Trustees Unopposed in Election Tuesday

With no contests for the offices of trustees to be elected in the village, interest in the spring election Tuesday, April 6, locally is expected to center on the race among presidential delegates on the Republican ticket representing Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, currently heading American occupation forces in Japan.

Only officers to be elected in the village are three trustees. The three other trustees in office and other officers of the village hold over until next year. There are but three trustee candidates. Two of those, Marvin A. Martin and Edw. E. Miller, incumbents, are candidates for re-election. The third trustee, Frank Krueger, is not a candidate. Clifford Staatz has filed nomination papers to succeed him. However, reports have been making the rounds during the week that other candidates who did not file papers will be stumping on the write-in ticket and many written-in votes are anticipated.

Two Washington county men, D. J. Kenny, West Bend, and Dr. John P. Kohler, town of Jackson, are sixth district delegates for MacArthur. Both Kenny and Kohler have been actively campaigning.

President Truman has no opposition in this state on the Democratic ticket in the spring primary. Democrats must, however, select two delegates and eight delegates-at-large.

The polls in the village hall will be open from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Woman's World

Aprons, Table Sets, Holders Are Easy to Make at Home

By Ertla Haley

DO YOU want to add something new but simple to your own home just for the general purpose of brightening it a bit?

Or, do you have a long list of weddings and showers to attend which will require gifts of one type or another?

Either way, there are many small sewing projects which you can embark upon and emerge with lovely things for the table or kitchen or for personal use.

I know of no woman who is satisfied with the number of aprons she has, especially when she sees one lovelier than some she has. Therefore, aprons, when pretty or neatly practical, always are welcome.

Brides or even older homemakers can't have enough, for they do wear out, you know.

If you want to make really pretty aprons, I'd suggest you use organdy or another delicate fabric for the main part of the apron. Half aprons are a good idea inasmuch as organdy certainly will not be used for the evening dish chore.

As for trimmings, there is no end. You might like to ruffle the heart-shaped pockets with some fragile lace and pipe the edges with more lace.

If you can do neat applique work—or can learn how—any of the floral designs are good.

Suggested Colors, Designs for Aprons

A very effective combination includes white organdy applied on a single large pocket with a large red flower. Carry out the flower applique in the opposite corner of the apron.

If you like bows or hearts, do them in red in much the same pattern.

Yellow organdy looks lovely when applied with green leaves. You might have a spray of these running along the waist and hem.

For modern effect, use a pink organdy and use black flower design on two pockets.

Lavender organdy is very effective when applied with green or yellow designs.

If you don't want to do applique work, then use wide borders of a fine material in a solid color. The same color combinations as suggested above will work out well.

Print, checked or solid materials are very effective when trimmed

Be Smart!

One of the high fashion successes of the season is linen in natural color or in the semi-bleach that gives even so many different tints of rich cream, sand and off-white. They're ideal for russet or tan and white footwear. You'll also find costume jewelry designed for smartly tailored dresses and suit dresses and their matching linen dusters, a lovely soft bronze sometimes with amber or lighter contrasts. The effect is new and beautifully rich.

Fashion Forecast

Shoes made of leather perforated in tiny lacelike patterns are another note in the new footwear fashions. Spring bags have one of the newest looks in years. They are small, neat and precise. Yet they have all the capacity of former years.

The new slippers are certainly different with that smooth, closed look. But you'll see many variations, among them a scallop treatment. This is very pretty with dark, sheer hose.

terial, use a blue solid for applique, and border with the same color solid. In this case, make the apron ties of the solid color.

If you are using a solid color, select a print that uses predominantly the same color, and use it for border and pocket trimming.

Hints on Making Applique Trimming

It's important to cut out your designs so there are no ragged edges. Use small sharp scissors or a razor blade.

Prepare the motifs by turning back the edges and either hem or press them firmly. If you are working with wash fabrics such as you would be using in aprons, it's important to have no raggedy edges.

Pin and then baste the design onto place. Sew on by means of visible whipping stitches, running or machine stitches or blanket stitches of crocheted thread or yarn. In some cases even liquid thread may be used.

Match Aprons With Table Sets

It's nice, when you want to give more than an apron, to make a bridge set with four napkins to match the apron. In this way the hostess can have a complete ensemble for evening or afternoon entertaining.

The cloth and napkin set is very effective in organdy, with white and contrasting colors easily the most popular. Applique work on this set is dramatic and effective, but lovely effects are achieved easily through piping in red, green, blue, yellow or others if you don't have the time for applique and need several different sets.

Use Other Materials For Table Sets

Any other type of material that will withstand frequent laundering also may be used. You might investigate the possibilities of solid color percale, muslin, broadcloth or white goods such as dimity and use them with contrasting solid-colored piping.

If you are especially handy with the needle, you might like to work out monograms in a darker shade than the solid and decorate with these. Transfer patterns are available for initialing work of almost any kind. Sometimes it's possible to secure initials and to sew over these so you will have the raised letter effect without too much sewing.

Cotton bags, dyed in any different shade, are another wonderful source for material. It's a good idea to see that the bags are of the same type if you are making a complete cloth-napkin-apron set.

The bags should be opened and carefully dyed to prevent streaks. Allow to dry and press thoroughly. You'll be pleased at the lovely color effects you can achieve by this method. Dye your contrasting colors to match perfectly, too.

Pep Up Meals With Delectable Fish (See Recipes Below)

Favorite Seafoods

Have you discovered what pleasant variety fish dinners can give to your meals? If not, you have a real flavor treat coming.

New cooks will like using fish because it is so easily and quickly prepared. There are so many varieties to use, you need run into no rut even though you serve fish often.

You can substitute fish for meat easily because, it, too, is a good source of protein in addition to providing such important minerals as calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper and iodine. Those of you who live inland would do well to fortify your iodine supply by eating fish more often, as it's difficult to get enough in any other way, except medicinally.

