Village Raises $700 in Paralysis Drive

Roads made inaccessible by the recent heavy snowstorm prevented B. D. Rice, West Bend, fund raising chairman for the North Washington County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, from collecting the 1947 March of Dimes coin collectors scattered throughout the chapter area and made it impossible for him to give a preliminary report this week on the results of the recent campaign.

However, he was able to report that a total of $700 was raised in the village of Kewaskum, of which $325 was contributed through means of the coin collection boxes. Rice reported a great job at Kewaskum was done in the schools under the leadership of Miss Margaret Browne, who worked with Mrs. Theodore R. Schmidt and Mrs. Henry Rosenheimer in conducting the campaign in the schools and churches at Kewaskum. Mrs. Schmidt and Newton Rosenheimer were co-chairmen of the drive in Kewaskum.

Needs Cited in Hospital Drive to Raise $100,000

Speaking to the advisory committee in direct charge of raising $100,000 to assist the sisters of St. Joseph's Community hospital in West Bend, County Judge F. W. Bucklin, chairman, last Tuesday evening said:

"This is a project undertaken for the good of the entire community. I don't think there ever was a more worthwhile cause in the history of West Bend."

"It is a big job. We are shooting at a high mark. We can attain it only through generous donations. It is only fair that the citizens of this community help to provide the facilities necessary to protect and restore them to health, and to safeguard their lives. This hospital is as much theirs as if it were paid for through tax dollars."

"People are fair. When they understand the need, they will meet this emergency."

New Wing Was Necessary

It was pointed out that the construction of the new wing was indispensable to adequate hospital service. For a number of years, the 22 bed capacity of the original structure was greatly overcrowded, serving as many as 65 patients. This required putting two beds in many of the single rooms and placing others in corridors, the isolation ward, and in the sterilizing and waiting rooms.

Facilities for maternity cases also were grossly inadequate. With accommodations planned for eight cases at a time, the hospital frequently had to serve as high as 15—on some occasions 18. Thinking that Hartford or Port Washington, both with smaller populations than West Bend, could relieve these conditions because both had larger hospitals, it was found that they, too, were overcrowded.

Sisters Realized Need
"The sisters at the hospital realized that it was their duty to the people to provide better hospital service through enlarging the institution," said Datus Rolfs, co-ordinating chairman of the hospital fund raising committee. "There was no choice in the matter. The need had to be met. These sisters donate their lives to providing hospital service to this area. That is why they built the new wing."

"We now have a hospital which can give proper care to 100 patients. It needs to serve an area in which about 15,000 people live. Sooner or later almost everyone needs hospital care. They will expect comfort and good facilities for restoring their health. In this drive we are asking the people to contribute for their own health protection."

Doctors Give Support

Dr. H. Meyer Lynch, chairman of the physicians' committee, said, "The doctors will support this project with very generous contributions. They want their patients to receive proper care. They realize, perhaps better than anyone else, the vital importance of this enlarged hospital in protecting and restoring health, and in safeguarding and saving lives."

Doctors have already donated much of the present expensive equipment for the operating rooms and for various advanced medical treatments. They stand ready to do their full share in helping to pay for the new construction and facilities."

Area Group Meets

Harold O. Leiser, chairman of the West Bend residential campaign committee, will be assisted by the following:

Lakes, Rivers Stars Play All-Star Games; Ralph Kohn to Manage

The Wehr Sports, Milwaukee Ace league (county) champions will be a great and worthy attraction as the opponents of the northern division Land o' Lakes all-stars at Menomonee Falls high school gym on Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 8:30 p. m. The famous Ring Johnson, Britton and the entire regular lineup, a team in the class of our Major League, will come out to battle the cream of the northern Lakes. As the votes are pouring into the Land o' Lakes office a fine all-star team will represent the northern league.

In the first game of a double header, the Land o' Lakes league will select a team of stars from the nine teams of the northern division to battle the best nine teams of the southern division has to offer. This will be a battle royal as each division has been claiming supremacy over the other since the season began.

Ralph L. Kohn of Kewaskum, whose team is in first place and on the way to a pennant will be the manager of the northern stars.

The Land o' Lakes northern stars will be managed by Stanley Boyd of Hartford Mueller's Electric, league leaders at present, and the southern stars will be managed by Walter Brown of the undefeated Hartland Legion.

The entire net proceeds of this game will go into the league's accident benefit fund. This fund has been taking care of the medical reimbursements of all injuries this past season.

Some 30 claims have been paid this year including an $86.09 claim for Robert Eddy of Waterford for broken front teeth and Robt. Mueller of Mequon $75.00 for broken front teeth. Many x-rays have been taken in regard to broken noses and Robt. Vebring was paid a $35.00 claim for nose and tooth.

Legion Loses to North Lake Stapletons, 45-42

In an exhibition game played on an open date in the local gym Sunday afternoon, the Kewaskum Legion, leaders in the northern division of the Land o' Lakes circuit, were nosed out by the fast, rugged North Lake Stapletons, 45 to 42. The North Lake team is composed of seven Stapleton boys, brothers from two families. The tie was a benefit affair for one of the Stapletons who was injured playing baseball last summer.

The Stapleton boys are well known throughout basketball circles and have a wide reputation for great teams they put on the floor while members of the southern division of the Lakes league. They are now split up and no longer members of the loop. But they are still playing together as a team and besides this some of them are playing with Milwaukee teams, most of them residing in that city now.

Because the contest was not a league encounter, the Kewaskum boys did not play too hard and substitutes saw much action. But they met their match and were up against some classy basketball players who were big, fast, and played hard but clean ball. Paul Kral, Kewaskum mainstay, again was Jopmth seeger with 15 points. Ginny Stapleton, smiling, good natured member of the North Lake squad, and fast as blazes, led the victors with 12 points.

The Stapletons led through most of the game but never by more than a few points. The score at the half was 19-18 in the Stapletons' favor.

RIVERS TEAM DOWNED AT PORT WASHINGTON, 42-31

The Rivers five played a scheduled contest at Port Washington Sunday night and were defeated by the strong Port CYO quint, 42 to 31. The score should have been a lot closer. Kewaskum played as well as Port but no luck at all in shooting, missing many shots, a number of them lay-in shots right under the basket. The local Rivers five beat Port in their first meeting here.

Schaub with 11 points and Krueger with 9 paced Kewaskum's attack, while Weinrich of the CYO club took high honors with 14. Port led at the half, 21-15. The lineups and points scored:

Kewaskum—G. Breckhaus 6, Krueger 9, Scheiff 5, W. Bunkelmann 6, Ehta 6, Schaub 11, D. Backhaus 6, Gaidel 6, Port—Bulvid 8, Weinrich 14, Juska 2, Meyer 6, Sauer 8, Schmit 4, Jankomas 2.

BUTLER, CEDARBURG HERE ON SUNDAY; PLAY BELLES THERE

On Thursday night of this week both the Kewaskum Lakes and Rivers teams played at Campbellsport, in the Lakes contest Kewaskum defeated Campbellsport for the third time this season, 25 to 22. The Rivers quint lost to the Belle seconds. They won one and lost two in their series with the neighbors. Complete results will appear next week.

On Sunday night both teams play on the home floor. The Rivers five meets the strong, second place Cedarburg team for the first time and in the second game the Lakes quint takes on Butler. Both should be fine attractions.

