

Mrs. Wenzel Peter, 96, One of Town Wayne's Oldest Persons Dies

Mrs. Wenzel Peter, 96, one of the town of Wayne's most widely known citizens and oldest residents, if not the oldest, passed away at 8:30 p. m. Monday, July 5, at her home after an illness of the past four years. She had been seriously ill for three days prior to her demise.

Mrs. Peter, nee Katherine Peter, was born April 16, 1852, in Bohemia, and immigrated to this country in 1875, settling in Milwaukee. She was married to Wenzel Peter on Nov. 20, 1876, in Milwaukee and following their marriage the couple settled on a farm in the town of Ashford. They came to the present farm home in the town of Wayne in 1891.

The venerable couple observed their golden wedding anniversary in 1926 with a grand celebration. In 1936 they celebrated their 60th anniversary, in 1941 their 65th, and lived to observe their 69th anniversary in 1945 before Mr. Peter died on June 23, 1946.

Seven children were born to the esteemed couple. Two sons died when small children, one daughter died at the age of 16 years, and another daughter, Mary (Mrs. William Bantzler) succumbed on Nov. 10, 1914. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Anna Felix of St. Kilian and Mrs. Joseph Mayer of the town of Wayne; one son, George Peter, of the town of Wayne; 15 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren, one daughter-in-law and one son-in-law.

Mrs. Peter was a member of the Ladies' Altar society of St. Kilian's church, St. Kilian.

The remains were in state at the Miller Funeral home, Kewaskum. Funeral rites were conducted at 9:30 a. m. Friday in St. Kilian's church, St. Kilian, the Rev. John Reichel officiating. Burial took place in the Peter family mausoleum at St. Kilian.

Six grandsons served as pallbearers, namely John, Frank, Alphonse and Leo Felix, Jerome Mayer and Leonard Peter.

One grandson, Ralph Peter and four great-grandsons, Raymond Gutjahr, Robert, Kenneth and Donald Felix, served as altar boys.

Ruth Weyres Bride of Gerald Stoffel

The Rev. Ulrich performed the wedding rite and read the solemn nuptial high mass at 9:30 a. m. Monday, July 4, in St. Mary's church, Barton, which united in marriage Miss Ruth Weyres, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Weyres, Barton, and Gerald Stoffel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas S. Stoffel, Route 3, Kewaskum. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Walter Weyres.

During the service Lillian Wagner sang two vocal selections, "Ave Maria" and "Pani Angelicus."

The attractive bride chose a cotton marquisette bridal gown, made with a portrait neckline and ruffled train. A lace headpiece held her illusion veil, which was worked with matching lace medallions. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Maid of honor was her sister, Miss Virginia Weyres, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. John Stelldug, Miss Margie Klein, and Miss Lucille Weyres. White frosted organza over lavender taffeta fashioned the dainty frocks worn by the bridal attendants. The dresses were detailed with lavender sashes, full skirts, cap sleeves and boat necklines. Lavender carnations surrounded by white carnations made up their colonial bouquets.

Alan Stoffel served as best man for his brother, Groomsman was John Stelldug and the ushers Robert Du Pont and Robert Weyres.

Dinner was served at the Republican Hotel, Kewaskum, and an afternoon reception held at the Stoffel residence in the town of Kewaskum.

Mrs. Stoffel had been employed at the First National Bank, West Bend. She is a graduate of West Bend high school. Her husband, who is a graduate of Kewaskum high school, is engaged in farming on R. 3, Kewaskum, where the young newlyweds will reside.

KNOECK-WALTERS

Miss Ethel Walters, daughter of Mrs. Edna Walters, R. 2, Kewaskum, and Oscar Knoeck, son of Mrs. Matilda Knoeck, also of R. 2, Kewaskum, were married by the Rev. Leo Belda in Holy Angels church, West Bend, on Wednesday morning, June 26, in a 9:30 a. m. rite.

The couple was attended by Miss Lucille Knoeck and Sylvester Kandel. A reception at the Barton Opera House followed the ceremony. Later the couple left for a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin.

A white crepe gown was worn by the bride. It was designed with an accordion pleated skirt ending in a slight train, and a surplice bodice with cap sleeves. Her Juliet cap was made of seed pearls and she held carnations and gardenias.

The maid of honor wore a yellow marquisette gown, with peplum effect. Her headpiece of daisies and carnations matched her bouquet.

Following their honeymoon the newlyweds will reside temporarily with the bride's mother before moving on to the bridegroom's farm. Mrs. Knoeck had been employed in the county superintendent of schools office at West Bend. She is a 1946 graduate of West Bend high school.

FALK-BOGENSCHNEIDER

At home in South Milwaukee are Mr. and Mrs. LaSalle Bogenschneider, newlyweds of Saturday, June 26. Mrs. Falk, the former Miss Elaine H. Bogenschneider, daughter of the R. A. Bogenschneiders, R. 3, Kewaskum, and her husband, son of the LaSalle Falk seniors, Milwaukee, were married in Zion Lutheran church, town of Wayne, at 7 p. m. by the Rev. W. O. Nommensen.

Proceeding the bride to the altar were Mrs. Wesley Bogenschneider, matron of honor, and Mrs. Curtis Falk, bridesmaid. Mrs. Bogenschneider was dressed in white taffeta with drop shoulder effect, long taffeta gauntlets, and a headpiece of white carnations. She carried baby's breath and carnations. The bridesmaid wore white marquisette with a similar headpiece and bouquet.

The bridal gown was of ivory slipper satin, full trained, detailed with a peplum and seed beaded sweetheart neckline. Seed pearls and beads fashioned the crown holding the full length veil. An arched bouquet of baby's breath and white carnations was carried.

Best man was Wesley Bogenschneider, while Curtis Falk was groomsmen. Clarence Schaumburg and William Zirkel ushered.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Slinger high school and Dr. Martin Luther college, New Ulm, Minn. She had been a teacher at South Milwaukee. Her husband graduated from Rufus King high school, Milwaukee, and is a railroad clerk in Milwaukee.

Rainbow Team Nosed Out at Sheboygan Falls, 5-4

The Kewaskum Indians were handed their third setback of the campaign in the Rainbow league Sunday at Sheboygan Falls where they were nosed out, 5 to 4, to drop a tough one.

With the defeat the locals slipped from third into fourth place in the circuit.

Boltonville came through with a 4-1 surprise victory over previously unbeaten, loop leading St. Michaels. In other games, Batavia beat Newburg, 4-0, to gain a tie with the St. Michaels nine for the top spot, and Waubesa took Barton, 9-0.

This Sunday Kewaskum entertains Batavia, which team is tied with St. Michaels for the league lead.

Fireworks, Band Concert Monday Largely Attended

The grand fireworks display and concert by the Kewaskum school band in the village park Monday evening, the fifth, were very largely attended with perfect weather prevailing. The doings were sponsored by the Kewaskum businessmen and firemen. Preceding the fireworks an added attraction was the parade to the park by the Kewaskum drum and bugle corps and some of Ruth Eichstedt's majorettes, upon their return from Hartford, where they appeared in the afternoon.

