IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Frank Keller Sr., who passed away one year ago, Dec. 4, 1948.

In the graveyard softly sleeping Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In his lone and silent grave.

Father, you are gone but not forgotten, Never will your memory fade; Sweetest thoughts will ever linger 'Round the grave where you are laid.

We loved you, yes, we loved you, But the Saviour loved you more, And so the angels sweetly called you To that bright and happy shore.

It was hard to part with you, Oh, so hard to see you die; But then we'll try to meet you Some sweet day by and by.

Sadly missed by his wife, children and grandchildren.

Accidents Past Week Involve Local People

The right side of a Ford convertible coupe driven by Ralph Ketter, Kewaskum, was damaged when the driver lost control of his car while rounding a curve on the River road in front of the Christ Kober home Sunday afternoon. The vehicle crossed a ditch and came to rest on its side against an apple tree on the Kober front lawn. Ketter escaped injury except for bruises.

On Friday, Nov. 25, a car driven by James Esselman, 17, R. 3, West Bend, collided with a car driven by Melvin Ernise, 42, R. 2, Kewaskum, on Hwy. 114. Esselman said he had just passed the other car when the two collided. The front end of Ernise's auto was damaged and the right rear fender of Esselman's car was bent in.

Warren Evenson, high school principal in West Bend, was driving south on Hwy. 55 Wednesday, Nov. 23, in the Kewaskum swamp area when a car driven by Arthur Schultz, Milwaukee, sideswiped Evenson's car, forcing it to the ditch.

The Kewaskum swamp, Hwy. 55, was the scene of another mishap on Thanksgiving day when Don Anderson, 46, of Winnetka, Ill. fell asleep at the wheel of his car and skidded into the ditch, causing damage to the front end of the vehicle.

Important Deadline Dates to Be Remembered by Vets

George A. Kolb, veteran service officer, wishes to remind veterans of important deadlines for VA-administered benefits. The deadlines follow:

GI Bill Education and Training
World War II veterans discharged before July 25, 1947, must start their GI bill education or training before July 25, 1947, must begin their courses within four years after discharge.

In both cases, the training must be completed by July 25, 1956.

An exception has been made for veterans who enlisted or re-enlisted under the Armed Forces Recruitment Act (Public Law 190) between Oct. 6, 1945, and Oct. 5, 1946. They have four years from the end of their Public Law 190 enlistment or re-enlistment period in which to begin GI bill training, and nine years from that date to complete it.

Readjustment Allowances
The GI bill readjustment allowance program has ended for most World War II veterans.

Those discharged after July 25, 1947, however, may apply for the unemployment and self-employment allowances at any time within two years after discharge, but no payments will be made after July 25, 1952.

The deadlines do not apply to veterans who enlisted or re-enlisted under the Armed Forces Voluntary Recruitment Act. They have up to two years from their date of discharge to claim readjustment allowances, provided that they apply within five years from the termination of their Public Law 190 enlistment or re-enlistment.

National Service Life Insurance
A veteran of World War II who applies for new insurance, or to re-instate a lapsed policy, generally must furnish VA with satisfactory evidence of his good health. A service-incurred disability—less than total in degree—will be disregarded in determining good health, so long as he applies for new insurance or for reinstatement before Jan. 1, 1950.

The disability must have been incurred in service between Oct. 5, 1946, and Sept. 2, 1945.

A veteran who applies for the NSLI total disability income provision also is required to furnish evidence of good health. In this case, too, a disability incurred in service between Oct. 5, 1946, and Sept. 2, 1945—but less than total in degree—will be disregarded in determining good health, so long as he applies for the total disability income provision before Jan. 1, 1950.

Cars for Disabled Veterans
World War II veterans who in service lost, or lost the use of, one or both legs at or above the ankle may be entitled to receive an automobile or other conveyance at government expense. They have until June 30, 1950, to apply.

Lakers Beat Grafton and Waldo in Openers

The Kewaskum Chevroletlets got off to a flying start in the Land of Lakes league by winning both of their first two games of the season the past week. Sunday night here the team easily downed Grafton, 53-40, and came out on top again Wednesday night at Waldo in a closer contest, 33-18. The Rivers loop team didn't do so good in their opener here Sunday against the Grafton Rivers cagers. They were upset by a 27-20 score.

