Al. Naumann Dies of Heart Attack Fishing at Lake

Albert P. Naumann, aged 48 years, widely known Kewaskum tavernkeeper, a prominent businessman and World War I veteran, died suddenly of a heart attack while fishing with local friends at Round lake at about 5:45 p. m. Thursday evening, Aug. 21.

Mr. Naumann suffered the heart attack while seated in his boat and as he slumped he fell overboard into the lake. The attack came suddenly and without warning. Louis Heister Jr., who was fishing with him in the boat, leaped into the water after him and brought him to the surface after he had been under water only a few seconds. The three other members of the party, Mike Hafenstein of Milwaukee, his brother-in-law, Louis Heister Sr., and Arnold Martin, who were fishing alongside of Naumann's boat went to the immediate rescue and with the help of two other local young men, William F. Schaefer and Eldon Meinecke, who were also fishing a short distance away, took Mr. Naumann to the nearest shore. There he was given artificial respiration by a lake dweller but failed to revive and was pronounced dead by a Campbellsport physician. The physician reported that he had died before he fell into the water.

Albert Naumann was born Feb. 12, 1899 in the town of Scott, Sheboygan county, a son of the late David and Wilhelmina Naumann. He was married to Selma Engelmund June 15, 1921, at West Bend. After their marriage the couple resided on the Naumann home-stand, where they were engaged in farming until 1932 when they moved to Kewaskum, entering the tavern business in the Kewaskum Opera House which they purchased. They conducted a tavern business in the opera house 12 years and then sold out to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spangenberg, present operators. The Naumanns bought a home at Long lake where they resided for 15 months. They returned to Kewaskum and re-entered the tavern business on May 1, 1947, when they purchased the tavern property of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Polenski, formerly the Louis Heister tavern.

Surviving along with the widow are a sister, Amanda (Mrs. Wm. Schultz) of Cascade; four brothers, William, who resides with the Naumanns, John of Cascade, Henry of New Fane and Arthur of West Bend; brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law. An only child died in infancy and a sister, Anna (Mrs. G. Seefeldt) also preceded him.

Al. was a member of Kewaskum Post No. 284, American Legion, and the Loyalty Order of Moose.

The remains will be in state at the Miller funeral home after 7:30 p. m. Saturday. The remains will be in state until 11 a. m. Monday when they will be removed to the Peace Ev. Lutheran church to be shown from 12 noon until 2 p. m., the time of services. The Rev. Wm. G. Schwemmer will officiate. The Kewaskum Legion post will conduct military rites. Members of the Moose lodge will also participate.

The many friends of Al. and Sally Naumann will join with us in expressing sympathy to the widow and other survivors.

HARVEY NICOLAUS

A heart ailment along with extreme heat combined to cause the death of Harvey Nicolaus, 43, R. 1, West Bend, brother of Herbert Nicolaus of Kewaskum. He died suddenly Wednesday, Aug. 13, while threshing on the farm of his brothers in the town of Jackson.

Born in the town of Jackson, Aug. 25, 1861, he married Maybelle Schuler in Milwaukee May 5, 1928. He and his wife, who survives, came to their present home some 19 years ago.

Surviving are three sons, Carl, Allen and Jerry, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Alma Vorel, Town Jackson, and Mrs. Malinda Garbade, Town Polk; five brothers, Emil, Fred and John, Town Jackson, Herbert of Kewaskum and Walter of Newburg.

The funeral was held Saturday from the Suckow funeral home, West Bend, at 1:30 p. m. to St. John's Ev. Lutheran church at 2. The Rev. W. P. Sauer officiated and interment was in Washington rounty memorial park.

LAMBERT STRACHOTA

Funeral services were held at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, Aug. 13, from the Dobratsch funeral home, Milwaukee, and at 9 a. m. at St. Monica chapel for Lambert Strachota, 46, a native of St. Killias, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack Sunday, Aug. 10, at his home in that city at 5512 N. Tenth st. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery there.

Mr. Strachota was born and raised at St. Killian, where his father, the late Andrew Strachota, who died in 1924, was a well known merchant.

Survivors are his widow, Adele; four children, Richard, Carl, Donald and Alan; his mother and five brothers and a sister, all of Milwaukee. The deceased was a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Eight People Hurt in Auto Accidents

Three local people were injured and one escaped injury in an auto collision early Thursday morning on Highway 55 near Elmer's Inn near Germantown. Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Lester "Peasy" Dreher and Edward Dreher, while Mrs. Edward Dreher got by unscathed.

The accident happened while the two couples were on their way back to Kewaskum after attending the wedding of Marlin Dreher, brother of Lester and Edward, and Miss Valerie Ciechanowski in Milwaukee. Mrs. Lester Dreher was driving the car and as she rounded the curve at Elmer's Inn another car approached from the north, went out of its lane of traffic, and crossed the highway directly into the path of the Dreher car. The two machines collided almost head-on. Mrs. Dreher was unable to avoid the crash although she slowed her auto down to a slow pace to prevent the accident from being more serious. The driver of the other car was reported as from Antigo and he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. His name was not obtained.

