garnishes for the platter. Parsley and spiced fruit adorn this luscious golden brown bird.

If we are really to keep the Thanksgiving tradition as we understand it, the table should be heaped bountifully with good, wholesome food, well prepared and served family style. This is truly one of the big occasions in our country, and the table should have tasty, well-cooked food in keeping with the idea of harvest.

It's true that cooking during Thanksgiving time means plenty of fussing, but it's not the kind of food that looks fancy after it gets on the table, if you can understand what I mean, and I'm sure those of you who have participated in big Thanksgiving reunions in the past do know just what I'm talking about. Perhaps the menu doesn't change much from year to year, but that's one of the beauties of the day. We don't have food like this at any other time, so it never becomes tiresome.

Since the dinner involves so much preparation, I'd suggest that you try to make it as easy as possible by taking some shortcuts. By that I mean don't leave everything to be done for Thanksgiving Day, or you'll be too tired to enjoy yourself.

Have son or daughter help in making the mince and pumpkin pies and picking the pin feathers out of the turkey. They'll really enjoy it, and they're a wonderful help.

There are other things which may be done on the day before Thanksgiving, and these include making the cranberry sauce or jelly, preparing the vegetables, the turkey stuffing, etc.

On the day of the big event, you have but to pop the big bird in the oven, probably about breakfast time if it's a large one, so as to be ready for mid-afternoon. Rolls can be shaped from refrigerator dough made the day before and allowed to rise, and last minute things such as vegetables and salad can be taken care of while the dinner is on its way.

If you feel rushed making beds and giving the house a once-over, set up a breakfast table buffet style in the kitchen or breakfast nook and let everyone help themselves. This will leave you free for setting the table, etc.

Turkey Tips.

Turkeys usually weigh from 7 to 20 pounds. Allow 3/4 pound of turkey to each person. Clean thoroughly. Stuff the cavity after salting it thoroughly. Compute the roasting time from this chart:

Size	300 degrees
7-10 lbs.	30 min. per lb.
10-15 lbs.	20 min. per lb.
15-18 lbs.	18 min. per lb.
18-20 lbs.	15 min. per lb.

Savory Bread Stuffing.

(For 8-pound bird)
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup melted fat
1/2 cup minced onion
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons dry mustard
2 tablespoons diced celery
3 quarts lightly packed day-old bread crumbs
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Combine boiling water, fat, onion, simmer 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly.

A one-pound loaf of bread yields about 8 cups of crumbs. Use one cup of stuffing for each pound of bird.

Giblet Stuffing: Simmer giblets, allowing one hour for the heart, gizzard and neck, and about 5 minutes for the liver. Chop coarsely and measure; substitute for an equal amount of bread crumbs.
Oyster Stuffing: Add 1 quart of oysters drained and chopped and 1 cup of celery to bread dressing, decreasing bread cubes from 2 to 3 quarts, depending upon how rich you want the stuffing.
Brazil-Nut Stuffing: Decrease butter by half. Substitute 2 cups of these nuts for 1 1/2 to 2 cups of bread cubes.

Stuff cavity of a bird weighing 8 pounds. Double recipe for 16-pound bird. This makes a moist stuffing.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce.
1 cup corn syrup, dark or light
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups water
4 cups fresh cranberries

Boil corn syrup, sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil, without stirring, until all of the skins pop, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and allow sauce to remain in saucepan until cool. This makes 1 quart.

*Molded Cranberry Sauce. (Serves 6 to 8)
2 1/2 cups cranberries
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup sugar
Dash of salt

1 package orange or lemon-flavored gelatin
Wash cranberries and place in saucepan with water, sugar and salt. Cook slowly until skins pop and berries are soft. Drain, measure juice and add enough water to make two cups. Dissolve gelatin in hot juice; add cranberries. When slightly thickened distribute berries and pour into a mold. Chill until firm.

*Pumpkin Pie. (Makes 9-inch pie)
1 1/2 cups cooked pumpkin
1/2 cup brown sugar
3 eggs
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
1/4 cup melted butter

Line pie plate with pastry. Beat eggs, add remaining ingredients, and pour mixture into pie shell. Bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 10 minutes, then in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 30 minutes or until firm.

This pie may be served with whipped cream or just plain. If desired, a meringue may be used, this latter being especially good if flavored with a dash of nutmeg. Or, if you prefer, it may be sprinkled with 1/2 cup sliced nuts 10 minutes before it has finished baking.

Cranberries are part of the trimming for the holiday table. Make the mold a day ahead of time and serve it simply as pictured.

If you want a dessert that is not so filling as pie, you will like this cake:

Honey Spice Cake.
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons allspice
1/2 cup shortening
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 cup honey
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup chopped raisins
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
1/2 cup chopped nut meats

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder, salt and allspice and sift together three times. Cream shortening with lemon rind; add honey gradually, beating well after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Stir quickly into batter. Turn into greased eight-inch square pan and sprinkle with nut meats. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 55 minutes, or until done.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Rice, bread and nut stuffings are rich; fruit stuffings are tart, so choose whichever you prefer.

Chestnut Stuffing: Boil and peel 1 1/2 pounds of chestnuts, then chop coarsely. Decrease bread cubes 2 1/2 cups and add the chestnuts.

Fruit Stuffing: Omit onion in recipe, decrease bread cubes by 1 1/2 cups and add 1 cup coarsely chopped apples, prunes or apricots.

Mushroom Stuffing: Cook 1 cup sliced mushroom with the fat and add to the bread cubes.

Sausage Stuffing: Break 1 pound of sausage meat into chunks and brown lightly. Remove from pan and substitute the fat for fat called for in recipe. Decrease onion slightly and add browned sausage to the bread cubes.
Savory Stuffing: Increase the onion by half and cook with the fat. In addition to the other seasoning, add 1 cooked clove of garlic, finely chopped, 1/4 cup of celery leaves and stalks, cooked with the onion. Omit poultry seasoning and add 1 teaspoon of savory and 1/2 teaspoon of thyme.