Overcooking is one of the faults most frequently found in the preparation of fish, for many people do not realize that fish is really tender. Broiling and pan-frying are good methods to use, as is baking.

You'll find that fish served in a casserole takes little time and can be really delicious. The time required for baking is short as the food really only needs to be heated.

Fresh, canned or frozen fish may be used, whichever is available to you in the recipes I've included today.

Make a sauce by chopping onion, carrot and green pepper until fine; add vinegar. Mix thoroughly and add salt, parsley, thyme and bay leaf. Simmer sauce for 20 minutes; remove bay leaf. Place mackerel in greased baking dish, pour sauce over all and bake in a hot (400 degree) oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

Baked Scallops (Serves 4)

- 1 onion
- 1 green pepper
- 6 stalks celery
- 6 mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 pint scallops
- 1 can mushroom soup
- Dash of nutmeg, lemon juice and salt
- Grated Swiss cheese

Cut onion, green pepper, celery and mushrooms into small pieces and cook in butter. Add to this the scallops and warm through thoroughly over low heat. Pour in mushroom soup which has been seasoned with the nutmeg, lemon juice and salt. Pour into a greased baking dish and top with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Buttered crumbs may be used for topping in place of the cheese.

Crab Cake. (Serves 4)

- 1 1/2 cups crabmeat

- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup melted butter or fat drippings
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon minced green pepper

Any leftover fish may be flaked and made into salad. The other salad ingredients usually are chopped celery, chopped pickle, cooked peas, hard-cooked, chopped eggs and mayonnaise.

For real effect at a dinner table try planked fish. A whole dressed fish is set on an oiled hardwood plank and broiled. Before serving fluke seasoned mashed potatoes around fish and garnish with cooked vegetables such as peas, carrots, cauliflower, tomatoes or onions.

Other fish garnishes include hard-cooked eggs, sliced and sprinkled with paprika, fluted cucumber slices, green pepper rings, celery tops, curly endive, small whole pickled beets and radish roses or tulips.

For boiling fish, use salted water, vinegar and water, tomato juice or court bouillon, made by boiling water with carrots, onions, cloves, bayleaf, vinegar, parsley and fish trimmings.

Celery cut up fine before being added to the stuffing makes a nice stuffing with bread. You'll also like oysters, shrimp and rice for variety.

Irishman Swings at Joe

Louis; Floored by Wind

NEW YORK.—Thomas Delaney, 50-year-old Irishman, unsuccessfully attempted to wrest Joe Louis' heavyweight title in an unscheduled, punchless brawl at a Broadway night club.

The Irishman, landed on the floor after taking a wild swing at Louis' jaw. Witnesses agreed the champion didn't hit his challenger.

Marshall Miles, the champion's manager, commented Delaney fell "apparently from the wind we caused by getting out of there so quickly."

Delaney, a six-foot, 200-pounder, refused to give his address to police, who let him go with a warning.

Louis was heard to say as he entered his car, "foolish fellow."

American Seaman Remains with Disabled Sub Chaser.

SUVA, FIJI ISLANDS.—After being at the mercy of the wind and waves for four and one-half months while adrift in the Pacific aboard a converted submarine chaser, Ronald E. Johnson made port after one of the most unparalleled tales of the sea.

Johnson, apparently little the worse for his adventure, told his story when he arrived in Suva still aboard his engineless craft in tow of the freighter Fort Cadotte, which sighted his drifting ship.

Atoms Will Be Harnessed

To Aid in Allergy Probe

NEW YORK.—Radioactive isotopes from atomic ovens are being used as "tracer bullets" for research in allergy—the kind of reaction that causes hayfever, asthma and other distressing ailments.

Dr. W. A. Sells of the University of Texas medical school said he hopes to learn the exact role of histamine, a poisonous substance resulting from injury to cells, in producing allergies.

Rubber Balloon in Girl's

Throat Causes Her Death

BOSTON, MASS.—Dr. Richard Ford, associate medical examiner, ruled that a toy rubber balloon was the cause of the death of Patricia Libby, 9.

Patricia fell off a drugstore counter stool and struck her head on the floor. She was pronounced dead from asphyxiation after an autopsy revealed that the girl apparently had a balloon in her mouth when she fell. It lodged in her windpipe.

Dead Men Don't Talk

In the tavern of a small Danish town, three men were discussing a gentleman who had died several years before. They all agreed that the deceased had been selfish, disagreeable, miserly, mean and even cruel.

A stranger interrupted. "I believe you're wrong," he observed quietly. "The gentleman was kindly, courteous, lovable, thoughtful, generous."

"He was a friend of yours?" asked one, rather embarrassed.

"Oh, no. I never met him."

"But if you never met him," protested the man, "how do you know he possessed such splendid qualities?"

"I should know," replied the stranger. "I married his widow!"

WINDY WISDOM

You can always tell a country girl from a city girl. When a gust of wind hits them, a country girl will grab for her skirt, but a city girl will grab for her hat.

Subtraction

In response to compliments on the delicious dinner, Mrs. Brown was enthusiastically regaling her guests on her good fortune in finding such a jewel of a cook.

"She has only one fault," sighed Mrs. Brown. "She breaks a lot of dishes."

Just then came a loud unmistakable crash from the direction of the kitchen.

"More dishes, Annie?" called Mrs. Brown.

"No," came the faint answer, "less."

SILENT CAE

One Sunday after President Coolidge had returned to the White House from church, where he had gone alone, Mrs. Coolidge inquired:

"Was the sermon good?"

"Yes," he answered.

"What was it about?"

"Sin."

"What did the minister say?"

"He was against it."

One Way Out

"Whatever made your husband take up scouting long enough to become a scoutmaster, Mrs. Ruggs?"