Kewaskum and Butler battled on even terms in their first meeting at Sussex before the locals finally won out.

Next Tuesday night the Rivers team plays at Hartford against the league leaders, who have lost only one game. Hartford won handily when the two met here recently.

VILLAGE HIRES SHOVEL TO REMOVE SNOW FROM STREETS

The village of Kewaskum had the caterpillar shovel of the Joe Jaeger Excavating Co. of West Bend busy the past week removing the huge piles of snow lining the streets from the recent "big storm." The snow on both sides of Main street, the business section of Fond du Lac avenue, and some side streets was loaded into trucks and hauled away. Three trucks were kept going. Once again there is plenty of parking space and room to turn around in our little city. The warm weather of the past week has melted much of the snow.

Clerk, Supervisor of Village Do Not Seek Re-Election

Monday, Feb. 10, was the last date for filing nomination papers with Village Clerk Carl F. Schaeffer for village offices in the coming spring election. A full slate of officers will be elected this year with the exception of trustees, only three trustees will be elected, the other three holding over in office for another year.

Clerk Schaeffer and E. M. Romaine, supervisor, and chairman of the Washington county board, are not candidates for re-election. No candidates filed nomination papers for these two offices. There also are no candidates for justice of the peace, two years, and constable. Names of candidates for these offices will have to be written in at the election.

Village President Charles Miller is a candidate for re-election as are John Marx, treasurer, and Joseph Mayer, assessor. K. A. Honeck Sr. and H. B. Rosenheimer, incumbent trustees, are candidates for re-election, while the third incumbent, A. P. Schaeffer, is not seeking re-election. New trustee candidates are A. W. Martin, who served two years ago, and Lester Dreher. Trustees holding over for another year are Frank Krueger, Edw. E. Miller and Marvin A. Martin.

Kewaskum's Champs Beat Brandon for 9th in Row

TRI-COUNTY STANDINGS Won Lost
Kewaskum 9 0
Lomira 6 3
Brandon 4 5
Hosendale 1 3
Campbellsport 3 5
Oakfield 0 8

The Kewaskum Indians, who have roared through the Fox Valley Tri-County league without a defeat and who already clinched the championship two weeks ago, won their ninth straight victory at Brandon Friday night, 51 to 22. No team has even come close to upsetting Kewaskum.

On Saturday night Kewaskum played another practice game against the Mission House college freshman team at Franklin and lost, 27 to 21. The Indians defeated the Mission House frosh in an earlier game there. Jerome Stautz of Kewaskum, a student at Mission House, scored 10 points against his teammates of last year.

Kewaskum brought its conference season to a close Friday night with Campbellsport as the final barrier for the team. The game was played here with the Indians seeking their tenth straight and a perfect record.

John Tessar, Kewaskum, still leads the conference in scoring with 161 points, 15 more than Cal Voligt, Lomira, who is second with 146. Wierman of Kewaskum is fourth with 91.

New Legislative Setup Is Effective

Congress Putting Its Reorganization to Test

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — The 80th congress has been operating long enough under the new reorganization plan to note some of the latter's virtues and shortcomings. The first hotly debated issue in the senate had a fortunate effect on the plan. I refer to the fight over retention of two of the standing committees — the committees on war investigation and small business. Despite the fact that the 80th congress had expressed the intention to abide by the reorganization plan accepted by the 79th congress, and that one of the purposes of this plan was to eliminate the special committee, the senate Republicans fought hard to ex-

Experts To Advise Solons

Probably the most important change yet to be made is to provide additional help for members. That is providing additional experts to advise committee chairmen and members. I recently heard it remarked that "Senator Taft usually knows what he is talking about when he takes the floor. You may not agree with his policies but when it comes to facts he seldom makes erroneous or misleading statements. This is largely because Taft has the best staff of advisers in congress — he hires and pays for them out of his own pocket."

It is impossible to expect that more than a few members of either house can devote enough time to any single subject to become expert on it. It is true that we have had some outstanding examples of men and women who have been able to specialize and still carry on their other duties. For example, Senator George on finance and Mrs. Rogers on veterans' affairs, to name two widely different fields.

It is natural that most congressmen get into politics by way of the legal profession, which is a good basic training, but today, when many of the most important issues are economic rather than political, no professional training is in itself broad enough.

tend the life of these two "specials" — and they won.

But so much attention was directed toward the issue that Senator Taft hastened to make it clear later that creation of further special committees would be a very difficult job. Net result of the whole discussion was to strengthen rather than weaken the reorganization.

One of the most important steps toward increasing efficiency of congress was elimination of overlapping committees but, like attempting to abolish the seniority rule, it just couldn't be accomplished. As a matter of fact, when the bill finally was passed, the house rejected the senate-approved provision which did away entirely with special committees. It was admitted at the time the reorganization act was passed that it fell considerably short of the original recommendations by the various bodies which had made unofficial studies of the situation. Indeed, the act did not carry out all the recommendations of the report of the joint congressional committee created to examine various recommendations and then to make its own.

The staffing, however, that has been done is invaluable. Now for the first time there will be experts instead of a new inexperienced set brought in with each chairman. More are needed.

Some phases of the reorganization plan probably will prove impractical. One of its objectives was to reduce the number of measures passed by unanimous consent. This was recommended because frequently important legislation was adopted in this manner with only a small number of senators on the floor. The roll is not called — merely "no objections." Various steps were taken to check this custom but there is a human element involved that has to be taken into consideration.

One thing which helps attendance considerably is the reduction of the number of committees upon which a senator serves. This gives him time to participate in debate.

It is not improbable that the filibuster will be curtailed, perhaps this session, if not entirely ruled out. But there never will be "a limit to debate" and "debate" easily can become largely a monologue when addressed to few hearers except a patient visitor or two in the gallery.

More Reforms Recommended

George B. Galloway, staff director of the Monroney-LaFollette congressional committee which drew up the reorganization legislation, recently proposed seven new fields of congressional reform:

1. Avoid legislation deadlocks and promote better teamwork between congress and the President.
2. Create unified, clearly located, responsible leadership in congress for the legislative program.
3. Reduce the non-legislative work load on congress so as to free congressmen from errand running and permit them to concentrate upon their legislative duties.
4. Choose committee chairmen other than on the basis of seniority.
5. Eliminate the filibuster in the senate.
6. Solve the problem of the powers and procedure of the house committee on rules.
7. Establish adequate safeguards against extension of the patronage system to the new professional committee staffs.

It will be a long time before all these suggestions are adopted. Meanwhile some of those already in the law will be modified slightly in use, just as an automobile or ship "shakes down" after a certain amount of mileage has been achieved.

One thing that simply won't work now and probably never will in the senate, at least, is the printing of the schedule of the next day's work in advance. There is too much freedom of action, too much deeply ingrained senatorial courtesy to prevent a senator from obtaining "unanimous consent" to lay aside what was planned and introduce an entirely different matter.

But this is a small point. It is agreed that the advantages outweigh the minor disadvantages. The staffing alone even though not carried out to the full is a tremendous gain. Expert guidance of specialists who know their jobs and are not subject to political interference is invaluable.