A number of loafers were hanging around the heavenly gate. St. Peter warned them off. They persisted. St. Peter contacted Satan. "Get your people away from here," he said. Satan paid no attention. SHORTAGES EVERYWHERE

Friend of ours in Rhode Island went into a small grocery store and asked for a loaf of bread. The grocer shook his head gloomily. "How about some sugar, then?" "No sugar." "No bacon." "Well why don't you lock up your store and go fishin'?" The proprietor looked up with infinite pathos and replied, "Can't buy a lock."

Patricia, aged 7, was watching her mother smooth cold cream over her face, and asked: "What's that for, mommie?" Mother answered: "Why, this is to make me beautiful." After the cold cream had been removed with tissues, Patricia sadly remarked: "Didn't work, did it?"

Kansas

By EDWARD EMERINE

WNU Feature

"We do not live, but only stay, And are too poor to get away."

Life on the frontier is always hard. It was doubly hard in Kansas where the pioneers had to endure border wars over slavery, bad men, droughts, grasshoppers, blizzards and dust storms, in addition to the ordinary hardships of a new country. But they stuck it out.

They stuck it out—and "sticking it out" until the battle is won is still a characteristic of Kansas people. Perhaps it was the crucible of those early years that steeled and tempered the Kansas spirit which conquered the prairies. They stuck it out, rose above the trials of the hour and developed that rare sense of humor which enables Kansas people to laugh at themselves and the foibles of mankind.

Despite Coronado and other Spanish explorers, and French traders, Kansas remained Indian and buffalo country for two centuries after English colonists settled in New England and Virginia.

Slow in Settlement.

It was not until the Kansas-Nebraska bill was passed in 1854 that the land was opened to settlement. At that time the entire white population of Kansas consisted of about 700 soldiers, based at Forts Leavenworth and Riley and Walnut Creek.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE . . . Gov. Andrew F. Schoepel is a native Kansan, born in Claffin in Barton county. A former lawyer and veteran of World War I, he was a member of the Kansas Corporation commission until he was elected governor in 1942.

post office on the Sante Fe Trail, and an equal number of civilians at Indian missions, stage stations and trading posts.

The question of slavery immediately plunged Kansas into bloodshed. Even before the Kansas-Nebraska bill was signed, Missourians who favored slavery slipped across the border and founded Leavenworth and Atchison.

But Eli Thayer found 29 men in New England who were willing to emigrate to Kansas, settle on the prairie, be neighbors to Indians and fight slaveholders. Dr. Charles Robinson brought a second party of anti-slavery emigrants, including four musicians, from Boston to settle at Lawrence. Congress had decreed that Kansas would decide the question of slavery for itself. And Kansans set out to do it in their own way.

BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD . . . Kansas is the No. 1 wheat producing state of the nation, yielding almost a fourth of the entire U. S. crop.

Whether for or against slavery, Kansas settlers lived in log huts, shake houses, sod shanties, dug-outs and other humble shelters, using grass, brush and buffalo chips for fuel. The "sod crop" was corn—and corn they ate! Corn bread, parched corn, hominy, corn-meal mush—they boiled corn, fried it, baked it, stewed it. Fortunately, they had beef, pork and milk to go with it, and a coffee substitute, made of dried sweet potatoes, dried green okra and parched wheat ground together and boiled.

Would Kansas be slave or free territory? On its first election day in 1855, hundreds of Missourians "with rifles on their shoulders, six-shooters in their belts and a liberal supply of whiskey in their wagons" crossed the border and voted. All of the pro-slavery candidates except one were elected! And when the "bogus legislature" met in July, the Missouri slave code was the law of Kansas.

The curtain-raiser to the Civil war was fought in Kansas. Men were murdered in cold blood. Border ruffians ravaged anti-slavery settlements. John Brown and his sons took up the challenge and took after the slaveholders. "Bleeding Kansas" was no misnomer during the next few years. But gradually the anti-slavery forces won and Kansas became a free state. Only 10 slaves were listed in the census of 1860.

Many notables have trod the Kansas stage. Heading the list is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, great military leader of World War II.

Frontier Personages. The history of the Old West is represented by such Kansas personages as "Wild Bill" Hickock, the marshal of Abilene, and Buffalo Bill, the scout. Carrie Nation and her saloon-busting hatchet also brought the state into the limelight.

In Statuary hall in the nation's capitol is the figure of John J. Ingalls, senator, orator, essayist, poet, Ed Howe, the sage of Potato Hill, and his contemporaries, Walt Mason and William Allen White of the Emporia Gazette, were Kansas folks.

But the unknown soldier, the unheeded hero, of Kansas is the man who introduced the plow. He was not a glamorous figure, and his hands were gnarled and blistered and bent to the shape of a plow handle.

Kansas is ideally situated for agriculture, but it took a plow to break the sod. Where William F. Cody used to hunt buffalo are the greatest wheat lands in the world. Kansas produces more wheat than any other state in the union—almost one-fourth of the entire United States crop. It is first in milling and wheat storage. Corn, alfalfa, hay, sorghum, broom corn, sudan grass, potatoes, sugar beets, barley, flax, rye, soybeans, vegetables, fruits, truck crops—Kansas produces almost everything that is grown on a farm.

Rich in Resources. Kansas finds riches below as well as above the surface of her rolling, fertile acres. Kansas is one of the leaders in oil production, with its companion, natural gas. Lead and zinc are mined extensively. Coal is produced in most parts of the state. Under Kansas is enough salt to last 500,000 years! Volcanic ash, gypsum, limestone, clays and other resources are mined in Kansas. It is an important source of helium gas.

As the geological center of the United States, Kansas was—and is—the land of trails. Those who sought land in Oregon, gold in California or Colorado, trade with the Mexicans in Santa Fe, or cattle from Texas, used Kansas as a highway.

The Santa Fe Trail, the California and Oregon Trails, the Butterfield Trail, the Smoky Hill Route, Overland Trail, Pony Express Route, Jim Lane Trail and the cattle trails from Texas, including the Chisholm, Old Shawnee, Ellsworth and Western Trails, all used Kansas for a right-of-way.

Kansas today bears some of the scars of long ago—ruts made by thousands of covered wagons and hooves of cattle among them. Lonely graves still may be found, and bridge bits, parts of wagons and other mute reminders of the past are picked up occasionally by grandchildren of the pioneers.

