

Jerry Darmody Takes Marion Nigh as Bride

Before an altar decorated with flowers in Holy Trinity church Saturday morning, Oct. 11, Miss Marion Margaret Nigh, daughter of the Elmer Nighs of Route 2, Campbellsport, exchanged wedding vows with Jerry Darmody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Darmody, Route 2, Kewaskum. The Rev. F. C. La Bui performed the 9 a. m. ceremony and read the solemn nuptial high mass.

For her marriage the bride chose a gown of ivory satin featuring a round neck and net yoke trimmed with brilliant. The full skirt ended in a long train trimmed with lace. A crown held her fingertip veil edged with lace and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white pompons.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. Alban Nigh, matron of honor, and the Misses Vivian Darmody and Margaret and Agnes Nigh as bridesmaids. Little Barbara Ann Nigh served as flower girl. The matron of honor wore a gown of turquoise taffeta, styled with a boat neck, short puffed sleeves and tiered skirt. Her headpiece was of pompons and feathers and she carried yellow pompons, white mums and ivy. The bridesmaids were attired in American Beauty, aqua and rose gowns identical to that of the matron of honor. Their headpieces were of veiled ribbons and plumes and they carried mixed bouquets of roses, mums, pompons and ivy. The flower girls' frock of white taffeta was styled like those of the bridesmaids. She wore red roses and feathers in her hair and carried red roses and white pompons.

Alban Nigh was best man for the groom, while Clyde Darmody, Willard Blanke and Virgil Bird served as groomsmen. The guests were ushered to their places by Gregor Nigh and Wesley Darmody. Young Jackie Weddig was the little ring bearer.

A dinner at noon and reception at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors followed the ceremony. In the evening, relatives, neighbors and friends gathered at a wedding dance at the Light-house ballroom.

The young newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to northern Wisconsin and will be at home after Oct. 18 on Route 2, Kewaskum, where the groom is engaged in farming. The bride, a graduate of the Kewaskum high school, had been engaged as a time-keeper at the Gehl Bros. Mfg. Co. in West Bend.

THEISEN-LACKAS

Miss Mildred Lackas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lackas, Theresa, was married to Albert Theisen, son of Mrs. Mary Theisen, Route 1, Kewaskum, on Saturday morning, Oct. 11, in a ceremony read by the Rev. M. J. Graff at 8:30 o'clock in St. Theresa's church, Theresa.

The bride was attended by Miss Eileen Lackas as maid of honor and Mrs. John Petri and Miss Mildred Schlosser as bridesmaids. The maid of honor was attired in green taffeta and the bridesmaids wore blue and fuchsia moire respectively. White flowers were used in their bouquets and as head-dresses.

The bride chose traditional white satin, worn with a full length, lace-edged veil. She carried a small shower bouquet of white roses.

Alfonse Theisen served as best man, while John Petri and Reuben Lackas acted as groomsmen. Harold Lackas and Ray Theisen were ushers.

Following a dinner at Krueger's in Theresa, a reception was held at the home of the bride. In the evening a wedding dance was held at Paul's hall, Theresa.

Following their return from a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin, the newlyweds will reside on the groom's farm near St. Michaels. Before her marriage the bride had been employed at the Amity Leather products company in West Bend.

KOHLSCHEIDT-BONLENDER

Holy Angels parsonage, West Bend, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Marie A. Bonlander, Chicago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Strobel of St. Kilian, and Carl F. Kohlschmidt, son of the George Kohlschmidts, Campbellsport. The Rev. John Goebel officiated at the ceremony at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 11.

100 Card Players at Holy Trinity Party

The card party sponsored by the Ladies' Altar society of Holy Trinity parish in the church parlors on Sunday evening was attended by about 100 card players, all of whom enjoyed a sociable evening. Lunch was served following the games and prizes were awarded to the following:

Legion to Enter Teams in Lakes, Rivers Loops

A basketball meeting was held Tuesday evening in the American Legion clubhouse basement to organize for the coming season. About 10 players attended the meeting and others advanced word that they would be out for the teams. Because of a sufficient number of players, the Legion again decided to sponsor two teams this season, one in the Land O' Lakes Regular loop and the other in the Land O' Rivers league. The first practice will be held in the not too distant future.

In addition to West Bend Schachts, defending champs, Watertown and Oconomowoc, the Lakes Major circuit will be much improved with the addition of Horicon, Mayville, Waukesha and Plymouth, according to Martin C. Weber, Merton, director of the three leagues. It is also possible that Beaver Dam will be the eighth team in Wisconsin's No. 1 circuit.

Besides Kewaskum, defending champions, the northern division of the Lakes Regular loop will include Cedarburg and Hartford, new entries which were in the Major league last year, Campbellsport, Grafton, Thiensville, Hustisford and Menomonee Falls.

The southern loop will add Johnson Creek, Wauwatosa and Waukesha to Hartland, Pewaukee, Sussex, Mukwonago, Waterford and East Troy.

Some new entries are also added to the Rivers northern division. They are Rubicon, Horicon and Lannon, with Campbellsport, Kewaskum, Grafton, Colarburg, Maquon and West Bend.

Donnaum will be a new one in the south with Monches, Sullivan, Hartland, Oconomowoc, Pewaukee and Sussex.

EBERLE SERVES AS JUDGE AT WESTERN BEAGLE CLUB SHOW

Joe Eberle and Tom Muckerbach, accompanied by John Heintz of Hartford, attended the trial and show of the Western Beagle club at Winamac, Ind. Saturday and Sunday. Joe, president of the Wisconsin Beagle club, served as judge at the show. As judge he had the opportunity to judge a dog of his own strain of beagles which has not been defeated during 1946 or 1947 and was the biggest winner among beagles during the last two years.

SENIOR PICTURES TAKEN

Last Friday seniors and teachers at the high school had their individual pictures taken by photographers from the Morrison Studios of Milwaukee. These are the graduation pictures of the students and will appear with those of the faculty in the Chairman, the high school year book.

