

Romaine Re-Elected Co. Board Chairman

E. M. Romaine, village of Kewaskum supervisor, received 22 votes on the first informal ballot in voting for a county board chairman at the organization meeting Tuesday morning of the members of the Washington county board, who demonstrated that they wished to retain him as their head.

Since the spring election April 1 Romaine was undecided whether to accept or decline re-election, while his fellow citizens of Kewaskum urged him to accept. The county board's endorsement Tuesday swung the balance and induced him to accept. So the county government retains him as its capable chairman.

H. B. Woldt of the village of Jackson was elected vice-chairman of the board. The county board of supervisors went into session with the major purpose being the organization setup for the ensuing year. Judge F. W. Bucklin appeared before the board, explaining the need for a convalescent home. E. Brumm followed the judge with the presentation of vital statistics substantiating the need for a home of this type.

Eight resolutions were given their first reading and laid over for a later second reading. One of the matters acted upon Wednesday morning was to change the office of the register of deeds from a fee to a salary basis, the latter being set at $2,400 per year. The board expected to complete its work of this session on Wednesday.

WARNING TO DOG OWNERS

This is a warning to ALL dog owners in the village to keep their dogs on their own property and tied at all times. Many dogs are again running loose, damaging property, attacking innocent people and proving to be general nuisances. Some of these dogs have already been shot and in the future all such mongrels will be disposed of. If you value your dog, heed this warning and keep it where it belongs.

When accompanied by their owners on the street, dogs must be kept on a leash. Bear in mind that our citizens go to great effort and expense to keep their shrubbery, lawns and gardens neat and trim.

MONTHLY SOCIAL HELD

Members of the Altar society of Holy Trinity church held their monthly social in the church hall on Tuesday evening, where card playing formed the pastime. Hostesses in charge were Mrs. A. P. Schaeffer and Mrs. Mike Skupniewitz, who served a fine lunch.

Kewaskum Chief Hotel and McKee's Tap Change Hands

In a business transaction officially completed the past week, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Reynolds, owners of the Kewaskum Chief hotel, sold the hotel, tavern and property to Steve and Mary Briks, West Allis couple. The new owners will take possession of the business on May 1.

Mr. Briks was in the tavern business some years ago and is experienced in that trade but for the past few years he has been associated with the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company in West Allis. Mr. and Mrs. Briks will continue to serve dinners and lunches and will retain the present chef, Don Cramer of Madison, to do the cooking. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds conducted the business just a year. They took it over on May 1 last year after purchasing the place from Mrs. Wm. F. Schultz, who with her late husband owned and operated the business for many years. Mr. Reynolds is undecided on the future and with his wife and daughter Bonnie will leave May 1 to spend some time at Wisota lake, five miles north of Chippewa Falls, for a needed rest and vacation. Mrs. Reynolds and daughter left last week to visit her sister at Eau Claire until Mr. and Mrs. Briks take over the hotel, when they will join Mr. Reynolds at Wisota lake.

McKee's Tap on Fond du Lac avenue operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKee, will change hands this Sunday, April 28, when Mr. McKee's mother, Mrs. Edna McKee of Milwaukee, will take charge of the business. She will be assisted in the tavern by Jessie Brady of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Edna McKee is experienced in the tavern business, having conducted a tavern in Milwaukee which she sold during the past year. She will operate McKee's Tap for her son and wife until July 1, after which she will enter into business for herself.

The Bob McKee's operated the tavern since Oct. 1, 1945, when they purchased it from Lester Dreher. With their two children, Charlie and Mary Beth, Mr. and Mrs. McKee, formerly of Greendale, will move to Milwaukee to reside. Mr. McKee has made no definite plans for the future.

Tuberculin Tests to be Held in County Schools

The annual Washington county tuberculin testing program will be held on Monday, April 21, in the high schools of the county and on Tuesday, April 22, in the West Bend high school.

The test is a simple and harmless one but it may find the tuberculosis germ before it has done any damage to the body. A positive test means that the individual has been exposed at some time or other to the tuberculosis germ. It does not necessarily mean that the individual has an active form of tuberculosis. A positive reaction to the tuberculin test should be followed by a chest x-ray or fluoroscope examination.

If the result of the tuberculin test is negative, it is wise to repeat the test at least once every two years. Emphasis is being placed on the testing of the high school groups this year. However, grade school students who have had contact with tuberculosis are also included in the program and are asked to report at the schools at the time listed. Written consent slips must be given by the parent or guardian.

The tuberculin test will be given by the local doctors assisted by Miss Gladys Salter, county nurse and Miss Irene Thomas, R. N. The schedule is as follows:

Monday, April 21—9:00 to 10:00 a. m., Hartford high school; 11:00 to 11:30 a. m., Slinger high school; 1:00 to 1:30 p. m., Kewaskum high school.

Tuesday, April 22—10:00 to 11:20 a. m., West Bend high school.

Miss Serwe, Arlene Mertes are Brides

In a spring wedding ceremony read at 2 a. m. Saturday, April 12, in St. Matthew's church, Campbellsport, Miss Jeanette Serwe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Math. Serwe, Campbellsport, became the bride of Ernest "Bob" Gruber, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber, village. The Rev. A. Biever officiated at the rite and also read the solemn nuptial high mass.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Ellsworth Ruff, as matron of honor, while Mary Joyce Gruber, sister of the groom, and Lucille McNamara served as bridesmaids.

