

Kewaskum Village Takes High Honors in Red Cross Drive

First Over Top With $847.25 Collected, Equal to 269% of Quota; Total in Chapter $8,841.95

A complete tabulation of contributions made during the Red Cross drive in the West Bend chapter area indicates total collections of $8,841.95 up to March 31, according to an announcement by Drive Chairman Matt Goring Jr., who said that some reports from precinct chairmen are still being awaited.

The tabulations made last Tuesday reveal every township and village and the city of West Bend met and exceeded quotas established for them. The village of Kewaskum took the highest ranking percentage-wise, contributing a total of $847.25, equal to 269% of its quota.

Second place percentage-wise went to the city of West Bend with a total of $6,238.80, contributing an amount equal to 190% of its quota. The West Bend total was broken down as follows: Residential, $2,247.75; industries and industrial employees, $2,242.25; business and business employees, $1,629.80; organization, $151.

Other totals with percentage of quota attained are: Town Barton, $312.75 130%; Town Farmington, $315.55 132%; Town Jackson, $37.75 117%; Town Kewaskum, $847.25 269%; Town Trenton, $93.35 101%; Town Wayne, $21.00 152%; Town West Bend, $19.50 121%.

The town of Barton was the first of the townships to attain its quota. Mrs. William Jansen was the precinct chairman.

Village totals in addition to Kewaskum were as follows: Barton, $312.75 145%; Jackson, $37.75 117%.

The total collection of $8,841.95 is equal to 169% of the campaign quota. Goring praised the generosity of the people in the West Bend chapter area, saying that each precinct had reason to be proud of its record.

"The generous spirit with which the people supported the drive has assured a continuation of Red Cross services in this area and has contributed to added service by the national organization, particularly in disaster areas." Goring also thanked the many volunteer workers who helped conduct the drive and praised their work. The success of the drive is, after all, dependent on the work of the individual volunteers, he said.

"The final result of the campaign is true testimony of the cooperation accorded us by the precinct chairmen and volunteer collectors. It was excellent," the chairman said.

Additional tabulations remain to be made. Goring said, since contributions of industrial and business employees must be allocated to the credit of the townships or villages in which they live. This will be done in the next two or three weeks and individual chairmen will be notified by letter from Red Cross headquarters what additional amounts have been allocated to the credit of their precincts.

Complete records on the drive will be kept at Red Cross headquarters in the public library building, West Bend. Goring indicated.

Repeat Performance of Minstrel Show

"The Cotton Town Minstrels," a minstrel show sponsored by the Kewaskum Kiwanis club in the high school auditorium Sunday afternoon and evening and Monday evening played before packed houses and was such a hit that a repeat performance had to be given Thursday night to accommodate all who wanted to see the show. Thursday night's performance again drew a capacity audience, many of whom attended for the second time.

The large cast consisted of members of the Kiwanis club and Band Parents organization. The proceeds, and very substantial they were, will go toward new uniforms for the high school band Elmer Schabo, music director at the school, also directed the minstrel show. The many West Benders who saw the show requested the cast to repeat it in that city. Besides side-splitting comedy, the minstrel show featured some very excellent singing and musical selections given by talented members of the cast.

Glazed orange blossoms arranged in a side effect held her fingertip veil of sheer illusion with matching lace trim. She carried a cascade of madonna lilies.

Miss Helen Bunkelmann, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing a gown of traditional blue green tulle and fashioned with a portrait neckline, matching gauntlets and net bonnet. Baseball Team Enters Land o' Lakes League

The Kewaskum Utensils, grand champs of the Kettle Moraine Baseball league last year, will move into a stronger circuit this coming season. At an organization meeting held last week the team voted to drop out of the K-M circuit and enter the Land o' Lakes loop.

Two reasons were given for the change. First, there are better playing fields and some night games can be played in the Lakes. Second, the Lakes league receives more publicity, helping to draw larger crowds and gain more interest. Kewaskum basketball teams have competed in the Lakes loop for a number of years.

According to league director Martin C. Weber, the Lakes circuit divisions are much improved for the coming campaign. The northern division is one of the ideal set-ups, both for rivalry and short distances of travel. The return of West Bend, the addition of Kewaskum and Lannon moving up from the Rivers has rounded out a fine eight team loop. Other teams include Grafton, Mequon, Granville, Menomonie Falls and Germantown. The ball parks are all in fine shape. The new fields at Germantown and Mequon have added a great deal.