The high scoring of John Tessar, fresh out of high school, paved the way for both victories. Although he had a guard riding him in the Grafton tilt, Johnny couldn't be stopped and dropped in 24 points to take scoring honors in a breeze. His brother Waldo was next in line with 16, while Jerry Mehlos, another newcomer, added seven. The Ernise boys paced Grafton's offensive. A Ernise collecting 11 points and R. Ernise eight. Kewaskum was ahead all the way and never gave Grafton a chance of catching up although the visitors held the score closer in the first half, which ended 28-22.

For the first three quarters at Waldo the story was pretty much the same as Sunday night with Kewaskum holding a comfortable lead. But in the final period the boys ran into a bad luck streak and couldn't connect on their shots. An alert Waldo team took full advantage of the lull and almost overtook the Chevroletlets. The locals were only five points ahead when the encounter ended after leading 44-34 at the end of the third quarter. John Tessar continued his scoring spree with 20 points, giving him a total of 44 in two games. Not far behind him was Mehlos, who swished in 12. Richards and Neumann tallied 11 and 10 respectively for Waldo.

The Go-Getter Son Learned To Take It Easy, Live Awhile

By BILLY ROSE

It was one of those days. What with the phones going, a show rehearsing in my theatre, and people popping in and out, my office was like backstage at an Olsen and Johnson musical.

One of my appointments was with an ex-soldier who had recently returned from the Pacific. Like a thousand other kids, he was anxious to get a job in show business. I told him I'd get in touch with him if anything turned up, and asked him to excuse the short interview because I was rushed. He smiled and walked to the door.

"What are you grinning about?" I asked.

"Oh, nothing," he said. "I just happened to think of another fellow who was in a hurry."

The way he said it made me curious. "Tell me about the other fellow," I said.

"He was nobody important," said the ex-G.I. "He and his father farmed a small piece of land, but except for their name and the patch of ground, they had little in common. The old man believed in taking it easy. The son was the go-getter type."

"One morning, they loaded the cart, hitched up the ox and set out for the city. The young fellow figured that if they kept going all day and night, they'd get to the market by next morning. So he walked alongside the ox and kept prodding it with a stick."

"Take it easy," said the old man. "You'll last longer."

"If we get to market ahead of the others," said his son, "we have a better chance of getting good prices."

"THE OLD MAN pulled his hat down over his eyes and went to sleep on the seat. Four miles and four hours down the road, they came to a little house. 'Here's your uncle's place,' said the father, waking up. 'Let's stop in and say hello.'"

"We've lost an hour already," complained the go-getter. "Those few minutes more won't matter," said his father. "My brother and I live so close, yet we see each other so seldom."

"The young man fidgeted while the two old gentlemen gossiped away an hour."

"On the move again, the father took his turn leading the ox. When they came to a fork in the road, the old man directed the ox to the right. 'The left is the shorter way,' said the boy."

"I know it," said the old man, "but this way is prettier."

"Have you any respect for time?" asked the impatient young man.

"I respect it very much," said the older fellow. "That's why I like to use it looking at flowers."

"The right-hand path led through woodland and wild flowers. The young man was so busy watching the sun sink he didn't notice how lovely the sunset was. Twilight found them in what looked like one big garden. 'Let's sleep here,' said the old man."

"This is the last trip I take with you," said his son. "You're more interested in flowers than in making money."

"THAT'S THE NICEST thing you've said in a long time," smiled

the old fellow. A minute later, he was asleep.

"Before sunrise, the young man shook his father awake and they went on. A mile down the road, they came upon a farmer trying to pull his cart from a ditch. 'Let's give him a hand,' said the father."

"And lose more time?" asked the son.

"Relax," said the old man.

"Looks like a big rain in the city," said the old man.

"If we had been on time, we'd be sold out by now," grumbled his son.

"Take it easy," said the old gentleman. "You'll last longer."

"It wasn't until afternoon that they got to the top of the hill overlooking the town. They looked down at it for a long time. Finally the young man who had been in such a hurry said, 'I see what you mean, father.'"

"They turned their cart around and drove away from what had once been the city of Hiroshima."

A Certain Cure

I HAVE often known a heart to find quick comfort Through reaching out to help another's woe. There is a healing in it, a forgetting Of one's own self that starts an inner glow Of warmth and light where there had been but ashes, Sodden and gray because of some deep grief, And suddenly a golden flame starts singing Because another's heart has found relief.