The groom was attended by his brother, Andrew Eugene Gruber, as best man, and Jerry Serwe and Ellsworth Ruff served as ushers.

Also attending the couple were little Joan Cotter and Roger Gutjahr, who were dressed as a tiny bride and groom.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette with long train and carried a bouquet of white and red roses. The matron of honor was attired in a pink transparent velvet gown with net skirt and carried mixed flowers. Frocks of aqua blue with net skirts were worn by the bridesmaids and they also carried mixed flowers.

A reception was held and dinner served at the home of the bride's parents which was gaily decorated with white, pink and aqua crepe paper and white wedding bells. In the evening a wedding dance was held at the Light-house ballroom, for relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gruber left on a wedding trip to an unknown destination, following which they will be at home in Kewaskum where they will reside with the groom's parents for the present. Both the bride and groom are employed at the Kewaskum Utensil company. The groom is a veteran of World War II.

ASHMAN-MERTES

Mrs. Clarence Mertes of this village announces the marriage of her daughter, Arlene, to Oscar Ashman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Ashman of West Bend. The wedding took place on Tuesday, April 8.

For her marriage the bride wore a green gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow jonquils.

News Conferences Net Few Leads

Truman's Press Confabs Lack Color of FDR's

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON — President Truman held his 100th White House press and radio conference recently. He said he had enjoyed them all. The reporters, he said, had been fair; had reported the facts.

"Thank you, Mr. President."

"How have I been?" he might have asked us, but didn't.

On the way back from the White House that windy 100th day, some of us discussed the question. That 100th conference was the first since his Florida trip which began when the Sacred Cow winged its way from the national airport, some 30 minutes after Mr. Truman left the chamber of the house of representatives where he had delivered his historic message.

Meanwhile, the new declaration of American policy had weakened thousands and thousands of words, spoken and printed in every nation and in almost every newspaper in the world. Diplomats, generals, statesmen, people big and little, had quaked or exulted. So we naturally looked for something very hot to write about as a result of our first White House conference thereafter. We didn't get it.

We did hear former Ambassador to Poland Arthur Bliss Lane's blast against Communism; we found out that the President was a left-handed bowler (he had just been presented with a bowling alley); we were assured that he was concerned about rising prices; we listened to him express the hope that industry would see "the handwriting on the wall" and stop an upward spiral which would bring forth renewed wage demands; we asked for but got "no comment" on a number of bills "in the works" because the President won't talk about "pending legislation"—and he applied the same rule to the Greek-Turkish affair.

We also were handed a good laugh out of comment on the famous faux pas made by Gael Sullivan, deputy chairman of the national Democratic committee while the President was away. Sullivan almost disrupted "bi-partisan foreign policy" by writing to the Republican national committee chairman and asking for a joint statement supporting the Truman plan on Greek aid.

When somebody asked if Sullivan was thinking of resigning there was considerable gaiety.

of type that almost always appeared after a Roosevelt news conference.

We wondered why. Looking back over the hundred conferences with Mr. Truman, we agreed they had been pretty good. But of late, we agreed, it required a bit of digging to get the news. Roosevelt usually gave us something which, even if it wasn't news, had a strong human interest appeal. Even if it was only a striking simile like the one Roosevelt used in connection with lend-lease.

(You may remember, he said that if a neighbor's house was on fire, you naturally would lend him your hose if his weren't long enough, not only to help him save his home but also to keep your own from catching fire. And you wouldn't demand payment for its use. After the fire was out the neighbor would give back the hose or pay for it with whatever he had to offer in return.)

Even the anti-Roosevelt papers would have to report stories like that, whether they agreed with the idea behind them or not.

And if Roosevelt hadn't any specific comment on the important news of the day, he frequently would make use of a parable or give us a homily, which showed us how he was thinking on the subject, something that managed to get his ideas over and furnish us with the background we needed to interpret the daily happenings.

We talked the 100th press conference over, lamenting that nothing had come out of it which would clarify the Greek-Turkish aid program.

We regretted that President Truman hadn't injected a little more of himself into the meeting. It would have been to the advantage of the news folk, the program itself, the people who were trying to get support for it.

Of course, there was reason for Mr. Truman's reticence. He had been criticized early in his administration for answering some questions too glibly. He had suffered from spontaneous replies. As a result he is now perhaps leaning a little too far backwards.

The White House press and radio conference is a great institution. It provides a medium for bringing the people and their government nearer together than any other medium which exists, except perhaps the rarer "fireside chat." Nothing like it exists anywhere else in the world. But it is not an easy thing to handle.

The correspondents are there to get every scintilla of news which they think will interest their readers and listeners. The President is there to reveal only what he thinks is his duty to release in the public good. And he is also there to present his side of all questions so that his administration appears in the best light.

President Roosevelt was a past master at the art. He seldom refused to answer a question, for that just meant "no news." He preferred to feint and dodge in a manner that produced some kind of an answer which would suit his ends. President Truman has chosen to go into a clinch rather than feint or risk a wild haymaker.

German Miners Strike; British Draft Extended

GERMANY: Strikes for Food

Coal miners in Germany's Ruhr area are striking for larger food rations for themselves and their families. This region is in the British zone. More than 300,000 miners have been off the job at various times in demonstrations against what they consider inadequate food allowances. Most of the Ruhr's 170 mines have been idle at some time or other during the past two weeks. The Ruhr is the heart of industrial Germany, containing coal and iron mines, steel mills and other heavy industries.