The occupants were treated by a Germantown physician and then were returned to their homes here. Later in the day, however, they learned that their injuries were more serious than at first believed. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dreher and Edward Dreher were taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, Thursday. There it was found that Lester sustained internal injuries, his wife had a painful scalp wound and Edward sustained a broken fibula bone in his leg. Lester was kept at the hospital overnight Thursday for further observation while his wife and Edward returned home the same day.

The fronts of both cars were badly damaged.

Cars driven by Richard Weiss, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Volm, R. 3, Kewaskum, with whom he resides, and Wilbert Krahn, R. 3, Campbellsport, collided in front of the Volm farm home in County Trunk Highway H, 1 1/2 miles west of Highway 55, at 6:30 a. m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred as Weiss drove onto the highway from the Volm driveway at the same time that the Krahn auto approached from the west. The Krahn car turned over from the force of the impact and he was thrown out of the machine onto the highway, suffering minor injuries. He narrowly escaped having his car roll on him. Krahn's wife sustained cuts on her face, a leg injury and internal injuries, according to reports. Weiss escaped with minor injuries. Mrs. Krahn was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, by a local physician.

Both cars were damaged, Krahn's beyond repair.

Robert Walsh, 46, of R. 1, Campbellsport, suffered deep lacerations to his left arm and a gash over his left eye and Gerald Koepke, 19, of R. 3, Kewaskum, sustained fractures to his collarbone and left arm, and a number of deep cuts on his face and upper parts of his body in an accident on County Trunk W in the town of Auburn early Monday morning.

The cars collided when they apparently both became confused as they reached the crest of a small hill. They were driving in opposite directions. Koepke was taken to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, while Walsh was treated by a physician at Lomira.

HOSPITAL NEWS

John T. Bryant, villager, was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, Milwaukee, on Thursday, Aug. 21, to the Millerambulance for further medical treatment. He was confined at his home since returning from the hospital some time ago.

Waucousta at Campbellsport A's

The Kewaskum Utensils won their 10th game in 11 starts Sunday when they blasted Waucousta, 11-4, on the home grounds. The team now needs only one more victory to clinch at least a tie for first place in the southern division. A win over the second place Campbellsport Belles here Sunday would give the Utensils the title. Kewaskum is a game and a half ahead of the Belles with 3 games left to play.

With the regular twirler, "Mix" Marx, on the shelf because of the recurrence of a muscle ailment, "Killy" Honeck and Paul Kral teamed up to pitch the Kums to victory. Honeck, second baseman, and Kral, regular catcher, did a good job on the mound considering their lack of pitching practice. They allowed Waucousta 9 hits, while the Utensils garnered 10 off the combined offerings of D. Narges and Sook. Topping Kewaskum's hit parade were Louie Bath and Jerome Stautz, each with 2. Dishman, Hoehl and Ambrosio collected 2 apiece for the losers.

The Utensils went to work on Narges with 2 runs in the first inning. Two more in the fourth gave them a 5-0 lead. Cousta pushed over 3 in the fifth but Kewaskum retaliated with 6 markers in their half of the same inning to go ahead 11-3, and sew up the win. The visitors' final run came in the eighth.

CAMPBELLSPORT BELLES IN CRUCIAL GAME HERE SUNDAY

The big game of the season and most important one will be played on the Kewaskum field this Sunday, Aug. 24, when the Utensils play host to the strong Campbellsport Belles. The Belles are in second place 1 1/2 games behind the locals. In the first meeting between the two, the Belles handed Kewaskum its only defeat of the season but this happened with Marx, regular pitcher, on the ailing list. "Mix" has had recurrence of the ailment and probably will not be able to pitch Sunday. This will greatly handicap the team's chances of winning. A win for the Utensils will clinch the division championship. If they lose, the team will still hold a half game lead over the Belles and will have to win one more game to clinch a tie for the title and both remaining contests to win the undisputed title. This is the last home game so you better come out and see it.

Walter Schaefer Suffers Injury at Work on Saipan

Walter Schaefer, son of Chas. C. Schaefer of this village, who is employed by the U. S. government as a telephone lineman on Saipan, suffered a broken leg in an accident while at work recently. Word of the injury was received by Walter's brother, Carl, in a letter from Walter's wife, who is with him on Saipan.

Walter was working atop a 40 foot pole with other linemen stringing telephone wires. The pole was in soft ground and Walter's weight, along with the strain on the pole from wires being stretched by other workers, caused the pole to loose itself from the ground. It began to topple and Walter, sensing the danger, loosened his safety belt and hurriedly scrambled down the pole. He got about half way down when it fell and he jumped the rest of the way. The pole bounded off a rock and the heavy bottom end struck his leg, breaking it.

Walter was taken to a hospital on Saipan and later was flown to the naval hospital at Guam where he is now confined. The injured man expects to be returned to the United States shortly to recover as he will be unable to work for many months.

Rainbow Nine Tips Waubeka in Battle for First Place

Kewaskum's entry in the Rainbow league came through with flying colors in Sunday's battle for the loop lead at Waubeka. The team rapped Waubeka, 8-2, to take a one game lead in the standings. The defeat dropped Waubeka from second to third place and Sheboygan Falls moved back into second by upsetting St. Michaels. Kewaskum has three more games to play.