Hundreds of people listened to the band and lined the big hill in the park to watch the excellent fireworks display at their refreshment stands. Beer, soda water, ice cream, hamburgers and popcorn were sold.

President of West Bend Club is Kiwanis Speaker

Prevent your children at home to prevent others from doing so incorrectly and to their detriment, warned H. I. Peterson at Tuesday's Kiwanis club meeting. The speaker, president of the West Bend Kiwanis club, spoke on "Juvenile Delinquency," and provided verbal gems for thoughtful consideration.

Mr. Peterson, principal of the McLane school in West Bend, went on to stress need for co-operation by husband and wife on discipline, sharing some of our best experiences with children, giving them assistance, and providing opportunities to choose. He advised overestimating rather than underestimating, aiming high and standing by youngsters in their hours of crisis. His closing suggestion was to dedicate our children to the highest.

Paul Landmann and Charles E. Riegge reported on their trip to Camp Shaginappi where they viewed Boy Scout activities. They returned with many words of praise for this scout training.

Carl F. Schaefer presented the Kiwanis club of Kewaskum with a certificate from the American Legion Boys State for club sponsorship of a local boy to Boys State.

Drum, Bugle Corps Cops First Prize at Random

The Kewaskum Legion drum and bugle corps, in its first competition, with color guard and majorettes, was awarded first prize in the parade at the American Legion picnic and clubhouse dedication at Random Lake on Sunday. The corps won $35.00 in prize money for the honor. Ruth Eichstedt's Majorette corps, also of Kewaskum, was awarded seventh prize and probably would have rated higher except for the fact that many of the members could not appear due to a siege of the measles.

A complete list of the winners in order follows:

- 1. Kewaskum Legion Drum and Bugle corps. 2. 40 et s Voiture 1050, Sheboygan county. 3. Cedarburg Rifle Team. 4. Curt Joa. 5. Ozaukee County VFW. 6. Waubesa VFW. 7. Ruth Eichstedt's Majorettes. 8. Spirit of '76. 9. Rose Hammen Post. 10. Adell Legion. 11. Cascade Legion.

On Monday, the Fourth, the drum and bugle corps took part in the parade at the Vet's celebration at Hartford sponsored by the V.F.W. and Legion posts of that city. The parade was a long and very colorful one and was the grand feature of the three-day celebration held Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Other drum and bugle corps featured were the state champion Sons and Daughters of the V.F.W. corps of Kenosha, state champions every year except two for the past nine years; the state V.F.W. champion Hartford drum and bugle corps, and the crack Horizon drum and bugle corps.

There were also several excellent bands participating, including the famous Portage high school band, Cedarburg rifle team, civic organizations, floats and other worthwhile units. The affair was very largely attended with thousands of people lining the streets to witness the long parade. The Kewaskum corps had many pictures taken of its organization and received a great round of applause on the streets and in the Schwartz park and ballroom, where they put on exhibitions later. Ruth Eichstedt's Majorette corps also participated in the parade. There was no competition between the drum and bugle corps and bands at Hartford. The Hartford corps will return the visit at the Legion picnic here on Aug. 8.

This Sunday the Kewaskum corps will stay at home to participate in the parade at the Kewaskum firemen's annual picnic.

Cedarburg Youth Drowns at Random Lake Sunday

A Cedarburg youth, about 19, was drowned Sunday afternoon when he fell overboard from his speedboat on Random Lake in view of hundreds of persons attending an American Legion picnic there on that day. The drowning occurred at about 4:30 p. m. with many Kewaskum people in attendance at the picnic witnessing the tragedy. The local drum and bugle corps and majorette corps participated in the Random Lake outing and with others many were still there.

Witnesses reported that the youth, Fred Nieman, was making a turn at high speed when he fell into the lake. The water is 20 feet deep at that point, about a quarter-mile from the shore. Many people watched the search for the body until dark and it had not been recovered up to then.

The Kewaskum Utensils were really on the ball (with the bats) on the fifth, when they lashed out a total of 17 safe hits to hand Germantown a 17 to 5 drubbing in a lopsided game here. This was the largest number of bingles collected by the team in any contest this season and brought most of the batting averages up a bit. Kewaskum took over sole possession of fourth place with the victory, which was the club's third straight.

The team's 21 hit barrage included six extra base blows, three of them by Paul Kral, who was the power for the day. Paul poked out two doubles and a home run for three hits in five trips. "Barney" Frost garnered the most hits, four of them, in five times at bat, all singles. Marx and Tessar also both connected for three safeties in five tries. W. Geiger was the only Germantown batter to get two hits, both doubles.

Marx and Honeck, who came in from his third base position to pitch the last two innings, limited the visitors to nine hits. Honeck also came through with a three bagger. Germantown tried three pitchers and all were hit freely by the hot Utensils. They were Fleming, W. Geiger and John Smith. Marx allowed eight hits in seven innings and Honeck one in two. Both struck out three. Kewaskum had two big innings, the fourth, when they pushed over four runs on four hits, and the wild eighth, when they got eight runs on an equal number of safeties.

Thursday night Kewaskum played a league game under the lights at West Bend, against the second place team and on Sunday they return to Grafton for the second time. The Utensils lost a heartbreaker at Grafton the last time and are determined to avenge this close one.

There being no further business, the board adjourned to Wednesday evening, July 14, at 8:00 p. m. at the village hall.

Have a Porch Meal; Family Loves Them In Summer Weather

IT'S A TREAT to eat outdoors! Mom gets out of a hot kitchen, and the whole family can enjoy a meal even at the end of the day if they eat it in a cool breeze out on the porch, under the old tree or in the garden.

This is real outdoor eating and it can be almost picnic style. Plan it to be casual and everyone will have fun. Carry out all food, plates and utensils on a tray and save trips to the kitchen and then back again.

Almost any kind of a meal will be easy to serve as long as you can fit it on a tray so everyone can help himself. Even a roast will work out well served in this way.

If THE DAY is a sweltering one and calls for a cool supper, why not try a really cool supper? A loaf of tomato aspic served with marinated shrimps makes a good main dish.

Add cucumbers to this for eating and for garnish. Ice cream or lemon sherbet served with crisp delicious cookies will complete the meal.

Tomato Aspic with Shrimp (Serves 8) 2 tablespoons plain gelatin 1/2 cup cold water 1 1/2 cups hot water 2 8-ounce cans all-tomato sauce

Softening gelatin in cold water. Add hot water and stir until dissolved. Add all-tomato sauce. Chill until the mixture is of the consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

IF THE WEATHER is on the warm side and you don't want to spend much time cooking, select a simpler meal. For example, have sliced tongue or other cold meat served with macaroni and cheese and complete the meal with sliced garden tomatoes and cucumbers and butterscotch chiffon pie made in the morning.