Across the world there are so many burdens Long borne by shoulders bent beneath their load. A cure for care—a healing of one's sorrow May be found in the lifting of a load, The sharing of it with some staggering brother. O burdened one, to find a certain peace Go forth, reach out to help where help is needed, And surely your own quivering hurt will cease.

Milk Pelletizing Aids Poultry Feed

Milk Products Are Found Important to Egg Output

That milk products are still among the most important ingredients in a laying ration is indicated in results of a series of feeding tests conducted with high-producing flocks in New England poultry areas earlier this year.

The tests, which ran an average of 164 days, were conducted at a state agricultural college, a county vocational agricultural school and commercial poultry farms. Results showed an average additional profit of 26 cents each for hens fed regularly fed on the test farms. Nearly 3,000 birds, New Hampshire, Rhode Island Reds, Barred Rocks, and a Barred Cross were involved. On each farm flocks were divided into test and control pens. The control pen received the ration normally fed on the farm. For instance, the state college fed the New England college conference laying ration, the county school used its own formula ration, and the commercial poultrymen fed various commercial laying mashers. In each case test and control pens were of the same age and breeding, and received the same care and management except that the test pen was fed a pelletized dairy product in addition to the normal ration. Accurate feed cost and egg production records were kept. For purposes of making profit comparisons, 55 cents a dozen was used as an average egg price.

Joseph Ruzzo, Hope Valley, R. I., is shown at his egg candling machine. Raising from 12,000 to 13,000 birds annually, Ruzzo says he has recorded a 12 per cent increase in egg production from his test flock which was fed pelletized milk products in the 1948-49 laying season.

When results were tabulated and averaged, it was found that the test pens fed the milk product, laid an average of 8 per cent more eggs and made an average of 12.3 per cent more profit. Egg production for test birds averaged 84 per cent throughout the tests, compared to 59 per cent for control birds. Average feed cost per dozen eggs was 29 cents for test pens, 28 cents for control pens. Culls and deaths in test pens averaged 15 per cent.

Highest average egg production was 74.4 per cent made by a test pen of Barred Rocks at the county school over a six-month test period. There the control pen averaged 69 per cent production. Birds in the test averaged $3.06 net income per bird (eggs over feed), compared to $2.71 per bird in the control pen.

Donald Woods, popular leading man, joins Bing Crosby and a star-laden cast in "Mr. Music"; it's his first Paramount picture since he made "A Son Comes Home" with Mary Boland 12 years ago. In recent years Woods has been concentrating on radio—is currently being heard as wealthy "Richard Rhineland" on "My Friend Irma." He plays another rich young man in "Mr. Music."

Use of a helicopter as a traveling camera crane proved to be so effective for chase scenes in "They Live By Night" that RKO is now using one regularly as camera-carrying equipment. In this case the plane also had its value as an aid to drama; it hovered over the players, to create the feeling of a relentless fate pursuing them—and worked fine.

Jane Greer will break away from dramatic and romantic roles in "The Richest Girl in Jail," an original comedy which has been bought for her by RKO. As a very rich girl who lands in a small-town jail she will be a comedienne.

Joseph Julian, who plays the detective, "Sam Cook," on CBS's "Mystery Theatre," literally talks with his hands. By working his clasped hands, compressing air between them, he makes word-like sounds—you should hear his "Mary Had a Little Lamb!"

A piece of parchment, apparently very old, and containing a message from Napoleon, is an important prop in "The Inspector General." The prop man aged it by applying glycerine and rubbing it with dirt; an expert forged Napoleon's signature.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . While Milton Berle was punching Ransom Sherman in the jaw for "Always Leave Them Laughing," his daughter Vickie was taking a swimming lesson from Sherman's daughter Ann, in Sherman's pool. . . Jim and Michael Frasco, aged 6 and 8, nephews of Spike Jones, have featured roles in Hal Wallis' "September" . . . June Haver thinks she's fated to be colorful; "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady" is her 11th consecutive picture in Technicolor.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

Wood Stain "Bleeds Through"
QUESTION: I bought a maple bedroom suite. All the drawers have been stained with cedar or pine which stains everything terribly. It goes through three thicknesses of cardboard. Will varnish cover it? I have scrubbed it with varnish remover, but this seems to have made it worse. Also, I had it stored for three years during the war, and now it seems to have a film on it which won't rub off. Thank you for any advice you can give.

