The Kewaskum Legion cagers played a busy schedule in Land O' Lakes competition the past week. With the close of the season approaching, the team got in three games but did not fare too well, winning one and losing two of the contests.

On the home floor on Feb. 1, the Legion trounced Thiensville by a decisive 74-32 score, a difference of 42 points. Last Thursday these same teams met at Thiensville and Kewaskum was defeated, 49-29, by this same Thiensville squad which is second last in the standings.

With forward Darkow paving the way with 14 points, Thiensville was ahead most of the game. Bilgo's 10 were high for the Legion. Kewaskum just couldn't get rolling.

GRAFTON 40; KEWASKUM 40

Kewaskum took it on the chin again Sunday night at Grafton but by a close score. The Legion was nosed out, 42-40, in a heartbreaker. The locals had four shots at the basket with only seconds remaining and missed all of them.

The Legion was ahead of Grafton all through the game until the last quarter when a rally by the home club finally put them ahead at the very end. Kewaskum started fast and built up a 17-7 advantage at the quarter. They still led by 7 points at the half, 23-21.

KEWASKUM 76; HUSTISFORD 37

After its two defeats, Kewaskum really took it out on Hustisford here Tuesday night when the team ran up its highest score of the season to belt the visitors, 76-37, a margin of 39 points.

The boys were really on the ball on Tuesday and poured it on with all of the players hitting and the scoring being pretty evenly divided. The Legion started slow and missed numerous shots to trail 10-8 at the quarter. Then they got hot and ran up 23 points in the second period while checking Hustisford with 4. This made it 31-14 at the intermission. Kewaskum continued to pour it in and led, 51-26 at the third quarter.

W. Tessar, Krueger and Honeck, with 15, 13 and 12 points respectively, led the massacre. W. Hackborth's 13 were best for the losers.

RIVERS FIVE ALSO PLAYS 3 GAMES; WINS 2, LOSES 1

The Land O' Rivers team had an equally busy week, also playing three games. They fared better than the Lakes club, winning two and losing one contest.

Saturday night at Hartford the Rivers lost to fourth place Hartford, 36-28. The tussle was close with Hartford pulling ahead in the second half after trailing at the half. Fleischman and Hafemann led the scorers with ten points apiece.

Sunday night at Grafton the Rivers won a double overtime victory deserving mention by Ripley. Kewaskum lost five players on fouls and had only three left to finish the game. These three outscored five Grafton players to win, 47-45, in one of the most thrilling games ever witnessed. The teams were tied, 25-25, at the end of the game. In the first overtime the locals lost their fourth man on fouls. They had only four left and these four played Grafton's five to a 39-29 tie. In the second overtime Kewaskum lost another player via foul, leaving three—Hafemann, Schloef, and Bunkelmann. These three scored 8 points to 6 by Grafton's five to win an unbelievable victory. FIRST PLACE RANDOM LAKE HERE ON SUNDAY; LOCAL OLD TIMERS TAKE ON RIVERS FIVE

The biggest double attraction of the season is in store this Sunday. In the main game of the evening the Lakes five will tackle league leading Random Lake, while in the preliminary a local squad of old timers, retired from the game, will take on the Rivers team.

Random Lake has won 12 out of 13 only 2 this season. In the first meeting at Random the Lakers downed Kewaskum, 61-48, but the teams were more evenly matched than the score indicates. Random, with the championship as good as cinched, should win but Kewaskum has high hopes of upsetting them on the home floor.

A large squad of old timers will tackle the Rivers cagers. The old veterans are a lusher in practice. Monday night, former stars who will see action for the old timers will include "Mix" Marx, Ralph Marx, Fred Dorn, "Harney" Frost, Joe Miller, Harold Claus, Bill Schneider, Lee Honeck, Harold Schlosser, "Bud" Korth, Cyril Wietor, Roger Reindl, Lou Bath, Norm

Quotas Established for Red Cross Drive

A quota of $5,200 has been established for the 1948 fund drive of the West Bend chapter of the American Red Cross, which will begin Monday, March 1, and end on March 15, according to a statement released by drive chairman Matt Goring Jr. Wednesday.

Goring said that while the West Bend chapter would actually need to raise nearly twice that amount this year, an allotment of $5,000 from reserves accumulated by over-subscription during the war years made it possible to set a quota of $5,200 for the coming drive.

Preparing for a round of organizational meetings with township, village and city campaign volunteers, Goring announced the breakdown of the drive quota as follows:

Townships—Barton, $160; Farmington, $290; Jackson, $290; Kewaskum, $160; Trenton, $290; Wayne, $210, and West Bend, $290. In total the seven townships have a quota of $1,690, about one-third of the general total.

Village quotas total $790 and are broken down as follows: Barton, $290; Jackson, $185, and Kewaskum, $315.

The city of West Bend has a quota of $3,750.

Goring said Wednesday that the people in the West Bend chapter area could be proud of their record in previous drives, and it was his hope they would give generous support and cooperation in the 1948 campaign.

Twice-Told White House Tale Retold

John Adams Hung Clothes On Limb, Swam in Potomac

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator. WASHINGTON.—At a recent press and radio conference, one of the reporters ribbed the President about the balcony he was building on the White House, which the Washington fine arts commission objects to as destroying the architectural beauty of the building.

Someone suggested he might conduct a "back porch" political campaign from it. Mr. Truman came right back with the remark that it was a front porch. That, in a sense, is correct, for the southern facade of the White House originally was intended as the front of the building.

Of late, the President has been given to historical anecdotes—he's a great student of American history—and this time he told us a story which I have heard before from presidential lips anent the White House "front yard" of other days.

There was, in those days, said Mr. Truman, a certain female journalist who had been unable to get an interview with the President. So she slipped down to the canal bank at dawn, waited until he was immersed, then sat on his clothes and stayed there until he answered her questions, decently draped in the waters.

I repeated the story on the air as Mr. Truman told it, and in the next day's mail received a letter from Mr. Daniel J. Kelly Jr., of South Bend, Ind., who is a collector of early historical newspapers.