With Glen Backhaus holding Waubeka well in check all afternoon, his mates pounded Waubeka's pitching hard to notch an easy victory. Prior to Sunday Kewaskum had been a half game ahead of Waubeka for the lead.

This Sunday the schedule has Kewaskum playing at Barton and the team should annex another victory over the collar dollers. This is the only contest scheduled Sunday and is the last one on the regular schedule. But Kewaskum has two postponed games to make up and some of the other teams have more.

Famed Fishing Port Pays Annual Testimonial to Victims of Sea

Floral Ceremony Recalls Stirring Fishermen's Saga

WNU Features.
"Scatter flowers on the waves;
There our fathers found their graves,
Brothers, sons and husbands sleep;
Strew your garlands o'er the deep."

To the strains of this hymn, garlands of flowers are cast on the ebbing tide as Gloucester, Mass., picturesque seaport with heroic traditions, pays its annual testimonial to its fishermen who have lost their lives at sea. Each year, new names of lost ships and men are added to the rolls, for fishing, despite all its improvements and its growth into one of America's largest food industries, is still a hazardous occupation.

Assembling on a semi-circular terrace reaching out into Gloucester bay, the widows and children of fishermen pause in reverence while a simple but beautiful tribute is paid to the fishermen who have found their last resting place in the ocean that breaks on the nearby shore. In accordance with tradition, the service is held on a Sunday afternoon in the month of August when the tide is going out. As a rule, there are only two Sundays in the months when the tide permits holding the ceremony, but in the last 17 years only one postponement was necessary. The ebbing tide runs rapidly and carries the flowers strewn upon the water out into the harbor.

Pause at Memorial.
A parade, held in conjunction with the memorial rites, halts at the Fishermen's Memorial, a silent but enduring testimonial to "Gloucester fishermen" who have lost their lives at sea.
The figure of the fisherman guiding his craft through storm and stress, planned by citizens of Gloucester as a permanent memorial of the 300th anniversary of the Massachusetts Bay colony in 1623, typifies the indomitable spirit of Gloucester, long famed as a fishing port.
A spirited statue in bronze, the heroic figure gazes intently out across the harbor to the ocean beyond, symbolizing the romance, the fascination, the glamour and the traditions of the struggle with the sea that have made Gloucester famous.

Typical of the rugged character of the figure, the base on which the memorial stands is a rough-hewn block of sea-green granite, quarried from the famous "Blood Ledge" in nearby Bay View. A single panel holds the inscription from the 107th Psalm: "THEY THAT GO DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS."
The figure is that of a helmsman and the pose shows him fighting his craft up as close-hauled to the wind as possible to clear some dangerous reef, his eyes being fixed on the sails to detect the first indication that they are beginning to spill the wind, every muscle being strained to hold the wheel firmly until the peril is past.

Started in 1909.
Although there were prior memorial services in Gloucester's history as the community, overwhelmed by some great tragedy of the sea, felt impelled to express its sorrow in a public ceremony, the present fishermen's memorial service was instituted in 1909 under auspices of Gloucester fishermen's institute. It has been held annually since then, always retaining its major characteristic of a brief but impressive "loving tribute to the fish-

SYMBOLIC OF A CITY . . . All the romance, the fascination, the glamour and the traditions of the struggle with the sea that have made Gloucester, Mass., a famed fishing port are symbolized in the Fishermen's Memorial, the city's tribute to the thousands of fishermen who have gone out from Gloucester since founding of its fishing industry in 1623, never to return.

ermen who have lost their lives on the great waters."
Founded as a fishing port in 1623, just three years after the Pilgrims settled at Plymouth, Gloucester made its first shipment of fish in that same year to Bilbao, Spain. There is no record of the amount of that first shipment, but today some 225 million pounds of fish are landed at Gloucester annually. It ranks as the largest as well as the oldest fishing port in the United States.

Codfish 'Aristocracy.'
In Colonial America the fishing industry was so important that the merchant class of the New England states commonly was referred to as the "codfish aristocracy." In those early days the cod was known as the "Sacred Cod," and in 1784 the Massachusetts house of representatives ordered that "a representation of a codfish in gold . . . as a memorial of the importance of codfishing to the welfare of the commonwealth" should be placed in the assembly room.

The early fishing voyages were full of danger. Indians attacked the crews. The French came down from the North to bombard them. The fight with the sea, then as now, was a battle never ended.
Never a storm lashes the waters of the North Atlantic into a fury but some of the fishing men of Gloucester must fight for life. Not a year passes when the great sea does not take its ruthless toll of men and ships.
Two major disasters have taken place in Gloucester's fishing history. In 1716 five fishing craft, comprising one-tenth of the tonnage of the port, and 20 men, estimated as a fifteenth part of the entire population, perished off Cape Sable. Another great storm in 1776 foundered nine schooners and took the lives of 40 men.

Huge Loss of Life.
From 1830 to 1944, a period of slightly more than a century in Gloucester's 324-year history, 942 vessels were lost and with them were snuffed out in the waves of the sea the lives of 4,878 men.

