

Legion Tops Hartford in Lakes Opener, 67-50

The Kewaskum Legion, defending champions in the Lakes Opener, 1947-48 season, which started the 1947-48 season when they left off last year, trouncing the Hartford Mueller Electric, 67 to 50, in the opening game here Sunday night before a large crowd of fans. In the first game of the evening, the Kewaskum Rivers five lost a closely contested encounter to the Hartford River cagers, 54 to 30.

Faced by Wayland Tessar and Honck, who tied for high scoring honors with 20 points apiece, the Legion led Hartford throughout the contest. Tessar was mainly responsible for Kewaskum's margin in the first half, dropping in 16 points with left handed hook shots. The Legion was ahead at the half way mark, 22-21.

Although the big Hartford team had a great height advantage over the relatively small Kewaskum club, the Legion's speed and deception was more than they could keep pace with. Kewaskum, with frequent substituting, wore their opponents down. Due praise must be given Allen Tessar and Augie Bilgo for their stellar work in grabbing off rebounds under the Hartford basket from the lanky visitors. Bilgo is up from last year's championship high school team. R. Wenzel and Black did most of the scoring for the Mueblers, each accounting for 15 points.

The Rivers team was ahead of Hartford all during the first half but bogged down late in the game and their opponents, with a scoring burst, caught and passed them in the last period to win by four points. Jim Smith, netting 11 points, paced the victors while "Daisy" Backhaus, scoring 10, did best for the losers.

The lineups and points scored: Kewaskum—Tessar, forward, 5; Bob Schmidt, forward, 1; Schaub, forward, 4; D. Backhaus, center, 10; Geidel, guard, 4; C. Stantz, guard, 4; Hafemann, guard, 0. Hartford—Jim Smith, 11; Wendorf, 12; Lindert, 7; L. Bomanen, 2; Fleischman, 2; Black, 0; Bayer, 0; Spiel, 0; R. Buchanan, 0; Funk, 0; John Smith, 2.

High School Cagers Lose Opening Games to Falls

Hampered by the loss of players from last year's team and lacking in height, the Kewaskum high school basketball team lost the two opening games of the season. Both were non-conference encounters against a big, veteran Sheboygan Falls team. The Falls easily won last Friday there, 50 to 24, but was given a little more opposition at Kewaskum Tuesday evening. But a Falls rally in the last quarter allowed them to win handily, 45 to 29.

The locals, while they are defending champions in the Fox Valley Tri-County, are generally considered to be underdogs this season with such teams as Rosendale, Lomira and Brandon rated higher. The conference season opens next Friday when the Indians play at Rosendale in the opening conference game for both.

Following were the lineups in Tuesday's contest here:

Cancer Drive Continues; Expect to Exceed Quota

The Washington County Cancer committee's drive for funds to combat the dreaded disease is continuing. D. J. Kenny, West Bend, general chairman of the committee, disclosed this week.

While responses have been generous and there is every indication the drive will exceed the county's quota, the chairman appealed to those who have not yet sent in their contributions to do so as soon as possible in order that the campaign may reach an early conclusion.

Kenny reiterated the drive is being conducted entirely by mail, and urged those who have not contributed to date to mail their donations to their respective unit chairmen or to him at county headquarters in West Bend. An average of $2 per family is being asked, he pointed out.

The chairman emphasized that the more money that is contributed the better able will be the American Cancer society to combat the disease through actual treatment of patients and by research and education. He reminded the public that the Washington county committee is a unit of the American Cancer society.

The bronze plaque was awarded for retaining the highest percentage of renewals of members of any county farm bureau in the state—84%.

The radio was awarded to Leroy Belke for reaching his county quota of members and retaining that quota of members. The quota was set at 500 and the membership is 521.

Tom Zuern, son of Frank J. Zuern of Hartford, and Miss Sylvia Matenaar, daughter of Joe Matenaar of Myra, were guests of Washington County Farm bureau at the Madison meeting in recognition for outstanding F.F.A. and 4-H club work.

Many Deer Hunters Begin Returning From North Woods

Large numbers of hunters from this vicinity were among the many thousands of deer hunters who were out in the north woods when the season officially opened last Saturday morning. Many of the hunters returned home while others were still in the woods at this writing. The season extends until this week end.

Indications were that the hunting, aided by snow which made tracking easier, was very good. Numerous autos have been seen passing through Kewaskum ever since Saturday with deer, bear and foxes tied on them. Before that the deer came through from Michigan and even earlier some were bagged during the bow and arrow season.

Up to Thanksgiving day, we had heard of about a dozen hunters who were members of local parties that returned with deer. Because a lot of hunters were still up north and because of the very many men who were hunting this year, it is not possible to give a full and accurate report of them. But the following are some of the reports we picked up:

One of the earliest kills reported was that of Charles Stracka of Kewaskum. He had his deer by 9:30 Saturday morning. It took his son, Charles Jr., a bit longer to bag his buck but when he did he shot a bigger one than his father.

Albert Sommerfeld and John H. Martin hunted in the vicinity of Norwalk, where the former also visited relatives. One member of their group succeeded in getting a deer.

Dr. Leo Brauchle, in company with Leo Vyvyan of Wauwatosa, have returned from hunting around Wabeno. Both were successful in shooting deer.

Willard Prost is hunting with a party of men from Campbellsport at Mercey.

Another party included Loran Backhaus, John Mueckerheid, Otto Backhaus, Herbert Backhaus, Rolfe Sonn, Ivan Buss and Roger Schliefl. We are told they returned with one deer.

Lawrence Wallenfels and Miles Mueckerheid hunted with a party of other men from out of town. It is reported that they returned with three deer among them.

Charles Klumb of West Bend and Armond Schaefer were seen back in town Tuesday with one buck which we hear the former shot.

Arno Garbisch hunted with Charles Narges and a party of others from around Wauwatosa. They returned home Wednesday but we have not learned of their fortune.

K. A. Honeck Sr. and friend from Plymouth hunted together and we noticed Killy was back in town Thursday with a big buck.

Jac. Koenen was among the first hunters to return with a deer but we haven't learned what luck the other members of the party had.