British authorities have been appealing for the most part futilely, to the miners to remain on the job. The situation has been getting worse for some time, largely as a result of British inability to obtain and transport large enough quantities of foodstuffs to maintain a minimum subsistence diet. Heavy workers feel the lack even more acutely, and trouble has been brewing all winter.

Curtailment of coal output has serious consequences, not only for Germany, but for 13 European countries now receiving 10 per cent of the German coal production. Electric power reductions soon will become necessary in these nations, it is feared. In an effort to ease the situation, British authorities are rushing all available food from other parts of their zone.

BRITAIN: Peacetime Draft

Recognizing the threat to peace that the Russian foreign policy presents to Britain, as well as to all the world, the parliament passed a peacetime conscription bill, distasteful as this is to the Labor government. A curious alignment combined to force passage of the bill as Conservatives joined with Laborites to vote the act through. There was embarrassment on both sides, for many of the Labor party members had voted against conscription at the beginning of the war. The Conservatives, led by Winston Churchill, reluctantly favored a bill sponsored by the party they ardently dislike. Liberals and certain pacifist Laborites voted "no" on bill. The national service bill extends the present conscription laws for five years beyond January 1, 1949. It provides for 18 months of active service for all men 18 to 26, and five and a half years of part-time service.

COAL MINES: Closed as Dangerous

Five hundred and eighteen government-operated soft coal mines have been closed down as unsafe by Secretary of the Interior Krug. They will remain closed for an indefinite period, until inspections indicate that they are "reasonably safe." Representatives of miners' unions also will pass on the safety element in each mine.

About 40,000 miners are employed in the 518 dangerous mines. The greatest risk, Secretary Krug said, is from explosive gas and dust. The other 2,013 mines under federal control have reopened. It is estimated that coal output has been reduced about one-sixth by the closing order.

John L. Lewis, who was testifying before a house labor subcommittee when Secretary Krug issued the order, commented:

"I point out that Secretary Krug is doing now what he should have done ever since the safety code became effective. He's started to enforce his own code after 111 deaths."

LAST LOVER

BY Helen Topping Miller

Julia McFarlane, whose husband, Richard, disappeared in World War I, is married with two children, Ric and Jill, and started when 25 years later, during the second war, he returns and tells her he is using the name of Captain Mackey. Ric marries Sandra Calvert, a divorcee whom Richard knew to be of bad reputation. Sandra tells Jill she wants $10,000. Captain Mackey arrives, telling Jill, who does not know who he is, that he is taking Sandra to Ric.

Sandra suspects who he is but is afraid of him. Richard tells Jill to tell her mother her "last lover" came to call. Spang Gordon, whom Jill loves, is grounded near the farm and the couple is reunited.

Richard should be here to give his daughter away! Richard had seen her now, he knew what he had thrown aside, what he had lost. Whatever he had done, however he had just let himself, Richard was having his reckoning now. Jill did not see the paper next day.

CHAPTER XXI

"Dooley gets a daughter-in-law with no warning at all, and then loses her just as abruptly. We old people can't adjust ourselves to changes in a minute, Jill," Dave said.

"Could you stand the idea of getting a son-in-law in an awful hurry, Mrs. McFarlane?" Spang inquired, wistfully. "I've only got about fifteen hours—maybe not that long."

Jill caught her breath with a jerk and threw back her head.

"She can't get a son-in-law unless I get a husband," she said, coolly, "and certainly no one has ever mentioned marrying me!"

Spang got up and put down his cup. He looked at Dave and Julia with his boyish, engaging, one-sided smile.

"Could we be permitted to retire to some private spot while I convince this woman that I love her, Mrs. McFarlane?"

Tears brimmed in Jill's eyes.

"Oh, Spang—you mean—you do? You mean you do want me? You want to get married—now—to me?"

Spang took her elbow. "Come along in here, stupid woman, and I'll put it all into words of one syllable!"

"But how could I know if nobody tells me?" Jill demanded, furiously, as he steered her out. "I thought you never would—I practically hated you—Oh, Spang."

Dave got up and shut the door, then came back and filled his pipe again.

"A young man has asked you for your daughter's hand in marriage, Dooley," Dave said presently, "or did you hear him?"

She turned then, and he saw the taut grayness begin to go out of her face, color was coming back into her lips, her eyes were not enormous and anguished any more.

"He tried to save Ric, Dave," she said, "and he didn't tell Jill who he was. And Sandra knew. I think she was very sure, I saw that in her face."

"Jill said that she made vague threats."

"This isn't the end, Dave. Sometimes I think there never will be an end. There can't be, while Richard is alive. But he did try to save his son. And he didn't hurt Jill."

He was trying to save himself, Dave Patterson was thinking bitterly. This was the beginning of a campaign, this was Richard McFarlane trying to win his way into his wife's heart again. But he said, levelly, "If Jill marries this young chap, Gordon, she'll have other things to think about. Even if the shock comes it won't stun her. You heard her defending Richard, though she had no idea he was anything but a casual stranger."

"Yes," said Julia, hoarsely, "but if the revelation does come will she defend me? Or will she be outraged because I've deceived her? And surely, Dave, they can't be thinking of being married—now? She knows this lieutenant so casually—she has seen him only three times."

"Now is all the time they have, Dooley, remember? The hour that ticks itself away before their eyes, the little time they gain through some break like this oil business, is all a lad like young Gordon can promise himself. There's no tomorrow any more for kids like Jill and Gordon. Sometimes there's not even today, whole and unspoiled. Give them the little that they ask for, Dooley, and give it graciously. Don't hold back. They're being robbed enough already."

