as at first unhappy But being a sensible person, sensible enough to look at the thing squarely, she sought for other means to achieve her end. The end was a man: love, romance.

The other means presented themselves in the form of books, learning how to put yourself across when you weren't particularly attractive; resorting to devices and technique that good looking girls didn't have to employ.

The results were exceedingly gratifying. Even now, at the age of 22, the man of her dreams was practically within her grasp. Give her another month, two at the most, and he would speak the words that would make her happiness and triumph complete.

The man's name was Glen Lamphier. He was one of those fine good looking, upstanding speci mens of young manhood. Intelligent gracious, and with a promising mum of effort. Vida had aimed high when selecting him as the object of her acquired charms, but the thought of failure had never once entered her head.

She had aroused his interest by heeding the dictates of her fiction heroines. And Glen had seen the light. He had come to realize that behind the plain features of this girl were quality, intelligence, breeding.

In a word, Vida had been success ful in her enterprise-up to a point Unhappily, it appeared now as if that point might prove a stumbling block, an unsurmountable obstacle. Coming into the living room one evening she found him waiting for her, comfortably ensconced before the fireplace, a volume of Oscar Wilde open in his lap. The fact that her entrance did not distract his at tention, piqued her no end. She hesi tated a moment before making known her presence, and in that moment the feeling of being piqued gave way to torment. Suddenly she realized 'that something had hap pened, that she was losing her hold Montgomery Clift, of "Red River" that (and "The Heiress," is the No. 1 wane. that Glen's interest was on the Always before, he had Star of Tomorrow, according to awaited her coming with eager an-Mction Picture Herald's annual ticipation glowing in his eyes.

THE BOMB: Do Reds Have It?

The arms-to-Europe program hailed the announcement as added proof of the correctness of their stand. Other congressmen blamed laxity over the past few years in our state department and defense setup for Russia's having the bomb nowif she does have it.

A noted atomic scientist declared that for Russia to contend it had the bomb in 1947 was fantastic, that the date was "one pulled out of a hat." But he said the Soviets might well have the weapon.

Most tangible result in congress of the President's statement that there had been an "atomic explosion" inside Soviet Russia was agreement by house and senate conferees on the 1.33 billion-dollar appropriation for arms to Europe. The legislators got together very quickly on the view that to cut the appropriations, as had been first planned, would be an unwise move. IN THE UNITED NATIONS, Brit-

Cripps Gets Tough Sir Stafford Cripps, British finance boss, lost no time in bringing home to the people the import of devaluation of the pound sterling as an effort toward the country's financial problems. His labor government raised the tax on business profits and threatened to restrict dividends by law in defending the devaluation move at an emergency session of parliament. At the same time, the government rejected any pay raise proposals declaring this must be done to prevent an inflationary spiral. Cripps made these moves as he opened the cabinet's appeal for a vote of confidence from the parliament.

AMERICA: The Big Story

The Advertising Council, Inc., has just issued its revised booklet, "The Miracle of America," which tells why Americans' live better, how machines make jobs and why freedom and security go together THE BOOKLET should be prescribed reading for that fast-growing element among the people's officials which seems to think everyone should apologize for America. rather than be proud of it. Approved by representatives of both labor and management. "The Miracle of America" tells in interesting, readable prose why America is great and why every American should be proud of his country. In the booklet the mythical Uncle Sam asks questions about America which might be posed by any typical American family.

EXCERPT: "Freedom and security go together," Uncle Sam as serted. "Men follow two great impulses-to be politically free and to be economically secure. In America we have won freedom and we are winning economic security Dictators promise security if the people will give up their freedom. But experience shows that freedom and economic security must grow together. The history of the United States proves it."

Americans may have a copy of 'The Miracle of America'' free of charge. Just write to: Dept. N. The Advertising Council, Inc., 45th St., New York 19, N.Y. 25 W.

The Bible has always had a significant place in the lives of Americans. Acknowledgement of and homage to a Supreme Being is inherent in the American government setup, with American trust in God declared on the nation's coins Therefore, National Bible Week. October 17-23, will be observed throughout the nation, with mayors and governors in the 48 states joining in proclamation urging the people to support the observance. OUTLINING the purpose of National Bible Week, Rear Admiral Reginald R. Belknap (USN, Retired), who is chairman, declared: National Bible Week is used to timulate people in all walks of life to be Bible conscious and to turn to the Bible in these times of national and personal moral confusion. WE NOW SEE a proud, powerful nation, whose people the world over were looked up to and respected for their sense of righteousness, fair play, charity and resourcefulness, decayed to the point where they are not shocked at . . . glaring examples of moral decay. While Chairman Belknap didn't say it in words, his examples of "moral decay" pointed at none other than Soviet Russia.

