

Miss Ramthun Bride of Lloyd Petermann

Bouquets of mums decorated the altar of the Peace Ev. and Reformed church for the wedding of Miss La Verne Ramthun, daughter of Mrs. Otto Ramthun Sr., R. 1, Kewaskum, and Lloyd Petermann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Petermann, R. 2, Campbellport, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23. The 2:30 o'clock nuptial ceremony was read by the Rev. Wm. G. Schwemmer. During the service Clifford M. Rose rendered a vocal solo, "Because."

For her marriage the bride chose a princess style gown of white satin buttoned down the back to the waist and fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, lace trim on the shoulders, lace panels in the front and back of the skirt and on the long train. Her long veil was trimmed with matching lace and fell from a crown of seed pearls. The bride wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and carried white roses tied with a white satin ribbon.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Delbert Petermann, sister-in-law of the groom. Mrs. Otto Ramthun Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Violet Ramthun, sister of the bride, were the bridesmaids. Karen Kay Petermann, niece of the groom, and Judy Ann Ramthun, niece of the bride, were the little flower girls.

The matron of honor wore a gown of gold satin with a sheer off the shoulder neckline edged with ruffles, basque waist and full skirt with which she wore matching mitts and a gold sweetheart net bonnet. She carried an arm bouquet of bronze baby mums with a blue satin ribbon. The bridesmaids' gowns were identical to that of the matron of honor, in blue satin, with matching mitts and sweetheart bonnets. Their arm bouquets consisted of bronze mums with gold satin ribbons. All attendants wore earrings which were gifts of the bride.

The flower girls wore frocks of white satin buttoned down the back and styled with basque waists, full skirts and lace trimmed yokes. They wore white net sweetheart bonnets and lockets, which were gifts of the bride. They carried baby mums tied with white satin ribbons.

Plan Greatest March of Dimes Drive in History

At a regional meeting in Chicago recently, representatives of the March of Dimes campaign from four states heard plans outlined to hold the greatest March of Dimes campaign this winter in the history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

It was pointed out that there has been a severe drain on the foundation's treasury because of the high incidence of polio throughout the nation this year. It was reported polio cases for 1948 are already over the 15,000 mark and, with the rise continuing in many states, there is fear that the year's total may exceed 28,000. The result of this, it was shown, is that many county chapters of the national foundation have drained their treasuries of their funds and there have been increasingly repeated calls upon the foundation from these chapters for financial aid in combating the disease. The result is, the warning issued, that the foundation's treasury is beginning to run low.

The Washington county chapter, it was learned this week, through the state polio committee, has had to call upon the national foundation for funds to meet expenses incurred because of polio cases in the county.

Chapter Chairman Anton P. Statal, Barton, and Treas. Walter J. Gumm, West Bend, disclosed this week the chapter received a check of $3,000 from the national foundation Tuesday, Oct. 19, which was the second received this year, according to Gumm, another one for $3,500 having been received June 25.

The latest sum of $5,000 is about all that the chapter has in its treasury, Gumm revealed, pointing to the costliness of polio and the need for increasingly larger sums to fight it.

Going back over his records, Gumm disclosed the chapter spent $30,822.98 for the care of patients and $4,582.23 for equipment for hospitals and clinics during the period of June 1, 1946, to May 31, 1947, and $18,956.72 for the care of patients from June 1, 1947, to May 31, 1948, a grand total expenditure of $55,361.93.

In the same period of 1946-47, Gumm revealed, the chapter received $29,000 from the national foundation. In addition, it received $11,500 from the foundation from June 1, 1947, to May 31, 1948, and $6,500 since that date, a total of $47,000.

Meanwhile, Gumm pointed out, the chapter in 1946-47 collected $2,786.21 as its 50 per cent share of the March of Dimes and $3,496.44 in 1947-48, a grand total of only $6,282.65. This elicited the following comment from Statal: "Instead of tapering off substantially with the advent of fall, polio is still raging in many states and there are cases of it still appearing in this state, and urgent calls for outside aid from the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis are continuing every day."

"The national foundation has come to the assistance of the Washington county chapter handsomely. If the national foundation did not grant us the loans for which we have had to ask, we would have been unable to help care for the county's polio patients as we have in the past."

Statal indicated that B. D. Rice, West Bend, March of Dimes campaign chairman, will soon begin to recruit workers for what will be the biggest and most thorough March of Dimes drive ever conducted in Washington county and he re-emphasized the need for more funds to fight the crippling disease. He concluded: "This is a black year for polio, but we are impressed with what the March of Dimes money has done and is doing to fight the crippling disease. So far as is known, not one case of polio has failed to receive the utmost medical care even in states so desperately hit by the disease."

KEWASKUM HIGHLIGHTS

HOMECOMING

After all the homecoming activities, the team did their part in defeating Brandon, 76-36. From a bystander's viewpoint, this highest scoring game of conference history, was very uninteresting to watch. Kewaskum held control over the game from the first play, when Koepke went around the end for a 65 yard touchdown, to the end of the game. The first string players were like giants playing against midgets as they made four touchdowns in seven minutes of play. High scorer was Kenny Koth with three touchdowns, next was Kenny Cudnochowski with two, and the following each made one: Vorpahl, Koepke, Ramthun, Dreher, Loomis, Wierman, and Jeske. Justman and Keller each contributed an additional four points. Coach "Doc" Mitchell substituted freely, and most of the action of the game was seen by the reserves. Spirits were high as the season ends Friday, the 29th, with the ever important Lomira game which meant either championship for them or for us.

HOMECOMING FESTIVITIES

The homecoming parade toured the streets Thursday evening at 7:30. The cheerleaders carrying the flag preceded the floats. The sophomore float was judged as the best, and had as its theme, "We'll Brand 'Em." To carry out their theme, they had a live calf in position to be branded with Kewaskum "K." The theme of the freshman float was "We'll Plow 'Em Under." Emphasizing their theme was a boy behind a plow. The juniors and seniors carried through to their floats a centennial theme. On the junior float were a wigwam and an Indian, representing "Heap Big Victory." The seniors showed a century of progress with their Indian of 1848 and a football player as a Kewaskum Indian of 1949. The Latin club's theme was "Sighted for Victory," with a huge pair of glasses supporting their theme. The queen and her royalty, preceded by the band, also participated in the parade. The lower grades showed school spirit by entering floats in the parade, too.

Immediately after the parade, everyone assembled at the tennis court for the pep rally, which began with the lighting of the bonfire by Mr. Schabo. All the plays gave their opinions of the game to be played the next day. The chorus also participated by singing.