She drew a long breath, and Dave saw the rigid lines in her face soften. She hung up the dish towel and dried her fingers.

for the duration. You'd better get a little sleep, Spang. I'd hate to have my bridegroom pass out on me between 'Dearly beloved' and 'I do.'"

"You could use a few winks yourself. You want to be on the alert, you know, when I bestow all my worldly goods upon you. You want to be sure you aren't getting gyped."

Julia heard it all with a little inward pang. Richard should be here to give his daughter away! Richard had seen her now, he knew what he had thrown aside, what he had lost. Whatever he had done, however he had just let himself, Richard was having his reckoning now. Jill did not see the paper next day.

There was too much excitement. Dave got on the telephone and wangled a forty-hour leave for Lieutenant Gordon from his commanding officer, and Julia came down from the attic, her arms full of tissue paper and wisps of stuff.

"I've planned since you were five months old to have you come down these stairs to be married, Jill," she said. "I've seen you, in my trousers a trifle too long and a khaki skirt with sleeves a little too short, but there was worship in his face, and at the bottom Jill smiled at him dizzily.

There were candles burning in the tall candlesticks on the old mantels, their little golden torches reflected in the mirrors. There were the hastily assembled guests and the old, old tune played by some volunteer on the piano. They ate ice-cream and Mamie's hastily baked wedding cake, the icing still slightly drippy, they drank toasts in John I.'s champagne, and then it was over and Jill was flying down the stairs again in her flannel suit, her hat in her hand, and stopping to toss her bouquet over the rail.

John I. caught it and looked a little bewildered and embarrassed as Jill went into hysterics of laughter at him, so he poked it abruptly at the nearest woman and fled. Then Jill and Spang were rattling away in the old station-wagon, bound for the mountain in only a few miles away where they would spend their brief and precious time together.

The last guest departed, Dave began putting chairs in their places and blowing out candles. John I. pulled off his necktie and hunted for his old pipe, and Julia went out on the porch and dropped into a chair, sighing with weariness and sliding her feet out of the tight, high pumps she had worn. She had not slept, her head felt light and strange. Dave was avoiding her, doing one thing after another to keep from thinking, she knew, but at least Jill was happy.

Richard Pays an Overdue Debt

John I. came out, dragged a match down the bricks of the wall, giving her a sidelong, guilty look when the match fell a brown mark.

"Forgot the paper," he muttered when he had the pipe going. "Dang war might be over, and we wouldn't know it."

He trudged down the driveway, picked up the paper where the boy had thrown it, unrolled it, and walked back across the lawn, stumbling a little, reading the headlines. Julia saw him stop and study the paper for a minute or two and then come plunging on, walking headlong into a spirea bush, and she told herself that poor old John I. was breaking fast, that all the excitement of this past week had been too much for him. She'd make him rest more now, and maybe life would grow calm and quiet again, with Sandra gone and Jill married and content.

She was lost in reverie when John I. struggled up to the porch, panting, and laid the paper in her lap.

"There!" he gasped, pointing "Look there!"

It was not a big headline. But it leaped from the paper and smote Julia McFarlane's consciousness like a blow.

ARMY OFFICER AND WOMAN LOSE LIVES WHEN CAR CRASHES INTO TENNESSEE RIVER

Old John I. dropped into a chair and was twisting his trembling hands together.

"I know that bluff," he said. "I know just where it happened. He must have been driving too fast. Dooley, when he came here last night I shook his hand. I'm so glad now that I shook his hand!"

"I'm glad, too, John I.," Julia said, in a toneless voice.

She laid the paper down and walked out across the grass, under the high, ancient trees. She looked at the thin autumn sky and the leaves that were already beginning to turn a little.

"Good-by, Richard," she said softly. "Good-by, my last lover!"

[THE END]

"Oh Spang—you mean—you do?"

dream, reflected in the mirrors, with a veil drifting around your hair. I was married in a street dress, with a hobble skirt and a dreadful hat that dropped clear down over my ears, but my mother had elegance and orange blossoms. If this dress isn't too yellow and brittle—if you can squeeze into it—we can press it carefully, and it isn't too Victorian, not so terribly different from some of the Godeyish things they're wearing now."

John I. Catches A Bouquet

"Satin," breathed Jill, fingering the heavy folds of the sweeping train. "I never dreamed you'd let me wear this, Dooley. And real lace on the veil! Let me try it on! Oh, I'm so glad we don't have to rush things so Spang can get away. I'll be really married! Look at all the million little hooks! They certainly had patience in those days! Dooley, with the sash let out a little, it will meet here at the belt!"

So Jill came down the McFarlane stairs in her grandmother's wedding gown, and Lieutenant Spencer Gordon, Army Air Corps, stood at the foot of the stairs waiting for his bride in a new pair of khaki knuckles tied with spang. "You'll do nothing of the sort," declared Julia. "You'll have a bouquet, and Dave will ransack the army store in the morning to find some things for Spang to wear, and we'll even have a wedding-cake. Some kind of cake, anyway. There'll be time to telephone a few people—"

"Spang's crew. All but one. One has to guard the plane."

"There won't be any arch of words," Spang reminded Jill. "You won't even have a wedding march. But you'll have me."

"Briefly," Jill's mouth quivered for an instant, then tightened again to the smile she had been keeping fast. She said, "I'll wear my flannel and my little turban, and Grandfather will give me away, and Dooley will weep, knowing all the time that she'll get me back again in a couple of hours and have me on her hands

Dress Up Leftovers Skillfully!

