Seers Silent on Commodity Trend

Myth of Current Price Dip: 'Truman Planned It That Way'

WASHINGTON.—It is still open season for economists, financial experts and market wizards. It took about a week after the first drop on the commodity market to send them into their holes.

But along about the sixth day of the dip, anybody who would tell you whether we were facing a permanent nose-dive or just weathering the flutter of a few yards of ticker tape was as rare as a vote against tax-reduction (that issue, itself, had changed after the sixth dip).

The reason no expert would talk was that all of them had been making wrong predictions ever since Coolidge's permanent plateau of prosperity or depression days or Hoover's corner around which prosperity was always ducking.

The most silent man in Washington was Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. He knew that too many people remembered what he and others had said two years ago last fall.

At that time, Snyder, at that time reconversion director, had predicted that by the spring of the next year (1946) eight million people would be unemployed. In fact, so many others believed that Henry Wallace, already dreaming of a home with white pillars on Pennsylvania avenue, decided to make "Sixty Million Jobs" a co-hither plank in his platform.

But somebody must have stolen the idea or else they wanted to play a mean trick on Wallace—and on Snyder—anyhow there were 57,149,000 persons employed in this country as of January, 1948—two years early, and 10 months before presidential campaign time.

Likewise, in October of 1946, several astute Washington inside-stuff letter writers were saying privately to their thousands of clients, and the AFL monthly survey was saying in public print, that by early 1947 prices would come down. One could say on January of 1947, with considerable accuracy, that there was a general agreement on recession beginning soon and followed by more a little later.

Other writers predicted it a little later, and some, by summer, were insisting that deflation already was here.

But what happened? In the very year of that doleful prophecy, prices started on the upshoot that took them into their all-time high.

Many other similar had guesses might be mentioned, all of which contributed toward making the prophets reticent, and so when the slide came in February of this year, nobody would even whisper "fox" for fear that not even a kit would appear. They knew that nobody would believe them after all the without-the-wolf-wolfing that had been going on.

In any case, this dip, drop, depression or delusion, whichever it turns out to be by the time these lines reach print, or later, will have its garland of myths and legends entwined about it.

The best myth, of course, is that Mr. Truman "planned it that way."

The blueprint is simple enough if you are blue at reading a blueprint between the lines. Prices were getting too high. At worst, they might bring on a real depression before election; at best, they would bring a series of strikes and work stoppages which might seriously hamper the Marshall plan on the one hand, and add to the discontent of the voters on the other. It would be like any operation, not dangerous from the surgeon's point of view. Just a little amputation of credit, at least so said doctors who work on the body economic, which would let enough blood out of some businesses to cause a little unemployment. Enough to scare off strikes and make businessmen a little more cautious about expansion.

There was some evidence that this may really have been intended because the President did ask in his November 17 message to congress for credit controls and increased bank reserves. However, when congress said "humph" to that along with the President's other recommendations, he turned around and demoted the man who is said to have written the deflation prescription on the chairmanship of the federal reserve board (Marriner Eccles), and put in a man supposed to have more sympathy with an opposite course.

However we mustn't spoil a good story by facts. There are other points which can be introduced to give a touch of verisimilitude to an otherwise not-too-convincing narrative.

That did open a Pandora's box, and some of the plagues released alighted on the very roof of the White House. But it also threw a scare into the marketeers and the markets. Then came the day of a White House press and radio conference when the President made a remark—credited at the time by some of his friends as an unhappy slip—when he said that if the cost of living was not controlled, there would be a crash. That got headlines, frightened a lot of little fellows who pulled out their chips and, combining with other evil Jinns released from the economists' Jinn bottles, did the trick.

There are many others of these tales which will grow, such as the creating of white-wash by the administration's atomic-energy experts. But one is enough for the moment. Anyhow "it was planned that way."

FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE . . . Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt presents the national achievement award, one of America's highest honors, to the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, England, for her "distinguished services to her country which have been an inspiration to the women of other countries."

NEWS REVIEW

Aid for China Asked; Senate OKs Budget Cut

Although it was obvious that his heart wasn't in it, President Truman presented congress with a request for $70 million dollars to be sent to China as a prop for the founding economy of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government.

White House and state department sources admitted that the request was something less than a half-measure and claimed that the President had acted under pressure from the Republican congress which has insisted that the U. S. must support Chiang against the Communist revolution in connection with the European recovery plan.

At best the $70 million dollars is a token gesture—just a chip in relation to the vast amount of timber that would be needed to restore the rotting derelict of Chiang's government.

Theory behind this latest extension of aid, which will be used to finance Chinese imports of cereals, petroleum, coal, fertilizer and so forth, is that the money will enable Chiang's government to free other resources for purchase of arms and ammunition to continue the fight against the Communist guerrillas.

But that is more of an idle hope than a valid theory, because the government forces, despite their American arms and equipment, are being bested consistently by the Communists.

Just how long a government made up of so many diverse components would last was the subject of much speculation in Ireland. In their present cooperative mood the parties of the coalition may carry on for a year or two, but few were prepared to give the government a much longer span of life.

