

Indians Suffer 1st Defeat at Plymouth

All good things must come to an end and so it was at Plymouth Sunday afternoon when the Kewaskum Indians, after running up four straight victories in the Lakes, were handed their first setback, 61-42. These two teams had been tied for first place prior to Sunday.

The Indians were up against a good ball club in the big and fast Plymouth aggregation. Kewaskum did not play its usual game and as a result could not match the accurate shooting opponents. The losers were bothered

KEWASKUM WINS FORFEIT

Kewaskum's team received notice the past week from League Director Martin Weber that the Kewaskum-Cedarburg game scheduled here on Dec. 19, had been forfeited to Kewaskum. Cedarburg failed to show up for the contest because of slippery roads but because they failed to notify the home team the game was forfeited, giving the Indians four wins and one loss to date.

considerably by a bright sun shining through the gym windows which made it very difficult to see. The tussle was a rough, slam bang affair. One Plymouth player was thrown out of the game by the officials for unnecessary roughness and unsportsmanlike conduct.

With 6 foot, 6 inch Schuette and big Bohoff in the game Plymouth was able to control the rebounds over Kewaskum's relatively short five. The winners ran up a lead at the start and stayed well ahead, although the locals played them on pretty even terms in the second half, even outscoring Plymouth in the third period. Plymouth led, 18-8, at the quarter, 28-14, at the half, and 42-30, when the third quarter ended. Schuette dumped in 17 points and Ludwig, a flashy guard, netted 15. Krueger was high for the losers with 13.

Although we had a little snow for Christmas, the first real storm of the season came Tuesday night and Wednesday. Kewaskum Merchant Victim of Bad Check

A cunning bad check artist passed a worthless check to a Kewaskum merchant Monday. The check amounted to $96. The check was soon proven to be worthless when taken to the bank of Kewaskum by the merchant. Police Chief Edmund Haack notified Sheriff Ray Koth immediately who in turn notified Milwaukee police of the deed.

The bad check artist entered the merchant's store and taking advantage of the business rush, purchased about $13 worth of merchandise and offered the check on payment. When the clerk took the check to the merchant for his "okay" the man approached the merchant and pretended that he was an old friend. The merchant, obviously assuming that he was one of the many persons with whom he had had business dealings with in the past, cashed the check and handed the man his change.

Sheriff Koth took the check to Milwaukee the same afternoon. The handwriting was identified by Milwaukee detectives as belonging to one Jack Cohen who has operated in Wisconsin and throughout the Middle West for the past 32 years. The detectives gave Koth his picture and it was later identified by the local merchant as being the culprit who had swindled him.

Although the man has not as yet been apprehended Koth has learned that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has entered the hunt. Cohen has assumed numerous aliases during his criminal career which started in 1916 when he was sentenced to Joliet (Illinois) prison for forgery. He has been known as Bernie Cohen, Bennie Kaitz and Bennie Ketz. He has been in and out of jail almost continuously since his first arrest and conviction in 1916.

JEST JESTIN'

Vermont's Scenic Wonders

EVERY summer the farmers in a certain section of Vermont would have as many "paying guests" as they could handle. It was a good business for the farmers, but it greatly puzzled one of them.

One day, after the work was done, when he was sitting on the porch with a visitor, the puzzled farmer asked, "Why do you people come up here every year? Nothin' here that I can see."

"Why, the scenery, man. It's glorious!" The farmer looked around. "Huh," he said. "Tain't so hot. Take away the mountains and the lake and what have you got?"

No Assistance
Tearing down the street as fast as he could go was a little man, and behind him toiled the bartender of the local tavern in hot pursuit. At the corner a policeman stood regarding the scene with a smile.

"Why don't you help me catch him?" bellowed the bartender, as he drew alongside the man in blue. The policeman looked surprised. "He told me that you were racing for the price of a drink," he said. "So I am," shouted the bartender. "He didn't pay for it!"

Jane—Foolish talk.
Toni—if I could only tell you how much I love you.
Jane—Think of something new.
Toni—Will you marry me?
Jane—Well, now you're talking.

Makes a Difference
Two strangers had been paired in the golf club tournament. One was Colonel Thunder, red of face, wild of stroke, free of tongue. The other was a meek man introduced as Dr. Pywell. At the first bunker Colonel Thunder took a long, silent look at his ball, then turned and exclaimed—
"Pardon me, doctor, but before I tackle this lie, would you mind telling me if you're a D. D. or an M. D.?"

HOMEMADE REMEDY

Night found them far from town, so they decided to sleep beside a haystack.
"What are you going to use for a pillow?" asked the first.
"This old piece of drain pipe," the other one said.
"Drain pipe," the friend exclaimed, "that'll be too hard, won't it?"
"Dummy," said number two, "I'm going to stuff it with hay!"

Tennis Skill
Little Betty had played her first game of tennis and when her mother asked her how she did, Betty replied proudly: "I hit three girls with the ball and one with the racket."

Going Up!
Mrs. Henpeck—Everything is going up.
Mr. Henpeck—Oh, I don't know. For instance, there's your opinion of me, my opinion of you, and the neighbor's opinion of us both.

LATE AGAIN

Boss—You are 20 minutes late again. Don't you know what time we start work around here?
No, sir, they're always working when I get here.

Added Information

A suspicious wife made a surprise call at her husband's office. Encountering his new secretary, she introduced herself, then added: "I've been wanting to meet you. You see, my husband has told me so little about you."

Romantic Interlude

Sal—Cantcha ever say anyt' romantic, Slim?
Slim—Shore, gal. You're more like a rose than anything I ever smelt.