"I enjoyed your reference in a recent broadcast to the newspaper woman who sat on President Adams' clothes until he agreed to give her an interview. 'The President Adams was John Quincy Adams, and the woman newspaper reporter was Anne Royall. However, the story does not conform to the facts, and you might mention this to President Truman the next time the story is brought up.'

"John Quincy Adams was an ardent and accomplished swimmer and he enjoyed a daily plunge into the Potomac even while President. He was also an ardent diarist, and his diary contains many a mention of his dips in the river.

"Anne Royall was Adams' Washington contemporary—a vicious writer and a malevolent journalist. In 1829 she was convicted of being a 'common scold.' Her first contact with Adams was in 1824 when she called at the White House to demand a pension as a Revolutionary war widow. Adams mentioned her in a very uncomplimentary manner in his diary.

Coming away from a debate on taxes I couldn't help feeling that the discussion, scholarly as it had appeared at points, and ringing with altruism at others, had offered a political potion, only slightly flavored with any essence of economics. How willing is congress to depart from the past, if such a departure affects political futures?

Pondering this, I came upon a dispatch in the London Daily Herald from Romney Marsh, Kent. It recounted how, in the lav-lit sitting room of a six-century-old farm, a 72-year-old farmer, Archibald Edwin Waddell, complained to a reporter that he was about to be thrown into bankruptcy because he refused to pay 75 pounds and 3 shillings—some $300—in "tithes."

"I shall probably die muttering," Waddell said, "against this wicked, anti-social custom." For previous refusals to pay tithes, there had been four seizures from his farm: bullocks, sheep, pigs, farm implements, furniture, his clothing and his cart-horse.

FRIEND IN NEED... Kathleen Brandt, II, of Washington, D. C., won herself a staunch and feathered friend in this wild pigeon after "un-freezing" it when she found the bird frozen in a snowbank near her home.

NEWS REVIEW

South Threatens Split; Self Rationing Proposed

President Truman, who seems to run to 10-point programs, tossed another one to congress—concerning the preservation and protection of civil rights—and then stood aside to await the explosion.

It came quickly. Southern Democrats, hopping mad over at least four of the 10 controversial points, began to talk seriously of calling a Dixie convention to split away from Mr. Truman on the civil rights issue.

Focus of the current disunity was a bill, up for approval by the senate labor committee, to create a national commission against job discrimination on grounds of race, creed or color.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (Dem., La.) predicted that if the bill were approved in its present form the party would erupt into open warfare. Both foes and backers of the measure agreed that it would be a close thing.

The four proposals that most inflamed the southerners were the ones calling for (1) a federal anti-lynching law, (2) a permat at fair employment practice commission, (3) an end to Jim Crow rules in transportation and (4) outlawing of state poll taxes.

Remainder of the points advocated by the President were: A permanent commission on civil rights, a joint congressional committee on civil rights, a civil rights division in the justice department; tightening of civil rights statutes; home rule for the District of Columbia; statehood for Alaska and Hawaii; equalization of naturalization opportunities, and settlement of evacuation claims of Japanese-Americans.

Because 1948 is an election year, and a presidential election year at that, the program, which otherwise might be ignored, was certain to get hot partisan debate.

In answer to Mr. Truman's firm statement that "something must be done" about the civil rights issue, southern Democrats replied that they were thinking of calling an all-southern convention to pick its own presidential candidate.

Some thought that too drastic a step, but at Jackson, Miss., Walter Sillers, speaker of the Mississippi house of representatives, said he flatly favored such a course in order to withhold at least part of the South's electoral votes from Mr. Truman.

SELF RATIONING: Second Best

Manifestly stymied in its efforts to get congress to pass rationing and price control legislation, the administration tried a new approach in the form of an appeal for nationwide self-rationing.

Greater public support of an intensified drive for voluntary food conservation would have to be developed if living costs are to be curbed, the administration decided.

As an initial step representatives of 18 consumer, producer and distributor groups met with Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture, to map details of the nationwide program.

IN WASHINGTON... Miss Nora Martins (above), daughter of Brazilian ambassador Carlos Martins, was declared Miss United Nations of 1948, proving that all diplomats are not necessarily old fuddie-duddies.

IN NEW YORK... Sam Yacht, a landlord, got tired of complaints about inadequate heat and hot water from his tenants, offered to give them his building, got no takers.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Benefit Limitations Told

Veterans' administration has ruled that World War II veterans are ineligible for benefits of the G.I. bill or the vocational rehabilitation act if they are taking certain other training financed by other federal appropriations. Included in these were:

- 1. U. S. public health training programs for persons receiving fellowships or salaries from state and other grant-in-aid funds derived wholly or in part from federal appropriations;
2. U. S. maritime commission training programs;
3. Resident training programs in hospitals, clinics, medical or dental laboratories owned or operated by the U. S. government;

So if you are a veteran of World War II and are engaged in any of the above programs you are not eligible for G. I. benefits and training at the same time. VA points out with reference to medical training in its own hospitals, the restriction does not apply to clinical psychologists who may receive subsistence allowances based on the training provided them in educational institutions. They also may be paid from government funds for part-time work in VA stations where neuro-psychiatric veterans are treated.

Questions and Answers

Q. We have a neighbor family, a father and mother, of a man in the service, whom we are sure comes within the classification of dependent parents. We are wondering if you would give us the regulations which govern dependency. These folks are not destitute, but their son died in the service a few weeks ago and there must be something the government can do to help them.—Mr. and Mrs. A.J.H., Olathe, Kas.

A. According to Veterans' administration, dependency will be held to exist if the father or mother of the veteran does not have an income sufficient to provide reasonable maintenance for both or for members of their families under legal age, or for dependent adult members of the family if the dependency of such adult member results from mental or physical incapacity. Suggest that these folks contact their nearest Veterans' administration office immediately.

Q. I was inducted into the service in June, 1946, and was in for two years. I was working up to the time I entered service and the federal tax was being deducted from my pay each week. I would like to know if a bill has been passed stating that anyone entering service would not have to pay any income tax for that year. If that is correct, would I get the tax back on the five months I worked and where and how would I go about getting a refund of my federal income tax?—C.W.J., Havre de Grace, Md.