Ever since 1623 tales of the daring, courage and resourcefulness of the "Gloucester fishermen" in their everlasting struggle with the sea have added stirring chapters to American history. These sagas of hardship and heroism, oft repeated but ever inspiring, still may be heard along the colorful Gloucester waterfront.

Although Gloucester long has been a mecca for summer visitors and artists' colonies, its summer population nearly doubling the normal figure of 25,000, it has remained, at heart, a small town fishing port. The majority of families are directly or indirectly dependent upon the success of the fishermen for a livelihood. Their financial status fluctuates with that of its fisheries.

Throughout the years Gloucester's citizens have continued as a closely knit unit. A tragedy at sea still casts a pall over the entire port while a celebration by the fleet means a rejoicing for all.

Now, as three centuries ago, Gloucester takes pride in the feats and accomplishments of its fishermen, and once a year during the ebbing tide of August the townspeople gather to pay tribute to "THEY THAT GO DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS."

Morning Meals

Don't try to argue your family into eating a whopper of a breakfast! Make it so good and interesting that they just can't refuse it! You may have found that coaxing helps your family to eat luncheon and dinner, but as you may know, it just won't work for breakfast.

The things that do work are variety, downright good food, gay, cheerful dishes and lighthearted, pleasant attitudes. Of course the time element is important, and this may need a bit of working on if your folks are in the habit of sleeping until the last minute and then trying to dash off some fruit juice and coffee.

When you sit down to think about it, those five minutes extra sleep really don't make you any more rested, so get the family up early enough to eat breakfast properly. Mother can help this along by getting up and starting breakfast. The smell of pancakes or bacon plus the aroma of coffee really does help in getting the family started on their way out of bed.

Breakfast should start off with fruit or fruit juice. This not only is refreshing, but also is a good way to get started off on those vitamins and minerals for the day. Follow the fruit with cereal, prepared or cooked, and vary this from day to day. If the cereal looks a bit uninteresting, plan to serve fruit with it to add a touch of color and flavor. Eggs are recommended for breakfast whether you have to watch your calories or boost them. But, do serve them in different ways so they always remain interesting. Then, too, you can use eggs in waffles and pancakes when real variety is desired.

Interesting breakfast breads do a lot toward making the meal one to anticipate with delight. Try a brand new coffee cake or toast some of the home made breads for real deliciousness.

Health Bread.
1 cup sifted white flour
2 cups graham flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 1/2 cups soured milk
1/2 cup molasses

Mix together the dry ingredients. Dissolve soda in soured milk and add the molasses. Add liquids to dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into two greased pans and bake slowly in a slow (325-degree) oven for 1 1/2 hours. If desired, raisins and/or dates also may be added to the dry ingredients when a fruit bread is desired. This is delicious as toast or sandwiches.

Orange Coffee Cake.
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup corn syrup
1/2 cup orange juice
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/4 cup melted butter or substitute

Topping:
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon melted butter

LYNN SAYS:
Tips to Make You An Expert Cook
A quick sauce for members of the green family—such as cabbage and broccoli—is to mix 1/2 cup of lemon juice with 1/4 cup of mayonnaise and heat in the double boiler.

Experiment with herbs if you want savory foodstuffs. Try a little mace in your baked squash or squash soufflé; nutmeg in chopped, creamed spinach; pinch of thyme in clam chowder.

If you like macaroni, cream it and add a small can of grated tuna fish, toss in some leftover green peas and mushrooms, if desired, and place in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with grated American cheese and heat in the oven. Serve this with a green salad and you've a taste thrill in store.

For a quick supper, open a can of corned beef hash, and slice the roll. Brown in drippings and spread with mustard. Serve in buns with relish. Or, skip the mustard, spread with sandwich spread and serve with mustard pickle.

Mix corn syrup, orange juice and melted shortening and combine with sifted dry ingredients. Mix in beaten eggs, vanilla and orange rind. Pour into a greased square pan. Blend topping ingredients and sprinkle over top of batter. Bake in a preheated fairly hot (400-degree) oven for 30 minutes.

Oatmeal Griddle Cakes.
(Makes 12 to 15)
1/2 cup flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups quick-cooking oats
1 egg, well beaten
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 tablespoon molasses
1 cup water
1/2 cup milk

Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder and salt. Add oats. Combine egg, shortening, molasses, water and milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Have griddle very hot for first baking, then reduce heat. Cook on one side until puffed and full of bubbles. Turn and cook on other side. Serve with butter and syrup.

Baked Eggs in Toast Cups.
6 slices bread
Salt and pepper
Butter

Cut crusts from bread and gently press the slices into greased custard cups. The four corners will extend to the tops of the custard cups. Break an egg into each cup. Season and dot with butter. Bake for 15 minutes in a 400-degree oven. Serve at once.

Two hearty dishes which are nice to serve for breakfast are scrapple and frizzled eggs. In the case of the scrapple, make it the night before and allow to chill before frying.

Scrapple.
(Serves 6)
1 pound lean pork
1 cup corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered sage

Simmer pork in water until meat falls from bones. Remove meat and bones. Chill broth and remove fat. Measure 1 quart of broth, adding water, if necessary. Add cornmeal and cook, stirring frequently until thick. Grind or chop meat fine and add to cereal with salt and sage. Pack in a loaf bread pan and chill. Slice and fry.