HOW IT STARTED

MAUSOLEUM is derived from Mausolus, King of Caria in Asia Minor, whose magnificent sepulcher stood in Halicarnassus from 353 B. C. to 1375 A. D., when it was destroyed by an earthquake.
STRAFE comes from the 1914 German phrase: "Gott strafe England" (God punish England), and is used to denote the infliction of damage by gun-fire.
"WHITE ELEPHANT"—When the King of Siam wanted to run a member of his court, he gave him a present of a white elephant. This was ruinous because a white elephant was sacred and could not be put to work but had to be maintained.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: I have taken all the paint off a wicker set down to its natural color. Now I would like to know what I can put on it to preserve it, as it is very dry. Should I varnish it or leave it as it is?
ANSWER: If you have used a commercial paint remover to clean off the old finish, you should go over the surfaces with turpentine in order to take off every trace of the remover; otherwise your new finish will fail. If you like the color, you can finish the pieces with spar or quick-drying varnish. This should protect the furniture, especially if it is to be exposed to sunlight. Otherwise you can use clear lacquer, which would give a lighter finish.
QUESTION: My living room is finished in natural wormy chestnut that has been waxed. How can I clean it?
ANSWER: There are many good cleaning preparations on general sale which should serve your purpose. An alternative would be to clean off the soiled wax with a liquid wax that is meant just for cleaning waxed surfaces. Still another method would be to go over the woodwork with a cloth dampened with turpentine, then apply a thin coat of paste wax, and when dry polish thoroughly.

Coal Miners, Lumbermen Have Dangerous Jobs
Coal mining and lumbering rank as the most dangerous jobs in America, according to "Accident Facts," statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council.
Reports to the council show that disabling injuries per one million man-hours totaled 59.74 for the lumbering industry and 54.46 for coal mining. The average for all reporting industries was 13.26.
There were 7.96 days lost per 1,000 man-hours worked in coal mining, and 5.24 in lumbering, as compared to 1.23 days for all reporting industries.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Modern life with its busy and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling, feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

HIGH COURT: Protects Accused

The Supreme court split 5 to 4 on the issue, but the nation's highest tribunal sustained what Justice Black said was "an established rule" in holding that, in the United States, every person accused of crime is considered innocent until proven guilty. The court ruled that the rights of persons accused of crime extend to the guilty as well as the innocent. DISSENTERS to the rule were Justices Jackson, Burton and Reed, and Chief Justice Vinson. The majority opinion held in effect that:

Regardless of whether there is any "thi. degree," a confession is invalid if it is obtained while a prisoner is being held illegally through failure to carry him promptly before a committing magistrate. An actual emergency must exist to justify search and seizure without a warrant. A person accused of serious crime has unqualified right to counsel when he needs that help for adequate defense. JUSTICE BLACK said the main finding in an earlier case which set the precedent was that prisoners must be taken promptly before a magistrate. He added that the "plain purpose" of this was to "check resort by officers to secret interrogation of persons accused of crime."

As one of the dissenters, Justice Reed held that the court's decision broadly extended the old rule. By his interpretation that rule was that psychological pressure, or, at least, something more than illegal detention, must be present to invalidate a confession. He summed up: "This decision puts another weapon into the hands of the criminal world."

U. S. TOP MEN: Need More Pay

Congress would be asked to do something about it. The salaries of top U. S. officials were too low. For example, cabinet officials should get $25,000 annually, instead of the present $15,000. It was none other than Budget Director James E. Webb talking. He told a senate civil service subcommittee that "the need for men of ability in the government has never been more critical. Establishment of more adequate rates of pay for top government positions is an essential step."

WEBB HURRIED to explain that he was not speaking for President Truman when he urged that the President's salary be raised. He said he had not even discussed the subject with the President. Declaring that any salary paid the chief executive would be low, he added that "$150,000 a year would be far more acceptable than the present $75,000."

Webb also suggested that the President be provided with a "realistic" expense account, and that the $25,000 salary of the vice president be brought more in line with that of the President. The sub-committee was told: "No job in the world is more grueling than that of the President. No soldier fights harder for his country than does the commander-in-chief."

SEAWAY: 'Round and 'Round

Washington newsmen might have been pardoned had they uttered an involuntary: "Here we go again." For President Truman, at a news conference, stated that he was going to press again for congressional approval of legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. THE OPT-PROPOSED international project has as yet failed to win congressional approval. The President reiterated his intention to ask for an okay for the proposal after a reporter asked: "Mr. President, are you again going to press for development of the St. Lawrence?"

The President replied that he certainly was. He added that he had urged approval for the multi-million dollar project in almost all of his state of the Union messages to congress. ON ONE of these occasions he termed the proposed project "one of the greatest engineering projects of all times."

At his conference, the President said he did not favor New York's plan to develop jointly with the province of Ontario the hydro-electric part of the St. Lawrence project. Maybe New, Maybe Old

Astronomers Report Discovery of Planet

Perhaps it was new, maybe it was old, but "1948-AA" had flashed into the ken of astronomers as a "minor" planet. Showing little originality, the telescope-peepers dubbed it with the numeral of the year in which it appeared. It was traveling a route, they said, which brings it within 140 million miles of earth. Further study will be required to determine whether the object is a new, or just an old-timer planet making a new appearance. It's next close approach will be in July, 1949. There are about 1,500 known minor planets believed to be remnants of larger celestial bodies which shattered. EXPANDING: Bigger Guard

The National Guard, expanding, had room for more than 16,000 officers. Here's how civilians could get commissions: ex-officers with at least six months in World War II; anyone up to 32 years with a year of service and who would complete an army correspondence course; college or ROTC graduate; any man offered a commission in the army during war. Still a Dream

The larger car makers may some day build a lighter, cheaper automobile—but not for a while. Every time the industry announces a price increase, the much-talked-about, lighter-weight car gets another going over. Aside from all other reasons advanced for not building such a car, the fact remained that manufacturers did not need it now to stimulate sales.