We are told that some of the other hunters included Dr. R. G. Edwards and sons, John McElhatton, Wallace Geidel, some of the officials of the Kewaskum Utensil company and many others.

We'd like to hear from the hunters and learn of their luck. Any hunters not mentioned in the above list or who can furnish us with more complete information are asked to let us know about it so that we can give a more detailed report next week.

Sterr was the lone unanimous choice and therefore was named honorary captain of the all-star team.

Good Markets Exist for Owners of Farm Woodlots

As many woodlot owners are now preparing for their winter cutting of fuelwood and logs, it should be brought to their attention that several good markets exist for their products within a reasonable hauling distance from the woodlot.

In the past and even at the present, woodlot owners do not realize that a very good return on their investment can be had by cutting trees for veneer and timber products, instead of fuelwood as has been the prevailing practice in the farm woodlot areas.

Due to the rapid depletion of forest resources in the timber producing regions of the country, many wood using industries are becoming more and more dependent upon the small woodlot owner for his source of raw material. The farm woodlot is fast coming into its own as an important part of our forest economy. The owner who now manages his woodlot at its optimum growing capacity will reap liberal benefits in the future.

The long winter months is an ideal time for the woodlot owner to plan and begin carrying out these plans. On the management of his wooded lands. A few of the operations which can be carried out the first year are: the removal of wolf and cull trees, fencing of the woodlot to prevent grazing, planning of the spring planting program, maybe a thinning is necessary or other cultural operations to improve the complexity of his woodlot.

For those who intend to conduct a full scale logging operation it is advisable to inquire into the various markets for timber products. Before cutting operations begin a clear understanding of minimum diameters and lengths should be had. This knowledge may often mean the difference between a profit or a loss. It is strongly urged that the woodlot owner draw up between him and the buyer of his products a contract setting forth the number of board feet to be sold, the agreed price and other conditions affecting this transaction. This is to protect the buyer or the seller from unscrupulous dealers.

Any woodlot owner wishing information as to markets, cutting operations, forest management, timber marking, scaling, or grading can secure this by writing or contacting the district forester, Adrian J. De Vriend, R. 2, Campbellsport, or the county agent of his respective county. Also many good bulletins on the various phases of woodland management are available at either office.

Community committeemen will be chosen at each election meeting and each community will elect a delegate to attend the county convention at which the county committee will be chosen, Mr. Lepien said.

The strength of the farm program depends on farmer administration in Mr. Lepien's opinion. The chairman stated, "The farm program can be made stronger if every eligible farmer will vote in the coming elections and take an interest throughout the year in the development of the program."

"This year with so many problems facing the farmer it is doubly important that farmers express their choice as to which of their numbers they wish to have administer their program."

STATE HORTICULTURE SOCIETY
ELECTS SKALISKEY TO BOARD

At the annual convention of the state Horticulture society held at Fond du Lac last week County Agent E. E. Skaliskey was elected as a director from the Southeastern Wisconsin district.

Highlighting the two day session was a discussion on fruit growing in Michigan which was given by H. B. Tukey of the Michigan State college. Orchard spraying experiments carried out during the past year by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture favor the use of DDT as the insecticide. Lime sulphur will continue to be used as the leading insecticide. But in commercial orchards where experienced operators apply the spray, the more mild forms of sulphur will largely replace lime sulphur.

Pigeons Were World's First Air Mail Pilots

Pigeons carried messages in ancient times, beginning in the days of Cyrus, the Persian king (about 550 B. C.). But it is not generally known that they pioneered the world's first regular air mail services.

It began in November, 1897, when the Great Barrier Pigeon-gram Service established a regular air mail route between Auckland, New Zealand, and Great Barrier Island, 65 miles to the north-west across a tempestuous strait. A year later the New Zealand Government authorized the issue of special postage stamps for use on this pigeon mail.

In September, 1939, the service was extended to Marotiri and Hen and Chicken Islands. A rival service, known as the Great Barrier

Pigeongram Agency, began operations in the latter year. Both companies continued to carry mail by pigeon post over these routes until the opening of the New Zealand cable in 1903.

Letters flown on this pioneer air service were written on sheets of tissue-thin paper, folded in such a manner that they could be sealed with the postage stamp itself.

CHOICE of CHAMPIONS

IN ALL THREE 1947 NATIONAL PLOWING MATCHES

GENE FERGUSON, Oskaloosa, Iowa
Open Class Contour Winner, Webster City, Iowa

CHAMPION Plowmen know that the performance of their tractor tires can "make" or "break" them in a plowing match. They must have tires that take hold and pull—on soft ground—on hard ground—on sod—on stubble. They must have tires that take a full, clean bite, a center bite—tires that plow right through under all conditions.

That's why winners in the three big national matches this fall (Big Rock, Wheatland, Illinois and Webster City, Iowa), plowed on Firestone Tires. They, like most other contestants in these big events, could not afford to gamble with a "broken center" tire that might let them down by clogging up with trash, slipping and spinning.

Firestone Champion Ground Grips will perform for you on every job just like they perform for champion plowmen. They will always take you through. And they will take you through faster, without slipping. That means time and money saved.