Frizzled Eggs.
(Serves 6)
1/2 pound chipped beef
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs, beaten
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup milk

Cook dried beef in butter until slightly crisp. Combine eggs, pepper and milk and mix well. Pour over beef and cook as for scrambled eggs. Serve garnished with toast points and parsley.

Mix your favorite jelly with honey and spread over toast. This is especially good on nut bread.

For a tasty, quick dessert, use a prepared butterscotch pudding and make it with half milk and half leftover coffee. This is really something in the way of a taste teaser.

If you tend to have leftover stuffing with your fowl, after the fowl is gone, why don't you try baking the extra stuffing in a casserole and serving it topped with eggs, baked and seasoned?

If you want second calls for that oyster stew, make it with half cream and half milk, and don't be skippy with the butter. The only seasoning you'll need is salt and pepper. And cook only until the oysters curl around the edges.

Baking apples? Fill the cores with mince-meat and bake with maple-flavored syrup. Top with marshmallows if you want to be fancy. Roast those spareribs slowly until they're browned and well done. Don't forget to roast sweet potatoes. It's wise to add vegetables to stew as late as possible.

HOW IT STARTED

THE DEVIL TO PAY—The nautical phrase is "The devil to pay and no pitch hot." The outside seam of a boat, sometimes called the waterway seam, earned the name of "devil" among the caulkers because it was the hardest one that had to be "payed" with pitch, and to a very difficult job is indicated.

HE'S A BRICK—Derived from an ancient king saying that his soldiers were a wall around his kingdom, and that in that wall every man was a brick.

CURELAW—The word comes from the French couver-les, meaning to "put out the fire."

SEEING STARS

Boys Design Own Astronomy Devices

TOLEDO, OHIO.—Distant stars and nebulae some day may lose their mystery for a group of teenage scientists here whose hobby prompts them to gather one night a week for a practical kind of star-gazing.

They are seven boys from Mocaber vocational high school, and their work—although they hardly classify it as such—consists of building six-inch reflecting telescopes, miniatures of the power-laden apparatus with which modern-day astronomers are piercing the mysteries of space.

For tools, the boys each garnered a yard can, a length of iron pipe, a flange, a piece of small pipe and a mounted half-inch disc of glass. For the glass in the mirror itself, they visited the nearby Libby-

Owens-Ford Glass company and came away carrying six-inch circular discs of glass, three-quarters of an inch thick, given them by a good-natured foreman as it came rolling off the machines.

"All this and mathematics, too," is the slogan of Hollin Kontak, Milam Bokan, Jan Horton, Bob Hagole, Glenn Brown, Frank Haska and Ed Ewing. They mean, they explain, that to make a mirror with a parabolic surface is a trick that brings into play not only a knowledge of glass but frequent brushes with the textbooks.

Under direction of Harold Ewing, instructor, the boys are performing the intricate tasks entailed in grinding and polishing the discs of glass, then converting them into mirrors. Finally, the mirrors will be installed in tubes whose eyes will reach the sky.

They get no school credit for the work, but, as one small chap puts it, it's more fun than "attending meetings and talking."

What can they see when they finish? Why, they predict knowingly, they'll be able to study Saturn and its rings and the four moons around Jupiter, or they may be able to pick up a stray comet. A close study of the moon will be a breeze. That makes it all pretty worthwhile, they figure.

YOUTHFUL STAR GAZERS . . . These teen-age lads, Glenn Brown and Bob Hagole of Mocaber vocational high school in Toledo, Ohio, are putting the finishing touches to a home-built reflecting telescope.

Train Smoke Annoys Corn Cob Pipe Capital

WASHINGTON, MO.—This small Missouri community is famed for its production of corn cob pipes, but officials don't take readily to some other forms of smoke. The city council is peeved at the smoke and speed of Missouri Pacific trains passing through here, and Police Chief Ami Smith has threatened to arrest the crew of any train violating city regulations.

Steer Turns Tables In Crash With Car

OMAHA, NEB.—When car meets livestock on the highway, it's generally disastrous for the livestock. But the tables were turned by a 2-year-old steer west of Omaha. A sedan driven by Sontas Gonzales tangled with the rugged bovine. Damage to the car: Broken headlights, bumper, grille, radiator, hood and fenders. Damage to the steer: Minor cuts and a slight limp.

Barbershop Quartet Brings Down 'House'

OLEAN, N. Y.—Although it was minus an audience, a barbershop chorus rehearsed with such vibrancy at a recent meeting that it literally brought down the house. Chunks of plaster twice fell from the ceiling during the rehearsal in the community room of Exchange National Bank building. No one was hit, and rehearsals continued with the usual gusto.

BEST LOOKING GIRL IN TOWN

By THYRA SAMTER WINSLOW

FROM the time she was thirteen Rilla Mabry had been ashamed of her appearance. It was then that she started shooting up higher than the other girls. She was awkward as well as tall and she was too thin.