"Well, Mrs. Framp, you know we have a lot of lawn to be mowed in the summer, and miles of sidewalk to shovel in the winter."

Eternal Rest

During a conversation with an old friend he hadn't seen for some time, a farmer asked him how he had been sleeping.

"I sleep good nights," he said, "and I sleep pretty good mornings, but afterwards I just seem to twist and turn."

BARELY ALIVE

"You have no complaint," a city man said to a farmer. "You have your own milk, butter, eggs, meat, and vegetables. With enough to eat and a place to sleep what more do you want?"

"Well," said the farmer, "you come around a few months from now and you'll see the fattest, sleekest, nakedest farmer you ever saw."

Delayed Action

The schoolmaster stood with his back to the fireplace on a winter morning, and addressed good advice to the pupils before starting the day's lesson.

"Before you speak, think. Count 50 before you say anything important; 100, if it is very important."

The lips of his pupils were moving in unison, and suddenly they burst out in chorus:

"Ninety-nine, one hundred! Your coattails are on fire sir!"

Two Cowfals of Milk

Auntie—"Now, dear, that is really as much milk as you should drink now."

Niece (visiting from the city)—"Fahaw! I don't see why you want to be so stingy with your old milk. There's two whole cowfals out in the barn."

Baby Face

Salesgirl: "Isn't it a sweet doll? And you can lay it down and it closes its eyes and goes to sleep just like a real baby."

Mrs. Jones: "Have you ever had a baby?"

No Rest for the Wicked

Prisoner: "The judge sent me here for the rest of my life."

Guard: "Why are you complaining?"

Prisoner: "Swingin' this sledge hammer isn't my idea of a rest!"

Mercy Flights Save Fire-Riddled Village

Isolated Hamlet Receives Food, Clothing and Medicine

GOOSE BAY, LABRADOR.—Canadian and United States airmen, flying out of this jointly operated air outpost, joined in a mercy flight to take relief to the 136 inhabitants of the partly burned out fishing settlement of Makkovik, Labrador.

Food, clothing and medical supplies were dropped by parachute from two C-47s. Other supplies were flown in by a single engine RCAF plane equipped with skis to the tiny hamlet devastated by fire.

Nearly all of the community's food, clothing and medical supplies were burned. There was no loss of life.

To get word of the disaster out of the isolated location, a dog sled driver traveled 65 miles over rough terrain to Cape Harrison, Labrador.

High Prices, Low Hemlines Launch Mass Sewing Bee

PHILADELPHIA.—Millions of U.S. housewives, seemingly trapped between high prices and low hemlines, now are engaging in the greatest sewing bee the nation has seen since the days of ermine and hoopskirts.

More than 23 million sewing machines are buzzing away in American homes as penny-wise matrons literally piece together their answer to the question of how to achieve high style at lower cost. First apparent result is that sales of yard goods by the end of 1947 were 6 per cent ahead of the 1946 volume while sales of women's ready-to-wear dropped off an exactly equal amount. At the same time, sales of dress patterns were up 250 per cent over 1940.

These and other facts were uncovered by SKF Industries in a survey of sewing machine equipment. More than 3,000 types of sewing machines are in use today, ranging from mechanical behemoths capable of running off 5,000

Benefits to Our Readers

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT: Authorized and paid for by Farmers For Stassen Committee, Ancher Nelsen, Chrmn., Hutchinson, Minn., for which $6.65 has been paid.

From the Farmers OF MINNESOTA To the Farmers OF WISCONSIN

We recommend to you very highly our three-term Governor, Harold E. Stassen, for the next President. We know him well. He was born on a Minnesota homestead which his father and mother are still farming. He has always been right on agricultural questions, from oleomargarine and cooperatives, to parity and conservation. We also have confidence in him on the big issues that affect us all. He has been firm and consistent against the communists. He has been a constructive leader in every respect. He backed an outstanding farmer, Edward J. Thye, as Governor and as United States Senator.

Except for a very few farm officials who have played more with big business republicans in the East than they have worked with the people of Minnesota, we farmers of Minnesota have been solid behind Harold Stassen.

How Farmers Backed Stassen
The best proof of this was his sweeping victory in the farming areas of Minnesota in his third election after we had the chance to see how he acted as Governor for two terms. In his third election as our Governor the farmers backed him overwhelmingly. For example, in the corn-hog county of Martin down near the Iowa line Stassen received 4,891 votes to 1,717 for his opponent. In the dairy county of Goodhue on the Wisconsin line Stassen received 5,535 votes to 2,711 for his opponent. In the wheat and diversified agricultural county of Rock on the South Dakota line, he received 1,819 votes to 471 for his opponent. And in the big agricultural county of Otter Tail up on the North Dakota line he received 6,327 votes to 4,580 for his opponent. In the state as a whole he received 409,800 votes to 299,917 for his opponent. In the Township of Eureka, which is a complete township of milk producers in his home county of Dakota, where they had known him for two terms as county attorney and two terms as governor, he received a remarkable vote of 158 to 27 for his opponent. We know we speak for the farmers of Minnesota as a whole when we recommend him to you as the best man for President of the United States, in your April 6th primary. With our neighborly best wishes,
Sincerely,

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Masaryk's Death Crystallizes Red Menace as U.S. Prepares to Act; Spring Rash of Strikes Breaks Out

Released by WNU Features

MASARYK:

Death in Prague

Whether Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, took his own life or was liquidated by the Communists really didn't make any difference.

The Communist government had announced that he had leaped to his death from a first, second or third-floor window (U. S. newspapers readers could choose their own version) of the foreign office in Prague.

Later reports by "highly authoritative persons" insisted that Masaryk had been murdered by Communists. An alleged "eyewitness" testified that he had seen Masaryk's body after its reported fall to a concrete pavement and that it bore no evidence that the foreign minister had died in such a manner.