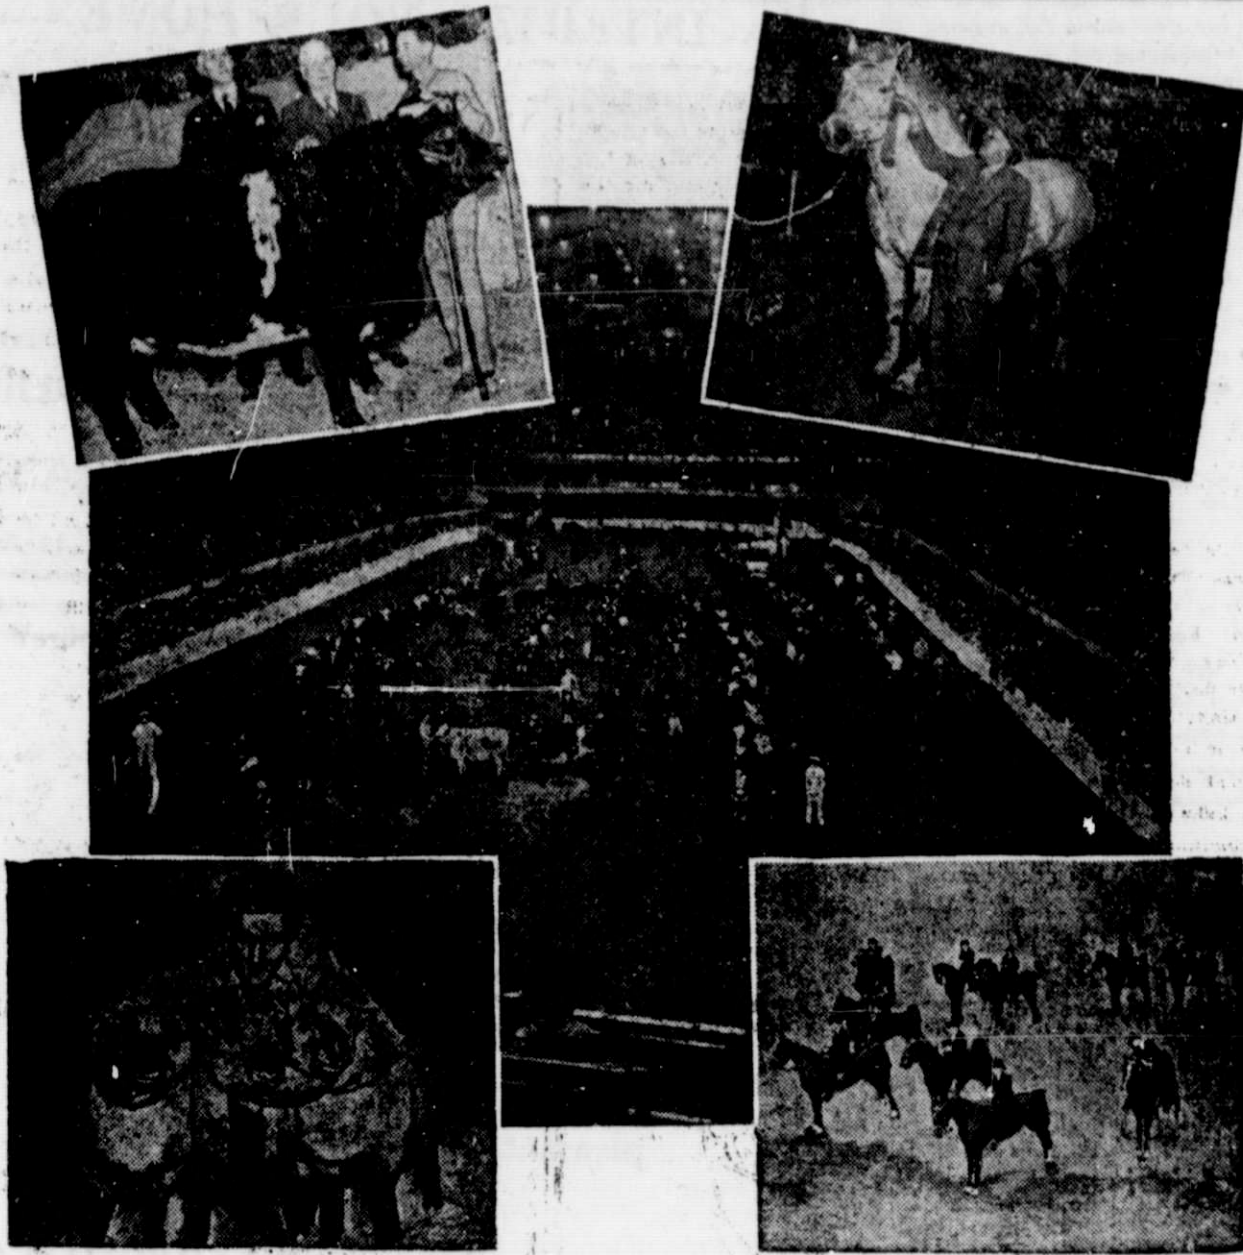

Specify Firestone Champions when you order a new tractor or when you buy replacements for your present tractor. See your nearest Firestone Dealer or Store today.

'SUPREME COURT' OF SHOW WORLD Prize Livestock of Continent To Compete in International

WNU Features.

CHICAGO.—Climaxing the nation's agricultural show season, the 48th annual International Live Stock exposition, generally heralded as the "supreme court" of all livestock shows, will open in the huge International amphitheater November 29.

The 1947 edition of the world famous show, which will continue through December 6, has the largest entry list of prize livestock in its history. Entries are listed from every state in the Union and all provinces of Canada.

Preparations are being made to house about 15,000 animals, most of which have been top prize winners at state fairs and other livestock shows held throughout the nation this fall. They will compete here for prize money totaling $100,000 and, as generally is conceded more important among the livestock fraternity, for the unequalled honors which accompany victories in the international.

The distribution of awards last season indicates the extent to which the continent sends its best to compete for international awards. Thirty states and three Canadian provinces were represented in championships and first prize money. Illinois led all states in the number of awards, with 46 championships and 140 first awards. Indiana ranked second, with 47 championships and 60 firsts. Following in close order were Ohio, Iowa and Michigan.

Attracts Record Crowd.

A record crowd of 435,000 city and farm folk pushed through the turnstiles to view the five million dollar display of the finest livestock in North America.

Inaugurated as a proving ground for superior livestock types and a many-sided demonstration of improved methods of farming, the International Live Stock exposition during the 47 years of its existence has had a tremendous influence on the welfare of the rank and file of American farmers and has encouraged agricultural progress in many ways through the years.

To accommodate the increasingly large entry list, the six acres of exhibit area in the International amphitheater will be expanded by approximately 16,000 square feet this year. A four-story addition to the building has been constructed during the past summer.

Approximately 1,400 farm youth from every state, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Alaska and Canada will attend the exposition. They will participate in contests and demonstrations of the National 4-H club congress, which will be held for the 26th time this year in connection with the international.

Demonstrate Skill.

Prize winning displays of clothing, home decorating, cooking and canning will line the walls of the large 4-H building, constituting a convincing demonstration of the homemaking skill of the future generation of farm women.