INCOME TAX: Up & Up & Up

Total income taxes collected in the United States show an increase of over 1,100 per cent in 10 years, from two and one-quarter billion dol-

Something for Nothing

POLITICAL, BUSINESS AND FARM leaders in California are awakening to the fact that Harold Ickes, when secretary of the interior, and the federal government sold the state a lemon in the guise of "something for nothing." The price that is to be paid was intimated by one of Ickes' aids when he said: "The gaining of California water and power was the first step toward political control of the state." That is a portion of the price the state is to pay for that 'something for nothing."

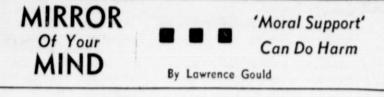

The central valley of California, lying between the high Sierras and the coast range, contains many thousands of acres of productive soil if it has water. The water is avail-able to provide both irrigation and power when it is controlled and utilized. It is California's water. No other state can have any possible claim to any part of it. Its utilization for irrigation can benefit no other people than those in that central valley. It is a California problem only.

Along came Ickes and promoted the idea that it was something the federal government should do. The people of California eagerly accepted that Ickes idea. They were more than willing the people of other states should do the paying for the salvaging for California of the state's water resources. promised "something for It nothing."

While the project is only partially completed the federal clamps are closing. The federal bureau of reclamation is calling the tune to which California farmers and others must dance.

California is a state of many big arms. They are a legacy of Spanish land grants which were recognized in the treaty with Mexico, signed following the close of the Mexican war. Under the rules laid down by the reclamation bureau, no farm of more than 160 acres will be supplied with water from the irrigation system. At the price and under the conditions the government will supply that 160 acre farmer, he can not afford to buy pieces of that big farm, even if it were offered. The price of water, based on the cost of the section so far completed, is six times as much as the cost in the state irrigated sections. It is a price for a lease only. No permanent water rights are acquired by individuals or groups. The water can stop at any moment the Washington bureaucrats may say the word, or for any reason they may assign.

To date the federal government has spent $280,000,000 on the project, with an estimated total cost individuals' paying 60 per cent of of one billion dollars when completed of which $440,000,000 has

Recipe Given

1 No. 21/2 size can plums 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup sugar 2 eggs 1 cup dried bread crumbs 1¼ cups sifted flour ¼ teaspoon baking soda 1/2 teaspoon salt sauce. Press plums through fine sieve to give 1 cup plum pulp. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat until smooth. Add plum pulp and bread crumbs. Let stand for 10 minutes. Measure and sift flour with soda, baking powder and salt. Add to plum mixture and stir until well blended. Pour into a greased eight-inch square pan and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with hot sauce:

Drain plums, reserving liquid for

1/4 cup sugar 11/2 tablespoons cornstarch 1 cup plum juice (drained from plums) 2 tablespoons butter 2 teaspoons lemon juice 1/8 teaspoon salt

Combine sugar and cornstarch. Bring plum juice to a boil and add slowly the sugar-cornstarch mixture, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thick and clean. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Serve over plum pudding. Top with hard sauce or whipped cream, if desired.

Toasted bread cubes for soup need not be made in the oven unless you're using it for something. Toast the bread in the skillet with a bit of butter.

Grated Swiss cheese may be used to replace American cheese in many dishes if you prefer the flavor. Use with eggs, chicken and asparagus especially.

Make soured milk in a hurry at home if you need it for a recipe by adding lemon juice to fresh or evaporated milk. Let stand for 5

Serve hot biscuits and muffins piping hot, right from the oven, by leaving them in their tins instead of taking time to transfer to trays or baskets.

Fry bacon over low heat and keep draining the fat off, if you want bacon to be at its best. When making sandwiches, butter both slices of bread so the filling will not soak into the bread and make it soggy.

Keep a list of leftovers you have in the skillet and cook slowly until it evaporates, then brown sausages to use them within the next day or two or you'll forget about them.

Attending the summer session of the swimming-safety school at LaGrange, Ind., Mary Margaret Barnett demonstrates how to toss a ring buoy (at right) to effect a rescue. A faculty member of the school, she teaches swimming during the winter months.

With the help of an eager student who doesn't mind staying half-under (above) Red Cross safety services director Donald Northey of Cleveland demonstrates one step in a paddle-board rescue. This is just one phase of the all-around instruction in swimming safety offered annually by the Red Cross aquatic schools in an effort to make water safety as widespread as possible.

Photo at left indicates that although the swimming-safety course is intensive and timedevouring, there is still time for play. Here, Donald Northey and William Kelly use their free time to demonstrate that paddle-boards can be used for recreation as well as rescue.