Supporting the murder theory was the fact that Masaryk was reported to have met President Edouard Benes the day before his death, and the two were said to have planned something the Communists wished to prevent.

Unidentified Czech officials who have escaped from Prague reported also that President Benes was a prisoner of the Communist regime.

But whether Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czechoslovakian republic, had been murdered or goaded to suicide by his intolerable position, one thing was certain: Communists had killed him just as surely as if they had put a pistol to his head and pulled the trigger.

If Masaryk took his own life it was not just because he was seeking an escape, but because it was the last service he could do for his country—throwing light, by his own destruction, on the terrible, destructive force that is communism.

NERVES:

Warlike

The alternate, ostentatious flexing of muscles by the United States and Russia was, it appeared, shifting in status from a cold war to a war of nerves.

There were the unmistakable signs of the military preparing to reassert itself. Many reserve officers had received letters pointing out that, although they were not being called to active duty immediately, they would do well to prepare themselves for such a possible eventuality.

In the Pentagon building in Washington army planners were working late at their desks. Procurement officers were reported to be showing great interest in cement factories, since cement is vital in building underground shelters and fortifications.

Russian troops were said to be massing in eastern Germany, but no one would venture to say whether this was pure bluff, a threat of retaliation to the Marshall plan and union of western Europe, or a show of force intended to influence the coming elections in Italy.

But President Truman himself precipitated the worst outbreak of war jitters when he publicly proclaimed that his faith in the attainment of real world peace had been shaken, although he still believes real peace is possible.

In this crisis the U. S. government was stressing these points which embodied administration policy for meeting the situation:

- 1. The European recovery plan should be carried out promptly.
2. The U. S. encourages formation of what Marshall called a political association in western Europe as the first step toward restoring stability.
3. Spread of Communist governments anywhere in the world, including China is opposed by the American government which will do everything in its power to block communism.
4. The U. S. will continue to work for world peace wherever possible.
Finally, any estimate of the situation must include this inescapable conclusion: Neither Russia nor the U. S. wants war now; and, more important, neither could afford to fight one. This particular decade continues to be a period worked by a shifting of forces and consolidation of strength where it will do the most good if and when the real showdown comes.

SHIFTING WORLD

Nobody Worries About 'Tissick' Now

City dwellers of 300 years ago—the inhabitants of London in the year 1648, for instance—were only half as likely to be killed in accidents as are the metropolitans of today.

But they were several times as likely to die from tuberculosis or other diseases with such fearful names as spotted fever, purple, rising of the lights, plague in the guts, tussick, imposthume and others, says a study of early and present-day mortality by North-western National Life Insurance company.

The king's horsemen were the fastest traffic to contend with in 1648. The automobile was still 250 years in the future.

Deaths from accidents were only about 36 per year per 100,000 in 1648, compared to 71 today. Accidents then produced 1 per cent of total mortality, against 7 per cent today. Total annual death rate, however, in 17th century England was 35 to 40 per 1,000 of population, against only 10 per 1,000 of population in present-day United States. Infant mortality from disease was appalling, although it then was on the way down from the dark medieval years.

Compensation

Nature generally manages to even up a lopsided score. For instance, the man with hair on his chest may be more likely to become bald-headed. H. Harris of Cambridge, England, finds that baldness is more frequent in men with abundant hair on chest, arms, legs and abdomen than in men with little body hair growth. Inheritance determines how much hair you have.

Added to the list of the world's numberless martyrs for liberty was the name of Jan Masaryk, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, who was the first president and liberator of the country.

STRIKES:

Miners

Widespread strikes in the nation's soft coal fields were touched off by John L. Lewis' latest foray into the national scene, a demand for $100-a-month pensions for his miners.

The United Mine Workers leader had asked rank-and-file "reaction" to his charge that coal operators had "dishonored" the 1947 contract by failing to grant pensions. And his miners produced the exact reaction he wanted as almost 200,000 of them in 11 states quit to support Lewis' stand at the very outset of the difficulties.

It was not a strike in the technical sense of the word, Lewis, in all his power, simply had nodded his shaggy head and his men, quick to catch the signal, walked away from their jobs.

The current mine contract does not expire until June 30, but it provides that the miners need work only as long as they are "willing and able."

Impact of the soft coal walkouts showed first in the nation's steel industry where output is threatened if the shutdowns continue for any length of time. Many of the closed mines are "captives" whose entire output goes to the steel companies.

Packers

Fraught with an even greater immediacy than the mine walkouts, however, was a nationwide strike for more pay by 100,000 members of the CIO packing-house workers.

The strike went off as scheduled despite an urgent request by President Truman asking the packing companies and workers' representatives to maintain the status quo without interrupting negotiations until April 1, at which time a board of inquiry was slated to report to him on conditions of the strike.

In reply to the President, the union strike board rejected his proposal because, it said, the packing firms would not agree to placing even their wage proposals into effect during the negotiation.

As the strike began, government records indicated that the entire nation would come to feel the curtailed meat supply after the first week, with some areas more severely affected than others.

GOVERNMENT:

Expensive

Total per capita cost of running the federal government for one year has zoomed $201 since 1939, according to a report by the Tax Foundation. It now is about $270 a year, compared with $69 in 1939.

War, of course, was mainly responsible for the increase. Total estimated expenditures for the fiscal year 1948 are 37.7 billion dollars. War and its aftermath accounted for almost 23 billion of that.

But the blueprint for 1949, said the foundation, registers an increase. It quoted President Truman:

"In the fiscal year of 1949, 75 per cent of our expenditures reflect the costs of war, the effect of war and our efforts to prevent a future war."

TREATY:

50 Years

Communist expansion was going to meet a roadblock if the nations of western Europe had any voice in the matter.

Britain, France and the Benelux (Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg) nations adopted a 50-year treaty for a political, economic and military union of western Europe in an out and out move to check the communism that threatens their independence.