A. The internal revenue bureau says there is no such law or ruling which applies to a living person. There is a law which forgives the taxes of a member of the armed services killed in action. However, your taxes are due and collectable on all income other than military income to the day you enter service and from the day you leave military service.

Q. My buddy and I both made claims for disability ratings with Veterans' administration. We have been battling back and forth for some time with VA trying to get a satisfactory rating. What we want to know is the meaning of "mm" which was noted on my rating and "nn" which was on my buddy's paper. Can you tell us what they mean?—Veterans, Charlottesville, Va.

A. According to VA those are code letters and the code "mm" denotes conditions not diagnosed at the time of the last examination by the VA, but disclosed prior thereto. An "nn" rating is employed when a veteran makes claim that he is disabled by a certain disease or injury which is not disclosed by the evidence and reports of physical examination.

Q. Since my discharge from the army about seven months ago I have been having trouble with my eyes. I am wondering if a veteran is entitled to get glasses free from the government.—J.J.G., Leesburg, Fla.

A. Yes, under certain circumstances: (a) if your eye trouble is from a service-connected disability; (b) if it is a necessary part of hospital treatment or domiciliary care; or (c) if you are taking training under the G.I. bill and glasses are necessary to prevent interruption of this training.

Q. While I was in the service during the war I spent about 18 months in the navy college training program (V-12). Please tell me whether this time will be deducted from my educational benefits under the G.I. bill of rights.—B. S. K., San Francisco, Calif.

A. Time spent in the army specialized training program, the navy V-12 program or the military, navy or coast guard academies may not be counted for educational benefits under the G.I. bill. You should receive the full length of training to which your service entitles you.

Ain't It So? To err is human, but when the eraser wears out before the pencil, you're overdoing it. Knowledge and timber should not be used until they are properly seasoned. Worry is like a rocking chair. It will give you something to do, but it won't get you anywhere.

INFLATION: Italian Style

Efforts by the Italian government to put new coins into circulation to replace some of the nation's paper money have been abandoned because of the inflation. Fantastically soaring costs of even the most minor articles, such as newspapers and matches, made the coins virtually worthless even before they were minted. Devaluation set in while tools to make the coins were being prepared.

That's the Limit. There's a limit to everything, even the atomic bomb—at least in its present form. Dr. George A. Gamow, professor of theoretical physics at George Washington university, Washington, D. C., says that the atomic bomb as it is known today definitely is not out of this world—would be opened up long before an attempt could be made to begin human interplanetary travel.

BARBS... by Baukhage

According to AP, Dave Bingle, who resigned as city truck driver in Cincinnati last fall to run for the city council and was elected, has quit the council to return to his old job. Bingle, hangle, bungle, he shouldn't have left the jungle.

Two translation slayings in cells at a boys' training school in Missouri led State Sen. Ralph Erd-

SHORTY OUTMATCHES A KILLER

By JOE STEEL

"WELL," I says to Shorty No-Legs, "this is it. You bust it or it busts you."

It was undoubtedly a very tough case. Sheriff Shorty No-Legs would first have to prove it accident or murder. If murder, then he'd have to catch the murderer. And if he failed anywhere along the line he'd have to resign.

But that was the way Shorty—World War I veteran—had asked for it. There had been so many unsolved murders in Dry Creek county that Shorty ran on his word that he would resign whenever he failed to solve a case.

The name Shorty had given when he first came to Scenic City came from the fact that he actually had no legs. There were barely enough stumps below Shorty's powerful body to enable him to do what he cheerfully called walking.

"I'm blowing like a winded horse," Shorty said, glancing back over the boulder-strewn way down have stayed with medicine or law. Barbers are always skinny."

"I'd hunted with him many times, and seen him climb around in the mountain lots, but now he amazed even me. He was driving hard on this case. We clambered up to the highway just as the ambulance arrived.

"Take him to Doc's," No-Legs said. But we found out, after a long-delayed breakfast, that the Doc didn't find any trace of drugs or liquor on the body.

"Maybe he went to sleep," I said. "Maybe," agreed Shorty. "Now just prove it and I can resume my disturbed slumbers."

I couldn't, of course. "Who found him?" I asked.

"Doc. Comin' back from a night call over in the hills somewhere and noticed the broken guard rail."

"What do you think?"

"I don't," he said. "I ain't got nothing to think on. There's got to be some other angles."