Over the Teacups

Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, first lady of China, and Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the U. S. secretary of state, leave Blair house after having had tea with President and Mrs. Truman. No body would admit whether or not Mrs. Chiang made her plea for more aid to China over the presidential teacups.

FIRE BELLS: Some Are Lucky

With headlines screeching of death and injury in two major hotel fires, the nation's attention was turned again to the potential tragedies lurking in so many of its hostleries.

FIVE LOST their lives, 11 were injured and 187 were forced to flee flames in Chicago's old, 17-story Loop hotel, the Victoria. Two of the dead were navy men on leave. Three victims were trapped in their rooms. One was found in the blackened fifth-floor hallway. Another died several hours after he was led from his blazing room.

Just three days earlier, fire struck Chicago's Hubbard hotel, but that time all guests escaped the $100,000 blaze which destroyed the structure. LUCKIEST GUEST: Mrs. Ann Wells. Twice within the three days she escaped death or injuries from the fires. A guest at the Victoria, she got safely out there, fled unscathed with the 150 guests who escaped the Hubbard hotel blaze.

It was too early to determine cause of the fires, but it was safe to assume that investigations would get underway swiftly as probes sought to eliminate fire hazards. Observers wondered if there were a cycle in the making.

'INVASION': To the South

Tiny Costa Rica, erupting in strife, held front page space in the nation's press with charges that an "invasion" was being made from Nicaragua territory. Who, or what, was behind the Costa Rican muddle? Communists again? That accusation was hurled. The Costa Rican government charged that dissident exiles, defeated in last spring's civil war, ganged up with "Communists" and Nicaraguan national guardsmen to launch the invasion. THE COSTA RICAN incident was nothing to be ignored. The little country, smaller than South Carolina, is literally in Uncle Sam's own backyard and the issues involved were serious enough to inerit first-class concern. The problem seemed squarely up to the western hemisphere republics—for, under the Rio Pact providing for American help to repel an armed invasion, the foreign ministers of the 21 republics would have to determine whether there really has been an invasion, who is to blame, and what to do about it. Their findings could result in the dispatch of American and other troops to the aid of the Costa Rican government.

THERE WERE FEW, however, who felt this would happen. The situation was too muddled to justify any definite forecasts, but some facts were clear. For instance, the claimed invasion was incredibly small, Costa Rica, herself, placed the number of invaders at 200 or 300 men. If Communists were involved it was unlikely that Anastasio Somoza, strong-man dictator of Nicaragua, and an enemy of the Communists, had anything to do with it. Instead, the row looks more like a post-election quarrel carried on in the time-honored Latin American way—the "outs" resorting to bullets and bayonets in efforts to oust the "ins." But, if the invaders were really aided by Nicaragua, then the matter quite properly was a situation for hemispheric concern.

NEW STARTER: For Jets

The navy has announced the first successful self-starter for jet and turboprop aircraft engines. At present these engines are started with cumbersome storage batteries or other heavy auxiliary units outside the plane. THE RADICALLY NEW self-starter, which can be used on both fighters and bombers, weighs only 88 pounds and can be carried in the planes.

This, the navy said, will enable jet or turboprop aircraft to use out-of-the-way bases which are not equipped to start their engines. The turbine engine powering the starter also can be used for air conditioning, cabin pressurization, heating and de-icing, and to operate other power-consuming devices.

The power source of the new starter is a gas turbine engine identical in principle with the engine it serves. It uses fuel from the plane's regular tanks. IN ANNOUNCING the new starter, the navy hinted at much larger jet engines. It said the new starter is more powerful than is needed for engines now in service, and will be installed on aircraft types already announced or in use.

There are two versions of the small, multiple-use gas turbine. Both were developed under navy contract by the Air-Research Manufacturing Company, of Los Angeles. They took 3 1/2 years and two million dollars to perfect.

The navy said use of the engines is not confined to aircraft. They may be adapted for ground auxiliary work on power units and in industrial applications.

EDUCATION: By Congress?

A national scholarship program for college and university students will be proposed to the 81st congress, according to an announcement by the National Education Association. DR. RALPH McDONALD, executive secretary of the NEA's department on higher education, said the program will have bipartisan support.

Department officials have estimated the program would require a minimum appropriation of over 100 million dollars for the first year. They said this would open the doors of many colleges to approximately 250,000 able students. The scholarships would be awarded on the basis of ability. Only the highest one-fourth or one-third of high school graduates would be eligible.

As a basis for the legislation, McDonald said, the department will urge these provisions in the bill: NO FEDERAL CONTROL of either the institution or the student. A stipend of at least $400 or $500 annually. Freedom of the student to select his own school and course of study. Safeguards, against any discrimination in scholarship awards because of race, creed, sex, or other "social circumstance."

McDonald indicated it was not planned to have the bill take precedence over any measure to give federal aid to the states for elementary or secondary education. Sign of the Times

Rep. Karl E. Mundt (R., S. D.), acting chairman of the house un-American activities committee, looked like he was trying to put the hex on suspected Communists in the U. S. when he announced that the committee would subpoena 12 important witnesses for questioning in the Red spy inquiry.

NOT CLOTHES: But Birthplace

As the army sees it, it isn't clothes that make the man—it's where he's born. MAKING PUBLIC a study on the subject, the army declared that a man's geographical background has a lot to do with his muscles. Experts from Harvard university's department of anthropology compiled the findings for the army.

New Englanders tended to be strong, while the weakest of the males were from the South Atlantic states. The Middle Atlantic states, like New England, abound in "well-muscled types." The Middle Atlantic area had the most fat men. SOLDIERS FROM the Pacific states were generally found to be well-balanced in fat and muscle. Those from the mountain states are often medium fat but muscular, or very fat.