REPORT CARDS ISSUED

Report cards were issued to the members of the high school student body on Wednesday. It is a policy of the school that these should be signed by the parents and returned the following day. If you have not seen your son's or daughter's card, will you make inquiry please? If you have not signed it and directed your child to return it, will you co-operate by doing this? Thank you.

ANNUAL HOMECOMING HELD

This Thursday and Friday marked the annual homecoming of the Kewaskum high school. Highlights of the program were: Thursday evening—Parade, bonfire, pep rally, and snake dance. Friday afternoon—Homecoming game with Campbellsport. Friday evening—Homecoming dance to the music of Chris Eider and his orchestra.

Different this year was the order and arrangement of the parade. Instead of having the grades' dragging along at the end, each of the high school floats was interspersed with a grade school float.

Following the regular lineup of drums, majorettes, banner, and the football squad in cars came the freshmen. Their theme was "Found 'Em Up" and it was carried out by students on the float beating rugs. The first and second grades followed.

The sophomore motto: "Campbellsport Bows to Kewaskum" was acted out by a squad of boys representing Campbellsport in chains with footballs as iron balls kneeling to Kewaskum—a king on a throne. The Kewaskum squad marched as guards to the float. The third and fourth grades followed.

The juniors chose as their motto "No Peace 'Till Kewaskum Wins." They used the symbolism of the big five. Around a table five boys sat in the colors of the five teams in the Tri-County. The fifth and sixth grades followed.

The seniors carried the theme "May the Best Man Win." On a football field two men crouched opposite a football—two representing Kewaskum, the other Campbellsport. There was an American flag on the float also. After the seventh and eighth grades came the royalty float.

The queen sat on a throne as usual representing "Victory." Her court in colored gowns knelt before her centering on her rays from flashlights. Floodlights from the end of the truck lighted up the girls. Their theme: "We're Lighting the Way to Victory."

The student council was in charge of the pep rally for the homecoming game, which was held immediately after the parade. It took the form of an auction of football shoes from last year's team and a surprise purchase for the coach. The auction was interspersed with cheers and yells under the direction of the cheerleaders. After the bonfire, the royalty led off the snake dance through the streets of Kewaskum.

At the time of writing, the game was not played but hopes were high. The dance in the evening featured the coronation of the queen, Ellen Schommer, by the homecoming king, Robert Staehler. The queen's court and their escorts were seniors—Barbara Schaefer and Marilyn Buss with escorts Robert Felenz and John Tessar; junior—Ruth Eichstedt and Mary Stearles, escorted

Cancer Drive Pamphlets Mailed to Householders

As a part of the educational phase of the American Cancer society's 1947 drive for funds in Washington county, letters and pamphlets were mailed, starting this week, to every household in the county. In Hartford, Barton and West Bend, they will be distributed by Community Chest fund societies.

Pamphlets being sent out are titled "The Answers to 76 Common Questions About Cancer" and "Unless We Act, 1 in 8 Will Die of Cancer." Over signatures of the respective community chairman in the county, the following letter will accompany the pamphlets:

"In 1945 there were 25 deaths from cancer in our own Washington county. In 1946 there were something over 40. How many will there be in 1947? And how many in 1948?"

"For the first time, Washington county is organizing for the prevention and cure of cancer, and I have accepted chairmanship of the cancer committee for our village.

"The committee has two jobs. One is to help the people of our village discover cancer early when it can be cured. To do that, I am sending you folders which I wish you would read in your own home with all of the members of your family. It is terribly important because, at the present rate, one out of every eight people dies of cancer.

"Another purpose of the committee is to raise a small amount of money for research to develop a cure for cancer. But I will write you about that at a later date.

"For the good of your family, please read the enclosed folders."

In addition to this educational method of alerting the public to the danger of cancer, county committee headquarters at West Bend disclosed requests were received this week from two chairmen for physicians to address gatherings in their respective communities on the subject of cancer. Headquarters again urged other chairmen and organizations to do likewise.

"Our No. 1 enemy is cancer," asserted Chairman L. P. Rosenheimer of Kewaskum, quoting from the bureau of vital statistics, "because the disease is more deadly than war. For Pearl Harbor to V-J day, 294,476 Americans were slain by the Germans and Japs on the battlefield. During the same period, 607,193 Americans lost their lives on the home front, the victims of cancer.

"Your gift now to fight cancer may protect your home or the one next door from this terrible malady. Give to the American Cancer society today."

By — and Jimmy Wink; sopranos—Betsy Siegfried with Lorin Backhaus, and freshman—Beverly Stahl with Allen Schoefs.

As in the past, homecoming activities were supervised by the senior class under the direction of Miss Margaret Browne.

FRESHMEN INITIATED

Last Friday the Kewaskum high school held the sophomore initiation of the freshmen. The activities were divided into three parts.

During the day the initiates were expected to abide by the rules of the sophomores for dress for the day. The boys came to school wearing ornate spectacles, stocking caps, huge stawks, rolled-up trousers legs, women's shoes and heavy galoshes. They carried with them throughout the day a doll of their choosing. At the same time the girls wore long skirts with huge bustles, men's shirts and ties backwards, no makeup, and their hair tied up in knots at the top of their heads.

The second section of the initiation occurred during the noon hour. Groups of 4-5 were assigned specific jobs to perform from 12:30 to 12:45 on the main streets of Kewaskum. These included such tasks as washing sidewalks with toothbrushes and cutting lawns with scissors. Other groups were left off easy with playing such games as jump rope and jacks for boys and marbles for girls. Some groups played leap frog up and down Main street.

The most important and entertaining part of the initiation was the Gay Nineties program which was presented in the evening on the stage of the auditorium of the high school. After a comic pantomime of stage cleaners, the first number was a leather shop quartet singing "When You Were a Tub." The members carried huge tulips, wore huge roses, red ties and red handkerchiefs. Their costumes consisted of knee-checked suits and straw hats.

A style show of bathing suits and 6734 suits of the 1900s was next. In a dramatization of "On a Bicycle Built for Two" Wally Cudnoskoski and Pat Perkins sang the lyrics. A chorus of refined ladies of the Gay Nineties under the direction of Irene Kanies did a novelty number—a medley of old songs.