Three champions are now in the league—Granville, the defending title holder; Kewaskum, Kettle Moraine champ, and Lannon, Land o' Rivers winner. West Bend-Kewaskum, Mequon-Granville and Lannon-Menomonie Falls are natural rivals. Grafton will benefit by Kewaskum and West Bend games because of rivalry of old. There is a feud between Kewaskum and Meno. Falls that developed in basketball.

Kewaskum will play its first game Sunday, May 2, at Meno. Falls. The first home game will be played on the following Sunday, May 5, with West Bend here. The team also will play a practice game before the opening. The first practice will be held this Sunday afternoon. Kewaskum will have nearly all members of last year's championship team back with the addition of several new players, some of them moving up from the Rainbow league team. Further information and the schedule will be published later.

MacArthur Delegates Winin Village, County, Sixth District Tuesday

Trustees Martin, Miller and Stautz Elected Without Opposition Here; 302 Votes Cast

Voting was heavier than expected in the village in Tuesday's election, a total of 302 ballots being cast. With only presidential delegates on the ticket and no opposition for the three village trustee offices, a light vote was expected. Stumping on the write-in ticket brought out additional voters. There were 267 Republican votes and 36 Democrat. The Democratic vote was heavier than usual in the village, a GOP stronghold.

MacArthur delegates-at-large won six of the seven places in the presidential delegate race in the village, with the other one going to Albert J. O'Melia of Rhinelander, a Dewey delegate. In the district delegate race for the Sixth Congressional district, local voters also favored MacArthur delegates Delbert J. Kenny, West Bend, and Dr. John P. Koehler, town of Jackson, by sizable margins.

MacArthur delegates-at-large also emerged far ahead of Stassen and Dewey supporters in the county and MacArthur pledged district delegates Kenny and Koehler ran about 1600 votes ahead of their opponents in the Sixth Congressional district. However, in the state Stassen delegates had captured 29 posts and MacArthur won on with almost all returns in Wednesday. Dewey failed to win a single delegate in the state.

In the village trustee race, with only three candidates on the ticket for the three positions, Marvin A. Martin and Edw. E. Miller, incumbents, were re-elected and Clifford Stautz was elected to succeed Frank Krueger, who was not a candidate. Stautz received the largest number of votes, 261. There were about 200 straight ballots voted for the three candidates listed on the ticket. On the write-in ticket, K. A. Honock Sr. polled 47 votes and Joe Eberle 20. There were a few other scattered votes. Martin received 241 votes and Miller 237.

Balloting for delegates in the village was as follows:

Kathleen Norris Says: Stepson Needs Affection

Encourage Jerry to take his addition, subtraction and spelling to Dad. Encourage Dad to give him a few minutes every night.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS "MINE is a nerve problem, I think," writes Carol Mack. "We are getting horribly nervous, all around, as a family, and I don't know how to handle it any longer."

BUILD LOVE Carol, a young secretary, married her boss whose life was constantly beset with the complaints and disgruntled vicissitudes of a sickly, invalid wife.

"I am 27, and although I was Ben's secretary, and was the reason for his divorce, believe me, I am nicer than I sound. His first wife is seven years older than he, sick and complaining, and her sole devotion seems to be to the niece who is her nurse and to whom she says she is going to leave all her money."

Her best chance of building harmony in the home, according to Miss Norris, is to construct a bridge of love between father and son. Carol should promote mutual interests between Jerry and Ben and assist in every way to strengthen the bond of friendship between them.

Jerry misbehaves "But Jerry behaves so terribly, kicking, screaming, rude, and disobedient, that Ben gets cross and despondent and talks sometimes as if the whole thing had been a mistake."

Should Share Refreshments Tell Jerry that Dad must have some small refreshment when he comes in tired, and that Ben must share it. Have him wait for his after school cookies and milk, and give Dad his stronger refreshment at the same time, putting dinner off until the peaceful hour of seven-thirty, when both boys are in bed.

Encourage Jerry to take his addition, subtraction and spelling to Dad. Encourage Dad to give him just a few minutes every night.

This will take time and patience. It will involve discouragement and setbacks. It asks love first, and silence second. Overlook all you can, and when you talk with Ben overlook more. Laugh off a lot of it as baby jealousy and unsettledness.

One-Eyed Accidents Poor vision in one eye apparently is involved in many automobile accidents at intersections, according to the public health bureau of American Optometric association.

Measure shortening accurately. The water displacement method is good. For every cup of flour, 1/3 cup of shortening is required.

