

Highs Beat Lena and Coleman From North; Belles Lose to Both

Kewaskum high school fared well in the two intersectional doubleheaders played against northern opponents in the local gym Monday night and at Campbellsport Tuesday evening. Kewaskum defeated both Lena and Coleman from the Marinette-Oconto league while the Belles lost to the same two teams.

On Monday here before a packed house, Campbellsport played Coleman in the first game and Kewaskum met Lena in the nightcap. Coleman handed the Belles a 47-26 trouncing. Led by Krause with 15 points and guard Neshek with 12, the powerful Coleman quintet outscored the Belles in every quarter to win by a top-heavy score. York paced Campbellsport with 9 points. The Belles had a bad third quarter, scoring only 1 point while Coleman poured in 11.

It was a different story in the second game as Kewaskum came through to cop a 10-point, 34-24 decision over Lena before an enthusiastic crowd. Led by Wink and McElhatton, who were hitting the hoop from outside the free throw circle, Kewaskum moved into a 13-4 lead at the quarter, never to be headed. The Indians played steady, alert ball and were outscored by Lena only in the final quarter. Wink, with 11 points, and McElhatton with 8, sparked the 'Kums to victory. Netzer of Lena took top honors in the game with 12 points.

On Tuesday night the teams reversed opponents at Campbellsport in another doubleheader. Kewaskum tackled the favored Coleman five in the first game and defeated the upstate five, 36-28. Coleman's very fast, smooth working team was expected to take the Indians but Kewaskum played its best game of the season to surprise Coleman. Johnny Tessar played one of the best games in his high school career in starting for the 'Kums. He was easily the high scorer with 18 points and besides was all over the floor breaking up Coleman passes and taking rebounds off of both boards. Coleman's ace guard, Neshek, again was high for his team with 11 points. The contest was close and exciting throughout. Kewaskum led, 6-7, at the quarter and 18-14 at halftime. Coleman outscored the Indians, 11-4, in the third period to go ahead, 25-22, at the end of the quarter. The lightning Highs came through in championship form in the last period to tally 15 points while holding their opponents to 3 and win a deserved victory.

In the second game the Belles again went down in defeat at the hands of Lena although playing a hard game. The score was 30-21. Led by Netzer and Hilbert with 8 and 7 points, Lena outmanned the Belles in the first two periods but Campbellsport came back to outscore Lena in the last two. Lena took a commanding 18-7 lead at the half. The Belles fought back but it was not enough to overcome the opponents' advantage. Udamen's 8 points were best for the losers.

The Lena boys were guests of the Kewaskum players and Coleman of Campbellsport for the two days. The games were in return for those played last year at Lena and Coleman.

Kewaskum's next game will be a conference tilt against rival Campbellsport on the home floor next Friday, Jan. 9.

Veterans Pleased With Junior Red Cross Items

The cheer that holiday favors bring to men for whom the war has not ended is indicated by the letter reprinted below. Junior Red Cross members of Fillmore state graded school prepared Thanksgiving napkins: Old brick school, nut cups; Orchard Grove school covers; Holy Angels, nut cups; Silver Lake school, carnival caps.

Acknowledging these materials, Mrs. Mable C. Braden, field director, Veterans Administration hospital, Fayetteville, Arkansas, wrote to Mrs. Albert Gosman, local chairman of Junior Red Cross as follows:

"The Thanksgiving decorations made and sent to the patients in the hospital by your Junior Red Cross girls and boys were very welcome, indeed.

"The chief delight came to our office the day following Thanksgiving to see the decorations received, and she was so very pleased to know she would have turkey and pumpkin nut cups for the tables in the dining room. For those patients who are served on trays in their rooms, the tray favors and decorated napkins gave them much cheer. The candy and peanuts your Junior Red Crossers sent were the only filling received.

"At the Thursday morning coffee hour for patients, in the recreation lounge, the carnival hats were given out. At first the patients were a little shy about wearing them but soon were laughing at each other and having lots of fun.

"The patients greatly appreciate being remembered, and all of us are deeply thankful for the thoughtfulness and the many gifts sent to the hospital for the patients by the boys and girls of Junior Red Cross.

"We thank you very much."

FIRE AT BACKHAUS FARM

A chimney fire at the Christian Backhaus farm a half mile south of Kewaskum necessitated the calling of the local fire department at about 6:30 a. m. Monday. The blaze in the chimney had gotten a good start and was a stubborn one to put out. Firemen worked about half an hour before all the flames and sparks were extinguished. No damage resulted.

Clifford Pierce Dies in Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Keller received a telegram last week informing them that Clifford Pierce had died in a hospital at Frankfurt, Germany, where he was serving with the U. S. army forces. Mr. Pierce and his wife and family were residents of Kewaskum until last year when Mr. Pierce re-enlisted in the army and was sent to Germany. His family left to join him there later.

The Kellers, who were neighbors and close friends of the Pierces here, were sent word from Mr. Pierce's mother in Chicago. No details were given in the telegram, other than he had died in a hospital at Frankfurt on Dec. 21. The Kellers had learned earlier in a letter that Pierce was seriously ill. Later they learned he was better and expected to return to the states. Mrs. Pierce is a sister of Mrs. George Hanson of this village.

Mr. Pierce was a veteran of many years' service in the army, having served a number of years before World War II began. He was wounded two or three times in action during the war. He was seriously wounded the last time and after recovering, was given his discharge and sent home. Later, after regaining his health, he re-enlisted.

Lakes, Rivers Teams Both Win at Lomira

Having no league game scheduled between the holidays, the Kewaskum Legion of the Land O' Lakes circuit played a practice game at Lomira Saturday night and won easily by a score of 16 to 22. This was a return of a game played here by Lomira before the season. In the preliminary contest the Kewaskum Rivers five also won, defeating the Lomira seconds, 28-28.

After a close first quarter, the Legion collected themselves a lead in the second period to gain a 25-17 advantage at the half. Kewaskum increased its lead during the second half to win going away. Kraeger and Honeck of the Legion and Voight of Lomira all tied for scoring honors with 10 points each.