CAT FEET: First a Dream

Like the fog that "comes on little cat feet," Carl Sandburg, honored and honorable free-verse poet and voluminous biographer of Lincoln, was creeping into the senatorial race in Illinois.

A hitherto almost imperceptible drive supporting Sandburg as a possible candidate for senator picked up considerable impetus with the release of a public opinion poll indicating that he might become a popular choice over the Democratic candidate, Paul H. Douglas, and the Republican candidate, Sen. C. Wayland Brooks.

As far as the question of how a poet can turn into a politician is concerned, those favoring him say he is a "good man," he understands the common people and is educated and well-informed about the country's needs. The opposition claims he is politically inexperienced and, since he is a writer, is an impractical dreamer and an idealist.

But Sandburg, the poet, once wrote: "The republic is a dream. Nothing happens unless first a dream."

Subsistence Payments Increased

In response to the demand of public opinion, President Truman has signed the bill providing for an increase in subsistence payments to student-veterans going to school under the G. I. bill. The bill increases subsistence allowances for single veterans from $65 to $75 and for married veterans from $90 to $105 and for veterans with more than one dependent to $120. It is estimated that the increase will cost approximately 300 million dollars. The law goes into effect April 1, so increase in subsistence payments will come with May checks.

Also, as this is written, house and senate conference committees are thrashing out an agreement on increasing the ceiling for on-the-job training payments from the government. At present the ceiling is $175 for single veterans and $200 for married veterans.

The house bill fixes the ceiling at $250 for single veterans, $325 for veterans with one dependent and $350 for veterans with more than one dependent, while the senate version fixes $200 for single veterans and $250 for married veterans. The compromise will be somewhere between the two sets of figures.

Questions and Answers

Q. I am a World War II veteran and have been out of the army since September 22, 1946. I went to the TB hospital and had X-rays taken and they showed I had TB in one lung, but not bad. The doctor said if I would not work hard and take care of myself it wouldn't be any trouble to me. I am one of the boys that has to work. Now what do I do?—G. D. Harlow, Ark.

A. The question is whether your illness is bothering you, since you do not say in your letter if it is and you are unable to work because of it, suggest that you contact your nearest office of Veterans' administration and ask for an examination and a physical disability rating. There is a regional office at Little Rock and a sub-regional office at Texarkana. The veterans' counselor will advise you what to do.

Q. I am an ex-serviceman. During the winter of 1944 I was in combat with the 302nd FA, Bn., Battery A, 76th division. During the battle of the Ardennes or sometime during the winter I had two toes freeze. I never had much trouble with them except that I lost the nail on one toe. Now these two toes with the nail on one with no nail drains most of the time with inflammation. I would like to know if I could claim any benefits from that and how I would go about it.—B. K. C. Waxahachie, Tex.

A. You should immediately file a claim both for treatment and a disability rating at your nearest VA Office, which is at Love field in Dallas. If this shows up on your service record you will have no trouble identifying it as a service-connected disability. If it does not show on your service record they may ask you some questions as proof of service connection. We do not think you will have any trouble, however.

Q. Our son has applied for treatment at a veterans' hospital but since he mailed his application there has been illness in his family and it would work a hardship on his wife and little ones if he would leave them and go to a hospital. Our question is, does he forfeit his privilege of going to the hospital if he does not immediately accept hospitalization?—Mrs. O. J. H., Sedalia, Mo.

A. Veterans' administration says if hospitalization is requested for a period of observation, it must be accepted promptly unless hardship to the veteran or to his dependents would result. In your case, it would appear that hardship would result and this could be explained to VA officials without prejudice to his case.

Q. May a veteran who is dissatisfied with the decision of the vocational rehabilitation and education department appeal his case to a higher authority?—R. G. H., Buffalo, N. Y.

A. The veterans have the same rights to appeal his case as to any other benefits under Veterans' administration.

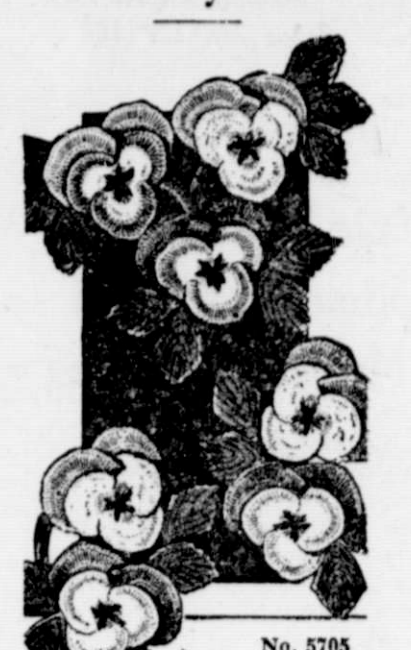

Q. How may a veteran reinstate lapsed term national service life insurance? Are there any penalty fees for such reinstatement?—R. C. S., Chicago, Ill.

A. Such lapsed insurance may be reinstated merely by filling out a simple form and paying two monthly premiums. Ordinarily no physical examination is required if a veteran certifies that his health is as good as it was when the insurance lapsed. No penalty or fee of any kind is paid by a veteran who reinstates his term life insurance after it has lapsed.