Men from the west north central states lean to average build. Their neighbors slightly to the east, however, included a number of hefty and muscular specimens of masculine humanity. In the south central area, men from the western section appeared to be better muscled than their neighbors to the east.

Glorify Holiday Leftovers!

(See Recipes Below.)

After-Holiday Meals

SMART HOMEMAKERS, instead of looking on holiday leftovers with scorn will welcome having them because they save time in meal preparation as well as conserving time in marketing. Who doesn't welcome succulent slices of ham, turkey or roast beef when served with slices of bread or rolls? They're the refrigerator raiders' delight!

Then, too, there are excellent dishes which Mom can prepare quickly from vegetables and roast. Everything's cooked and needs just a bit of ingenuity and heating to make them ready for the table! To make leftovers palatable, it's best to disguise them completely. With the right recipes, it isn't much of a trick, and it's fun, too, to test your ingenuity.

Chicken Rice Loaf (Serves 6)

2 cups diced, cooked chicken or turkey. 2 cups cooked green peas. 2 cups cooked rice. 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento. 2 egg yolks, beaten. 1/2 cup milk. 1 tablespoon minced onion. 1 teaspoon salt. Dash of pepper.

Combine chicken, peas, rice and pimiento. Add milk to egg yolks, then fold into chicken-vegetable mixture. Add onion, salt and pepper. Place in a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for one hour. Serve with cream or mushroom sauce. Place pan of Cranberry Peach Taffies in same oven during the last half hour of baking time.

Cranberry Peach Taffies

4 canned peach halves. 1/2 cup jellied cranberry sauce. 2 tablespoons butter. 6 tablespoons brown sugar.

Drain peach halves. Cut cranberry sauce into one-half inch slices, then cut each slice in cubes. Crumble butter and brown sugar together. Place cranberry sugar cubes into hollows of peach halves, allowing at least two cubes to each peach half. Sprinkle with butter-sugar mixture. Place in shallow pan and bake during last half hour with Chicken Rice Loaf.

IF YOU HAD HAM for Christmas, you're undoubtedly looking for a smooth way to get rid of the ham shreds. This main dish loaf stretches the ham with unflavored gelatin and cheese and will make nearly as big a hit with your family and friends as the whole ham. Serve it for a buffet meal or snack with a green salad.

Ham Loaf (Serves 6)

1 envelope unflavored gelatin. 1/2 cup cold water. 1/2 cup hot water. 1/4 teaspoon salt. 1/4 cup vinegar. 1/4 cup diced celery.

Green peppers, filled with creamed macaroni or spaghetti mixed with leftover holiday meats can be baked for mighty good eating. Add some dabs of leftover vegetables to the mixture, if you like. Have some leftover cranberry sauce? Heat it and use as the liquid with lemon-flavored gelatin. Mold with other leftover fruits for a salad after the holidays.

Keep jars of sandwich spread on hand in the refrigerator for quick entertaining. Ham, egg and tuna fish salad are good stand-bys. Butter cookies will look frosty and full of the holiday spirit if they are rolled in powdered sugar while still warm. Whipped cream, when used for puddings, looks more decorative if you color and flavor it with a little maraschino cherry juice. Apples for salad or meat garnish are attractive if they are cooked in a sugar syrup with some red cinnamon candies have been added.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

Hot Tomato Juice. Chicken Rice Loaf. Cranberry Peach Taffies. Molded Leftover Fruit Salad. French-Fried Eggplant. Bran Muffins. Cookies. Beverage. *Recipe given.

1/4 cup diced sweet pickle. 1 cup grated American cheese. 1 cup diced cooked ham.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Add hot water and salt and stir until dissolved. Add vinegar. Chill until the mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Mix in celery and pickle; divide mixture into two parts; to one, add the grated cheese, to the other, the diced ham. Turn ham mixture into loaf pan and chill until almost firm; add cheese mixture and chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens and serve with tomato wedges.

IF YOU want a hot dish out of the leftover ham, then combine it with spaghetti as in the following recipe:

Spaghetti-Ham Ring (Serves 6)

1/4 cup spaghetti, uncooked. 3 eggs. 1/4 teaspoon salt. 2 teaspoons grated onion. 2 cups ground, leftover ham. 2 tablespoons shortening. 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. 1/2 cup top milk.

Break spaghetti into small pieces and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Beat eggs slightly, add seasoning, milk and ham. Mix with spaghetti which has been rinsed and drained. Grease a ring mold with the shortening and pour in ham-spaghetti mixture. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Turn onto a platter and fill the center with buttered broccoli, peas or other vegetables.

WHEN YOU HAVE just a little turkey left from the roast, it can be extended with oysters in this savory pie:

Turkey-Oyster Pie (Serves 6)

1 cup small oysters. 2 cups leftover turkey, cut in strips. 1 cup leftover turkey gravy. 1 cup milk. 1 tablespoon butter. 1 tablespoon flour. 1 teaspoon salt. 1/4 teaspoon pepper. 1/4 cup mushrooms, if desired. 1/2 recipe plain pastry.

Combine first four ingredients. Heat to boiling and simmer gently until oysters curl. Melt butter, add flour, salt and pepper. Add to turkey mixture. If fresh mushrooms are used, saute them before adding to turkey mixture. Pour into deep, nine-inch pastry tin. Top with slashed crust. Bake in hot (425-degree) oven until top is browned. For pastry, use one cup flour, one-third cup lard, one-half teaspoon salt and two to three tablespoons cold water.