In the Rivers team's victory Schief sparked the offense with 13 points, followed by David Backhaus with 10. Tess and Kuehler scored 10 apiece for Lomira. On Sunday afternoon the Rivers cagers played a league game at Horicon and were defeated, 37-27. The contest was a preliminary to the Lakes Major league game between Horicon and Watertown.

LEGION PLAYS PEWAUKEE AT WEST BEND, RANDOM LAKE THERE

The Lakes team faces two tough games this next week when they play the league leaders in both the southern and northern divisions of the league. On Sunday night at 7:30 p. m. the Legion meets Pewaukee in a preliminary to the professional game between the West Bend Benders and Kenosha Dorffs at the McLane school gym, West Bend. Up to last Sunday Pewaukee was tied for the league lead in the southern division of the Lakes and has a strong outfit. Kewaskum will play without its ace scorer, Wayne Tessar, who sprained an ankle in the Lomira game last week. The team will be greatly handicapped without him. Next Wednesday night the Legion plays at Random Lake against the leaders of the northern division in a regular league game. Kewaskum hopes to have Tessar back in the lineup for this game in an effort to knock off the strong Random five.

March of Dimes Drive Chairmen, Committee Members Meet Sunday

With coin collectors distributed and with the annual drive already under way in most localities in the county, a meeting of all chairmen and their committee members has been called for 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Jan. 4, in the Moose hall of the new Merten building on Main st. in West Bend to co-ordinate plans for the 1948 March of Dimes.

The meeting has been called by B. D. Rice, West Bend, general chairman of the March of Dimes for the Washington County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He declared the business session would last less than an hour and discussed the program would include entertainment and refreshments. Entrance to the meeting place is on N. Sixth ave.

The meeting will hear an outline of the various phases of the 1948 March of Dimes presented by County Judge F. W. Bucklin, who has been named by Rice as honorary chairman of the campaign.

Rice will discuss the methods employed in raising funds in various localities during past March of Dimes campaigns and will stress, particularly, the educational phase of the drive. Coin collectors will be available at the meeting for those chairmen who want and have not yet received them. While the official dates of the 1948 March of Dimes are Jan. 15-20, the general chairman said the closing subscription in Washington county would be Jan. 21. However, he said he hoped all chairmen would complete their campaigns by the official opening date of the drive, Jan. 15, wherever possible in order that a complete report may be filed with state and national headquarters of the National Foundation by Jan. 31.

Rice pointed out that the purpose of the meeting Sunday is to stimulate an early start on the campaign in all localities of the county. He said he hoped that all chairmen will make a sincere effort to attend the session, as it will be the only one held. He urged the chairmen to get as many of their committeemen as possible to attend also.

Rice disclosed the March of Dimes committee is anxious that all persons who donate $5 or more during the current campaign receive proper recognition because of their contributions. For that reason, he urged the chairmen to make every effort to procure the names of such contributors.

Magnet Brings Up Nail From Intestines of Boy

Using a special magnet, an Atlanta physician recently removed a 1 1/2-inch nail that had been lodged for six days in the duodenum (first part of small intestine) of a four-year-old boy. In this case, the first on record in which an object was removed from this part of the body without a surgical operation, nearly six hours were required for the magnet to reach the nail, but only two minutes for the magnet and nail to be drawn back into the stomach and up through the esophagus.

Trainees' Morals Guarded Jealously

UMT Stresses Integration of Youthful Personalities

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

(In this, the third of a series on universal military training, further differences between this system and previous training methods are discussed.)

WASHINGTON.—Aside from the loss of his freedom, which I discussed in a previous column, the young man called upon for military training object to having their schooling interrupted or the securing of a job postponed.

The national security training act would answer those objections this way: (a) The trainee gets educational and vocational advantages under UMT which in many cases he would not otherwise have; and (b) He literally earns while he learns.

Let me quote from the November issue of the Army Information Digest:

"Each trainee during the first phase (and if he elects to take a second one) will receive a $30 cash allowance monthly. If he is the chief family support, he would qualify for a dependency allowance which would be paid wholly by the government. This allowance would be $50 a month for one dependent and $65 a month for two or more dependents.

Baukhage

During initial training, the trainee would be entitled to benefits of the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act of 1940 and to the death and disability benefits furnished civilian employees of the government.

As to the educational factor, the report of the sub-committee on education, a division of the UMT civil advisory committee which visits the Fort Knox experimental unit regularly, set forth the principle that UMT should be so flexible "that a man could return to school or to his civilian occupation without a loss of considerable time; and therefore, it is more advantageous to maintain the six-month period of initial training with a minimum of education than to prolong this period of training and permit inclusion of a comprehensive educational program."

To ensure that the trainee does not lose sight of his life objective, a well-planned counseling program is recommended. It would be conducted by an educational staff including a trained psychologist.

The six-month training period where the accent is on the military is by no means ALL military. Bayonet practice and "dirty fighting" have been eliminated, and out of the entire six months only 800 hours are devoted to actual training, the rest to "processing and orientation." There is a once-a-week lecture on citizenship and morality, and general information is included in the regular troop information period. In Apprentice training in plastics and other vocations are some of the extra duty activities offered by UMT experimental unit at Fort Knox.

the experimental unit at Fort Knox, says the Army Information Digest: "It is not uncommon for the officer of the day, while inspecting a rifle at daily guard mount to ask the trainee: 'Who is the secretary of war?' or 'Who heads our diplomatic mission to Moscow?'"

The relationship between trainee and trainee, according to the Digest, is not that of sergeant and recruit, but rather of instructor and pupil.

Nearly 50 per cent of the men at Fort Knox participate in the 60-day educational program, and some have completed graduation from high school by this route.

According to the Digest report made in June, "the barracks smell" of profanity and obscenity does not exist. Without in any way sacrificing virility, the Digest claims that "a new way of looking at things has been created." Sex has its place in instruction. The trainee gets a healthy understanding of the normal place of sex in raising a family, is taught that the only sure way to avoid venereal disease is continence.

Plenty of entertainment is provided at Fort Knox, including a canteen where soft drinks and snacks are available, but no alcoholic beverages are sold.

