

Kewaskum's New Theater Project Near Completion

Those who have rendered services for and bought stock in the Kewaskum & Community Theater Corporation are to be praised for adding this worthwhile project for the benefit of those who reside in the Kewaskum area.

When completed this building will be the finest and best equipped in this section of the state. The plans as recommended by the architect and as followed out by the contractor have resulted in a good substantial building which has sacrificed nothing in strength, utility, beauty and quality in both its exterior and interior finish and appearance.

It was originally anticipated that the cost of the land and completion of the building would be about $55,000.00. Since that preliminary estimate was published, the board of directors decided to lengthen the front part of the building eight feet and make other alterations in the plans.

It has now become necessary for the corporation to raise, by the sale of additional common stock or by loan or both, an additional $15,000.00. At the present time there is $20,000.00 worth of common stock that has been sold to 72 different stock holders.

The original intention was and still is to keep this project strictly a community proposition and to get the stock distributed to as many stockholders as possible because it was felt that the greater the distribution of stock the more successful would be the enterprise and part of the purpose of this article is to invite more people to invest in this additional stock.

Although the cost of this project is now $15,000.00 greater than originally anticipated the anticipated annual income from this building has increased in proportion thereto. The promoters originally estimated that the theater proper would rent for an annual income of $2100.00. The theater corporation now has a signed lease with the operating corporation whereby the annual rental for the theater proper will be $3600.00 annually or 15% of the gross receipts, whichever sum is the larger. It was originally anticipated that the two small stores on the ground floor would bring in an annual rental of $1800.00.

The theater corporation now has a five year contract with the lessee of that store area which guarantees the theater corporation an annual rental of $1320.00. It is also anticipated that the three upstairs office spaces also will bring in an annual rental of $6130.00. Thus it is now anticipated to have an increase in annual rental of $1650.00 over and above what was originally anticipated at the time of the sale of the first stock issue.

At the last meeting of the board of directors last Monday night there were sufficient pledges on hand, by the larger stock holders, to take up this additional offering of $15,000.00 but it was unanimously agreed by the board of directors to invite additional people to become stock holders to promote more community financial interest for this fine project.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bohn of Kewaskum was baptized Sunday. The name given him was Allen Richard. Sponsors were Richard Becker and Mrs. Milton Schaefer.

Far Short of Goal as March of Dimes Drive Nears Close

With the closing date for this year's March of Dimes campaign now only four days away, B. D. Rice, general drive chairman for Washington county, reported late Tuesday night that the county as a whole, and the city of West Bend in particular, was still far short of the $10,000 goal which he estimated as the amount necessary if this county expects to meet its obligations during 1950.

As of Tuesday, Rice stated that he had received less than $500 in checks and cash contributions to the drive. This amount is at least $5,000 less than that which had been collected in a similar period during last year's drive, he said, and decidedly short of the goal sought. In commenting upon the discouraging showing thus far, Rice stated that he is receiving $5 checks this year from sources which in previous years regularly contributed at least $25.

The chairman pointed out that most of his town and village chairmen have not as yet reported what progress they are making in their respective areas. Their reports may swell the final total, he added, but the present trend indicates that only about $5,000 may be raised in the entire county.

"Washington county has always increased its quota as the need increased," Rice stated. "This year, however, with the local treasury completely lacking funds, and the national treasury in similar straits, this county is in grave danger of losing what ground we have gained in the treatment and care of polio patients in our local hospitals."

As for the city of West Bend, Rice stated that industries have thus far been rather slow in making their reports. He expressed the hope, however, that contributions from those sources would exceed those of last year. Although it has never been done in the city before, the possibility of a house-to-house campaign loomed as the only means remaining to raise the needed funds. He stated that he would make his final decision on ordering such a campaign after he receives reports from his county chairmen.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET
Bogey and Pandas Were Tame
Compared to J. Brutus Booth

By BILLY ROSE

There was a lot of talk on Broadway in recent weeks about the incident at the El Morocco club where Humphrey Bogart was caught with his pandas down, and to hear the prissy boys tell it, unless Bogey stops acting up he's a cinch to finish behind the well-known eight-

Well, maybe so, but I wouldn't bet on it. It's my belief that, if anything, his daffy did will help his pulling-power at the box office, very much as they helped John Barrymore, W. C. Fields, and other talented screwballs who had the nerve to do what the rest of us only daydream about.

And don't let any old-timer with braid on his vest tell you that the entertainment business wouldn't have tolerated a Humphrey Bogart in the dear, dead days. According to the record, the antics of yesterday's star make our present crop of performers look as pale as a ghost who has just seen a man.

Billy Rose

For easy example, take, say, the great tragedian, Junius Brutus Booth—a name to conjure with and make faces at.