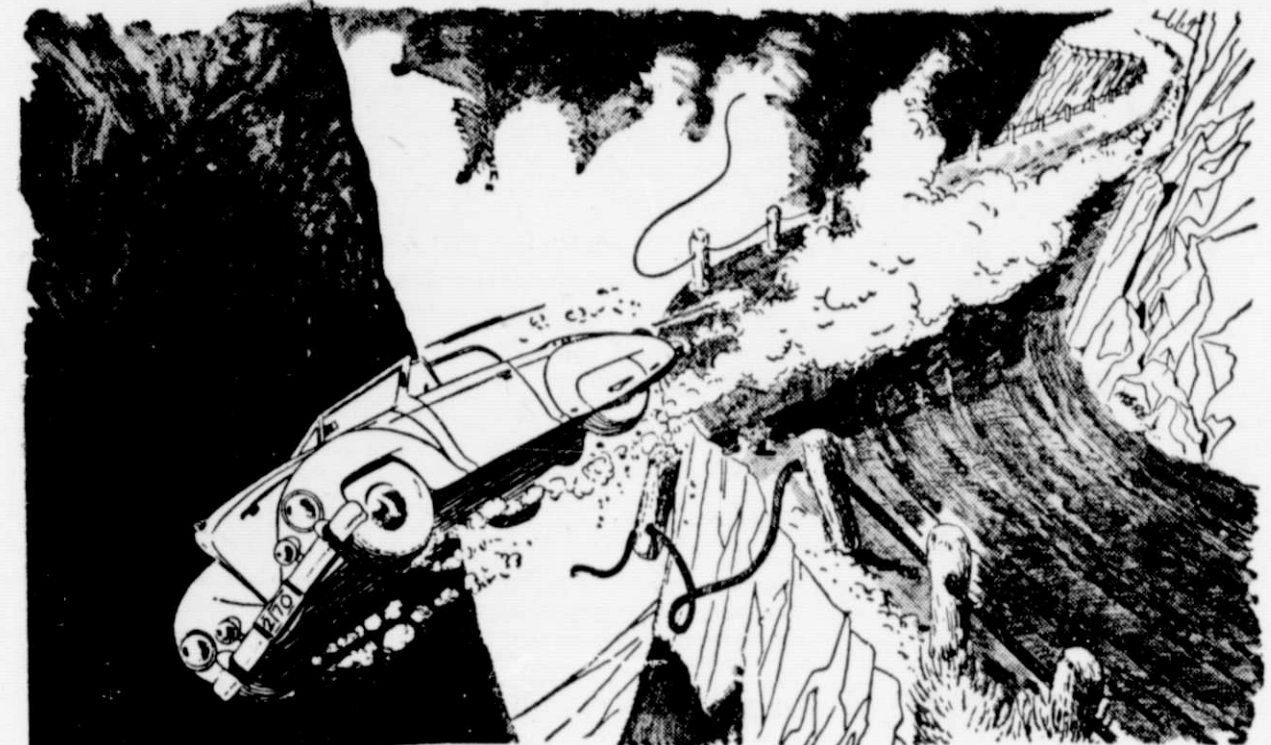

ing that now. He never seemed to have to ask questions. He'd just wait the other guy out—squeeze him dry with the weight of dead silence.

I could see the pressure on Rhodes. Like everybody else—he'd a lot rather No-Legs would fire questions than just stare.

Forced on the defensive and obviously angry at having to explain further to the legless owl before him, Rhodes started again. "You see, I came out on the train for a deer hunt while Lefty wound up our business. He was to meet me here today and we'd go on together." He ground his conversation to a stop.

No-Legs sure surprised both "Chick" and me with his next move. He twisted his wrist and the big gun in his hip holster moved into Rhodes' stomach. "You're under arrest for murder," he said.

Rhodes soon recovered from his surprise and grinned wickedly. "I

The roadster had been moving on the steep down grade toward Scenic City when it failed to make a hairpin turn and jitterbugged its dance of death down the almost sheer mountain side.

which he had slipped and slid to where the battered sports roadster and the man's body lay.

Several hundred feet above looped the narrow concrete ribbon of Blue River pass highway. The roadster had been moving on the steep down grade toward Scenic City when it failed to make a hairpin turn and jitterbugged its dance of death down the almost sheer mountain side.

No-Legs mopped his face with a huge bandana and began a painstaking search of the wreckage. There wasn't much. The dead man wore a rather flashy suit. He had on yellow shoes, so new that he had scratches in the instep of the left one could plainly be seen. Cigarettes, odds and ends, and a picture of the dead man and a little geezer evidently named "Chick," rounded out the inventory.

"Somebody," said No-Legs, "could have got this guy drunk or drugged, driven him to this curve, headed the roadster for the railing, and stepped out. The pavement wouldn't show any tracks," he added sadly.

"What do we do now?"

"Nothing. When you're hunting geese the first thing to do is stay in the blind. Then if they don't fly in to you after so long, you try to crawl up on them. We ain't stayed in the blind long enough yet."

He was right. Soon after dinner a smallish fellow showed up at Shorty's office. He was in hunting togs and would have looked like Little Lord Fauntleroy if it hadn't been for beetling black eyebrows and the vicious looking cigar he was smoking.

"I'm 'Chick' Rhodes," he said, "and I wanted to talk with you about the wreck out on Blue River pass. Heard about it at the cafe."

No-Legs kept Rhodes talking, then finally tossed the picture he had taken from the dead man on to the desk. Three words were under it: "Lefty and Chick."

"That's Lefty all right," Rhodes said. "And that's me," pointing to the other figure. "Taken in Chicago just before me and Lefty sold our pool hall and headed for California. Lefty was going to be drafted, and I couldn't run the place myself. Figure maybe I could handle a sandwhich stand in California for the duration."

You could never tell from looking at No-Legs what he was thinking. He'd spread his stumps apart, roll his eyes up at your face and stare as unblinking as an owl. He was do-can prove I was back up in the hills for a week until an hour ago. I couldn't have done it."

"That's right," said No-Legs. "But you probably helped engineer it!" Over Rhodes' threats of suit and vengeance, No-Legs had him locked up.

"Let's go to Rhodes' hotel," he said, without giving me a chance to ask questions. Arrived in "Chick's" room, he began digging in the suitcases. "Here they are." He said it just like he knew they'd be there. They were insurance policies on the life of George (Lefty) Ellitto. Twenty-five thousand dollars in all.

"That dead man ain't Ellitto," No-Legs said. "I think Ellitto must have done the actual murder."

I still couldn't get it. But that evening No-Legs met me in the cafe and gave me the dope. Rhodes had fessed up. "It was like I said. Ellitto killed him. You see Ellitto and Rhodes found a guy in Chicago that looked just like Ellitto. They offered him a good proposition to go West with them. Up on the pass Ellitto stops the car on a pretense of getting the other fellow to drive.

"Then, he knocks him in the head, stows him behind the wheel and maneuvers the car over the cliff. We couldn't tell whether the fellow had been hit in the head or got the bump in the wreck."

I began to see. "Rhodes was to collect the insurance, meet Ellitto in Old Mexico or some place and live happily ever after." Then I got out the question that had bothered me all afternoon. "How did you know the dead man wasn't Ellitto?"

Metallic Flesh and Bone Used for Artificial Ears

Metallic flesh and bone made from tantalum are providing new ears and rehabilitating torn nerves and other tissues for thousands of persons, Dr. Clarence W. Balke reported to American Chemical Society.

Artificial ears have been grown on frameworks of tantalum wire, and more than 5,000 skull injuries have been repaired with tantalum plates.

Thousands of severed or injured nerves have been made sound again with tantalum foil, and literally miles of wire have been used for surgical sutures, Dr. Balke reported.

Tantalum is called "biologically acceptable" since body tissues adhere to and grow over the metal. Both tantalum and columbium are completely non-irritating to living tissue, and they are not made irritating by pathological or disease conditions within the tissues.