At intervals throughout the pep session, the cheerleaders led the group in cheers. Don Schneider, senior class president, presided as master of ceremonies. The evening's festivities were drawn to a close with the snake dance led by Homecoming King Jimmy Wink, and his queen, Diane Schaefer, followed by the royalty and classes in respective order.

Balloting Expected to Be Heavy in Nov. 2 General Election

Presidential Race Causes Interest; Two Referendums Will Be Voted

Advance indications are that a very heavy and possibly record vote may be cast in next Tuesday's general election of presidential, state, and county candidates. Voters will also have an opportunity to ballot on two referendums proposed by the state legislature.

One referendum is a sales tax referendum which reads: "Shall the legislature enact a 3 per cent retail sales tax to raise a total sum not to exceed $200,000,000 to be used to finance a bonus for veterans of World War II?" Much public interest is being shown in this referendum. The proposal is being fought vigorously by taxpayer groups and veterans themselves are opposed to the tax, although they favor a bonus.

The other referendum question to be voted reads: "Shall Sect. 2 of Article XI of the constitution be amended so as to give municipal corporations the right to take private property for public use without the necessity of such taking being first established by a jury?"

Here, as elsewhere, main interest in the election will center upon the outcome of the race for president and vice-president between the candidates on the Republican and Democratic tickets. Interest in the county races has not been too high. Besides the

Unlike the primary ballot, voters can split their ballots in Tuesday's election. The polls in this village will be open from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. The same election officials will work the general election here.

Candidates of the parties listed on the ballot are as follows: Presidential—Democratic: Truman and Barkley; People's Progressive: Wallace and Taylor; Republican: Dewey and Warren; Socialist: Thomas and Smith; Socialist Workers Party: Dohds and Carlson; Socialist Labor Party: Teichert and Emery.

Plan to Bake Once a Week (See Recipes Below)

Simplify Baking
WHILE OUR MOTHERS and grandmothers had more to do than those of us who are homemakers, they somehow managed to find an afternoon a week in which to fill the house with fragrant and delicious odors from the oven with weekly baking.

To me, this was one of the most delightful times in the whole week because then I, too, could get my hands into pie crust or sweet roll dough. It was great sport!
But, naturally, this was not the only blessing that came from weekly baking. We usually had delicious homemade bread as well as rolls or coffee cake for breakfast. To save time, the dinner that evening was usually a baked one, a fragrant meat loaf or taste-tempting casserole with a delicious baked pudding for dessert. Then, too, the cookies jar was filled for the best part of the week, and that meant cookies for the lunch boxes and more delicious tidbits when we came home from school!

Are your families missing these treats? Then organize the household schedule at once so that you can bake once a week, and fill the larder with such delicious things as can only come from home baking.
But how can you make all these things in one day? Here's how: mix cookie dough and store in refrigerator; make ice box dough for sweet rolls, and store this, too. Bread dough can be mixed in the morning; or, if you are making quick breads, these can be mixed in a few minutes right after lunch.

You can plan the baking for any day of the week. We usually do it Friday or Saturday afternoon, so there will be a cake or pie in the house for Sunday, and, of course, bread, rolls and cookies for the whole week.

IT MAY SOUND ambitious to attempt all this in one day, but it really isn't once you get into the swing of it. Do all you can the evening before, and keep on hand such things as piecrust and biscuit mix. Refrigerator cookies, too, take no time at all to bake, and they're easily mixed ahead of time.

Refrigerator Rolls.
(Makes 12-16)
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 yeast cake
1 egg
2 1/4 to 3 cups flour

Scald milk and in it dissolve shortening, sugar and salt. When mixture is warm add yeast cake, crumbled, and the egg. Add flour gradually and mix thoroughly by beating. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Place a piece of waxed paper over the bowl and hold securely with a rubber band. Store in refrigerator until ready to use.

This refrigerator dough may be used for cloverleaf rolls, cinnamon braid, fruit filled rings or pecan rolls.

Interesting Tips Make Your Work Easier
Coal oil or kerosene will remove stains and dirt from enameled bathroom fixtures without scratching the surface or lessening the gloss of the surface.

You can keep your silverware bright and tarnish-proof if you keep the pieces wrapped in a specially treated flannel cloth which is actually impregnated with particles of silver that absorb the tarnishing elements in the air.

Soiled bathroom and kitchen curtains as well as others are more easily washed if you first soak them in cold water to loosen grit and thus eliminate hard scrubbing.

Avoid tears when peeling onions by holding a piece of dry bread between your teeth.

Let neither kitchen nor bathroom towels become too soiled; it will become too difficult to remove the dirt and the hard scrubbing will make them wear less well.

Keep a pastry brush handy (or greasing pans for baking and thus avoid keeping your hands soiled.

Whole Wheat Bread
(Makes 3 loaves)
1 quart hot water
1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons molasses
1 teaspoon caraway seeds, if desired
1 yeast cake
6 cups all-purpose flour
4 cups whole wheat flour

Add shortening to hot water. When lukewarm, add all remaining ingredients. Stir for three minutes, or until thoroughly mixed, then set in a warm place to rise for two hours. Knead again until dough forms a ball, then let rise again, about one and one-half hours. Turn onto board; form into three loaves and place in greased bread pans. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about one hour. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake for 45 minutes.

Nut Wafers
1/4 cup lard
1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 1/4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup nuts, chopped

Cream butter, lard and sugar; add eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Fold in nuts and vanilla. Shape into roll, wrap in waxed paper and store in refrigerator until needed. Bake in a 400-degree oven for seven to 12 minutes.

*Banana Spice Cake
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup mashed banana
1/4 cup milk

Cream shortening until fluffy, add sugar a little at a time, creaming after each addition. Stir in vanilla extract; add eggs and beat well. Sift all dry ingredients and add to shortening mixture alternately with mashed banana and milk. Pour batter into a well greased, heat-resistant square glass cake dish, eight-inch size. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven and let cool before spreading with the following icing:

3 tablespoons shortening
1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Cream shortening; add confectioners' sugar and lemon juice, beating until fluffy. Add lemon rind if desired. Spread on cool cake.

Leather pieces around the home like furniture, bookends, albums and waste baskets can be cleaned with a mild soap and luke-warm water shampoo.

Soak pastry cloths in cold water before washing. Brush away flour mixtures with a brush before washing in hot water or the matter will cake and stick.

Keep your pot holders immaculate if you want to avoid sticky fingers by working in the kitchen. Wash and rinse the holders out as you do the towels, after a meal.