LABOR: Pay Equality

Announcement by the department of labor that a special commission had simplified job classifications and ironed out rate inequities in the Big Five packing plants pointed up the growing acceptance of the principle of equal pay for equal work in U. S. industry.

Consisting of representatives of the public, government, industry and labor, the commission cleaned up differences between Swift, Wilson, Cudahy, Armour and Morrell and the AFL, CIO and independent unions over rate inequities. The companies and unions had agreed on conditions for 90,000 jobs in collective bargaining procedure, and the commission acted on the remaining 10,000 jobs.

The number of labor grades carrying varying pay rates was cut from 250 to 25 under the negotiations and wage boosts averaging 1.8 cents an hour were awarded to approximately 75,000 workers to iron out inequalities.

In general, packing house employees doing the work in the same geographical area now draw equal pay.

Previously, the CIO-United Steel Workers and U. S. Steel corporation had ironed out wage inequalities for 175,000 employees. Retroactive to January 4, 1944, the cost of readjustment was estimated at 30 million dollars, with many workers receiving the equivalent of a 1 1/2 cent an hour wage increase.

CHINA: U. S. Out

Diplomatic eyes turned anxiously to the Orient following the U. S. decision to abandon its peace-making in China and withdraw most of the 12,000 marines on duty there.

Concern was expressed lest U. S. withdrawal would invite Russian intervention in China on behalf of the Chinese Communists. While Secretary of State Marshall had diligently sought to bring the Nationalists and Reds together during his special peace mission, the U. S. had proceeded on the assumption that the Nationalists constituted the legal government. In supporting the Nationalists, the U. S. had advanced an estimated 1 1/2 to 2 billion dollars of lend-lease, and also provided technicians for training their military forces.

Since the U. S. pulled out of China without making any strategic arrangements, the Russians maintain a distinct advantage in view of their half-interest in the Manchurian railroad and their joint control of Port Arthur and Dairen. Russia's strategic position thus leaves Moscow in a key position if it wishes to supply Chinese Communists entrenched in the north or actually intervene on the pretext of stabilizing conditions in the Orient.

CONGRESS: Retain Luxury Levies

Bent on trimming income taxes, the Republican congress moved to preserve other sources of revenue to carry the huge 1947-48 budget and reduce debt by extending wartime rates on luxury items.

As a result, taxes on liquor were scheduled to remain at $9 a proof gallon; 20 per cent on furs, luggage, jewelry and toilet preparations; 1 cent for each 5 cents charged on theater admissions; $8 a barrel on beer; 25 per cent on long distance telephone calls and 15 per cent on local service; 15 per cent on transportation, and 20 per cent on light bulbs and tubes.

Meanwhile, Republican ranks were split on the proposal of Chairman Knutson (Rep., Minn.) of the house ways and means committee to reduce income taxes 20 per cent on earnings up to $300,000. Increasing favor was shown for the suggestion of Representative Engel (Rep., Mich.) that exemptions be increased to cut the taxes of low income groups rather than offering broad relief which might chiefly benefit the upper brackets.

Declaring there are nearly 86 million people dependent on individual or family income of $2,500 or less a year, Engel said that Knutson's bill would result in a tax cut of only 72 cents a week for a man earning that much or less. On the other hand, a person drawing $300,000 a year would gain $942 a week. "If the Knutson bill is passed," Engel said, "it will place into the hands of the Democratic party the most effective campaign argument any party can have; an argument which will appeal to 86 million people in the low income group . . ."

FREIGHT: Want More Cars

For the fifth time in three years, Senator Reed (Rep., Kas.) acted to alleviate the shortage of box cars in the West caused by the retention of rolling stock in the East by seaboard railroads.

As elevators and millers clamored for cars to move grain stacked in the West, Reed threatened to draw up permanent legislation to relieve what has developed into a perennial problem in recent years. On previous occasions, the railroads shifted cars west upon Reed's demands.

The shortage of rolling stock resulting from inadequate additions during the war years has figured in the scramble for cars between East and West. Once cars roll in from the West with agricultural products, eastern railroads have sought to hold onto them as long as possible for shipment of industrial goods to seaboard points. Because the railroads also are loath to send the cars back empty, valuable time is lost by shunting them westward with short loads.

C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. ### Local Medical Care

Veterans' administration has announced that veterans with service-incurred disabilities in 32 states now can go to the physician of their own choice for free medical treatment under two different plans of the VA home town medical care program.

Under one plan, a non-profit organization sponsored by the state medical society handles administrative details for VA, including payment of cooperating physicians. VA in turn pays the organization a lump sum for professional services plus a small additional amount for handling administrative work. Under this plan the following states are cooperating: California, Colorado, Hawaii, Maine, Michigan, Montana, North Carolina, Oregon, South Dakota, South Carolina, Minnesota, Washington, Iowa, Wisconsin, New Jersey, New York and North Dakota.

Under the second plan all administrative work, including payment of individual doctors, is taken care of by VA and there is no go-between organization. States cooperating with this plan include: Florida, Wyoming, Louisiana, Arkansas, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Georgia, Illinois, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, West Virginia, Nevada and Tennessee.

Questions and Answers

Q. There was quite a bit of discussion in the Pacific about a seaman getting back the money he was fined while in the service. If it is true, how can I get my $200 back?—G. A. P., Oakland, Calif.

A. I know of no way unless there is a review of the court martial, and even so each case is treated on its merits. Suggest you write to the Office of the Adjutant General, War department, Washington 25, D. C., and explain your case to them.

Q. During my four years in the coast guard I received a 65-day sentence in the brig plus a three-month fine due to a summary court martial. Will the government deduct those 62 days from my 93 days of terminal leave I have coming? Will that affect my bonus when they get around to giving it to me? Yes, I have the best discharge a man could get. honorable. — G. A. P., Oakland, Calif.

A. You evidently are the same man who asked the previous question in today's column. As time spent in confinement under sentence of court martial is deductible from your terminal leave. Over-night, week-end or three-day passes, sick leave, convalescent and rehabilitation leave and temporary duty are not considered as leave under the act. So long as you have an honorable discharge, a term in the brig likely would not affect bonus, but there is as yet no law providing for a bonus.

Q. My brother has a blue discharge under Section VIII, AR-615-360 D.T.D. 16. Is he entitled to mustering-out pay or any other benefits to a veteran? Is this some sort of medical discharge or just what? Our doctor and minister cannot even explain it or at least they won't.—Mrs. G. B. W., Napoleon, Ohio.

A. A blue discharge is one other than honorable and Section 8 of army regulations covers a number of reasons why the man may be army or unfit to be a soldier in the United States army. It may or may not be for medical reasons. Insofar as mustering out pay and benefits are concerned, the law requires an honorable discharge, but in some cases blue discharges are considered on their individual merits and a man may be entitled to veterans' benefits. The local Veterans' administration may decide the case. All such discharges are subject to review if the veteran asks it.

Q. Can you tell me how veterans are keeping up their loans made under the G.I. bill and how many are in default?—Mrs. H. E. J., Defiance, Ohio.

A. Veterans' administration says that less than one-half of one per cent of all veterans loans approved for guaranty by the administration were in default as of September 30, 1946.

Q. Are veterans of the WAVES and WAVES eligible for treatment in Veterans' administration hospitals? — Mrs. A. C. Gallion, Ohio.