Kansas is great, not only as one of the food-producing states of the nation, but as a great family of people who retain much of the pioneer spirit. They stuck it out a few generations ago. And Kansans are still "sticking it out" for freedom of thought and of action, and for the right to progress by their own efforts.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

BREAK IN COTTON PRICES A NATURAL REACTION

WASHINGTON.—What happened to the cotton market is harder to find out here than the size of the Russian army. Likeliest explanation is that large users of cotton cloth and speculators had been buying too optimistically, figuring a continuous inflation would give them a profit any time, but they found out from what has been happening to other markets since OPA disorganization, that there might not be a continuous inflation after all. As a result, they started running the other way at once, as fast as they had been talking the market up.

Actually the price of cotton was too high for any reasonable expectations excepting an endless rise higher and higher—in short a further heavy inflation. It was selling at 40 cents a pound, actually 320 per cent above prewar years. No wonder it fell 23 1/2 cents in three days and caused the exchanges to close the day thereafter. The net period loss was held to about $30 a bale—(recovery thereafter was weak, which tends to prove my theory.)

It is not out of natural sequence that the New York cotton cloth district now has suddenly loosened up on shirts, promising that all cotton goods including sheets, underwear and towels will be urged toward the starving consumer market.

HINT POLITICAL PACT

But this inside story of the affair is far too simple. No one in political life seems to think nature took its course, but all have filled the air and newspapers with stories about political pacts, fat but hidden speculators who acted in concert, a lax government administration of the market, a bad foreign selling policy on the part of the government, even old rumors of congressmen speculating—or nearly any story you may wish to hear.

The senate agriculture committee conducted an investigation—and adjourned until after the election, which is a convenient time and it developed that no one had any sure idea of what had happened, or what caused it. Senator Thomas, the chairman, scented a flagrant but not fragrant plot of the Republicans to capture his home state of Oklahoma thereby. He said flatly the drop was "brought about artificially for political purposes." This seemed a rather high price to pay for Oklahoma, even if any Republicans had that much money and wanted to spend it for that uncertain purpose.

The hearing, you see, had developed the information that the cotton farmers had lost about 225 to 250 million dollars in the fall of the market, so obviously the decline, if purchased, would run high in cost—far more than any Republicans have been seen with lately. The story otherwise failed to add up high, because no one suggested the Democrats might lose any other cotton state, say Texas or Mississippi, because of the break.

INVESTIGATION ON

At any rate, the committee is sending out questionnaires to find out who sold cotton on those three big days. As some rumor has been published by someone that Thomas himself has speculated in the cotton market, Thomas himself mentioned to reporters that his move to disclose the names certainly indicated he was not in the market at that time as he would hardly be moving to expose himself.

The other stories are held in varying esteem by those who chose to believe them. The government director of the cotton exchanges did not undertake to tell anyone what happened—indeed, my agents suggest he was not even asked—but offered some evidence on cotton prices so complex that none of the reporters could understand it, if any of the investigators did (the investigators are looking it over). He admitted perhaps the government allows too much opportunity for speculation in futures buying (allowing one man theoretically to accumulate 480,000 bales) and the cotton senators talked about making a law next session that government exchange controls be tightened.

Yet frankly there may be too high a stock of the cotton goods which have been kept from the public for years on the plea of shortages—possibly held in expectation of higher prices. You would not believe a break in the cotton market was possible at a time when a consumer cannot get a shirt, towel, sheet or cotton underwear, but these unadvertised and hidden factors in the situation are possibly—just possibly—subject to a logical interpretation.

It is evident the nation is in a new period of price readjustment.

ATOMIC COMMISSION

The preparations Mr. Truman has made for the domestic atomic era appear somewhat on the left-leaning side. Instead of a business man or scientist, the President has chosen the administrator who built up the Tennessee Valley authority. Yet strangely enough, not a word of criticism was lodged against his appointment or his choice of the governing commission which includes an atomic physicist, a New York banker, a securities commissioner and an Iowa editor.

IT'S NEW! Revolutionary! For sealed inside this new battery is the electrical equivalent of over 10,890 foot-pounds of energy. Yes—the total energy in the new "Eveready" flashlight battery, if entirely used in an efficient electric motor, would lift a 110-lb. girl 99 feet in the air! That same energy means brighter light in your flashlight. And 93% longer life! Yet the new "Eveready" battery still costs only 10¢. The registered trademark "Eveready" distinguishes products of National Carbon Company, Inc.

Wild Cow Towns Hold Spotlight of Frontier

One of the most romantic roles in Kansas history was played by the Texas-Kansas cattle trails and the wild frontier towns which became shipping points for the herds. It was Joseph G. McCoy who first decided to do something about a market for Texas cattle. There were millions of the cattle, and they were more valuable than the buffalo which roamed the Kansas prairies. At first, Kansas towns weren't interested in Texas cattle, at least most of them weren't. But Abilene was, although it was only a "small dead place consisting of about a dozen log huts." As soon as McCoy started building his depot at Abilene, the village awakened and teemed with activity. By 1870 there were 4 hotels, 10 boarding houses, 9 or 10 saloons and other business places. One of the first buildings, of course, was the jail. Sidewalks were of wood and soon trembled and clattered as boot heels clomped on them. Kansas cow towns held the spotlight of the frontier. There were Ellsworth, Newton, Wichita (larger and noisier than most) and finally Dodge City (toughest of them all). For 10 years Dodge City was the wickedest town in the country. But it fought hard to gain that distinction!

Modern farms dot Kansas prairies.

U. N. Converts Modern War Plant Into Peace Factory

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Baukhage

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—At this writing, committees of the United Nations are still meeting in the great modernistic factory building, now converted into a plant for the manufacture of international good will. A hundred committee meetings are being held in the rooms where once the delicate machinery turning out instruments of warfare hummed merrily, efficiently and most effectively.

Here delegates to the assembly of the United Nations, split up into groups, tackle the various subjects allotted to them just as the committees of congress discuss the bills and agree upon their form before they are submitted to the "committee of the whole house" for consideration and action.

