

Children's Pictures to Be Taken Free and Published in Paper

This Newspaper to Feature Series of Photographic Studies of Local Youngsters

"The best investment in children," says Wm. J. Cameron, "You had better take a good look at them as they pass you on the street, for they are the ones who are going to make a new world for you, and you can catch some glimmer of the dawn in their fresh young faces."

That is a bit of philosophy in which the publishers of this newspaper firmly believe. And because we think our readers should "catch some glimmer of the dawn," we intend to help them do it.

To assure the latest and best reproduction picture—they must all be of a uniform size and quality—we have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios, nationally known children's photographers, to take these special pictures for us.

Expert children's photographers for the studios, with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work, will be here Wednesday, Aug. 25. The special studio will be set up at the Woodman hall and will be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings to this invitation. There is no age limit. It is bonafide in every sense of the word. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper to take advantage of this feature.

Those who want some additional prints may obtain a limited number by arrangement with the studio representative when they select the pose they want printed in the paper. It is entirely up to them!

Chas. Palt, Michels Lease Mermac Tavern

Charlie Palt and Robert "Corky" Michels, brothers-in-law, this week announced that they have leased the tavern in the Mermac hotel at West Bend and will take over its operation on Sept. 1. They leased it from Walter Goring and Clarence Holz, also brothers-in-law, who operate the Mermac hotel for August C. Berkholtz, the owner.

Palt and his wife have been operating the Bar-N Ranch near Mauthe lake for the past two years or so. Michels, it is reported, will resign his position as a county traffic patrolman to assume the business with Palt. Both Palt and Michels formerly operated the Wagon Wheel tavern four miles south of West Bend on Hwy. 55.

Palt went into the business at West Bend due to the fact that the Bar-N Ranch is up for sale. Mrs. Palt said she would continue to operate the Bar-N until the end of November or longer. Mrs. Michels will assist her at the ranch.

Holtz and Goring, who also operate Goring's resort at Big Cedar lake, said it was too much to manage the hotel and also run the bar. Holz said he would continue to manage the hotel with Goring taking care of the interests at the resort.

Bolts Squeeze Out 4-3 Victory Over Indians

The Kewaskum Indians were handed a setback in the Rainbow league Sunday at Boltonville when the third last Bolts edged out a 4-3 win. After a tight, interesting contest the Bolts came through with a late winning rally. Sheboygan Falls moved ahead of Kewaskum and Belgium, which dropped to a tie for fifth, with a victory over second spot Waubesa.

In other battles Sunday league leading St. Michaels took a game and a half lead in first place with a thrilling 2-1 victory over their second place rival, Watbeka, tied for second with Batavia, 4-3, and last place Barton surprised Belgium with a 5-4 win. All of the wins were by one run Sunday.

This Sunday it's Kewaskum's turn to face pace setting St. Michaels and the game will be played on the Saints' field. These two were battling it out in a close one here recently before rain forced the game to be postponed in the early innings. The Indians hope to be at their best and knock off the topnotchers, Nyburg plays at Waubesa, Batavia at Belgium, and Boltonville at Falls.

PETRI STORE FIRE

In last week's account of the fire at the Mrs. Alma Petri store in Wayne, we mentioned that the telephone line to Kewaskum was dead due to changes that were being made on the telephone exchange. Further investigation reveals that there were no changes being made at the central office but rather the trouble was caused through a limb of a tree which had come down and fallen across the line, disrupting service. The trouble was reported to the telephone company the morning of the fire and was repaired the same morning.

SCORES LAST SUNDAY

GAME THURSDAY NIGHT

Memomone Falls at West Bend.

GAMES THIS SUNDAY

Lannon at Kewaskum, Germantown at Mequon, Granville at Menomonee Falls, Grafton at West Bend.

In Lakes play the past week, the Kewaskum Utensils split two games, losing at West Bend under the lights last Thursday, 6-3, and swamping last place Grafton here Sunday, 17-3.

The game at West Bend was one that was postponed previously by rain at Kewaskum. The contest was transferred to West Bend because the Utensils had no open date before the season's close to play it here. For the third time this season the Utensils were defeated by the second place Lithias and for the third straight time against them it was a close battle that could have resulted either way.

The Lithias scored first on singles by Drickon and Bremser and an error in the second. The Utensils retaliated in the same frame with a marker on a walk to Frost and singles by Tassar and Wietor. The Lithias added another in the fourth on Caspari's single, an error and Kissinger's fly ball. They made it 2-1 in the sixth when Caspari got his second hit and Drickon doubled him home. Kewaskum tied the count in the eighth when Kral singled, Tassar was hit, Wietor and J. Stautz singled. Then came the fatal ninth when West Bend pushed over three batters on an error, walk, and doubles by Bremser and Oehlafen.

Honeck pitched the first two and one-third innings and gave up two hits and then left the game because of a bad leg. Marx finished the contest and allowed five hits in the six and two-thirds frames he worked. Oehlafen went the route for the winners and issued nine hits as the Utensils outbit the Lithias. Oehlafen struck out only three batters, while Honeck fanned three and Marx six. Wietor and J. Stautz led the losers with two bingles apiece and Caspari, Drickon and Bremser collected two for the winners.

Sunday here it was an entirely different story as base hits by Kewaskum rained over the field. Honeck again was on the mound and did a fine job. While he was being very stingy in giving Grafton five hits, his mates powdered the ball for 29. Unusual was that out of 29 hits only one of Kewaskum's was for extra bases, a double by Honeck. The other 12 were all singles. The Utensils' 20 hits were good for 17 runs and Grafton got three runs out of their five bingles.

The locals scored two runs in each of the first, second and fourth innings and then topped it off with an immense eighth frame in which 11 runs crossed the platter on eight hits, two walks and two errors. Honeck, Grafton twirler, couldn't get the side out until the Utensils got dizzy from circling the bases. First baseman Tassar pitched the last inning and whiffed two batters.

Besides pitching the "Kums to an easy triumph, Honeck also had a perfect day at bat. He drove out three hits in three times at bat, walking the other two times up. Held got four for six, Wietor three for six and five other got two as the averages were fattened. Hintzler was the lone visitor to get two hits—Honeck struck out eight and Tassar two. Eernisse whiffed but three.

The team plays their last home till this Sunday and a tough assignment it will be. League leading Lannon's great nine comes here. These teams split two games thus far. The boys want to knock off the leaders in this home finale. Let's get out and help them do it.