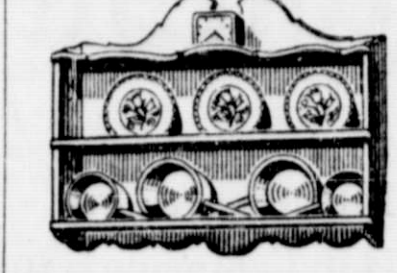

Use hot water on anything which has had a chocolate mixture in it. Chocolate contains fat, and hot water is needed to remove the grease.

Soapless shampoos are excellent for washing doeklin gloves. The shampoo will keep the gloves soft and pliable.

Pots, pans and other cooking utensils will take less washing time if you keep them rinsed. Or, better still, wash them clean immediately after using with a small brush and let them dry by themselves on the sink. They can be put away before the meal.

HOW TO FIX IT

By Tom Gregory

FOUR spring-type clothespins, screwed in pairs to opposite sides of the cross arm of a wooden coat hanger, will enable you to suspend two pairs of trousers from one hanger without danger of wrinkling. Here, too, are some uses for those excess wire coat hangers that are clashing around in the closet: bent to the proper shape, they make serviceable hat racks. A few ingenious twists will make shoe hangers out of them. In the basement or closet they also can be used to support swinging shelves.

THE corkscrew, formerly a faithful appurtenance in many households, is fast vanishing from the American scene. Yet, the need for a corkscrew still arises frequently in most homes. If you lack the real article, a clothes hook makes a good substitute. The hooks have deep threads which will bite into the cork solidly.

A VALUABLE COMMUNITY SERVICE

Is performed by our advertisers. Their advertising provides a guide for good buying and stimulates trade,—the backbone of our community. For a bigger, better town, buy from our advertisers.

Uncle Sam's Boy

WALKING along a street in a small town, a man was attracted by a series of screams from a nearby house. He ran in to investigate and found a frantic mother whose small son was choking on a quarter he had swallowed.

Seizing the child by the heels, the rescuer shook him until the quarter dropped on the carpet. The grateful mother was lost in admiration.

"You certainly knew how to shake it out of him," she said. "Are you a doctor?"

"No, ma'am," the good samaritan smiled grimly. "I'm from the department of internal revenue."

Death in Comfort

The doctor's waiting room was very full. Every chair was taken and some patients were standing. There was a desultory conversation but after a while silence fell and the patients just sat, waiting. Finally an old man stood up wearily and sighed:

"Oh, I guess I'll go home and die a natural death!"

SHARP TONGUES

Probably nowhere in the world do women have sharper tongues than in movieville. Witness the remarks of two flimflamers overheard as they discussed a mutual friend.

Said the first: "She certainly has developed a big head."

Said the other: "She needs it to support her two faces."

Canny Scot

A young Scotsman went to the telegraph office one morning and wired a proposal of marriage to his sweetheart. After spending the entire day and part of the night waiting, he was finally rewarded by an affirmative reply.

"If I were you," suggested the operator who delivered the message, "I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl who kept me waiting all day for my answer."

"Na, Na," replied the young Scot. "The lass who waits for the night rate is the lass for me."

RIDICULOUS

Officer—Did you know you've been going 50 miles an hour?

Speeder—Impossible—I've only been out of the garage 20 minutes.

Easy Way Out

"Well," confided the mailman, "my wife has four nieces and a nephew getting married."

"What in the world will you do for wedding gifts?" asked the policeman.

"My wife," sighed the letter carrier, "has already solved the problem. She opened a new charge account yesterday."

FALSE IMPERSONATION

The fancy-dress dance was over and the local gossips were comparing notes.

"Mrs. Smithington-Smythe looks upset, don't you think?" said one, glancingly.

"Yes, my dear. She came as a Hawaiian beauty, with grass skirts and all—and they awarded her first prize in the humorous section as 'The Old Thatched Cottage.'"

Sweet Revenge

"I'm surprised your mother let you marry Bill, when she dislikes him so."

"She said she just wanted to be his mother-in-law for a while."

Grounds for Divorce

Judge—On what grounds are you applying for divorce?

Mr. Brown—Extravagance, your honor.

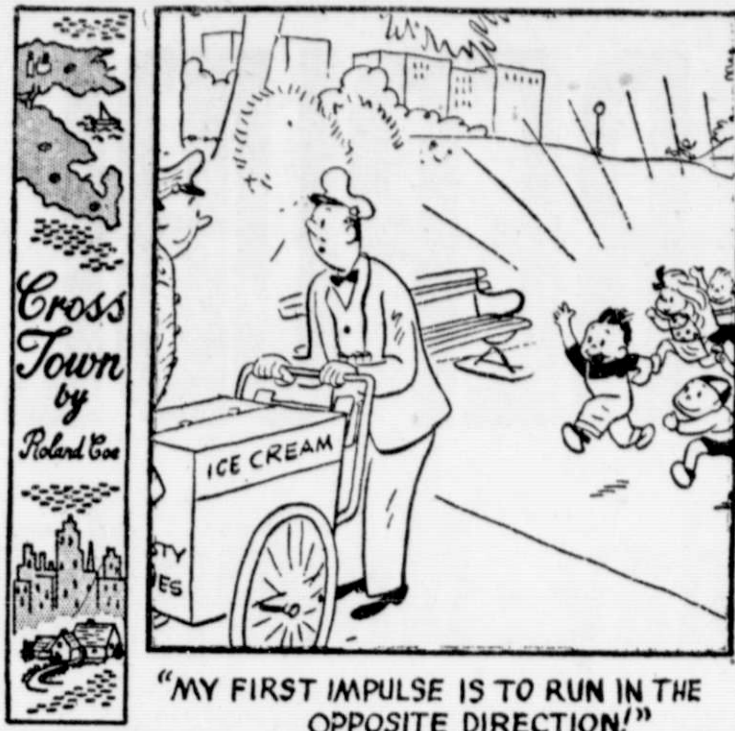

Judge—Extravagance? How's that?

Mr. Brown—She kept on buying ice after I had installed an electric refrigerator.