ANSWER: Clean the drawers of your dressers with turpentine and steel wool. This should remove the film and excess stain in the wood. Then, if you wish to retain the grain and color of the wood, apply two coats of white shellac thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol, to seal in the remaining stain. Or you could seal in the stain with special stain sealer preparation now on sale at many of the better stocked paint stores.

The Fiction CALL A DOCTOR

Corner By Richard H. Wilkinson

OGDEN TURNED over in bed, muttered, then sat bolt upright. There was a wild, unholy light in his eyes. Great globules of perspiration stood out on his forehead. His hands felt cold and clammy.

For a moment he sat rigid and tense. Slowly he relaxed. Then he switched on the bedside light. Five a.m. In four and a half hours it would be over. He would have entered Mr. Mitchell's office and said, in effect: "Mr. Mitchell, I have worked for you for three years. I am a valued employee and feel that I deserve more money."

And Mr. Mitchell would reply—Well, what would Mr. Mitchell reply?

He got out of bed without waking his wife. It was 5:30 and still dark. He went into the bathroom and turned on the shower. At 6 o'clock, fully dressed, he came downstairs. He put coffee on to boil, set a frying pan over a gas jet, cut open an orange, plugged in the toaster.

Presently he sat down to eat. He ate automatically. Food was tasteless in his mouth.

He left the house without waking Helen. During the half hour it took him to reach the office he was beset by all sorts of terrifying fancies. He grew hot, then cold. He changed his mind twice about approaching Mr. Mitchell. He thought he'd postpone the ordeal. Then he pictured himself coming home to Helen. Helen was proud of him. What would she think if he had to admit lacking the courage to face a common ordinary man like Mr. Mitchell?

Now, there was something. Mr. Mitchell was, after all, nothing more than a common ordinary man. Capable of having toothaches and stomachaches and liking his "Good Lord, call a doctor!" eggs fried only on one side. Just a man.

Ogden tried to picture himself in Mr. Mitchell's position. What would he do if an employee of three years asked for a raise? What? Why, he'd look at the matter coldly, impersonally. He'd add things up and

Man Who Had First Radio In Town, Gets First TV

IRVINGTON, KY.—J. W. Willis, who installed the first radio in Irvington more than a quarter of a century ago, has chalked up another first.

Willis, former newspaper publisher, has installed the first television set in this Breckinridge county seat.

His first radio set was constructed from typewritten instructions and used a prune box for cabinet.

decide whether or not the employee was worth more to him in dollars and cents. He'd try to figure out in his own mind how little he could get away with paying.

Ah! There was something now. If you asked for a raise, act as though you deserved it. Give the impression that the possibility you weren't worth more never entered your head. It was merely a matter of arriving at a figure.

People spoke to Ogden when he entered the office. Then they looked at him curiously. He didn't look the same. He was ill. Or perhaps he had a hangover. He seemed pale. His hands trembled when he hung up his hat. He was sweating. Perhaps he should call a doctor.

AT 9:05 Mr. Mitchell came in, nodding and speaking to everyone as he always did. Ogden opened his mouth to reply, but no sound came.

He wet his lips, started to rise, sat down again weakly. Mr. Mitchell's door opened. Mr. Mitchell came out. "Ogden!" he yelled, and his voice had a rasping sound.

Ogden jumped. What had he done now? Certainly Mr. Mitchell acted as though he was going to ball him out. Perhaps fire him. Good. Firing would be a relief. It would settle the whole problem. He could tell Helen that he had asked for a raise and Mitchell had fired him and it was her fault.