Death of Idol Babe Ruth Brings Cancer Rejoinder

The nation mourns this week over the death Monday evening of the idol of millions—George Herman "Babe" Ruth—"Mr. Baseball" as he was particularly known to "kid" fans who literally mobbed him on every public appearance, he was held in such adulation by them. Babe Ruth died of cancer at the age of 33 after a long and painful illness. Surgery was attempted in an effort to save the home run king's life, but hospital reports said Ruth's cancer was inaccessible to any surgery performed.

The death of the mighty and beloved Babe Ruth brought forth a rejoinder from the Washington County Cancer committee this week that cancer is a man killer, that of the types of cancer common to both it kills more men than women.

The committee cited statistics showing that personal tragedy will result, happy families will be broken up, and economic hardships will be experienced because 82,000 men in the United States are doomed to die of cancer this year.

As a tragic part of all this, the committee pointed out, is that thousands of these deaths could be prevented if men would recognize the symptoms of cancer and seek competent medical advice immediately.

Men are apt to put this off, a committee spokesman said, particularly when their ailments seem to be minor, with the alibi that real men do not bother about unimportant things. It was warned, however, that cancer is not unimportant and real men never make excuses.

Cancer, it was pointed out, is not a disease of the ordinary type. It is not a germ, not contagious nor communicable, and not inherited, although the tendency to develop may be inherited. Cancer, it was stated, is the uncontrolled growth of one or more cells or tissues of the body. The committee listed the following symptoms:

- Stomach-Intestine—Persistent discomfort after eating or drinking by men of middle age or older who earlier in life had little distress from food. Goldenberg, if... Rectum—Bleeding from the rectum hemorrhoids (piles).

- Lip, Mouth, Tongue—Any sore that does not heal in two weeks—any lump, swelling, or hardening. Persistent white spots on the tongue. Jagged or broken teeth may be a source of irritation to the mouth. Prostate—Over enlargement of the prostate gland—difficulty in urinating.

- Lungs—Persistent cough without fever or other symptoms—blood in the sputum. Skin—A sore that does not heal promptly or that gives off crvy or scaly scabs—a mole, wart, or lump that changes its shape or color, becomes sensitive, or begins to grow. Throat—Persistent hoarseness or difficulty in swallowing without other signs of a cold. Although it is pointed out that not all these symptoms mean that a per-

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Cook in Cool Morning To Avoid Sweltering Over Stove at Dinner

ARE YOU the homemaker who's sweltering over a hot stove preparing the evening meal, somewhat on the grumpy side, short with the family and generally discontented? Or are you the cool and neat homemaker who simply opens her refrigerator door and swishes food on the table with neat flourishes?

If you aren't the latter, then do something about it now. Plan several menus for each week that have most of the food prepared early in the morning so they may be served chilled for dinner.

Some women always will object to this plan because, they say, the food is so light that husbands are not fully satisfied. The dishes I'm giving you today are on the hearty side even though they are served cold.

It's a good idea to serve some hot food with a cool meal, but this food

- 1/2 cup French dressing
- 1/2 cup real mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1 clove garlic

Cut lettuce into cubes and place in salad bowl or platter. Sprinkle with diced onion and canned peas. Arrange tomato sections on lettuce. Place large pieces of salmon in center and surround with slices of egg. Blend French dressing and real mayonnaise, add green pepper, pimiento and garlic. Just before serving, remove garlic. Serve with salad.

COOK THE MEAT in this recipe on a cool day, then make an aspic for it and you'll have an excellent dinner, fit for company.

*Pot Roast in Aspic. (Serves 12)

- 4 to 5 pound rump roast of beef
- 1 large chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, grated
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Salt, pepper and paprika
- 1 1/2 pints boiling water
- 2 bay leaves
- 1/2 cup tomato pulp
- 1 tablespoon flour

Brown onion and garlic in butter; add well seasoned meat and sear quickly on all sides. Add boiling water and bay leaves. Cover and simmer for two and one-half hours.

Marinate meat and peas in French dressing and chill. Add nuts and arrange on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with paprika and dot with mayonnaise. Cut eggs into slices and remove yolks. Arrange the white rings around the salad. Cut olives into rings and place one inside each egg white. Press egg yolks through a sieve and sprinkle over salad.

Beef-Cheese Plate. (Serves 6)

- 6 slices cold roast beef or corned beef
- 6 slices Swiss cheese
- 6 deviled eggs
- 6 tomatoes
- 1 cup cole slaw
- Green and ripe olives
- Potato chips

Place tomatoes stuffed with cole slaw in center of platter. Bank with green and ripe olives. Alternate slices of cold meat with cheese and place around platter. Garnish with potato chips.

Egg and Cheese Salad Loaf. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 tablespoons gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 beef cubes
- 1 cup boiling water
- 3 cups strained pot roast gravy

Put the cooked meat in the center and place small cooked carrots and onions around it. Cover with remaining gelatin mixture. Place in refrigerator to set.

Plums and pears make a good combination for a fruit cobbler or a molded salad. You also can add cherries if you like.

Did you ever try rice with mushrooms sauteed in butter? Try molding the mixture in a ring and serving green peas in the center if you want a dish that has a flavor thrill in it.

Ever try coconut custard pudding with thick, rich caramel sauce? It's just the cooling dessert you need with a rich meal.

Crush and cook raspberries slightly with sugar and then brush the sauce over canned peaches. Serve with vanilla ice cream and thin refrigerator cookies if you want a taste treat.

When you make a lamb roast, try rubbing the meat with a mixture of salt, paprika, pepper and a few grains of ginger. It's really delicious.

Try tomatoes scooped out and stuffed with a mixture of ground ham, pickles and bread crumbs. Nothing better, when they're baked just long enough to cook the tomato.

LOOKING AT RELIGION By DON MOORE

Simon, the Zealot

FIFTY OF THE COLONIAL CHURCHES ESTABLISHED BY LAW IN THE COLONY OF VIRGINIA ARE STILL IN REGULAR USE. MANY OF THESE VENERABLE BUILDINGS WERE CLOSELY ASSOCIATED WITH INCIDENTS OF THE REVOLUTION.

IN ANCIENT TIMES THE ROMANS WORSHIPPED THEIR GODS AT BREAK OF DAY — AS WAS THE CUSTOM OF NEARLY EVERY NATION, TRIBE OR GROUP AT THAT TIME.

High Costs Hit All

This reporter believes that the most rabid Republican or the most partisan Democrat will admit that the high cost of living is hurting the American people and is the most dominant domestic issue in this campaign.

There is no family, rich or poor, that is not feeling the impact of the unreasonable or unconscionable prices the people must pay for whatever they buy, necessities or luxuries. There is no denying the fact that millions in the lower income brackets are exhausting their savings and cashing in their war bonds to pay for the daily cost of living.