Implants of tantalum gauze are used where muscular or other soft tissue is either milling or has been removed. Final repair of recurrent hernia and closure of abdominal walls after cancer removal are outstanding illustrations.

Solitude

Grace Noll Crowell

I USED to seek a crowd to find delight,
And this they gave me—laughter and brief song,
Bright powdered wings that dusted off in flight,
And bubbled beauty, nothing lasting long.
But once I found a pathway down my heart:
A dim, untraversed way I had not known,
I walked it timidly, a thing apart,
Bewildered that I found myself alone.

But now I seek that beautiful retreat,
And find such cool, deep peace, such sheer delight,
Cold springs of water welling at my feet,
White flowers by day, white guiding stars by night,
The old crowd's laughter falls upon my ear,
I am exploring, and I do not hear.

Early Sheepmen Imported Merinos to Improve Flock

President Jefferson knew that wool could become important in the new land. He urged our ambassador to Spain, Washington Irving, to send home as many Merinos as possible. Several thousand of these sheep were imported to improve American flocks.

The first woolen mill in the United States had opened in 1788. George Washington ordered some sturdy brown cloth from this mill. The suit which he wore at his first inauguration as president was made from this cloth.

As the pioneers moved westward, sheep went with them. The New England states, however, were the leading wool growers until about 1850.

After 1840, great flocks began to be developed in the West. The California gold rush in 1849 brought thousands of sheep into that state. Many of these sheep were used for

Fruit Puddings Are Mouth-Watering!

Fruit Puddings

Dessert lovers everywhere enjoy deep-dish, fruit puddings with their crisp crusts, their mouth-watering fragrance. The grand thing about them is that you may have them at any time during the year, but especially during the months when fresh fruit is not so readily available.

First of all, there are canned cherries, plump, red and juicy. But don't stop there, for you may like to use apples or figs, pears and apricots, and even some of the citrus fruits. All of them are happy inspiration for meals that you want to be filling and hearty.

Another thing you'll like about these puddings is that they are simplicity itself to prepare. Use them often for economy's sake on days when you use the oven for the rest of the meal.

Here's What to Do With Leftovers

Poultry that is left over can be glamorized in salads, served as potato pie with biscuit or mashed potato crust, or creamed on toast. Scallop with macaroni, noodles or rice.

Cooked vegetables may go into salads or soups; or, cream them and serve in toast cups or croutades. Use with meat, poultry or fish in one of the leftovers suggested for them.

Egg whites may go into angel food or white cakes; meringues, or whipped for fruit drinks.

Make leftover fish into cakes or croquettes. Cream it and serve on biscuits or toast; add to cream soup or to soufflé.

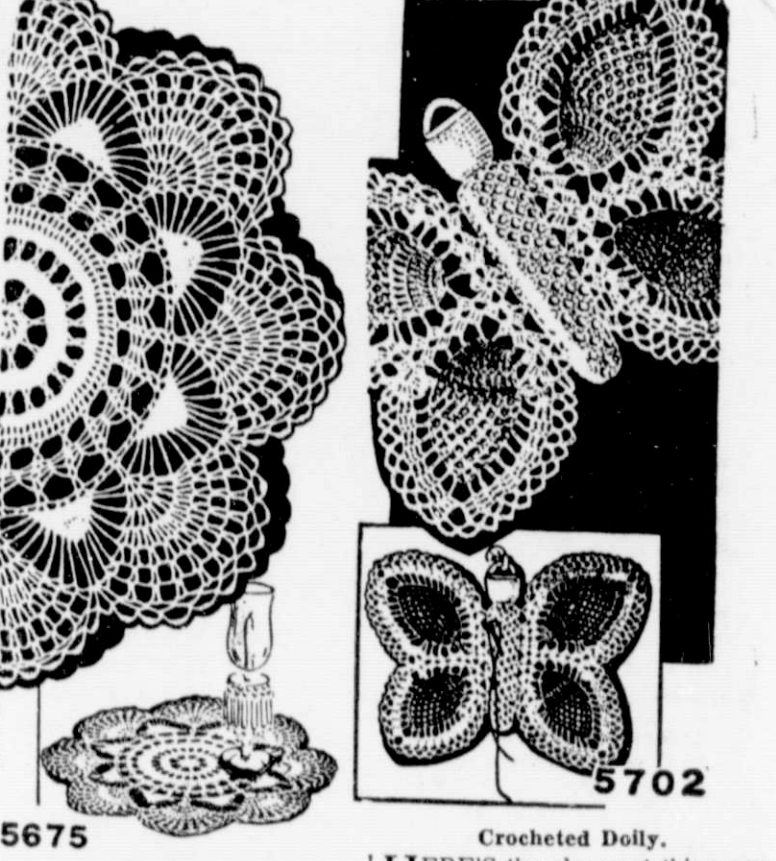

Leftover meats may be used in any of the following: Omelets, soufflés, croquettes or timbales. Add a vegetable which also may be a leftover and use as hash, stew or for meat pie. If there isn't enough for a main dish, chop and extend with vegetable and dressing to use as sandwich filling.

ABOUT OUR PRESIDENTS

CALVIN COOLIDGE took the oath of office twice, the first time on August 2, 1923, when the oath was administered to him in Vermont by his father, a Vermont justice of the peace, four hours and seventeen minutes after the death of President Harding. When President Coolidge reached Washington he was taken to the Metropolitan club by Attorney General Daugherty, who said that since Coolidge's father was not a federal official, there might be some doubt as to his capacity to administer the oath to a President. Chief Justice Hoehling, of the District of Columbia Supreme court, was summoned to the Metropolitan club and administered a second oath to the President.

POULTRY OUTLOOK FOR 1948

The past few weeks have seen low egg prices and high feed prices. This extremely unfavorable egg-feed ratio has discouraged many poultry flock owners. What the future egg market price will be is anybody's guess. Indications are that the egg-feed ratio will be more favorable in the future. In the light of this, poultrymen are advised to make only slight reductions in their flocks and in the number of baby chicks to be raised this spring.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Jealousy Proves Costly Sin
Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

Shame and grief shut her somewhat into herself after that and she devoted herself to her violin practice.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WHEN Alice Kent married she had a secret. She wed at 27, married a distinguished professional man some years her senior. The secret had to do with something Alice had done at 20. At that age she was deeply in love and willing to sacrifice everything for it. The young man who was her lover had no money, no job, no prospects. He was—like herself—being supported by his parents, who lived a thousand miles away from the college both Alice and Dean attended.