Q. I am a veteran of World War II. While in service I lost my health in September, 1944. I was discharged with a pension. In August, 1946, my pension was discontinued although I am still unable to work.—J. J. J., Union, Miss.

A. Because you do not advise the nature of your disability, it is difficult to advise you. It would appear that Veterans' administration considered you cured and terminated your disability rating or you invalidated your pension for some other reason. However, you have the right to apply for a new rating.

A WOMAN'S PLACE

By JOHN T. CAVANAUGH

"SO, SALUSTRI is back." Managing Editor Pepper Drislane exclaimed as he clicked down the receiver. Excitedly, Police Chief Lawton had just shouted into the telephone, "This guy is looking for blood—don't take any unnecessary risks."

In the editorial room of the Hartfield Herald, Drislane sat with his head in his hands and mournfully looked over his city staff—two old men and seven girls. "Thirty years in newspapers and this has to happen to me—a chance to make headline history and here I am saddled with a bunch of sob sisters."

But Jerry Cowan, erstwhile reporter star of the Herald, and Managing Editor Drislane chose to forget it to the tune of pinning a 20-year federal sentence on the numbers king. Then the slipup, while waiting for the train that would carry him to prison, Salustri outwitted the guards, slugged the marshal and was on his way.

With the news of his escape, Jerry and Drislane knew Salustri would be back. The Herald's constant and merciless headlines had galled the gangster, bored right into his pride. "Sure, he'll be back," the reporter told his editor, "and when he does, he'll head for our office first."

That was two years ago. Now Jerry was on assignment in the Pacific. Meanwhile, the managing editor waited. Of course, he was jumpy; who wouldn't be when each corner might turn into a hail of hot lead? And now the chief of police had passed the word that Salustri had been spotted in Bayside, just 11 miles this side of Hartfield.

The managing editor was dismayed, fingering the last cigarette in his squashed pack when Publisher Jim Geldhorn came into the room. Drislane blinked his eyes and dropped the cigarette—doggone, if it wasn't another girl. Attractive and well built, but still another girl.

Geldhorn hustled the young woman over to an empty desk and hurriedly left. "On a newspaper a girl reporter isn't worth the powder it takes to camouflage her nose," Drislane had exploded when the publisher unobtrusively attempted to install the last girl on the city staff.

"All I hear these days is 'I've got an appointment with the hairdresser, the dressmaker, the butcher, the baker—' These girls have an appointment with everyone but me and their work," he ranted. "Is this a newspaper office or a sorority house?"

over their typewriters as the managing editor took several seconds to come up from under his desk. In the face of the gathering editorial clouds, the new girl bravely continued with her request and began to fumble with a gold locket which was looped around her neck. "The picture I have from Jerry—" she offered but got no further.

The thunder broke loose and Drislane hissed, his face purple. "On a newspaper, a woman"—he didn't finish but resignedly collapsed in his chair. With effort he continued feebly, "Miss Whatever-your-name-is, go get a manicure—get a cup of coffee escape from the United States Marshal's office in 1943, was recognized by the reporter as she walked through the barber shop to the beauty salon at the rear of the building. Miss Hewes, upon seeing Salustri, continued through the shop and left by a rear exit and soon returned with a squad of police officers.

The reporter said that she had identified the gangster through his picture which she had carried in a gold locket given to her by her fiancé, Jerry Cowan, formerly police reporter on The Herald and now on assignment in the South Pacific. "Having threatened the life of my fiancé, Salustri was a potential threat to my coming marriage, so I carried his picture, knowing that I would run into him some day," Miss Hewes said. "Now that he is captured, I know that I can plan to marry Jerry as soon as he returns."

Speechless, the managing editor scanned the copy. Then, poised his pencil, he added to the message: "In the meantime, I will continue working at The Herald as police reporter."

Motion picture rights to "The Heiress," one of the season's most successful plays, have been sold to Paramount—the price, $250,000. Olivia de Havilland will star, in the role played on the stage by Wendy Hiller.

A radio man in Hollywood tried to sign up Howard Duff for a program that tries to give aspiring young actors a radio break—and then learned that Duff has been starring in "The Adventures of Sam Spade" the last 18 months!

Edgar Kennedy, one of the few original Keystone Kops still active in films, passed his 50th milestone when he finished RKO's "Almost a Millionaire." It also marked the start of his 37th year in motion pictures.

Tom Briggs is essentially a good boy, but because he takes precious time away from his daily chores to swim with his chum, Johnny Sanders, and because he dreams constantly of the day when he might be a fowboat pilot on the mighty Gasconade river, he is considered lazy and shiftless by his cruel stepfather and many of the town citizens.

You'll share Tom's frustration when, after he works hard to buy himself a small boat so that he can fish to support his family, his stepfather sells the boat and pockets the money. You'll share his horror when his hunting rifle goes off accidentally in the post office and he is accused by Mr. Pugh, the postmaster, of having deliberately attempted to kill him.