There also is the undeniable fact that insofar as the American people are concerned the time has gone by for recriminations, for "who

Washington Zoo Acquires Air-Conditioned Arctic Fox

WASHINGTON.—The National Zoological park recently acquired an alopec lagopus, Arctic fox, that is, which has the secret of how to keep warm in winter and cool in summer.

Zoo experts said that the vicious little animals feel no cold until the thermometer plunges to 94 degrees below and are not affected by heat until the temperature hits 104 degrees above.

Man With Twelve Fingers Has Dozen Toes, Too!

GALVESTON, TEXAS.—John G. Lynch, assistant superintendent of the Galveston police department identification bureau, thought he had found something.

He was working on a set of fingerprints when he noticed that it included 12 fingers.

Lynch questioned the "printee," and learned that 12 fingers were nothing unusual—at least in his family.

Does Your Wife Want a New Fur Coat? Just Raise It!

TEMPLE CITY, CALIF.—When his wife remarked that she would like a chinchilla coat, John Zook decided to raise his own.

It takes 24 of the little fellows to get enough pelts for a coat, retailing anywhere from $47,000 to $70,000, so Zook bought a pair for $800 and bided his time.

Today Zook has 24 chinchillas and more are on the way. He estimates that his flock is worth $15,000.

Expeditioner With One Snowshoe, Flees From Elk

MOSCOW, IDAHO.—You can get up a lot of speed on only one snowshoe—especially when you're being charged by a bull elk.

A University of Idaho forestry instructor, Roger Hungerford, testified to that on his return from a snowshoe expedition into the northern part of Wyoming's Yellowstone national park. Hungerford was photographing the elk when the animal charged at him.

Self-Made Hero Admits He Falsified Army Records
CHICAGO.—John A. Keller, Jr., who wanted to be a war hero, pleaded guilty to a charge of falsifying army records.

Keller, a Peotone, Ill., salesman, went to work as a clerk in Washington's huge Pentagon building during the war and came out a self-appointed second lieutenant.

He worked in the officers' records branch, and wrote his own record, complete with parachute raids behind enemy lines in Europe.

He awarded himself numerous medals and citations, including the Bronze Star, the Combat Infantry Badge and the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster.

At his hearing Federal Judge William J. Campbell asked him why he did it.

"I don't know," Keller replied. "It was a foolish thing to do."

His atrophied right arm kept him out of the army, he said.

Keller's wife, a pretty blonde with an honorable discharge from the Waves, wept. She said her husband had lost his job as a salesman because of the episode.

Juror Sits in Wrong Case; Causes Mistrial
GREENVILLE, ALA.—An attorney began his closing argument in a manslaughter case but after a few dramatic sentences a juror with a puzzled look stood up.

"Judge, I'm sorry but I don't remember anything about this case," he said.

The roll was called—sure enough, he hadn't sat in on the case.

Circuit Judge A. E. Gamble explained: The evidence was completed and the jury released for the night. One juror had an automobile accident and couldn't return.

The bewildered man, who was on the jury list but not serving on this case, walked in and took a seat in the wrong jury box.

Judge Gamble declared a mistrial.

Inventor Designs Mouse Trap Which Tosses Mice in Air
KANSAS CITY, MO.—Want an air conditioned straw hat equipped with an electric fan?

Or a mouse trap that doesn't kill but flips its victim out of the house? The inventor is J. W. Haynes, 60-year-old grain broker. His gadgets were on display at a hobby club show—and they attracted the most spectators. Here are some:

A soup bowl that tilts automatically as the contents begin to lower, making it easier, Haynes says, to get the last few spoonfuls.

The air conditioned straw hat has vents that allow for removal of warm air and intake of cool air.

The mouse trap has a miniature catapult. When the trap grabs its victim the catapult is automatically released and the mouse goes flying into the window.

"What will prevent the mouse from coming back?" Haynes was asked.

"No self-respecting mouse is going to keep on coming back into a house from which it has been pitched out three or four times," Haynes responded.

Continental Divide Offers Lonely Haven for Watchman
SILVERTON, COLO.—If you want to get away from it all, you might try a job along the backbone of the continental divide. Of course, things aren't what they used to be.

Oldtime watchmen who sat out the winter at snowbound mines and construction camps didn't see another human in four to six months.

Frank Sandra, who can remember those days, manages to get into town about every two weeks now. All he has to do is snowshoe two miles to the nearest highway, then hitch a ride with a passing motorist 13 miles to Silverton.

From May through September, the skyline camp employing Sandra is a beehive of activity, trying to do a year's work before the snows come again. The rest of the year, Sandra has it all to himself with a choice of accommodations in 12 cabins.

Same Game, Other Rules
Foreign diplomats were amazed at the stony hostility with which the President was greeted when he made his personal appearance to deliver his message to the special session. These foreigners cannot understand the American way of playing politics. In any other country failure of the Truman program before congress would have meant the fall of the government. But despite political mud-slinging, there is no politics in the danger of war.

Railroad Case
The anti-trust division of the department of justice says railroads overcharged the government about two billion dollars in freight charges during the war. But the railroads maintain total government payments to railroads during the war amounted to $5,800,000,000 and, of this, about $3,800,000,000 went back to the government in taxes. So if the overcharge suit is successful, the railroads say they won't have a penny left for their fine job.

SLAP-STICK

Hard to Satisfy

A SHABBILY dressed man asked the circus manager for a job. "What can you do?" asked the manager. "I can dive head first from a 150-foot ladder onto a block of concrete," said the man. "That I want to see," said the manager. He had a 150-foot tower built and a block of concrete placed in front of it. The man mounted the tower, soared off and lit head first on the concrete. He got up, shook his head. The excited circus manager rushed up. "You're hired," he shouted. "I'll pay you $300 a week." The man shook his head. "Why don't you want the job?" asked the circus manager. "Well," replied the man, "that was the first time I have ever tried it, and I don't like it."

ONE-TRACK MIND

Blonde: "How do you like your new boss?"
Brunette: "Oh, he's okay but a little narrow-minded."
Blonde: "What makes you think so?"
Brunette: "He thinks words can only be spelled one way."

AXING FOR TROUBLE

"Look heah, Rastus, you all know what you're doin'?" You goin' away for de week-end and there ain't a stick of wood cut for de house."
"Well, what you all whinin' about, womin? I ain't takin' de axe am I?"

Thanks, Your Honor!

The judge had just awarded a divorce to a wife who had charged non-support.
"And," he said to the husband, "I have decided to give your wife $50 a month for support."
"That's fine, judge," the man replied, "and once in a while I'll try to slip her a few bucks myself."