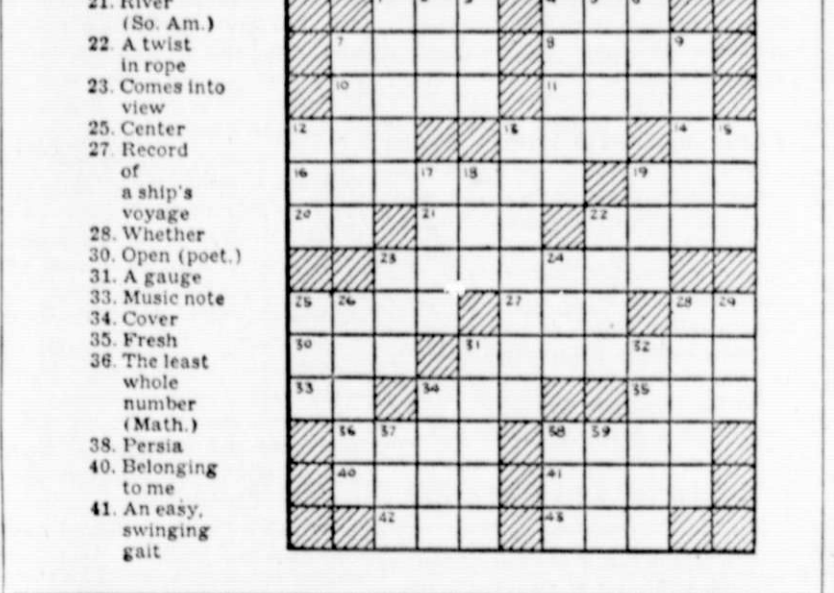

Mr. Mitchell was behind his desk when Ogden entered.

"Ogden, I've been thinking about you. You've proved yourself valuable to the firm. That western deal now. You did a good job. You have the sort of stuff we need in this organization. I'm the sort of man who believes in paying a man what he's worth. Now, I need a junior partner. If you're interested, I'd like to groom you for the post. You'd start at double your present salary. Then in a year—Hey! Miss Ryan! Quick, a glass of water. Ogden's fainted! Good Lord, call a doctor!"

Air-Sea Conflict

IT'S EASY to understand why the air admirals are boiling mad at unification. To some extent you have to sympathize with them. What they can't forget is that for years the navy's airmen had to fight the battleship admirals and now, just as the airplane carrier has come into its own, they find themselves stymied by unification. The admirals who put up this long running-fight with the old-fashioned battleship admirals include such brilliant officers as Gerald Brogan, Arthur Radford, L. T. Sprague and Jack Towers, now retired. Thirty years ago, just out of Annapolis, they went into the relatively new naval aviation as fliers and worked up to the top. They were convinced that the future of the navy lay in the air. They had the courage to believe this even at a time when most of the admirals swore that nothing could ever sink a battleship.

During the recent campaign in the Pacific, Admiral Sprague had the ranking admirals taking orders from him. Because operating carriers in battle formation, with their network of protecting airplanes and destroyers, is such a skilled job, Sprague, a junior, was in command. When the squadron put into Pearl Harbor or any other base, the senior admirals, untrained in carrier battle formation, then took over.

With the war over and the battleship being laid up in mothballs, naval aviation at long last appeared about to achieve full recognition. Whereupon congress passed the unification act, and with it, the chief air responsibility went to the air force. No wonder the air admirals are indignant!

Naval Carriers Heroes

The full story of the navy's airplane carriers was one of the most heroic of the war, and the heroism was even greater because of a serious defect discovered in the carriers after the navy had built most of them.

This defect—like most of the navy's trouble—was due to faulty engineering and bad planning. Airplane carrier designers had failed to take into consideration the possibility that decks were vulnerable and that once the deck of a carrier was torn up, no plane could take off.

The Japs, however, soon discovered this. The result was that suicide Jap fighter planes dived for the deck of carrier after carrier with deadly casualties. Entirely aside from the tragic loss of life, so many carriers were put out of commission that they had to be sent all the way through the Panama canal to the Atlantic coast for repairs. The west coast yards were too full.

Okinawa Losses

At one time during the battle of Okinawa, virtually all of the navy's carriers were either en route back to the U. S. for repairs or en route to battle after being repaired. The shipyards at Pearl Harbor were full. The west coast yards were at capacity, and the east coast yards had to handle the overflow—despite the extra time necessary to carry the limping vessels through the Panama canal.

Thus one Jap suicide plane could put a carrier out of commission for four to six months.

The British, foreseeing this, equipped their carriers with armored decks. Toward the end of the war, new American carriers were also built with armored decks. But it took a long time for the navy to wake up to its mistake.

Experience in the Pacific proved that carriers were at their peak effectiveness in making surprise raids on the enemy. If carriers had to stay in one place, as at Okinawa, they suffered unmercifully. But if they could sneak up on the Japanese mainland under cover of night, make their attack at dawn, and then retreat, their losses were much less.

Leyte Battle Blunder

It was the battle of Leyte, where carriers also played an important part, which convinced many navy men that unification was necessary. Divided American command and a Japanese feint almost proved disastrous for U. S. ships.