A. Yes, women veterans are entitled to the same medical care as male veterans. In addition they may receive treatment and hospitalization for non-service connected disabilities from private physicians and in civil hospitals as well as in VA hospitals and clinics. As of November 30 there were 923 women patients in VA hospitals and 416 in non-VA hospitals. Another 212 were patients in VA homes.

Q. In the event a veteran dies after discharge, but before he receives his mustering out pay, can his relatives obtain the money? — Mrs. H. W. W., Moberley, Mo.

A. Yes, in case of the death of a veteran before he gets his mustering out pay, and after he is discharged, payment may be paid to his surviving widow, if any, and if not, to his children in equal shares. If there are no children, then payment goes to his surviving parents. If there are no parents, no other person may obtain it.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

FEAR OF EXHAUSTING ORES UNFOUNDED, EXPERTS STATE

WASHINGTON. — The most startling advice which Mr. Truman gave congress in his annual message was that "We are rapidly becoming a 'have-not' nation as to many of our minerals." He did not explain what is running short, but just said we should do something about it. A rather abstract picture thus was thrust forward for the commentators to ponder in generalities. A rather dismal non-objectivist picture was drawn that we are losing our world superiority for any coming international trade contests, and we had better get busy also for national defense.

What this picture will turn out to be when the President finishes it is a detailed recommendation for buying foreign minerals, and lowering or abolishing the tariffs on them to import them in greater quantities, thus saving ourselves from mineral poverty. Indeed, the state department is known already to have a list of no less than 1,300 products upon which it proposes to hold hearings shortly to see if it cannot do exactly that — cut the tariff and encourage buying.

The new Republican senators are already murmuring the administration is working up a hidden ball trick on them.

Actually this nation is short of only two important minerals, according to a mining engineer of long and expert standing, who I must confess is a Republican. These two are tin and nickel. The tin we have never been able to get in commercial quantities, relying for our supplies mostly upon the Orient. But nickel is being furnished in desired quantities by Canada, an adjoining nation, upon which we could rely.

GASOLINE FOR 1,000 YEARS.

The actual have-not situation is something like this: Many oil engineers agree this nation could never run out of fuel for its automobiles. An engineer for one oil concern says we have oil in the ground in this nation for 1,000 years. Another says the undeveloped shale in the Rocky Mountain states like Colorado, Utah and Nevada (which has not been touched because of higher commercial hazards than those now tapped) is more than we have consumed to date. Possibly no expert could estimate completely the amount of oil in the ground, but it is certain the administration will get a big argument in any attempt to prove a shortage of this primarily necessary natural resource.

By and large, the condition of important minerals is somewhat like that of tungsten. We did not mine much before the war, but when we needed it (if Japan had cut our supplies from China she might have come closer to winning the war), we built up a domestic supply of 45 per cent of our total production, importing only 55 per cent.

Now tungsten is protected by a 50-cent tariff. Mr. Truman could rapidly make us a have-not nation on tungsten by lowering or abolishing that tariff, and his administration may be doing so now by the rather harsh disdain of his Securities Exchange commission for mining ventures.

SEN. MALONE'S VIEW.

The first Republican answer to all this is likely to be the appointment of a new Nevada senator, George Malone, a promoter of a Rocky Mountain improvement organization called "The Industrial West," as chairman of a public lands subcommittee to look into the matter.

NEW FOREIGN POLICY?

General Marshall is privately exhibiting an inclination to give some objective thought to foreign policy. A change in policy, which I have definitely suggested for three months, therefore seems more probable than you may have heard. The Republicans seem to like all this. They are not really afraid of Marshall making himself a Presidential candidate, at least the well informed leaders are not. They are not tied down to any pressure group consideration of things.

LAST LOVER BY Helen Topping Miller

Jill McFarlane, whose father, Richard, disappeared in World War I, falls in love with Lieut. Spang Gordon. She is upset when she discovers her brother, Ric, has fallen in love with Sandra Calvert, a divorcee of questionable character.

CHAPTER XII

"I know now how stiff my pride has grown. I'd made a success of the place, I'd made a place for myself here, a place for my children. And then he made me feel myself a creature of no account. Just a woman that a man had tired of. No, I can't love him—ever. And I can't hate him either. I don't know what my feeling is—just an awful patience, I think. It's on me like a weight. I couldn't breathe, all that night. I couldn't sleep. I—thought about you, Dave."

"I'm here, Dooley," he said, quietly. Richard McFarlane Jr. stopped briefly before a plate-glass window, set his cap at a jaunty angle, hitched his belt straight, and walked into the hotel.

The lobby was full of soldiers, the blue and silver wings of the air corps rode almost every shoulder, officers were arguing with the clerk about reservations, and a sullen sergeant, with overhanging brows and a lot of dangling bars on a medal, leaned against a pillar and flicked a contemptuous eye over the enlisted men.

A student of character would have appraised him as a spoiled only son, itching under discipline but improved by it, but Ric saw himself as a man of the world, and when at last he had possession of the phone, his voice was crisp and demanding.

"Aren't you dressed yet? I thought you were going to meet me in the lobby?" The cooling voice of the woman he had about come back, soothingly. "But, Ricky, darling, you're too early!" You said six. I'm not dressed yet.

Ric laughed indulgently. "Haven't you got your face on yet? I'm a bathing beauty. Go away, Ricky, I'll hurry as fast as I can."

"Going to wear that yellow thing I like?" "Darling, it's a rag! Anyway, it's at the cleaner's."

"Hurry up then, Sandra. I'm starving." Ric hung up, and a red-headed corporal snatched at the instrument instantly. Ric walked to the desk. "I telephoned for a single room," he said. "I called Thursday. The name is McFarlane. Richard McFarlane."

The clerk studied his book. "All right, Private McFarlane, we saved it for you. Best we could do. You want to go up now?" "No, I'll have dinner first. But give me the key. How much is it? Two dollars?" "Sorry, have to charge three for the week-end."

Ric fumbled out his bill-fold, looked to see that his pass was in place, flung down three rumpled bills. Then as he turned away he joggled the elbow of a tall officer who was waiting for his mail. "Sorry, sir," he said, curtly.

Old Cyanide! Ric gave him a straight look and wondered why this Captain Mackey was studying him so oddly. He felt his neckting to loosen constrictions, to relieve distress, to fight suffering hard and fast. M-K is a doctor's formula, you put a little M-K in a glass of water and drink. Contains no narcotics, no opium, no habit-forming drugs, yet praised by thousands as an amazing in double-quick time. Ask your druggist for M-K tonight. If you don't rest sound and feel worlds better tomorrow, your money back.

Pleasant Thoughts Of Sandra

Ric went back to a corner and slumped on a sofa. Sandra was always late, but when she did come down every bright curl would be in place and tinted, her finger tips would be shining just the right shade for her skin, her eyes would sparkle and her dress and hat be chosen with the clever perfection that pleased Ric's critical and fastidious taste. Since he had known Sandra all these young girls with nothing behind their eyes but youth and eagerness seemed insipid to the expert nurse.