NEWS REVIEW

London Meet Dissolves; Inflation Bill Defeated

The lethargic, uninspired ending of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in London was reminiscent of nothing so much as the rather dreary business of tossing out the Christmas tree after the holidays.

There was a small amount of nostalgia and regret expressed over the abrupt finish of the unsuccessful discussions, but there was also a thinly veiled feeling that perhaps, after all, it was a good thing the affair was over.

As seen dimly through clouds of futility and frustration, what the wind-up of the German and Austrian peace treaty talks amounted to was this: The western powers had failed utterly to reach any kind of agreement with Russia on the fate of Germany, and the failure leaves Europe more firmly divided than at any time since the war ended.

Although the delegates were unable to agree on any single issue on their agenda, the point upon which the conference balloon burst was the problem of German reparations. To the inevitable question, "What now?" diplomatic authorities were answering with a prediction that the United States, Great Britain and France would begin negotiations soon among themselves concerning the unification of western Germany. Russia would be out of it, and there was no prospect of another four-power meeting in 1948 or in any other year.

CONGRESS:
"Straw Man"
Of the two pressing reasons why President Truman called congress into special session in November, one had been disposed of but the other kept hanging around like an evil spirit as the year drew to a close.

The senate and house had voted strongly in favor of authorizing up to $97 million dollars for emergency relief for France, Italy, Austria and China, but no such accord was displayed in dealing with the problem of inflation at home.

Rejecting President Truman's 10-point proposal for fighting inflation by imposing wage and price controls and selective rationing, house Republicans offered an anti-inflation bill based upon voluntary agreements for price reductions.

With a two-thirds vote needed for passage, the Republican measure went down to defeat 202 to 188. The house split almost exactly along party lines over the bill, not one Democrat breaking ranks to vote in favor of it.

"The President has asked for bread, and you have given him a stone," said Rep. Brent Spence (Dem., Ky.) in summing up the debate for the Democrats. Rep. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (Dem., Okla.) dusted off another bromide when he charged the GOP majority with "setting up a straw man to combat the menace of inflation."

That was the swan song for any anti-inflation legislation during the special session. Although the senate was preparing to act on the house-killed bill, there appeared to be little likelihood that the Republicans would be able to put through their proposals.

Guard Strength Up

Members of the U. S. national guard totaled 201,041 on November 30, 1947, a strength larger than that of the prewar national guard in any year except 1940, according to an announcement by Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer.

Projected strength of the national guard on June 30, 1948, is 271,000 men, 250,000 of whom will be in approximately 4,500 army units and 21,000 in 365 air units, he said.

BEAUTIFUL SPRING

Inflation to Burst into Bloom

Where price inflation is concerned there is no such thing as a last word. More words, more gloomy predictions always follow.

Latest verbal foreboding by private and government forecasters holds that next April and May will mark a probable crisis peak in the continuing upward trend of retail and wholesale prices.

Flat predictions that meat and some other food prices are likely to soar as winter ends have been made by political officials and confirmed by government and other economists.

Experts in retail dry goods prices are saying that the shelves emptied by the Christmas buying rush will be restocked with goods that will be priced much higher. The goods were being bought in the garment trade centers at wholesale prices nearly equal to last spring's retail prices.

Another factor boosting the inflation bubble is expected to be the peak in foreign demand for food and other items in Europe scheduled to come as winter bows out.

The construction industry, which hit an all-time high in dollar values as the 1947 season ended, probably will begin the 1948 season under an extraordinarily high demand pressure for building materials.

Another considerable influence is CIO President Philip Murray's recent declaration that unions in his organization will seek another

FARM INCOME: Going Up

National total farm cash income, including government benefit payments, for the first nine months of 1947 amounted to $20,694,000,000, according to Alexander Hamilton institute.

This was 25.6 per cent above the level reached in the corresponding period a year ago and the highest for any full year on record, with exception of the war years 1944, 1945 and 1946.

Chinese Wheat

Second greatest wheat producing country in the world in 1947 was China—not Russia—which trailed U. S. production by about 500 million bushels.

On an expanded acreage Chinese peasants raised a bumper crop of 905 million bushels, 20 per cent over the national average. U. S. led all nations with 1.4 billion bushels, while Russia's yield was 875 million bushels for the year.

VA to Aid Farm Trainees

As an aid to both the training institution and the veteran, Veterans' administration has announced that it will pay 75 per cent of the estimated tuition, fees and other necessary expenses of any farm training program for four-month periods beginning in March, July and November.

Approved state agencies can qualify for advance payments by certifying to VA that the former system of payment on arrears imposes a financial burden on the state.

VA will pay actual instruction costs, less the advance payment, at the end of each instruction period. In event actual amount due the agency at the end of each period is less than the amount advanced, the agency will refund the difference to VA.

There are now approximately 200,000 veterans enrolled in on-farm training, which combines practical classroom work with farming.

Veterans are eligible for institutional on-farm training under the G. I. bill if they served in the armed forces for 90 days or more at any time between September 15, 1940, and July 25, 1947, and were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Questions and Answers

Q. I am a World War II veteran with 18 months service. 13 months overseas. Since coming back I have tried to get a G. I. loan to buy a home but always it is "yes, with 10 per cent down payment." I have a family and it has been impossible to make a 10 per cent down payment. I would like to buy around South Bend, Ind. Could you tell me some place there that I could get a loan without a large down payment?

—R. B., Rochester, Ind.

A. While Veterans' administration frowns on the practice of many lenders to require down payments on G. I. home loans and has declared that the practice not only renders a disservice to the veteran, but also defeats the primary purpose of the G. I. bill, which provides for 100 per cent financing of veterans' homes, there is nothing VA can do about it under the law if these lenders insist on the down payment. However, VA has announced that it will give veterans all information it has and direct them to lending institutions which are favorably disposed to make G. I. loans without necessity of a down payment. So in your case, suggest that you write to your nearest VA office, probably at Indianapolis, set out your difficulties and ask them to direct you to a lender who will make a 100 per cent G. I. loan.