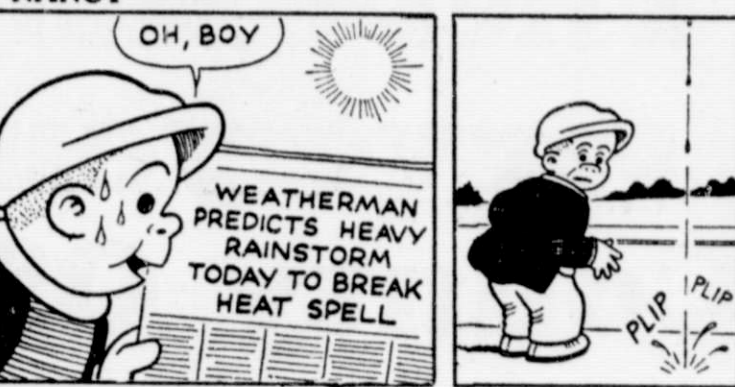

Weight of Coal

Sonny—Is a ton of coal very much?

Dad—That depends on whether you're shoveling it or burning it.

HOW IT STARTED

"NOT WORTH A TINKER'S DAMN" does not refer to "dams" but to the dam which is a small piece of soft clay that a plumber places around a leak to dam up and hold the melted solder in place until cooled. Since the clay cannot be used a second time, it is thrown away; hence the worthlessness of a "tinker's dam."

SIDEBURNS—Short side whiskers worn with a smooth chin are named after the Civil war general (Burnsides).

Government Predicts High Incomes for 1949

Noting that personal incomes set a record this year, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported that 1949 incomes should be just as high, even though they might slip a bit toward the end of the year. The bureau also foresees a continued boom in employment.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve board said the buying power of the nation's farmers was now more than twice what it was before the war.

It estimated that 10 per cent fewer persons were working on farms at the end of 1947 than before the war, while non-farm population had risen nearly 20 per cent since 1937.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Proposes Moscow Mission, Rocks Foundation of U. S. Policy; Russ Ask Big Four Parley Renewal

By Bill Schoengen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Bi-partisan unity in the U. S. was grievously wounded by the knife-edged Berlin crisis when, on the one hand, President Truman called a private conference with Under Secretary of State Robert Lovett and Secretary of State George Marshall to mull over the situation.

... and, on the other hand, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey summoned his foreign affairs advisor, John Foster Dulles, from Paris to find out for himself what was going on in Europe.

DIPLMACY: Trip Canceled

To President Truman, for engineering the abortive deal to send Chief Justice Fred Vinson to Moscow for personal talks with Kremlin leaders on the atomic bomb, went the credit for producing the most heroically proportioned diplomatic faux pas of the year.

It happened very swiftly and very simply. Mr. Truman deciding suddenly to try his own hand at straightening out the tangled foreign mess, started making preparations to send Vinson to Russia.

THEN the state department heard about it. Robert Lovett, under-secretary of state, profoundly shocked, notified George Marshall who came winging frantically across the Atlantic from Paris to stop the President from committing what he considered a blunder of immense gravity.

The Vinson trip was called off, of course, and President Truman backed hastily away from the whole business after issuing an abashed note of explanation.

BUT THE memories lingered on. Mr. Truman, in the minds of those who knew or thought they knew about the international situation, had gone completely beyond the pale with this momentary, headstrong effort.

His campaign opponent, Gov. Thomas Dewey, at first wavered between righteous anger at what he obviously considered a deliberate flouting of the established bi-partisan foreign policy and elation that the Democratic candidate had made such a grievous tactical error.

And although the Dewey camp was astute enough to realize that its cause would benefit more if it magnanimously ignored the affair than if it leaped in for the slaughter, it nevertheless redounds to the New York governor's credit that he did not take advantage of this internationally dangerous situation for his personal gain.

Significance

Why was President Truman so widely and thoroughly castigated for making what he undoubtedly looked upon as a sincere, constructive attempt to clear up the Russians' "misunderstanding" of the problem of atomic control?

Because his intention of sending Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow represented a serious divergence from the basic characteristic of U. S. foreign policy—toughness with Russia.

MR. TRUMAN'S proposal amounted to a softening up of the laboriously built "get tough" attitude of the U. S. toward Moscow. It was tantamount to saying in a pleading voice, "Let's get together once more and try to talk this thing out."

Current history has proved that the kind of personal diplomacy the President sought to institute in the Vinson trip has been completely unavailing in dealing with Russia since the war. Moreover, insofar as personal diplomacy always tends to bypass the United Nations, it usually has an ill effect on international relations in general.

IN THE final analysis, a personal visit to the Kremlin by Vinson probably would have upset the entire, carefully fabricated structure of the policy upon which the U. S. is depending to defeat Russia's aims in Europe.

'Sagging' White House Due for Repairs

This probably will cost you a million dollars.

The White House—America's home for its presidents—will undergo a series of reconstruction jobs next year that will bolster up the slightly sagging, 132-year-old executive mansion. And it is probable that the work may cost U. S. taxpayers as much as a million dollars.

Change of Heart

Prof. Nikolai Sintsin, a Russian scientist, has learned how to change hearts in animals, according to an announcement by Tass, Russian news agency.

"Professor Sintsin has made a large number of heart transplantations both of warm-blooded and cold-blooded animals," the Tass dispatch said. "A frog whose heart was completely replaced by another survived the experiment."

CHURCHILL: Grim Accents

At the British Conservative party's annual convention in Llandudno, Wales, Winston Churchill, never a man to deal in flimsy optimism when the going was tough, talked in grim accents about the world's peril.

HE WAS the old pre-war, no-appearance Churchill as he warned against letting any French breach appear in the drive of western resistance to Soviet drives.

To the United States he said, in effect: Keep those atomic bombs. Destruction of the U. S. atomic arsenal now would be tantamount to suicide.

"If it were not for the stocks of atomic bombs now in the trusteeship of the United States there would be no means of stopping the subjugation of western Europe by Communist machinations backed by Russian armies and enforced by political parties.

"BOLSHEVIK Russia is already heavily armed and her forces in Europe far exceed those of all the western countries put together. At the present time the only sure foundation of peace—and the prevention of actual war—rests upon strength.

He urged the West to "bring matters to a head and make a final settlement" before Russia produces a usable bomb.

Such a settlement, according to the view of the wartime British prime minister, could be arrived at only after the Russians had released their grip on satellite states, released the German and Japanese prisoners they "now hold as slaves," ceased to "oppress, torment and exploit" those parts of Austria and Germany they hold and called a halt to disruptive operations elsewhere in the world.

BUT CHURCHILL would not be a party to issuing any "false hopes of a friendly settlement with Soviet Russia." Actually, he said, the Berlin blockade may precipitate a war at any time.

ALIENS: On the Job

The U. S. is hiring scores of aliens, many of them in countries behind the iron curtain, to staff its 27-million-dollar international information program.