Despite his many handicaps, Tom proves through sheer perseverance and courage that he is capable of being a towboat captain. The story carries him from the age of 12 when he is in the dream stage, through the age of 21, when he makes his first cruise as a pilot. But long before the realization of his ambition, he earns the respect of his neighbors when he clears Mr. Pugh of a possible murder charge of which only Tom knows he is innocent, thus proving that he holds no malice in his heart for the postmaster who would have sent Tom to a juvenile home when he, too, was wrongly accused of a crime.

The book is a joy for those loving the great outdoors. Mr. Melton, a prominent Missouri newspaper man, knows his subject well and handles it beautifully with the result that there emerges a book full of tears and joy, tenderness and adventure.

New Uranium Discoveries Show Wide Distribution
The world is expanding its known sources of uranium, vital mineral of the Atomic Age.

Both newly independent Burma and the Union of South Africa have announced the discovery of extensive uranium deposits, National Geographic society notes. These latest finds are further evidence that the atomic-energy ore is much more widely distributed around the globe than popularly believed.

Prospecting for uranium lodes is much simpler than searching for gold. The uranium can be detected easily by a scientific "divining rod." Radioactive by nature, the mineral literally broadcasts its whereabouts in the ground. Forty years ago Hans Geiger, a German scientist, invented the instrument which hunts out the hidden ore.

It will be a perfect vacation for Red Skelton next summer if his plans go through. He wants to tour with Ringling Brothers or Clyde Beatty's circus, and make a 16 mm. film of what goes on behind the scenes. Red, who has finished his starring stint in Columbia's "The Fuller Brush Man," was born to the circus; his father was a clown with Hagenbeck and Wallace.

As the girl hastily traced Mike Bales' rapidly retreating footsteps, Drislane sighed, "Even Jerry Cowan away out in the Pacific is getting bawdy. On top of all this, imagine his wanting to saddle me with his fiancée, some up-country jane who probably doesn't know a dateline from a clothesline." Gleefully, he pictured himself setting up ambush for the next time the publisher came in with another girl.

After an hour of planting imaginary booby traps all over the newspaper plant, the managing editor had mentally destroyed the publisher and all the girls on the staff a dozen times over. Just when he was halfway through his masterpiece of stuffing Geldhorn and the girls through the news press to be delivered as supplements to the 5 o'clock edition, Mike Bales with a face full of lather tore into the room.

"Chief, Chief," the reporter panted, "they just got him." "Just got who?—when—where?" Drislane roared. "Salustri, at the barber shop," said Mike, furiously shoving a piece of copy paper into his typewriter. "I'll have the story written for the last edition in a jiffy."

DOWNSTAIRS the presses were silent and waiting as the managing editor's pencil poised over the reporter's scoop. "Nat Salustri, former numbers czar who escaped local police two years ago, today was captured in Nick's barber and beauty shop on Main Street through the efforts of Miss Loretta Hewes, a member of the Herald's editorial staff," the story read.

SMALL GRAINS NEEDED IN 1948

Wisconsin is one of the largest small grain producing states. An all out production of a variety of small grain crops is strongly urged for Wisconsin by the experiment station agronomists. They point out that nearly 90% of the state's small grain acreage is planted to oats. They recommend the newer varieties, especially the hard crosses of which Clinton oats is the most common variety.

Also more malting barley is needed since many common food products require malt. Henry spring wheat has yielded well in Wisconsin since its first statewide distribution in 1944. A good supply of seed is available. Farmers who will have swine to fatten during the months of July and August will find Henry wheat a particularly good crop for supplying the necessary feed for finishing off any hogs. Further such wheat would be available for feed about six weeks ahead of a corn crop.

SLINGER CROP IMPROVEMENT MEET EMPHASIZES GROWING OF BLIGHT RESISTANT GRAINS

About 300 farmers attended the all-day "Better Farm Grains Institute" held at Roth's hall, Slinger, on Monday, Feb. 23.

Speakers at the institute emphasized the planting of blight resistant varieties, particularly oats. It was pointed out that an occasional field during the past year was greatly damaged by the presence of a root blight which under favorable weather conditions could become very destructive. The use of oats of the Clinton variety, which is resistant to blight was recommended.

In this connection it was pointed out that only certified strains should be purchased, especially if the seed is from out of state source. Also, blight resistant strains should be treated with an organic mercury dust, such as the new improved ceresan or cer-san M. This will do much to control the blight spores present on the seed.

Other speakers pleaded for a greater diversity of small grain crops, replacing some of the oat acreage with barley, Henry wheat or flax. Henry wheat has given a good performance as a feed crop, giving good yields and standing up well on richer lands. Flax, it was pointed out, is another crop which does well in thin areas and usually brings a good return to the grower.

COUNTY 4-H CLUBS OBSERVE NATIONAL 4-H WEEK MAR. 1-7

The week of March 1 to 7 is being observed by 4-H clubs throughout the nation as National 4-H Club week. 4-H clubs in Washington county are observing this week by calling attention to the many educational projects which are being carried out in club work.