Released by WNU Features. Sliced ham combined with a spread of mustard butter makes a wonderful snack for ice box raiders. A mighty tasty way to serve leftover turkey or chicken is to heat the sauce on a cookie sheet to chill, then cut with a star cookie cutter and place on top of the puddings. Fruit cake looks best when sliced very thin. In place of pudding for dessert, it may be served with a clear, thickened and flavored pudding sauce. Try celery and almonds in your stuffing for turkey or chicken if you want a real flavor treat. A lovely red and green vegetable dish for the holidays uses asparagus with tomato sauce.

WALTER BUTTON GOES HUNTING

By JOHN SHARDA

Walter wasn't the hunting type but, encouraged by his wife, he decided to try his luck. He thought he cut quite a fetching figure in the togs he rigged up, but unfortunately, he learned that a man needs more than appearance to bag some game.

EMMA BUTTON laid aside the sweater she was knitting and cleared her throat. Her husband, Walter, instantly snapped to attention. His lean frame had been comfortably sprawled in his favorite chair, but now he was sitting up straight.

"We could save a lot of money on our meat bill," began Emma, "if you'd get out and do some hunting." Walter remained silent. He was accustomed to being mildly startled by his wife's remarks.

"Zeke Smith goes hunting nearly every Saturday," she continued. "And he always comes home with two or three rabbits. Sadie says they save a right smart amount each week."

Walter thought it was time he said something. "I've never done any hunting, Emma. Zeke's been doing it all his life."

"Humph!" Emma snorted. You can learn, can't you? And there's a perfectly good shotgun rusting his eye to see the handsome reflection he made in the mirror. Not bad at all, he thought.

Emma caught sight of him through the open doorway as he was preening himself. "My, my," she intoned sarcastically, "aren't you the sportsman, though." Her husband hung his head in silence. A fiery blotch of red appeared at his neck and rose rapidly upward until it covered his countenance. He attempted to beat a hasty retreat, but Emma wasn't finished.

"If I were you, Walter Button, I'd wait until I brought home some big game before I started play-acting in front of a mirror." This powerful verbal blast shook Walter visibly.

Finally he managed to blurt, "I guess I'll go to bed. Got to get up early in the morning." Upstairs he scrambled at a reckless pace.

Saturday morning dawned bright and cold. A light snow had fallen. Walter bounded out of bed with unusual vigor when the alarm sounded. "It's a wonderful day to go hunting," he said as he peered out the window. Without waiting to awaken Emma he dressed hurriedly and stole downstairs.

Quickly he fixed himself a breakfast of bacon and eggs and coffee. While he gulped the food he thought about the adventure which lay ahead. Maybe he'd get half a dozen rabbits! Perhaps a pheasant! Why hadn't he gone hunting before, he asked himself. This was a real he-man sport.

The sun was just a weak, red ball in the eastern sky as Walter headed his little pre-war coupe toward the city limits. About two miles out, he found the corn field which was to be the scene of his debut as a modern nimrod. He parked the car carefully just off the road in a little grove of trees. He clambered out, laden with shotgun, knapsack, binoculars and a great quantity of shells which were distributed among his pockets. He gave the car door a nudge but it failed to shut. However, rather than set down his burdens he disregarded it. The snow had stopped. It wouldn't hurt to leave the car door open.

Off across the field he started, his head held high and shoulders squared. If only Emma could see him now!

The corn field looked extremely low, but Walter wasn't daunted. The bigger the field, the more rabbits there would be, he figured with logic. He wondered idly if he'd be able to carry all his furry victims back to the car in one trip.

By the time he was half way to the end of the field, the bitterly cold wind had chilled him to the bone. His gun had grown surprisingly heavy and it was an effort to move his feet. But still he plodded on. The corn stalks lay like white branches on the uneven soil. And as yet, no rabbits had appeared. Not a single one. They're probably all down at the end of the field, thought Walter.

But at the end of the field, there were no rabbits. Nor did he encounter any on the way back. When he finally observed the car in the distance, Walter felt as though he had tramped a thousand miles.

"What will I tell Emma?" he asked himself out loud. She would scarcely believe that he hadn't even seen a single rabbit. Instead, she'd accuse him of being a poor shot, or of forgetting to load his gun. Hastily he checked. Yes, it was loaded.

"But I'd have to buy a hunting license," remonstrated Walter, weakly.

away up in the attic because nobody uses it." She was referring to a weapon of questionable age and condition that Walter had been given by his grandfather.

"But I'd have to buy a hunting license," remonstrated Walter, weakly. He saw his line of defense being methodically torn down by his wife.

Emma regarded him deliberately. "One little cotton-tail rabbit would more than pay for a license."

Walter surrendered. He might as well make the best of it now.

"Yes, that's true," he agreed. "And the exercise might do me good."

"Of course it would, dear," Emma beamed. As usual she had emerged the victor. "Today's Thursday, why don't you go Saturday?" she queried. Emma was not one to put things off once she had made up her mind.

"That's awfully soon," said Walter, even though he knew it wouldn't do much good to stall. "I'll have to give the gun a thorough cleaning and buy some shells."

Emma glared at him. "You can think of more silly excuses," she scoffed. "Now let's hear no more about it. Come Saturday, (here she paused significantly) you're going hunting!" With these parting words she bundled up her knitting and stalked haughtily out of the room.

As Walter heard her heavy footsteps echoing up the stairs he addressed himself to the empty room.

"Well, that's that." He, too, went upstairs to find solace in a good night's sleep.

The next day, after work, Walter went up to explore the attic. He found the shotgun standing in a well-cobwebbed corner. It was covered with a thick coat of dust, and in spots it had begun to rust. Walter shook his head sadly. Nevertheless, he carried it downstairs and set to work. Emma nodded approval.

When he had finished, Walter could not help being a little proud of his efforts. The gun gleamed from the tip of the barrel to the end of the stock.