Honey Almond Cream Cake Tops Desserts (See recipes below)

Dessert Tonic If you're casting about for new desserts, you'll like the ones we've selected today. All of them are really luscious and fun to make.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU Broiled Whitefish Lemon and Parsley Garnish Boiled Potatoes

Honey Meringue 1/4 cup honey 1/8 teaspoon salt 1 egg white Heat honey over hot water; pour over egg white; add salt.

Cocoanut Cream Pie (Nine Inch Pie) 1/2 cup sugar 5 tablespoons flour 1/8 teaspoon salt

Honey Almond Cream Cake (Makes 8-inch layers) 2 cups sifted cake flour 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/4 teaspoon soda

Meringue 4 tablespoons sugar 2 egg whites, well beaten 1/8 teaspoon salt

Applesauce Spice Cake (Makes 9 servings) 1/2 cup bran 1 cup sweetened applesauce 1/2 cup shortening

Deep Dish Cherry Pie (Makes 4 servings) 1 quart pitted sour cherries, drained 1 1/2 tablespoons corn starch

Don't roll the pastry too much or it will be tough. And avoid extra amounts of flour. Never stretch the pastry to fit the tin or it will shrink.

Place cherries in nine-inch deep pie dish. Combine a half cup of cherry juice with other ingredients; stir until well blended.

Don't hurry it but begin with a little flattery of both father and son. Find common interests for them; if they can't actually go fishing or hunting at this season, they can talk of it for hours if you get them started.

After Glenn Ford finished his role in Columbia's "The Man From Colorado" he shaved off his sideburns—and then was asked to grow a mustache for "The Mating of Millie."

JEST JESTIN'

Jumpin' Jupiter

A NEW YORKER, vacationing on a dude ranch, was hard put to it to cope with the tall tales told by the cowpunchers until he worked this one out.

"I, myself, once saw an animal," he told them, "that had eyes and couldn't see, ears and couldn't hear, and had legs and couldn't walk. But it could jump as high as the Empire State building."

"Well, go on," said a cowhand.

"It was a stuffed cat," said the New Yorker triumphantly.

The boys thought that over, and then the same cowhand growled:

"Sure, but you said it could jump as high as the Empire State building."

"If you boys would just think a moment," the New Yorker replied, "you'd know the Empire State building can't jump."

CUCKOO IN REVERSE

Husband: "When anything goes wrong around our house, I just get busy and fix it."

Wife: "Yeah? Since you fixed the clock, the cuckoo backs out and asks: 'What time is it?'"

Telephone Ethics

A telephone operator was at one end of the wire and a little girl, who had answered her ring, at the other. The operator, obeying one of the company's rules, was trying to get the child to call an older person. She began, "Is your mama there?"

"Is your big sister there?"

"No, there's no one here but grandma and me and the cat. Grandma can't hear and the cat can't talk."

COMMITTEE OF WELCOME

Will Rogers, who was proud of having American Indians for ancestors, cracked one of his best jokes at the expense of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

"I can't claim my folks was Mayflower descendants," he told the women, "but I recollect they were there to meet the boat."

Off Again, On Again

An old farmer was dying and was giving a few parting injunctions to his wife.

"Don't forget, Maria," he murmured, "that Tom Smith owes me 10 pounds."

"Poor dear," she remarked to her neighbors who had assembled to share her grief, "sensible to the last."

"And don't forget, Marie," went on the dying man, "that I owe old Jones 20 pounds."

"Oh, poor thing," cried the widow-to-be, "he's wandering again."

RAGE IN HEAVEN

Funeral services were being conducted for a woman who had been thoroughly disliked in her rural community. With a violent explosive disposition she henpecked her husband, drove her children mercilessly and quarreled with her neighbors. Even the animals on her place wore a hunted look.

The day was sultry and as the service ended a storm broke furiously. There was a blinding flash followed by a terrific clap of thunder.

"Wall, she's GOT there!" a mourner said.

Man's Worst Enemy

Recently at a gathering of literary and theatrical personalities, a certain well-known producer was holding forth on the countless mistakes he had made in his business and how much money they had cost him.

"I declare," he announced, "I'm my own worst enemy."

"Not while I'm here," came a rejoinder from the back of the room.

As the Crow Flies

Wife, angrily: "And I suppose you expect me to believe that you came straight home from the office?"

Husband: "Sure did; just like the crow flies."

Wife: "Yes, so I see; stopping frequently for a little corn."

Case Dismissed

Judge: "How does your wife irritate you?"