Bonehead

Son: "I want to be a bone special-ist."
Father: "Well, you've got the head for it."

LONG WAIT

A subway was being dug. A drunk stopped beside the excavation and called down to the man at the bottom of the pit. "Shay, watch a doin' down there?"
"Building a subway."
"How long's it gonna take to build it?"
"Three years."
"To heck with it. I'll take a taxi."

Heredity

Zoology co-ed: "Is bow-leggedness inherited?"
Professor: "Definitely not."
Co-ed: "Good."
Another student: "Are you bow-legged?"
"No, my boy friend is."

Foot Disease

Sophomore: "Ever bothered with athlete's foot?"
Junior: "Only once—when the captain of the football team caught me with his girl."

Scientific Search

Two scientists stopped for the night at a cheap tourist court. The host told his guests: "I hope you'll be very comfortable sleeping on our fine feather bed."
During the night one scientist awoke to find the other industriously peering at the mattress thru a magnifying glass. "What are you doing?" he asked.
"Hunting for the fine feather," replied the other still keeping his eye to the magnifying glass.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Mineral oil makes a good lubricant for egg beaters and will not ruin food if it drops into it.
Cut up an old turkish towel and bind it with tape to make a drain-board mat to protect your dishes.
Rub your breadbox gently with emery cloth if it gets rusty. Use a coat of lard to keep it clean.
Baking soda will clean the glass door on the oven when it starts to get black.
Onions are probably the most dangerous vegetable to slice thin because they have a way of slipping out of the knife's way and leaving your fingers there to take the rap. Avoid this by setting the onion on a flat metal grater while you slice it. The grater won't allow the onion to slip out from under at the crucial moment.
With chromium-plated copper pans, there's no need to beware of bare spots. You will have to keep after them diligently with steel wool and scouring powder every time the vessel is used, though, because the bare spots will stain easily.

Scientific tests have shown that four times a year is an adequate number of times to turn an inner-spring mattress.
When the corner edges of a linoleum floor covering comes loose, cement it down and keep a heavy weight on it for 15 or 20 hours.
Dropping a few dried prunes into the jar in which you keep brown sugar is a good idea. The prunes keep the sugar from turning hard.
Try making dish towels out of worn-out bedsheets. Run an embroidered hem around the edges of the pieces of sheet.

Petting Party
Bob—You know that poor family with eight children down the road? I bought them a dachshund as a gift.
Roy—Why a dachshund?
Bob—So they can all pet him at once.

Eye Trouble
Mother—Don't drink out of your saucer, Tommy. Use your cup.
Tommy—I can't. The spoon sticks in my eye.
Green Old Age
"Did your grandfather live to a green old age?"
"I should say so! He was swindled three times after he was 70."

Subtle Difference
Bill—Is your cousin looking for work?
Jill—No, not at all. He only wants a job.

POTATO FIELD DAY SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT ROCKFIELD

The Earl Schuster farm located at the intersection of Highways 55 and 167 will be the gathering place Sunday afternoon, Aug. 22, of potato growers from Washington and neighboring counties. The chief topic of discussion will be potatoes and the group will inspect the county potato variety test plot planted on the Schuster farm.

A speaking program is scheduled to begin at 2:00 o'clock, according to E. E. Skallskey, Washington county agricultural agent. Speakers will include J. G. Milward and R. E. Vaughan, both of the College of Agriculture. Several commercial growers from the Antigo area will speak briefly on the potato crop in northern Wisconsin.

Planted in the plot this year are the popular southern Wisconsin grown varieties, such as the Russet Rural, Chippewa, Katahdin, Pontiac, Fowano and Russet Sebago. Among the early varieties may be mentioned the Cobb, Pr and the Red Warma. All are from certified northern grown seed stock. Anyone interested in better potato

Czech Refugee Confirms Crack in Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON.—Is the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics cracking? That's an idea which is being toyed with by some wishful thinkers in Washington while others consider it one of the most dangerous playthings that ever got into the hands of unwary diplomats.

In any case, the theory is worth examining. It appears to have been encouraged by some members of the little group of highly intelligent but also highly prejudiced people who form a constantly growing segment of Washington society—the political refugees from the countries on the Soviet borders.

Recently, I learned one of these facts which may surprise you. Of course, you recall that Soviet diplomacy always has explained what we call its aggression as simply a desire to surround itself with what it describes as "friendly" countries.

BAUKHAGE. However, most of us have been led to assume that at least the governments and the controlling Communist minorities which support them have been able to produce a degree of mutual affection which satisfies the Kremlin.

What about the frontiers between these countries and Russia? The answer came from an anti-Communist, recently arrived from Czechoslovakia—one of the many persons who are seeping out of that and other satellite countries every day.

"The border between my country and Russia was open, in the sense that travel was permitted under the same conditions that obtain between normally friendly nations.

"I have heard the Russian frontiers of other satellite nations similarly described.

My informant also outlined other significant conditions in Czechoslovakia, first reminding us of three important facts:

- 1. Czechoslovakia is the most industrialized of all the satellites.
2. It is also the most democratic in the realistic sense we view democracy.
3. The Czechs had a very high standard of living compared to the other satellites.

These factors, taken together, made the Czechs particularly vulnerable to a Communist coup. When it came, because of their democratic training and high standard of living, the Czechs were particularly unhappy as an aftermath of Communist methods and Russian domination.

Greater Problems Are in Prospect. Czechoslovakia is not yet thoroughly communized. There is still a certain amount of open criticism. There have been no wholesale purges.

Before the coup that ended in the death of Masaryk took place, it was estimated that perhaps 20 per cent of the people had been indoctrinated with communism. Another 10 per cent were sympathetic, chiefly from a theoretical point of view.

He also confirmed the recent statements about the army—though he gave no figures—made by Gen. Antonin Hasal who escaped to the American zone of Germany in the middle of July. Hasal said that 70 per cent of the enlisted men and non-commissioned officers in the Czech army was anti-Communist.

Disillusioned left-wingers are learning you can hear a lot of unpleasant remarks if you listen in on the party line.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS
Moscow Talks Provide Peace Hope; Congress Eyes Inflation, Housing; Red Spy Scare Startles Country

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

MOSCOW: Conference. Practically all that anyone knew during the initial stages of the Moscow conference between Josef Stalin and the ambassadors of three western nations was that there was a conference.

The opacity of a thick censorship barrier overlaid any details of what was happening. Nevertheless, the impression was that the talks fattered by the desperation inherent in the Berlin crisis, might be the first step in easing off the strain between Russia and the western powers.