Delegates from the five countries completed their efforts after more than a week around the conference table. The alliance was a direct out-growth of the union of western European nations suggested in January by Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary.

The treaty was believed to bind the nations to mutual assistance in the face of aggression, mutual aid in the economic field, co-operation in improving their living standards and a measure of coordination of colonial resources.

It was just a beginning, but a good one. In the eyes of U. S. government leaders the alliance was not only a desirable but necessary element if the Marshall plan for recovery is to work at all.

SAY UNCLE:

Palestine

People continue to ask the Arabs and Jews of Palestine to stop their futile wrangling.

France, China and the United States sent an appeal to the Jews and Arabs of Palestine and also to the Arab state members of the United Nations, asking them to take steps to promote a truce in the Holy Land fighting.

There was no real confidence among delegates of the three nations that their request would be heeded. Russia, the fourth country taking part in the big power talks on Palestine, refrained from joining in the appeal because the Soviets have taken the typical stand that there is no need for the big powers to consult with the Arabs and Jews.

Most observers thought the truce appeal looked like wishful thinking. For one thing, no group among either Arabs or Jews in Palestine is in a position to control its dissident members and thus guarantee a truce.

Moreover, the idea of a military truce does not bear upon the heart of the problem. The United Nations is still committed, on paper, to partition, while the Arabs adamantly continue to reject that proposal and the Jews assert just as strongly that they will accept nothing else.

ACCIDENTS:

Women's

Accident rate among girls and women has been reduced by about one-half in the past 35 years as a result of modernization of the American home, according to statistics compiled by Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Illustrating the reduction in home hazards, the statisticians said, are the shift from oil lamps and gas for lighting to the electric light bulb, replacing of the traditional coal stove by the modern gas or electric range, and use of central heating instead of stoves and fireplaces.

Mortality from burns fell from 10.3 per 100,000 in 1911 to 1.4 in 1946—a decrease of 86 per cent.

Headliners

IN DETROIT... Gary Batherson (right) saved Marlene Padar's life when they broke through the ice on a pond where they were playing, then suffered painful aftermath of heroism when Marlene insisted on bestowing a big smooch on his shrinking cheek.

IN CRANSTON, R. I. . . . Frank Trifoglio, serving a four-year term for automobile theft, escaped from state prison by stealing a prison automobile.

IN TORONTO . . . Mary Richardson attended the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers association, was the lucky winner of the door prize—a genuine gold brick.

IN DAYTON . . . Garrett H. Pumpley, only fireman at a school having 13 furnaces, was ordered to bed by his doctor to recover from a bad attack of overwork.

IN PECATONICA, Ill. . . . A farm horse, marooned on an isolated piece of wooded farmland for more than a week by flood waters, was kept from starvation by fodder dropped to him from an airplane.

Consumer Income Up

Consumer income rose in January to a record high annual rate of 210.8 billion dollars, the commerce department announced.

The figure for December was 210.4 billion dollars. The January rate, according to the department, was 7 per cent higher than the 1947 average of 196.8 billion.

January's increase over December came despite a slight downturn in wages and salaries.

In its report the commerce department attributed the wage-salary fall to a decline in employment and a shorter work week in durable goods manufacturing, along with more than a seasonal decline in building employment because of the weather, which was abnormally bad.

The general increase in consumer income during January was attributed to: Increased income from abroad because of higher prices, a gain in unemployment insurance payments and bonus payments.

Science Talent Quest Shows Aid To Progress

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON—I don't often go into such intimate matters as private murders in these columns, but I have been impressed lately to see the results of the untrammelled spirit of modern youth, whose repressions and inhibitions have been removed by thoughtful parents who use reason instead of the cruel discipline such as I have suffered—having to go to bed without supper, for instance, when I was impudent to my elders, or being kept in the house for throwing my arithmetic at the cat instead of doing my homework, or having my mouth washed out with acme soap when I used language unbecoming a future commentator.

Recently a pretty little brunette who was irked by having to leave the city to dwell with her parents in some dull rural area of Missouri rebelled. After shooting Mama and Papa, she stuffed them behind the sofa and tried to dispose of their property. Then there was the poor little seventh-grader who smarted under thoughtless taunting by a farmer who thought the youth displayed poor form in sawing wood. The boy shot the old man and dumped him in a creek.

There was the 18-year-old girl from Portsmouth, Va., who playfully sprayed five G.I.'s with revolver shots in a shooting gallery, and the six girls, aged 14 to 16, who beat up their female gym instructor in a Bronx high school.

Of course I am not old-fashioned enough to encourage corporal punishment, but it does seem that a little less sparing of the rod might have prevented spoiling the crime record of the peaceful communities from which these youngsters came.

Perhaps it wouldn't have helped, though, when the nations of the world set such bad examples.

I couldn't help thinking of a paragraph in the concluding chapter of that highly important and revealing book by former Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Said Hull (and I can see him leaning back as he dictated, looking over the wide sweep of the Maryland landscape, letting his thoughts go back over the rich days of his years): "We have a desperate need for more religion and morality as the background for government. The religious and moral foundations for thought and conduct require strengthening here as well as throughout the world. There is no higher civilizing influence than religious and moral concepts. Corruption and tyranny can be driven out of government only when these concepts give men the faculty to recognize such evils and the strength to eliminate them."

In these days when we hear so many unpleasant references to the atom bomb, it was a relief to the national capital to get its annual reminder that the people who know most about atomic energy think far more about how it can promote human welfare than about how it can extinguish human life.

Sixteen thousand high-schoolers presented themselves this year as possible winners in the seventh annual Westinghouse science talent search. After rigorous elimination tests, 40 finalists were selected to come to Washington for talks with scientists, visits to Capitol Hill and the White House and conversations with their colleagues.