Baby styles of the period were presented in the milk drinking contest which was composed of six "babies"

Kewaskum Gridders Drub Oakfield, 50-14

Kewaskum high school's football team, which was upset by Lomira, 22-16, in the conference opener two weeks ago, their first defeat in three years, climbed into a tie for second with Oakfield by trouncing the Oaks, 50 to 14 there last Friday. Lomira kept its record clean by beating Brandon, 45-23

JEST JESTIN'

It Pays to Be Good

"SHURE and my boy Michael's coming home tomorrow," shouted Mrs. Murphy across the fence to her neighbor. "Oh, that's fine news," Mrs. O'Leary congratulated her. "But I thought he'd been sent up for five years." "He was that," conceded Mrs. Murphy, "but he got off for good behavior." "Ah," said Mrs. O'Leary, "it must be a great consolation to know that you have such a fine son."

Platter Patter

Little Annie is blessed with an unlimited imagination and a remarkable talent for inventing games. One day she lay upon her back upon the floor, singing lustily. A little later Annie's mother passed through the room, and noticed that the youngster now lay upon her stomach. She was singing another song, but still vocalizing with considerable vim and vigor. "What game are you playing now, dear?" mother asked. "Oh," explained Annie, "I'm playing that I'm a phonograph record, and I've just turned myself over."

SHOULD KEEP THEM OUT

First Farmer—But, John, why did you give up a nice clean dairy farm to go into the skunk-raising business?

Second Farmer—Well, I thought maybe skunks would make the government keep its nose out of my business.

True, Wasn't It?

The captain of a whaling vessel once wrote in his log: "Mate got drunk today." When the mate sobered up, he saw the entry and knew the owner would fire him when they made port, so he begged the captain to strike it out. He even promised never to touch a drop again. But the captain refused. "Anything once written in that log stays there," he said bluntly.

A few days later the mate was keeping the log. At the bottom of the page he wrote in large letters: "Captain was sober today!"

Always Businesslike

Tom was visiting his friend John, who lived in a small town. One evening John suggested that they go for a walk. After walking for some time they came to the business section of the town. Noticing that a good movie was showing, Tom asked his friend if he would like to see it, the treat being on him.

John replied: "Yes, but be sure to get only one ticket. I own the theater."

SOMEWHAT FORGETFUL

The junior member of a firm of Boston lawyers went to New York to see a client. But when he arrived he found that he had unaccountably forgotten the client's name. So he wired his partner: "What is our client's name?"

By return wire came the answer: "Ryan, Joseph H. Stop yours is Kent, James T."

Feather Bed

Two cyclists pulled up for the night at a hotel. "Well, I think," said the host, "that you'll have a comfortable night. It's a feather bed."

At two o'clock in the morning one of the cyclists roused his companion.

"Change places with me, Dick," he groaned, "it's my turn to lie on the feather."

No Gossip

Phenomenal Demand Points Up Annual Bible Week Observance

Turbulent World Seeks Guidance From Scriptures

By DEAN RAMOS
Released by WNU Features

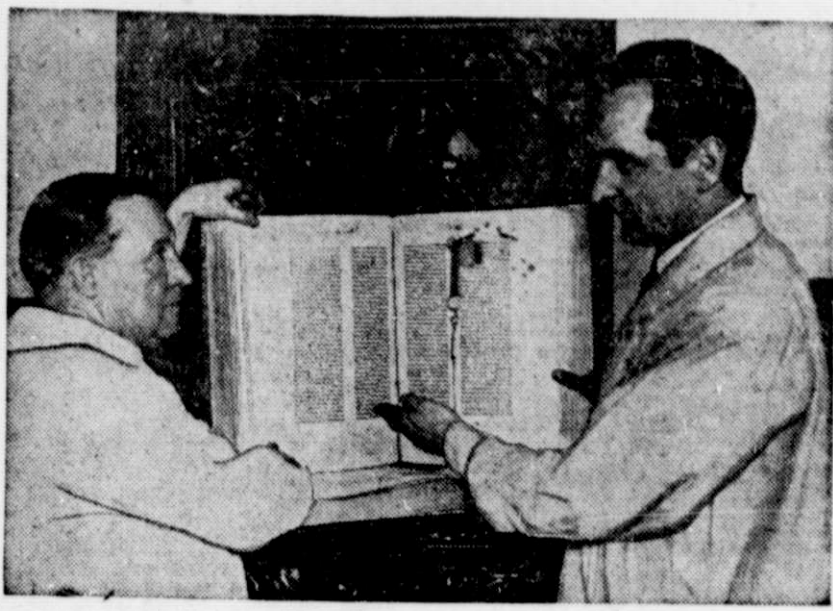

The specter of starvation haunts millions of people in a war-torn world afflicted with violence, unrest and confusion. But it is not only relief from the pangs of hunger which people crave. The world in general is starved for the comforting and inspiring words of guidance from the Bible.

This urgent and far-flung demand for the Bible in a turbulent postwar world will be emphasized during the annual observance of National Bible Week, scheduled October 20 to 26 under auspices of the Laymen's National committee.

In an attempt to focus increasing interest on the Bible as the Book of Books, National Bible Week was originated in 1941 by the Laymen's National committee. Held annually since then, the event has gained increasing support and now is observed on a nationwide scale.

Proclamations by President Truman, governors and mayors will add impetus to the observance. Newspapers and radios will spread information about the Bible, and in many communities special programs and displays are planned.

Big Foreign Demand. Deprived of Bibles for six years because Hitler classed the book as "non essential," Germany is de-there by printing and distributing the Scriptures in nine of the most common dialects.

'BEST SELLER' OF THE AGES . . . The Bible ranks as the most published book in the world. Craftsmen are shown here with a facsimile of the priceless Gutenberg Bible, which dates from the 15th century. The original Gutenberg Bible, first volume to be printed from movable type, is in the Library of Congress in Washington.