Leftover Check-Up

There are some leftovers we view with disdain, but there are others we welcome heartily. For example, I'm never sad when we have leftover ham, lamb or chicken. Clever tricks can be applied to leftover potatoes as well as vegetables; and there's a dozen different appealing ways to work leftover cake and puddings into toothsome desserts for second day use.

If your family does not really enjoy leftover food your job is to change the original dish to such an extent they will really think it's a fresh, new idea. A little work, perhaps, but the results are gratifying.

Garnish leftover platters carefully so that when they make their first appearance they will be a hit before they are even tasted. In this way the problem will be half settled before the family even begins to taste.

Here's a nice Sunday night supper suggestion using old favorites like ham and eggs, tastefully combined with a gloriously colored tomato aspic.

*Tomato Aspic with Ham Deviled Eggs. (Serves 6)

(Part I.)

3 hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon mayonnaise or sour cream
2 tablespoons deviled or chopped ham

Cut hard-cooked eggs in half crosswise and remove yolks. Blend yolks with sour cream or mayonnaise and ham. Refill whites.

(Part II.)

1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups tomato juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon grated onion

Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix tomato juice, salt, sugar and onion and simmer for 10 minutes. Dissolve softened gelatin in hot liquid. Cool. Into each mold place 1/2 deviled egg and pour tomato jelly over each. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and serve with mayonnaise.

Either ham or lamb may be used in the following casserole made with rice. It's an easy-to-prepare casserole, but one which is exceedingly appetizing for one of the nip-py nights when appetites are hearty.

Casserole of Lamb and Rice. (Serves 6)

2 cups finely chopped lamb
2 cups steamed rice
Salt and pepper
Celery salt
Onion juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 cup bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
Hot water or stock

Line buttered mold with rice. Season meat to taste with salt, pepper, celery salt, onion juice and lemon juice. Add cracker crumbs to slightly beaten egg and enough hot water or stock to moisten the meat.

LYNN SAYS:
Be Economical;
Use All of Meat

Because the price of meat is high, it's essential for every woman watching her budget to use every scrap of it wisely. The first saving lies in cooking every cut properly without undue shrinkage. No matter whether you broil, roast, stew or fry, use low heat and an even temperature. You'll have more meat left if you do.

When most of the meat has been trimmed off the bones, there's still good eating there if you will use the bone to make a soup with good vegetables. Serve this with a hearty dessert and you have a complete meal at hand. Rice pudding is a good, filling choice.

Leftover scraps can be turned into tempting casseroles, meat pies, red flannel hash, meat patties, etc. Very small amounts of meat can be ground and mixed with sweet pickle relish and mayonnaise or chili sauce or both and used as a sandwich filling.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- *Tomato Aspic with Ham Deviled Eggs
- *Au Gratin Potatoes or *Corn Oysters
- Beverage Rye Bread
- *Marmalade Cake Pudding
- *Recipe given.

Fill center of mold and cover with remaining rice. Cover with buttered paper and steam for 45 minutes. Serve with green pea sauce.

Creamed Chicken Supreme. (Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 cups cooked chicken or turkey, cut in strips
- 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sauteed in butter
- 1/2 cup cooked spaghetti
- 1 cup white sauce
- 1/2 cup grated American cheese
- 1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs

Put chicken, mushrooms, spaghetti and white sauce layer by layer, into a buttered casserole. Sprinkle with cheese and crumbs and bake in a hot (400-degree) oven until top is browned, about 15 minutes.

- *Au Gratin Potatoes. (Serves 4 to 6)
- 2 cups cold boiled or baked potatoes, cubed
- 1 cup white sauce
- 1 cup grated American cheese

Add cheese to white sauce while still warm, then mix in the potatoes. Place in a shallow, buttered baking dish and bake until the top is browned in a moderate oven.

If the family likes corn and you always seem to have a bit leftover from your main dinner, then do something that will make a big hit with Dad and the boys. These should be made small and they will be very appealing:

- *Corn Oysters. (Serves 6)
- 2 cups corn pulp
- 2 eggs, separated
- 4 crackers, crumbled
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

To corn pulp, add beaten egg yolks, cracker crumbs, salt and pepper. Add stiffly beaten egg whites and blend. Drop by teaspoonsful on hot greased frying pan and brown. Serve with jam or jelly.

What to do with leftover pieces of cake? That's not hard when there's a perfectly delicious recipe around for a marmalade pudding which will take care of the cake crumbs so nicely.

- *Marmalade Cake Pudding. (Serves 6)
- 1 1/2 cups dry cake crumbs
- 1 1/2 cups scalded milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup orange marmalade
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Soak cake crumbs in hot milk; when cool, add remaining ingredients and place in a buttered baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 45 minutes. Serve hot with orange sauce or plain cream.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

If there is no gravy from leftover roast for casseroles, you can always make a nourishing white sauce, add a chicken or beef bouillon cube to it and use this as gravy.

If there is not enough meat to use for stuffing green peppers, rice or vegetables may always be added to extend the meat.

Potatoes are always a good extender for meat in hash. Use onion as one of the seasonings if you want something truly delicious. Serve with fried eggs if the hash seems a little skimpy.

The first day the leftover roast is served, slice it thin and serve heated in a barbecue sauce for a real treat. Have this with a dish of fluffy rice or hashed brown or country-fried potatoes.