These 40 students have a reasonable assurance of scholarships of $1,000 each from various sources, aside from the search awards, while the two lucky top winners each are given $2,400 with which to continue their studies.

There was another interesting thing about this year's award—the revelation that America still is drawing heavily on the Old World for its scientific talent. The boy who won the top prize was born in Budapest.

Ex-G.I.'s can upset the budget again this year in its attempt to trim Mr. Truman's spending, congress makes no allowance for nearly 500 million dollars still unclaimed in terminal leave pay due enlisted men. The President's bulging budget set aside only five million dollars for this item, just 1 per cent of the total possible cost.

In contrast to the usual Hollywood practice, the government's film production includes none of the usual "thrillers." Latest 25-minute short subject made by Uncle Sam bears the prosaic title, "Toward a Uniform Plumbing Code." Other recent "sockeroos" cover movies on blister rust control, Japanese agriculture, foot and mouth disease.

Some of the people who say they would rather be right than president don't get the chance they deserve.

Robert Cummings, co-star, with Hedy Lamarr, and co-producer of "Let's Live a Little," wants more worlds to conquer. He plans to write, produce and star in his next picture, tentatively titled "That's Hollywood." It will be based on his own career, and he hopes to have Hollywoodites play themselves. For instance, King Vidor would appear, giving Cummings his first chance in films, and there would be Margaret Sullivan, who helped him to the top.

Howard (Sam Spade) Duff and House (Sam Aldrich) Jameson do a scene in "The Naked City" in which Jameson is supposed to try to jump from a window with Duff preventing him. The picture was filmed in New York buildings and streets, and after the actors had rehearsed that scene several times, horrified tenants in a nearby building called the police.

Monty Woolley, who leaves his Saratoga home once each year to make a picture in Hollywood, is set for this year's task. He will appear as an eccentric nephew who conspires to be named heir to the fortune in "Tatlock's Millions." Wanda Hendrix and John Lund star, with Richard Haydn making his debut as a director. "The Bishop's Wife" was Woolley's 1947 stint.

Half a dozen years ago Ruth Hussey played a newspaper photographer in "The Philadelphia Story" and got an academy award. "The Great Gatsby," in which she plays a similar role, that of a caustic, golf-playing young woman, may bring her another one.

New York is merely a stopping-off place; she will go on to Paris to make a French picture. Jean Arthur and John Lund are co-stars in the new comedy, Miss Arthur also picked New York for a vacation.

Harriet Hilliard of CBS' "Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," likes to visit friends in nearby studios, with the result that for two weeks running Ozzie couldn't find his wife when he wanted to introduce her to the audience before the show. It won't happen again; the second time, he announced that Harriet was being walked around the block to sober her up!

When Rudy Vallee decided to be an actor, as well as a crooner, a good many people felt that he might better have let well enough alone. But he made the grade and "I Remember Mama" certainly proves that he knew what he was doing. Frank Sinatra is following right along, doing his first straight dramatic role, that of a priest, in "The Miracle of the Bells."

SLOW AND CAREFUL
By JOHN SCOTT DOUGLAS

YOU can't make fast moves when handling bees, so a beeman learns to be slow and careful no matter what happens. I remembered that the day I stopped by Oakknoll ranch and found a stranger sitting in the farmhouse kitchen and watching Emmy prepare a fat fryer.

Now I've been in love with Emmy since she was 16. The 10 years that have passed since then have changed her so little that if I were buzzing around looking for something sweet, I'd still pick Emmy. The western sun slanting through the window made a halo of her fair hair and her face was flushed from the hot stove. She waved a floury hand as she popped a drumstick into the sputtering grease.

"Hello, Bill," she said. "I want you to meet Fuller Launson. He's bought the Hall place and is raising horses. Where'd you come from?"

"Sierra foothills," I answered. "I'm taking my bees down to Redlands to pollinate the Farland orchard."

"Bill has a pollinating service," Emmy explained. "Arsenic sprays kill so many bees that orchardists pay him to bring his hives, so the trees will bear fruit."

"I see," Launson said, the wisp of a black mustache over his thin lips barely moving.

I couldn't make up my mind whether he was one of those robber-bees that steal honey from another hive or whether he was a drone that lets the workers support him. He had black eyes and a waspish face. And there was contempt in the way he looked at my swollen hands that might near put me in a gloving mood. I can't bother with gloves when I'm handling beehives all the time.

I asked about his horses while Emmy cooked supper, but he seemed to resent my dropping in and wouldn't say much. However he admitted that his old man had plenty of money and thought that since Fuller Launson wasn't much good in his business, he might as well try to raise horses.

Now Emmy has a heart as big as a six-spur hive and she's always feeling sorry for queer characters. She never talks much about herself, but she's a good listener. Still, I couldn't figure what she saw in Launson, except that he had a college degree and she respects education. I could have told Launson other things about her. She's been lonely since her folks died, however, so if she found him good company, that was all right with me. A beeman learns not to disturb the queen unless he has to.

After supper I had to leave to get hives set up in the fields of the Redlands orchard before sun-up. Launson showed no signs of swarming, so I guessed he planned to visit a while longer with Emmy. But a beeman doesn't jump to conclusions. As I say, he learns to be slow and careful.

It was two weeks before I got back to Oakknoll again. Launson sat in the same chair, as if he hadn't moved in all that time. He didn't seem real friendly, and acted bored when I asked about his horses.

Well, supper didn't go so well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

After supper, Launson said, "there's a good movie in town. Like to go, Emmy?"

She started shaking her head, but I spoke up.

"You go right along. I've been driving nights and working days until I'm too wore out to be fit company for anyone. I'll just catch a few winks on the sofa and push along about 11."

"Oh, Bill," Emmy said anxiously, "do you have to work so hard? You haven't an ounce of flesh!"