Macaroni and Cheese (Serves 4) 1/4 pound macaroni 3 tablespoons butter 1/4 cup flour 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 cups milk 1 tablespoon onion, minced 1 cup grated American cheese

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Make sauce by melting butter, adding flour which is blended with mustard and salt. Add milk and onion and cook until thickened. Add grated cheese and stir until melted.

Butterscotch Chiffon Pie 1 baked 9-inch pie shell 1 tablespoon plain gelatin 1/4 cup cold water 3 eggs, separated 1 cup brown sugar 1 cup scalded milk 2 tablespoons butter 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/4 cup granulated sugar

LYNN SAYS: Use These Tips For Porch Suppers

Appetites are bound to be big when you're planning to eat outdoors. Plan generous servings of all your foods.

Put many of your garden greens together if you want a lovely wooden bowl salad. Into this can go lettuce, cucumbers, spinach, cauliflower, radishes, green onions, celery and shredded carrots. Use a tangy French dressing.

Dutch apple cake is also good for porch suppers. Make a rich short-cake dough with sugar, eggs and milk in addition to the flour, leavening and shortening mixture.

Let gelatin stand in cold water five minutes. Beat egg yolks until thick, beat in brown sugar gradually, then add milk. Add butter and salt and cook in top of double boiler until mixture coats the spoon.

OF COURSE, there are nothing like hamburgers for a real favorite as a supper dish. But here's a new way to prepare the burgers, for they're smothered in onions and noodles:

Special Hamburger Patties (Serves 6-8) 1/2 cup milk 1 cup soft bread crumbs 1/2 cup grated onion 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning 1 1/2 teaspoons salt 2 pounds hamburger 4 tablespoons flour 6 slices bacon

Add seasonings, bread crumbs and milk to meat. Mix well and shape into patties, three-fourths inch thick. Dredge with flour. Wrap a slice of bacon around each patty and fasten with a toothpick. Broil patties until they are thoroughly cooked and nicely browned.

A DELICIOUS DESSERT that goes well with this is a pear pie. Bake it in a glass dish and bring it out to the porch to serve.

*French Pear Pie (Makes 10-inch pie) Pastry: 1 1/4 cups flour 1/4 teaspoon baking powder 1/4 teaspoon salt 6 tablespoons shortening 3 to 4 tablespoons ice water

Filling: 6 cups sliced pears 3 tablespoons lemon juice 1/3 cup corn syrup 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon ginger 2 tablespoons flour

Topping: 1/3 cup shortening 1/2 cup brown sugar 1 cup flour To make pastry, sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or two knives, until it is the size of peas. Add water in small quantities, mixed with a fork until it just holds together.

French pear pie is a delightful dessert for those porch suppers you're bound to be having. The pie is made deep and the topping is a crumbly mixture, part of which will melt into the pears to make them even more delicious.

ties, mixed with a fork until it just holds together. Pat into ball and chill. Roll dough out and line a glass pie plate, pressing dough into fluting.

To make filling, peel, core and slice pears; mix with lemon juice, corn syrup, sugar and flour. Place in unbaked pie shell.

To make topping, cream shortening and brown sugar. Mix in flour and top near mixture with this. Bake in a moderate (375 degree) oven for about 45 minutes until pears are done.

Creamed potatoes will be more interesting if they have some chopped dried beef added to them. If you're not too hungry, this will take the place of meat.

Muffins are smart to have for porch suppers because of appetite demands. Hide a bit of jam or jelly into the muffin batter, however, before you make that nice surprise touch.

So far as we know, you are that outstanding example of manhood, an American who, having his old car to dispose of, let his neighbor have it at a low price instead of conniving with slick operators to get twice what it was worth.

"Ashen faced and close to collapse he trembled as his counsel pleaded for clemency, saying he lacked the strength to resist temptation"—News item on a rent gouger's prison sentence.

That was no tremble; it was just the usual "shake."

We just heard a fellow explaining his despondency by saying that he had just popped the question and his girl "Gronykoed me."

Build It From A Pattern

Now Method Simplifies Building Modern Version of Old Fashioned Lawn Swing

By DONALD E. BRANN

Pattern Simplifies Building The Lawn Swing is easy to build. No special tools or skill are required. The Full Size pattern offered below provides all the information needed to buy the materials, cut and assemble the swing. All materials specified are stock size and are now readily available at most lumber yards.

Trace, Saw and Assemble It's as easy as that. The pattern provides a full size, printed paper outline of each component part of the swing. Trace each piece on the lumber specified, saw and assemble. Wherever two pieces are joined, their exact location is shown on the pattern. All bolts and screw holes are also shown. You'll have fun building this swing and lots more fun using it.

Send 50c for Lawn Swing Pattern No. 155 to East-Bld Pattern Company, Dept. W, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Missing Eye Provides Clue

In Arresting Purse Stealer

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Dora Baker, 49, was arrested on a charge of purse stealing. Frank Grube, a railroad detective, had no trouble recognizing her. The owner of the purse, Mrs. Bessie Ehmann, a nurse, of Alden, had provided the necessary clue.

Mrs. Baker has only one eye. Her right eye, blind since birth, was removed three weeks previously.

Appearing before Magistrate Benjamin Schwartz, Mrs. Baker testified that her handiwork had led her to steal.

"I can't get work with only one eye," she said. "I had to steal to live." The $40 taken from Mrs. Ehmann's purse, she told the court, went to pay overdue room rent.

Mrs. Ehmann asked that the charges be dropped. Magistrate Schwartz turned Mrs. Baker over to municipal court.

"Perhaps they can provide an artificial eye," he said, sympathetically, "and straighten out your troubles."

Among Our Owls

Owls are easily recognized by their distinctive large heads and large eyes, surrounded by circular discs of feathers. They are mostly nocturnal, but some of the species, like the snowy owl, hunt in the daytime. The great horned owl is the largest of the species; the smallest is the saw-whet owl, found in Eastern North America. It haunts the cedar and tamarack swamps. The screech owl is the most common of our owls.

A Clock Watcher

TRYING to rest after an exceedingly hard day, poor father was being bedeviled by an endless stream of unanswerable questions from little Willie.

"What do you do down at the office?" the youngster asked.

"Nothing," shouted the father.

It looked as if the boy had been shut up for a while, but not for long. After a thoughtful pause, Willie inquired: "Pop, how do you know when you're through?"

MEDICAL TERM

Checking the emergency cases of the day, the nurse gave a puzzled look after spotting the doctor's note: "Shot in the lumbar region." In the interest of clarity, she quickly changed the doctor's statement to read: "Shot in the woods."

It Requires Faith

Customer: "Waiter, I can't see any chicken in this soup."

Waiter: "Of course not. Did you ever see any horses in horse-radish?"

WRONG DIAGNOSIS

Doctor (to his daughter): "Did you tell the young man that I think he's no good?"

Daughter: "Yes, dad, but that didn't faze him. He said it wasn't the first wrong diagnosis you made."