Leftover roasts, when the pieces become smaller, may also be used as the base of main dish salads. Roasting imparts a delicate flavor to meat which makes it delicious in a salad of meat and vegetables.

Leftover bread crumbs may be browned in butter and used to enhance the flavor of vegetables. A dash of nutmeg adds flavor.

Color Effects

Beginning at the left of the spectrum, violet denotes richness, formality, and luxury. The next color, blue, is cool in its effect, calming and can sometimes be depressing. Of all colors, green is the most universally liked. It has the warmth of yellow and the coolness of blue combined to make it naturally refreshing. Yellow, associated with the sun, is warm and stimulating and orange is a brilliant stimulating color. Red is perhaps the strongest of all colors and denotes danger, passion and strong feelings.

Preserve Leaves

Autumn leaves make splendid holiday decorations. To preserve them, press with a warm iron to preserve the color. Then soak the leaves in a solution of one part glycerine to 9 parts water. When thoroughly soaked, remove from solution and press between blotters. The leaves will remain flexible forever and may be glued to branches where leaves are gone, or used in table decorations.

Blanching Peanuts

To blanch almonds or raw peanuts for roasting, pour boiling water over them and hold at simmering temperature (185 degrees) for three minutes. Drain and slip off loose skins by pressing the kernel between thumb and forefinger. Spread the blanched kernels on absorbent paper and dry overnight at ordinary room temperature.

New Dyeing

It wasn't until 1836 that dyeing began to be released from its dependency upon vegetables and mineral sources. In that year, an English student, named William Henry Perkin, discovered that aniline derived from coal tar could be chemically treated to produce beautiful and lasting colors.

Highway Safety

When walking along the road at night, wear something white of car to pass freely through the soil. Thorough drainage is very important, as sour, water-logged soil is fatal to most young garden plants.

Porous Flat

The flat for planting small flower seed should have plenty of holes or cracks in the bottom to allow water to pass freely through the soil. Thorough drainage is very important, as sour, water-logged soil is fatal to most young garden plants.

Aluminum Windows

Aluminum windows for residences are now in production. The new windows are said to lift and lower with an easy, effortless motion.

SENSATIONAL NEW OIL BURNER!

Alaska Large

Alaska's 580,000 square miles of area is one-fifth the size of the United States and more than twice the size of the largest state of Texas. Placed over a map of the United States, Alaska would cover the states of Florida, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky and parts of Arkansas, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina, and Georgia. The distance from Ketchikan to Point Barrow approximates that from Seattle to the Mexican border.

Cows Like Comfort

Trials at the department of agriculture field station in Huntley, Mont., indicate dairy cows produce more milk when kept in a pen barn than when confined in stanchions. Pen barns require more bedding than is used with cows in stanchions but less cleaning is needed in the pen barn. The milk increase in pen barns was accredited to more comfort for cows.

U. S. Cropland

The United States has about 400 million acres available for cropping. This total includes in addition to that already in crops, some 100 million acres in need of drainage, irrigation, clearing and other improvements. All but 70 million acres of the 400 million acres is subject to erosion if it is not protected by soil conserving measures.

Holiday Delicacy

For a holiday delicacy, home-salted nuts may be relatively inexpensive, and, if prepared by frying-pan roasting, require the minimum of fat. Although frying in deep fat generally is considered to give the best flavor to many nuts, roasting in a little fat in the frying pan also produces delicious taste.

Graining Calf

The amount of salable milk required to grow out a calf can be reduced by using skim milk which has been fortified with energy-rich feed. The calf should nurse the cow for three days. It then can be fed skim milk at the rate of one pound of milk for each 10 pounds of body weight up to an age of 45 to 60 days.

Grand Crown

The Imperial State crown, made for Queen Victoria in 1838, is the most valuable crown in the world. It contains a ruby as large as a small hen's egg, a diamond weighing 308 carats and more than 2,500 small diamonds, in addition to emeralds, sapphires and pearls.

How to Take Care Of the New Baby

BRINGING UP BABY

After-Bath Care

MANY new mothers wonder whether to put oil or powder on baby's skin after a bath. Which you use isn't so important. What kind you use is vital, however.

Some baby powders contain stearate of zinc. If this chemical is inhaled, a serious and often fatal form of pneumonia develops. You can safely use talcum powder.

Taking care of a new baby is a full-time job. Our new booklet, "How to Take Care of the New Baby," tells you in countless ways. Send 25 cents (coin) for "Baby Care" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 213 West 12th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 293.

HOIST WELCOME SIGN

Virginia To Display Showplaces For Garden Week Observance

WNU Features.

RICHMOND, VA.—All the traditional charm and graciousness of life in the "Cradle of the Nation" will be revived as Virginia once again plays host to the people of the nation.

Sponsored by the Garden club of Virginia, Garden Week is being resumed this year for the first time since 1941. Before it was disbanded during the war years, Garden Week had become a recognized institution, annually drawing thousands of visitors from all parts of the nation.

In Springtime Dress. From the western tips of the Allegheny, the Shenandoah and the Blue Ridge mountains, their slopes ablaze with the blossoms of rhododendron and mountain laurel, through the lush green valley, up through "George Washington's country" to the outskirts of the nation's capital city, down through the rolling Bluegrass section that is Piedmont, to the yellow sands of Tidewater and the flourishing tobacco area of the south, all Virginia has hoisted the welcome sign.