China, flooded with paper money as inflation mounts, also is being swamped with Bibles in the face of a widespread demand. Bibles destined for China are being printed in the various dialects, although most are in Mandarin, the Chinese union language. For the first time in history, Bibles for China are being printed in this country because of excessive costs under inflation prevailing there.

In this country, too, the Bible continues to uphold its reputation of being the "best seller" of all times as sales continue to soar to phenomenal peaks.

Heads 'Best Sellers.' Although no exact tabulation on sales of the Bible is available, it is estimated that from 15 to 20 million Bibles, New and Old Testaments and portions of the Scriptures are sold annually in the United States. These astronomical sales far surpass distribution of the top "best sellers" in the fiction and non-fiction field, distribution of these books seldom exceeding more than 75,000 copies in a year.

Termed "the only book which is never off the press," the Bible represents the major output of six large publishing companies in this country. Two of the firms limit their production solely to Bibles.

The universality of the Bible is indicated by figures disclosing that at least part of the Scriptures has been translated into 1,070 different languages and dialects.

The marked postwar popularity of the Bible is attributed in part to publication of simple, direct, new translations. Since its first publication early in 1946, the revised standard version of the New Testament has been in widespread demand in all Protestant churches, sales already exceeding more than a million copies. Phenomenal sales also have followed introduction about four years ago of the Confraternity edition of the Douay version, which is accepted by the Roman Catholic church.

Although curtailed distribution during wartime, particularly in foreign countries, undoubtedly accounts in part for the present marked spurt in sales, the Bible actually has been a consistent "best seller" ever since Wycliffe's first English translation in the 14th century.

After Wycliffe, other important versions by Tundale, Coverdale and Cranmer followed, but these early volumes are written in English that is archaic today.

1535 Preface Quoted. The preface to the 1535 Coverdale Bible, however, is still highly regarded by Bible scholars. "It will greatly help you to understand Scripture," he writes, "if you mark not only what is written, but of whom, and to whom, with what words, at what time, where, to what intent, with what circumstances, considering that which goes before and that which follows."

Generally credited with being one of the most significant events in history of the Bible was release of the King James version, almost universally accepted by Protestant denominations, in 1611. By some miracle, the flowery Elizabethan expressions of the day did not creep into the translation, but instead a basic Anglo-Saxon vocabulary was adopted which shows no signs of becoming archaic even after nearly 350 years. Literary excellence of the version, Bible scholars agree, has not been surpassed. Modern translations, including the 1901 American revised version, so far have failed to supplant the King James version in popularity.

SMALLEST BIBLE . . . Printed in Scotland in 1895, this Bible is the smallest in the world. It is compared with a ring for size.

manding seven to nine million copies to fill the long pent-up need. Church leaders there testify that the Bible "is needed as badly as food."

More than a million New Testaments have been distributed in occupied Japan, a country which General MacArthur has described as "ripe for Christianity." An additional million copies still are required to fill requests.

GOING PLACES, SEEING THINGS

Air Hostess Careers Lure Country Girls

Lured by the romance and glamour universally attached to air careers, country girls in increasing numbers are getting their wings as airline hostesses. From small towns and rural America rather than from the big cities, generally conceded to be the centers of style and glamour, the airlines are securing those charming hostesses whose ministrations add immeasurably to the comforts and pleasures of air travel.

In fact, not a single girl from New York City is listed in the roster of 175 Capital Airlines hostesses, according to a check made by Jane White, chief hostess. Chicago has five hostesses on the list, Cleveland, two, and Philadelphia, only one. The only big city with a fair showing is Detroit, with 20.

Most of the hostesses, in round numbers about 130, come from small cities, towns, villages and farms. Places like Bowling Green, Ohio; Pearl River, N. Y.; Broad Brook, Conn.; Almont, Mich.; Puxico, Mo.; rural Prosperity, Pa., and Grant Town, W. Va., appear as the home towns of the girls.

Prospects of a career combined with a glamorous existence induce most of these small town girls to seek jobs as airline hostesses, Miss White believes. The girls generally are ambitious and are confronted by limited opportunities in their home towns, she adds.

Admitting that girls from the cities are just as ambitious, Miss White explains that the big city girl has more opportunities for a career than a girl from a small town. Modeling, radio, advertising or designing are among the fascinating jobs available to the city girl. On the other hand, the average small town girl is limited to a desk-and-typewriter existence.

"Reared away from interesting things and strange places, the country girls want to go places and see things," Miss White explains. "A job as an airline hostess provides that opportunity."

In support of the chief hostess' contention that girls rebel at office work, a survey of the 224 hostesses on the active and inactive lists, shows that 120 of the company's hostesses formerly had office jobs. In addition, 22 had been receptionists. Of the others, 20 had been nurses and 14 were teachers. Only 3 had been models and 1 was a dress designer.

Miss White also believes that the surroundings and mode of life of the country girl better fit her for the qualifications of a hostess. The qualifications are rather stringent, too, only a few of the 12 daily applicants being accepted as hostesses.

Educational background is the principal requirement, regulations providing that applicants must be either a registered nurse, a college graduate or have completed two years of college plus two years in business. Other requirements are that girls must have charm and intelligence, and "must not be unattractive."

When girls become airline hostesses, most of them are intent on a career, according to Miss White. One girl has been with the airline for seven years, and several others have service records of from three to five years.

Despite the original career-mindedness of hostesses, however, the average length of service is only 12 months. The reason: Cupid also flies the airlines. Statistics show that 98 per cent of the hostesses who resigned did so merely to change their career from flying to housekeeping. The fact that marriage has been taking a heavy toll of hostesses does not puzzle Miss White a bit.

"After all," she says, "the basic qualifications of a hostess are the same as those of a wife. If a girl has intelligence and is charming and pretty, she will make a good hostess or a good wife."

Bees in Bonnet

LOGAN, UTAH.—Ione S. Bennion, dean of women at Utah State Agricultural college, was out driving when her automobile began misbehaving. Too Busy To Pose, Man of 98 Insists CHARLESTON, W. VA.—Too busy to have his picture taken on his 98th birthday anniversary, Lon Matheny posed for photographers four days later. A house moving job, he explained, prohibited him from taking time out earlier. In the house moving business for 60 years, Matheny still puts in an eight-hour work day, commuting 50 miles by bus between Seth and Charleston.