"No money'd keep me driving this way," I admitted. "Now that the war's over and we got to help feed the world, we need bigger fruit crops."

Well, supper didn't go so well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

But the spring pollinating is almost over and soon I can take it easier. "Not here, I hope," Launson said unpleasantly, when Emmy went into the bedroom to get her hat.

I knew then how bees feel when you shake their hive on a cold day, but I was too tired to argue. I was asleep before they drove away and the alarm-clock awakened me before they returned.

It was nearly a month before I could get back. When I drove past the old Hall place, it looked like Launson hadn't given his horses much care. He stepped out of the house after I'd stopped the truck, and spoke as if he owned Oakknoll.

"You back?"

"Yep," I said. "Just in time for supper."

"I didn't know Emmy was expecting you," he snapped.

I wondered whether Launson's weak chin would hurt my swollen hands much. I decided not to try it.

"Launson," I said, "I'm putting some hives out under the trees here. If you ain't afraid of bees, I want you to give me a hand."

When I came inside later to wash up, Emmy was just putting the last steaming dishes on the table.

Well, supper didn't go so well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

"Where's Mr. Launson?" she asked.

"Last I saw of him," I said, tucking in my napkin, "he was running toward his house with a veil of bees trailing behind him. He dropped a hive he was carrying and instead of backing away slow and careful like he began swatting bees. They kind of resented it."

Emmy didn't say anything for a minute. "I'm glad he's gone," she said, and smiled. "I'd have told him things before, but I get so lonely when you're away, Bill. What made him drop the hive?"

"I guess something I said startled him. You see, he'd just advised me to move on, saying I'd never get anywhere with you, Emmy."

"The idea! What'd you say to that, Bill?"

"Why, I told him he was crazy—that we'd been married 10 years."

point. Only rarely is there total peace.

When this conflict becomes too formidable, too threatening, you do the obvious thing—you try to run. That seems to be the thing to do, but often the escape is worse than the conflict—and more lives are damaged by these escape or fight mechanisms than by any one thing.

Maybe you'd like to have me tell you very briefly about the various escape routes that the mind follows when things get too hot.

They are 13. First comes regression, which means to go backward, do childish things. Then comes extroversion—that means to turn to excessive activity to cover up the conflict. The opposite of that is introversion—to think excessively, to dodge real issues.

Rationalization is to indulge in false thinking, while segregation is not to let your right hand know what your left hand is doing.

When you practice repression, you forget unpleasant things; and when you disassociate, you pass the buck. Sometimes you resort to conversion—that means to have a breakdown or illness in place of a conflict. Displacement is to worry over one thing when another is to blame, and projection is to attribute your own faults to others.

Another escape is called identification; that means to form fantasies. When you follow a dream, you overdo some particular thing in order to overcome your inadequacies.

The final escape route is the only one which is wholeheartedly recommended. It is called sublimation; that means to turn the effect of the conflict into some useful channel.

Soybeans Provide Protein To Offset High Food Cost

High food costs make it difficult for the homemaker to know how she can get the most for her food dollar. Protein is one of the most essential protective elements in the human diet, say extension service nutritionists.

Foods which contain protein—meats, eggs, milk, cheese—are high in cost, but they must not be left out of the diet. Cheaper cuts of meats, meat stretchers, egg dishes and cheese dishes will help supply the body's need for protein. Other sources of protein are soybeans, dried beans and peas. These vegetables come nearest to meat, eggs, milk and cheese as body builders. They also contain Vitamin B1 and iron.

For homemakers not familiar with the soybean, this information is offered: "Soybeans contain protein of high quality, similar to animal protein. They can be used in place of meat in the diet. Soybeans are good sources of usable iron and other mineral, such as calcium, phosphorus, as well as an excellent source of vitamins of the B-complex. Fresh, green soybeans are rich in vitamin A. They are high in fat, and sprouted soybeans are a useful source of Vitamin C."

Kathleen Norris Says: Rheumatic Fever Stalks Children

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features

"I knew he was the right doctor because he said at once that it was rheumatic fever, that it would touch her heart..."

by Kathleen Norris

THIS is a true story about the children in our family; my telling it will show you how much in earnest I am about the great national killer, for I don't often get so personal.

About 20 years ago, an 8-year-old girl in my nursery had a severe cold at the end of Christmas holidays. While I was worrying as to whether she ought to start back to boarding school or not, we took the short motor trip from the ranch to the city apartment, and when it came time for the small girl to get out of the car, she could walk only with difficulty, and she was white with pain.

We got her into bed, and got the right doctor. I know he was the right doctor because he said at once that it was rheumatic fever, that it would touch her heart if we didn't take care and that she must stay in bed, not leaving the bed for baths, changes of linen or anything else for six weeks. We followed these hard rules carefully, the little girl became well, and is now a happy wife and mother.

The instant the doctor diagnosed her case, I telephoned the neighbor who had shared our holidays, and whose two children had also had the heavy colds and the mysterious sharp pains in legs and stomach. But this neighbor was a happy-go-lucky soul who believed that children will do anything to get out of a return to school, and she packed them off with no further thought. They took a cold bus ride, sat on school benches, idled about the playground in recess and presently the small girl was seriously ill. For two years she was invalided, bright red spots on her cheeks, pain off and on, danger always close. But she survived, and although not a strong woman, still is living a normal life.

Boy Drops Dead

The boy seemed all right, but he dropped dead at 11 years of age, in a football game.

This story is factual, and may seem unusual. But unusual is what it isn't.

It is the saddest and commonest story of American childhood. It is the story of the heart trouble that touches thousands—tens of thousands of lives every year, weakening, injuring hearts, making them ready for final trouble.

Not as bad as the dreaded polio? Not like that? Why, it is 32 times more prevalent and more fatal than polio. For every child stricken by infantile paralysis, 32 are fatally or permanently injured by this insidious and voracious evil.