Q. I was drafted during World War I, July 13, 1918, from my position as a railroad and sent to special training detachment at the Richmond fair grounds, Richmond, Va. I was held in this camp until December 18, 1918, and was given an honorable discharge on that date. In 1925 I was given a check for $19 by the veterans' bureau with a statement that only 69 days had been certified to them by the war department as my completed service; that I had been transferred to the students' army training corps after the 69th day and my service was not creditable after that. According to my draft and discharge papers I served 138 days and as far as I knew it was all in the U. S. army. How and where can I get proper consideration and credit for my complete army service? More than 50 men in this camp are suffering the same fate.—J. T. S., Cumberland, Md.

A. Write to the Liaison officer, Demobilized Records Section, Office of the Adjutant General, Pentagon Bldg., Washington, D. C., and explain your situation in detail. I am sure you will be given an answer explaining the apparent difference in your service record.

Q. Can a veteran take a correspondence course under the educational provisions of the G. I. bill?

—A. J. S., Altus, Okla.

A. Yes, there are more than 100 correspondence schools approved by Veterans' administration for correspondence courses for which VA pays tuition. Suggest you contact your nearest VA office and obtain a list of the approved schools.

Q. Does the government provide seeing-eye dogs for blind veterans? We have a friend who was blinded by explosion of a mine and he is drawing disability from Veterans' administration for his injury. Can you tell us about the dog?—D. T. L., Austin, Minn.

A. Veterans' administration says that any veteran blinded and entitled to disability compensation for a service connected injury is entitled to a seeing-eye or guide dog including shipping expenses of the dog or traveling expenses of the veteran to and from his home.

Q. My son is a veteran. If a boy is married and is overseas, can his wife divorce him? If she can, how long will she get a benefit check after she is divorced? If a mother and father are dependent on their son, is there any compensation they can get after he is out of the army?—Mrs. O. W., Sicily Island, Ga.

A. A wife has the same rights of divorce as though her husband were a civilian. If she divorces her husband and is awarded no alimony by the court, her government allowance stops. No compensation is available for dependents.

WEED CONTROL HELPING

The purpose of the weed control program is to reduce the loss of crops by the use of herbicides. It is a good idea to use a herbicide which can be applied to the soil. If you will use a herbicide which is applied to the soil, it will be more effective. The meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m. and will be continued in the afternoon.

George Brown, weed specialist and G. L. Berg, agricultural engineer of the College of Agriculture, and E. E. Skidmore, county agricultural agent, will direct the discussion. Topics to be discussed will include the following: (1) what weeds can be controlled by spraying with 2, 4-D; (2) what are the best spray materials to use and when is the best time to spray; (3) how can a good workable and inexpensive sprayer be built, what kind of nozzles, pressure tanks, etc. to use (this will be discussed at 1:30 p. m.); (4) can weeds in corn fields be sprayed?

The above and many other questions on weed control will be answered for you. Bring your spray equipment problems to this meeting.

Anyone interested in building a home-made sprayer or in learning about weed control through spraying can profit by attending this meeting.

WEED CONTROL HELPS

Any person interested in controlling weeds with 2, 4-D or other types of recommended sprays will be interested in attending a weeds problem meeting to be held at the Jackson village hall, Jackson, on Friday, Jan. 9. The meeting will begin promptly at 10:30 a. m. and will extend into the afternoon.

This meeting is primarily designed to be of help to spray operators and farmers who are interested in purchasing, remodeling, or building their own spraying equipment.

The morning meeting will be devoted largely to a discussion of weed control problems as experienced by spray operators during the past summer. The questions of when, how and what type of chemicals to use will also be considered.

George Brigg, agronomist and G. L. Berg, agricultural engineer of the College of Agriculture, will be present. They will bring with them models and equipment best suited to apply 2, 4-D sprays.

MASTITIS CAN BE PREVENTED

Mastitis and agalactia are names for the same disease. Its presence indicates an inflammation of the udder caused by undesirable germs. The mastitis as observed by the dairyman can be divided into two main types, namely acute and chronic. The acute type appears very suddenly in a quarter which has been normal, while chronic mastitis affects the milking organ of a cow over a period of months or years.

Almost all of this disease in dairy herds is caused by injury to the udder of the milking cow. Common sources of such injury are caused by leaving the milking machine on too long and by inadequate amounts of bedding. These are sources of injury which can readily be prevented by the dairyman. After mastitis once gets established in a herd, it is readily spread from cow to cow by unclean milking machines, infected hands of the milker or by allowing milk to come in contact with the floor and with uninfected cows.

Carefully carried out control measures include the following:

1. Raising your own herd replacements.
2. Practicing sanitation at all times.
3. Managed milking.
4. Avoiding injuries.
5. Using strip cup to detect abnormal milk.
6. Treating infected quarters with penicillin and the new drug Sulmet in stubborn cases.

DON'T SELL YOURSELF SHORT ON LIVESTOCK

Stick to your guns and keep your livestock. That's the advice of Gus Rohstedt, livestock feeding specialist at the University of Wisconsin. His opinion is that prices of feeds have gone up more or less prices of livestock products. This unfavorable ratio has caused some farmers to start getting rid of their herds and flocks.

If this trend is carried too far, Rohstedt feels that it may give us a surplus of corn and other feed crops next year. He says that since our agricultural economy is dependent upon changing feed crops into meat, milk, and eggs, it would be unfortunate if livestock numbers were greatly reduced.

Rohstedt believes that the farmers who keep their livestock even through the price ratio isn't so good now, will benefit more in the long run than their grain and hay selling neighbors. Americans have demonstrated that they want meat, he says. If they have the money, they're going to buy.

Each person in the United States ate about 154 pounds of meat in the average last year, Rohstedt reports. While the 1943 record probably won't quite equal that figure, he believes that war years are likely to continue high, and assure a good market for meat, milk and eggs next year.

DHIA FIELDMAN TRAINING SCHOOL JANUARY 5 TO 14

A ten day herd improvement training school will be held at the College of Agriculture beginning Jan. 5. This course is being given to train personnel for dairy herd improvement association fieldmen work. There are now a number of good jobs in several Wisconsin counties available to fieldmen who can qualify.