The annual 4-H club parade, held in conjunction with the Wednesday night horse show, is considered one of the most impressive features of the exposition.

Girls as well as boys are active in livestock raising. This year several hundred farm boys and girls will exhibit baby beaves, lambs and pigs in a contest limited to the participation of exhibitors between the ages of 10 and 20. The event, known as the junior livestock feeding contest, will be held on the opening day. The top prize winners in junior classes are admitted to the open competition. In past years, junior entries have been serious contenders for highest honors of the show in competition with those fitted and shown by professional talent, and on six occasions in recent years the grand champion steer of the show has been exhibited by farm boys and girls.

Addresses by nationally prominent speakers, educational tours, discussion meetings, banquets, recreational events and entertainment attractions also are on the calendar for the 4-H club congress.

Unique Experience.

For the boys and girls who attend there are a lot of "firsts"—first trip away from home, first train ride and hotel stay, first big banquet and similar novel experiences throughout the week.

They learn to know customs and habits of people from other sections of the country, to know that as 4-H'ers they're doing an adult's work, and doing it well. They learn that industry and agriculture have common interests, that they can advance together by working together. Best of all, they learn that farming and homemaking are pursuits of which they can be proud, and that America is looking to the farm for many of her future leaders.

This year 4-H boys and girls as well as stockmen must keep track of the age of the steers they show at the international, as entries will be classified according to age rather than weight. The change is designed to give showmen credit for fast gains and "weight for age," which are important in figuring profits.

Cattle Predominate.

Nearly half of the total entry of the 1947 show will consist of cattle. The three important breeds of cattle which supply the bulk of the nation's best beef—the Hereford, black Aberdeen-Angus and the red, white and roan Shorthorns—will be represented in the largest exhibition of purebred cattle ever held at any show on the continent.

More than a thousand sheep, representative of the 11 breeds which yield most of the country's wool, lamb and mutton, will be on display. Exhibits also will include several different breeds of swine and more than a thousand horses.

A majority of the animals shown in the cattle, sheep and swine departments are disposed of at auctions held before the show closes. Total sales on animals exhibited last year amounted to $1,826,597, with all classes bringing record-shattering prices. Carlot sales illustrate the price trend last season. Fat cattle brought $41.75 per hundredweight, compared to $15.62 at the 1941 international; hogs, $27 a hundred, against a 1941 price of $11.04, and sheep, $29.78, compared to $13.71 in 1941.

Mother of Six Becomes Trail Rider in Rugged Mountains

PUEBLO, COLO.—Climaxing her summer work as a mountain trail guide, Mrs. G. L. Bogard, 50-year-old mother of six, rode horseback some 150 miles on a circuitous route along the Baileys, Colo., to Pueblo. A trail rider in the best western tradition, Mrs. Bogard plans new wild west adventures next year. The six-day journey capped Mrs. Bogard's realization of a life-long dream—guiding eastern dudes on pack trips in the rugged Rocky mountain area near Bailey. After the season closed, Mrs. Bogard tossed a bedroll on Corky, her white horse, and set out for home on back trails mapped for her by forest rangers. She passed through virgin expanses of the Rocky mountain backbone of America. Some areas were so isolated that deer, antelope, bear, wolves, coyotes and wild fowl were undisturbed by her presence.

An all-time exposition high was established for the grand champion steer, Royal Jupiter, a 1,370-pound animal shown by Oklahoma A. and M. college. The prize animal brought $10.50 per pound. The 1941 price was $3.30 a pound.

Youths Share Money.

A large share of returns from the auction went to junior feeders. The champion steer of the junior classes, raised by an Iowa farm girl, was sold for $4.50 per pound. The grand champion wether lamb brought $5 a pound to its 16-year-old owner. The junior champion barrow netted $1.60 a pound.

As the result of a misunderstanding, the prize swine carcasses were sold twice last year. The first auction was upset when John Rupnick, a "city feller" from Chicago, bought all the swine, thinking the prices being quoted were for the entire carcass instead of by the pound. When they were sold, the six carcasses brought $411.02 instead of the $2,022.50 Rupnick bid in his innocence of the proceedings.

The 1947 show marks the 25th anniversary of the International Grain and Hay show which, although a department of the livestock exposition, is in itself the world's largest annual competitive exhibit of farm crops. Nearly every agricultural area of the world has been represented in recent years. Many of the top stables in this country and Canada will exhibit their top riding and driving horses and ponies in the horse show. Thirteen performances are scheduled during the week.

Range Detectives Still Riding Herd On Cattle Thieves

BEAUMONT, TEX.—One of the few carryovers from the days of the Old West, cattle thievery still represents a major problem for cattlemen and Texas Rangers, whose vigilance never relaxes. Lean and lanky Texans of sturdy pioneer stock made their own law back in 1877 at Graham, Tex., when they organized the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association to wage war on rustlers who were running off thousands of cattle each year.

Between 1883 and 1892, the special officers and inspectors of the association recovered 11,668 head of cattle valued at more than $185,939. Between 1913 and 1933, almost 40,000 cattle were recovered, with a valuation of more than $1,873,200. Recoveries are declining, not because rustlers are less cunning, but because the association never has relaxed its relentless campaign to help its 6,000 members.

In the four years from 1943 to 1947, there were only 4,488 cattle recovered. They represented $339,489 worth of beef on the hoof.

It's hard for rustlers to dispose of stolen cattle even though there are more than 500,000 brands on record. Watchful inspectors are stationed at Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Lubbock and Texarkana. These men see every shipment of cattle going in and out of these cattle centers. Association men also are stationed at stockyards in other states.

Although she became lost one day, Mrs. Bogard found her route again after spending the night in a remote rocky canyon. Lake George, Cripple creek and Canon City were among the stopover places on her horseback ride.

Mrs. Bogard's two unmarried children, Gus and Nina, maintained the family home at Pueblo for their father, a railroad man, while their mother was "hitting the trail."

Plan on Baking Holiday Sweets Well in Advance

Peanut bars are easy to make and easy to serve. They are ideal for snack fare for the youngsters, as well as family get-togethers during the holidays.