Shirty Business

Son (learning the business): "Father, there's a man here who wants to know if these shirts shrink."

Father: "Does the shirt he tried on fit him?"

Son: "No, it's too big."

Father: "Then it shrinks."

Makes Him Blind

"My boy friend hates the sight of liquor."

"Then why does he drink?"

"To get it out of sight."

Individualist

One Sunday morning a father met his four-year-old son, an ardent radio listener, just as he was coming out of Sunday school. The son was asked what the children had been doing. "Oh, they sang," he answered. "And what did they sing?" was the inquiry. "I don't know what they were singing," replied the lad, "but I sang 'One Meat Ball'."

Comforting Thought

"But why study philosophy? It doesn't make you any happier."

"No, but it enables me to be unhappy more intelligently."

Books Are Heavy

"How many studies are you carrying?"

"I'm carrying one and dragging four."

Open House

Mr. Smith: "My wife came from a large family. Did yours?"

Mr. Brown: "No, she brought it with her."

Wrong Customer

An old waiter at the club was giving the new hand a few hints.

"See that fellow who's just come in?" he whispered. "He's got a twin brother and they're as alike as two peas, only this one's hard of hearing. Watch the fun!"

Going to the member's side, he smiled politely and said, in an ordinary voice: "Well, pifecase, and what do you want in the nose-bag today?"

"I'll have a chop," was the reply.

"And, by the way, it's my brother who doesn't hear so well."

Mistaken Identity

"You are in a state," said the sparrow to his battered friend. "How did you lose all those feathers?"

"Well, I was flying low, and swooping up and down, when I got mixed up in a game of badminton."

Wishful Thinking

Said the little doughnut to the big, pompous layer cake, "If I had all your dough I wouldn't be hanging around this hole!"

"WE HAVE NO COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT, MADAM. THIS STORE OPERATES ON THE ASSUMPTION THAT OUR CUSTOMERS HAVE NOTHING TO COMPLAIN ABOUT."

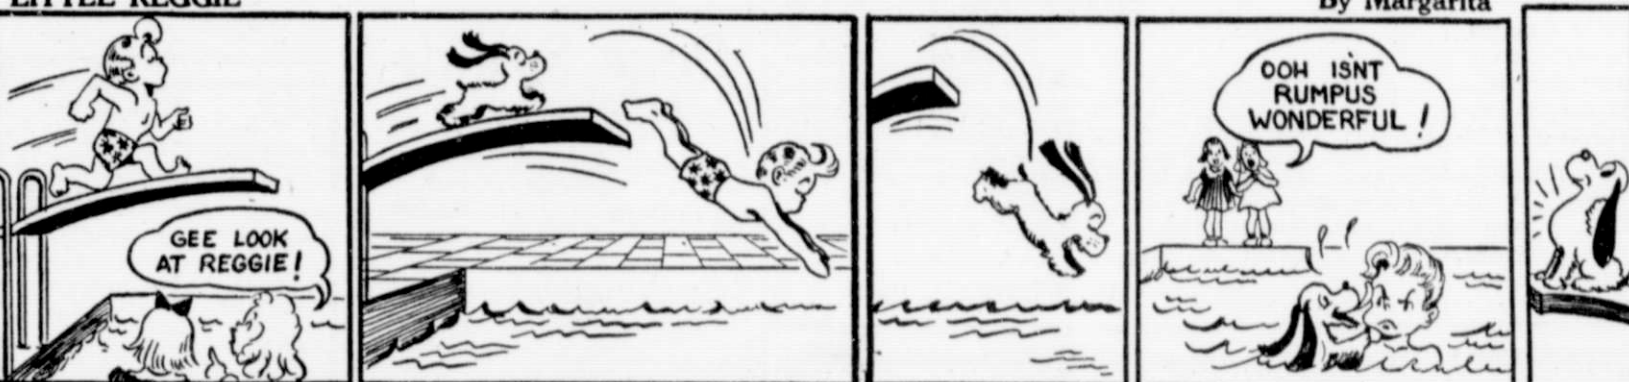

"WHEN SHE BROKE UP WITH JERRY, SHE GOT CUSTODY OF HIS BROTHER!"

Chemists Develop New Agent Which Makes Grass Greener

WILMINGTON, DEL.—Du Pont Company announced the development of a new chemical that it claims will grow grass greener, smoother and healthier.

It is called F 531 fungicide. Du Pont says the product controls dollar spot, a turf disease that causes bleached spots of dead grass about the size of a silver dollar.

Surgeons Remove Extra Leg From 2-Week-Old Baby Boy

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—A 2-week-old Melbourne baby is recovering successfully from an operation in which doctors removed a perfectly formed third leg.

When born, the baby boy was normal in every way except that a third leg was attached to the base of the spine. It was the same shape and size as his other two legs.

Army Will Blast Underground Caverns to Check Strength

WASHINGTON.—The army will undertake a series of tests in underground caverns, to determine the best construction to resist attack by guided missiles and modern heavy bombs, it was announced.

The explosions will be set off in four types of soil and four types of rock. Results are expected to guide army engineers in designing blast-proof command posts and other vital military installations.

Bus Driver Loses Patience With Passengers' Pranks

ATLANTA.—For F. B. McKinney, a school bus driver, the firecracker was the final straw.

He didn't become too angry when his passengers let the air out of the tires and kicked in a few windows. But exploding a firecracker under his seat was too much.

The next morning the startled students found themselves arrested in front of police headquarters and four detectives climbing aboard.

Son Tries to Evict Mother With Noise Making Bull

OTTAWA, ILL.—The appellate court says farmer Henry Factly, Jr., must not try to evict his aged mother, Rosa, from his home by using a noise making bull, an electric fence and other devices designed to annoy her.

The decision said that Factly tied a bull to a tree near the house and "provided the bull a playing which caused his mother many sleepless nights. He tied a milk can to the tree, leaving it suspended in the air, and placed in it some rocks so that when the bull butted the can, terrific noises would result."

Placed an electric fence across the driveway, "so that his unsuspecting mother might receive a sudden shock."

Caused the water supply to be shut off.

Chased the chickens from the chicken house and placed iron pipes in the weeds near by, "so that his mother would stumble and fall over them."

Scientists Develop Possible Antidote for Radioactivity

VENTURA, CALIF.—A new substance called routin, believed to be an antidote for radioactivity from atom bombs, has been developed by California Polytechnic college scientists, it was disclosed.

Von T. Ellsworth, legislative director of the California Farm Bureau federation, told a farm bureau district convention about routin.

He indicated an official announcement of the new substance would be made soon. Ellsworth said the routin had been developed at California Polytechnic under an appropriation supported by the state farm bureau.

U. S. Will Try to Stimulate Crops With Atom By-Products

WASHINGTON.—The government has set out to find out whether the radioactive by-products of atomic bomb production really will stimulate farm crops.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: There are finger marks on the head board of my bed, probably caused by perspiring hands. How can I remove these marks?