Children's deaths from polio, whooping cough, meningitis, measles, diphtheria and scarlet fever all combined, don't amount to more than a fraction of the deaths from injured hearts.

And this is not to say that in the end, inasmuch as the heart stops beating at death, all disease and death come from the heart. No, this is specific and localized trouble with the organ itself.

Considering all this, why do so many mothers strain their energies and incomes to the limit, on schools, amusements, clothes for the children and overlook the pitfall right at their feet, that pitfall that is dug by the heavy cold, the touch of rheumatic fever and the ignorant neglect? The minute you hear, from a competent pediatrician or diagnostician, that there is a "murmur" in the heart of the child you love, then that child must get straight into bed and be watched, kept warm and amused,

... but he dropped dead ...

CARE HELPS

Rheumatic fever, an innocuous, harmless-sounding phrase has been nicknamed the great "National Killer" because of the fearful ravages it has made upon America's children.

Most mothers are prone to regard the disease lightly, unaware of the tragic consequences which may result if adequate counter-measures are not taken promptly.

Miss Norris illustrates the seriousness of proper care with a sad tale of two children who were afflicted with rheumatic fever.

Such useless tragedies are preventable. They are preventable by mothers who must realize the stark seriousness of rheumatic fever. It is 32 times more prevalent than polio, and children's deaths from whooping cough, meningitis, measles, diphtheria and scarlet fever all combined, don't amount to more than a fraction of the deaths from damaged hearts.

Cures for rheumatic fever are painfully slow and necessitate saintly patience.

Good health is a valuable asset. In monetary terms no price can be placed on it. It is incalculable. To preserve it, we must exercise necessary care and reasonable precautions.

and not allowed to suspect what you fear, until you know that it isn't rheumatic fever.

Cure Requires Patience

The cure is slow, trying to Mother, trying to the little invalid. But a few weeks of care now may buy him a strong heart and a healthy manhood, and those are the real riches of life.

Which one of us would change perfect health for a million dollars, if with that million we had to join the restricted, nervous, suffering thousands of those who have heart ailments?

American Heart association has a lot of data on this subject, and full instructions as to the conditions that cause heart trouble, the symptoms to watch for, preliminary precautions and actual care. You'll find it enlightening. If you will write today to the Public Affairs committee of American Heart Association, 22 E. 38th street, New York 16, N. Y., you'll be sending reading matter that may be invaluable to you and those you love.

Of course, the grown-ups get their share of heart sickness, too, but if we start with the children we'll get to them eventually. This article began with a personal story, and I'll end it with another, also absolutely true.

More than 30 years ago, a severe case of tonsillitis laid me low with arthritis; for 10 months I could not move without help. The suffering was severe, and when diet, comparative youth and a good constitution brought me out of that trouble, I was left with an impaired heart. For four months I had to neglect home, baby, typewriter, everything, lie flat and live on a rigid diet. It was unbelievably hard and depressing. But that was in 1917, and except for one short bout of surgery, I have not since spent two consecutive days in bed with illness.

LIQUID INSULATION

Tests in experimental houses show that an insulating material which flows like a liquid can save enough fuel oil in three years to pay for itself.

The material, zonite vermiculite, is made by heating a mica type material until it puffs up into thousands of dead air cells. It is poured into spaces between walls and attic joints, and flows around obstructions to make a continuous insulating barrier.

Group Intensifies War Against Diabetes

American Diabetes association has started a program to get an estimated one million unrecognized diabetics under treatment.

These are in addition to an estimated one million diabetics who now are taking treatment.

Under treatment, the association pecked out, the diabetic can virtually live a normal life and expect a long lifespan. Dr. Edward S. Dillon, president of the association, stated that 40 per cent of the diabetics

Putting a 'Punch' in Lunch

Packing a lunch that "punches" a punch and avoiding that day-to-day sameness is a problem of many homemakers. Aim always to include something crisp, something juicy, and one hot, one sweet, one tart or salty, and one colorful food, advise nutrition specialists. Each lunch box should contain one third of the food supply for the day for the person who eats it. Lettuce put in sandwiches is likely to wilt and is better when wrapped separately.

BY FAITH I drink the water in my cups, I breathe the air and trust that it is pure, The bread I break at evening as I sup, I take believing that the loaf is sure To be quite clean. At night I go to sleep And journey through a strange and darkened land, With confidence that God has power to keep His never-failing hold upon my hand.

By faith I rise to meet my busy day, Sure of the sun, I plant and hoe my seed, Knowing that rain and light will take their way.

Across the earth, that my immediate need For food will be supplied, By faith I go Trusting in God and in my fellow-men, And if at times that silver fire burns low, It never fails to lift and burn again.

Farmers Insist on Durability, Not Style, in 'Every Day' Clothes

Comfort and durability, rather than style, are the predominant factors considered by farmers and farm wives in purchase of new clothing, it is indicated in a survey of "every day" wear of 50 farm families made by University of Illinois.

The men wear denim overalls and jackets, colored workshirts, heavy shoes, cotton gloves and a hat or cap which fits snugly against the wind. Undergarments differed with the season and individual preference.

For cold weather all men wore one or more outside jackets or short coats. All work clothes were worn hard and steadily until worn out.

Typically, these farmers purchased three or four overalls, three or four denim jackets, lined and unlined, and four colored workshirts each on the average a year. They bought two pairs of heavy shoes, 19 pairs of cotton gloves, one pair of pajamas or a nightshirt, and one hat or cap.

"Sunday clothes" were more varied in type and lasted longer than work clothing. Men's suits averaged a life of five years and topcoats and coats nine years.

On the distaff side, the farmers' wives reported wearing wash dresses and durable, low-heeled shoes for work about the farm. Yearly purchases for the women included both work and dress clothing. The average women had three or four dresses for everyday wear.