JUNIUS BRUTUS was born in England a few years before the 19th century made its bow, and by the time he was 13 a servant girl had accused him of being the father of her out-of-bounds baby. During the next four years, among other things, he took a crack at being a sailor, a sculptor and the husband of two ladies, without the customary divorce in between.

None of this stunted his growth, however, because by the time he was 20 he had become one of the great stars of the London stage. He appeared at Covent Garden as Richard III, and the following season at Drury Lane as Iago to Keane's Othello. And, unless the record is lying, his success was so great that a group of envious actors started a riot in the theater and tried to burn it down.

Offstage, Junius Brutus was even more spectacular than on, and if Lauren Bacall's husband had been sampling the flesh and vineyards of Piccadilly at the time chances are his capers wouldn't have rated a morning-after thought. Booth, so goes the story, made so many passes and passed out so many times that finally, at the insistence of husbands, bartenders and bobbies, he packed and fled to New York.

Here, he proceeded to revolutionize most of our acting techniques and, despite the enormous quantities of wuzzle-water he consumed, he never let his audiences down. At one matinee, he was literally carried into the theater, and while the manager was splashing water on his face the customers began to yell for the show to go on.

Annoyed by their catcalls, the tragedian stuck his face through the curtain and roared, "I'm drunk now, but in ten minutes I'll give you the greatest King Lear you ever saw." And he did.

Another time, he went into a pawnshop to borrow $10, pledged himself as security, spent the tenner on Jersey applejack, and then, as per promise, came back and squatted in the pawnbroker's win-

IT HAS TAKEN LONG

It has taken long for me to learn
The simple lessons that the Master taught.
To consider the lilies as their petals burn
Among the wayside grasses, to take no thought
Of a tomorrow that may never bring
Some direful, long anticipated thing,
To mark the sparrows on a windy stem
Lashing and dipping in a day of storm,
And to remember that He cares for them,
And shelters them and keeps them from all harm;
And that I am more valuable than they
To Him who walks beside me day by day.

"Let not your heart be troubled . . ." —these His words
Should have been learned and heeded long ago.
I should have lived light-hearted as the birds,
I should have marked the lilies — Ah, too slow
Has been my heart in learning how to live
Dear God, You tried to teach me. Please forgive.

GRACE NOLL CROWELL

Dangerous Policy

AS CONGRESS OPENED, two important things were happening to the policy which guides the foreign relations of the U.S.A., and which in the long run either prevents or foments war:

1. The British were giving us a double-cross in China—at a time when U. S. treasury experts say two billions more will be needed to bail Britain out.

2. Congress would soon begin a vitriolic criticism of U.S. vacillation in regard to China.

It so happens that the British foreign office is recognizing the Communist government just at a time when it will hurt the state department's relations with congress most. This is not intentional, but rather because British investments, British trade and the prized British island of Hongkong require protection.

Meanwhile Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Johnson are engaged in a tug of war regarding our Chinese policy, with President Truman stamping his foot on the sidelines and demanding definite action, one way or the other.

Actually, a firm and definite policy regarding that heterogeneous mass of 400 million Chinese people speaking 23 different dialects is anything but a simple matter. There is one policy which the United States has never tried—namely, the tactics used by the Chinese against us. This is the age-old policy of passive resistance coupled with the boycott; and probably it is the only policy which will work either in China or against China.

Reversing Weapons

It sounds so simple that sophisticated diplomats probably won't consider it. But it has been used against the western world, and it will work just as effectively if the western world uses it against the Chinese communists.

This weapon merely consists of cutting off all trade, all communications, all contact with the Chinese and letting them stew in their own juice.

In one respect, this would be cruel retaliation. For thousands of Chinese would starve; there would be unemployment, rioting and upheaval in Chinese cities.

But it is the only way by which the Chinese Communist government can be taught that it cannot seize our consuls, imprison our aviators, and treat us as the Japs once treated Formosans.

Furthermore it is the only way we can prevent the southward rush of communism to the Philippines, to French Indo-China, Burma, the Dutch East Indies and India.

Today, old-fashioned, demonstrations by a few extra warships in Chinese waters won't mean more than a flea-bite to the vast and stirring continent of Asia. Nor can we invade any part of China with an army. On the other hand, it will take novel and world-shaking action to halt the southward rush of communism, and the use of China's own tactics in the form of a boycott-blockade is about the only thing that could do it. Otherwise most of Asia will gradually go under Moscow's wing.

Boycotting West

This writer was in China when such a boycott was applied to the western world in 1925. Chinese students had been killed by British marines and in retaliation the foreign colony of Shantung at Canton was boycotted by the Chinese. As a result, grass grew in the streets. All food had to be imported. Not a servant remained on the island.

Every morning you saw the American consul sweeping his own office and the Italian consul hauling ice on a child's express wagon. In the evening, the French consul mixed the salad, the British consul cooked the meat and the Italian consul fixed the dessert at a community dinner.