ANSWER: Clean the surface by washing with thick suds of mild soap, not just thin, watery soap. Follow with a clean, damp cloth and rub dry. Turpentine may also help. If this does not help, try rubbing the marks with a scratchless scouring powder and a little light oil on the ball of your finger.

QUESTION: Could you give me any information on the flooring? Can I do the work myself?

ANSWER: Whatever type you choose, remember that a solid color will show dirt very quickly. Mottled colors stay clean-looking much longer. It is perfectly possible for a home owner to lay tile, provided he is handy with tools and has a good guide book. Any kind of tile must be set in the proper "bed" no matter whether it is clay tile, asphalt, rubber or anything else.

QUESTION: Should one patch plaster that has come off in a basement?

ANSWER: If it's ordinary plaster that is used for living rooms, it would be best to remove all of it instead of trying to patch it. This type of plaster is affected by dampness and is not intended for use in a basement.

QUESTION: How can I polish bad scratches off my glass table top?

ANSWER: That type of polishing cannot be done at home. It is a job for the dealer in plate glass who has the equipment.

Absent-Minded People
Chicago transit riders have more than $500,000 worth of goods and streetcars, buses and elevated lines every year. American Municipal association reports. One of the largest sums never lost was one million dollars in negotiable bonds left on "L" train by a South American banker. Most unusual item forgotten was a box of white mice.

Harsh Laxatives are NOT necessary for most people
The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing in the morning, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination. No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair your health. Lemon in water is good for you!

ITCHING
Tormented by itching of dry eczema, simple piles, common skin irritation? Soothing, medicated Resinol Ointment is a proven reliever of such distress. Its ingredients, often used by doctors, act gently to give lingering comfort. Well worth trying.

CHANGE of LIFE?
Are you going through the functional "middle age" period peculiar to women (35 to 52 yrs.)? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel nervous, high-strung, tired? Then do try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound also has what doctors call a "mimetic" tonic effect!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS
Weary 80th Congress Comes to End Of Trail in Welter of Legislation; Truman Finishes Political Road Show

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer
EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily of this newspaper.

CONGRESS: Adjourned
Embattled and fatigued, the 80th congress nevertheless managed to brew forth a batch of important legislation with the relentlessness of a doughnut machine before it adjourned for the national political conventions.

In the waning hours before adjournment the dog-tired senators and representatives pushed through farm legislation and a peacetime draft, together with bills having to do with housing, displaced persons, the atomic energy commission, wages of federal employees and foreign aid appropriations.

Republican leaders made it apparent that although congress had adjourned the session the way was being left open for it to reconvene later this year.

Despite this, however, the 80th congress had run its formal course. And that it was a vital, exciting course and one that had produced some momentous legislation no one would gainsay. Partly responsible for this character of congress, of course, was the fact that President Truman had written a record number of vetoes.

Some of the high points of congress' record: FOREIGN AID—Congress issued bills for the support of Greece and Turkey and for general foreign relief, capping that by underwriting the Marshall plan for world economic survival and revival and establishing the economic cooperation administration as a further investment in the future of 16 friendly European nations.

NATIONAL DEFENSE—Aware of the implications of the realistic foreign policy the U. S. had begun to follow, congress adopted a peacetime draft, demanded a "70-group" air force, appropriated funds to modernize the army and navy, enacted a law to unify the armed forces and created the atomic energy commission.

HIGH PRICES—Congress ignored President Truman's repeated and insistent demands for authority to control prices and wages and kept to the classic republican conception of "laissez faire" with regard to business and industry. It reduced personal income taxes and reduced the domestic budget by two billion dollars.

LABOR—The Taft-Hartley law was enacted over President Truman's veto in an effort to curb union excesses and to bring balance between labor and management. The minimum wage law, growing constantly less useful as prices and wages rose, was not revised.

PALESTINE: Mediation
Although the situation in Palestine—the truce between waiting Arabs and Jews—has been overshadowed in the U. S. by the clamorous negotiations from the Republican convention, Count Folke Bernadotte's negotiations were continuing—and so was the indication.

There is no doubt that the President, safely back at his desk in Washington, was feeling that what he had accomplished pretty much what he had set out to do: The arousing of voter-interest in the issues at stake and the presentation of himself to the people in the role of a comradely but hard-hitting President who is the watchdog of their welfare.

Eight Ball

With the all-conceal (for him) Democratic convention (for days) and the Republicans throwing political rocks at him, with southern Democrats hectoring against him and his policies and with his own Democratic organization feeling very tepid about his prospects, President Truman has been forgiven, indeed feeling that "behind-the-eight ball" feeling.

RETURN: Truman

President Truman was back in the White House after journeying 9,505 political miles—one of them on a ski-lift at Sun Valley—to bring his story before U. S. voters.

That story was primarily his bitter characterization of the present congress as wallowing in deflection. As a U. S. President going before the people to seek re-nomination by his own party, he summed up his stand in a single, tough phrase made during his speech at Harrisburg, Pa. If the voters don't make a change in congress this November, he said in effect, they "can stew in their own juice."

Whether or not the spectacle of the President of the United States in the search of popular support is viewed as admirable or otherwise, it certainly must be regarded as a phenomenal pilgrimage in the annals of American politics.

At first flaunting a "non-political" banner, which he soon discarded, Mr. Truman traveled 8,534 miles on eight different railroads, 720 miles by automobile, 225 miles by air, 25 miles across Puget sound by yacht and one mile by ski-lift.

In that political public to the President brought the hectic up to date on the background of what is probably the most bitter feud between a President and congress since the days of Andrew Johnson.

There is no doubt that the President, safely back at his desk in Washington, was feeling that what he had accomplished pretty much what he had set out to do: The arousing of voter-interest in the issues at stake and the presentation of himself to the people in the role of a comradely but hard-hitting President who is the watchdog of their welfare.

MEAT: Too Popular
With the popularity of vegetarians and some carrot juice addicts, nearly everyone likes meat. And in the U. S. everyone eats a lot of it.
That is why all the Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sprats in America are deeply incensed whenever the meat supply falls off from the normally prodigious amounts available to the consumer.

A condition of that general description currently prevails in the U. S. and, according to R. J. Eggert of the American Meat Institute, it will take at least a year following good crops in 1947 to bring about any substantial increase in the amounts of beefsteaks, pork chops and bacon on the table.

Biggest trouble, Eggert said, is that the ratio of the eaters to the edibles has grown too top heavy since the war.

Wartime drain of flocks and herds and last year's short corn crop are responsible for the currently declining animal population.

But there is no comparable decline in demand in sight. The meat industry forecasts a continuing steady demand for meat because: Incomes are near an all-time high; the real income (actual purchasing power) of the average consumer is one-fourth greater than in 1939; population has increased 15 million in the past decade; people are convinced of the nutritive value of meat.

SHIPMENTS: Restricted
Widespread agitation by politicians, newspapers and just plain people over shipment of crucial U. S. goods to Russia had paid off in an unfavorable balance of trade with the Soviets.