High on a plateau above the Potomac is the "perfect little house" so dear to the heart of its builder, George Mason, that he declined offers of fame and fortune so that he might never be far from the sight of the smoke from its tall chimneys or the fragrance of its box-hedged gardens planted by the same hands which so unflatteringly penned the Bill of Rights and the first constitution of Virginia.

Imposing Mansions. Its lovely formal gardens shaded by century old trees, Westover-on-the-James was termed "the most beautiful place in America" by the Marquis de Chastellux. This plantation was bought by William Byrd in 1688 and the present house built in 1730 by William Byrd II (the Black Swan) founder of Richmond.

In the 18th century "great house" of Carters Grove, near Williamsburg, is "the finest Georgian woodwork in all America," the richly carved balustrades of its stairway still bearing the subtle marks of Tarleton's men.

Not far from busy Washington is Mount Vernon, shining white and peaceful in its wide expanse of green lawns, while on another arm of the broad Potomac is Wakefield, the sturdy little brick memorial house marking the site where Washington first saw the light of day.

At Berkeley-on-the-James, of mellow brick without and rich paneling within, America's ninth president, William Henry Harrison, and his famous father, Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence, were born in the same upper room.

'First Thanksgiving.' Berkeley was built in 1726 by Benjamin Harrison (father of the signer) but the plantation was in the news in 1619 as the site of what Virginians claim was the first Thanksgiving in the New World. The occasion was the arrival of the ship Margaret from England with supplies, settlers and servants. The proprietors had given instructions that the day of the ship's arrival must be "yearly and perpetually kept as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God," and when on December 4, 1619, the weary voyagers Cross fame helped to nurse hundreds of wounded. Today its gardens are a riot of bloom and the waters of the Rappahannock ripple off in the distance.

Restored Williamsburg, tourist mecca at all seasons of the year, is like a perfect stage setting, its actors all in character playing their lines with the casualness of long understanding. The feeling of watching a play continues as the sharp tattoo of horses hoofs sounds along Duke of Gloucester street (described by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt as "the most historic avenue in all America").

An 18th century carriage rolls by past the Palace of the Royal Governors, the ancient capitol which rang to the voice of Patrick Henry, where met the convention of 1776 and where Mason's Bill of Rights was adopted; past Bruton parish church and Raleigh tavern (birthplace of Phi Beta Kappa) and Wollaito said, Mary College, second oldest in America.

History in Review. Just outside of Williamsburg on the Jamestown road an amphitheater is in process of construction, and during this coming summer the drama that is the whole early history of the founding of the nation will sweep across its stage, the parts of the founding fathers played by leading actors of the American stage.

Farther down the road is Jamestown—first in importance of all the historic shrines in America, where three little ships discharged their cargo of adventurous souls on that May day in 1607 to lay the foundation of the American nation. In this old brick church about which the ivy clings, Pocahontas was baptized and married and here the first legislative assembly in the new world met.

In Richmond, capital of the confederacy and "city of the seven hills," there are many historic points to visit, beginning with the columned capitol, designed by Thomas Jefferson, around which teems the life of the cigarette capital of the world. Opened especially for Garden Week are two homes which were ancient when America was first dreamed of and which have been transported, stone by stone, from England. One of these, Virginia House, was once the Priory of the Holy Sepulchre at Warwick, England.

Virginia's eastern shore, second oldest settlement in America, is across Chesapeake bay from the rest of Virginia. The eastern shore has the oldest continuous court records in America, dating from 1632. Located here are some of the loveliest homes in the state, 13 of which will be open to visitors during Garden Week.

A ride across the ferry from the eastern shore brings the visitor to Princess Anne county, the haunt of Blackbeard and the spot where the first permanent English settlers landed on American soil. Here are churches built in the early 18th century with their silver communion services, the gift of Queen Anne, and lovely old gardens and homes.

In the heart of the Valley of Virginia, Staunton, birthplace of Pres. Woodrow Wilson, stands ready to receive Garden Week visitors, and Lexington, hallowed with memories of Lee, dons all its spring bloom.

Typical of the great kitchens in colonial Virginia homes is this one at Kenmore.

Science and the Weather

Mask Twain's famous crack, "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it," is a dead duck. Plenty is being done about it. In fact, General Electric company and the army signal corps have signed contracts to do something about it.

Papers were signed the other day for a war on fog, rain and snow in which science and army B-29 bombers will cooperate in an all-out drive to blitz bad weather. It will begin over aviation fields, with fog the No. 1 foe. But scientists predict a day when the "manipulation of giant natural forces will control weather everywhere."

It all began when scientists flew over Greylock mountain in Massachusetts last year, dropping six pounds of dry ice pellets at 14,000 feet, which produced artificial snow. Experiments have continued until it may almost be said that science has weather in the bag.

"There's a fog over our airport. Take an order to remove it right away," is about to become a routine message.

Ultimately a man who wants a fog can, by a reverse process, get it. A ski course operator can order his snow direct. If your lawn is burning up, the time may come when you can wire a local weather service station and have a shower delivered the same day.

The man of tomorrow, planning a picnic, a field day or a parade will arrange with Schenectady for suitable weather.

All of which, we suppose, represents wonderful progress. However, the outlook is not all milk and honey. "We have moods where we like fog or snow or rain and we don't want the man next door fixing to ruin a nice gloomy spell just because he wants sunshine."

Your America and Mine

Squidlyhunk Creek: Sep Gates, who served all through the war and hasn't been able to get wood for a log cabin, went down to the station yesterday to see the trains loaded with timber for roller coasters pass through.