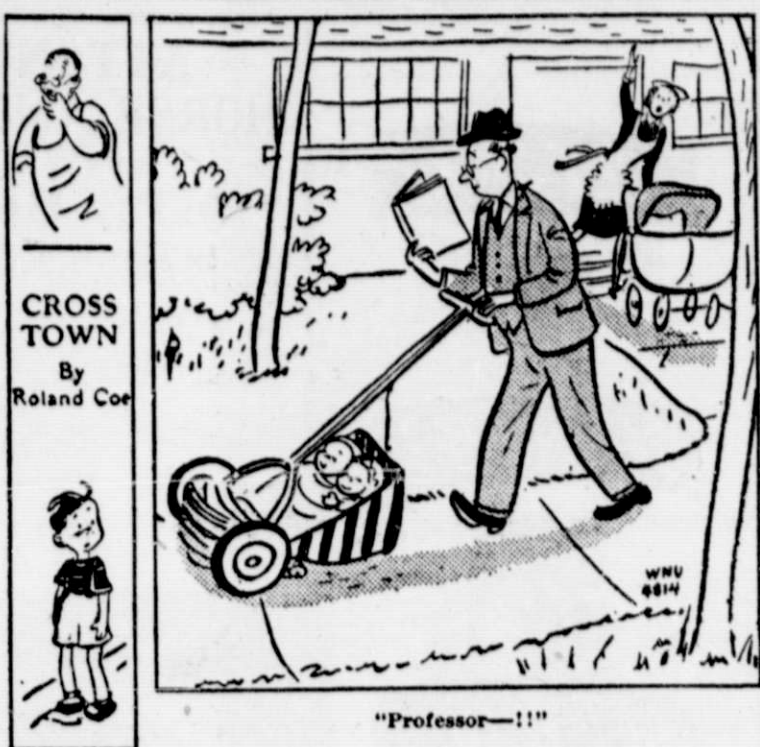

Husband: "Why, she keeps saying: 'Hit me! Go on, hit me, and I'll have you hauled up before that bald-headed old reprobate judge and see what he'll do with you!'"

Judge: "Prisoner discharged."

A Goat's the Thing

Wife: "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear."

Husband: "No, but a woman can get a mink coat out of an old goat."

One of Oldest Foods

Milk is one of the oldest known foods. Records exist of cows being milked in 9,000 B. C. The Bible contains many references to milk, one of the best remembered from Exodus 3:8—"milk and honey." Sanskrit writings 6,000 years old tell how milk is one of the most essential of all foods. Hippocrates recommended milk as a medicine five centuries before Christ. In Ur of the Chaldees a frieze depicts a dairy scene in 350 B. C. showing milk containers and strainers.

Lead in Cotton

Cotton is the basic raw material of great national and international economic importance. The United States is by far the largest producer. Cotton is produced in 16 states, extending from southeastern Virginia through the Carolinas, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to California.

Death Keeps Bridesmaid

From Wedding of Sister

PITTSBURGH—Genevieve Moskalis moved up the date of her wedding to Stephen Stanina so her 14-year-old sister, Lois, could be a bridesmaid, but the ceremony was still a few minutes too late.

Lois, victim of rheumatic fever, collapsed at the wedding party five about to leave for the church. The wedding went on as scheduled but there was no bridesmaid Lois had died 10 minutes earlier.

Squirrel Has Free Snack,

Escapes Through Window

PHILADELPHIA—A hungry, gray squirrel with a sweet tooth entered the home of Mrs. J. Earl Callis, helped himself to a fruit cake which was to be used for a party and escaped through an open window when pursued by Policeman Colin Houston.

In his wake the surprised intruder left smashed antique dishes, "cattered papers, broken perfume bottles and chewed bed quilts.

Man, Told Death Is Near,

Throws All Day Taxi Party

MEADVILLE, PA.—An elderly gentleman hailed a taxicab and ordered the driver to "cruise around."

Throughout the day the driver, on his passenger's orders, accepted calls on his two-way radio. The passenger paid all fares.

At the end of the day the driver received a large tip when the passenger paid his bill. Thanking the gentleman, he asked him why he had made the day-long "good will" tour.

"My doctor told me I haven't long to live," the gentleman replied. "I'm spending my money according to my whims, and this is one of them."

Prisoner Hears Evidence,

Imposes Sentence on Self

ASTORIA, ORE.—James Hansen pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

Municipal Judge Robert Anderson heard the evidence. So did Hansen. Both obviously found it staggering.