In spite of himself, Walter began to feel somewhat excited. This was his first hunting trip and he intended to make it a successful one.

On his way home from the office that afternoon he had stopped in at the hardware store to get some shells. The proprietor had been most helpful. Walter thought. Not only had he advised him concerning the proper type of ammunition, but he had recommended a particular corn field where, according to him, the rabbits were incredibly plentiful.

Later that evening, Walter surveyed himself in front of the full-length mirror in the hall. He had donned some khaki trousers which he had bought a year ago at a war surplus store but had never worn. A green jacket and red cap completed his costume. He practiced aiming the gun at imaginary targets, glancing out of the corner of

For three days Mollie hadn't heard Jim step his foot on the stairs. Says Santa Claus won't come without a cedar tree all decorated with tinsel and lights.

They'd set up the tree and decorated it and invited her up to look at it and eat fluffy popcorn that Betty'd popped in an old iron skillet on the stove.

Betty's step sounded on the stairs, and after a moment she and Mike came into the room. "I'm going downtown to buy a few groceries," Mrs. Elmer said. "Would it be too much trouble to keep Mike while I'm gone?"

Mike ran into Mollie's arms, and Mollie smiled up at Betty. "Of course not, dear. Mike and I will play train—and ball. . . ." She got out the little train she kept for Mike when he came to visit her.

After a while an odd, happy glow came into Mollie's dim blue eyes, and she asked Mike, "would you like to go over to see Aunt Tillie, dear?"

"Aunt Tillie gave me little bags of candy. 'Le's go—le's go!'" He jumped up and down with excitement.

They'd hardly reached Tillie Smith's little house across the street when Mollie asked Tillie, "Would you keep Mike a little while, Tillie? I have something I must take care of at the house. I'll not be gone long."

"Why, yes, Mollie, I'll take care of Mike. We'll get along fine," she said.

Mollie sat in Pa's old rocker by the heater and a strange little prayer slipped from her lips, "Dear God, forgive me, but it can't be a sin."

She became silent and fastened a frightened look upon Betty who had returned from town with her arms loaded with groceries.

"He's gone . . . Betty, he's GONE!" No . . . it wasn't Jim who took him. . . . She managed the falsehood, but somehow she wasn't feeling bad inside for doing it.

Mollie hardly knew what happened after she'd spoken the lie; only that Betty had dropped her groceries in the middle of the floor and had dashed to the telephone to call Jim.

Then after Jim was there, holding Betty in his arms and trying to stop her tears, and the whole neighborhood was roused with the news that someone had taken little Mike, Tillie Smith and Mike walked in the back door.

"Well—" Tillie said in surprise at the neighborhood gathering. "What's this? A New Year's party? Mollie, I thought you intended to come back for Mike."

Betty and Jim were holding Mike between them and laughing now. Presently their eyes slipped to Mollie sitting quietly in the old rocker, and Betty said, so that only Jim could hear, "Bless her heart, Jim! Bless her heart!"

None of Her Business

By PAPISTA KNOWLES

IT WASN'T any of her business, of course. But the fact didn't get her from worrying over the situation that was as evident as the nose on her face between Jim and Betty upstairs. She'd slept very little the night before from thinking about them. And now she sat in Pa's old rocker by the heater in the front room, listening to Mike's little feet patter across the floor above her. She wondered what an old widow could do to righten things between two that she'd come to love as her own children.

For three days Mollie hadn't heard Jim step his foot on the stairs, which substantiated the news she'd heard that morning from Tillie Smith across the street that Jim was staying in a room downtown.

Everything had been alright at Christmas, apparently. Jim had shouldered a cedar tree up the stairs that'd been almost too big to get through the door, and he'd said to Mollie, grinning his infectious grin through the cedar branches, "Mike

Then after Jim was there, holding Betty in his arms and trying to stop her tears, and the whole neighborhood was roused with the news that someone had taken little Mike, Tillie Smith and Mike walked in the back door.

"Well—" Tillie said in surprise at the neighborhood gathering. "What's this? A New Year's party? Mollie, I thought you intended to come back for Mike."

Betty and Jim were holding Mike between them and laughing now. Presently their eyes slipped to Mollie sitting quietly in the old rocker, and Betty said, so that only Jim could hear, "Bless her heart, Jim! Bless her heart!"

GEM SESSION

Twinkle, Twinkle — Everybody's collecting rhinestone jewelry. When you see how divine those Poor Man's Diamonds look with the prom formal in Calling All Girls, you'll know why. Choker necklaces, bracelets and earrings are the favorites. You like to fasten rhinestone clips to your black suede ballerinas, too.

Borrowed Brooches—You're all borrowing mother's cameo brooch, and, if you're lucky, she has a large one with a diamond hanging like a pendant around the cameo lady's swan like neck. You make sure it has a good safety catch; then you wear it to school with your Gibson blouse and swirling, long skirt. Next thing you know, they're describing your outfit in the school papers.

Honestly, our bark is worse than our bite. Or, as the little dog said when he wiped his paws on sandpaper, "Rough, rough!"

Prayer After Pain

HOW can he thank Thee, Lord, for the good grain Who has not conquered thistle and brier and weed?

How can he thank Thee for the sweet wild rain Who has not trod parched lands above dead seed?

How can he lift a grateful heart for peace Who has not known some red-hot battlefield?

O Lord, how can he comprehend reward Who has not felt at last an old wound healed?

Out of earth's agony white flowers shine; Above the old scared fields wild grasses run; Out of the crushed fruits of the sun comes wine; Out of the night the morning star—the sun.

For every hour of pain that we have had— Even for these—Lord, help us to be glad.