The difference is that the assembly, unlike congress, cannot pass laws, it can only express the will of the majority. Its value is to register, before the world, world opinion as expressed by the nations which make up the United Nations. This is the first step toward a world government whose chief purpose is to police the world against war.

While the committee meetings were taking place the security council, which compares roughly with the senate, held some of its meetings in the same building, for unlike the assembly, which meets only once a year, the security council is a continuing body.

The Council of Foreign Ministers, which also is meeting in New York, is a body entirely separate from the United Nations.

Saddle U. S. With U. N. Expenses
It was characteristic of the desire to maintain a "realistic" attitude (let us hope) which resulted in the emphasis on fiscal matters, causing newspapers on the first day's committee meetings to display a head like this:

U. S. OPPOSES PAYING HALF OF U. N.'s BILLS
At the meeting of the budgetary committee, Senator Vandenberg got in a sly dig when he suggested that if the other nations felt the American economic system was so good that it could put up half the money to run the organization perhaps they might adopt a similar system. Capitalist America would pay 49.99 per cent of U. N.'s bills while Communist Russia, although much greater in size and population, would provide 6 per cent in the plan submitted.

Of course, any amount balanced against the price of war is small.

Powerful Committees Are in the Making
The work of the committees of the assembly covers a wide scope, since besides offering the sounding board for world opinion and controlling the pursestrings of the whole organization, the committees likewise supervise the several important subsidiary agencies, some of which will become extremely powerful when and if they carry out the duties planned for them. For instance, the many plans for improving living standards and social relations throughout the world, which is the purpose of the economic and social council, and the projected trusteeship council which will oversee the relationship between the dependent countries and the nations held responsible for their control and welfare.

Another important function of the assembly is initiating amendments to the charter, and this session bristled with talk among the smaller countries for amending provisions governing the power of the veto in security council.

Russians Vie to Last Minute

Early in the meetings of the general committee (the steering committee) and in the assembly itself, it became evident that the Russians were following a general plan of procedure which was not unlike that which had appeared and still is appearing in all the controversies. The Russian delegates frequently oppose violently a point and then, when they see that they are beaten, yield. Sometimes this looks like pure obstructionism; sometimes it seems merely an effort to display strength and combativeness, sometimes it is only a patent move to keep Russia in the forefront of the negotiations as a force with which to be reckoned.

There is also the language barrier. Probably there are no more competent performers among the various types of experts than the translators at these international gatherings. Much has been written of their remarkable ability to translate, without taking a single note, long paragraphs of some speakers who get so deep in their subjects that they forget that the translator is waiting patiently to translate one segment before the speaker goes on to the next.

Prize of them all is Pavlov, the lean and scholarly looking young man who appears to wrap himself about Molotov or Vishinski and with his lips close to the listener's ear pours in the words so rapidly that it would appear they synchronize with the movement of the speaker's lips.

But even a perfect translation may produce a different meaning, just as the same word may mean two different things in the same language to two different pairs of ears. Yet on the first day's famous Molotov outburst at the opening of the assembly, the speech in which the Russian delegate demanded disarmament, objected to the Baruch atomic energy plan and went right down the line walloping everything in sight. As I remarked earlier, there was more smoke than fire in that tirade and American Delegate Austin, suspecting as much, made the terse comment on the speech, "smart but tough."

When the translations came back from the report in the Russian press Austin's words became "smart but sharp."

Now it may be that "tough" is a tougher word in Russian than it is in English because the Russians' ordinary conduct in such and some other matters, all the way from dancing to breakfasting on vodka, may be what we would consider tougher than the Anglo-Saxon approach.

Conscious of Foreign Policy

Most Americans do not realize how far this nation has gone in the establishment of a foreign policy built on popular desire. In the past, the foreign policy of the United States always had been a rather vague thing to people in general, something evolved behind a screen of formal phrases in the ancient high-ceilinged offices of the old state department building, where they still have marble fireplaces that really work in some of the rooms.

In the early days the subject was kept out of domestic politics simply because the politicians knew that the people knew as little as they did as to what it was all about and didn't care any more. Then came the famous Wilson versus Lodge fight over the League of Nations, which was really something far deeper than that, a fight of two powerful personalities and two different concepts of government—not world government but domestic government. Lodge and Wilson became so definitely committed to their own respective views that they couldn't afford to compromise.

After that, each party considered it fair game to trip the other up the back when it came to a discussion on foreign affairs and the fine old tradition (which was really a negative thing) "foreign put up at the shore line," was split wide open.

And then the bloody conflict of World War II made people realize that Democratic and Republican blood when it flowed on the battlefield was the same color and caused the same gaping wounds at home.

The campaign which we have just witnessed, while it was characterized with the same old fuss and fury of the past, omitted the question of foreign policy except when it was raised by persons already discredited by both major parties.

That is the hope, as I see it, for American dominance, for the dominance of the American idea of human freedom. We have learned that when it comes to facing the world, we meet it shoulder to shoulder as Americans and nothing else.

DEFICIT DECLINES

U. S. Finishes Quarter 'in Red'
WASHINGTON.—Aided by recent budget shifts, the federal government finished the first third of the current fiscal year $300,841,791 in the red, it is revealed by treasury department figures.

If the deficit continues at that level during the two other four-month periods, it would be slightly more than $902,525,000 at close of the fiscal year on June 30. This would be less than half the $1,900,000,000 deficit forecast by President Truman on August 3.

However, officials said nothing had happened so far to indicate any important shift away from the $1,900,000,000 deficit figure, although the President twice has remarked without amplification that the budget would be in balance at fiscal year end.

Save on Subsidies.
Recent budget shifts include a saving of possibly $200,000,000 from discontinuation of meat subsidies; but the army has announced it would require that much extra for occupation costs.

On the debit side, the presidential "economy ceiling" on public works expenditures has been boosted by $165,000,000.

COEDS USE BABY IN CLASSWORK . . . In conjunction with their class in child care, Ohio State university coeds give motherly care to "Jimmy," age 3 months, who will be cared for by the girls until he is a year old, when he will be returned to a founding home.

NEWS REVIEW

Victorious GOP Devises Strategy on Main Issues

CONGRESS: Act Fast

Hardly had the election din attending the Republican landslide subsided than Rep. Harold Knutson (Rep., Minn.) revealed that he would move for a 20 per cent cut in personal income taxes as soon as the 80th congress assembles January 5.