The command in the battle of Leyte was divided as follows. General MacArthur commanded not only the army but the western fleet under Adm. Tom Kincaid. It was Kincaid's job to protect the landing of MacArthur's troops. The rest of the fleet was under Admiral Nimitz who had delegated the immediate command to Admiral Halsey.

Halsey was supposed to keep Kincaid advised at all times of his movements, but not take orders from him. His telephone lacked enough range.

When the appropriate time arrived, Admiral Halsey picked up his fleet telephone and told his commanders that X-time had arrived and to carry out their orders, previously received. His part of the fleet thereupon sailed off to the north. The battleships went with him.

However, Halsey's fleet telephone did not have the range to reach a part of his fleet. This part, consisting of smaller vessels, remained along the Philippine coast virtually unprotected.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

West Asks Reds for Peace Effort; Pact Nations Would Rearm Italy; Costliest Steel Strike Terminated

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

PEACE TRY:
Reds Asked In

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky had said, in effect, to United Nations members: Set up an atomic control system of periodic inspection of manufacture and materials, and Russia will let you in to inspect Monday, Wednesday, Friday, this week and next week—but instead you want to inspect from minute to minute, day by day, week by week.

THE U. N. didn't go for that. Russia, its members claimed, was referring only to declared manufacture and materials, but what of the "hidden" and undeclared production and stockpiles. Vishinsky got nowhere with his proposal. Then, the U. N. turned around, placed the shoe of warmongering on the foot upon which they felt it belonged. The United States and other western powers called upon Russia to stop its "campaign of hate" and cooperate in a 12-point program for peace.

The 12 points were: Stop threatening or using force contrary to the U. N. charter. Stop interfering with the independence of any other country and the fomenting of civil strife. Carry out in good faith all international agreements. Afford all U. N. bodies full cooperation. Promote full freedom of religion and political expression and full respect of all other fundamental rights. Promote higher standards of living for all peoples. Remove information barriers. Participate fully in the U. N.'s work. Settle international disputes peacefully. Cooperate in armaments control. Agree to exercise national sovereignty jointly with other nations to attain international control of atomic energy. Urge five big powers to broaden their cooperation in the security council of the U. N., and to exercise restraint in using the veto.

THE FIRST REACTION of those conversant with Russian policy as it has been manifest thus far must have wondered if the western powers had taken complete leave of their senses in making any such proposal to Moscow. They might as well have asked the Russians to turn over the Kremlin to the Christian Endeavor society, enroll Joe Stalin as a Boy Scoutmaster, and to turn the politburo into a Sunday choral society. Even a kindergarten child would have known better than to expect Soviet agreement to any of the 12 points.

STRIKE ENDS:
Steel Costliest

America's costliest steel strike ended, appropriately enough on Armistice day, with the CIO steelworkers winning demands for an industry-financed insurance-pension formula.

THE CAPITULATION of U. S. steel, bellwether of the industry as regards labor relations, brought an end to the crippling strike. For smaller firms settled on the same terms the same day, terms which followed the pattern accepted by Bethlehem steel, first big company to sign with the union.

According to a CIO spokesman, the union-company agreement embodied such terms as a minimum $100 monthly pension to workers aged 65 with 25 years service, with the employer paying all the cost, and an insurance program, costing five cents an hour per man, with the company and worker sharing the cost.

FARM RATS:
A Formula

The farmers in the Rio Grande tomato fields were beginning to get results in their interminable war on rats after garnishing their crops with poisoned grain.

A FEW WEEKS AGO the rats were swarming into tomato and green pepper fields near La Grulla, Tex. They spread methodically up and down the Rio Grande until the invasion covered a 15-mile strip, one to two miles wide in places. Farmers lost first pickings completely in several fields.

Then they began to dust their crops with poisoned grain. Said grower Ralph Jones: "That poison sure does the business. It's stopped the losses."

But not before serious damage was done to 2,000 irrigated and cultivated acres.

U. S. PAY ROLL:
Tops 10 Billion

United States government operational expense, long in the astronomical bracket, had reached a total annual figure of 10 billion, 200 million dollars. That figure, in the aggregate, is almost meaningless to the average American. But broken down to show how it affects the individual, it could be brought very much home to the taxpayer. It was costing each American $227 per capita.