It won't be long now before the holidays are with us, and that means the children will be home with their constant demands on the cookie jar. It means, too, there will be plenty of entertaining, perhaps not of the elaborate variety, but evenings in front of the cozy warmth of the fireplace, when there should be a simple cookie or cake to serve. Wise cooks will plan to do a lot of their holiday baking early. Some of the cookies and confections can be made early, and they will taste so much the better for it. Then, too, most women like to make such things as pudding and fruit cake before the holidays so as to relieve the strain on the kitchen later on.

If you're making fruit cake or pudding, chop the fruits the day before and prepare your molds. Then the making of the recipe will be easy and there is less chance for error.

English Plum Pudding.
1/2 pound butter
1 pound light brown sugar
5 eggs
1 pint milk
1 pound fine bread crumbs
1 glass grape juice
1 1/2 pounds raisins, floured
2 pounds currants
1/2 pound citron
1 ground nutmeg

Cream the butter and sugar, add beaten eggs, milk, bread crumbs, grape juice, raisins, currants, finely sliced citron and spice. Steam in a buttered mold for five hours.

Have you ever made your fruit cake in little fluted paper cases for individual servings? It's really very easy and saves on baking time.

Small Fruit Cakes (Dark).
1 1/2 cups butter
2 cups dark brown sugar
8 eggs, beaten light
3 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon each of cloves, allspice and cinnamon
1 1/2 pounds raisins
1 1/2 pounds currants
1/2 pound citron, sliced thin
1/2 cup melted grape or currant jelly

Cream butter, add sugar and cream until light. Beat the eggs until frothy and add to the butter and sugar. Sift the flour and spices over the cut-up raisins, currants and citron and mix well. Beat into the other mixture; add the melted jelly. Fill small paper cases and bake in a slow oven for about 30 minutes.

Small Fruit Cakes (Light).
1/2 pound butter
1 pound sugar
12 eggs
1 scant pound flour
1 to 1 1/2 pounds grated coconut
1 pound citron, sliced fine
1 pound blanched, sliced almonds
1 pound raisins, cut fine
1 pound candied pineapple, sliced fine
1/2 pound candied cherries, sliced fine

1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 teaspoon mace
Proceed as in recipe above. Both children and adults like fruit cakes, and there's nothing better or easier than to include them in a bar type of cookie made delicious with brown sugar.

LYNN SAYS:

Flavor Tricks Improve Simple Dishes

Scramble eggs with some tomato soup from a can. It's different and very delicious.

When you make that chocolate pudding, the children will like it even more if you pour a little of the pudding in the cup, add a layer of crushed peppermint candy, a layer of pudding, a candy layer and then more pudding.

Bran muffins will be pretty special if you add a crushed banana to the batter.

Apples are in generous supply this year. Fry them and add a bit of molasses. Serve with pork chops.

Leftover ham? Scallop it with rice and mushroom soup the next time and win praise from the family.

Whipped cream with a bit of molasses makes an excellent topping for spice cakes or banana cake.

Add chopped green peppers to salad dressing when you serve on vegetable salad. It's a flavor treat.

MILK PRODUCTION

Milk production costs must be cut. Prices that farmers got for milk after the first world war didn't keep pace with the prices farmers had to pay for things they bought, say farm economists at the University of Wisconsin. In fact, prices paid by farmers were high compared to those received from two years after World War I until the war just past. It's likely to happen again. Here are some things that dairy farmers can do about it right now:

1. Cut out all the low producers. Dairy specialists are advising Wisconsin farmers to cull their herds to keep only cows averaging 225 pounds or more butterfat per year. A cow with a 200 pound fat average actually owed her owner $26 in 1944.
2. Keep only heifer calves from high producing cows. Also, make sure that

AREA MEETING ON SOIL IMPROVEMENT HELD

About twenty-five county agricultural agents, farm leaders and soil specialists met in the demonstration room of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric company building to hear soil specialists from the College of Agriculture report on the newer findings of soil physics, chemistry and fertilization principles. Speakers were Kenneth Berger, and R. J. Muckenhirn, soil research specialists.

Among the highlights brought out in the discussions was that lime need not be applied to soils in southeastern Wisconsin unless the soil definitely shows acidity. Many farmers do not need to lime their fields and would get more benefit by applying either phosphate or potash or both of these two essential plant food elements. Most soils are deficient in boron for best alfalfa production, especially for the second cutting. Most soils have sufficient boron for growing the first cutting but fall short of supplying the alfalfa crop with ample boron for the later cuttings. Boron can be applied either in the autumn or in the spring at the rate of forty pounds of borax broadcasted per acre. It can be purchased from firms handling commercial fertilizers. Boron deficiency causes a stunting effect on the top growing parts of the alfalfa plants, a dropping off of the flowers, and a yellowing of the upper leaf branches of the main stalk.

Commercial fertilizers containing nitrogen can best be applied in the spring as late autumn applications often result in the loss of nitrogen.

Agricultural economists say that high food prices this fall and winter will tend to keep up the demand for eggs.

Congress Tackles Labyrinthine Job

Marshall Plan Complexities Involve Vast Field of Work

WASHINGTON.—There never was a better example of the difficulties encountered in a democratic government than those which are being faced as the specially-called short session of the 80th congress carries on its debate today.

I doubt if any parliamentary body in the world, of any despotic ruler, for that matter, ever faced a problem more complicated in detail, wider in its scope, or more important in its potential results than the Marshall program for aiding Europe.

Since the idea of the Marshall plan was first broached, I have had opportunity to gain a few short but very intimate glimpses into the machinery which contributed to its completion. Some of us, for example, recently were given a very condensed and revealing personal account of the last, long, earnest sessions in Washington where the representatives of the 16 European countries sat down in the state department to carry on their daily, and sometimes nightly, seminars with the representatives of our government.

These discussions went through three phases. The first phase was the careful expansion of details lacking in the formal report drawn up by the Paris conference.

You would be surprised at the number and scope of those details, many of which had to await special memoranda from technical experts in the countries involved. For instance, we can imagine a conversation something like this: "Just a moment," one of the American officials says, with his pencil poised over the pad in front of him. "You say that it will be impossible to increase the output of the mines in Country X without additional mining machinery. You gave us the figures for the total equipment estimated, but I wish you would describe specifically the types and the quantity you need."