She's a naive little thing, isn't she? Ric blamed Spang Gordon for that. Spang had been an all right guy and a good friend before he got that commission, but lately he had been too stuffed-shirt, irritating with his occasional side-warnings, his moral lectures. Spang was gone now, and Ric had evaded telling him good-by. That a farewell would have been somewhat complicated by the fact that he owed Spang money, Ric put out of his mind. The score was even, if Spang had made it his business to influence Jill against Sandra. And if Jill went home and blabbed—well, that was O.K., too. He was a man now and his affairs were his own, and he still flattered himself that he could always wind his mother around his little finger. Ric sank lower into the cushions and bolstered his self-confidence by remembering that it would be a long time before he would have to go home again, and that when the war was over he'd be some kind of hero, no matter what happened to him, and Dooley would kill or the fatted calf—anyway a turkey or something.

He was not pleased when Captain Mackey took the chair next to him, "How about that little place across the street? They've got booths in that back room," Ric suggested. "All I want is to be with you."

In the amethyst dimness of a shaded light, Sandra slid into a corner of the high-backed seat, and with a sigh leaned her yellow head, turbaned with a frail bit of silver gauze, against the cushions. "What's the matter, Sandra?" Ric asked anxiously.

She shook her head, smiling wanly. "I'm just low in my mind, Ricky. Seeing that man did it, I guess."

"Old Cyanide? Captain Mackey, I mean? He smiled at me. That's something for the book. I never saw him wear a human expression before."

"It brought so many things back," she said. "You know, he was a friend of mine, in Hawaii. You knew him over there?" "We knew all the officers, naturally. Mackey was a major then. They're both part of all that I'm trying to forget."

"I know you had a rotten time, Sandra," Ric laid his hand over hers. "But it's all behind you. This is tonight, and this is us—Sandra and Ricky. It's Sandra and Ricky from now on, so forget that guy and all that stuff you left behind in the islands."

Her fingers stirred like cold, timid little birds under his warm palm. She flicked long lashes, misted a little, and let a liquid look flow over him.

"You're so sweet, Ricky. It's just that seeing Mackey again made me feel old! Old for you, Ricky. And I am young. It's just that life reached out and snatched me up so early. I was too young and silly to know what I was doing. Now I'm all wanted and loved and brand-new for you." She was almost tearful. Ric looked worried.

"Sandra, I've told you often enough that you're the loveliest thing alive! As for brand-new girls, they're a dime a dozen in this town, any town. They're all breathless, they wear those horrible saddle-shoes and sweaters, they cling, they gurgle, they make me sick! You're different. As different from those gushy things as a daisy is different from a strawberry sodal. Stop moping! Let's have fun."

"Ricky, I can't!" She bit her lip, and a large round tear rolled over her eyelids. "I can't get rid of this horrid feeling. I feel as though something ghastly had laid a hand on my shoulder, something I can't shake off. Something that wanted to separate you and me."

"Fat chance!" Ric moved closer, put his arm around her. "Snap out of it. That can't possibly happen. Now, decide what you want to eat. I'm starving. I never saw you get hysterical before."

"I don't think it's hysteria, it hurts too much. Deep down. Like a premonition. Don't ever leave me, Ricky. I can't live without you!" "I may have to leave, you know. I'm in the army," Ric reminded her.

"But you'll stay in my heart? You won't go away and forget me?" Her voice was a fluty sob. "Silly girl! How about a lot of hot coffee? Get hold of yourself, Sandra, and get hold of yourself when you're like this."

She shook the tears from her eyes, smiled faintly, and got out a mirror to repair her make-up. "I'm so sorry, Ricky. I don't know when I've let myself go this way, before. It was thinking about you. I think of that fellow making you cry, breaking your heart, I see green and it makes me nasty. Let's drop the whole thing and enjoy the Saturday night. We haven't got a lot more of them, maybe."

Ric Begins To Feel Uneasy

"What will I do when you leave me?" She nestled close under his arm, small and helpless and lovable. "Ricky, I'll die!" "You'll die!" He grinned down at her. "I'll be in some place full of fleas and mud, eating from a tin pan, or rolled up in a wet pup tent with my feet sticking out into a cold rain, and I'll be thinking of you, curled up in a warm bed—and you'll die!"

"I'll be dreaming of you," she said, wistfully. "About me? Or about Win Calvert?" "That would be a nightmare. I'd wake up screaming. And then I'd have to take two aspirins and bicarbonate of soda."

They both laughed at that, and settled down to ordering their dinner. But Ric did not shake off his unease entirely. It followed him to the little hotel room, and though it was very late when he left Sandra, he could not sleep. She worried and puzzled him. She was so smooth at times, so assured, and yet underneath so young and sweet and so darned helpless! She'd had to learn that cool arrogance, of course. A beautiful woman alone in the world, quivering like a drum under the restless feet of fighting men.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Let Children Play and Frolic! (See recipes below)

Youngsters' Parties

Has your youngster had a party recently? There's nothing quite so excellent for social training for the youngsters as having a party completely their own. Social graces, unselfishness and consideration of others can be taught easily this way.

Of course, a child may look upon this purely as fun, but he can't help absorbing some social sense about the affair even if he is young. I don't suggest that any parent wield a strong arm over him, but there are little ways of coaching him to see that his small guests are comfortable, and the fact that they come to see him in his own home gives the child a certain awareness about his role in the matter.

As a mother, you should be careful in planning the food for the children and seeing that everything goes smoothly. Little tots are apt to get very excited at the prospect of a party, so it's a good idea to have food simple and easy-to-digest.

Since birthdays are good occasions for parties, you might plan a simple supper party for the youngsters. Creamed chicken made with plenty of milk, an easy to get salad of molded fruit, and ice cream and cake is a good starter.

*Creamed Chicken. (Serves 6) 5 tablespoons butter 5 tablespoons flour 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 1/2 cups chicken broth 1/2 cup light cream or top milk 1 1/2 cups cooked, cut up chicken 2 egg yolks, beaten

Melt butter in top part of double boiler, then saute mushrooms in it for 5 minutes. Blend in flour and stir until smooth. Add salt, chicken broth and light cream, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add chicken and heat thoroughly. Remove from heat, pour slowly over beaten egg yolks, stirring constantly. Serve over thin wedges of toast.

Molded Fruit. (Serves 6) 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin 1 cup boiling water 1 cup cranberry juice or canned, jellied sauce 1 apple 1 orange 1 teaspoon lemon juice Lettuce, mayonnaise

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and chill until it thickens. Crush the sauce or add the juice to gelatin. Grind apple and orange, leaving skins on and combine with lemon juice and gelatin. Pour into mold and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

If a birthday cake is a must at the party, plan to make a delicate white one yourself, frost it with chocolate icing and put the writing on with a tube. If you're not quite adept at this, practice the lettering on waxed paper. It can be scooped up and used again.

Birthday Cake. (Makes 2 8-inch layers) 1/2 cup shortening 1 cup granulated sugar 2 cups sifted cake flour

LYNN SAYS: Did You Know? Moist foods always should be kept covered when they are refrigerated or they will dry out. All cooked foods kept in the refrigerator should be kept covered so they keep better and do not absorb odors from other foods. Meat may be bought in larger quantities more economically. Meat should be kept in the coldest portion of the refrigerator or the food locker to prevent spoilage. Lettuce and other greens will keep crisp if they are washed first and placed in the hydrator. Or they may be wrapped in a damp cloth to keep crisp.