By the time she was twenty she was fully convinced that her appearance was really something terrible. All of the other girls seemed little and cute and attractive. No matter what Rilla wore it seemed wrong. There was too much of her to wear tailored clothes. And thin dresses hung around her in folds.

All of the boys and girls in the crowd liked Rilla. She was a fine girl if you could forget the way she looked. Even her hair was wrong—sort of stringy—but she had a pleasant and rather attractive face.

In the state of her looks Rilla had a boy friend. He was Patrick Redding and his father kept a grocery store. Pat wasn't any great catch—but then you really couldn't expect Rilla, with her looks, to do any better. Folks felt that Rilla ought to be well satisfied. Pat was a nice looking boy, and he certainly wasn't to be sneezed at.

Rilla didn't sneeze at Pat. She was grateful to him for being nice to her. She was as jolly and as friendly as she could be. As a matter of fact she liked Pat a lot. He was fun to be with. She'd have been perfectly satisfied except for the fact that she was in love with Shane Tennant. Which did her a lot of good—for Shane was the catch of the town. Shane's father was a banker—and rich. His mother was the social leader of the town. Shane was tall—much taller than Rilla—and handsome, besides.

Pat went into the grocery with his father. Shane went into the bank. That's the way sons do in small towns unless they have definite ideals about law or one of the other professions. Rilla didn't do anything. Her folks had just enough money so she didn't have to work. She went to parties with Patrick and admired Shane from a distance. The town folks felt that she would marry Pat, that he'd take over his father's grocery store and that they'd settle down.

That night had happened if it hadn't been for Leslie Durant. Leslie Durant was—and still is—a well known illustrator. And he came to Morriville to visit an aunt. And got taken to all of the parties, of course. The social lion of the season. He stayed in town three days—but that was long enough for a lot to happen.

He saw Rilla Mabry! Rilla was standing near the door—and she was looking at Shane Tennant. She knew how much her face showed what she was thinking about. No one else noticed—but Durant, being new, took in the situation.

He saw Rilla, standing not quite straight because she didn't feel quite as tall that way, in a quite smooth—and her hair not perfectly groomed—for Morriville—self-confident, good looking. And then Pat came to ask Rilla to dance.

On the second day of his visit Durant made his remarkable statement. He declared, to anyone who would listen to him, that Rilla Mabry was by far and away the best looking girl in town. One of the best looking girls he'd ever seen.

Rilla had never had a compliment about her looks before. She had always been shy, self-conscious first time in her life, the belle of the ball. Toward the end of the evening Durant had the satisfaction of seeing Shane Tennant dancing attention. Shane Tennant, whom Rilla had looked at with longing eyes—and who had paid no attention to her.

Durant went back to his home in New York. And forgot all about the whole thing. And years passed, and the sequel happened just the other day.

Durant was lunching alone at a restaurant when an attractive, tall woman, past her first youth, came up to him.

"You don't remember me," she said.

That night, for the first time in her uneventful life, Rilla Mabry was belle of the ball.

and often miserable about her appearance. And here, the first authority on beauty who had ever been in town, acclaimed her as the prize.

When Durant, himself, told her what he thought of her she was filled with confusion. She managed to stammer her thanks. And later, very shyly, she went up to him.

"I do wish you'd tell me how I can look better," she said.

"I'm not suited for the task of lily-gilding," he told her, "but maybe if we got together—"

They got together the next morning. Durant came to Rilla's house, and, with Rilla's mother acting as helper, they did things to Rilla and Rilla's clothes. Durant made her stand up straight. And rearranged her hair. And told her what was wrong with the clothes she wore.

Durant didn't remember her. "I'm Rilla Tennant—I was Rilla Mabry when you knew me. You came to my home town and sort of made my life over. Remember now?"

"Of course I do," said Durant. "I remember very well."

"You did a wonderful job!" said Rilla. There was a curious note in her voice he didn't understand.

"You married the boy you were in love with, I see. His name was Tennant, wasn't it?"

"Why, yes," said Rilla. "But how did you remember the name? And how did you know I was in love with him?"

"I'm good at names. And I saw you looking at him. Simplicity itself! And to think that I was the cause!" He preened a little.

"Yes, you were," said Rilla. "It was very funny, now, when you look back on it. There I was, going with Pat Redding and in love with Shane. And terribly ill at ease and awkward. And you came down and said I was a beauty—so automatically I became a beauty. And the boys all rushed me. And I married Shane."

"Wonderful!" said Durant. "And he beamed. 'How are you getting along, now?'" he asked, as an afterthought.

"That's the catch," said Rilla. "You shouldn't have asked."

"Shane and I married—and didn't get along any too well. Though I was awfully happy in the beginning. The Tennants lost all of their money in the depression—and my family had its money in the Tennant bank by that time, so our money went, too. Then Shane fell in love with a chorus girl. I got a divorce, of course. I've been teaching in a girl's school for the past three years."

"That's too bad!" said Durant, and began to feel inflated. "But maybe that was better than marrying that other boy whom you didn't love."

"Maybe," said Rilla. "You can never tell. Love goes . . . Patrick Redding took over his father's grocery store—and married the cutest girl in town. They have three children and are very happy. And, oh, yes, he developed an ambitious streak and started a chain of grocery stores. Now he's the richest and most important man in town."