Alice and Dean carried on their unhappy secret affair for some months. Then the death of Dean's father called him suddenly home, to support an invalid mother and two younger brothers. Alice grieved and waited, waited a year—another year, and then received the announcement of Dean's marriage.

Shame and grief shut her somewhat into herself after that, and she devoted herself to her violin practice. John Kent is an amateur musician, too. Their piano and violin work first drew them together, drew them to an ideally happy marriage. They have one daughter, Verity, who shows musical talent even now, at 6.

Shadow Impends.

"Our life together has been ideal," writes Alice. "I have been the happiest woman in the world for nine years. Now comes a real shadow. John recently has been fretting me with questions as to my past life. I must either lie or tell him the truth, one of these days. I deeply resent the necessity of doing either. He idolizes me, he idolizes our wonderful musical life together.

"Yet he wants assurance—over and over again—that there is nobody else, that there never was anyone else, 'most seriously, that is just what I desire, eh, Alice? You never really loved any man but me, eh?"

"I feel as if he would drive me crazy with his hints and his curiosity," writes Alice. "I already have put him off more than once with a half-amused reference to the fact that I was three years old when we met, he then in high school, and that of course I instantly fell for his charms. He comes back and back to the subject and has managed to get me into a nervous state that drives me to you for help. Dean never has returned to our town; whether he is living or dead I don't know and am not apt to find out. The past seems dead, but to John it may seem very much alive. What would you do?"

Absurd Concern.

The absurdity of John's sudden concern, Alice evidently doesn't impress him, and therefore has to be taken seriously. To be fortunate enough to have a devoted wife and lovely child, his home filled with music and his financial affairs unusually satisfactory, isn't enough for John. He must dig into the past, excavate something that will make him and Alice miserable and then, probably, go to extreme pains to wipe it all out again, understand, be generous, forgive and forget.

Certain types of men and women really seem to enjoy torturing themselves this way.

Peter is an enthusiastic guest.

Youngsters Chew Sugar Cane for Research

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y. — In an experiment designed to determine whether sugar is harmful to teeth and whether chewy foods help prevent cavities, a group of 100 children at Children's Village, a privately supported school for unadjusted boys, will chew more than a mile of sugar cane stalks every three weeks.

The study is supported by Sugar Research foundation, with the consultative aid of Dr. Charles E. Bod-

COST OF JEALOUSY

Jealousy, the most costly of all cardinal sins, knows no law, Miss Norris warns in today's article. Certain types of men and women actually seem to enjoy torturing themselves by letting jealousy run rampant, she adds.

This advice is prompted by a letter from Alice Kent, whose marital happiness now seems threatened by a college indiscretion of nine years ago. Grief-stricken and ashamed at the unhappy ending of that affair, Alice had kept it a secret when she married John, a distinguished professional man several years her senior.

Now, however, John has been taunting Alice with references to her early life. She suspects that he has heard some hint of the old affair or that he may do so at any moment.

"When John asks the crucial question, answer it honestly," Miss Norris advises. The revelations may sting him for a while, she adds, but bitter, lasting jealousy will serve only to make all of its victims wretched.

Jealousy, surely the most costly of all the cardinal sins, knows no law. It must be satisfied that it has something on which to feed, after which the wretched victim of his own jealousy never will be quite happy again.

Inasmuch as Dean, Alice's old lover, is living, and not too far distant, it is extremely likely that some hint of the old affair has reached John. Even if it hasn't, at any moment it may. In her place, I would seize the next good opportunity to go dreamily into the whole story, half-sad, half-sympathetic, over the frustrated love of her 20th year. When John asks the crucial question, answer it honestly. "Oh, yes, John, it seems strange, looking back, but we were very much in love."

If John is smug, as impeccable himself, as he sounds, he will be deeply and dramatically pained. He will grieve. He will express his amazement that his own Alice should not have told him this before. He will say that he must have time to digest this and perhaps to go sleep in the spare room.

Tables Reversed.

If I could reach John, I would tell him the story of Peter and Paula. Paula, a handsome, clever, gypsyish sort of girl, made this sort of revelation some 10 years after their marriage, when their beautiful girls were 4 and 5. Peter went into the astounded husband and decided that they must part. Paula wept, went into banishment on a small hillside farm.

She and the girls have made this farm so delightful a place that it inevitably among other enthusiastic weekend guests is Peter, lonely, homeless, ashamed. What the outcome will be, those of us in the secret know. To the rest of the world all that is known is that lovely, amusing Mrs. Peter lives in the country, and Peter gets there whenever he can. When he comes back it will be Paula who makes the terms, and they won't be too easy. I think it serves him right.

Health Bills Defeated

Fifty bills to provide health insurance of various kinds were introduced in state legislatures during 1947 and all were defeated, Research Council for Economic Security reports. Half of the bills would have provided health insurance for all, with mandatory levies. Second in number were bills to continue unemployment compensation for workers who become sick while employed. Such compensation usually is paid only to those physically able to work but unable to find jobs.

Farmers With Wings Require Landing Strips for Safety

Improved Fields Needed as Ranks Of Pilots Increase

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent.

With the nation's farmers literally taking to the air, not only for the thrill of flying their own airplanes, but also for commercial purposes, Civil Aeronautics administration is becoming concerned about the safety of these flying farmers, particularly in the matter of take-off and landing.

Available statistics indicate there are possibly 10,000 farmers who own and fly their own planes—planes all the way from small one-man light ships to heavier classifications such as the Douglas DC-3.

So, according to CAA, what the flying farmer and the potential farmer with wings needs is a landing field on his own farm. This is not a particularly difficult obstacle in the wide-open spaces and the grass pastures of the West, but in the Midwest and in the East and South proper air strips or landing fields pose some difficulties, particularly in the matter of location, surface of the field and hazards surrounding the field, such as wires, trees and homes of neighbors.