In addition, Knutson said that the ways and means committee, which he is scheduled to head as the ranking majority member, will open hearings sometime in February to pare or eliminate excise taxes on a long list of consumer goods, including jewelry, furs, cosmetics and liquors.

Republican intentions to slash taxes ran counter to President Truman's position to maintain high levies to balance next year's budget estimated at 40 billion dollars. By lopping off unnecessary expenditures and trimming the payroll, Knutson said, the GOP hopes to scale down the budget to 32 billion dollars, thus permitting the tax reduction and allowing for a substantial retirement of the national debt of 262 billion dollars at the same time.

More to Do

Reduction in taxation was only one of the many issues facing the new GOP congress.

Briefly, others included terminating the President's wartime powers to restrict government by executive decree; widening management's rights under the national labor relations act and providing for impartial administration of the law; hastening abolition of controls to restore free enterprise, and formulation of a farm program adjusted to postwar conditions.

In the field of foreign affairs, Republicans were expected to ad-

LIVESTOCK:

This livestock is certified under a federal statute which admits the animals for breeding purposes, the department said.

Most of the U. S. domestic livestock was imported from earliest times. In fact, there were no hogs, no cattle, no chickens before white men came to America. The wild turkey was about the only animal found here resembling our domestic animals, our present day animal industry having been built on stock imports since 1492.

Seek Unity

As the Republican avalanche set up a Democratic administration, liberal Democratic leaders called upon President Truman to resign in favor of a GOP nominee to assure harmony in the forthcoming session.

Remembering the unhappy results of previous divisions of legislative and executive power between the two parties, when solution of pressing problems gave way to indecisive bickering and both sides maneuvered for political advantage, Senator Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) was the first to call upon Mr. Truman to give way to a GOP nominee.

He said he intended to introduce a constitutional amendment which would permit election to authorize a presidential election if the two parties divided legislative and executive control.

Marshall Field, crusading New Deal publisher, joined Fulbright in asking President Truman to step down. By turning the job over to the GOP, Field said, the Republicans would be charged with full responsibility for development of a national program, and the issues in the 1948 election would be clear cut.

COAL:

Study Demands
Company spokesmen were quick to hit at John L. Lewis' new wage and hour demands for the United Mine Workers as threatening the future of the industry against the increasing competition of gas and oil.

While the government presently is running the pits, private interests were thinking of their position when the properties are returned to them.

Declaring that " . . . Mr. Lewis is going to price his boys right out of the streets," company spokesmen ridiculed the idea that a reduction of the work week from six to five days would lower operating costs and permit the operators to pay a 25 cent an hour raise. Under the old contract, miners were paid $1.18 1/2 cents an hour, with overtime rates beyond 35 hours.

While the operators remained skeptical, UMW economists figured that a shorter work week would trim production costs from 20 to 70 cents an hour, with an average saving of 45 cents. Since miners dig from four to five tons of coal daily, the saving of $2 per week would cover the contemplated wage increase, they said.

Leave Pay High.
July-October expenditures totaled $12,295,543,000, equivalent to an annual rate of $36,886,000,000, or roughly $4,700,000,000 under the August estimate. But heavy charges for G.I. terminal leave pay and international finance still lie ahead.

The federal debt stood at $263,917,666,707 at the end of October, but that was before the treasury began redeeming with cash two billion dollars in securities which matured November 1.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The Selfish, Dishonest Wife

"Late in the afternoon she and her crowd are giggling at a bar in some fashionable lounge."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

UNHAPPY HUSBAND
Ethel Davis is a thoroughly selfish woman. She is a wife and mother, but she wants all the freedom of her single days, plus the security and support to which a married woman is entitled. Although her children are very young, being four and five years old, she leaves them in the care of high school girls and old women. Most of the day she spends at movies, beauty shops or card parties, topped off with a few drinks with her crowd. Her house is neglected. She has little interest in her home except to cuddle her children now and then.

Poor Ferd Davis is trying to go along with her as best he can, but he is reaching the end of his tether.

If he could he would settle on a farm that he has recently inherited from his father, but he knows that Ethel would refuse to leave the city. He doesn't care about Ethel any longer, but he dearly loves his children. He is asking Miss Norris what to do, in a long, bitter letter.

what of Sharon and Ferd? I'd die for my kids, but I don't see how long to live for them. Is there any way out of this mess? I've gotten so low that I hate to go on living."

I think there is a way out of this mess, Ferd, and you indicate yourself what it might be. Many a man could take it, when faced with your problem, but not quite so simply as you can.

Go to the Farm.

Tell Ethel that you have decided to live on the farm with the children. Any man has the right to decide that he will be a farmer instead of a city clerk. Move out there, perhaps notifying certain shops in your city that you are closing your account with them. If you must sorrow to get the farm paying; borrow. Chickens and milk, potatoes and apples are bringing higher prices than they ever have in the history of the world.

Ethel will have to come with you, or leave you. Either way you will have the right to make terms. You cannot possibly take care of babies of 5 and 4 in a city apartment, but you'll have no trouble with them on a farm. The nearest farmer's wife will run their clothes through her washing machine, and they'll be with you all day long, in a child's paradise.

The other day I was asked in a questionnaire what quality I thought most essential to success; that is, the worldly success of fame and wealth, independence and security. After some reflection I said "imagination."

Whether it's running a boarding house or writing a novel, you must have imagination if you are to escape from the rut, see far enough ahead to discern shining goal. Put your imagination to work, Ferd, upon just what this turning of the tables will mean to a selfish, extravagant, stupid wife. Get back to the soil, and give your wife every chance to accompany you. If she won't, she forfeits income, position, home, and she cannot claim alimony. If she comes, there's just a chance that she may wake up into real womanhood.

CATTLE POISONED BY METAL

Molybdenum poisoning has been playing havoc with dairy herds in a 400-square-mile area of California, largely in Kern county, reports the University of California.

An overabundance of molybdenum in pastures of the area has been shown by recent studies to be the cause of the disease, which develops slowly. Cattle are made ill only after weeks of feeding in the contaminated pastures. They become emaciated and anemic and their coats fade.