Some information that slipped through the secrecy wall indicated that both sides might be willing to make some concessions in order to further negotiations between Russia and the U. S., Great Britain and France.

The talks with Stalin and Molotov were reported to have produced at least one new suggestion—that prior to another Big Four conference there should be a meeting of the U. S., Russian, British and French deputy foreign ministers.

Such a conference would, theoretically, be accompanied by a gradual relaxation of the restrictions which the Soviets have clamped on the western areas of Berlin and which brought the East-West relations to their present boiling point.

At the worst, such a discussion at least would tend to act as a brake against a drift to war and provide a breathing space for talks with Moscow on more basic controversies.

There was, however, still another interpretation of the discussions between Stalin and the three western ambassadors: Russia, having carried its Berlin blockade virtually to the ultimate point short of war, might be thinking that it had brought the western powers to a position where they would have to accede to Soviet demands if they wished to avoid conflict.

CONGRESS: Unwilling. Probably the only accomplishment of the special session of congress called by President Truman was to provide both parties with a bigger and better supply of political ammunition for the election campaign.

Democrats were able to say that the GOP congress simply sat back on its haunches and did nothing about the pressing problems of inflation, housing and other national issues.

Republicans could counter with the assertion that, within the bounds of their political beliefs and judgment of what is best for the nation, they did all they could under the circumstances. To that they probably would add the stock argument that the whole thing is the fault of the 16-year Democratic regime and that the ultimate solution must lie in the election of a Republican administration this November.

One result of the special session that might be classed as favorable was that it served to sharpen the rough edges of the wide cleavage between the two parties over domestic problems and give the voters a more clear-cut, definitive idea of what they will be deciding on November 2.

Despite President Truman's laborious diatribes against congress and his repeated warnings that controls alone will curb the now dangerous inflation, in the final analysis it remained foolish to believe that the GOP congress ever would take the action he recommended.

Republican congressmen agreed only to string along with legislation serving to reimpose consumer credit controls, with some limitation on bank credits, and to speed action on a watered-down housing bill, although they excepted case credit terms for home builders.

The anti-poll tax measure, blocked for a week by a droning filibuster by southern Democrats, finally withered and blew away in dust.

TAXATION: 125 Billion. By the end of this year individual taxpayers of the U. S. will have paid nearly 125 billion dollars in direct personal taxes, according to a survey entitled "Domestic Consumer Markets" prepared by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Last year, the report says, Americans paid more in personal taxes than they spent for new homes, cars, furniture and medical care.

RELIGION
World Council
To justify the ways of God to man" was John Milton's expressed purpose for writing his monolithic epic poem of the Reformation, "Paradise Lost."

Academically Milton succeeded in providing that justification for his own and an unknowable number of future generations of Christians. But since the 16th century days of Milton human society has turned an increasingly cold cheek to the spiritual values preached by every great Christian since Paul.

Particularly since the outset of the 20th century man's attention has been claimed more and more by the dramatic power of materialism which has been brought into full play as a result of this technological economy with its assembly lines, power politics and repetitive wars.

Thus, the problem now is not so much how to justify God's ways to man as it is how to justify man's society in the eyes of God. And if, as many churchmen believe, no such justification is possible, then how to work a reasonable and beneficial change in the society which men have wrought.

It is that problem which the World Council of Churches, composed of 148 Protestant and Orthodox churches from 40 nations, will endeavor to meet squarely at its first world assembly in Amsterdam August 22 to September 4.

Four hundred and fifty church leaders—laymen and clergymen alike—are determined, among other things, "to assess the strengths and weaknesses of present-day Christendom" and "to define a basis of common principle upon which Christians can cooperate for world order."

Under the conference theme, "Man's Disorder and God's Design," the delegates will attack such questions as: How to infuse more spirituality into our mechanized society without advocating the destruction of all mechanization? What action can the church take among its members to aid in establishment of world order and what is the church's answer to the amoral power politics of the present day?

If these are tough questions, the World Council of Churches is likely to prove itself spiritually tough and realistic enough to go a long way toward providing some of the answers.

Whittaker Chambers, a senior editor of Time magazine and an admitted former member of the Communist party, got a load off his chest when he told the house un-American activities committee the names of a few more higher echelon government officials who had participated in the notorious Washington spy ring of a decade ago.

ESPIONAGE: Dragon Seed. The dragon seeds of international espionage sown during the war suddenly had begun to bloom with a vengeance and the nation's capital seemed to be overgrown with spies and rumors of spies.

First stone was cast by Miss Elizabeth Bentley, self-confessed courier for Soviet agents, who revealed that much of her information had come from sources in official government positions.

She showed no hesitancy in naming names, among which were those of Nathan G. Silvermaster, board of economic warfare and war assets administration official; William W. Remington, former commerce department official; and Alger Hiss, former state department official active in the establishment of the United Nations.

There was no visible proof that any of the persons she implicated ever had furnished information to the Soviet espionage ring, although some had Communist backgrounds. As a matter of fact, the FBI reported that it had spent more than three million dollars in an investigation of the same matter months prior to the current excitement. The G-men finally gave it up because of lack of documentary proof.

But congressional investigations were under way in both the senate and house. Testimony included the usual flamboyant accusations and denials, but failed to produce any concrete evidence.

Rep. Karl Mundt (Rep., S. D.), chairman of the house un-American activities committee, added to the national impact of the affair by asserting that there is "good reason to believe a Communist spy ring is operating in Washington right now."

His committee was investigating, he said, although the public hearings so far had dealt only with the testimony that a Red espionage system was at work in the U. S. during the war.

COTTON: Mechanized. Last of the great American farm commodities to remain essentially a man-mule crop, cotton finally is becoming mechanized, thus eliminating the necessity of maintaining vast armies of laborers to meet the two peak labor periods of the crop cycle.

Mechanization is one of the major steps in the effort of cotton people from Virginia to California to achieve lower production costs. To the 12½ million people in 18 states who derive all or a substantial part of their income from cotton it is of paramount importance that they keep their crop competitive cost-wise.

The answer lies, to a great extent, in mechanization. Thinning and weeding equipment and harvesting machines are revamping the farm picture in the South.

The mechanical cotton picker is capable of performing the work of 40 to 50 human pickers, varying with weather conditions, land surface, and other factors.

Typical result of mechanization was the experience of a Mississippi farmer who used a flame cultivator to control weeds at a cost of 50 cents an acre at the same time human choppers were costing $5.

Of course, complete mechanization of cotton will not materialize overnight. National Cotton council, representing the entire industry, reports that in 1947 less than 3 per cent of the crop could be classed as entirely mechanized. A considerable portion of the remaining crop, however, was in various stages of mechanization.