The easiest way to remove ice cubes from their trays is to run water over the bottom of the pan, then invert and let stand until they loosen. Fruits should be refrigerated as soon as they are washed and dried. This excludes bananas and pears, however. Berries are best refrigerated unwashed so they do not become soggy.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

*Creamed Chicken on Biscuits Buttered String Beans with Pearled Onions Tomatoes Stuffed with Cole Slaw Beverage Peach Cake *Recipe given.

2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder 1/4 teaspoon salt 3/4 cup milk 1 teaspoon vanilla 3 egg whites

Cream shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Add alternately to creamed mixture with milk. Blend in vanilla and beat until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in greased, floured layer cake pans in a moderately hot (375 degrees) oven for 25 minutes. Frost with chocolate butter cream icing and decorate with white or tinted butter cream icing forced through a pastry tube.

For youngsters who are a little older you might like to have a slightly different menu. If the youngsters are able to manage in the kitchen themselves, it might be a good idea to let them dig in and toast hamburgers themselves. Or you might let them fix their own sandwiches from bowls of different kinds of spread. Have milk to drink and serve with ice cream and cake or cookies, and watch them enjoy themselves!

Toasted Deviled Hamburgers. (Makes 8) 1 pound beef, ground 1/2 cup chili sauce 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard 1 1/2 teaspoons horseradish sauce 1 teaspoon minced onion 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce 1 teaspoon salt 8 buns or slices of white bread

Combine all ingredients except buns or bread. Toast bread on one side in broiler and spread with mixture. Return to the broiler and broil for 8 minutes. If desired, the sandwiches may be cut in halves or strips.

With the sandwiches, serve a salad like cole slaw or one of sliced tomatoes, potato chips or french fried potatoes.

If you don't want the children working in the kitchen for the party, plan to make the meat mixture early, refrigerate it and then pop the sandwiches in to broil while you are working in the kitchen yourself.

For children's parties where excitement tends to run high, better plan to have checked cloths and old napkins or a paper set so there's no worry about laundry. The children will feel more at ease, too, if there aren't too many breakables or things that ruin easily while they're having fun. Thin glassware is especially undesirable, as some of it is sure to be broken and it may hurt someone.

The world has many dreamers—many of whom add beauty to it, but few of whom have the practical kind of genius and intensity of purpose which characterized young Tom Edison who was born on February 11th, 100 years ago. For to him, even in the earliest stages of research, the corraling of electric power held every promise of completely altering the lives of people in all nations.

INDUSTRY

Because of Edison's genius and perseverance we have light 24 hours a day. Hard manual labor is done by electrical machines... swifter, better, more economically than man could do it. And in our homes, factories, on our farms—a dependable flow of electricity makes life easier — more pleasant.

Carnauba Wax, obtained from a South American tree, sometimes called "the tree of life," is a Brazilian product largely used by the paint, varnish, lacquer and other industries. In addition to its use in polishes and preservative compounds, it is also used in special emulsions, cosmetics, salves, ointments, crayons, lubrication operations and carbon paper. The unusual properties of this wax include a high melting point, non-tacky surface, hardness and compatibility with many chemical compounds.

Ancient City
Shiraz, the ancient city of Iran, dates back at least 1,500 years, and at one time held more than half a million people, three times its present count. Rugs and carpets, textiles and sugar make it industrially important. Its lasting fame has come from poets and wine. It gave the country Sa'di and Hafiz, perhaps its two greatest poets. Its wines have led some writers, ignoring the Spanish town of Jerez, to contend that Shiraz gave sherry its name.

Frosted Vegetables
Tender vegetables and fruits may be used as food after they have been slightly touched by frost, but few of these damaged products will store well for the winter season of eating. Tomatoes, peppers, squash, pumpkins and sweet potatoes, among the garden crops that need care in the frost season. Crops in small gardens can be protected from light frosts by a covering of burlap or other cloth.

Contrasts Create Illusions
Sharp contrasts in value and intensity make a room seem smaller. In other words, if the walls are a very light color and the woodwork is dark, the room appears smaller than it will after the woodwork is painted a shade as light and bright as the walls. If the ceiling in the room is dark, greater illusion of space can be created by painting or papering it a lighter color.

Thawing Frozen Vegetables
Most frozen vegetables can be cooked without thawing. Vegetables such as peas, corn, green beans and lima beans fall apart quickly after starting to cook, so it is not necessary to thaw them. Vegetables such as greens and asparagus cook more evenly if thawed just enough to separate the leaves or stalks.

Cooling Pressure Saucepans
Unlike ordinary pressure cookers the pressure saucepan may, when desired, be cooled quickly with cold water without danger of breaking. Pressure saucepans are not recommended for canning as there is no way of accurately gauging the pressure and temperature.

Handling Pumpkins
Vegetable specialists suggest the careful handling of pumpkins and squashes. Do not break off the stems as this makes it easy for rot organisms to enter the fruits. After the first real frost, the vine fruits must be taken indoors as leaves can no longer protect them.

Pressure Saucepan Sterilizes
In addition to its usefulness in cooking, the pressure saucepan is also used in sterilizing infants bottles and nipples. After sterilizing for ten minutes, the vent weight and cover may be left on as a means of sterile storing.

HISTORY IN MINIATURES . . . Crowded into the 4,000 square feet of Roadside America, world's greatest indoor miniature village, is the panorama of American history: (1) Sleepy Hollow is typical of the pioneer days of the West; (2) Shrine church is a replica of a memorial chapel in the Alps; (3) a pioneer village of 300 years ago is reconstructed; (4) the airport, laid out like a real field, lends note of modernity; (5) an idea of the scale on which the miniatures are built is obtained by comparing Laurence Gieringer with the figures he is placing on a railroad station platform, and (6) the village of Fairfield represents the modern era.

Picturesque Miniature Village Depicts History of America

Childhood disillusionment at the shattering of a dream did not deter Laurence Gieringer; instead, it embarked him on a hobby which over a span of 44 years has resulted in creation of a picturesque miniature village which has attracted nationwide attention and lured millions of visitors.

With the passionate covetousness of a child, the 5-year-old Laurence used to sit nightly in the window of his home in a Pennsylvania valley and gaze longingly at a house on the mountainside—a toy house, it seemed to him, as its lights blinked enticingly in the distance. He wanted that tiny house, wanted to pick it up in his hands and bring it home. When his repeated pleas to set out in quest of his house were ignored, the little boy finally became desperate and, stuffing a banana and a few crackers into his pockets, trudged off up the mountainside in search for the little house. Searching parties were out all night and at 6 o'clock in the morning the frantic parents finally discovered the grimy but undaunted boy two-thirds the way up the mountainside. Bitter at being overhauled, the boy was comforted only when his parents agreed to take him to the end of the road.

Disillusionment clouded Laurence's eyes when he beheld just now lights at all in the bright morning, no enchantment, no magic lure. But Laurence Gieringer's dream was not ended; in fact, it had only begun. Today, at 54, he owns countless lighted houses that he can pick up in his hands, along with churches, barns, bridges, highways, railroads, lakes, fields, grist mills, factories and scores of other miniature models depicting the architectural and industrial panorama of the America of the last few hundred years.