If the foreign expert had the statistics with him, they were checked, and the discussion of that particular item ended. If not, the next point was taken up, awaiting the detailed figures which had to be cabled from Country X.

However, that phase was concluded without any serious casualties. In fact, I understand it gradually blended into the third phase, which was a two-sided discussion, bringing out exactly how the Paris report was formulated. Whether, for instance, it was a synthetic combination of various separate viewpoints and separate plans, or whether the parts were fitted together with due relation to each other so that they could be taken apart and put together again. The Americans took it apart and, we were told, it went together all right.

As I say, this was a two-sided discussion, and I understand that it developed a common appraisal of the plan. In other words, when it was completed, either American criticism had been satisfied, or the European viewpoint had been sufficiently altered to achieve harmonious agreement.

In seeing forth their views, certain "main factors" were emphasized by the Europeans. In the first place, in normal times, Western Europe traditionally imported more goods from the western hemisphere than they exported to us. However, this imbalance was compensated for by the trade between the Far East and Western Europe. This trade furnished Western Europe with sufficient dollars to make up part of the difference.

Secondly, in normal times, particularly in the case of Great Britain, there was the factor of "invisible income." This "invisible income" was made up, in part, of investments held by individual Britons and the British government, and of the income in commissions and other names earned as a clearing-house of merchandise, through the use of shipping facilities and many other services which it was convenient and practical for European nations to provide for the world. But this "invisible income" has largely disappeared now.

We asked one of the European representatives what had happened to it. The partial answer of course, was obvious: With world trade at a standstill, many of the services no longer are being provided. And as to the personal holdings, one European representative said: "Before the war, I owned 100 shares of A. T. & T., and 20 shares of General Motors. But they had to go long before the war was over—the interruption of my earning power, high taxes and so on." Still another important factor is the consideration of the normal trade which formerly existed between Eastern and Western Europe. It was interesting to note at this point, that considerable optimism was expressed by the Europeans

NEWS REVIEW Aid Deadline Requested; U. S. Corn Yield Down

December 1. Apparently feeling that congressional approval of his request for $97 million dollars in stop-gap aid for France, Italy and Austria was assured, U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall sounded a new keynote—speed.

He suggested to the house foreign affairs committee that a deadline of December 1 be established for emergency relief to the three hard-pressed nations, and looked ahead to an early March deadline for his four-year, 20-billion-dollar plan for eventual European recovery.

State department witnesses backed up Marshall's plea for speed. They testified present funds would carry France and Italy only through December, beyond which looms the brink of chaos and confusion—political, moral and economic—unless additional help is rushed across the sea.

Also testifying before the house foreign group, Lewis Douglas, U. S. ambassador to England, offered a brief, pointed summary of the whole issue of immediate foreign aid: There can be no guarantee that the aid program will succeed, but it would be more risky to deny Europe financial help and watch despair and pandemonium spread across the continent.

Finally, it was the opinion of Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman that emergency European relief "can be substantially met," despite supply problems in this country.

China, Too Virtually forgotten under the press of urgent affairs in Europe is the problem of China—ravaged, still contorted in war, constantly backsliding into greater political and economic corruption.

As a modicum of aid and comfort to that Eastern nation, Secretary Marshall has proposed a 300-million-dollar aid program to be administered in conjunction with the European phase of the Marshall plan.

At the same time, Marshall held in his hand that the suppressed report of Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer on conditions in China would not be made public. He intimated that it drew such a dismal picture that to release the report would be harmful both to the U. S. and China.

CORN DOWN: Semi-Finals There was a smattering of bad news in the agriculture department's semi-final crop report of the year. It had to do with corn and winter wheat.

The 1947 U. S. corn crop now stands at an estimated 2,447,422,000 bushels, a decrease of 11,252,000 bushels from a forecast made a month ago. That is slightly below the 10-year (1936-45) average of 2,639,102,000, and far under last year's record yield of more than 3.2 billion bushels.

Hopes for another bumper wheat crop next year received a thorough dampening with the department's announcement that about 25 per cent of the intended winter wheat acreage in the important great plains

Wild Animals Put Bite on India

Do you pity the poor American pedestrian who figures to get his lumps from being booted in the derrriere by a rampaging motorist when he crosses the street? Think nothing of it. In India red-faced monkeys, savage tigers, wild elephants, prowling bears and poisonous snakes kill more than a million persons every year. Like the traffic menace in the United States, this situation at last has attracted the attention of the central and provincial governments in India. They have declared the monkeys which invade the Hindu city of Benares and bite pilgrim-worshippers to death "one of the greatest menaces of our time from the animal kingdom."

Although a handsome bounty is paid for every monkey's head—$10 for a male and $6 for a female—efforts to end the monkey menace are up against strong religious sentiment. Hindus consider the monkeys sacred. Yet, in Benares, children are being pushed from temple steps to their death by wild monkeys almost daily. Last year monkeys killed 107 persons there.

And there are other hazards which nature in the raw holds for the Indians. Wild elephants in the provinces of Assam, to the north, and Mysore, to the south, move in great groups, trampling villages, destroying crops and leaving behind a grim toll of human lives.

On the slopes of the Himalaya mountains black bears killed more than 3,000 persons in 1945 alone. Special anti-bear squads now have been organized to combat this terror. Just 100 miles from the great metropolis of Bombay, in western India, can be heard the chilling growl of the man-eating tiger. Every year 200,000 Indians fall prey to them. Most dreaded of all, however, is the hooded, glossy king cobra and its smaller brethren. There are an estimated 40 million snakes in India—one for every 10 human beings. And every year they kill 400,000 people. Civilization has quite a ways to go at that.

Veterans SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Newspaper through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions must be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Diplomas Made Available Some two million veterans whose secondary education (high school) was interrupted by the war may obtain high school diplomas by taking tests given at veterans' testing service agencies located in all parts of the country.

These agencies, organized by state departments of education in cooperation with the American council on education, are being established in or near every community with a VA regional office or guidance center. These tests, known as G.E.D. tests, measure a veteran's general educational development resulting from his experience and educational opportunities in the armed forces. They also take into account informal or self-educational experiences contributing to his development. Emphasis is on general information rather than specific facts.