Heave Ho

Despite the impression you might have received from reading newspaper accounts of the Olympics, American athletes were not the only ones who took part in the games.

Optimism. Although the July 18 truce in Palestine put at least a temporary end to the military bloodshed between Jews and Arabs, the struggle for rights and power continues behind the diplomatic scenes in the Near East.

However, there is some reason to believe now that many of the troubles in the troubled spot may be smoothed out when Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator, proposes his next peace plan in September.

One of the reasons for such optimism is the attitude of King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, most powerful of the Arab league states.

Abdullah has asked for full and careful consideration of any future proposal for permanent peace in Palestine.

And, he said, his "Arab nation does not exclude any possible compromise that secures justice and prevents unnecessary bloodshed."

"We would like that the efforts of Count Bernadotte in the refugee problem be successful, and afterwards that any new proposals which he will make should not be rejected outright, but be fully discussed before they are put in final form."

That Old Oil. Oil is being consumed in the U. S. today at a rate exceeding the total world consumption of only 10 years ago, according to an article in a recent issue of "Business Comment," bulletin of the Northern Trust company in Chicago.

Demand for all oils in the first quarter of 1948 averaged 6.3 million barrels daily, an increase of 7 per cent over the corresponding period of 1947.

QUESTION: Please tell me how to remove old paint from "white lined oak" finish on a dining set.

ANSWER: Soften the old paint with paint remover, then take it off with a hand scraper and steel wool. Carefully avoid scratching or gouging the wood.

QUESTION: What can I do in the way of refinishing a brass bed?

ANSWER: If you wish to paint the bed, go all over the metal with sandpaper to roughen it slightly, wipe it with turpentine and then apply one or two coats of enamel undercoat. Finish with a coat of enamel.

QUESTION: We have to put a new floor down in our basement. Which is better, plank or concrete?

ANSWER: Do not use boards because they will rot in time. Have a good waterproof, concrete floor laid by a mason contractor.

LIFE WITH JEAN

By HELEN LANGWORTHY

DORIS WALTERS ran a clean, white sheet of paper into her typewriter. Very determinedly she began, "Susy Cow was out in the meadow eating the green grass when—"

"That was it 'when'—what? In her mind's eye she tried to total all the stories she had written about Susy Cow, Timothy Piggie and Horatious Horse. The stories would reach to the moon, of that she was sure. But they did keep a roof over the heads of she and her daughter, Jean.

Doris went to the window for inspiration. The same dull yard, the same dull neighborhood of the town of East Branch was there. She wished desperately that she might write something altogether different but according to the publishers the youngest generation had not had their fill of Susy, Timothy and Horatious. They wanted more. Sometime, she reflected, she would burst out and write something but those too-familiar epics, publishers or no.

Doris smiled then, for from the window she saw 17-year-old Jean standing on the corner with Petey. They were talking with intense interest. Doris went to the kitchen and fixed a thick sandwich in readiness for Jean. She reflected that for one so dreamy looking, so ethereal, Jean had no loss of appetite.

She practically marched to the typewriter then, determined that Susy Cow would be doing something before Jean breezed in.

As it happened, an idea hit Doris, an idea so overwhelming that she sat and whistled like Jean. Could she? She would! She was whizzing away at her typewriter when Jean came in.

"Hullo, Mov," Jean called loudly. "I'm starved!"

"There's a sandwich," Doris answered shortly and went on typing. Jean munched the sandwich and asked, "Got an idea for dear, dear Horatious at last?"

"Yes, Brand new," Doris answered absently, clicking away. Jean was in the mood for conversation and also she might have noticed that her mother had a far-away look she had to tell her the school gossip. "Alice had a new dress on; called it a rag, but she was careful to let the label show. Petey liked me in bangs, but Chuck says it puts me in the kiddie car class—Mov, you're not listening!"

"You'd be surprised what a good listener I am," Doris answered, but Jean turned on the radio full blast then and Doris resumed typing.

Days passed. Jean talked this day and Petey, that day of Chuck and forever worried whether she looked kiddie car young or hideously old, even twenty!

"Can't you forget the seven-year-olds and concentrate on the 17-year-old?" she asked plaintively after finding Doris typing for many days.

"This story is—different. Maybe I ought to tell you—," Doris began. But Jean clapped her hands over her ears and ran from the room. "Spare me the details. I've positively heard my last Horatious yarn." She grinned wickedly. "Just let me help with the check."

There was a reward for Doris' tired fingers the day the publishers wired her that the synopsis had been altogether satisfactory and to rush the completed manuscript. They sent an advance that left Doris dizzy.

"I'm made, Jean," she crowed. "It's easy street for us from now on."

Jean picked up the check, unbelievably. "Did Timothy and Horatious do this? Oh, I love 'em to pieces. What will we buy first, Mov?"

That evening there was no typing for Doris and Jean mentally spent thousands, maybe millions. "We ought to move to New York," Doris told Jean. "I'm sick of this town. An apartment—with someone else to shovel snow all winter and weed all summer!"

"It will be just too-too wonderful," Jean relaxed in dreams of her future. One minute she appeared as still as the Sleeping Beauty.

"Can't you forget the seven-year-olds and concentrate on the 17-year-olds?" she asked plaintively after finding Doris typing.

Beauty, the next she went tearing to the phone. "Gotta tell Petey," she called.

"Wait! Something could go wrong—," Doris cautioned. "But Jean was already saying, 'Guess what? Horatious came thru in a big way!'"

FROM then on things were even more hectic than they usually were around Jean. The crowd dropped in often, thrilling with Jean over the move or mourning that they'd perish if she dared leave.

It seemed to Doris in those frantic weeks that life was a round of typing and cleaning up the kitchen after the raids of Jean's gang. The publishers were getting impatient and already sending a few sample ideas of their promotion plans for the book.

The day it was finished Doris felt vaguely uneasy and went for a long walk. On the path by the river she told herself she wouldn't dare sit down or after all those nights of work she would do a Rip Van Winkle.

Back home Jean came in with her usual, "Mov, I'm starved!" Munching an apple she sat down at her mother's desk and picked up the top page of the new story. She was curious about the excitement her mother had uncorked for the seven-year-old gang.

The title appalled her. It was "Life With Jean." She began reading; she skipped pages. It was all there. Her story. It began with her first date with Petey. They were 12. At a kids' party Jean had thought Petey "hers" but afterwards he had gotten on his bike, waved casually and rode away leaving Jean to walk home alone.