Cooperative Principle.

First, as a matter of convenience and economy, CAA suggests that two or more farmers with adjoining farms extend the principle of the cooperative to the construction of landing strips—that is, wherever it is possible considering the lay of the land, two, three or four farmers with adjoining land select a site which would trespass upon the lands of all. This would mean that each farmer would give up less land and that the expense of construction and maintenance would be less upon the individual.

The flying farmer does not need an airport in the usual sense of the word. All he needs is a landing strip of sufficient length with a surface sufficiently smooth and solid to bear the weight of light planes.

So, in most cases, his greatest problem is one of drainage since sod land or pasture land with short grass crops such as alfalfa or other low growing grasses will provide sufficient solidity. Maintenance of this kind of a surface becomes a problem only if traffic is heavy and if many heavy planes consistently use the field.

Limited Space.

Space for safe operation of the personal plane can be kept to a minimum in several ways. Simplest method, as pointed out, is to use pasture land, which might involve some danger to stock, but accomplishes the purpose of putting the land to dual use and gives the plane the best sod-covered field on the farm for landing.

Several safety factors should be taken into consideration in selecting the site. For instance, if the farmer is a considerate man his take-off path will not be directly over his neighbor's house. If he is a careful man, his approach and take-off paths will not be over such hazards as trees, hills or wires which will add danger to his flying.

Obstacles in the approach path usually cause the most trouble, particularly for beginner flyers, and what looks like an excellent location for a landing strip immediately may be condemned by an experienced flier. Another important factor is the prevailing wind. If a single strip is used it should be laid out as nearly as possible in that direction, and if two strips are prepared by flying farmer neighbors in cooperation they should be laid out so as to

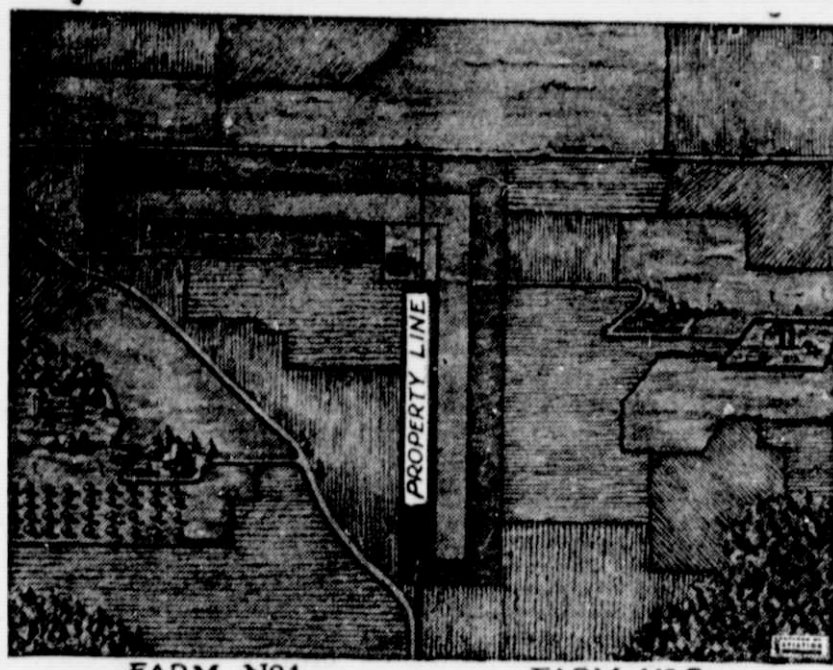

THE 'NEW LOOK' THEN . . . Marinettes, the "glammer gals" of 1918, were the forerunners of the World War II marine women reserves. Three of them are shown here being instructed by the late Lillian Russell, famous singer and stage actress, who was an honorary sergeant of the corps.

Bachelor Baby Sitter Donates Profits to Nursery

KANSAS CITY, KAS. — Although it started out as a hobby, baby sitting has become almost a second profession with James C. Leonard, 66, a Kansas City bachelor.

Leonard earns his regular living with an insurance company. All his earnings from baby sitting go into equipment for a church nursery which he has maintained since 1935 and has established since. Furnishings of the two-room church nursery already include a

Related Problems.

Grading and drainage must be considered jointly for one affects the other. Grading should provide a surface sufficiently smooth for aircraft use and should direct the flow of surface water so that it is removed in the quickest possible time. If there is an excess of underground water from within the airport area, artificial drainage may be necessary.

Another thing which the CAA experts point out as a safety factor is grades of landing strips. A flying farmer may become adept after long experience in flying from a rolling or sloping field, but gaining this experience may be costly. In general, it is desirable that grades be so designed as to permit an unobstructed view from a point five feet above any location on the usable landing area.

While turf is the cheapest type of surface where wear-resistant grasses can be grown, it may be that use of the field is heavy enough to require a heavier base. Types of bases range from naturally well-graded granular soils to prepared sand-clay, clay-gravel, crushed rock, shell and macadam. Mowing is one of the important factors in maintaining a good turf surface and proper frequency in cutting height varies with the different types of grasses used and in different locations. Of course, the best source of this information, if the farmer is in doubt, is the local county agricultural agent. Also the advice of sod experts is available from CAA.

Types of Grasses.

In this connection, CAA points out that in northern sections of the country a good turf grass is red fescue. In the Far West, the Fairway strain of crested wheat grass will flourish and the flying farmer should specialize in the low-growing variety. Throughout the South, Bermuda grass is desirable as far west as middle Texas. In the Southwest, Buffalo grass and mesquite will make good landing strips.

One thing which should be watched is erosion. It is not hard to up-end a plane if it strikes an erosion gully in a landing strip. A ground-hog or gopher hole can cause expensive damage to aircraft and possibly bodily injury to passengers.

Flying farmers use their planes more than the ordinary personal flyer. For instance, the executive secretary of Flying Farmers association says that in a survey in 24 states, the average flying farmer flew 247.2 hours in a year. The average private owner uses his plane for less than half that many hours a year.