Alchemists Knew Zinc

"Six Albas" was the name by which zinc oxide, now widely used as a paint pigment, was known to skilled alchemists, who also called it "philosophers' wool." It was first suggested for use in paint by the French chemist, Guisdon de Morveau, in the late 18th century. Early in the 19th century, the pigment became commercially available, and at about that time a French naval vessel was painted with zinc oxide paint. Today, zinc oxide is produced by two processes, the American and the French. The American process produces the oxide direct from zinc ore, while in the French process it is produced by vaporization and oxidation of metallic zinc in an open fire-plate and collection of the oxide in a series of chambers. The bulk of the zinc oxide pigment now is produced by the American process.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The All-Important Word

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

Some night ask him how that Collins matter came out, and add, "but you're such a wonderful person, Johnnie, they're lucky to get you."

SHOW APPRECIATION

So many wives complain, and with reason enough, that their husbands never tell them that they appreciate all the work, worry and sacrifices. Too many married couples tend to take each other for granted. Men seem to be dull and ungrateful, and some of them are, but the majority just don't make the effort to say the few kind words that can change the whole picture from gloom to brightness.

On the other hand, as Miss Norris points out in today's article, many wives never stop to think that their husbands have many burdens to bear. There are financial worries, difficulties in business, quarrels and arguments in the office. Often he sees some one else being advanced, unfairly as he believes. On top of this he has to take his share of responsibility for problems of his home. Wives who think their husbands have a gay round of golf and poker with a little work in between, are often quite wrong. Many men are putting a brave front on a painful life.

If both partners in marriage would strive to show how much they really appreciate the efforts and struggles necessary in a successful married life, they would both be happier, continues Miss Norris. Kind words are inspirations, making hardships and difficulties easier to face. A few words at the right time may alter the whole appearance of things.

But just the same, a few affectionate words, from a busy man to a tired woman, or from a happy wife to an overburdened breadwinner, are magic. Don't let your life go on without this special brand of witchcraft. Middle-age—early middle-age, can grow dull and heavy without it.

Risk Losing Him. And if you let your husband go along for months and then years with never a heartening word, you are risking the very real danger that some other woman will find it for him. If you pour his coffee with your eyes on the morning paper, answer him abstractedly or indifferently when he risks a question, you may be digging your own grave as a wife.

Some day try following him to the door with just a few cheerful words. Instead of sitting on at the table grumbling about the price of jam. Some night ask him how that Collins matter came out, and add, "but you're a wonderful person, Johnnie. They're lucky to get you." Some day tell him that you told a less fortunate wife that you and John were closer today than 10 years ago. And some day say one of those things that stay with a man, even if he never could express them himself. Something like, "I want you to know that I appreciate what you do, John. That it isn't all easy for you, with today's competition, and Jackson being so ugly, and the new offices not being done." Some day say in his presence, to the children, "Do you realize that you have a good daddy?"

These are such trifles. They don't pay bills, they don't put the car in order or take up the sitting room carpet. They don't make Mother younger, or increase Dad's salary.

Inspiration and Hope. Or do they? In the last analysis I think they do, and perform a hundred more miracles as well. The courage they put into our hearts, the lift they give to household tasks, the doors they open to new plans and new hopes—these are not only a thousand times more important than dollars and cents, but they help a man to make new efforts, and these show right away in any family's budget. When talk at home is either non-existent, or resentful and bitter, many a man begins to look about for a poker game or a pleasant lady who would like some flowers, and many a woman goes downtown in a towering frown and buys not only the extravagant dress but the hat, too, yes, and the shoes, too, and let Bill Brown lump the bills if he doesn't like them!

One husband, years ago, turned at the door as he left a troubled, tired woman behind him. "Honey," he said, "this is a mean sort of time. But we'll get that thing paid, and little Duffy will get over her bronchitis, and we'll be in the country some day, and I'll never forget the way you pulled your weight now!"

She didn't need any more. She was on wings that day and for many days. She reminded him of it years later, when they really did have a country home with children racing about it, and when the budget wasn't a fiery-eyed monster who crept out of the shadows every month, but a respected friend. She went back in her memories to a city flat, two sick children, the staggering blow of a heavy and unexpected bill, her own fatigue, hard days at the office for her husband, rain falling—and the smile from the doorway, and the words that carried her over the flood like the grip of a strong and loving arm.

Cook Meat in 50 Seconds. A sirloin steak may be cooked in 50 seconds by electronics, a meat authority says. Redman B. Davis, information department director for the National Live Stock and Meat board, said that a husband may never have to wait for a meat dish again if cooking by electronics becomes universal. In laboratory tests, he said, grilled ham steak was cooked in 50 seconds and frozen meals thawed out and served hot in two minutes.