Jean gasped. Skipping a few pages, she read: "—she was washing her face—washing?—practically scrubbing. When asked why, Jean answered calmly, 'Petey kissed me."

It wasn't as much fun as in the books."

A few pages further Jean read of the time she had caught the front of her dress on a porch railing at a dance and had torn a strip completely off without noticing. On the dance floor she became aware that two inches of her slip showed. But several dances later three other girls had "suffered" similar accidents. Next day 10 girls tried the new style.

Jean sniffled and flipped more pages. There was the account of the time the new life guard began duty. He was wonderfully handsome and Jean had an inspiration to require a rescue. He had patrolled all 15 years of her and then shown her the picture of his wife and small boy. Even Jean's wail, "Why are such good looks wasted on married men?" was there.

She read of the time Chuck had come to East Branch. His convertible had won Jean over at first. Petey and Chuck eventually settled it "man to man." Jean thrilled hearing of Petey's bloody nose and Chuck's dislocated jaw. "I'm infamous, I'm notorious. I've been fought for," she had crowed.

Jean was crying stormily as her mother came in. "How could you?" she demanded.

"Doris' heart sank. "But, honey, it was so cute. After all, New York, new clothes—," she coaxed.

"I'd perish if Petey read this drivel," Jean told her coldly. "Horsefeathers!" Doris straightened the jumbled pages. "Think what it means. If East Branch smiles a little now, it will be forgotten a year from now."

"I'm not living in a year from now!" Jean cried furiously. "It's now!" She blew her nose loudly. She tugged at her mother's arm. "Say you'll cancel it, Mov. I'd run away, honest." Her voice trembled. "Petey means more to me than old New York."

Doris gave her daughter a very searching look. She took a quivering breath and managed a faint, "You win."

Jean danced, she turned on the radio. "Come on, Mov, let's put the old thing in the furnace." She was all smiles now.

Doris had sat down weakly at her desk. But her voice was stilled. "No! Label it yourself, 'Open in 1968.'"

"I'll be frightfully old then," Jean complained. "I'll be aged. 37!"

"But it will make such beautiful reading for your own 'teensters,'" Doris commented acidly. She ran a clean sheet of white paper into her typewriter and began, "Susy Cow was out in the meadow—"

As PEGLER Sees It

IF FELIX FRANKFURTER had taken only the part that a supreme court justice normally takes in the social and intellectual life of Washington, there would be no interest in his influence on the character and the political direction of the American government, at home and abroad. NO WRITTEN REQUIREMENT FORBIDS A JUSTICE TO DO ANY OF THE THINGS FRANKFURTER DID.

He had a right to plant his proteges, friends, stooges or political and ideological agents wherever he could. He had a legal right to plant them in the war department where he finally did put his old friend, Henry L. Stimson, as secretary at the age of 73, first jostling Harold Ickes and Frank Murphy out of the way.

He had a legal right to recommend anyone to the placement of his mind and for his purposes, valuable servants of the government in the state department and in the agencies which absolutely rule the radio industry under a policy saturated with communism.

He had this right, but such interference certainly was unusual and unbecoming. And, by the standards of many Americans, it was unethical.

FRANKFURTER WAS A JUDGE UP TO HIS EYES IN POLITICS. HE WAS PUSHING, SHOVING, ELBOWING INTO BUSINESS THAT WAS NO PROPER AFFAIR OF ANY MAN SITTING ON THE SUPREME COURT. Foreign relations were none of his business. War strategy was none of his business. He was an intimate social friend and ideological comrade of Roosevelt and an avowed partisan of much of Roosevelt's violent philosophy of government.

The sly, insolent power of Frankfurter, in directing the destinies of many of the United States never has been spotted by a better authority than Ickes, whose expose of this tip-toeing undercover agent nevertheless has gone almost unnoticed. Ickes pulled the whiskers off Frankfurter—his friend, by the way—in an installment of his commercial memoirs in the Saturday Evening Post.

In this piece Ickes writes that Frankfurter elbowed him out of the office of secretary of war, which Roosevelt was in a mood to trust to him.

The enormity of this is that Frankfurter, a justice of the supreme court, was scurrying around lobbying and running the government.

A man who served with Frankfurter in one of the bureaus in Washington in World War I told me not long ago that Frankfurter once said to him and some associates that he envisioned a situation in which a small group of influential men, by audacity and initiative, could become the rulers of the United States by ruling the president.

Certainly in World War II and for some time before this nation formally entered the war, Frankfurter did wield power over Roosevelt and the more important departments. HIS INFLUENCE WAS EXERCISED BY SUBTLETY. HE HAD HIS MEN PLANTED ALL OVER THE PLACE.

Ickes tells us that on November 21, 1939, Tom Coran, also known as Tommy, the Cork, the prize wienie of the entire litter of happy hot dogs, came to him telling of a conversation he had had with Roosevelt. He said that he had said to Roosevelt, "Now that Frank Murphy is going to the supreme court, how about the war department?"

Ickes doesn't say so, but I say that Frankfurter shoved Murphy aside just when Murphy thought Roosevelt was going to make him secretary of war. This was Murphy's great ambition. But Frankfurter recognized in him a stubborn, brooding Irishman who particularly hated the English for their persecutions of the Irish and here he would send them American help if they got into war with Hitler or anyone else. Frankfurter wanted a man who would go out after Hitler.

He apprehended that he wouldn't be able to get along with Murphy and handle him and events have borne him out. Murphy now hates his very stripes for doing him out of that job. THE FEELING IS MUTUAL AND, ALTOGETHER, AN INFUENTIAL FACTOR IN THE HYSTERIA WHICH PASSES FOR LAW THESE DAYS.

Ickes tells us that after a lot of filling in and political trimmings Roosevelt actually went so far as to tell him he would make him secretary of war if he could find a good man to replace him as secretary of the interior.

Stimson's war policy of fighting Germany as the first enemy was Frankfurter's policy, too. So in every way that it may be considered, the appointment of Stimson was a victory for Frankfurter.

WHAT WAS A JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT DOING IN SUCH POLITICS? IS THAT PROPER BUSINESS FOR A MAN WHO IS SUPPOSED TO BE NON-POLITICAL?

Is that the place to go to for decisions whether to let the Russians have the Balkans and, finally, Berlin?

WITH "JUVENILE JURY" returning to its regular Sunday afternoon stint on Mutual, emcee Jack Barry is gearing himself for the psychological switch from its summer replacement, "Life Begins at Eighty," to the youngsters' amusing performance. Their newest member, 4-year-old Johnny McBride, charmed audiences last season by his obliviousness to the fact that he was on the air. If he felt like sleeping, he closed his eyes. He spoke up only when he had something to say. At one point he startled Barry by redirecting a question to him. He is probably the most uninhibited young man on the air.