"Now what would you do, Mr. Hansen, if you were in my place?" the judge asked.

"I'd find the prisoner guilty," said the defendant.

"What sentence would you impose?" his honor asked. Hansen pondered, then replied: "Fifteen dollars fine and 30 days."

"I concur in the sentence," said Judge Anderson.

In January of this year we installed our 5,574th telephone in Wisconsin. Since the end of the war we have added over 1,000 new customers.

No, we're not caught up yet—about 150 applications are still waiting to be filled. We are sorry that we have been unable to complete all held orders but as fast as telephones are installed new applications are made.

It is our policy to provide service first to those who have waited longest. This is not always possible when certain applicants must wait until more central office equipment can be installed or more outside plant constructed.

To those who waited so patiently for service and those still waiting, may we express our appreciation.

There's ACCURACY Combined with LONG LIFE in a McCormick-Deering Grain Drill

The word "accuracy" applied to a McCormick-Deering Grain Drill means just this: exact metering of your seed to furnish a uniform supply in the quantity you want. And that feature stands out in both fluted and double-run feeds.

There's a wide variety of furrow openers, too—the right type for your soil conditions so that seed will always be placed at a uniform depth.

Talk about rugged construction and durability! All-steel hoppers and bridge-type main frames with reinforced corners take care of that... and hold feeding mechanisms in perfect alignment.

But don't just take our word for it. Come in and find out about the McCormick-Deering model with the seeding and fertilizing equipment you want.

Truman Calls for Draft, Training To Bolster Resistance to Russia; U.S. Reverses Stand on Partition

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FORCES AT WORK... Increasing Communist pressure in Europe has been instrumental in dividing the continent into three component power blocs, all of which are influenced by a fourth force—U.S. policy, symbolized by the presence of American troops in Germany, Austria and Italy. Map shows western bloc (1) of anti-Communist Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands; northern bloc (2) of the Scandinavian countries, daily growing more apprehensive of Soviet tactics and eastern bloc (3) of Russia and its satellites. Present approximate American troop strength is indicated for Germany (120,000), Austria (10,000) and Italy (5,000).

THE PRICE Peace and War

"We must be prepared to pay the price of peace or assuredly we shall pay the price of war."

Those words, spoken by President Harry Truman to the U. S. congress, could be the seeds of the first genuine, effective foreign policy this nation has had for half a century. Regarding any political overtones there might have been in the President's speech, his address to the joint session of congress reflected the realization at the top level of government that any successful foreign policy must be based on the fundamental concept of striking a balance between commitments abroad and the national security or strength at home available to back up those commitments.

By definition, the term "foreign policy" implies that any nation expressing such a policy possesses the strength—in military forces and alliances—to follow it consistently at all times and to defend it just as consistently in case of war.

In that connection Mr. Truman specifically asked congress for power to draft men to build armed strength against the ruthless aggression of Soviet communism.

He asked also for "prompt enactment of universal training legislation," indicating that the draft should be only temporary until universal military training is giving the country the trained men it needs.

Finally, he sought swift passage of the 5.3-billion-dollar European recovery program—the Marshall plan for economic recovery of western European nations which is setting the Kremlin's teeth on edge.

Bluntly the President upbraided Russia for making a travesty of peace. One nation has not only refused to cooperate in the establishment of a just and honorable peace, but—even worse—has actively sought to prevent it.

Western Pact

Lending force to Mr. Truman's scattering of the seeds of foreign policy was the fact that, an hour before he delivered his pronouncement, the just-completed five-nation western European pact for common defense against attack had been announced officially.

Under the treaty, Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands pledged one another military aid in the event that any one of them should be attacked. According to the new "Truman doctrine," the United States would be the principal guarantor of this five-power union. Without such a guarantee of U.S. backing, the western European treaty would be meaningless.

By his declaration in support of the western European pact Mr. Truman seemed to be guiding the U.S. to a point of departure from its historic adherence to the diplomatic enmity of refusing to engage in "entangling alliances" even at the price of its own welfare.

BACHELORS: Declining

Evidence of an innate desire for family life among adult Americans is revealed in a study by the U. S. bureau of the census showing a long-term decline in the proportion of bachelors of both sexes. On a numerical basis, census bureau figures disclose, the number of single men and women has dropped to the lowest level since 1920, despite a third increase in population since then. Proportionate to the population, the number of unmarried men and women has dropped to the lowest ratio known since such records first were compiled in 1890.