During April, when the clamp-down on exports to Russia first took full effect, the United States received $12,594,841 more goods from the Soviet Union than it shipped.

Whether that imbalance will turn out to be strategically unfavorable to the U. S. if the controversy with Russia continues to expand is a question that the next few years probably will answer.

In its simplest form the situation is a paradox. It is an axiom in international relations that unrestricted trade among nations is one of the best guarantors of peace. Yet the restrictions on export trade to Russia last April were imposed to prevent shipment of potential war goods to the Soviets.

Significant is the fact that U. S. imports from Russia were higher in April than in any other month this year except March, indicating that there has been no retaliatory effort by Moscow to retaliate for the tightened U. S. controls.

One oddity, perhaps also significant, was Russia's shipment of $1,312,382 worth of manganese and chrome, both basic items in the manufacture of war materials.

Job Done
Sen. Arthur Capper (Rep., Kas.) is 83 years old and has represented Kansas in the senate for 30 years. Now he has announced that he will not run for re-election. He thinks it is time for him to step aside in favor of a younger man.

MAGINOT: Try Again?
France's Maginot line, that supposedly impregnable, concrete-and-steel system of static defense that failed to stop the Nazis in 1940, is being touted now as a shield against possible Russian attacks.

Some French army engineers even go so far as to say that the United States would be wise to finance the reconing of the Maginot line as insurance against the Red army.

And at least one of France's top military leaders, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, is reported to believe that the line should be investigated with the idea that its immense underground forts might be transformed into atomic bomb shelters.

When the fortresses came into Allied hands near the close of the war it was discovered that the Nazis had removed much less of the armament and equipment than had been believed. Most of the guns, minus only the breech blocks, had been left in place.

Simple fact, however—and it is accepted by most U. S. military men—is that the Maginot line is badly outmoded by present swift and mobile methods of warfare, and further, that it was outmoded even before the start of World War II.

One Diplomat Knew Better: Scratch One Tyro Diplomat

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON—Back in the conventionally-deserted capital after one and before another political party in these days when Washington's tiger drives beaches, I took a short ride with a friendly official who, like most of the press and radio, has to stick out a good share of the summer in the city.

We passed some of the last few fine old residences and a number of embassies and legations. Shutters were drawn, orange-red paint was smeared in a pattern I never have been able to understand on ironwork of high picket-fences and window bars. Some windows were boarded up.

"If it hadn't been for you," I remarked to my companion sitting beside me in what he alludes to as "the taxpayer's automobile," "I might not have been in Washington this summer. I might have been loafing at a mountain-lake-side or elsewhere."

"How so?" he inquired. "Don't you remember," I asked, "that you were a newspaperman yourself once and, corollarily speaking, met a lot of interesting people? I was one of them. That meeting killed what I thought then was to be a brilliant diplomatic career."

The story begins right now across the street from the office I now occupy on Eighteenth street, in a fine old brick house which I saw first in the year 1914. The carriage drive in front of it is blocked now by the curbing, probably because the traffic officials thought the automobile could safely make the turn which a "spanking pair" negotiated so easily three decades ago.

A sign on the lamp-post in front of the house says "no parking at any time." A brass plate over one of the windows, still barred with the gracefully-curving ironwork of another century says: "Columbus University." The plate it replaced used to say "Former Home of Secretary of State Lansing."

In 1914 it was some two hours after leaving that red brick house that I began "putting off"—(putting things off is a great art and one that has reached a high point of refinement in Washington. I always have practiced it.) If I hadn't put off then, I might have become a diplomat. As it was, all I got was deadlines the rest of my life.

It happened this way. I had just returned from an extended period in Europe where I had been going through the motions of acquiring an education. In the process I acquired the ambition to become a member of the foreign service of the state department. I planned to rise, by easy stages, on pure merit, of course, to the position of ambassador to the Court of St. James. Beyond that, as a cabinet officer says following a change in administration, I had no plans.

I did have four out of five necessary qualifications which I knew from experience on the Quai d'Orsay and elsewhere assured a successful diplomatic career. The four which I possessed were a top-hat, a tailcoat, striped pants and a pair of spats.

The fifth I was confident I could soon acquire easily since I had an excellent letter to the father-in-law of the secretary of state, who had been a secretary of state himself and an important pillar of Washington society. I was sure that under such auspices I could acquire that sine qua non—a wife rich enough to keep a diplomat in the style to which he is supposed to be accustomed.

I recall that afternoon very well. I rang the bell to that door—well it was a different door of course—there are four there now with brass handles worn shiny by ambitious Columbians—but at least the door which that afternoon was to be my portal to a brilliant career was right there in the same frame.

It opened, I handed the silk hat and my stick to the servant and in a few moments I was being warmly greeted by a gentleman wearing what Sam Blythe once called the most diplomatic whiskers in Washington, John Watson Foster.

I saw that my striped pants and tailcoat which had just enough of a continental cut to make a proper impression, as well as the bowler from-the-woist I had learned in Berlin, were doing their work and I made mental note of the less unattractive unattached females. So, after tossing off a bon mot or two, I left, feeling that my career was virtually launched.

It was still fairly early, so I decided to drop in at the National Press club to which my old schoolmate, David Lawrence, had given me a guest card. As the weather was fine, I decided I might as well walk and give Connecticut avenue a chance to admire my distinguished stripes and tails, although tailcoats and top-hats, per se, caused very little conversation in those days.

As I walked, I idly speculated on what course I would take if knee-breeches were insisted upon when I was presented at court. Meanwhile, I observed the strolling young ladies who, though probably unable to support an ambassador, were nevertheless quite as attractive as any of the better-qualified ones at the reception.

I had just about decided not to make an issue of the knee-breeches thing—after all I had been on the stage for a short period in my career and a couple of pairs of long stockings underneath would do for my calves what nature hadn't—when I found myself at the club. A tall, black-haired gentleman arose and gave me a dignified greeting. I had thought it best while I was considering my diplomatic career to accept a temporary position with the Associated Press—a position I received after some rather tall talk on the part of David Lawrence and a kindly letter from Superintendent Roberts of the Paris bureau for whom I had worked. The gentleman who greeted me at the club was one of the staff which I was to join, assigned to the state department. And he was the man I alluded to—the friendly official—in the early paragraphs of this column.

Right there, or shall we say, in the course of an hour or two, there developed the beginning of a beautiful friendship and the beginning of the end of any illusions concerning a diplomatic career. I applied for membership in the club, never went to another "at home" in the fine old brick house on Eighteenth street.

Toy Dog Cushions Girl's Fall From Four-Story Flat
NEW YORK.—Nineteen-month-old Michelle Rice was given a "fair chance to live" because her four-story fall apparently was broken by a toy rubber dog.

Her mother, Mrs. Hugh Rice, said Michelle probably climbed to a window sill to play with the toy dog and fell from there to the concrete courtyard four stories below. When found, Michelle's head was resting on the toy dog.