Ship Peas From Field to Cannery by Airplane. Some Eastern farmers are sending green peas by airplane to canneries. Worked out jointly by the Co-operative Grange League Federation, Inc., of Bloomsburg, Pa., and the Seabrook Farms, Inc., Bridgeton, N. J., the plan enables the packing of peas for home consumption within hours after they are harvested. In addition to cutting down the time lost between field and cannery, the method enables the produc-

Female Passenger Trains

There are two passenger trains named for women, the "Ann Rutledge," running between Chicago and St. Louis, and "The Pocahontas," running between Norfolk and Cincinnati and Columbus. Ann Rutledge was a tavern keeper's daughter whose name is linked romantically with that of Abraham Lincoln. Pocahontas was an Indian princess who is said to have saved the life of Capt. John Smith. She later married John Rolfe.

Those Towering Oaks

More than 50 species of American oak attain the stature of trees, and about 20 of these attain a height of 100 feet or more. Five species usually equal or exceed 150 feet in height. Principal commercial use for oak is for flooring.

Homogenized Milk

Homogenization, mechanically breaks up the butterfat and disperses it evenly throughout the milk. There is no cream line as the fat globules are held in suspension, producing a uniform flavor and a softer curd.

The Old Oak Tree

A 500-year-old oak tree in Salem, N. J., has grown so large that its foliage covers one-quarter acre of land. Forty-six per cent of the total land area of New Jersey is forest land, more than two million acres.

Canada's Draft Horses

In Canada, stronghold of the Clydesdale breed, the most popular draft horse is the Percheron. There are 5,104 head of Percherons in Canada, 4,615 Clydesdales, 1,500 Belgians, 48 Shires and 41 Suffolk.

Orchids Not Rare

There are about 40 kinds of orchids in every state from Illinois to New England. Some of the most common are lady's slipper, twayblade, rattlesnake plantain, coral root, grass pink and pogonia.

New Electronic Oven The new "electronic oven" is not a home unit. It is limited to use in eating places where it is desired to serve hot pre-cooked frozen meals quickly and efficiently. The unit heats these meals in about 75 seconds to an average temperature of 160 degrees. This oven uses microwave radio energy similar to that used in operation of the "electronic canteen" for heating hot dogs, hamburgers and cheese sandwiches. The amount of power required to operate the new unit is the same as that used for a domestic range.

Paint Oil Value

Linseed oil is valuable as a paint vehicle because when it is exposed to the air it changes from a liquid to a transparent and flexible solid. China wood or tung oil, perilla oil, soybean oil and other drying oils may be used in the manufacture of paints after they have received special treatments. Linseed oil, however, is the oil commonly available for mixing paint on the job. Unless a paint oil is labeled "linseed oil" the chances are that it is not "Pure oil" and "boiled oil" do not necessarily mean linseed oil.

Threshed beans lost behind the machine may mean that the rack speed is too high or too low, that there is overloading with straw or weeds, or overthreshing at the cylinder. It also may mean that sieves are closed too much or the openings clogged, or that the wind blast is too strong or improperly directed. Poor cleaning comes from too wide sieve openings, overthreshing at the cylinder, overloading sieves or not enough wind.

Fresh Food Travels Far

Most fresh fruits and vegetables now travel an average distance of 1,400 miles from farm to home. Development of the refrigerator car has made it possible for people to enjoy summer fruits and vegetables throughout the winter in all American cities, towns and villages. Work is progressing steadily toward even better refrigerator cars to deliver better products of the soil in quicker time.

First Mapped River

One of the first Minnesota rivers to appear on a map was Gooseberry river, on the north shore of Lake Superior, about 40 miles northeast of Duluth. Reivers des Grouilliers, which has been loosely translated as Gooseberry river, is found on French maps since 1670. It was believed to have been named after the great French explorer, Sieur des Grouilliers, who was on the north shore in 1660.

First City Telegrams

In 1844 the first telegram was sent over the wires from one city to another. The telegraph line was constructed by Samuel F. B. Morse with funds provided by congress and amounting to $30,000. The line went from Baltimore, Md., to Washington, D. C. In 1866 the United States and England began sending messages to each other.

No More Squinting

Orthoptic "squint" or cross-eyes now can be cured. It is now possible to give orthoptic and other coordinating exercises, so that the eyes may function together. In those cases where operation is necessary pre-operative and post-operative training greatly improve the functional results.

Pneumonia Immunization Cuts Death of Oldsters A group of New York investigators, reporting to American Medical association after a six year study of pneumonia in elderly patients, suggests immunization against the disease where high incidence rates prevail, as in epidemics, in institutions and in persons with a tendency to recurring pneumonia. The study was undertaken in the older age group for the following reasons: First, they have a high incidence of pneumonia, mortality and case fatality rate. Second, repeated attacks of pneumonia occur frequently. Third, there was possibility for continuous observation, hospitalization and reexamination, since the patients were from the New York City home and the medical division of the former Central and Neurological hospital and the Goldwater Memorial hospital, where higher age groups are treated.

During the six year study, 1937 to 1943, 5,750 patients were immunized against pneumonia while 5,153 control patients were observed for comparison. Among the immunized group 99 developed pneumonia, an incidence rate of 17.2 per 1,000, of which 40 died, a mortality rate of 6.2 per 1,000. There were 227 cases of pneumonia among the non-immunized patients, an incidence rate of 44 per 1,000, with 98 deaths, a mortality rate of 19 per 1,000.