Old Muskets Rattle in Shooting Match

LANSING, MICH.—The rattle of musket fire brought an echo of the past when riflemen participated in a shooting contest with old-fashioned muzzle-loading guns as a feature of gun collector's show.

A display of antique firearms, held in conjunction with the show, included rare Kentucky rifles, flintlocks and military arms dating back to the Revolutionary war. No modern metallic-cartridge arms or ammunition was permitted on the range during the shooting contest. Indicative of the widespread interest in antique guns, muzzle-loading gun clubs have been established at Detroit, Pontiac, Roseville, Rochester, Britton, Adrian, Battle Creek, Three Rivers, Kalamazoo, Otsego, Lansing, Clarkston and Galesburg. Most of the clubs had entries in the shooting matches.

WEDDING LORE

Bride of Old Lifted Over Threshold to Appease House Gods

IN ANCIENT TIMES the sacred threshold of the new home had to be defended against witchcraft; it was disenchanted by charms; it was decorated with flowers or anointed with perfumes, for good spirits were "delighted and allured by sweet smells."

It was of the utmost importance that the arriving bride make a good impression on the house gods. Since it would enrage the deities if the new wife stepped on the threshold, she had to be lifted through the doorway.

There is evidence that the threshold tradition was also transferred from the house to the church. A petting stone (so-called because the bride must leave all her "pets" or bad humors behind her) was placed in the path outside the church for the bridal party to jump over. A variation was the stick held by the groomsmen at the church door for the bride to burdle.

The bride cut the first piece of her bridal cake as a "sacrifice" to the house spirits. (An even earlier mode was breaking or tossing the cake over the bride's head as she first entered her new home.) Each guest scrambled to get a cake fragment to "dream on." The ancient bridecake took the form of large thin dry biscuits, small rectangular buns, or shortbread.

World Council Will Stand Or Fall on Public Opinion

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator. WASHINGTON.—Here are some more notes from a reporter's notebook (of course, reporters don't really carry notebooks—they write on whatever is handy—this is a menu) at the United Nations.

Some of the people who are reading this column attended sessions of the United Nations. I think I recognized some of you. It was hard to get in because so many nations felt this session was so important that they brought much larger staffs than ever before.

For those of you who stayed home and listened to the radio or read the reports in the paper—well, what impression do you get? Your impression is highly important, as I'll try to point out later.

There was, and is this, danger, which Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, pointed out in a speech which stirred all the delegates who heard it (and you, too, I imagine, if you were listening) when he summarized it afterward over the ABC network.

Lie said: "... the peoples of the world, and in any government as well, are shocked, frightened and discouraged to find that those same nations which created the United Nations so openly disagree."

A colleague of mine, a most restrained and thoughtful commentator (Pauline Frederick, with considerable experience here and abroad) told me something which is worth repeating. She was interviewing Eleanor Roosevelt at a luncheon at Hyde Park. Whatever you may think of Mrs. Roosevelt's domestic politics you must know in what high regard she is held as a member of the American delegation to the United Nations.

My colleague asked her if her heart weren't heavy over the world situation today. I haven't her exact words here, but Mrs. Roosevelt replied in the negative. She said we had expected too much too soon from the United Nations. And then she went on to point out what so many of the delegates have said, namely, that faulty and ineffective as the United Nations may be, it is far better than nothing.

How many times have I heard that from even the most cynical of the reporters and observers here! As the New York Times remarked in a recent editorial, "it cannot be stressed too often that the struggle brought to a head in this session of the general assembly is not against the Soviet Union but FOR the United Nations."

One strange phenomenon which appears to persons not too well acquainted with the scene of such gatherings is the friendly and entirely normal manner in which the delegates to the United Nations who attend each other on the rostrum, consort in the corridors and lounges provided in the new buildings which now temporarily house the executive council and the general assembly, respectively. That's nothing new to people who have covered congress.

Dispensing of News is Vital to U. N. The longer I serve, covering these meetings, the more I realize that the most important of all the groups, not excluding the delegates themselves, are those which serve to dispense the news and information concerning the United Nations.

It would be impossible, of course, for enough people to visit the sessions to affect public opinion greatly. But many of the people who do come go back with a message which stirs great interest in the organization in their communities. Proof of this interest was contained in the report of the secretary general, Lie, when he said that information had been sent out and other steps taken in cooperation with a thousand meetings in the past year.

But more important than anything else are the actual reports of press and radio direct from one or the other of the two headquarters, or as a result of the many interviews with members of the permanent secretariat. Here is what they've done with radio alone:

During the general assembly, the radio division of the department of public information will broadcast for 12 hours a day, while visiting radio commentators, using facilities leased by the United Nations, will cover

PAST AND PRESENT PRESIDENTS... Unusual indeed is a picture of the President of the United States chatting with a predecessor in his office. The occasion here was the naming by President Truman of former President Hoover to the chairmanship of a 12-man commission to study plans for reorganizing the federal government.

NEWS REVIEW Urge Food Conservation; New Battle Shakes U.N.

DIETETICS: Waste Less Lips that sincerely frame the warty conservatism will not touch such sturdy edibles as meat, poultry and eggs quite so often hereafter.

Charles Luckman, head of President Truman's citizens food committee, opened the widely heralded "waste less" campaign by calling on the American people to cut their consumption of those three items, thereby effecting a conservation of grain for Europe.

At the same time, it was disclosed that stop-gap aid for Europe this winter may run as much as 800 million dollars—220 million more than Mr. Truman had estimated earlier. The appeal for Americans to cut down on the amount of foods requiring grain feeding was couched in a five-point program which, if followed, will eliminate the traditional race for the last chop on the platter—it won't be there.

Those five dietic commandments were: 1) Buy cheap meat cuts; 2) Don't serve too much; 3) Don't overcook meat; 4) Use leftovers; 5) Save wheat in all other possible ways.