Such fieldman jobs will appeal most to single men over eighteen years of age. A high school education is desirable but not required. Ex-servicemen can qualify for training under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Anyone wishing further information about D.H.I.A. fieldman jobs may contact the agricultural extension office.

FURVIE OATS DID WELL IN 1947

Furvie oats proved to be a 25% better yielder than the well known Finland variety on the farms of 147 certified seed growers in different sections of the state. The average reported yield for Furvie was 64.3 bushels with that of Finland was 51.2 bushels. Clinton oats, another new variety, also gave good yields where grown. Clinton oats is not susceptible to the root disease to which Finland and Furvie are susceptible. However, Clinton is subject to certain types of leaf rust.

It pays good dividends in terms of increased yields to plant new seed each frequently. Arrangements for obtaining new seed stock should be made early before the supply of certified seed grains is exhausted or shipped out of the state.

All seed oats planted in 1948 should be treated as a partial protection against blight and root diseases. The new improved ceronox or the ceronox junior dusts will destroy the disease organisms that are on the seed. However, if the disease is in the soil, seed treatment will not protect the crop. Directions for treating seed grains can be obtained from the agricultural extension office.

BUY ONLY NORTHERN CROWN ALFALFA SEED

Each year considerable alfalfa seed is shipped into Wisconsin from Kansas, Nebraska, and other more southern states. Such seed is usually not sufficiently hardy to withstand the severe winters of Wisconsin. It is expected that there will be sufficient hardy northern grown alfalfa seed to supply local needs. All alfalfa seed can be identified by a verification tag attached to the bag. Canadian seed has 1% purple stained seed, while that from South America has 10% of all seed stained orange red.

FARM FIRES ARE PREVENTABLE

The onset of winter increases fire hazards. An annual farm fire loss of over 50 million dollars is more than America can afford. Much of this loss is due to neglect and carelessness. Cracked chimneys, corroded flues, defective stoves and furnaces and improperly discarded hot ashes are common sources of farm fires.

Fire prevention on the farm is only half the job for complete fire safety. A farmer must make provisions to protect his farm if he wants to keep it. He must take the time to instruct his family and his farm hands in the use of fire-fighting equipment. A farmer must see to it that a sufficient number of approved fire extinguishers are on his property and that they are placed in strategic locations.

labor are invested in the calves that are raised. Only the best calves should be selected. Give these calves extra care during the first month of their lives. Many dairymen prefer to permit them to nurse their dams for about three days. After that the calf should be taught to drink from an open pail.

When making this change be sure that the milk is warm—about body temperature. Cold milk may upset the digestion of young calves. Also for a week or two it is best to feed the milk from the calf's dam. Skim milk or milk substitutes should not be added until the calf is from four to six weeks old. Any change in the amount and kind of milk fed should be made gradually.

Growing calves will want access to fresh warm water at all times. Milk alone does not supply ample fluids especially when additional dry feeding begins.

Caustic potash sticks are satisfactory for dehorning young calves. They should be used when the calf is from six to ten days old. Care should be exercised to see that none of the caustic material gets into the eyes of the calf.

The use of caustic is a humane way of dehorning calves.

ROUT THE RATS—THEY WASTE FEED

How many rats are you wintering over this year? It is a good thing to know. You see, it takes a bushel of corn a year to feed a rat. Fifty rats means an extra fifty bushels of grain you will need to carry over. Then, too, a rat spoils about twice as much feed as it actually eats. A pretty expensive luxury, we say. Five or six dollars wasted on each rat. We don't need to keep those filthy, repulsive rodent enemies around the place.

Red squill poisons will get most of them. Pre-bait a few nights with meat or fish. When they are taking the bait well, slip the poison in. Rats can be perfectly when additional dry feeding begins.

There are lots of tricks which will make good rats out of bad ones. They only good ones, of course, are the ones that are one year when no one can afford to raise rats.

Anyone desiring rat poison may material gets into the eyes of the calf, place their orders with the county extension office. The bait comes in one pound packages and contains both the fish and the meat lures.

tees will be selected by the local board of supervisors. They will be honored at a state-wide dinner arranged by the Goodyear company. Also feted at this dinner will be the supervisors from each district.

COUNTY TO COMPETE FOR SOIL CONSERVATION AWARDS

The supervisors of the Washington County Soil Conservation district at a meeting held in the agricultural agent's office on Friday, Dec. 3, voted to participate in a conservation program sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. Their participation in this contest will give the county state-wide recognition for excellent progress in soil conservation work.

Since the dinner will be held in the winning county, the co-operation of farmers in adopting soil conservation practices on their farms will boost Washington county in their efforts to have this gathering of state farm leaders brought to this area.

Ain't It So?

Fashion is something that goes out of style as soon as most people have it.

A grouch is a man who thinks the world is against him—and it is.

Some busy men are never too busy to talk about how busy they are.

A Striking Story

An American League umpire named Jack Kerns had a phobia against calling games. No matter how dark it got, Kerns felt that a ball game was nine innings or more. One day when Kerns refused to call a game, the pitcher in desperation huddled with his catcher and whispered, "Listen, you keep the ball in your mitt. I'll wind up and pretend to throw it. You pop it into your glove as though you'd caught it."

There were two strikes on the batter. The pitcher went through his motions the catcher popped his mitt. "Strike three and out!" yelled Kerns.

"Strike?" screamed the batter. "Why that ball was two feet outside!"

DOANS PILLS

THE FICTION CORNER

PET PEST

By ROBERT DENNIS

THE footsteps came down the city room and halted at the door of Clint Lipton's office. Penny Alder felt eyes on her, boring down through the barrage of typewriter keys she was sending up. Something about Clint Lipton put a chip on her shoulder.

"Miss Alder—" the voice was too polite to belong to her pet pest, "is Clint comin' back today?" She looked up at the old man who stood in the door of Clint's room, a shiny serge suit bagging around his lean, stooped figure like a piece of wilted lettuce. She nodded. An assistant society editor had troubles enough. Let Clint Lipton take care of the sports department and his own pests. Old Hughey Lawler was his problem.