The Sweeping Tides

By H. M. EGBERT

Mark Darrell, young American lumberman, is boss of a lumber camp near St. Victor, Canada. He has fallen in love with Madame Madeleine Kinross, young widow who owns the timberland. She returns Mark's affection. Her lawyer, Horace Broussac, is also a suitor and Mark's enemy. Broussac persuades Andre Galipeault and two other men to waylay Mark and put him in a cabin in the path of a forest fire. Nat Page, Mark's assistant, tries to rescue him.

Meanwhile Eric Kinross, Madeleine's husband, returns, seeking vengeance on Broussac, Galipeault and others. He finds Madeleine and embraces her. Suddenly Page dashes up and Eric plunges into the burning forest to rescue Mark.

CHAPTER IX

They followed him, somehow believing against belief that he could reach the cabin.

A roar of fire, a wall of flames leaped up against them. They recoiled, tried to beat their way through, fell back—even Nat Page fell back, dropped groaning into the heart of the smoke. But Eric Kinross plunged straight into that wall of fire, fighting it exultantly with his bare hands, and shouting, always shouting.

They heard him striding along the trail into the distance. Then the wind blew the flames away, and Nat and two of his men dashed through. Following that voice, chanting and shouting, seeing occasional faint glimpses of that tall figure in the distance.

Fire all about them—then suddenly the cabin, one side a mass of flames. Eric Kinross in the cabin. Nat Page fell back again; he could make no further headway, and his limbs would no longer support him.

Eric Kinross was striding out, carrying the figure of a man in his arms, wrapped in his own smoldering clothes. He was all but nude now, a gaunt spectre of a man from which, as the flames illuminated him, Nat Page shrank back in unbelieving horror.

Nat could see Mark's face, his hair singed, but the features hardly scorched by the flames. The little clearing in which the cabin stood had been the last to be overrun by the fire. Mark had been overcome by the smoke, but already he was struggling in his rescuer's arms.

Eric Kinross strode on, carrying him as if he were a child and chanting, ever chanting. Nat Page didn't dare look at him as he followed along the little thread of a trail that still remained unravaged by the conflagration. Somehow they were past the flames, which closed in like a wall behind them.

Kinross still carried Mark, but he was staggering now. He reached the rock bridge. He set him down. Mark stumbled and got upon his feet in bewilderment.

There was Madeleine, running toward the three men. Kinross turned away, so that she should not see his face.

Only Nat knew that Kinross was blind, knew what was in the mind of the fearfully injured man as he ran toward him. But Nat was too late. With a sigh, Kinross slipped from the bridge into the boiling, surging, eddying current below, to disappear instantly in that white vortex.

Had Kinross plunged deliberately to his doom, or had he been overcome by weakness, and fallen? That was one of the things that must remain unknown until the Judgment Day.

Was Eric's Death Suicide or Accident?

Madeleine had lunged her arms about Mark, and was beating out the sparks that ran through the rags of his clothing. But as Kinross plunged, she ran to the side of the bridge with a scream and peered over. Nat Page caught her and held her.

"He has fallen—he has died—and he gave his life for him," she moaned, sinking to the ground.

Mark had fallen beside her. Nat stood beside the two, not knowing what to do. But suddenly a fire-blackened form came slumping through the scrub.

"Look, look!" it yelled. "The lighthouse fire is out!"

Then only did Nat realize that the beacon was no longer flashing its one-two, one-two through the night. The slender pillar was invisible in the fogs, and not even the foghorn sounded any longer.

Suddenly, by the dull flicker of the flames, that lit up the whole horizon, Nat could see a small white yacht heading straight for the rocks. Broussac's yacht! He shouted, and peals of mocking laughter came back from somewhere near the lighthouse.

The yacht crew had seen its peril. Nat could hear the race of the engines as it fought against the sweeping tides, to gain the middle of the Gulf again. The vessel was so near Nat could hear voices shouting in despair from aboard her.

The flames were sweeping steadily backward, forming a brilliant illuminant against the dark screen of the night. The white yacht stood out as if some inferno of flames was playing about her, and on board her could be seen three figures, one of which was Broussac's.

Their gestures of despair, the sweep of the boiling current as the waves lifted her toward the ledge of rocks, filled Nat with horror.

Then suddenly he heard the crash, high above the roar of the breakers. For a moment the yacht seemed to remain poised in mid-air; then she vanished as the undertow sucked her down. Now there was nothing visible but the spume-lashed rocks at the base of the invisible shaft that should have shot its warning light far out across the Gulf.

Again Nat heard that peal of horrible laughter, dying away in a sort of wailing cry.

Then the lighthouse boy was running up. "Monsieur, he has gone mad. He has plugged up the flow of the oil vapor."

"Can you start the light again?" "Assuredly, but I am afraid of Andre."

Nat saw that Mark was on his knees again beside Madeleine, who hung, fainting, in his arms. "I'll be back in a few minutes," he said.

"We'll get Madame Kinross into her cottage. Take care you don't fall over the cliffs."

All the remaining men in St. Victor, and many of the women, had come racing along the shore road when they saw that the light was out. For that is something that is supposed never to happen, perhaps has never happened more than half-a-dozen times in the history of the world. Then suddenly the light was on again, and the beam was sending its far-reaching, one-two, one-two, across the Gulf.

An old, gray-bearded man was huddled on the stones at the foot of the lighthouse. When they shook Andre Galipeault by the arm, he stared at them without knowing them. He had become a child, and he would never know anybody again.

A storm had come up across the Gulf. The rain came down in sheets. Slowly the long night waned, while the searchers moved to and fro among the rocks. It was morning before they found the bodies of Horace Broussac and the two sailors, wedged in among the crevices of the rocks, where the seas had flung them. Great wads of water-soaked bills, a little fortune, were in Broussac's pockets.

But the body of Eric Kinross was never found. Strong, simple, primitive, he seemed to belong rather to the elements than to the world of man, and the elements had claimed him for their own.

Madeleine had understood everything. Father Lacombe had spent a good part of the night with her, and they had bandaged Mark's burns. Mark was conscious, and able to grin at Nat Page when he came in with the latest news.