Other interesting details in connection with those figures included the fact that the federal government is the biggest single employer in the nation. It has in its employ six out of every 100 employed workers, and pays out $8 of each $100 received in wages and salaries.

The end was not in sight. According to government estimates, pay roll costs were expected to go even higher in fiscal 1951 which begins next July 1. The big boost in totals came as a result of pay raises recently granted.

Prize Winner

Dr. William F. Giauque, 54, professor at the University of California, was a Nobel prize winner for his work in the study of entropies. The entropy of a compound determines whether a chemical reaction can take place.

ITALY:
New Weapons

Experience, though a hard teacher, is supposed to teach well. In international events, however, this doesn't always follow.

FOR INSTANCE, Italy, two-time foe of the democracies in as many world wars, will be rearmed soon if top-planners of the Atlantic pact countries have their way. Discussions looking toward rearming the Italians under the Atlantic pact already were underway between high-ranking U. S. and Italian military officers and diplomats.

James C. Dunn, U. S. ambassador to Italy, attended the first of a series of closed sessions aimed at modernizing and re-equipping Italy's treaty-limited armed forces under the Atlantic pact's defense system.

ITALY'S RECORD in connection with disservice to the democracies smells to high heaven. In World War I the country started out with Germany and the Central Powers and turned coat only when it was evident her side was losing. In World War II, she started out with Il Duce Mussolini and forsook him only when it became apparent she was on the wrong horse again.

RAILS:
Fares Up

The third fare increase for eastern railroads in the past three years has been authorized by the interstate commerce commission. The increase this time amounted to a 12.5 per cent hike in rail passenger fares in the East, estimated to give the railroads another $7.8 million dollars a year in revenue.

THE RISE applies to the area east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers. Commuter fares were not to be affected.

In 1947 these same roads were granted a 10 per cent boost in passenger fares, and last year another hike of approximately 17 per cent. Southern and western railroads did not apply for the increase granted the eastern roads.

THE NEW RATES, it was said, would raise eastern coach fares to about 3.37 cents a mile, and parlor-car and sleeping-car fares to about 4.5 cents a mile.

In New York, a railway official said the new increase would boost one-way coach fares from New York to Chicago from $27.30 to $30.75. First class fares would be raised from $36.35 to $40.89.

A-BOMBS:
Men at Work

According to a British-licensed Berlin newspaper, the Telegraf, Russians are operating a plant near Berlin to produce explosives used solely for making atomic bombs.

THE PAPER, giving no authority for the source of its information declared, nevertheless, that the plant where the explosives are being made is the people's owned Teerchemie plant in Erkner, suburban east Berlin. The newspaper story said 600 workers were employed on the project.

It said the plant produced a chemical called "carbazol," which the paper described as highly explosive.

Rocket With 'Brain'

The U. S. air force appeared ready to hold its own in the guided missile department. It announced it had a rocket-propelled guided missile with "human intelligence" in tracking and destroying enemy aircraft.

Launched from a "mother" jet fighter plane the missile, named the "Firebird," is capable of heading off and destroying its objective in a matter of seconds.

The pilotless projectile is about half a foot in diameter, 10 feet long, being only 7 1/2 feet in length after dropping its booster rocket. After the spent rocket is jettisoned by an explosive charge, the power is thus supplied by booster rockets.

After the target is detected by the plane, the firebird is designed to home in on the enemy. When it is close enough to insure destruction of the enemy aircraft, the warhead is designed to explode. Most fighter planes can carry one or more of the Firebirds. The weapon took 4 years to make.

SWEDEN
Talks Back

The United States senate, collectively and individually, has been called by some colorful and lurid names—but it remained for some Swedish editors to hurl the most devastating blast at that august body.

A SWEDISH NEWSPAPER, the liberal afternoon Expressen, had this to say:

"The U. S. senate is certainly a high assembly, but it is also a dumping place for all sorts of quaint characters and the most ignorant politicians from the darkest corners of the union. And it must be pretty dark in Oklahoma."

The shaft was aimed, really, at Oklahoma's Senator Thomas, a Democrat, who was critical of the way Sweden had received a senate appropriations subcommittee visiting Marshall plan countries to see how U. S. funds were being used.

Sweden, it appeared, had received quite a bit of Marshall plan aid, but had sort of "snubbed" Thomas and his committee. Thomas declared the country to which he "referred" in his criticism, expressed in Vienna, "had helped no one in the past 135 years," and if it got any more Marshall plan funds, it would be over his protest.