Not Always Valiant Fighters, Some Leathernecks Are Ladies

Contrary to the general picture of the marine as a tough and intrepid fighter, the leatherneck also can be a lady. In fact, there were 23,000 lady leathernecks during World War II and of this number more than 2,000 still are active in the role of women volunteer reservists. It is recalled as the U. S. Marine Corps Women's Reserve of World War II, an important part of a famous fighting organization, observes the fifth anniversary of its founding on February 13, 1943.

In keeping with marine tradition, these women reservists are continuing to serve the corps and their country. Most of them have formed their own volunteer training units in major cities throughout the country. Already numbering 13, these units represent the more active members of the World War II women's reserve.

Modeled After Marinettes.

History of the lady leathernecks, however, actually dates back to World War I, when the marine corps created its first women's reserve in 1918. Members of the unit, known as "marinettes," served in the capacity of messengers. Garbed in a uniform described as "even newer than the new look," the marinettes were restricted in numbers to 305 and in rank to sergeant and below.

Known only as marines and desiring no nickname, the 23,000 women marines of the past war served in more than 200 different types of jobs at more than 50 marine bases and stations throughout the United States and Hawaii.

Wide Range of Duties. In replacing a male marine to fight, the lady leathernecks performed duties running the gamut from quartermaster to shoemaker, from aviation helpers to plumbers and truck drivers.

Treated the same as their male counterparts, the women reservists underwent regular boot camp training, received the same pay and were allowed to advance in rank to as high as colonel.

On the fifth anniversary, although congressional action still is awaited on a bill to create active women reserve training units, the 13 volunteer training units have been formed during the past 10 months. Present duties of members are to assist in office detail connected with the men's citizen marine organizations.

mulas, burping the baby and telling bedtime stories. To entertain his charges, he cuts out paper dolls, plays hide the thimble or other games and sings to his own piano accompaniment.

Taking his hobby seriously, he has made an extensive study of child care and subscribes regularly to child magazines and books. He has taken special training in order to cope with illness or any emergencies.

Walnut Capital. Not California, but Kansas City, Mo., is the walnut products capital of the United States, leading all cities in the manufacture of walnut products. During World War II, Kansas City produced more walnut gun stocks than any other area.

Eliminate Grade Crossings. It is estimated that the cost of eliminating all railway-highway grade crossings in the United States would involve an expenditure greater than the total present railway investment.

Planting Tree Seed. While millions of "ripes" trees are being harvested to provide America with pulp and paper, lumber, plywood, plastics and chemical products, nature is sowing seeds for the millions of new trees that will be the forest of tomorrow.

Broiling Bacon. Nutrition scientists say that bacon broiled on a rack about four inches below the flame retains two-thirds of its original thiamine while that cooked in a frying pan holds less than half.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it. It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 3 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.
 Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.
 And you'll say it's truly excellent, for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This it does breathing, and lets you sleep.
 Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

 It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.
 You may suffer sagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling, sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning in another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.
 There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are SO HAVE YOUR MONEY BACK.

CREOMULSION

SPEEDED-UP COMFORT
 for so-called KIDNEY SUFFERERS

Backache, leg pains, broken sleep, painful passage usually go so much quicker if you avoid Creomulsion (the new kidney-bladder) Pills. They stimulate sluggish kidneys; then ALLAY INFLAMMATION. That's the cause of most pains, aches, urges, even though entirely due to kidney. So far quicker, longer-lasting relief, soothe bladder as well as stimulate kidney action. Do this: use Foley (the new kidney-bladder) Pills; they also have direct sedative-like action on bladder. At your druggist. Unless you find them far more satisfactory, DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

How to Outwit Week-End Burglars

This won't happen to you if you know

When you go visiting for a week end... there are steps to take before leaving. Often your departure will be after dark and you will need a flashlight to "check and double check." Better be sure your flashlight is powered with "Eveready" batteries... powerful, dependable, they outlast all other brands!

NOTIFY POLICE OF ABSENCE. Many communities require it; but, in any case, police want this cooperation in order to give you best protection.

DON'T LEAVE "TIP-OFFS." Cancel newspaper and milk deliveries. Just two days' accumulation is a hot "tip-off" to prowlers.

LOCK ALL WINDOWS AND DOORS. Take your "Eveready" flashlight to inspect basement windows (a favorite entrance for prowlers), garage doors, the yard. If you're careful before you leave, you can be care-free while you're away.

EVEREADY BATTERIES OUTLAST ALL OTHER BRANDS!

Brighter light, longer life! That's what you want in a flashlight battery--and that's what you get with "Eveready" brand batteries. Laboratory tests prove it. ## 'ROUND THE STATE

Crop reporters look for a big drop in hog production in Wisconsin this year. Government crop forecasters say another billion bushel wheat crop is possible in 1948.
Since there are a great many grades of fertilizer on the market, farmers need to know what they're getting and what their soils need before they buy.
The cost of farm accidents in hospital and doctor bills is estimated at about $100,000. To this must be added the cost of time lost, permanent disability, and suffering.
A recent survey on a number of mid-western farms showed that nearly half of them had no insurance on the feed.

livestock and machinery in their buildings. A new sweet corn hybrid has just been announced by the Wisconsin Agricultural Experimental Station. The new hybrid is Wisconsin Golden $90.

Only Chevrolet Is First!

Men and women everywhere agree: Only one is No. 1—only Chevrolet is first—in all-round value as in popularity. Consequently, more people drive Chevrolets than any other make, according to official nationwide registrations; and more people want Chevrolets than any other make, according to seven independent nationwide surveys. Here, in the new 1948 Chevrolet, is record value. For new and even more luxurious styling, colors and appointments have been added to all of Chevrolet's other advantages of BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

Meet the new standard of Big-Car beauty! It's here, in Chevrolet's Bodies by Fisher—finest bodies made—available only on Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.
You'll enjoy Big-Car performance, too, when you own a Chevrolet; for it brings you Valve-in-Head engine performance, found elsewhere only in more expensive cars.
You'll find Chevrolet more smoothly on all types of roads due to the famous Knee-Action Ride; and, of course, Knee-Action is found only on Chevrolet and costlier cars.
Keep your present car in good running condition by bringing it to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals, pending delivery of your new Chevrolet.