Oceans Becoming Saltier; Blame Is Placed on Rivers

Is the ocean getting saltier? Yes, it is, say oceanographers, whose business it is to study such things as how salty is salt water, and why.

The open Atlantic ocean anywhere a few miles off the United States coast beyond range of dilution by the many rivers, averages about 3.6 per cent salt—a shade more than the average for all oceans. So uniform are ocean waters over most of the globe that

Only in a few places does their salt drop below 3.3 per cent or rise above 3.8 per cent, says the National Geographic society in a recent report.

Millions of years ago, as scientists reckon, ocean and river waters were probably much the same. Even purest river water, however, carries a tiny per cent of salts acquired in draining the earth's crust. Salts also reach the oceans by way of undersea springs.

Once in the ocean, the salts stay behind, while the sun carries on its work of evaporation which lifts pure water back onto the continents. Thus the oceans grow increasingly saltier due largely to the sweet rivers which dilute ocean saltness along the continent shores.

Saltiest of all ocean areas is the Red Sea. There are no rivers to produce even inshore dilution and the hot sun speeds evaporation, so the salt content surpasses 4 per cent.

None of Her Business

By PAPISTA KNOWLES

IT WASN'T any of her business, of course. But the fact didn't get her from worrying over the situation that was as evident as the nose on her face between Jim and Betty upstairs. She'd slept very little the night before from thinking about them. And now she sat in Pa's old rocker by the heater in the front room, listening to Mike's little feet patter across the floor above her. She wondered what an old widow could do to righten things between two that she'd come to love as her own children.

For three days Mollie hadn't heard Jim step his foot on the stairs, which substantiated the news she'd heard that morning from Tillie Smith across the street that Jim was staying in a room downtown.

Everything had been alright at Christmas, apparently. Jim had shouldered a cedar tree up the stairs that'd been almost too big to get through the door, and he'd said to Mollie, grinning his infectious grin through the cedar branches, "Mike

For three days Mollie hadn't heard Jim step his foot on the stairs. Says Santa Claus won't come without a cedar tree all decorated with tinsel and lights.

They'd set up the tree and decorated it and invited her up to look at it and eat fluffy popcorn that Betty'd popped in an old iron skillet on the stove.

Betty's step sounded on the stairs, and after a moment she and Mike came into the room. "I'm going downtown to buy a few groceries," Mrs. Elmer said. "Would it be too much trouble to keep Mike while I'm gone?"

Mike ran into Mollie's arms, and Mollie smiled up at Betty. "Of course not, dear. Mike and I will play train—and ball. . . ." She got out the little train she kept for Mike when he came to visit her.

After a while an odd, happy glow came into Mollie's dim blue eyes, and she asked Mike, "would you like to go over to see Aunt Tillie, dear?"

"Aunt Tillie gave me little bags of candy. 'Le's go—le's go!'" He jumped up and down with excitement.

They'd hardly reached Tillie Smith's little house across the street when Mollie asked Tillie, "Would you keep Mike a little while, Tillie? I have something I must take care of at the house. I'll not be gone long."

"Why, yes, Mollie, I'll take care of Mike. We'll get along fine," she said.

Mollie sat in Pa's old rocker by the heater and a strange little prayer slipped from her lips, "Dear God, forgive me, but it can't be a sin."

She became silent and fastened a frightened look upon Betty who had returned from town with her arms loaded with groceries.

"He's gone . . . Betty, he's GONE!" No . . . it wasn't Jim who took him. . . . She managed the falsehood, but somehow she wasn't feeling bad inside for doing it.

Mollie hardly knew what happened after she'd spoken the lie; only that Betty had dropped her groceries in the middle of the floor and had dashed to the telephone to call Jim.

Then after Jim was there, holding Betty in his arms and trying to stop her tears, and the whole neighborhood was roused with the news that someone had taken little Mike, Tillie Smith and Mike walked in the back door.

"Well—" Tillie said in surprise at the neighborhood gathering. "What's this? A New Year's party? Mollie, I thought you intended to come back for Mike."

Betty and Jim were holding Mike between them and laughing now. Presently their eyes slipped to Mollie sitting quietly in the old rocker, and Betty said, so that only Jim could hear, "Bless her heart, Jim! Bless her heart!"

Gregorian Calendar Was Slow In Adoption

Great Britain and her colonies adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1752, the Julian calendar having been 11 days slow by that time, parliament ordered that the day following September 3, 1752, would be September 14, and that the legal year should begin on January 1.

The Gregorian calendar is, in effect, a revision edition of the old Roman calendar.

The ancient Roman year began with the month of March and ended with December, the 10th month.

Continental Europe had universally adopted the Gregorian calendar by 1700 but Great Britain, frowning upon anything originating in Rome as Pagan, continued the use of the old calendar—with its legal year beginning on March 25—until the confusion arising from using a different calendar than the one used by continental Europe prompted the adoption of the Gregorian calendar in 1752.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

ANNA STEN is so pretty (with honey-blond hair and gray-blue eyes) and so talented that she should never have left the screen. Fortunately her husband, Eugene Frenke, persuaded her to appear in his first independent production, "Let's Live a Little." She has the second lead in the Robert Cummings-Hedy Lamarr comedy, Samuel Goldwyn brought Miss Sten to this country after she had made a brilliant reputation on the stage and screen in Europe. "Nana," her first American picture, established her here, but after making several more she retired in 1944. There's the girl who should play the lead in "Madame Bovary!"

Just how a Miss America is picked will be shown in 20th Century-Fox's Movietone short, "Fair of Face and Form," with this year's winner, Be Be Shopp, and four runners-up appearing under Vyvyan Donner's direction.

Art Linkletter says his "House Party" cast will be learning their ABC's when the program moves to that network January 3 after four years on CBS. Art is still chuckling over the time when one of his school-children guests said she wanted to be a cowgirl, explaining that a cowgirl differs from a cowboy in that she cares for lady cows!