The "QUAINT CHARACTERS" and "most ignorant politicians" the Swedes referred to in the senate, or who had ever been a member of it, included some right influential fellows who might have much to say about continuing Marshall plan aid—among them, President and former Senator Harry S. Truman.

GERMANY:
G's to Stay

Russia might do as she pleased about occupying Germany, but the western allies intend to keep their troops in that country whether or not the Russians pull out.

THAT was the statement of a west German government spokesman who indicated this was one of the decisions reached at the big three Paris conference.

U. S. secretary of state Dean Acheson and German chancellor Konrad Adenauer had agreed upon the need for keeping western troops in Germany.

This same spokesman said the appointment of Soviet Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky as commander-in-chief of the Polish army was construed to mean that Russian troops would be withdrawn from eastern Germany soon.

EVEN THOUGH the Russians should withdraw their troops, this same source said, the Russian secret police and the Soviet-trained German people's police still would remain.

THE PRESS:
285th Year

With technicalities waived, the Official London Gazette, beginning its 285th year of continuous publication understandably laid claim to being the world's oldest newspaper.

THE twice-weekly government paper began publication in 1665 during the great plague which ravaged London. Since that time it has been the appointed organ for dissemination of all "announcements of the chief executive."

The paper is issued each Tuesday and Friday with official announcements from Buckingham palace, Number 10 Downing street, official residence of the prime minister, and government departments. And it never publishes much else.

Flannel Queen

Darlene Towns, 16, who was crowned "red flannel" queen by Michigan Governor G. Mennen Williams, is shown here attired in the red flannel nightgown. Governor Williams called the square dances at what has become an annual Michigan event.

FREE TOUR:
All on a Bet

A 48-state, penniless tour of this country—could anyone do it? A 30-year old Los Angeles veteran, who used the fictitious name, Paul Clark, did it. He did it on a bet to prove the extent of American people's hospitality. And in doing it, he won a bet of $4,800 from a friend. He kept his identity secret, he said, as part of the wager which he'd made. Other conditions were not disclosed.

Clark said the bet also forbade his doing any work for food, lodging or travel. He had one year in which to complete the "penniless tour." He left Sacramento, Calif., on April 9, arrived in Jackson, Miss., seven months later.

"It was wonderful," he said, "especially in the South. Ever since I headed south from the Ohio river, I never missed a meal." Clark said he had visited every governor's office and received an autographed copy of his signature. He said he had completed the term of the wager five months early.

Here are the prize-winners in the "Your Family Dog" photographic contest sponsored by the Gaines dog research center, New York, as part of the observance of National Dog Week. Many thousands of entries were submitted in the contest. Pictures were judged on the basis of human interest and appeal, as well as photographic quality. This photo at right, by Bo B. Steffanson, West Hartford, Conn., took third place in the camera club member designation.

One of the most charming and wistful of the entries, this picture by Ed R. Spiegel, Memphis, Tenn., won first place and $250 in the contest's camera club member classification.

It isn't difficult to see why this photo by Lou Gardner, Detroit, won first place in the $250 amateur class of the contest. "Don't take it so hard," the boy's canine pal seems to be saying about that report card.

No dog photography contest would be complete without a picture of a playful puppy, and the shot (at right) of that subject won second place for Louis A. Puggard in the amateur class of the contest. Below, another playful puppy photo by Howard Nickerson, East Norwalk, Conn., won third place in the amateur class division.

NORTH CAROLINA'S Extended Christmas

Christmas lasts a long time in North Carolina. It begins in the old Moravian community of Salem in October when the women start making the thousands of candles to be used in Moravian churches throughout the south at their Christmas love feasts.

It continues until January 6, 400 miles away at Rodanthe on the Outer Banks, where a few old-timers still observe the old Christmas, and even until January 7 among Russian and Ukrainian colonists near Wilmington...

Christmas Story Continues to Grow In Faith, Intensity

Year by year the increasingly old, but ever new story of Christmas warms the heart of all Christendom.

Among the many uses for sugar bags are aprons, children's suits, luncheon sets, quilt linings and garment cases.

If you want to remove a soiled line on collars, cuffs, etc., use an abrasive hand soap. It's easier on the fabric than scrubbing with a brush and removes the soil more quickly.