But Nat didn't think the time was propitious to say very much just then, except to inform Mark about Broussac and Old Andre. It was Mark who asked who it was had burst into the hut and torn away his ropes as if they had been mere strings. Then Nat had to tell him about Kinross. After that there was a long silence.

At Last Madeleine and Mark Can Be Happy

"I guess this rain's put out the fire," said Nat. "We must have lost a lot of timber, but there will be plenty of time to cut fresh drag ways further back, before we start lumbering operations in the fall."

Mark nodded. He was still trying to take it all in. He had never quite believed that Eric Kinross was alive, and his return, to save his life, and give his own for it, had shocked him badly. Also he was in pain from the burns. He had abandoned all hope at the time when Kinross came rushing into the cabin.

"There won't be any more trouble with St. Victor," said Nat. And, in fact, half-a-dozen of the habitants had looked shyly into the cottage to inquire for Mark. And Father Lacombe had come, after Mark became fully conscious, to grasp his hand.

And then there was Madeleine. She was still tending Mark, and he could see that she was moving about the cottage in a dream-like stage, as if all the past was quite unreal to her.

Someday, Mark vowed, he would bring reality into their relationship. For the present he was content to lie back and rest.

WHEN Joan Edwards' first picture, "Hit Parade of 1947," is released she'll make only one personal appearance in connection with it. She plans to appear gratis at the neighborhood theater in Washington Heights, New York City, where she attended movies during her childhood days. She had already made up her mind to break into show business; as she sings so delightfully, "It Comes Naturally," what with her being the niece of the famous Gus Edwards. And, being Joan, she'll give one of the best performances of her life in that little theater—and perhaps inspire some other youngster to work as she has to win success.

Though Burl Ives was never chosen as the boy most likely to succeed at the Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, he certainly was the most famous member of his class when he attended its reunion.

William Gargan, the screen star, is winning new laurels as hard-hitting Russ Dolan, the private investigator on "I Deal in Crime" over ABC Saturday nights. But he isn't neglecting his screen career: "Till the End of Time" is his latest.

Rumors certainly were flying when Fred Allen nosed Bob Hope out of first place in those popularity ratings. The latest "Hooperating" looks familiar, with Fibber McGee and Molly in first place, followed in order by the Charlie McCarthy show, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, and Fred Allen. Jack Benny's ninth, Amos 'n' Andy thirteenth. Which doesn't mean that a lot of us don't still prefer Allen.

Adolph Menjou gets a fine break, playing the title role in Columbia's film version of radio's "Mr. District Attorney." The cast includes Marguerite Chapman, Dennis O'Keefe, Michael O'Shea and George Coulouris, and Sam Bischoff is producing.

When Sherman H. Dryer books important guest stars for his science-drama series, "Exploring the Unknown," Sundays on Mutual, he's responsible for the appearance of many famous people in the audience. Kay Francis brought Grace Moore, the opera star, and Elsa Maxwell along when she appeared. And on one week's session Pat O'Brien was accompanied by William O'Dwyer, the mayor of New York.

Henry Morgan, ABC's mad humorist, complained on the air about not having a place to live that the National Housing Authority got him to make a series of two-minute transcriptions for country-wide distribution to radio stations.

Marilyn Maxwell, M-G-M actress and featured songstress of the Abbott and Costello air show, writes songs as a hobby.

ODDS AND ENDS — Roller-skating fans will get a thrill when they see Rita Hayworth swirl through a whole ballet on skates in Columbia's "Down to Earth." . . . Elliott Lewis is doing a second Sunday network comedy show; in addition to "Sunday at Parky's," he's appearing as "Frankie," the guitarist, on the Phil Harris-Alice Faye show. . . . Judy Garland is doing a straight dramatic role in "Drive-In," the CBS "Suspense" . . . Eleanor Parker ("Never Say Goodbye" with Errol Flynn), is the only actress we know of who was discovered while doing nothing at all; she was watching a play at the Pasadena Community Playhouse when a talent scout spotted her.

The residents of Antelope Valley, on the California desert near Lancaster, claim the distinction of being 100 per cent "Grand Ole Opry" listeners. There are 105 houses in town, each with a radio, and an "Opry" fan polled them.

Berry Kroeger has taken a leave of absence from the cast of "Big Sister" to play the role of "Alain Chartier" in "Joan of Lorraine," the play in which screen star Ingrid Bergman made her debut on the stage in this country.

Veterans SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the columns which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Change in Beneficiaries

Because the new insurance act of 1946 has completely changed regulations with respect to beneficiaries, Veterans' administration is urging all veterans who have National Service Life insurance to designate beneficiaries for their insurance if they have not already done so.

The old provision of the law provided for an automatic order of succession in the event no beneficiary was designated, but on and after July 31, 1946, that provision no longer holds. Under the new law, if the insured is not survived by a designated beneficiary, proceeds of his insurance will be paid in a single sum to his estate at his death.

As part of an estate, insurance loses its identity, as such, and is subject to all laws governing estates, including claims of creditors, administrators' fees and court expenses. This would expose dependents to the risk of unnecessary expense and delay. In addition to naming a primary or first beneficiary, it also is important for a veteran to name contingent or secondary beneficiaries, because in case the first beneficiary is deceased, unpaid benefits will be paid into the insured's estate. All restrictions upon the choice of beneficiaries also are removed under the new law and the insured now may designate any person or persons, a corporation or his estate as beneficiary.

Questions and Answers

Q. My son was overseas 14 months. While there he was wounded and contracted malaria and jungle fever. He is unable to hold a job because he is sick half the time. Is there any way he can receive care and a pension without entering a veteran's hospital? — Mrs. V. F., Lancaster, Calif.

A. There is a provision that eligible veterans may receive home town care from local physicians in states where the state medical association has entered into an agreement for such care with Veterans' administration. California doctors have made such a contract. However, to obtain a pension it would be necessary for the veteran to undergo a medical examination by physicians of the Veterans' administration to determine his disability rating, although this may not necessarily be hospitalized. Suggest you contact your nearest Veterans' administration office and they can advise you.