Collectively they are known as Roadside America, which is situated four miles west of Hamburg, Pa., between Harrisburg and Allentown. Roadside America had its beginning four years after Laurence's abortive attempt to bring home the lighted house from the mountaintop. With his younger brother, Paul, he had climbed another mountain near Reading. Far below them Reading looked like a city inhabited by doll men. Fascinated by the sight, Laurence said eagerly: "Paul, wouldn't it be swell to build little houses the same size they look from here?" This was born the idea which was to grow into a project enchanting

Circuit Rider Travels 954 Miles Weekly To Reach Parish

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Traveling nearly a thousand miles every week-end to preach to his congregation, the Rev. E. V. Every week from Tuesday through Friday, Mr. Johnson attends classes at Central Baptist Theological sem-

Expensive Paintings Beautify Vet Homes

HAMILTON, N. Y. — With the dual purpose of enhancing the beauty of the veterans' temporary homes and stimulating their interest in art, Colgate university fine arts department is offering married veterans on the campus an opportunity to have expensive paintings in their newly erected prefabricated homes. A special collection of pictures by famous artists has been made available.

Rats Threatening To Exceed Humans

WASHINGTON — There are nearly as many rats as human beings in the United States—130 million of them is the figure. Authority for the figure is the fish and wild life service, which also reports a slight increase in the rat population during the year. Development of a new rat poison, 1080, threatens to reduce the number of rats, according to the service experts.

Weddings Can Wait Sunday Dinner Can't

NASHUA, IOWA. — Sunday weddings can wait but Sunday dinners can't, at least at the picturesque Little Brown Church in the Vale. Trustees voted that there will be no more Sunday marriages at the church, popular for years for wedding and subject of a church hymn, until 2 p. m., thus giving the pastor time to hold morning services and have his dinner without interruption.

The Once Over by H.I. Phillips
Report by a Scout From Mars

(Being from the papers of Nyxos 367, a prominent Martian explorer.)

Sire: My visit to earth was necessarily short. I am especially rugged but not rugged enough to stand a prolonged stay in this madhouse upon which you asked a report. It is, as indicated by the reverberations heard on Mars, a place of great confusion, disorder and strife. Everybody seems fighting, about to fight or just ending a fight. A vast number of languages are spoken but evidently only about nine words are really required for understanding in all tongues. These are "Liar!" "Take that back!" "Forward, march!" and "Surrender or else. . ."

Most of my visit was limited to a place called the United States. They were evidently united at one time. This is a very strange land where something called the radio is going all the time. It drowns out everything else, and I, think, tied up in some way with the mint and the educational system. Vast sums of money are distributed every minute to people of all ages who pass oral examinations, using a contrivance called the microphone.

These sums are staggering. For giving the right name of a song that has been played in every home for half a century an adult is given 10 silver dollars minimum. I observed a woman from Butte who was paid $36 for stating that a volcano was an erupting mountain and not a Cuban musical instrument.

For a child to win $350 in something called a jackpot for stating how many colors there are to the keys on a piano is common, but what bowled me over was that grown adults, some as old as 50 years, were paid even larger sums for telling an interrogator which were predominant, the black or the white keys.

Great symphony orchestras, statesmen, artists and civil leaders all put in time and effort to promote tonics, balms, ointments, etc., from which it is my deduction that the condition of the people is more alarming than I can well describe. As for myself, I found it impossible to listen to the radio a half hour without being overcome by a great feeling of compassion for the inhabitants. I left with a conviction that I had been exposed to many plagues and that an immediate quarantine would be wise upon my return to Mars.

It is my belief that a more accurate report on the place is impossible without a prolonged stay, and I do not feel that any Martian, tough as they are, could stand it.

Faithfully, Nyxos 367.

The National Collegiate Athletic association in convention duly assembled has voted for a purity code in football. The only problem is how to ice the idea over the summer.

You just haven't been concentrating, boy. Note to John Ford, movie director: Horses driven at top speed sweat, and show it. Harry Truman has declared the war almost over. It seems he has never attended a session of E. N. Kaiser-Frazer company reports a loss of $14,236,847 for the last ten months. That's more than a fair showing these days, all obstacles considered.

We don't know about the engine being in the rear, but it's a bad place for the cash register. —"Wanted — Baby - sitter Sunday through Thursday nights. Ridgewood 6-0562 M." Ridgewood Herald.

Gosh, mom, don't you ever stay home? The American Institute of Designers has been awarding prizes for best wall paper designs. Bent Karloby of Copenhagen won first award. His wall paper included "Oak Leaf," described as "masses of hemlock leaves and flowers springing from a central vine, carried out in monochrome," and "Hieroglyphics," described as "a paper showing the characters of ancient Egyptian arranged in vertical columns." Boy, pass us the old-fashioned wall paper. It was pretty noisy but we could always lie in bed and understand it.

Star Dust
STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

By VIRGINIA VALE

HALF an hour spent with Edward G. Robinson is so stimulating that for days other people look pretty drab. He's been having a brief vacation in New York, after finishing "The Red House," while waiting for the script of his next picture to be prepared—as co-producer he has a special interest in both of them. "Vacation" meant seeing friends and relatives, looking at paintings, giving interviews, doing guest shots on the radio—everything but resting. "I have to come to New York about three times a year, to get re-charged," said he. Though his success on the stage was unquestioned, he's not yearning to go back; to make better and better pictures will satisfy him.

Katharine Hepburn, on the other hand, won't give up the theater. But whatever she does on the stage, she says, must be in the nature of a challenge, or something different from anything she's attempted before. After making "Undercurrent," with Robert Taylor, and five days later starting "The Sea of Grass," with Spencer Tracy, she too headed for a vacation, in her Connecticut home.

Barbara Britton's theme song should be "I Love a Parade"; after she rode on a float in the 1911 Tournament of Eesses procession her picture appeared in a local paper, Paramount auditioned her, and she was all set in the movies. From minor roles she worked up to the lead opposite Ray Milland in "Til We Meet Again"; she'll co-star with Randolph Scott in "Albuquerque."

Groucho Marx is afraid he may have a hit on his hands. He has a play, "The Middle Ages," which he'd like to do on the New York stage. But experts have read it and think it will have a long run. If it does, and he appears in it, that will mean that he'll have to be away from Hollywood indefinitely. He wrote it with Norman Krasna, so he may just rest on his laurels as co-author.

Mercedes McCambridge shocked everybody at a rehearsal of "The Adventures of the Thin Man" by announcing that she's quitting radio, maybe forever. She's decided to settle in the West Indies with her novelist husband, William Fifield, and John, her five-year-old son.

It's good news that Katina Paxinou is to appear in another picture; dropping her after her magnificent performance in "For Whom the Bell Tolls" was one of Hollywood's glaring mistakes. She recently returned to this country to play the role of Raymond Massey's wife in RKO's screen version of "Mourning Becomes Electra," by Eugene O'Neill. Dudley Nichols signed her. Congratulations!