Leland J. Barrows, deputy director of the state department's office of information and education, told the senate appropriations committee that the department planned to add 278 aliens and 60 Americans to overseas duty by the end of the 1948 fiscal year.

WHAT WILL they do? Barrows said that the aliens—14 of whom will be added to the American embassy in Moscow—would be used primarily as translators, clerks, messengers and in other work associated with the U. S. foreign information program.

Testimony before the committee showed that the state department gained the committee's reluctant approval of its foreign-hiring plan, despite the objections of Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N.H.) who contended that it would provide a fertile field for Communist infiltration into government functions.

GEORGE V. ALLEN, assistant secretary of state, countered that there were certain jobs that had to be performed overseas that could best be done by aliens.

He said aliens could be employed much cheaper for certain tasks where they can be watched fairly easily, even though Americans may suspect their loyalty.

This departure from the norm in the business of hiring federal employees was a new wrinkle in the government that very probably will be attracting considerable public attention within the next few months.

Reverse Russian

Constantine Boldyreff is a man who wants to take the classic Communist concept of the necessity of revolution and apply it to Russia itself. Claiming to represent a world-wide Russian anti-Communist organization dedicated to the overthrow of the Stalin regime, Boldyreff believes that the great mass of Russia's 167 million people are ready for revolt.

SUB RADAR: Sentry Duty

A submarine with radar "eyes," a new unit in the nation's defense system, was scheduled to start operating in November to detect any hostile planes attempting a sneak approach across such remote reaches as the polar seas.

The navy announced that the submarine Tigrone, taken from the reserve fleet and converted into the first radar picket submarine, was to be commissioned November 1.

During World War II the Tigrone saw varied service, including the rescue of 32 downed aviators from enemy waters and the bombardment of Japanese shore targets.

It was understood that the conversion of the sub included fitting her out with the schnorkel, a German-designed breathing device which enables a submarine to remain underwater for virtually unlimited periods of time. The schnorkel's breathing tube, which features a small air intake at the surface, supplies oxygen for both crew and the diesel engines of the sub.

Washington Digest Autumn Brings Washington A Potpourri of 'Occasions'

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—After a tropically terrible summer the capital burst into autumnal glory with cool weather providing the zest and zip necessary to meet the feverish renewal of activity after the summer doldrums.

Let me review some of the varied events which provided pungent relief from the news of diplomatic quarrels, political bittingsgate, and war.

Out at the airport, an American Airlines plane, christened for the occasion "Don Gaspar de Portola," dropped out of the skies. Down the ramp came a black-bearded, helmeted Spanish conquistador, re-splendid in flowing scarlet cape and shining broadsword. Next came a charming Chinese girl in her ruffled dress, alluring as a lotus blossom.

Then a less exotic crowd of beauties, sportsfolk, business men, headed by the mayor of San Francisco. They had come to tell us about the resumption this year of the Portola Festival at the Golden Gate. (They visited eight other major cities, too.)

Don Gaspar de Portola was the famous explorer who was sent to America from Spain in 1769 to chase the Jesuits from California, the English from Canada, and the Russians from Alaska. He didn't quite fill that order but he did locate and explore San Francisco Bay and discover a couple of other harbors.

I paid my respects to His Excellency Don Gaspar, to the tall, slim, pretty and modest water-nymph, Ann Curtis, Olympiad winner, and to my old pal Jimmy Abbey, one-time international photographer who made even Stalin "look pleasant." Now Jimmy is an ABC commentator on the Pacific coast.

But something better was to come. We sat down to luncheon and I felt right at home! There was Chef John Lischetti, of the Nugget Grill, founded way back in the gold rush days when nuggets were the medium of exchange. And better still there were sand-dials, that strange flat creature sans-scales in the ocean and sans-rival were prepared "a la Pescador oro." (Get the nugget?) But best of all was the crab salad nugget, which makes all other crabs seem crabbed by comparison. The food was all native, flown from San Francisco for the occasion!

Viva Portola!

George C. Marshall As a Humanitarian

The Marine band blares out a march from the platform overlooking the huge Presidential room of the Statler where more than 800 guests are gathered for the ceremony in which Variety International, that cheerful and charitable group of show folk, is to confer its annual Humanitarian award.

In march the guests of honor, statesmen, diplomats, tycoons, actors, legal lights, and whatnot. They stand at their places at the head tables which form two tiers banked with roses.

A fanfare and George Catlett Marshall takes his place amid cheers that drown the music. The salute to the colors. We sit down to drown any modicum of sorrow that has survived the preceding reception. Speeches are short and good.

Marshall, as secretary of state, could say little that was new, something that was grim, much that was encouraging and all of it "off the record" for we are already in the midst of parious international negotiations.

Variety club president reads the citation:

"The career of the Hon. George Catlett Marshall has embraced leadership in peace as well as in war.

"Soldier by profession, he has ever displayed a conspicuous and consistent genius for the military.

"Shunning the opportunity to seek succor from the cumulative burdens of two world wars, his devotion to principle and country has led him along the paths toward world amity and peace since the end of hostilities.

As author of the Marshall Plan, he translated into generous and inspiring fulfillment the shining hope for liberty, honor and dignity of free men everywhere.

"We salute the breadth of vision and warmth of heart of a great and beloved American." And so to bed.

Review of Byrd's Antarctic Expedition

Rain pours, we drive through the slippery Washington streets to the navy yard (now the naval gun factory). The Washington navy yard was planned by President John Adams when French aggression made "freedom of the seas" a menacing international issue. Work began on the site in 1800. Here the "Wasp" and the "Hornet" were built to play their roles in the War of 1812, here the "Constitution" and the "President" came for overhauling and repairs.

We stop at the sentry box: "Guests of Admiral Davis." The marine sentry salutes. We know our way to the officers' club. Handshakes and refreshments and in a bus that takes us to the event of the evening which the rain prevented us from witnessing aboard the hulking LST moored to the dock in the Anacostia river.

So we must go indoors to see one of the most thrilling things I ever saw on the screen. A motion picture made from the actual photographic record of the 1946-47 expedition of the Antarctic under Adm. Richard E. Byrd. I hope you saw or will see it—"Secret Land." It had its premier on Navy Day, in 80 cities. The commercial movie makers used the official film taken by navy, marine corps, coast guard and army cameramen on the scene.

The picturing of disaster, of rescue, of tragedy, of suspense, of achievement, (in most cases the actual event as it happened) are something for which I have no comparison.

One purpose of the 1946 expedition which was a follow-up of Byrd's original 1929 undertaking when he established "Little America" and explored the Great Antarctic ice cap, was to train the navy in polar operations.