In addition to obtaining high school diplomas, veterans also may apply for academic credits for individual subjects on the basis of military training, education or experience. Responsibility for awards rests entirely with the state or local educational institutions.

Q. Can you tell me why my brother has never received his discharge or his mustering-out pay? He was drafted August 18, 1942, and was discharged April 2, 1943. In the paper he got reads as follows: Discharged convenience of government to accept employment in essential war industry. I understand under such a discharge he is supposed to continue to draw a part of his base pay until such a time as he gets full discharge. Also, how can he get his mustering-out pay?—Mrs. J. B. B., Denison, Kas.

A. The discharge he received to enter war industry is his full discharge. Members of the armed services who were discharged at the convenience of the government to accept employment in essential war industry forfeited their mustering-out pay and are not entitled to it. He would be, however, entitled to some terminal leave pay. To collect terminal leave, send a photograph of his discharge for convenience to the Claims and Adjustment Branch, Department of the Army, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo. Give all details, full name and serial number.

Q. I am a veteran who was exempt from payment of federal income tax on military pay during my service. After discharge I claimed only those exemptions allowed every citizen. What I want to know is, is it true that veterans are allowed a greater exemption for a period of time after discharge on earned income, not including military pay? If so, how much exemption, how long is the period and to whom should I write to obtain a refund on payments made in excess of this exemption?—A. D. P., Houston, Tex.

A. No, you are entitled to no exemption other than that allowed to all civilians after you are discharged from the army, with the exception of tax on pensions or other benefits of the G.I. bill. As a matter of fact, all men in service must pay regular income tax if they receive a civilian income although they are still in service.

Q. Is it true that the government will pay premiums on national service life insurance policies?—O. L. L., Ensign, S. D.

A. Yes. Veterans' administration will pay dividends on all NSLI policies as soon as it completes the administrative work of computing the amount due to each veteran holding a policy. It is possible, Veterans' administration says, that it also will pay premiums on term insurance and on lapsed policies for the time they were in force.

Q. Can you please tell me if you have any information as to when the State of Wisconsin will pay its bonus to veterans? My husband reenlisted in the army and is stationed at Selfridge Field, Mich.—Mrs. K. P., Mt. Clemens, Mich.

A. Suggest you write direct to the treasurer or auditor of state at Madison, Wis., and he can give you detailed information as to the state law.

Q. Is there any way in which my son can obtain a copy of his service record or medical papers which he lost somewhere en route home at the time of his discharge?—Mrs. S. R. B., Spencer, La.

A. Suggest that you write to the Demobilized Records Branch, Office of the Adjutant General, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Missouri, for a copy of his records. Be sure to give his full name, serial number and all details of his enlistment or draft and his last address while in service.

Q. Can you give us any indication of how fast the government is releasing or discharging men in the armed forces at the present time?—Mrs. T. H. McG., Sedalia, Mo.

A. According to Veterans' administration, census of veterans of World War II at the end of August 1947, was 14,513,000. At the end of September the census totaled 14,555,000 indicating that 42,000 were discharged during the month of September 1947. Whether the rate of discharge for October was greater or less cannot be ascertained at this time.

THE FICTION CORNER

'THE BARGAIN'

By MRS. W. E. ABBOTT

Emma Haines wakened with difficulty from her early morning sleep. That noise! What was it? It was like water swirling rapidly down a drain. Her brain cleared, and she heaved her great bulk out of bed.

The outlay pig belonging to Ed Slattery was raiding her garden again. Probably wanted more of her prize watermelons. She'd show her! Hastily she thrust her feet into slippers, put a house dress over her nightgown, and started for the door.

There she was, the demon! She'd know that bony, stubborn figure anywhere. "Get out of there, you ornery creature!" Emma picked up the nearest stone and threw it with all her strength at the skinny sow.

The pig grunted and ran toward the hole under the garden fence, which she had prepared for herself. She squeezed her gaunt frame under the wire, grunting noisily. Emma threw another stone, and the sow trotted off down the road toward home.

Emma sputtered to Seth all during breakfast about the sow. "She's against everything I've ever seen in nature," complained Emma. "Eats watermelons, of all things! Of all the truck I have in my garden, these melons are the things I prize most. And doesn't that cussed pig know that? She makes for the melons every time."

Seth didn't say much. After all, he was more than ordinarily fond of pigs, all pigs. He loved to raise them, see them grow large and contented from good feeding. Anyone had only to look at his fifty fat hogs to know Seth enjoyed caring for them.

Emma sighed. "I'd go over to see Slattery today, if I didn't have so much to do. I'll try to go tomorrow. It's simply got to stop! Those trashy swamp folk will have to learn to keep their stock to home!"

It was three days before Emma found time to visit the Slatterys. It was two miles back to their shack at the edge of the swamp, but Emma was a hearty fifty-year-old woman, and she loved the walk through the fields and wood lots. Several of the Slattery children were playing around the cabin. They were handsome children, in spite of their dirty, unkempt appearance.

"Where's your Dad?" said Emma shortly to the oldest boy. "Paw!" yelled the boy.

Ed Slattery appeared at the door of a shed behind the house. He was a small, wizened man. Emma had never seen him when he wasn't chewing tobacco. She walked towards him. Over his shoulder she looked inside the shed. There hung a butchered pig.

"Oh," she said. "That your pig, Ed?"

"Yes, Ma'am," he replied. "I was aimin' to give you a piece of that meat."

Emma softened. She walked inside and looked at the meat. It looked good. "Watermelons must make good hog feed," muttered Emma to herself.

"Ma'am!" said Ed Slattery. "I said that would be nice," replied Emma. "We'd love having some fresh meat. It's very kind of you."

With the help of one of the boys, Ed took the pig down from the hook and cut off one of the hams for Emma.

"That's too much," she said firmly. "No, Ma'am," he said. "I have a lot of young 'uns, and they eat hearty, but the weather is warm."

"Get out of there, you ornery creature!" Emma picked up the nearest stone and threw it with all her strength at the skinny sow.

Meat won't keep too long. You take it right along home. "That's mighty fine of you, Ed Slattery," said Emma. Her conscience was beginning to hurt.