One way of telling people about 4-H clubs is through a display of work done by club members. This is being done in Washington county by means of a window display contest. The clubs taking part in this contest have made arrangements with one of their local merchants for use of a window, and decorated it with articles made by club members.

The windows will be judged and suitable recognition given the clubs with outstanding window displays. Results of the contest will be announced at a later date.

The main theme to be carried out nationally during this week is, "creating better homes today for a more responsible citizenship tomorrow." This year considerable emphasis will be placed on the strengthening and expansion of 4-H club work.

New clubs are being formed and new members are now being enrolled in clubs for the coming year. Any boy or girl interested in 4-H club work can obtain information from a leader of any 4-H club or from the extension office at West Bend.

NEW DESIGNS IN FURNITURE GRADUALLY ARE APPEARING

While furniture production is still less than demand, furniture manufacturers and retailers are thinking of the future by gradually introducing new designs.

In Kewaskum, Miller's Furniture store is now showing some new designs by Kroehler such as modern sectional sofas, two-cushion sofas, and furniture especially designed for small houses and apartments.

Constant improvement in furniture construction is also being developed by furniture manufacturers such as Kroehler Mfg. Co. said to be the world's largest furniture manufacturer. This means longer and more comfortable service for the consumer.

Special attention is being devoted to furniture designs for young people that are especially adapted to small houses and apartments. An interesting example of this design is the Kroehler "American-Trend" group now on display at Miller's.

Red Cross Drive Seeks Funds To Wage Far-Flung Activities

Familiar Symbol Heartens Victims On Disaster Trail

Disaster left widespread desolation, destruction and despair in its wake as tornadoes, floods, hurricanes and fires ravaged much of the nation during the past year. Beginning early in the year, the 1947 trail of destruction swept through the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle where the worst tornadoes in 10 years struck in April, moved with the June floods through seven Midwestern and eastern states, caught the Gulf states with severe September hurricanes and floods and finally devastated wide areas of New England with forest fires in October.

During the year almost 11 million dollars was allocated by the American Red Cross to assist 305,000 persons. In terms of costs, 1947 was the past year's disaster relief work for the past decade.

In an attempt to fill its depleted coffers and to assure funds for its wide-scale enterprises during the forthcoming year, the Red Cross will conduct its annual roll call campaign throughout the month of March.

Families living in agricultural communities last year bore the brunt of some of the worst disasters, it is noted in a summary by the Red Cross which showed nearly 300 calamities during 1947 in which the organization gave assistance.

Few areas spared. Few sections of the country were spared in the disasters, which struck 46 states and Alaska. These included 142 fires, 50 floods, 41 tornadoes, 30 hurricanes, 21 other storms, 30 explosions, minor earthquakes, transportation wrecks and a number of other serious accidents.

Grimmest toll in casualties was taken in Texas City, Texas, where close to 500 lives were lost and more than 3,500 were injured. Disaster-caused deaths, up to December 1, totaled 1,268 on Red Cross records, approximately twice the disaster death toll of 1946. Altogether, 7,969 persons were injured.

In a year of continued acute housing shortages, more than 81,000 buildings, many of them farm homes and barns—were destroyed or damaged. In a year of international food shortages, hundreds of thousands of acres of America's most productive farmlands and richest pastures were either permanently ruined by erosion or made useless for the year by ravages of long-standing severe floods.

On the job immediately after the tornadoes had struck, the Red Cross aided some 10,000 persons in the Woodward, Okla., area where two nearby farmers, Gladys and Higgins, in the Texas Panhandle, were virtually leveled and scores of residential blocks of Woodward were devastated. Nurses, doctors and medical supplies were brought in to supplement local resources. Heaviest cost item was for rebuilding and repair in that relief operation in which approximately $1,323,000 in Red Cross funds were expended.

Floods Sweep Nation. In Illinois, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska, four flood crests, in many localities record "highs," were reached in midsummer before the waters finally subsided. Red Cross operational costs exceeded $1,500,000 in aid to more than 26,000 flood-routed residents, many of them farmers. Thirteen thousand more residents were assisted by the Red Cross in sudden floods in Kentucky, New York and Vermont at that time, at a cost of $742,500.

Floods resulting from deluges that accompanied Florida's two hurricanes in September and October caused more damage than the hurricane winds which lashed four Gulf coast states. Cost estimate for this operation, which will not be concluded for months, now has reached $2,700,000.

The total destruction caused by forest fires, where few if any belongings can be salvaged or buildings repaired was proved again in New England last October. In the fire-stricken areas, the Red Cross rehabilitation operation includes temporary housing for a large number of families inasmuch as rebuilding cannot be undertaken in Maine until spring. An emergency allocation of $1,000,000 for relief was made as the fires still raged and additional funds will be allotted as rebuilding operations get under way.

In expediting emergency relief, and also in the longer rehabilitation operations during 1947, the Red Cross had the cooperation of the U. S. weather bureau, the armed services, local, state and federal authorities, and of hundreds of other organized groups and individuals.

Red Cross rehabilitation aid includes not only extended medical nursing care, and rebuilding and repair of homes; the organization also provides needed household furnishings, livestock, tools and equipment for farmers and craftsmen, and re-establishment of small businesses or other gainful occupations for families who have insufficient resources to get back on their feet again.