Hitch-Hikers Find Thuring More Expensive Than Home
MEMPHIS, TENN.—Thinking of going on a hitch-hiking trip? Don't do it, says Donald Trachte. The 17-year-old St. Louis youth figured they'd hitch-hike to Florida. But they ended up walking the 119 miles to Memphis—with suitcase. It took eight days—and cost more for food than train or bus fare would have.

Doctor Calls Shoe Box
Baby's Ride a Miracle
PORTLAND, ME.—The amazing survival of a one-pound, fifteen-month-old baby, who was carried in a shoe box during a hectic twenty-two mile automobile ride from a Cornish logging camp, was described as a near-miracle by the physician who delivered him.

Dr. Anthony Dibasio of Cornish, who said the boy was a six and one-half-month premature child, declared: "The chances for a live birth in such an instance are one in 100,000. The fact that the baby lived through that trip is truly remarkable."

The air force is testing a new type of air-cooled pants. They have mesh pockets that act as ventilators. Now that can be done for the women?
To make sweet cream sour add two table-spoons of vinegar or lemon juice to one cup of cream. But I'll bet you couldn't sweeten a cup of vinegar with two table-spoons of cream!

THE FICTION CORNER CARNIVAL NIGHT By MARY KEMPE CHEATHAM

ALL along Elm street to the old park grounds, the carnival was drawing people like a magnet. From where Ellie sat, on the top step in front of Mrs. Blodgett's boarding house, she could see them hurrying along in groups and couples, laughing and chatting, their merryment floating back to her on the early summer air.

"would you like to go to the carnival with me?" "Yipes!" uttered the little girl, almost tripping off the step backward, "Would I?"

"Be careful!" cried Ellie, thrusting an arm about the little shoulders. She laughed in spite of herself to see the change in the young face. There was nothing serious about it now. It was afire with the dazzle of carnival lights themselves.

"I'll go ask Grandma," shouted Patty, bounding across the lawn. "I'll be right back." "Bring a wrap," called Ellie after the swinging pigtails, "It may be cool on the rides." She went inside for her own light coat and to go over her make-up at the dresser. Her face in the mirror was smooth and quiet, showing only in pallor the turmoil of the empty months. It was still quite a good face, the eyes a looking at Patty's happy face, it is I who am without the magic. The barkers called from their concessions, drawing the crowds with imperative cries. Girls passed, carrying feathered kewpies, spangled whips, bright birds and monkeys on sticks. There was a blend of hotdog and hamburger odors, coffee aroma, the roasting fragrance of peanuts and popcorn. Everywhere were people, eating ice-cream sandwiches, drinking pink lemonade from sweaty glasses.

Patty, high on the merry-go-round, clung lovingly to her horse's bridle and waved to Ellie every time she passed. "That was fun," she beamed, finished at last, running to Ellie for new adventure. They joined hands and started over the grounds. "Who's your girl friend, Sis?" asked a man's voice. Instantly guarded and alert, Ellie turned to look. She gazed wildly, straight into two gray eyes. So gray, she thought, I'll always be a push-over for gray eyes. He was not a dressed up young man, but he looked nice with his soft shirt open at the neck, showing his tanned wide, deep blue, the hair a dusky cloud, brushed back from a widow's peak at the forehead. With lipstick and rouge and a deliberate turning up of the lips at the corners, it was even an animated face. By concentrating on Patty, Ellie found she could keep the lips curved upward. She would forget all other carnivals.

"Oh, my goodness," complimented Patty. "You look beautiful!" Ellie laughed. She tucked the child's hand under her arm and they started for the park grounds. The groups were dwindling now. As Patty had said, most everybody was already there.

"It's funny you haven't got a boy friend," Patty mused. "Pretty as you are." "I used to have one," Ellie obliged, out of a long silence. "His name was Bruce."

Patty considered gravely, but asked no more questions. "Oh look!" thrilled Patty. "There it is. Please, please, let's go on everything!" "Most everything," Ellie amended, "not the really rough rides. But the others."

She held tight the warm, squirming hand in her own, to fortify herself for the first glimpse of the sprawling tents. "You have to get over this, Ellie, my girl," she told herself, gulping down the lump in her throat. "Tonight's as good a time as any."

It was like all carnivals before, without the magic. No, she decided, "Patty," she asked humbly,

"Mr. Kenyon already knows you haven't got a boy friend," soothed Patty. "I told him when he asked this afternoon."

"You live with your grandmother?" Ellie asked. She felt suddenly ashamed of how little she knew the neighbors. She had been boarding at Mrs. Blodgett's several months, since first she came to Greenville to work in its dress factory and to work even harder at the serious business of forgetting Bruce.

"Ever since I remember," answered Patty. "My Grandma loved carnivals like I do. Grandma was always scolding him about it, but he'd take me every night and we'd go on the rides and buy cotton candy. My," she breathed, "I sure miss Grandma."

Ellie studied the serious small face, framed by the smooth brown pigtail. Here too was someone adjusting to a loss, and she had not even taken the trouble to find it out. She had seen Patty often enough, running errands for Mrs. Blodgett and playing hopscotch or jacks on the wide front sidewalk, but she had been too absorbed in her own affairs to ask about the child. How selfish people are, thought Ellie.

"Patty," she asked humbly,

"I know all this, yet still cannot remember... I cannot see beyond this wall of tears... Yet as the falling ashes cool so ember, So will my heart find comfort through the years. I know—oh God, dear God, my need is great! Give me the inner strength this day to wait."

Teacher of 76 Retires, Only to Take New Job KENTON, OHIO.—After 56 years in the teaching profession, Frank Ellis, 76-year-old dean of Ohio school teachers, finally retired as principal of Kenton grammar school—but not as a teacher.

MAKING his first technicolor in "Rope," James Stewart plays a role unlike the shy, bashful young men audiences have come to expect from him. He is suave, sophisticated, a university professor whose slightly graying hair resembles Stewart's own. The Alfred Hitchcock thriller was done in beautifully subdued color with a technique new to pictures by which an entire roll of film, 950 feet, was shot without interruption. "Rope" may well be the best picture made by the famous Hitchcock.

Pedro Armendariz said to be Latin America's foremost actor, has been signed by Walter Warner for one of the male starring roles in "Tulsa," at Eagle Lion. Susan Hayward and Robert Preston will co-star. Armendariz, who has just completed three pictures for John Ford, won the Mexican Academy Award for his role opposite Dolores Del Rio in "The Pearl."

Young mothers who want to earn money might take a tip from Mary Lansing, heard regularly as "Julie Collins" on CBS' "The Guiding Light." Mary is a specialist on baby wails—learned by listening to her own children.

An impressive car is usually a young actress' first purchase when she signs a good contract in Hollywood, but Teresa Wright is different. In 1941 Samuel Goldwyn took her west for "The Little Foxes." She bought an inexpensive coupe. Since then she has risen to stardom, won an Academy Award and established herself as one of the screen's better actresses, now starring in "Enchanted." So she has bought a two-door car and given the seven-year-old one to her father.