Jeff Donnell was having a fine vacation in Maine, after playing a leading role in a summer stock theater, when she was summoned back to Hollywood to appear in RKO's "Interference" opposite Victor Mature. Jeff, cast as the wife of a gridiron hero, will be in good company—Lucille Ball, Elizabeth Scott, Sonny Tufts and Lloyd Nolan work with her.

Back in the 1920's, Walter Catlett played an important role in "Sally" during its 4-year run on the New York stage. Marilyn Miller starred. Now, Catlett has been signed for the musical based on her life.

A new version of "The Better Half" will return to the Mutual network August 15, with several new comedy routines added. "Tiny" Ruffner will be master of ceremonies and "The Three Jesters" will provide a musical background.

Brian Foy goes in for good casting rather than big names in his pictures, which is one reason Scott Brady got a wonderful break in "Cannon City." Hal Wallis spotted Scott soon after he arrived in Hollywood, told him he could make good in pictures and to do something about it. Scott spent ten months working hard in a little theater company learning to act. Good looking, fine company, very modest about his own achievements, he needs only a few more good roles to land at the top in Hollywood.

Producer Edward Small has arranged to film "Lorna Doone" in England so that he can take advantage of the huge castles in Exmore, the locale of the classic novel laid in 17th century England. He will do it in technicolor.

Ingrid Bergman has always wanted to see the places where Joan of Arc lived, fought and died, so now that she is in Europe making a film she is taking advantage of all free time to visit those historic scenes.

Jean Heather was a sophomore at the University of Washington when a Paramount talent scout saw her. The result was a part in "Going My Way" and a long-term contract. She worked up to top roles, then decided to go back to college. She's back in Hollywood now with a degree. Eagle-Lion promptly came up with a leading role for her in "Red Stallion in the Rockies."

Jack Berch, who sings for millions of NBC listeners each weekday morning, has taken another step in his drive to promote the Golden Rule. He has formed a "Good Neighbor Club." Admission is gained by submitting a clipping from a local newspaper in which a good deed or act of kindness is described. Jack reads the most unusual ones on the air.

ODDS AND ENDS—Billie Burke will have one of her usual featherbrained roles in Metro's technicolor musical, "The Barkleys of Broadway." . . . Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire head the cast. . . . Lucius Tuttle has established herself in films as "Elle Ferrine," secretary of "Sam Spade," that she had to be written out of the script while on vacation. . . . William Snyder, "Truth or Consequences" contestant who is out to put Hollywood on the map in ten weeks by getting 1,000,000 people to sign his petition, has been collecting signatures at the rate of from 3,000 to 10,000 a day since June 9.

Hollace Shaw says "I just want to be glamorous in a nice, comfortable way." "Saturday Night Serenade" gives her a perfect opportunity. She spends the summer at her home on Long Island, emerging only once a week for the show.

"The Fountainhead" went before the cameras on location in a granite quarry near Fresno, Calif., recently. With Gary Cooper and Patricia Neal heading a troupe of 60 and King Vidor directing, this sounds like a promising movie.

HOW IT STARTED

"WHERE THE SHOE PINCHES" — Plutarch tells the story of the ancient Roman being divorced from his wife. His friends were very angry with him and asked: "Isn't she beautiful? Isn't she virtuous?" The Roman took off his shoe and held it up for his friends to see, asking, "Isn't this new? Isn't it well made and handsome?" They all agreed that it was. "But," said the husband, "none of you can tell where the shoe pinches me."

"NOT WORTH A RAP" — A rap was a counterfeit Irish coin in the time of George I of England.

Things Are Rough in Peru While the U. S. price index rose 8.9 per cent last year, living costs in Peru soared as high as the Andes—increasing 46.1 per cent. Between August, 1939, and December, 1947, living costs rose 69 per cent in the U. S. compared to 207 per cent in Peru, according to the Municipal Finance officers association. Among 11 nations for which comparable statistics are available, Canadian living costs have increased the least since before the war. Though the Canadian price index rose 14.9 per cent in 1947, it is only 45 per cent above the 1939 level of that country.

TALL WHITE TAPERS

TRUTH and beauty glow from this old Book Like tall white tapers set to light the way: O'hears distressed and burdened, if we look There is a light for every darkened day Here in the living truth, before our eyes, To cheer and comfort, and to make us wise.

These are the words of others who have known Great tribulation, whose bright faith was lit Out in the dark, and there with God alone They found His love—the power and strength of it; They found His everlasting arms and laid Their burdens in them, and were unafraid!

So we should come, in this bewilderment, To take the hand that, somehow, we have lost, Like children groping through the dark, and spent With things for which we paid too high a cost. Conning the old Book over, there we find The light to which we long have been too blind.

Exhibit on Atomic Energy Explains Basic Principles

Atomic energy is coming out of the "top secret" drawer for a public appearance. An exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, described as the first of its kind in the country, is designed to kind the public a basic understanding of the principles and behavior of nuclear changes and energy.

For the first time since the world realized there was more to nuclear physics than a theory expressed in a mathematical equation, the public has a chance to see what makes a Geiger counter click. Visitor-operated devices are integral parts of each display. They are intended not only to make the display more interesting but also to afford a short-cut to knowledge.

Modern gadgetry is employed to demonstrate the earth's most ancient, and now most treasured, element of uranium. A block of pure metallic uranium, slightly larger than a building brick and weighing 54 pounds, is on display. As old as the earth itself, half of this uranium still has a life expectancy remaining of more than four and a half million years; one quarter of it nine billion years, approximately that of the sun itself.

Although this block contains less than half a pound of the fissionable U-235, if converted into heat, the energy would be equivalent to a million pounds of coal, solving the average person's home heating problem for a period of 40 or 50 years.

CHAIN GANG

Every season there's a new jewelry fad that sweeps through the high school halls like an Art Lund recording. A few years ago it was a long, tummy length pearls; last year it was chatelaines. This year it will be 60-inch gold metal chains and here's how you're going to wear them.

FESTOONED FOR FESTIVITIES

With your crepe date dress, wind your chain 'round and 'round and achieve a more elaborate festoon effect by pinning the chains up in the center with your favorite brooch. We hope you have one that looks like an antique medal.

WAISTLINE WHIMSEYS

Double your chain and fasten it around your waist with a pin, for a belt that will dress-up your sack dress. Or attach it to your skirt waistband like a watch chain.

And, don't forget that these 60-inch chains are a brand new twist for your wrists, too.