For the last 50 years the proportion of married people in the population has been showing a steady increase. This trend has been accelerated since 1940 by the nation's biggest marriage boom. The census bureau study which was made public recently was based on a sample survey of 30,000 households in April of last year.

REACTION: Divided

What are the true facts? Just how potentially lethal is the situation with regard to Russia?

Senators and representatives were asking those questions after President Truman's "let's get strong" message. Many of them were demanding answers before they would consent to go ahead with any legislation endorsing a military draft or UMT.

Congress was divided, but the split was not along party lines. It reflected isolationism, discontent with the Truman foreign policy and in some cases an almost unhealthy respect for Russia's power in Europe. Greatest fear seemed to be that conditions in Europe, as precipitated by Soviet actions, may get

CONVINCING

Closeted for 50 minutes with Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Secretary of the Army Royal, the senate armed services committee emerged from the conference to throw its weight behind President Truman's plea for quick action to build up America's military forces.

Sen. Chauncey Gurney (Rep., S.D.), chairman of the committee, reported that 10 of the group's 13 members were convinced that both a limited draft and universal military training have become an "absolute necessity."

Just what the three secretaries told the armed services committee was not disclosed, but it was undeniably powerful information.

out of hand suddenly, despite the efforts of Russia or any other nation to prevent such a development. Best opinion holds that, while Russia is not now seeking war, the Communists have created a kind of Frankenstein monster in Europe that at any moment could plunge out of control and involve the world in another conflict. Secretary of State Marshall is said to feel this way.

The Soviets are motivated by a sense of urgency to act before the European recovery program begins to function and before the union of western European nations is firmly established. Driven by this feeling of urgency, the Soviets may not be able to avert an incident which would lead to a shooting war.

ABOUT FACE: Expedience

To many persons it looked as though the United States, in abandoning its support of the Palestine partition plan, had pulled a "Pontius Pilate" on the same scene where the procurator of Judea had washed his hands not quite 2,000 years ago to sanction the Crucifixion.

In reversing its role in the partition struggle, the U.S. proposed that the Holy Land be made a United Nations' trusteeship, giving Jews and Arabs a chance to reach agreement on their own concerning the future of their country's government.

Warren R. Austin, American delegate to the U.N., said that it was obvious that partition could not be carried out except by force, and the U.S. consistently has demurred against the idea of sending troops to Palestine. It was ironic that the American statement withdrawing support from the partition plan was undoubtedly the death blow to that plan which never would have been adopted by the U.N. in the first place if it had not been for American pressure and influence.

Anti-Appetite Pills

The army has good news for women—and men—who think they ought to diet but find it difficult to control their rampaging hunger. It has developed a pill to destroy their appetites. Col Charles S. Lawrence, army food expert, said, "I could feed you pellets compounded from certain foods, and although it would look delicious to you, you could only nibble at a full course dinner."

TRIESTE: Surprise

In a move that surprised everyone from the Russians to American congressmen, the U.S. proposed jointly with France and Britain that the free territory of Trieste be returned to Italy.

Trieste, long a storm center coveted by both Italians and Yugoslavs, had been made a free state under United Nations guidance in the six-month-old Italian peace treaty.

The proposal was, apparently, a shrewd and calculated move to try to help the anti-Communist forces in Italy win the April 18 election. It literally put the Russians on the spot, leaving them with little choice of reaction. If they support the western powers' proposal to return Trieste to Italy they will be, in effect, turning their backs on their previous arguments for a Yugoslav Trieste, thereby kicking their Yugoslav cohorts in the face.

On the other hand, if Russia were to side with Yugoslavia it would amount to a rebuff for the Italian Communists. Possession of Trieste is a great political issue in Italy, and it will may turn out now to be a deciding factor in the elections coming up there.

Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, however, lost little time in answering the proposal of the U.S., Britain and France. He simply rejected the demand and proposed instead that a plebiscite be held in the free state of Trieste to decide whether it should be Italian or Yugoslav.

Moscow diplomats were calling the action "another move toward war." Said one: "The beginnings of international order which emerged after the war are being destroyed."

But to those who were working tooth and nail against the spread of communism it looked like a master stroke, one which might keep Italy and all of western Europe out of reach of the Kremlin.

FOOD WASTE: Rats, Insects

Although the world is crying for food, hundreds of thousands of tons of American foodstuffs are spoiled each year by the depredations of rats, mice and insects—and often by the carelessness of some producers.

Food and drug administration officials say the amount of so-called "filthy food" they destroy every year is enough to contribute "very substantially" to the hungry areas of the world.