Another aim was to make further discoveries and release the "unknown treasures" (which Byrd's earlier explorations indicated were there) for the benefit of mankind. Even the "routine" operations, the ships amidst the ice-floes, the landing on the ice-cap, the erection of the tent city and the operation of the planes, was an inspiring and thrilling sight, a tremendous tribute to the American skill in mechanical achievement, in personal endurance, bravery, ingenuity. It will make you proud to be an American.

Admiral Byrd didn't look much older than when we bid him God-speed before he started on his first Antarctic venture. That was close to me for I was connected with the organization that syndicated the story for the press. But I was struck with the passage of time, and the years of study and research that had intervened, when I looked at Dr. Paul Siple, polar authority and geographer. (He was present in the flesh as well as on the screen.)

Paul Siple was chosen to go on the 1929 expedition after winning in a competition involving 600,000 Boy Scouts of America. Then he was a tall, slender lad of 26. Now he's stocky and graying. As a prominent geographer he has done important research for the war department.

The story of the Antarctic is studied with great names—Scott, Amundsen, Shackleton, to mention only three—as well as with sacrifice and tragedy. This picture of the "Secret Land," less secret now, shows the tremendous advances in technology made since the days of the early explorers.

It took thousands of years to shape the penguins' wings into the fins which make his survival in a polar land possible. In a few years in the laboratories and factories of America we have shaped the means which make survival and exploration possible in the same environment—exploration and discovery which some day may be of tremendous benefit to mankind.

The Russians last month kept scheduling Red air maneuvers over Berlin airlift corridors. Perhaps because of the overcrowded condition of the heavens over Moscow, Minsk, Pinsk, Baku, Tartu and Stalingrad?

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

Experts say a little depression now would be a good thing; otherwise there'll be a bad one. Republicans would like a nice little one, and get it over, rather than keep sailing upward to bust right before the 1952 election.

Vishinsky insisted there was no Berlin blockade. He should have consulted some Berliners.

Totalitarian countries judge art and music by ideological standards. Seems about as logical as judging a tank or a bulldozer according to the beauty of their lines.

Vishinsky hinted early in the United Nations assembly meeting that Russia had the atomic bomb. I'm surprised he would give away such an important war secret.

THE FICTION CORNER

WEATHER AHEAD

By JOHN H. HOSE

The counter man reminded Harv of someone he knew—a brilliant man whose life had been destroyed by a selfish, beautiful woman.

THE plane settled down on the bumpy field, and jolted to a halt. The explanation for the unscheduled stopover was simply the cryptic statement, "Weather ahead!" The stewardess had no information about the length of the layover, so we walked across the field toward the town. Harvey Allen and I were bound for the coast on a brief business trip, seeking a new contract for one of our major network productions.

We walked along the main—and only—street of the little town until we came to a small restaurant. It was dark and cool inside after the heat and glare of the mid-afternoon New Mexico sun. Settling in one of the tiny booths which lined the wall, we ordered some lunch. Except for the counter man and a tired looking waitress, the place was empty.

I noticed Harv staring intently at the man behind the counter. I glanced up, but the fellow was a stranger to me.

"Know him?" I asked. Harv had a genius for knowing people everywhere . . . and remembering them.

"He reminds me of someone," he answered. The girl came with our lunch, and we ate quietly for a few moments. Harvey continued, then, asking,

"Did you ever know Mark Stevens?"

I sipped at my iced tea before replying.

"Nope; he was before my time. But, of course, I've heard about him. Who hasn't? Isn't he the chap

As we strolled back to the airport, I asked the question that had been in my mind ever since Harv started that story.

Mark nodded. "Elsa Armstrong. The face and figure that launched a thousand hopes! Elsa the beautiful. Elsa the magnificent." He lifted his tea glass in toast.

"Hail, Elsa! Destroyer of men—of Mark Stevens in particular. Would you like to hear what really happened, Stu?"

I lighted a cigar as I replied in the affirmative. Harvey settled back in the booth as he recounted the story of Mark Stevens.

"Twenty years ago, this business of ours was just a puppy. And the master of that puppy was Mark Stevens. His was the brain that built the advertising business. You really owe that $150 suit you're wearing to him, Stu. Mark Stevens lifted us out of the mire and into the moola. We all owe him plenty.

"Mark built his organization by buying talent where he found it, and he had a genius for finding it. I remember I was doing advance work for Williams' Brothers Carnival when I met him. We got together in San Antonio one night, and the next day I was working for him. Just like that.

"I started small—writing copy on some accounts that weren't too important. And all the time I was watching the master, learning all the little nuances and twists, getting set for the day he saw fit to move me up a notch. It wasn't long in coming either. The firm was marching, and I was right in step.

"After about a year, Mark opened a branch office in Chicago. I went there as copy chief. From that move, both the business and I mushroomed. Dallas, Seattle, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco. Five years after that meeting in San Antonio, I was head of the San Francisco office. We had branched out all over the country, but this San Francisco outfit was second in importance only to the home office in New York.

"When radio and advertising had a happy marriage, the Mark Stevens Associates really hit the top. We opened a Hollywood office and began handling only the largest accounts. I came down from San Francisco to head the new office, and Mark made almost monthly trips to the coast to give his personal attention to some of the really important clients.

"It was on one of those trips that he met Elsa Armstrong. Did you ever see a bougainvillea in bloom, Stu? Or a hibiscus? That's what she was like. A lovely, fragile beauty, and that's an inadequate description. But she was smart, too. Smart . . . and tough when it came to getting places." Harvey twirled the iced tea glass, clinking the ice cubes against its hard surface as he reminisced. Then he continued,

"She wasn't an actress; even in those days talent was an important item, but Elsa's only talent consisted in looking so beautiful it hurt. Strangely enough, she didn't want to be a star. Elsa was hunting something entirely different. She wanted money and position. Mark had both, and Elsa took him like Grant took Richmond. The first thing I knew, I was back in New York and Mark had taken charge on the coast. Or rather, Mark was on the coast and Elsa had taken charge.

"I lost track of events then, until one day the auditor came to me with the remark that Mr. Stevens' personal account was in terrible shape. Together we went over it. I decided the auditor's original evaluation was strict, an understatement. The bills Mark had okayed seemed to indicate that he alone was trying to support half of California's furriers and jewelers. A few days later I began to hear complaints from different accounts that their affairs on the coast were not being handled properly. I decided to fly out and see what went on.