In the future was the possibility that a voluntary program of meat-rationing and a reduction in the size of bread loaves would be put into effect.

NEW FIGHT: Recalls Yalta In the U. N. another scarehead of possible failure and collapse of that organization arose as the U. S. and Russia plunged into a new skirmish.

The issue: Which nation shall succeed post-Russia Poland on the security council? Poland has represented eastern Europe and the Slav bloc for two years. Russia wants the Ukraine, which, although an integral part of the Soviet Union, has a separate U. N. delegation. U. S. contention is that the Ukraine is not a sovereign nation, therefore does not rate a separate status.

In the background of the affair was the Stalin-Roosevelt Yalta agreement which gave the Soviet Union three votes in the United Nations. Russia proper, the Ukraine and White Russia each has one.

How the U.S.S.R. came to get three votes probably happened something like this: Both the Ukraine and White Russia, intensely nationalistic, did not like to lose their identities by being merged with greater Russia. The Communist politburo, therefore, as a sop to their nationalism, granted the two territories a sort of nominal independence.

At Yalta, then, Stalin told Roosevelt that he wanted the Ukraine and White Russia to be represented in the U. N. for "internal reasons." F.D.R., being an old politician and sympathetic with "internal" difficulties, agreed.

Thus, the stage was set for one of the most serious battles yet to develop within the United Nations.

Dr. Thor Heyerdahl, 32-year-old Norwegian ethnologist and zoologist, had a theory that the first Polynesians were blue-eyed blondes who floated over to their Pacific islands from South America on rafts in about the year 500 A. D.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Newspaper through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on behalf of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Overpayment Refunds Asked Some 497,000 veterans in schools or on-the-job training will be refused re-entrance this fall unless they make refunds of overpayments of subsistence allowances amounting to millions of dollars.

Veterans' administration says the fault lies in the fact that schools and industrial institutions failed to report interruptions in training, in which veterans are equally guilty. Another reason is the ceilings recently placed on subsistence payments in on-the-job training, and in the meantime the subsistence checks have been going forward to the veterans. As a consequence, VA has notified veterans they have 60 days in which to make refunds and if they do not they will be unable to re-enter training.

They may make restitution in a lump sum, may arrange for future subsistence checks to be withheld until the obligation is paid or, in hardship cases, may have amount deducted from their subsistence payments each month. Those who have no intention of resuming training should make some other arrangement to repay the money due the government.

In thousands of cases, where veterans have discontinued schooling or on the job training, the school or the industry has failed to report promptly the interruption or discontinuance, and until these are reported to VA the subsistence checks are mailed the veterans. Such payments after discontinuance are, under the law, illegal and should not be accepted by veterans.

Questions and Answers Q. My son was taken from the farm a year ago last May, drafted into the service and later he enlisted. His term expires the last of November. He wants a job as a state policeman. Whom should he contact to help him get this position?—M. M. A., Toledo, Ohio.

A. These are usually political jobs. However, suggest you write or call the superintendent of the state police department at the state capital at Columbus, Ohio, for information. To Corporal W. H. at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., who wrote a five-page letter explaining a furlough which lasted over a year: Relative to your back allotments suggest you write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo. With reference to your back pay, suggest you take the matter up directly with the finance officer at your post and if you do not get satisfaction, write direct to the Chief of Finance, Department of the Army, Pentagon Bldg., Washington 25, D. C.

Q. My son was a veteran of World War II. After he was discharged in 1945 he had tropical malaria. He married after his discharge and had been married only a week when he was killed in a highway accident. Then congress passed a terminal leave pay law. His wife was married less than a year after his death. Who should collect his terminal pay? Also if there ever should be any bonds issued to the soldiers of Mississippi, who would collect them since his wife has remarried? They did not have any children.—Mrs. V. B. T., Tallahassee, Fla.

A. The army says next of kin is entitled to collect his terminal leave bond and whether his wife, although remarried, is entitled to the money will remain for the army to determine. Suggest that you write directly to the Finance Office, U. S. Army, Building 203, St. Louis, 20, Mo., and explain the situation. It may be that under their ruling the mother would be the next of kin if the widow has remarried. As to state bonds in Mississippi, it would depend upon the wording of the state law.

Q. I am drawing compensation for a service incurred disability and have a chance to take a job which I feel that I can handle despite my disability. My question is, if I take this job will I continue to receive my compensation or will it be reduced because of my employment?—W. A. J., Independence, Mo.

A. The answer is no. Earnings for such work do not affect the amount of compensation received from Veterans' administration. Q. My son served in World War II in the Pacific and had an honorable discharge. He was pensioned, but he is dead. I am his mother, 61 years old. Am I entitled to his pension, or his father, who is 74 years old and disabled to work? He left no wife or children.—Unsigned, Wenona, Md.

A. You would likely be entitled to a pension, together with the father, if you were dependent parents. You also would be entitled to his service life insurance unless he had made someone else his beneficiary. Suggest that you contact Veterans' administration at Baltimore. Q. One of my friends told me that a mother of a soldier's wife who was killed in action is eligible for certain payments from the government for taking care of her daughter until she married again. My daughter, Mrs. W. B., stayed with me 15 months before she married again.—Mrs. E. W., Stewart, Miss.

A. We know of no provision for such payment, but if you are the dependent mother of a son killed in action you are entitled to a pension, as was the widow up until the time she remarried. You should apply to the nearest VA office.

Plain Dumb Adolf Hitler was the "worst informed man in Europe." That indictment of the Nazi fuhrer came from the lips of his own secretary, Johanna Wolf, who also had worked for Rudolph Hess. She told interrogators it was "amazing" how little Hitler really knew. After he became all-powerful in Germany, his knowledge stopped increasing because he wouldn't listen to anyone, she said.