The old fellow touched the yellowed, saw-brimmed straw hat clamped down over his thin fringe of white hair. "I've got some news about The Kid for Clint to write up," he said, as he crossed the narrow aisle. "Oh," Penny replied helplessly. If it was about The Kid old Hughey would stand and gab forever—

"Course I've got to give it to Clint. I've been keepin' Clint right up to date on The Kid—" He swallowed at something. "So he's told me." With dull fascination she watched the old fellow's Adam's apple climb up and down the stretch of turkey-like neck above the over-size collar. Clint also had said—that the next time old Hughey tried to fold his ears back, he was going to—

"Did I ever show you the picture The Kid sent me when he was trainin' out on the Coast?" Hughey pushed a post-card portrait under her nose—a while-you-wait photograph of a young fellow in sailor blues, his hat cocked at an angle over one brilliant eye. "A fine lookin' boy, Miss Alder."

She'd seen the face before. Her glance strayed in through the open door of Clint's office to where a shaft of late afternoon sunshine spotlighted a photograph tacked on the wall—a bare-torsoed kid in fighting pose. She'd always looked down her short straight nose at those pictures of Clint's brawns and beef friends—the guys with tin ears and bent noses, the guys heaving forward passes—the tough he-guys.

And Clint Lipton—with his head of wild rusty hair, and that habitual frown wedged between his deep-set gray eyes—was part of his muscle menagerie, as far as she was concerned. "My grandson, Miss Alder—" You'd have thought the scrawpy kid in the sailor suit was an admiral, from the pride in old Hughey's voice. "You ask Clint if The Kid wasn't on his way of being welter-weight champ—before he wanted to enlist."

"I'll bet he was," Penny's comment dropped like a pebble into the deep pool of Hughey Lawler's pride. He gushed words. Penny Alder actually was glad to see Clint's rust-colored head appear. She almost welcomed his deep frown when he spotted her caller. Old Hughey turned to Clint. "I've got something for you to write up, Clint."

Clint's nod toward his office was about as friendly as an umpire's thumb. "I can only give you a minute—"

"Sure—" The old fellow turned. Penny found the Lipton frown aimed at her. "You're a pal," he accused, "you know that old guy gets me down." She looked up at him, and that chip was on her shoulder. "For holding him," he scowled, "you're going to break down and go out to dinner—and places—with me tonight."

"Is that a pass or—a penalty?" "Take your choice—only get your hat on." He wheeled away. Penny stared after the back of his sun-burned neck. Why could he annoy her more than any other man she'd ever known? His very vitality; the way that shaft of late sun put sparks in his rusty hair—everything about him bothered her.

"Let's have it fast, Hughey," Clint said, "I've got a date—"

That's what he thought. She closed her typewriter desk with a bang. She looked in again—Clint's frown was concentrated on that latest picture of The Kid. He reached for a yellow telegram old Hughey held out. "I come to tell you first, Clint," the old fellow's shoulders slumped,

"because The Kid would want it written up on your page—where his friends could see it. He ain't comin' back, Clint."

Penny didn't get it at first—and then her chest went all tight for that old man in there. The way he stood—the tone of his voice—said that everything he'd been living for had been wiped out by a telegram sent to "the next of kin."

"I'll get it back to you," Clint kept frowning. "You know what to say about The Kid, Clint," old Hughey prompted. "Tell 'em about that sweet left of his, and how nobody ever got past it."

The old fellow talked on and on. Clint listened, his face deadpan. Penny Alder listened, too. She was still at her desk when Clint and Hughey Lawler came out. "That picture—" the old fellow said anxiously, "I wouldn't want to lose it—"

"I'll get it back to you," Clint was letting him go without even one word of sympathy. "Sure—well—thanks. I guess I won't be coming around any more, Clint. I mean, there won't be any more news about The Kid—"

Clint glowered as Hughey Lawler slowly strode away—then, suddenly, he strode after him. "You can't just walk out on your friends like that, Hughey." He gripped the old fellow's arm hard. "Drop around—anytime you feel like talking about The Kid—"

Penny doubted her ears, but the smile the old boy gave Clint was real enough. "Sure—I will, Clint."

Clint Lipton turned and came back—to halt at her desk. "You haven't got your hat on," said Clint gruffly. "I suppose that means it's another 'no date.'"

REA Setup Gives Impetus To Farm Electrification

Half of all United States farms have been electrified since the REA program was started.

In announcing the basic allotments for REA loans in the states, the department of agriculture compared the number of unelectrified farms in each state with the total number of farms in the state to give the percentage of unelectrified farms. The eight states having the highest proportion of electrified farms were Connecticut with 98.5 per cent, followed by Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Washington, New York, Idaho and Oregon, all of which were more than 92 per cent electrified.

At the other end of the list were North Dakota, with only a little more than 15 per cent of the farms electrified, preceded by South Dakota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Tennessee, New Mexico, Montana and Kansas, which had nearly 42 per cent electrified.

The other 32 states ranged between the 42 per cent and 92 per cent limits. For the country as a whole, the July, 1947, figures show 61 per cent of all farms electrified as compared with 54.3 per cent a year earlier. Nearly 400,000 farms were electrified during the 1947 fiscal year, the largest increase on record for any year since the program started. In 1935 less than 11 per cent of U. S. farms had electric service.

Engineers see applications as including automatic counting of automobiles on highways, operation of traffic signals upon approach of a vehicle and the "fencing" of restricted locations. When the beam, sent by the light source to the relay, which may be up to 1,000 feet away, is broken by any object, the relay sets into operation alarms, signals, counters and other electric equipment.

The light source of the device operates on the modulated-light principle. It sends a beam of light which is interrupted 900 times per second. The photoelectric relay is tuned so that it is responsive only to light at this frequency. Its performance is not influenced by changes in natural or artificial illumination. The light source has an infra-red filter which removes most of the visible light from the beam.

Enclosed in a weatherproof case, the device is so mounted that it has a wide field of operation.