"Filthy food" is the legal term for food spoiled by "contamination of rats, mice, insects or other repulsive foreign bodies." It is the job of the food and drug administration to find and condemn filthy food in the channels of interstate commerce and to prosecute those responsible.

Since FDA's power to condemn filthy foods at their destination was taken away a year ago, officials estimate that, as a result, 20 tons of such food appears in retail outlets every day.

RABBITS: Meat Supply

There is one vast source of meat—maybe an inexhaustible one—that the U.S. public might have to consider seriously if beef and pork become as scarce and expensive as it is predicted they will: Rabbits.

That is a department of agriculture idea. The department suggested that the American people take up the raising of rabbits as a supplementary source of meat to eke out the usual protein fare, destined to become more scarce and costly.

National rabbit week, which was observed during the week following Easter, would be "a good time" for families to plan to produce a "year round supply of this white, delicately flavored, nutritious meat, comparable to breast of chicken," the department hinted.

What does one need to begin raising rabbits? Just rabbits.

Bushed

It takes technicolor to do justice to the whiskers of Gordon Moore of Vicksburg, Mich., who will defend his title as the owner of the world's champion beard in a contest to be held there in July. Beard and mustache are a brilliant and matching red.

Expanding Colleges

By 1950 American colleges and universities will need additional space equivalent to 133 Empire State buildings and several billion dollars to pay for it, which is where the taxpayers come in.

That is the present outlook for higher education as reported by the U. S. office of education. The report, dealing with college and university building needs, is based on a survey of 1,386 institutions.

Colleges and universities need an additional 265 million square feet of space to accommodate an expected 1950 enrollment of 2,675,000 students. A third of the increase would be for student and faculty housing needs.

Operating pretty much on a sardine basis today, U. S. institutions are handling 2,340,000 students with plants built for a prewar gross peak enrollment of 1.5 millions. At 1948 building prices, the proposed space increases would cost 2.65 billion dollars.

Jan Masaryk Took His Life In Protest Against 'Robots'

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON.—For some time after I heard the tragic news of Jan Masaryk's suicide, a strange memory haunted me... I saw — a man and woman alone in a darkened room. They are two of the last three human beings on earth. The rest have been destroyed by an army of automatons—man-created robots. Creatures who have all other human attributes, but no sensitivities, no souls. Mechanically-made, the robots are the triumph of the productivity of the machine.

Slavik brothers, I am with you. This may have been an indication of his true purpose; to direct the underground. He was a master at subtlety.

One must take into consideration the attitude toward self-destruction in a country which had a long tradition of martyrdom and underground resistance, and no Catholic background. I do not know how much of a mystic Jan Masaryk may have been. But it has been emphasized that only a few hours before his death, he visited his father's grave with others, to venerate the honored memory. And he remained there, alone, long after the others had gone.

Perhaps he felt that he had received, in that lonely vigil, some mystic command, say as Hamlet did after a similar experience: "... and my commandment all alone shall live within the book and volume of my brain, unmix'd with baser matter: yes, by heaven!"

Peace Depends On World's Children. Recently I received a pamphlet from the General Brotherhood board containing an article by Gordon Allport, department of social relations at Harvard, entitled: "Guide Lines for Research in International Cooperation."

Allport points out that most international conferences meet in the Hebrew myth, and the Adam of the Psalms "yet being unperfected" before a soul was breathed into his substance after a grim warning to us now. Unhuman beings released today, may re-enact Karpis's play on a stage, wide as civilization.

Day after day come the frightened echoes from Europe of the fear of war. And yet no people wants it. If you were to write down all the material demands of the diplomats and the rulers of each nation, and put them in the hands of the peoples of the world and tell them: If you want these you must have war, who would pay the price of war? None. None but a robot, without sensitivity, without soul.

The martyrdom of Jan Masaryk seems to have hurt rather than helped the Communist cause. I spent some time with the former Czechoslovak ambassador to the United States, Juric Slavik, on the evening of the day when Masaryk's suicide was announced.

Slavik believes that Masaryk felt he could serve his country better dead than as a living prisoner, or the ambassador says he was a prisoner. Masaryk, alive, but with every word and gesture filtered through the censorship of the Communist screen, would become a symbol of the spirit of Czechoslovakia surrendered, enchained, a noble and historic name and all it has stood for, besmirched and obliterated. Dead, the name, the spirit, live.