BARBS... by Baukhage Human transportation in rockets is still very much in the "dream stage," says aircraft engineer Edward Heineman. A lot of my travels are in the same category when I look at the new Pullman rates. Remarkable improvement of hearing among cases of deaf veterans through use of a sleep drug have been reported. Okay, so long as they don't hear their wives talking in their sleep. The "loofa" squash, which looks like a cucumber, says Middle America Information, is excellent for cleaning pots and pans. Can't you hear the Swedish maid saying: "I loofa squash?" No.

GOP IN '48: Still junketing out west, Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio) went out on what could be a limb with a prediction that the Republicans will win full control of the government in 1948 because the people are tired of "regulation." Bringing his guns to bear on the opposition, Taft labeled the Democrats as "an unnatural party" and scathingly referred to what he termed the "totalitarian aspects" of the Truman administration.

Do Not Spare the Oil
Many household machines have moving parts that depend on oiling or proper lubrication for their good operation. Quite a few appliances have no parts to oil, as the electric iron and toaster. But where lubrication is required the kind of lubrication and frequency of application should be well understood. This is always explained in the instruction book that comes with the appliance. The sewing machine oil can serves most household purposes.

Walleye or Pike Perch
The walleye is a slender fish moderately compressed. Generally the color is brassy yellow and gold shading to olive and yellow mottled with brass. The belly and sides are white tinged with green; head is slender and tapered; lower jaw slightly shorter than the upper. It has two separate dorsal fins and the mouth is well supplied with strong teeth. The flesh is white, firm and delicately flavored.

Hand-Planted Trees
Largest hand-planted forest in America amounts to 45,000 acres and was created by a Louisiana company. If only one man at a time had been employed on this job during the two months annual planting season, it would have taken him nearly 1,000 years to complete it. About 200 million trees are planted annually by man in the United States—and prolific mother nature each year plants more than 375 times that amount.

Wild Figs for Pigeons
The nutmeg pigeons, also known as the white pigeons in Australia, feed on wild figs. Vast flocks wing across Torres strait, between New Guinea and Australia to the Queensland coast to breed. Like most pigeons, they are lazy nest builders, a few twigs supporting a single large white egg. They are good eaters and lugger crews, after pearl shell and trochus, hunting them down at night on the reef islands.

The FICTION Corner

ADVENTURE LIMITED
By IDA BREED

CAROLYN TAYLOR looked at herself critically in the full length mirror, then gave her reflection a stalling little nod of approval. The smile was justified. Her mirrored image showed a lovely young woman of thirty-two, who looked hardly more than twenty-five—vivid, well dressed, confident. She was more charming, more desirable than the pretty young Carolyn of eleven years before when she finished college.

That was the Carolyn who, all her senior year at college, had to keep reminding herself that this was earth she lived on, and not really heaven, as it seemed, because of Lee. Lee, who was tall and lean, with intent blue eyes, and delightfully unruly hair. Lee, who loved her and treasured the secret of their engagement. Lee, who was so sweet about wanting to present her to the family as a beautiful surprise after Commencement. Not even his adored older brother had been let in on the secret.

Then, with Commencement still three weeks away, it happened. Just after Lee passed the final examinations for his doctor's degree, he was offered an extraordinary chance to do the very research work that he most wanted—a unique chance for "an unmarried man, prepared to devote at least five years to the project."

Carolyn remembered how honorable Lee had been in breaking the news to her. He might have let their engagement continue, he told her; he might have kept on seeing her, deceiving her about their prospects for marriage, putting it off, or promising to marry her at the end of the five years. But he did not consider that the right thing to do. No, it was only the part of a gentleman to tell her that it was best to break off. She was not to feel hurt, there was no other girl, just his career. He put anguish into Carolyn's heart, but managed somehow to impress her with the difficulty of his own part in the scene. Even in the pain and shock of losing him, Carolyn told herself that Lee was the finest person she had ever known.

That belief had never left her. Three years later she married Jefferson Taylor, a big, broad Westerner, done in shades of brown. She sometimes felt a slight disdain for Jeff's substantial size, remembering Lee's aristocratic slenderness, but she repressed the thought. Lots of fun, Jeff was, and with a practical mind for business that made them enough money to enjoy a pleasantly luxurious life. She loved Jeff, of course. But there was a part of herself that she withheld, one section of her heart and mind walled off, that would always belong to Lee.

She never spoke to Jeff of this reservation. Only in secret did Carolyn now and then open the door on that precious might-have-been part of her, and take it out to dream over.

But today, as she looked at her delightful self in the mirror, it was not to dream; it was with a plan for action. She was back in New York after an absence of two years. Nearly every Spring since her marriage, she had made the trip, and had always stopped off for a brief visit in her old college town. This time she was planning to follow the same course, but with what a difference! One of her old school friends had written her last year that Lee Towne had returned to their alma mater to direct the research work there. So Lee was back and Carolyn was going to see him. Accidentally, of course. She had it all planned. There would be a casual drifting about the campus in her flattering new Spring suit, lingering over a table in Crofton House, where everybody dropped in at tea time. Then when Lee appeared—Carolyn had this part rehearsed in her mind—she would give just the right look of pleased surprise, just the right degree of invitation to remember. Lee would see what she had missed all these years. What would happen after they met—what did she want to happen? That Carolyn did not quite know, and she stopped short of trying to decide. This was to be an adventure.

The adventure proceeded as if acted from a well prepared script. Carolyn chanced into Crofton House at tea time. Two men at a nearby table stared at her with obvious admiration; they were younger faculty members that she did not know. Then, somehow, without the fanfare of trumpets that would have seemed fitting to her, there was Lee in the doorway. Without glancing around, he went to a table straight ahead. He passed so near to Carolyn that she could have stopped him with a word, but she did not speak it. This was the Lee whom she had treasured in her heart for eleven years! Lee, still tall, but with a hollow-cheeked look. Lee, his blue eyes intent now only with a near-sighted, peering expression; his hair no longer unruly, because there was not enough of it to be, just some wisps "borrowed" from one side to cover a bald spot. And it was obvious that for all he saw of the life humming around him, he might have had his eye bent to a microscope as he walked.