The Wrong Music

JESSIE walked slowly through the park. Overhead the sky was clear, making the stars stand out. Tiny pinpoints of light, they left no trace of the storm which had blanketed the ground with a thick white cover. She turned and looked behind her. The solitary tracks she had made looked lonesome by themselves. There should be two sets, she thought with a sigh. Last New Year's Eve there were two sets. Mine and Jerry's. The thought of Jerry made her feel worse. She tried to push it out of her mind. See here, Jessie, she admonished herself, you're out here to get some exercise and enjoy yourself. Stop being a fool. It's over, finished. You and Jerry are all washed up. Forget it. But her inner mind wouldn't let her.

Ruth, her roommate, had the radio going full blast as she opened the door. Gay dance music poured out, filling the room with memories. "That you, Jess?" She called from the bedroom.

"Yeah," Jessie took off her pert little hat and threw it at the closet door, then regaining her self-control she laid it neatly on the shelf. "Wish you'd change your mind and go with us."

"I have a headache," she tried to get interested in a story. It was no use, even the stories were full of happy couples. As happy as Jerry and I used to be. There I go again,

Ruth, her roommate, had the radio going full blast. She reminded herself, why can't I just forget him? That stupid quarrel. She tried to remember what it had been about and couldn't. It seemed very important at the time. Anyway it had done the trick. I was almost over it too, she thought, until the holidays got here.

"Now if someone would just play Rhapsody in Blue," Ruth's voice was half mocking. "Do I look that bad?" Jessie turned around.

"You look worse. Honest, honey. I think you're crazy to sit around on New Year's Eve and stew about one man. The world is full of them."

"Not like Jerry."

"Jerry's a great guy all right but why grieve about him the rest of your life? You're only young once, you know."

"I'd just spoil things for the rest of you. You know what happened the last time I tried it. Everything we would do would remind me of him."

"Okay, honey," Ruth shrugged her shoulders, "have it your way." She went back into the bedroom and started dressing. Ten minutes later she came out and whirled around the room. "How do I look?" Jessie looked up from her magazine. "You look swell. He'll probably want to eat you tonight."

"Thanks, honey," Ruth started for the door as they heard a knock. It was her date.

Jessie sank back down in the chair as they left. I won't cry, she told herself. No matter what, I won't cry, but I can't stand that music any longer. She crossed the room and snapped off the radio. The sudden silence was even worse. She turned it back on and spun the dial. Music on every station. Worst of all it was music from all year. Music Jerry and she had danced to, she thought bitterly. The wrong music for now.

She looked up, startled by a knock on the door. "Hey," a man's voice called out. "Open up."

It was Jerry. "Hi, darling," he smiled, "if I'm not welcome you can throw me out. But I just had to try. I couldn't stay away on New Year's Eve."

Now, she thought happily as she rushed into his arms, now the music is right. Just right.

Pagans' New Year

The origin of the celebration of January 1 has been traced to the pagans, and at one period in the middle ages the debate over when the new year arrived became so furious that it was observed on four different days, March 25, December 25, Easter, and by a small group on January 1. When Augustus revised the calendar January 1 was adopted.

The Dark Continent Africa, an independent continent, has a shorter coast line for its size than any other continent. Despite its lack of gulfs, bays and other natural harbors and the fact that few safe places can be found for ships to dock, it has undergone prodigious modifications by the exploration and mutual jealousy which stirred European nations at various times to explore and conquer. It still was called the Dark Continent 70 years ago, because of the fact that it was almost impossible for ships to land.

Many Don't Believe Adams At each four year period when a president is to be selected many members of congress try for the office. However, in John Quincy Adams' opinion, as expressed while in the White House, if you want to be happy, go to congress, but don't be president. After he had served as president he was elected to congress. At that time he wrote in his diary, "My election as president was not half so gratifying."

Those Souvenir Guns Beware of souvenir weapons. No American ammunition is made for Jap arms. Many other foreign weapons are not safe for use with the generally more powerful similar American ammunition. The German semi-automatic Gewehr 41-M particularly is a potent postwar booby trap. Unless its bolt is locked securely in position, it will fly back and tear into a shooter's face.

Opposed Earlier Progress There was early opposition to electric trolleys on the ground they would scare horses. One inventor suggested that trolleys be camouflaged with a dummy horse's head. Some 108 years ago advertisements appeared for the public to fight against railroad expansion. In the City of Niles many were opposed to telephone, believing that the wires soon would block the cities.

Slash Burning Benefits Slash burning is a method of minimizing fire danger on cut-over areas by disposing of the accumulation of tree tops, limbs, windfalls, dead underbrush and other debris, which is on the ground after logging. The burning must be done in small units and is safest when the slash is damp from recent rains or snowfalls. Slash burning is unnecessary in many forest regions.

Non-Staining Rubber Recent improvement in synthetic rubber makes the product non-staining. This non-staining feature is achieved by using a new rubber stabilizer or preservative, which does not cause white rubber to darken on exposure to sunlight and which does not stain white or light colored surfaces with which it comes in contact.

Battery Protection Pouring out the electrolyte and putting the battery away when not in use is a good way to ruin it. Keep it charged, with the liquid above the tops of the plates. Since a battery gradually loses charge while standing and because a discharged battery deteriorates rapidly, a charger circuit should be put on each a month.

Brook Trout Smaller The general color of the brook trout is black and may be more or less mottled or barred with red spots along the sides. The body is oblong, moderately compressed; head rather large but not long; snout bluntish; mouth large with the maxillary reaching beyond the orbit; caudal fin slightly lunate in the adult and forked in the young. Size of the brook trout varies greatly. Trout weighing six to eight pounds have been recorded but the larger specimens are not so common today as they were years ago.

Pressure Canning A pressure canner may be used for processing fruits. If it is deep enough it may be used as a water bath canner. A pressure canner may be used to process fruits at 0 to 1 pound pressure without having the containers of food completely covered with water. Put water in the canner to the shoulders of the jars; fasten cover. When the live steam pours steadily from the open vent, start counting time. Leave vent open and process for the same time given for the boiling-water bath.

Arab League States The seven leading Arab states which in 1945 formed the common front of the Arab League cover a vast region extending north, south and east of Palestine. They are Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Yemen. These Arab nations spread a shifting yet remarkably uniform panorama of life in an area nearly 150 times the size of Palestine. Everywhere the signs of the modern innovations that have resulted from the gradual penetration of western ways.