Ingrid Bergman has a film the general public will never see. It is the story of the making of "Joan of Arc." The principals of the 16 mm. movie are her co-stars. Whenever she was not before the cameras she got hers out and went to work. Her interest in photography dates from her Stockholm childhood when her father photographed her birthday parties.

Coleen Gray will make her stage debut opposite Richard Hart, in "Leaf and Bough." Hart was rushed to Hollywood when starring in "Dark of the Moon," and given a long-term contract. You saw him in "Green Dolphin Street" and "Desire Me." But the movies proved a disappointing medium for him, as for so many stage actors—the first time at least.

Women school teachers have usually been shown on the screen as plain, bleak spinsters far too long. RKO has done something about it in "The Boy with Green Hair" Barbara Hale, former model, plays a teacher.

Jane and Peter Fonda, Henry's offspring, are going to make a lot of money. They are among the backers of "Anne of the Thousand Days" and will play in which Rex Harrison, as Henry VIII, has scored such a terrific success. The play is one of the best that has opened in New York in a long time and will probably run indefinitely.

Sabu, now in Columbia's "Song of India," has written his own story of the Indian jungle, "The Return of the Elephant Boy," and will make it in the locale where he did "Elephant Boy." It will be done on a colossal scale, in color. Sabu says he can probably make the picture in India for about one-fifth of what it would cost here.

Though he's not connected with "We, the People," CBS producer Ed Coates was the busiest man at a recent rehearsal and broadcast. His regular assignments include such programs as "The F. B. I. at Peace and War" and the New York Philharmonic. But "We, the People" was important because of a guest on the program—Dorothy Kirsten, his wife.

ODDS AND ENDS—Gil Stratton Jr. head on "The Great Gildersleeve" in a variety of roles, has been cast for a featured part in 20th Century-Fox's "Mr. Belvedere Goes to College." . . . Lionel Barrymore's "Mayor of the Town," once on CBS but more recently on ABC, is set to be heard on Mutual. . . . Paul Lovell's "Band of America" is decked out in uniforms with bright green pea-jackets. . . . Patricia Neal posed for 417 portrait studies while making "The Fountainhead," said to be an all-time high. . . . Bob Hawk averages 264 words a minute every broadcast.

Bob Crosby, brother of Bing, recently revealed that there is a "fargotter Crosby." "There's another one of us nobody ever hears about," said he. "He'll probably wind up lending money to Bing—he's a used-car salesman in Seattle."

Fonda, of course, can appear as long as he likes in "Mr. Roberts." He will also do the film version. James Stewart has his eye on taking over the leading role when Fonda takes time off to make the picture.

MOLINE, ILL. — Kenneth R. Shields, 28-year-old switchman overleapt and missed his bus to work.

What Shields didn't know as he was carried to the hospital, where both legs were amputated.

Scientists Manufacture New Chemical to Aid Heartbeat

RENSELAER, N. Y. — Scientists here are making a chemical believed to be identical with one involved in transmitting nerve impulses to the heart.

Their man-made chemical is levotartrol, obtained from the breakdown of the synthetic drug atropine. It was isolated by Dr. Maurice L. Tainter, director, and Dr. Froilan Luduena and Benjamin Tuller of the Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute.

Apparently Dr. Tainter said, the chemical is the same as sympathin E one of the natural go-between chemicals in the control of automatic nervous activities, such as the heartbeat, breathing, and blood pressure.

The man-made chemical is only one-fifth as toxic as adrenalin, a powerful heart stimulant. It is expected to be of great aid in research on human body functions, Dr. Tainter said.

Hit by Streamliner, Motorists Suffer Only Minor Bruises

KANKAKEE, ILL.—Two motorists were riding in a semi-trailer truck which was struck by a streamliner train traveling at 90 miles an hour—and lived to tell about it.

The lucky two, Theodore Martin and 14-year-old Rodney Smith, had started across a railroad crossing near here when they saw the Santa Fe Super Chief bearing down on them. It was too late to back up, too late to get across. The train smashed into the center of the trailer and started dragging the truck down the tracks.

But the cab, in which Martin and Smith were riding, caught on steel beams protecting the Super Chief at the crossing, and remained there while the streamliner demolished the trailer. Martin and Smith emerged with only minor cuts and bruises.

Sailors and Marines Swim Underwater in Arctic Ice

SAN DIEGO.—Marine corps and navy underwater swimmers trained during the war have penetrated Arctic ice and slush in below-surface forays in recent Alaskan maneuvers, Vice Adm. George D. Murray, commander of the first task fleet, disclosed.

Operating from submarines off Kodiak island, the rubber-suited swimmers knifed through six inches deep and brushed against four-inch ice to carry out assignments. They were able to remain in water estimated at four degrees below freezing for periods of more than an hour.

Adm. Murray said that not even during the war did swimmers operate so far north. Underwater scouting teams were developed by the marine corps and the navy during World War II to blast obstacles from enemy beaches in pre-invasion missions.

Pilot Receives a Ticket for 'PARKING' Over White House

WASHINGTON.—A helicopter pilot received a ticket for "parking" too close to the White House.

The piece of aerial history was made by Roland Roelofs of the Rotowing air service. He kept the White House police force in a dither for about 20 minutes with his whirring.

They complained that he flew down to within 200 feet of the executive man's and hovered motionless in the air while his passenger, Luis Marden, snapped their pictures.

A similar complaint came from Capitol police. They telephoned the civil aeronautics administration for some advice on how to shoot off a helicopter.

CAA Inspector Robert E. Hall promptly drew up a whole string of charges against Roelofs, all of which added up to illegal air parking.