Emma carried the ham all the way home and put it in the refrigerator to cool. Meat was expensive, and the thought of a roast of fresh ham made her happy.

She was at peace with the world when she went to bed that night. Early the next morning she woke up in confusion. That peculiar sound again. Water, going rapidly round and round in a drain. No! It couldn't be! She sat up. There wasn't another pig anywhere that sounded quite like that.

She bounded out of bed and hit the floor with a thud. Slippers, the house dress over her nightgown, the flying trip to the garden. She rubbed her eyes. It was Slattery's sow! There couldn't be two such pigs in all the world.

Dazedly she picked up a stone to throw at the creature. "Emma," Seth's voice was calling from the bedroom window.

"What I am studying in school is completely useless—algebra, French (which I hate), Latin, history and folk-singing. Also we have, of course, gym courses and games such as tennis and basketball. Just what all this nonsense ever will mean to my later life I cannot see."

Shirley, my dear, I may well consider your problem seriously, for it is indeed a grave indication of one of our fathers as parents and citizens, and it is widespread. That home is unsatisfying to youth today, that restlessness and discontent are breaking the hearts of thousands of American girls, is no secret to American mothers. Girls escape from home as soon as they can, to escape to face disillusionment and discouragement of which they never dreamed, escape to loneliness, bewilderment and mistakes, escape very often to foolish young marriages, for which they have to pay a heavy penalty.

Our shops are full of quiet saleswomen, our factories full of workers who ran away from life at 16 and 17, and are awake now from the dream. Unfortunate marriages, hard times, money shortage, lost jobs, these are their story. "I have a little girl of 10," says one of them, wrapping gloves for the purchaser, perhaps dreaming of how nice it would be to be the purchaser, to go out into the morning sunshine, have lunch downtown and plan a cozy dinner for a loved man and children.

"My husband?—Well, he wasn't any good, or I wasn't. I was only 13 when Carol was born; I went back to my mother. Keith never helped much, and I had to go to work."

"Sure I was in the movies; I won a beauty contest that promised me three jobs," says another 40-year-old saleswoman, smiling. "I had bit parts—sometimes. I ran around with movie folk, thought I was inside the game. Thousands of girls are doing that, talking movie patter, knowing an occasional celebrity. Lots get in, but an awfully small percentage stays in. I married, as lots of discouraged girls do. Marriage was all poverty and quarreling, with two little boys to care for. I love them, of course, and I feel sorry for Dan. He was only a kid, too. I'd do it all differently now."

Wracks, along the shores of happier and more balanced days, and so many of them start with just Shirley's mood, rebellion against study, economy, home duties, home dullness.

If you will consider these years as preparation for a full and useful life, Shirley, you presently will discover that the destiny for which you hunger is moving toward you as inevitably as are the days and the years. Latin and algebra never appealed to me as indispensable, but why not try making yourself useful at home, training yourself to be a good housekeeper, finding amusements and occupations that are broadening and educational, watching your speech, reading worthwhile books?

These possibilities are all ready to your hand, and while you are patiently pursuing them, they will alter your ideals in a way that will give you entirely new vistas of enjoyment. Develop a well-rounded character, make of yourself the sort of woman you in your own heart admire most, and leave the rest to fate. You cannot escape success if you have built a personality worthy of it. Anything snatched now can end only in bitter disappointment.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Should Girl Choose School or 'Career'?

"I've been, of course, gym courses and games such as tennis and basketball. Just what all this nonsense ever will mean to my later life I cannot see."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

HERE is a letter from a 16-year-old girl, typical of the problems of so many teen-agers that it seems to me worthy of consideration, despite its obvious immaturity.

"Everything about my life is ideal, and it's not good enough," writes Shirley Wilson of Los Angeles. "I'm 16, my half-brother is 9. Mother divorced my father when I was seven; I see him sometimes and like him well enough; but my stepfather is swell, too. I am very ambitious, play the piano, sing and dance above the average, and am considered pretty. We have not much money; I get an allowance of $3 a week. Mother buys me very few clothes, and for extra pocket money I sometimes can touch Doug, my stepfather."

"If they would have sense enough to let me stop school, I soon could earn enough money to take care of myself and buy the clothes I need. I know this, as I have been successful in school dramatics, and have been approached by a talent scout two separate times. Grown persons do not realize how deeply a girl suffers when she feels opportunities of all sorts slipping by her, and sees girls her age making a success of life. My mother was not so strict as a girl herself, but she is very strict with me, antagonizing practically all the boys who ever come around."

"Useless! Studies. What I am studying in school is completely useless—algebra, French (which I hate), Latin, history and folk-singing. Also we have, of course, gym courses and games such as tennis and basketball. Just what all this nonsense ever will mean to my later life I cannot see. Frankly, I don't wish to be either a French teacher or basketball professional. Every grown person I know has forgotten all that a few months after leaving school. What I want to do is get a job; I will learn more in a few weeks of real work. I am really desperately restless and unhappy, and hope you will consider my problem seriously and help me."

Shirley, my dear, I may well consider your problem seriously, for it is indeed a grave indication of one of our fathers as parents and citizens, and it is widespread. Major Iron Ores Divided Into Four General Types Principal iron ores in the United States may be classified into four general types, namely, magnetite, hematite, brown ore or limonite, and siderite. Magnetite in its pure state is the highest in percentage of iron. Hematite is found in the greatest quantity, and is next to magnetite in richness of iron content. Approximately 94 per cent of all ore mined is hematite. Limonite is hematite combined with water. It constitutes only a small percentage of all ore mined. Siderite is the lowest in iron content. It has other undesirable qualities, but where found in large enough quantities it has been used commercially. The geographical distribution of these ores is quite widespread over the United States, although their commercial importance in some states is doubtful. The ore deposits of the Lake Superior region are noteworthy for magnitude, quality and convenient transportation. They are found over wide areas in the Vermilion, Mesabi, Gunflint and Cuyuna ranges in eastern Minnesota, the Gogebic and Menominee ranges in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan, and the Marquette range in upper Michigan, all adjacent to Lake Michigan or Lake Superior. Other important deposits being worked are in Alabama, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.