Q. What are the requirements of a disabled veteran to be eligible for a car at the expense of Veterans' administration? How do you go about getting your national insurance changed to a 20-year payment? — W. F., Lewistown, Pa.

A. The law provides that any veteran of World War II who has lost the use of, or lost one or both legs at or above the ankle, upon application is authorized to purchase an automobile from a dealer of his own choice at a cost not to exceed $1,600. A form may be obtained from your nearest VA office. In changing over your insurance, your nearest Veterans' administration office will provide you the necessary forms and instructions in making out your application for the change.

Q. Is it true that all 1945 draftees will be released from the army by December 31, 1946? — A. J. R., Ada, Okla.

A. Not necessarily. While some newspapers interpreted an October 17 ruling of the army to mean they would, the regulation merely provided that, in an effort to place the army on a volunteer basis and to increase efficiency, sufficient personnel to bring the army down to strength to meet decreased appropriations would be discharged on or before December 31, 1946. The army now is preparing an additional ruling to make the October 17 order more specific.

Q. My husband is in the army and we are expecting a child in November. Am I entitled to maternity care from the government? — Mrs. F. C., Hollywood, Ala.

A. If your husband is an enlisted man in the first three grades, you are entitled to maternity care. Suggest that your husband consult his commanding officer for all details, or you may apply to your local Red Cross for information.

Q. My son enlisted in the army air corps for 3 years. He is 16 years old. I would like to know if he can be put in the stockade or given a dishonorable discharge for being in the army under age? — N. N. P., Ferndale, Mich.

A. Although your son entered the army by giving his age wrong, ordinarily the army will do nothing about it. They certainly will not give him a dishonorable discharge if you should ask for his discharge due to his age, he might be released with an honorable discharge. That is all.

Q. I served 3 years, 2 months and 16 days in the army with the rank of sergeant. What should my terminal leave pay amount to? I had 1 year, 10 months and 23 days of foreign service. — R. W., Belleville, Pa.

A. The army says from the information given they are unable to answer your question. They must have your pay rate at time of discharge and your foreign service nothing to do with the terminal leave pay. It is a question for an army finance officer to figure out.

BURL IVES

Hailed as America's mightiest ballad singer, Burl has starred on Broadway, has been featured in 20th Century-Fox's "Smoky," and now he has his own radio program, heard Friday evenings over Mutual.

"Mrs. Hudson," Holmes' housekeeper in "The New Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" over NBC, is being portrayed by an English actress, Marjorie Bennett. Mary Gordon, who played "Mrs. Hudson" for the past several years both on the air and screen, is now in Scotland making a picture, "Bonnie Prince Charlie." Incidentally, many people believe that Holmes actually lived; not long ago someone sent a calabash pipe to Nigel Bruce, who's "Dr. Watson," declaring that it's one Holmes smoked many times when he lived at 221 Baker Street.

William Gargan, the screen star, is winning new laurels as hard-hitting Russ Dolan, the private investigator on "I Deal in Crime" over ABC Saturday nights. But he isn't neglecting his screen career: "Till the End of Time" is his latest.

Rumors certainly were flying when Fred Allen nosed Bob Hope out of first place in those popularity ratings. The latest "Hooperating" looks familiar, with Fibber McGee and Molly in first place, followed in order by the Charlie McCarthy show, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, and Fred Allen. Jack Benny's ninth, Amos 'n' Andy thirteenth. Which doesn't mean that a lot of us don't still prefer Allen.

Adolph Menjou gets a fine break, playing the title role in Columbia's film version of radio's "Mr. District Attorney." The cast includes Marguerite Chapman, Dennis O'Keefe, Michael O'Shea and George Coulouris, and Sam Bischoff is producing.

When Sherman H. Dryer books important guest stars for his science-drama series, "Exploring the Unknown," Sundays on Mutual, he's responsible for the appearance of many famous people in the audience. Kay Francis brought Grace Moore, the opera star, and Elsa Maxwell along when she appeared. And on one week's session Pat O'Brien was accompanied by William O'Dwyer, the mayor of New York.

Henry Morgan, ABC's mad humorist, complained on the air about not having a place to live that the National Housing Authority got him to make a series of two-minute transcriptions for country-wide distribution to radio stations.

Marilyn Maxwell, M-G-M actress and featured songstress of the Abbott and Costello air show, writes songs as a hobby.

ODDS AND ENDS — Roller-skating fans will get a thrill when they see Rita Hayworth swirl through a whole ballet on skates in Columbia's "Down to Earth." . . . Elliott Lewis is doing a second Sunday network comedy show; in addition to "Sunday at Parky's," he's appearing as "Frankie," the guitarist, on the Phil Harris-Alice Faye show. . . . Judy Garland is doing a straight dramatic role in "Drive-In," the CBS "Suspense" . . . Eleanor Parker ("Never Say Goodbye" with Errol Flynn), is the only actress we know of who was discovered while doing nothing at all; she was watching a play at the Pasadena Community Playhouse when a talent scout spotted her.

The residents of Antelope Valley, on the California desert near Lancaster, claim the distinction of being 100 per cent "Grand Ole Opry" listeners. There are 105 houses in town, each with a radio, and an "Opry" fan polled them.

Berry Kroeger has taken a leave of absence from the cast of "Big Sister" to play the role of "Alain Chartier" in "Joan of Lorraine," the play in which screen star Ingrid Bergman made her debut on the stage in this country.

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Ric McFarlane, a private in the U. S. army, picked a "lemon" for a bride—a woman who was out to get Ric's share of Buzzard's Hill farm before he was discharged from the army. But . . . an old beau comes to call on Julia McFarlane, Ric's mother, in the nick of time.

You will enjoy this poignant story of the McFarlane family, one of Helen Topping Miller's best.

When it's night, it's light—on CONCRETE ROADS

At night your headlights do a better job on concrete. Its light gray surface picks up and spreads illumination without "glossy" reflection. Pavement-edges and obstructions are clearly defined.
And night and day, concrete's even, gritty-textured surface reduces skidding, aids stopping even in the rain. Driving is safer on concrete.

Concrete Saves Money, Too
Concrete not only saves money in surface maintenance, but usually costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity! Insist on concrete for your roads.