While disaster relief kept the Red Cross on the jump throughout the year, it was but one of the organization's many activities which affect every community throughout the country.

More than 275,000 Red Cross volunteers served a total of 25 million hours. Production workers made 2,565,200 garments and similar articles for use in relief and other activities at home and overseas. This was sufficient to supply one garment to every man, woman and child in the states of Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona and Nevada, with enough left over to do the same in Alaska. Canteen workers served 3,145,000 persons, almost equal to the entire population of the city of Chicago. Motor service made 668,600 trips, traveling 8,800,000 miles, the equivalent of 352 trips around the world.

Volunteers Aid Afflicted. Many of these Red Cross volunteers helped recognized community agencies perform their service tasks on behalf of the people. During the year they worked in hospitals, clinics, social welfare agencies, playgrounds, schools, correctional institutions, orphanages and homes for the blind, the aged and the infirm.

In recent years the Red Cross has expanded its efforts to make life in rural regions safer. An active first aid and accident prevention program, coupled with instruction in proper home care of the sick, are two forms in which these efforts are manifesting themselves.

At the close of 1947 almost 2,000 Red Cross highway first aid stations were being operated by men and women in many parts of the country. Good neighbors in deed as well as theory, operators of these stations often are called upon to play the good samaritan to those living in their communities, as well as to passing motorists who have the misfortune to suffer accident nearby.

Men often enroll in Red Cross home nursing classes. Here a Red Cross instructor shows a new father some of the latest tricks.

Foreign Students Stress Humanity

LOGAN, UTAH.—"Above all nations is humanity" is the theme of the Cosmopolitan club at Utah State Agricultural College.

More than 60 students from lands as far distant as India are charter members of the organization. Other nations represented include Peru, Belgium, Colombia, Honduras, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Burma, Pakistan, Iraq, Palestine, Syria, Lebanon, Egypt and Canada.

Chief sponsor is Dr. Franklin S. Harris, president of the college, who twice has served Iran as advisor on agricultural modernization.

Dr. S. M. Ahl, graduate of Iran's colorful university of the Sun and the Lion, is club president. He is studying dairy sanitation at the Utah college. His wife, Touran Ahl, a home economics student at the college, also is a member of the new organization.

Reports from one station indicated that victims of 53 accidents had received first aid during the course of a year, less than half of them motorists.

Give Emergency Succor. First aid stations are supplemented by mobile first aid units. Equipped with necessary materials, these cars and trucks frequently are the property of public utility concerns and other fleet owners. Drivers and crews, trained by the Red Cross, are prepared to give first aid in emergencies. Some 10,000 such units were in operation at year-end, each bearing a distinctive identification plaque.

Last year more than 118,000 persons, mostly women and older girls, completed Red Cross home nursing courses. Many of these classes were held in smaller communities and rural districts. In addition Red Cross public health nurses made 351,000 visits to persons needing their services.

As Red Cross workers performed these daily tasks, others were carrying out the organization's traditional responsibilities to the armed forces, veterans and their families. Stationed at military and naval posts and hospitals at home and overseas are professional Red Cross workers with an understanding of human nature and a knack of helping solve the most intricate of personal problems.

Link With Soldiers. With the Red Cross chapter home service workers, these field directors form an emergency link of communication between those in service and their loved ones at home. Just how this works was illustrated when a Red Cross field director who was on maneuvers received word from chapter home service workers that the mother of a soldier in his outfit was seriously ill and the soldier was wanted at home.

On the strength of the Red Cross report, the man's commanding officer authorized emergency leave, and while a courier sped to locate the soldier, the Red Cross field director arranged his transportation. The soldier arrived home in time to see his mother die, but to save her life with a blood transfusion.

Red Cross hospital workers with the aid of home service workers obtain medical background histories at the request of medical authorities, they help in solution of personal problems of the hospitalized and assist in hospital recreation programs. At Veterans' administration hospitals, trained field directors help direct Red Cross volunteer programs on behalf of the more than 600,000 veterans now hospitalized.

Red Cross claims service workers last year assisted veterans or their beneficiaries in preparation and filing of claims for government benefits to the number of 1,095,832 cases.

Program of Service. Throughout March the American Red Cross is appealing to the people for funds with which to carry on its far-flung activities during the fiscal year 1948-49. A total of 75 million dollars is needed by the national organization and its 3,751 chapters.

As Basil O'Connor, Red Cross president said in announcing the 1948 fund appeal:

"The Red Cross exists only to serve. It lives up to tradition best by searching out new ways to be of service, new trails to blaze, new means to improve the welfare of our communities and of our nation. It is a program that the Red Cross offers the American people with confidence and pride."

Prolific Writer Pens Letters by the Yard
BLOOMINGTON, ILL.—A prolific writer is Clinton Reynolds, whose hobby is writing letters by the yard.

His latest work covered 10 1/2 feet of shelf paper 13 inches wide. He refilled his pen five times to author 3,000 words on subjects ranging from the bill of rights to a trip to Missouri. Writing time: 5 hours, 15 minutes.