"Mark met me at the airport. He was . . . ah, well . . . definitely not in the best of condition. He was unshaven and mused. The meeting was most embarrassing for me, and I piled Mark into a cab and directed the driver to Mark's home in Beverly Hills. He passed out on the way, and when we got there, I had one rugged time getting him upstairs and into bed, even with the sympathetic and capable help of the cabbie. This done, I returned to Hollywood and the office.

"There, I began to ask questions. The answers weren't pretty. Mark hadn't been in the place in weeks. But his bills had. His and Elsa's, that is. Oh, she had a personal account, too. It figured on the books as his, which explained why we in the East didn't know about it. I decided to see Elsa.

"She wasn't available at home, so I started to make the rounds in pursuit, finally catching up with her at 'The Players.' She wasn't alone. I sent word to her table that I would like to see her, and in a few minutes she joined me. 'Brother! She was hard as nails. No, she'd not seen Mark in a month. Why? After all, a girl has to look out for her future. And Mark had been troublesome. Stuffy about her friends. I asked if the guy she was with belonged in that category. She merely shrugged. I got the idea. I rather pointedly asked her how come, if she and Mark were through, her bills continued to come

"Good luck, friend."

"As we strolled back to the airport, I asked the question that had been in my mind ever since Harv started that story.

"Harv, that guy back in the restaurant . . . was that Mark Stevens?"

He smiled. "No, that wasn't Mark. Didn't you look like him?"

"Then why," I asked, "did you happen to recall the story of Stevens? And why did you wish him luck?"

"Because, if things haven't changed, there's weather ahead for him," he replied softly. "You see, the waitress in there was Elsa."

"I told you she was tough, too, Brother! She was hard as nails. No, she'd not seen Mark in a month. Why? After all, a girl has to look out for her future. And Mark had been troublesome. Stuffy about her friends. I asked if the guy she was with belonged in that category. She merely shrugged. I got the idea. "I told you she was tough, too, Brother! She was hard as nails. No, she'd not seen Mark in a month. Why? After all, a girl has to look out for her future. And Mark had been troublesome. Stuffy about her friends. I asked if the guy she was with belonged in that category. She merely shrugged. I got the idea. into the office. Another shrug; Mark owed her something for the way he'd acted, she felt.

"My personal opinion was that he'd acted pretty generously toward her. Too generous, from the shape both he and the firm were in. I said so. And I nearly choked when she agreed with me. Yes, she was very candid about the whole thing. Very candid, indeed. I almost gagged. I gave her a brief idea of what I thought of her, adding that we weren't paying any more bills. Without further ceremony, I left.

"When I got back to Beverly Hills, Mark was awake, sober, and sick as a dog. I told him I'd seen the books . . . and Elsa. I told him a lot of other things, too. Boss or no boss, I got the whole works off my chest. But it wasn't Mark Stevens I was talking to. It was the beaten, wasted shell of a man I once knew and respected. He took it all without a word. When I finished, he just sat there, nodding his head foolishly. I walked out in disgust. I never saw Mark Stevens again.

"The rest of the story you've heard, Stu. How he walked out on everything and just disappeared. The company was taken over by the associates, but his genius was gone, and a few months later we folded."

Harv snapped open his cigarette case, lighted the smoke casually, indicating that was the end of the story. Finally, I broke the silence to ask,

"And what became of Elsa?"

"Elsa? Oh, she dropped out of sight shortly afterwards. A scandal washed her up in Hollywood. Apparently Harvey was no longer interested in the story or its principal actors. He just sat there watching the counter man, and I was mulling over the details of the story, thinking about how easy it was for a guy to go haywire. Just then, one of the airline employees looked in, saw us and announced that the flight would start in twenty minutes. We rose to leave. While I paid the waitress, Harv walked over to the counter man and said quietly,

"Good luck, friend."

"As we strolled back to the airport, I asked the question that had been in my mind ever since Harv started that story.

"Harv, that guy back in the restaurant . . . was that Mark Stevens?"

He smiled. "No, that wasn't Mark. Didn't you look like him?"

"Then why," I asked, "did you happen to recall the story of Stevens? And why did you wish him luck?"

"Because, if things haven't changed, there's weather ahead for him," he replied softly. "You see, the waitress in there was Elsa."

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

Released by WNU Features

By INEZ GERHARD
JOAN BENNETT, settling down in New York for six weeks with her family, found her apartment lacking pots and pans. With a baby and two small girls, meals had to be prepared at home. The cook gave her a list and she and the little girls headed for a department store. They were fascinated by the escalator, so she told them to ride it while she shopped. They rode happily to the top floor, then were afraid to come down, and screamed for mama, echoed through the building to a lower floor till she heard and went to their rescue. Had other mothers recognized that pretty mother, fans would have mobbed her!

David Butler put on make-up to direct himself in a scene for "Two Guys and a Gal" at Warner's. The plump director played himself as a director—said his last appearance in films was 21 years and 80 pounds ago.

Robert Fellows, who became a paramour director with "Wild Harvest" and recently did "Sealed Verdict," has come up the hard way. Starting with bit roles for De Mille, he has been everything from a boy to junior writer to assistant director. In 1941 he did two pictures simultaneously—"Pittsburgh" for Universal and "Bombardier" for RKO.

Signs of the times: Governor Dewey, speaking on September 21 in the time spot held by "My Friend Irma," got a Hooper rating of only 12.7—several points lower than that usually won by the CBS Monday night program. Winchell, Lux Theater, Godfrey's Talent Scouts, Stop the Music, Bob Hope and Mr. District Attorney topped him in the latest poll.

Brian Roper, English child actor, came all the way from London to play one of the principal roles in "The Secret Garden" for MGM. Margaret O'Brien and Dean Stockwell head the very fine cast.

The annual party launching a new year for Irene Beasley's "Grand Slam" was the best one yet. It was really a family party, not a big affair for the press. "We just asked the people we liked best," somebody explained. Irene, one of radio's finest, proudly showed everyone the beautiful diamond and garnet pin her sponsor had given her.

"Night Nurse," a hit when it was released in the early '30s with Barbara Stanwyck, Ben Lyon, Joan Blondell and Clark Gable, is to be remade, with a new script, new cast and Alex Gottlieb as producer.

With his difficulties with Columbia Pictures settled, and a new contract signed, Larry Parks is set as the star of "Lolita Sings Again." He will also make pictures for his own producing organization. He and his wife, Betty Garrett, plan to form a company to produce plays in which they will star, later adapting them for motion pictures.

Children who like to pick out tunes on the piano with one finger should not be discouraged; they may grow up to be famous one-fingered jazz pianists, like Lionel Hampton, the drummer. He displays this talent in "A Song Is Born."