David Niven says that used tea leaves, placed around the bushes, make roses "prettier than anything." He may be right, but most of us get better results with good fertilizer! Niven's departure from Hollywood is scheduled for July; he goes to England to make "The Scarlet Pimpernel." He is co-starring currently in "A Kiss in the Dark" with Jane Wyman.

Frank Buck's "Bring 'em Back Alive" is being re-released by RKO, 16 years after its original presentation. The locales of the safari organized to capture jungle beasts and record battles between them were Malaya and Sumatra.

Arthur Godfrey has given private flying such a boost on his radio shows that a member of a flying club to which he belongs gave him a special award—a check for $5, which enables Godfrey to pay his enrollment fees until 1950. Godfrey appreciated the idea behind the act—but he makes $200,000 every year, so hardly needed the money!

Vic Damone, in search of peace and quiet, he claims, bought a house in Brooklyn. But he invited 200 fans to a housewarming, they gave other fans the address and now the Damone home is as peaceful as Grand Central station.

Odds and Ends... When Edgar Bergen sailed for Europe our country's most popular ventriloquist's dummy was down on the passenger list as Axel McCarthy... Record for the largest attendance each week goes to NBC's "Grand Ole Opry." It is broadcast from a Nashville, Tenn., auditorium accommodating 5,000, which is filled to capacity... Ray Milland and Geraldine Fitzgerald both live in Hollywood, but travelled 6,000 miles to London before they met to co-star in "So Evil My Love"...

Jack Paar has had his option renewed by RKO for the third consecutive year. He has important roles in "Weep No More" and "Variety Time."

Roy Rogers starts his 10th year in pictures with his co-starring role in Walt Disney's "Melody Time." He has appeared in more than 50 pictures with his horse, "Trigger." He sings and narrates the exploits of Pecos Bill, the cowboy, in the Disney film.

"My Name Is Han" will be shown all over the world this summer. It is a documentary filmed in China with a Chinese cast, under auspices of the Protestant film commission.

Don't be surprised if the old-fashioned waltz suddenly becomes popular again. It is danced in the Fontaine-Crosby "The Emperor Waltz" of course, and Shirley Temple and John Agar do the 1935 version in RKO's "Baltimore Escape."

Nancy Valentine, blonde model who was "discovered" by Howard Hughes in New York, makes her film debut in Warner's "The Girl from Jones Beach."

"Flying Pastor" Serves Three Western States BOULDER, COLO.—Using a rebuilt navy plane, the Rev. E. C. Schumacher has joined the ranks of "flying pastors," with three states as his parish.

The airplane was rebuilt by Harold A. Grace, local mechanic, who had purchased it from the government. He will lend the craft to Ms Schumacher, a licensed pilot, "whose work takes him to three states."

As Pegler Sees It

By Westbrook Pegler Released by WNU Features THAT IS ALL I SAID. I said to the guy, "I want a hamburger, rare, on roll, and a slice of pickle."

I didn't say anything about any sloppy slaw or old kitchen garbage so now look at what you get—the bread all soggy and the hamburger cooked like a heel come off somebody's shoe. I SAID, "HAMBURGER RARE, PLEASE," AND THAT'S ALL I SAID.

I pulled up at a place on 87th and it said on the sign behind the counter, "Two pork chops and French fries," so I put a little bet on that number and they must have been cleaning out back there the way it came back. They should have sent it to me in the bucket, not on a plate. Dirty old dead lettuce combed out of the sink or somewhere, and scraps of cabbage and tomato and some sour, yellow slaw for mayonnaise swimming all over a couple of dumb pork chops like fishing something drowned out of a pond.

What is the matter, anyway? They keep throwing this mess at people when you tell them absolutely you want a hamburger so-and-so, whether it's rare, medium rare or hamburger well, but who said anything about cleaning out under the ice-box?

What are they trying to save, the cost of the guy to come around with the collection? What am I a scab or something, scabbing the job on the boys in the department of sanitation and garbage removal so they can lay off 40 or 50 hard-working American citizens. Are they trying to get me to eat it up for them instead, by dumping all that old dead slaw on a man's hamburger when you distinctly say, "I just want a hamburger, rare, with dill pickle?"

LOOK AT THAT, WILL YOU, LOOK AT THAT. It doesn't make a particle of difference even if you tie a string around your finger so you remember to say, "and none of your sloppy old kitchen leavings, either, because I positively want just so-and-so," like whether it's a fried egg on white or ham-and-cheese on rye. Is there some kind of a new law you aren't allowed to eat a decent meal in the United States of America any more?

If you go into a department store and you say, "I want a suit of clothes, size 36, long in the pants, medium sleeves in a pin stripe," do they go back into the grab bag and haul out all the old rags and scraps from the alteration department and old stockings and drawers and throw them at you and say, "Here is your pin stripe suit, the way we always serve it?"

Then do they say, "Well, yes maybe it is a 40 instead of a 36 like you asked for but that is our blue plaid special for this week and if you don't like it well, where do you think you are, at the Park Lane or somewhere? Particular, aren't you?"

Then does the owner say you insulted the dizzy little dope of a crumpet—probably got her mind on a date with some Bill of Rights dancing student—because you take a look at the waist and you say, "Madam, if you don't mind, this is a size 40 pants and I asked for a 36." But with these bums a hamburger rare means whatever you get and if you don't like it, well, now, friend, just keep your nasty temper under control.

Or suppose you say you want a living room set. Specialty Couch, chair, another chair, china closet, rug and framed picture of Sir Longfellow like when you were in school. You say, "I want red upholstery on this one and mixed on that," but they absolutely just wouldn't think of driving up a junk wagon and dumping a load of old rusty springs and horsehair and busted old kitchen chairs and tell you it's the specialty of the house and that's the way they always serve living-room suites at their store. And if you don't like it, well just the same, keep your temper, big boy, BECAUSE THAT IS THE SPECIALTY.

You would suppose it would be just the same about hamburgers or anything, but no wonder those Europeans and the Chinaman and all them think we ought to feed them for nothing forever when every day of the world all over the United States we waste food.

Cold slaw, scraps of dumb cabbage. Sink-water mayonnaise and downhearted old sloppy tomatoes not even good for throwing, dumped all over whatever it was, you ordered. And if you said "rare" it will look like a cinder and if you said "well done" it will be still mooing for its mate or, maybe, probably, barking, from the taste of some of the hamburgers you get in this man's country.

No, you bet your sweet life they treat you like an American deserves to get treated and I didn't go to no war to get my hamburgers well instead of rare like I asked because some bum can't keep his mind off a four-hour parlay. They used to sell this blue-plate stuff to farmers for the pigs during the war but the pigs couldn't take it so now they force it on patriotic 100 per cent American citizens.

I distinctly said, "hamburger, rare, on roll, and a slice of pickle." And look at what I got.