But this is not the most verbose epistle composed by the prolific penman. Back in 1942, he got off an 18 footer to a brother in the service. Reynolds buys shelf paper in 36 foot rolls to carry on his correspondence, which is just a hobby with him. He says everybody should write letters more often.

Boys Place Ransom Of 50 Cents on Pal
GREEN BAY, WIS.—Although they placed a nominal ransom value of only 50 cents on a chum, two boys of 10 and 12 still got into trouble. Police said the boys left a penciled note in the mailbox at the chum's home. It read: "Leave 50 cents in a box at the corner of the porch or harm will come to your child! Yours gruesomely, I. C." I. C. meant "Irish Commandos."

Healthful Breakfast Will Appeal to Family If Menus Are Varied

All those in favor of bacon and eggs have the right idea for there's no denying the importance of a substantial breakfast. In addition to bacon and eggs, the pattern should include fruit or fruit juice, toast, butter and a beverage.

You can't expect a first-class health rating if you skip breakfast frequently. And you can't do your best work, be your business man, farmer, housewife, career girl or school child, if mid-morning hunger pains bother you.

The remedy? A well-rounded breakfast that gives you foods essential for health. You say you can't eat breakfast? Nonsense. Of course, if you're one of those skip-breakfast people, it may take you a little time to get used to eating it, but little by little you can do it and really like it. It's worth it, if you feel better and can work better, isn't it?

Afraid of gaining weight, you say? No, not if breakfast includes a citrus fruit, soft boiled or poached egg, dry toast and coffee or tea without cream or sugar. You won't have nearly as hard a time resisting the snacks which put on weight if you're fortified with a nicely balanced breakfast.

We have variety in lunches and dinners, why not plan to have it in breakfasts? It will make them ever so much more interesting. Prepare eggs in several different styles, scrambled, poached, soft boiled, coddled, fried, baked or creamed. Have interesting breads and spreads.

Don't forget that meats add variety, too. Try sliced or fried ham as well as bacon, sausage, Canadian bacon or dried beef.

Then, too, you can find interesting variations for pancakes and waffles. Why not this:

Bran Griddle Cakes.
(Makes 15 cakes, 5 1/2 inches in diameter)

- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 1/4 cups milk
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 2 tablespoons baking powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup melted shortening
- 1/2 cup bran

Beat eggs and sugar until light and fluffy. Add milk and mix well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture, stirring until flour disappears. Add shortening. Fold in bran. Bake on a hot griddle, turning only once.

You'll find that Dutch pancakes will do a nice filling job during breakfast, as well as contributing the valuable protein of eggs for this meal.

Dutch Pancakes.
(Serves 4)

- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons soft butter
- Confectioners' sugar
- Jam

Beat eggs thoroughly. Sift flour and salt together and add to eggs alternately with milk to make a smooth batter. Spread butter over bottom and sides of cold frying pan. Pour in batter and place in a hot (400 degree) oven. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, reducing heat gradually to moderate (350 degrees) during the baking. Pancakes should puff up at the sides

LYNN SAYS:
Remember These Facts About Yeast Breads

Rising time on bread or rolls usually follows this pattern: Dough made with one cake of yeast and two cups of liquid will take three hours to rise. Each subsequent rising takes less time.

Rising may be hastened by using more yeast. However, not more than two cakes of yeast should be used in the average recipe for fear of giving too much yeast flavor.

If the dough has not risen enough, place in a moderate rather than a hot oven to bake.

Slow rising is the most desirable in the long run as it brings out the best flavor of the product.

Milk, potato water or just plain water may be used as a liquid in yeast dough.

If you want to keep the bread moist, use a little bit of mashed potato in the dough.

Shortening makes bread tender but it discourages the yeast growth.

Large holes in bread are caused by too long a rising period.

- 13 cups flour

Scald milk and cream. Add shortening, salt and sugar, then cool. Add the eggs and the yeast which has been softened in lukewarm water. Add the flour to make a stiff dough. Blend well. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Cover the bottom of large muffin tins with 1/2-inch thick pieces of dough. Cover with filling and place another piece of dough on top. This may be baked as a coffee loaf in the same manner, covering the bottom of a loaf tin with dough, putting on the filling and covering with another piece of dough. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake rolls in a hot oven 25 minutes. For bread, use a hot oven for 10 minutes, then reduce to moderate for 40 minutes.

Hardly anyone can resist piping hot pancakes with butter and syrup for breakfast. For those with substantial appetites and large calorie needs, serve pancakes often. Or, use them to add variety to the breakfast pattern.

Filling.
1 cup cooked, chopped prunes
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup raisins

Mix together thoroughly. The sour cream coffee dough will make three loaves of bread and several dozen rolls.

Banana Sour Cream Bread.

- (Makes 1 large loaf)
- 1/4 cup thick sour cream
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup mashed banana
- 1 cup bran
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda

Blend the first four ingredients. Add, sifted together, the dry ingredients. Place in a greased loaf pan and let stand 20 minutes. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for about one hour. Make this the day before, and toast for breakfast. It's delicious.