Searching for New Plants Plant explorers of the U. S. department of agriculture are searching the world for new plants and breeding stock to improve crops already in use in this country. Most of U. S. crops originate from plants brought from abroad. Importation of crops has been taking place since colonial times, but plant scientists say that not half of the world's plants which might grow in the U. S. have been tried here.

Farmers Use Plywood Many farm buildings, such as portable chicken brooders, are built of exterior fir plywood because they are draft-free and warm, as well as easy to move. New silos are built entirely of plywood and old silos are lined with exterior plywood to get a smooth, tight inner surface.

Not So Satisfied

A QUAKER put up a sign on a vacant piece of ground next to his house: "I will give this lot to anyone who is really satisfied."
A wealthy farmer, as he rode by, read it. Stopping, he said, "Since my Quaker friend is going to give this piece away, I may as well have it as anyone else. I am rich. I have all I need, so I am able to qualify." He went up to the door. "And is thee really satisfied?" asked the Quaker.
"I have all I need and am well satisfied."
"Friend," said the other, "if thee is satisfied, what does thee want with my lot?"

HOW IT STARTED
"BY HOOK OR BY CROOK." This expression has an interesting origin. In feudal times the peasants were not permitted to cut down trees because all forests belonged to the lord of the manor. However, for the purpose of heating and cooking, they were allowed to gather what limbs, twigs, etc., they could reach "by hook or by crook." Meaning, they could have all branches cut down with a pruning hook or pulled down with a shepherd's crook.
"HIS NAME IS MUD." This phrase originated from the misfortunes of Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, convicted of complicity in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln and sentenced to imprisonment at Fort Jefferson, Fla.

FRAGILE STUFF

A woman was mailing the old family Bible to her brother in a distant city. The postal clerk examined the heavy package carefully and inquired if it contained anything breakable. "Nothing but the Ten Commandments," was the quick reply.

High Speed

An excited woman threw a faded apron on the counter in a shop. "Look at this!" she cried. "Look at it!"
"I'm looking at it," said the assistant. "What about it?"
"What about it?" shouted the woman. "Why, when you sold me that apron you said its color was fast. And look what happened. The color came out at the first washing!"
"Well," answered the girl, looking somewhat surprised, "wasn't that fast enough?"

MODERN FOOD

OH, YEAH!
Mister, how do you account for the fact that I found a piece of rubber tire in one of the sausages I bought here last week?
"My dear madam, that only goes to show that the automobile is replacing the horse everywhere."

Prepared

Mike met his friend Joe, who was sporting three hats, one on top of another.
"What's the idea?" demanded Mike.
"I've decided to become a politician," replied Joe.
"What are you wearing three hats for?"
"A politician has one hat to cover his head, another he tosses into the ring, and one hat he talks through."

They Catch 'Em

A former serviceman, after long and futile searching for more adequate shelter, decided to buy one of these cracker-box houses he'd be able to finance with the help of a G.I. loan. Telephoning his wife the news, he said:
"Frankly, I don't know how long it's going to stand up, but there's one thing about it: I've found the guy who knew how to build a better mousetrap!"

SNAPPY SERVICE

Bill--My insurance company is so fast that a man got his check half an hour after his accident.
Phil--That's nothing. My company is so fast that a man who fell off a 10-story building had his check handed to him as he passed the third floor!

Making a Job

A young fellow called at the big business house to apply for a job that he had seen advertised.
"But my dear man," said the manager, "you are much too late! Why I've had over a thousand applications already!"
"Well," he said, after a while, "how about employing me to classify the applications?"

He Started It

DeTwitter--I see they have dug up the skeleton of a prehistoric giant in Java.
McTwee--Yes, dear boy-- he was doubtless the first of the heavy coffee drinkers.

Sounds Suspicious

Voice over telephone--Tommy Hagan will not be in school today.
Teacher--Who is this speaking, please?
Voice--This is my father speaking.

AROUND THE HOUSE

For a flash of color with your skirt and blouse or wool dress try the new vogue--a thin wool scarf with fringed ends used as a sash.

A brilliant polish can be given to cleaned glass such as mirrors, picture glass or door glass by rubbing with a lintless cloth which has been dampened with cold vinegar.

A spicy cookie put into the cookie jar with a plain vanilla wafer will ruin both. Fill the jar with one kind and use another jar for other cookies.

A noted authority on flowers and flower arrangement advises the use of glass or white pottery vases or bowls as these go well with the colors of all flowers and the decorative colors in all rooms. Vases of decided color, unless bought especially to go with a particular color scheme or period room, distract attention from their contents.

After washing your face with warm water and rinsing with cold, pat on witch hazel. This will close pores and make your skin smooth and soft.

Sagging floors often are caused by wood shrinkage or the warping of a joist. A fairly satisfactory correction can be made by driving wedges between the top of the joist and the floor. Rubber wedges cut from an old automobile tire often will reduce the creaking.

It isn't necessary to soak clothes for more than 30 minutes. Longer soakings will open the fibers.

Streamlined Skiers Do 90 MPH Down Icy Hill

In the past decade, champion skiers entered in Flying Kilometer events, in which the object is to cover the distance of 3,281 feet down an iced hill in the least time, have hit speeds as high as 90 miles an hour when wearing a streamlined metal hood that materially lessens wind resistance.

Let's go to town -at home!

NO TELLING what tomorrow's weather may be. It fools the best fore-caster. But we do want chinks for the windows. We do need a carpet sweeper, a new percolator, and a new end-table in the living-room. And we don't want to slosh around rainy streets to hunt them. Problem: How to thwart the weather man. Simple enough! Let's sit down by the fireplace and read the advertisements. Here it's comfortable and snug. We'll take the newspaper page by page, compare prices, qualities, brand-names. Tomorrow, rain or shine, we'll head for the store that has what we want, and home again in a jiffy.
"Buying at Home"--through the advertising columns--gives you wide selection, more time to decide, and satisfaction when you decide.