Carolyn sat and stared, helpless to force her gaze away from this changed Lee. What of the distinguished gray at the temples, the impressive look of the scientist that she had pictured! The men at the next table were noticing her concentrated gaze; she finally forced herself to look away. The next minute, with no more poise than a school girl, she jumped up and hurried away into the next wing of the building to the telegraph blanks. "Leaving for home tonight instead of next week," she began to write. There was something reassuring about the thought of Jeff's bulk; she was glad that her husband was such a substantial person in every way. Such nice, thick hair, too, and straight shoulders. She had never been as sweet to him as he deserved, but she would make it up from now on. Why, he was the finest person that she had ever known!

Back at their table, the two curious young men continued to speculate after they had watched Carolyn rush from the room. "Did you see her staring at Johnny Towne as if she were fascinated? If it had been Lee, now, you could understand it—he's a handsome devil."

Personality knows no age limits, and a developed personality can go on with undimmed lustre as long as life endures. Indeed, the full fruition of a personality seldom comes much before middle-age or older, because it is a long time in building and each successive day adds a bit of charm.

Women famed for their beauty are seldom the very young. Quite often as not they have passed middle-age. Frequently they will be what the world calls old. Consider Ninon L'Enclos, perhaps the most beautiful and charming woman of history. She was unmarried until she was fifty, yet at eighty she was still sought after by rich and fashionable gentlemen, who could have taken their pick of the court beauties. It wasn't her youth that gave L'Enclos charm. It was her ageless personality. But perhaps the crowning achievement of personality in a woman is the career of Elizabeth Browning, wife of the English poet. Elizabeth was an invalid from childhood, bed-ridden, but illness couldn't quench her spirit nor rob her of her beauty, and the long hours she spent in solitude had enabled her to develop something into her personality that made her irresistibly beautiful. Then came young Robert Browning, six years her junior, to fall madly in love with her, and she with him. She was bed-ridden, mind you, but she arose from her sick bed and they eloped into the night and were married.

For sixteen years they passed a life of unbelievable happiness together. And when she died, at the age of 56, with her head on her husband's arm, he wrote the next day that her face was the face of a young girl.

Step by step through the quiet years personality develops. And it is never too late to start or to create one out of what you have, out of what you are. That is the fascinating thing.

Unlike modern cities of today, London was laid out no specific plan, rather it grew this way and that, through the centuries, when the green fields and country lanes developed into built-up areas and became the hub of the universe it is today.

In general, the city rests upon a foundation of clay, gravel and sand, consequently buildings are not high and the underground or subway transport system is carved out deeply below the surface. The city's site is flat, and the ground rarely rises above 400 feet.

First records of existence of London date back to the first century A.D. following the Roman occupation of Britain. The name itself is not Roman, but Celtic. The Saxons and Danes took over upon the evacuation of Britain of the Roman legions. Then after centuries of raids and warlike invasions by Scandinavian hordes, Norman London emerged under the aegis of William the Conqueror.

Like modern cities of today, London was laid out no specific plan, rather it grew this way and that, through the centuries, when the green fields and country lanes developed into built-up areas and became the hub of the universe it is today.

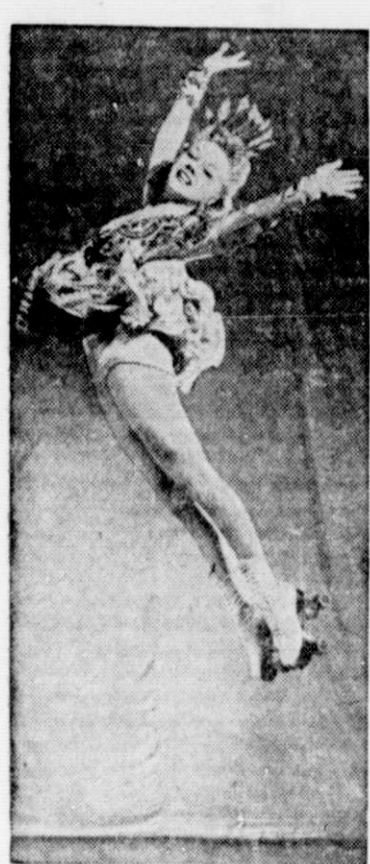

HOW IT STARTED
BLACK MARKET—This wartime expression originated in Germany in 1917. German farmers, dissatisfied with price ceilings, slaughtered animals at night and sold meat through illegal channels. Hence the terms black slaughtering and black market.
TAMBUK—This word comes from the little North African town of Tarija, near Tangiers, where about a century ago ships had to pass the town.
KNOCKING ON WOOD—The origin of this superstitious custom dates back to the time primitive man touched wood to apologize to the gods for a lack of humility.

Scent of Skunk May Cause Blindness or Even Death
The skunk's scent is quite poisonous. It chokes dogs and other animals, and the inhalation of a small dose of it weakens the heart action and slows up the pulse, while a large dose might cause unconsciousness. Skunk scent causes inflammation of the eyes and perhaps permanent blindness. There is even one case of a boy who was killed by skunk scent.

From Fisher Styling to Knee-Action Comfort
BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST is yours only in Chevrolet!

STUDY THE STYLING!

What a beauty leader this car is! Trim as a yacht in line and contour—luxurious as a drawing room in upholstery and appointments! The body is a Fisher body—exclusive to Chevrolet in the lowest-price field.

REVEL IN THIS RIDE!

Just settle down in the form-fitting seat cushions—and relax! Travel over any road—from boulevard to by-way—is made smoother, steadier, safer by the Utilized Knee-Action Ride—another advantage found only in Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

TEST THESE THRILLS!

You're master of every motoring situation when you own a new Chevrolet. You have power, getaway, dependability, in extra measure, for Chevrolet's proved Valve-in-Head Engine has delivered more miles, for more owners, over a longer period, than any other engine built today.

CHEVROLET

INSIST ON SAFETY!

You have every right to demand the highest degree of motoring safety for your family; and you get it with Chevrolet's Uniflex Body by Fisher, Knee-Action Ride and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes—features combined only in Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

Be sure your car is ready for winter! Bring it to us for service and let us get it ready for the bad-weather days ahead.