Released by WNU Features.

Sugar is yeast food and it also gives flavor to bread. Too large amounts retard the yeast growth.

Sour, heavy bread is caused by too high temperature during the rising time.

Crisp crusts on bread are made by brushing the top with slightly beaten egg white 10 minutes before the baking. This also will give a browner crust.

Soft crusts can be achieved by brushing with melted fat just before baking.

Dry yeast keeps longer than fresh yeast but it must be kept in a cool dry place.

To test the activity of yeast, drop it into 1/4 cup of warm water and add one teaspoon sugar. If it bubbles in five minutes the yeast is all right to use.

When you make pancakes for a crowd, add the butter to the hot syrup. This makes serving easier and stretches the butter.

Pieces of leftover chicken, ham, cheese and fish are all nicely used up in a tossed green salad. Adds interest, too!

THOUGHTS ON SKI FANATICS

This is the biggest skiing season America has ever had. You can't look out of any window above the Mason-Dixon line without seeing a flock of "schussboomers" zooming by in various positions of complete instability.

A ski enthusiast is a fellow who is happiest when he has both feet off the ground and is wearing the facial expression of a parachute trooper who suddenly realizes he jumped without his chute.

He is a guy who doesn't mind where he is so long as he is not rightside up.

More and more gals are taking it up. A female ski jumper is a girl who thinks the laws of gravity were written by Benny Goodman in collaboration with Olsen and Johnson. She is a snowbunny who doesn't care where she goes, provided her destination is vague and her arrival abrupt and embarrassing.

Put a damsel on a ski slide and you are witnessing a demonstration in bizarre behavior hitherto reserved for escapes via the icy roof by inmates of the Home for Wayward Girls, all making their getaway in the belief a couple of bed-slats made an ideal pair of shoes.

She goeth where she listeth and she landeth where it hurteth.

Once upon a time you could go to the snow-hills of this country and find only ski jumpers who knew how to do it. Today every slope constitutes a convention site for a bevy of beginners, all of whom do not know where their next fracture is coming from.

They confuse the take-off from a snowy peak as the same as a leap from a boarding-house attic. Everything is jake with them if they come down the same season, with no navigable parts missing.

As long as a ski artist had to climb back up the hill there was no mass participation. But for the last few years the ski slides have had mechanical towropes to haul them back, and now everybody can play, whether for fun, fresh air, suicide or to settle a bet.

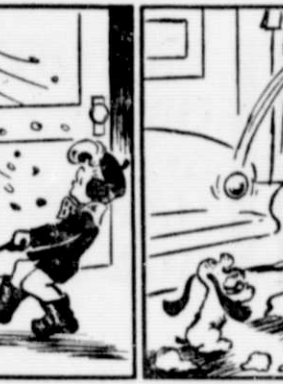

Pass the buttered rum and put another log on the fire. We have tied a pine plank to each foot and are about to find out if we are man or jetplane.

SILVER LINING
The snow is high, the ice is thick;
There is no heat for me to cook;
But, ah, the mailman came today
And brought a spring seeds book.

Lines on the Winter of '48
In forty-seven-forty-eight
The winter never did abate;
It went from bad to extra raw—
There never was the slightest thaw.

The icicles of early fall
Had not decreased by March at all;
December's frost on window pane
Each morning showed a one-yard gain.

By keyhole in the kitchen door
The snow came in six feet and more;
Storm-windows gave up everywhere—
They couldn't take the frigid air!

Hot water bottles by the pack
Just froze upon the feet and back;
A woolen blanket charged with heat
Felt like a strip of frozen sheet.

The radiator and its tubes
Gave out with nothing but ice cubes;
The furnace gave no trace of heat.
We used the thing for freezing meat!

DOG CHAMPS
This is the dog show season and we await the following awards:
MINERVA'S ACE III: — Shows splendid disposition, despite all the substitutes fed her for meat.

ALLIGAZAMUS DUDE: — Has never bitten the butcher, although conscious of fact the tightwad hasn't thrown in a few beef scraps in two years.

KING WHIFFENPOOF'S BARE II: — Still likes human beings after having lived in Manhattan apartment all life, with two brief trips outdoors each day.

VANISHING AMERICANISMS:
"We haven't much money, but we have a nice warm home."
"Rap on the radiator, I'm cold."

A legislator proposes a law to arrest autists for driving too slowly. This being the screwball age that it unquestionably is, we suggest a statute providing a life sentence for the driver who makes a street crossing carefully, and the chair for the fellow who has never run over anybody in his life.

"Panama Shows Deficit." — headline.
After that big cut?
Harry Truman is reported receiving a pair of white gloves and a set of kneepads from Chairman McGrath. It is realized that to hold the Solid South this election he will have to sing mammy songs.

Whatever became of the old-fashioned man who used to get around to shoving his sidewalk?

ABOUT OUR PRESIDENTS

ONE OF OUR PRESIDENTS, George Washington, was a farmer. Twenty-two were lawyers, two were army officers, two were in politics, one was a teacher, one a publisher, one was a mining engineer and one a merchant.