Thelma Ritter had a fine reason for omitting playing "Bernice" on a recent "McGarry and His Mouse" broadcast. Last Thanksgiving she played a small role in "It's Only Human," starring Maureen O'Hara and Edmund Gwenn, when some scenes were shot in New York. When the film was developed in Hollywood her comedy scene was so funny that her role was enlarged, so she flew to the coast for new scenes.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that is causing you to waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with a burning and stinging is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder. # Kathleen Norris Says:

One Way to Lose Your Man

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Paul got into the habit of stopping in at Lisa McBreen's after office hours; Lisa supplied the sandwiches, he the liquid refreshment. They sat and chatted for a half hour. It was restful."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"TACT" is a small word, and to many good wives, it seems a small thing. But "atom" is a small word, too. Yet we've all learned, in the last tremendous years, that an atom can smash a great city to pieces in three minutes flat, and change the history of the world.

Tact has changed the married history of thousands of women—or rather, the lack of tact has. It changed Emily Rogers' life, and she never knew it, and doesn't know it to this day. And I doubt if Paul Rogers, her husband, realizes it, either. . . . realizes that if Emily had had any tact at all they'd still be together, a happily married man and wife.

The Rogers had been married 11 years and their boy was nine years old when the break came. Paul met Lisa McBreen. Lisa was three years older than Paul, widowed, not nearly as pretty as Emily, not living in a charming eight-room house, as Emily was. No, Lisa was close to 40, and she had a two-room apartment. But she had tact.

When Paul went home to Emily he was often tired and depressed. Emily never saw it. Often she wasn't there when he got home; always a discouraging thing for a husband. Paul used his latch key and lighted the hall lights and waited for her. When she did come in, it was to say that she was dead tired; to ask if that was his new suit, it looked terrible; to say that Bill was taking Marion with him to New York, to praise enthusiastically the headmaster at Junior's school—a man and a school Paul didn't like—and to observe that she would go to the Billings auction if she thought she could afford a couple of chairs for the rumpus room, but that as she couldn't she would stay home. And from the top of the stairs she might call, "Did you telephone Stella?" and if Paul hadn't, Emily would go into lamentations that lasted well through the dinner hour. A well-cooked, nicely-served dinner, but it would taste like ashes to Paul.

Lisa was Soothing.

So Paul got into the habit of stopping in at Lisa McBreen's after office hours; he supplied the liquid refreshment, Lisa supplied sandwiches, they sat and chatted for perhaps half an hour. It was restful. Lisa was affectionate, responsive, soothing. She didn't make a superman of Paul, but she liked him. After a while he began telephoning transparent excuses to Emily; he was delayed downtown, he had to go up to Stockton for a business dinner.

Emily suffered. She reminded her friends that she had always been a faithful wife to Paul, done her own work since the depression struck, given him a son, given him "the best years of her life." She scorned Lisa, of course. What Paul could see in that middle-aged woman, who had a daughter married, and who was plain, dressed so badly, Emily simply couldn't understand. Her friends sympathized with her, but that didn't keep them in due time from liking the new Mrs. Rogers.

But, of course, the situation isn't entirely satisfactory to anyone. Emily's young son is miserably di-

KINDNESS AND CONSIDERATION

Partners in marriage must be kind, sympathetic and considerate to each other, or they are bound for trouble. Doing this takes intelligence and restraint, but it is not so difficult. Many poor and ignorant people are quite successful at getting along smoothly. On the other hand, many people of wealth and culture are quite lacking in this essential quality of tact.

Miss Norris tells today of a man who got so tired of his nagging, complaining wife that he turned to another woman for comfort. This other woman was a widow, older than he and plain and unattractive compared to his wife, but she gave him the solace he needed.

Eventually he was divorced. He immediately married the plain widow, much to everyone's surprise. His former wife reminds her friends that she had always been faithful and gave him "the best years of her life." She doesn't realize that she failed in one important particular—being tactful.

vided between loyalties. His mother is patiently complaining and injured, his father buoyantly happy and assured; he is ill at ease with both. And Paul has two households to support, now, which means money stringency, besides the fact that old friends are continually put in the uncomfortable position of choosing which family to ask to weddings and parties.

Kindly Interest, Sympathy.

Tact would have saved this situation, as it could save a thousand more divorces this year. Tact does not mean flattery or fawning or lying. It doesn't mean acting a part. It does mean extending to your partner in life just that kindly interest, that sympathy that you would give to a perfectly strange man, met casually at a luncheon or cocktail party.

It does mean that if your husband is worrying about money or bills you don't fret him with ambitious schemes for doing over the whole lower floor. It does mean that if he says his head aches you don't instantly respond, that if he and Jim Stewart wouldn't sit up all night talking business his head wouldn't ache. It means that you refrain from telling him bad news, or humiliating news, or worrying news, until he has his slippers on; until his good hot soup is inside him; until he is somewhat fortified after what was perhaps a long and lonely day. And when you do tell it, it means that you don't interlard it with "I-told-you-so's" and "why don't the Stewarts ever get into these jams?"

Yes, tact sounds a small thing. But it isn't. It is based in something far deeper than just the gift of saying pleasant things and suppressing unpleasant things, of looking on the happier side of life. For tact is tenderness, tact is sympathy and love. Men leave beautiful women and rich women and smart women and successful women. But women with tact hold their men right through to the golden wedding and beyond.

Flu Vaccine Limited

Influenza vaccine should be given in November in the northern areas or immediately after the first occurrence of the disease, according to the New York state department of health. Duration of the immunity given by the vaccine is short, generally from about four months to a year. The common cold and its complications, however, are not prevented by the use of influenza vaccines, nor is protection afforded against bacterial infections such as streptococcal sore throat.

More Platinum Used in Industry Than in Jewelry

Platinum, a war-precious metal, will continue to play an important part in products other than those coveted by misad for her adornment, according to the interior department's bureau of mines.

Principal civilian consumers are the chemical and electrical industries which absorbed 444,111 ounces or approximately two-thirds of the platinum sold during 1945. Major outlets for platinum in the chemical industry include chemical manufacturing equipment, catalyzers and laboratory ware. In the electrical industry, it goes into contacts for communication and other relays, magnetos, thermostats, voltage regulators and control devices, resistors, thermocouples, temperature-limiting fuses, reflectors and electronic tubes. Although 2,505 ounces of platinum were produced in Alaska during 1945, the bulk of United States requirements was imported.

"Well, Deacon," rejoined the parson, "dat's Latin for we's in a heck of a fix."

Flattened Out

A man was jammed against the gates of the subway lift and so nearly suffocated that he had to be taken home by ambulance.
The policeman who accompanied him knocked repeatedly on the door of the house, and at last a voice called out from inside: "Who is it?"
"Your husband," answered the policeman. "He's been crushed flat as a pancake in the subway and I've brought him home."
"Well, slide him under the door," was the reply, "I'm in the bath."

The customers fled in a hail of bullets—all except an Englishman, who stood at the bar calmly finishing his drink.

"Well," remarked the Englishman, "there certainly were a lot of them, weren't there?"

The boss stopped and stared. A boy in the stockroom was leaning against a packing case, idling.
"How much are you getting a week?" he demanded.
"Twelve dollars."

"Never that I know of. He just brought over a note."

First and Last Bullfight In U. S. 67 Years Ago

The only attempt to establish bullfighting in this country was made in New York 67 years ago, according to Collier's. The promoter, after being refused the use of Madison Square Garden by Barnum, built an arena at 116th street and Sixth avenue and staged his first bullfight with celebrated Spanish matadors before 2,000 spectators on July 31, 1880. But the ASPCA saw to it that he never staged another.