The ambassador recalled an episode in that epic odyssey which has gone down in military history as the "Rabbit War."

one of the marvelous achievements of World War I—the march of the Czechoslovak Legion which fought beside the Allies against the Russians, and after the Bolsheviks had made their peace with the Germans, fought its way from the Ukraine to Vladivostok, a trek that makes the world's great marches pale by comparison.

Many believe that Masaryk had remained on with the new government as foreign minister, not because he accepted as inevitable Communist domination, but because he felt he could serve best within the government, working secretly with democratic elements. He made a cryptic declaration in a speech to the Czech army after the Communist assumption of power, in which he said: "Czech and

The implication of inferiority is a usual by-product of our present method of teaching cultural and national differences. Less dramatic, but far sounder, would be the teaching of the common considerations of justice and morality that are identical over vast areas of the earth. Practices that may SEEM to differ dramatically often indicate common aspirations and common values. The prayer wheels of Tibet and the silent Quaker meeting have virtually identical functional significance; so too the initiation rites of the Pawnee and the American high school commencement.

Allport thinks that a study of the common people of the world undoubtedly would reveal that more important to them than boundaries and national aspirations are matters of self-respect, pride, food, shelter, marriage and the welfare of their children.

Yes, as I said earlier, ask the peoples of the world to vote between capture of territory, acquisition of ports or oil fields at the price of war—and there would be no question of their choice.

Little effort has been made, Allport claims, to search for the common ground of mankind—and he suggests that the United Nations prepare an encyclopedia of the uniformities and similarities in the beliefs, practices and aspirations of all peoples—an encyclopedia which would serve as a reference guide for innumerable aspects of world policy for years to come.

THE FICTION CORNER STRICTLY BUSINESS By ROBERT C. BLACKMON

THE finest sermon I ever heard ended and the benediction came straight from the heart of the broad-shouldered figure in the pulpit.

"There are seven hundred and seventy-three thousand, seven hundred and forty-six words in its thirty-one thousand, one hundred and seventy-three verses."

"Sure." I looked at him, wondering. His gray eyes were half closed, his broad face grave.

"I was a captain in the first world war. Infantry. Straphel. His hand moved to his right side. 'They wouldn't take me the last time.'"

If a man can't look at it like that, he has no business betting. He toiled the big car around a curve. Sunlight was on the lake, a moving pattern of glinting water under a cloud splashed sky.

"I saw the Bible in the bookcase and remembered my mother telling me that the Book was good to read when you didn't know what to do. I didn't know what to do."

"I realized that this was an ideal job for the purpose. It required no technical skill neither of us had, and there was a good chance that Phillip Crasor couldn't do it. I didn't want to lose $50,000 any more than he wanted to lose the five."

"Phillip Crasor exploded when he learned what the job was to be. I didn't know it, but his handwriting was awful. He thought I was ripping him. The men in the club were having the time of their lives. It was a bet and I couldn't call it off. Betting is strictly business with me. If I win I collect, and if I lose I pay off. Strictly business."

place and the materials to do the job, and I was to be the judge of whether the copies produced were acceptable or not. If we had too much argument we could each choose a friend and they would choose a third party to settle the argument.

"I turned over a small cottage down on the lake to Phillip Crasor, stocked it with a Bible, paper, pens, ink and blotters and told him to go to work. I left a man there to see that he didn't get outside help. It was strictly business with me. I had $50,000 at stake."

"Phillip Crasor was going to produce 10 perfectly legible handwritten copies of the Bible, as the contract provided, or he would lose the bet."

"Business suddenly took me to France and Italy and I stayed there for months. He coughed again, apologetically. 'All wars are not won on the battlefield, and all soldiers do not wear uniforms, you know. Anyway, I was gone over nine months. My man cabled me that Phillip Crasor had locked himself in the cottage and wouldn't let anyone in.'

"Oh, he preached that sermon you heard this morning."

As PEGLER Sees It

THE DISMISSAL of Harry Bridges from the appointive position of regional director of the C.I.O. in northern California proves that the political unionism created by Roosevelt and Robert F. Wagner was designed to put down political, intellectual and even religious freedom.

The decision and the names of the judges on each side of the split were correctly announced on the air by an old confidant and political booster of Murphy, well in advance of the official announcement.

The leak, however, was the sort of thing to be expected from a court most of whose members were selected not to adorn the bench but to make the court contemptible and assuage the rancor of a failure who never could get a law degree himself.

Now, however, we find the C.I.O., a strictly political union, related to labor only for its income and the prestige of labor's name, coercing Bridges in his own politics.

There is no limitation on the powers claimed by such gaudifiers.