Sam Hearn, famed as "Schlepperman" on the Jack Benny air show, and his brother Lew, have been signed for featured comedy roles in "Happy Times," with Danny Kaye. Both were headliners in vaudeville in the old lush days. They'll be made up to look like twins, though there is really a difference of six years in their ages.

ODDS AND ENDS—Even when he's off the air Raymond Scott is on it—his radio ham, operating station W2MEZ, on the 40 meters code band. . . Joe Doh, actor and featured singer in "Your Hit Parade," has signed a long-term acting contract with Warner Bros. . . Gary Cooper has Hollywood's largest collection of records of Hawaiian music; the "Good Sam" star has been collecting them for years. . . "Our Miss Brooks," that very amusing comedy series starring Eve Arden, now has a sponsor. . . The hangar deck of the U. S. S. Philippine Sea became a movie theater for a press preview of MGM's "The Secret Land."

The rest of the "Duffy's Tavern" cast stayed away from microphones this summer, but Florence Halop kept in trim for her "Miss Duffy" role by playing a young girl on "Meet Corliss Archer" and an older part on "Steve Allen."

The tame cougar used in Eagle-Lion's "The Big Cat," which costars Lon McCallister, Peggy Ann Garner and Preston Foster, attracted so many unwelcome guests while on location that armed guards were posted.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Wanted: A Mother

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"IT RIDES me night and day, I can't forget it. I've everything in the world—except Robin. Robin is my boy, nine years old. When Bob, his father, and I were divorced, four years ago, the arrangement was that Bob should have Robin when he wanted him.

"I was foolishly, madly in love with Brick, and was lucky in getting small parts in the movies. Brick and I were married, and a year later were joined by my exquisite Sheila and then, two years later, by baby Vicky. Brick is just that—a brick, and my girls fill my cup of home happiness to overflowing.

"But the constant agony is the thought of my Robin, who loves us, loves his life here in California, and is in an apartment in Chicago, with Bob and his new wife, both employees of a big department store. Phyllis, Bob's wife, makes as much money as he does; when they have vacations they go off together, and Robin is shoved into a boy's camp.

"The letters he writes me tear my heart out, and yet when I appeal to his father and ask for him, my letters go unanswered."

There's Sally Hunter's problem. It is one thousand of women have to face today. They don't foresee it, when they first begin the dizzy breathless plans that free them from humdrum husbands and open the door to new exciting romantic experiences. Everyone is going to be so kind to little Robin then; Mother's new husband and Daddy's new wife are both devoted to him. Daddy's wife says that she always wanted a son; Mother's husband says he and Robin are going to be pals and go fishing together.

Robin is the Loser.

But that's about the beginning and the end of what Robin gets out of it. He is presently a forgotten little pawn in the game of grown-up affairs, and it is only when it is too late—as in Sally Hunter's case—that Mother awakens to the full realization of the irrevocability of the step she has taken.

Sally's course must be a waiting one. She must get every bit of joy she can out of life as it is now—that's the fundamental rule for all of us, by the way. She must keep Brick from suspecting how she misses her boy and wants him. And eventually, I am very sure Bob and Phyllis will find that they don't want a growing lad in their lives, and will send him west to his mother.

That's life, Sally. And if you ask me if you would have a higher average of happiness, had you stayed with Robin's father and said "no" to Brick and the dazzling possibilities of the new life, I could not truthfully answer yes. Because to be happy you have to find something deep inside you, the very core of being, and once you find that nothing ever can disturb your inner peace any more.

Worthwhile Adventure.

How do I know that if you had stayed with Bob you would have developed into a woman fine and strong enough to make success of unsuccess? It can be done. It is the most worthwhile adventure in life. But not every woman can achieve it.

If you make mistakes, Sally, we can only go on and try not to make more. And we have a headache today over an absent child, we can pray that when that child is restored to us we may be wiser. No life is free from regrets and hard lessons. Don't try to blame yours on anyone else. Face them.

Our transgressions against others are of long, slow growth. We can't undo their effects in a few minutes. But despite all that the pessimists say, it is my belief that we do get second chances, we do have opportunities to show that on this hard road called life we can learn and we can change.

Hollow Stump Serves as Home For Man in Washington

SEDRO WOOLEY, WASH.—A hollowed-out cedar stump helped Polecki beat the housing shortage. Polecki at first intended the stump to be a tool shed, but when he found it was 10 feet high and 7 feet 2 inches at the base he said he knew he had found a home.

In five months of spare-time labor he hewed out the interior, capped a roof on it, cut out two windows and attached a door.

Garbage Collector Fires at Wife Who Gave Away Cabbages

ANDOVER, CONN.—Samuel Howard, town garbage collector, was held on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon after his wife charged that he fired three shots at her because she gave away two cabbages and failed to sew two buttons on his trousers.

Police Lieutenant Robert E. Rundle said that Howard, reputedly a crack shot, admitted firing a rifle over his wife's head to scare her.

Confidence Man Tricks Newsboy, 11, Out of $5

PASSAIC, N. J.—Police said Sam Rand, an 11-year-old newsboy, tearfully told them that a man had talked him into going to a store to collect a $15 bill the store owed the man. The stranger promised the boy 50 cents but Sam had to leave a $5 deposit with the man. Store employees told him there was no such thing as a $15 bill and anyway they owed the stranger nothing.

Doctor Claims Men Should Not Retire at Age of 65

SAN FRANCISCO.—Are you through at 65? Listen to Dr. Edward L. Bortz—and get back on the job. Society, said Dr. Bortz, president of American Medical Association, literally is killing men by making them retire too early.

For many, the years between 50 and 70 are the most useful. Yet society, he lamented, insists on pinning the "antique" label on men at 65.

Strong Chicago Wind Sweeps Lightweight Man Into River

CHICAGO.—Bridgetender John Murphy rescued Harry Goldman, 61, from the Chicago river.

Police taking Goldman to the county hospital asked him, "Why did you jump?"

Goldman spluttered, "I weigh only 96 pounds."

"Yeah," the police said, "but why did you jump?"

"I didn't jump," said Goldman, "the wind blew me in."

Earl Warren, Governor of California, is an able team-mate for Governor Dewey. He, also, has had experience in handling big problems. His state has grown in recent years, industrially and in population, more than any other state. This has multiplied the problems of the state many times. Governor Warren has met this problem by building roads, schools, hospitals, churches for this increased population. He will take valuable legislative and executive experience to Washington.