Luke Gibbs, chairman of the drive on gambling, announces the regular weekly bingo game at the community center this week.

A bus full of speakers at a local safety first meeting collided with the one full of delegates to a conference on better enforcement of speed laws last night. Both cars were out of control.

Col. Walt Beers, who left home some years ago, has struck a man of wealth. He struck sugar.

Caraway Bibby's little boy, Horace, has run away from home again leaving a note in which he said he couldn't stand for his folks talking back to him any longer.

We liked Joe H. Palmer's comment on a costly racing filly. "This filly for which John S. Phipps paid $34,000 at the Keeneland sales looks splendid. So does $54,000."

'Marshall Rejects Chinese Talk in Moscow.'—Headlines. 'We don't blame him. It's hard enough to get the hang of it in English.'

PROOF OF INSANITY

You can get an idea of what life in New York is like from the fact that two men who avoided the subways, never rode in a bus and lacked a radio or a telephone were considered crazy by the authorities there.

The Acid Test!

"We have more than two dozen top Hollywood stars and any one of them, with a new plastic makeup, could pass for President Roosevelt, the producer of a second Roosevelt film said."—News item.

How about having 'em all parade up and down in front of the Republican club for a tryout? "NOTICE—I will not be able to sharpen lawnmowers this summer. Eli Fall, Wolfboro Falls."—Granite State News.

By VIRGINIA VALE

GRACE MATTHEWS, the new "Big Sister" star, began her radio career with a bang; a graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, in London, she was accustomed to the stage's broad gestures, and in one expansive sweep she knocked the script from the hands of her fellow actor at the mike. Last year she won three of Canada's top awards to radio actors; played opposite Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Ralph Bellamy and Charles Boyer, among others. Her first part on an American program was on a CBS sustaining show; Ted Huston, the "Big Sister" director, heard a general audition she had then, and ten months later she got her present role.

GRACE MATTHEWS

Warner Bros.' "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" may be known as the father-and-son opus. Humphrey Bogart is starred, of course, but Jack Holt and his son Tim, who has a leading role, appear in it. And Walter Huston is featured, and his son John not only wrote the story and directs the picture, but also appears in one sequence. May be the start of a Dad-and-Junior cycle; after seeing his son's debut in "Pursued," Henry Carey began writing a screen play of early Nevada days for his offspring.

When Jane ("The Outlaw") Russell did a guest singing appearance on the Kay Kyser show she launched her new career. She's signed for 13 weeks with him, and several sponsors want her for a half-hour program of her own. She says she's developed her singing style by listening to live recordings—had signed up to do an album of songs for a major recording company.

The largest mob scenes photographed since D. W. Griffith made "Intolerance" were made for "Keeper of the Bees" at Columbia's Sunset studio—where Griffith shot those Babylonian sequences. But the mob John Sturges directed was 60,000 bees!

Columbia equipped a complete ship's galley for "Assigned to Treasure," fed more than 150 extras with food cooked there, and then burned the whole set to the ground for one of the climaxes in the Dick Powell-Signe Hasso starer.

Anne Baxter, who can act rings around most of the Hollywood actresses, certainly deserved that Academy Award for the best supporting actress. She'll be in 20th Century-Fox's "Letter to Five Wives," and will probably walk off with the picture.

Now that little Marlene Aames ("Cookie Bumstead" on the CBS "Blondie" show) has appeared in the last two Academy Award pictures, she hopes she's started on her third. With "The Lost Weekend" and "The Best Years of Our Lives" on her list, Ray Milland asked for her presence in "The Big Clock," starring him, Charles Laughton and Maureen O'Sullivan.

Burl Ives has wandered over the country collecting folk songs; now Maylia, Hollywood's new Chinese actress discovery, is teaching him some of her native ditties. Burl's stealing a march on film-doms producers, who don't know Maylia can sing.

When Jack Barry invited little Robin Morgan to join his "Juvenile Jury" he didn't know that she is the busiest child model in one of the big model agencies. Candy Jones discovered her last year and gave her expert training.

ODDS AND ENDS—The sponsors of "Ladies Be Seated," "Give and Take," and "Meet the Missus" are considering another radio program of the same general type. Jack Temple, brother of Shirley, was assistant director on the Glenn Ford thriller, "Framed"; he's learning the movie business. John Loder says his role in "Disbonored Lady" was one of his oddest; he made love to his wife, Healy Lamarr, then lost her to Dennis O'Keefe.

Elliott Reid, handsome young actor recently freed from his Paramount contract, has become a regular member of the "Suspense" cast.

When Bing Crosby and Al Jolson appear together at the microphone there's a complete picture of old and new styles of song delivery. Bing stands nonchalantly, beating the rhythm with his foot. Jolson uses gestures and pantomime.

Richard Conte, whose latest picture is "The Other Love," with Barbara Stanwyck, has taken an option on a new comedy called "Ring Road Rosie." It's about a prizefighter who turns into a ballet dancer.

Ain't It So?

"JUST A MINUTE"

Are you interested in a good job? Now is the time to file your application for employment at the West Bend Aluminum Company. There are steady jobs open for both men and women to do factory production work.

You Don't Need Experience

You'll like helping to manufacture our nationally known products. The jobs are light and interesting—working conditions are excellent. Previous factory experience isn't necessary—we'll train you on the job. You'll get good pay from the day you start and your earnings will increase as you gain experience.

Visit the Employment Office at either the West Bend or Hartford Plant—whichever is more convenient. Jobs are available at both plants.