If the Chinese had been smart enough to tighten this anti-western boycott around other cities instead of chiefly Canton, all foreigners would have been ousted. But as usual, Chinese factions rowed between themselves, and the western powers practiced the old policy of divide and rule.

FDR Considered Boycott

Nearest approach to a western large-scale use of the boycott came in 1936 when Adm. William Leahy, then chief of naval operations, proposed to President Roosevelt that the American and British fleets blockade Japanese waters and cut off all supplies of oil, cotton, copper and scrap iron.

To put it across, FDR invited the nine-power pact nations which had guaranteed the sovereignty of China to meet at Brussels in October 1936.

Cordell Hull, then secretary of state, was personally opposed. So was the late Hugh Wilson, one of his chief advisers. On the other hand, special ambassador Norman Davis, later head of the Red Cross, together with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, vigorously supported the boycott.

Thanks to this hesitation and dissension, the boycott of Japan died aborting. If put into effect, however, it would have been a conclusive object lesson to the European dictators that the democracies could act together.

The Fiction ENTERPRISE PAYS

By Richard H. Wilkinson

PAUL SPARROWS' vaudeville act wasn't especially good, nor was it especially poor. He did a couple of trick dance steps, told some fairly funny stories and sang a couple of songs. There were dozens better than he. Yet Paul always played the big time, always got the best money. We who were in show business at the time, wondered.

The answer was simple when you stopped to think about it. Paul was enterprising. He gave himself a build up. For one thing he selected his music with care. He instructed the orchestra what to play and how to play it before he came on. He made a stouge of the drummer. He sold the idea, generally, that he was terrific.

We all expected that Paul would be among the first to go. But he wasn't. I didn't see him for almost a year, then one fall up in San Francisco, I ran across him again. It was rather a unique experience, because the gag he pulled that night was epic.

It seems that, despite his enterprising faculties, Paul was due to get the air. He had exhausted his bag of tricks. Managers were getting wise to him. On this night he was trying out at the Olympia Theater. Most of us thought it would be his swan song. On the other hand, if he went over big with his audience it would mean a 40-week contract. There wasn't a chance.

We watched him come out from the opposite side of the wings. He was doing a quick little dance step. There was a smattering of applause that almost instantly died away.

"Well," grinned Paul, "if you're serious, that's fine . . . if my gag took in an old trouperer like you, it worked better than I thought it would."

Paul hesitated, then went into a routine. It was pitiful, because the step was rotten and he had apparently lost his self-confidence to boot.

I was standing so I could see Paul's face. For the first time since I'd known him I saw anger in his eyes, a red flash in his cheeks. He stopped dancing.

Youth Gives Up Art School As Faith Bans Nude Study. WARRINGTON, ENGLAND. — Brian Porter, 17, was a budding artist. The art master of his grammar school called him "boy of the year." One of his landscapes won such attention in London that he was offered a scholarship. But he had to turn it down.

It included drawing nudes from life and Brian's religion wouldn't permit his doing that—in fact, it prevents his even looking at them.

AS THE YEARS leaptfrogged on, Booth's capacity for nuttiness became something of a national legend, and any theater he was scheduled to play generally sold out the day the engagement was announced. Stories about the caper at the young actor playing the role of Richmond. The episode ended with his chasing the kid out the stage door and several blocks down the Bowery.

In his final years, Booth took up the study of Buddhism and developed so great a horror of inflicting death that he would burst into tears if someone happened to step on a bug. He financed a campaign against hunting and, while on tour one autumn, enraged at the wanton killing of birds, he bought a cemetery plot and held a funeral for some pigeons a sportsman had shot.

Despite all this hi-jinks and hoopla, however, he was quite a family man, and the 10 children he raised were devoted to him. Unfortunately, the final curtain on the career of the inspired looney who hated killing was that one of his children, John Wilkes Booth, was the man who assassinated Abraham Lincoln.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

"A DAY in the Life of Dennis" recently included the arrival of his second son, Eugene Dennis, not long after Patrick James McNulty celebrated his first birthday. The birth of that high-pitched speaking voice Day uses on the air was accidental. Mary Livingston heard one of his records and got Jack Benny to audition him when a new singer was needed for the Benny program. Day had been singing only on a small station, and was nervous and excited. Benny, in the control room, said sharply "All right, Mr. Day!" and Dennis' voice came out in a squeak as he nervously replied "Yes, please!" He got the job and the voice stayed in.

DENNIS DAY

Danny Kaye has never made a funnier picture than "The Inspector General"; in fact, it is doubtful whether anyone has, Kaye is at his best, and has wonderful material. The scene in which he appears as himself and three other people is inspired. As usual, his wife, Sylvia Fine, wrote his songs, Henry Koster's direction is superb, the cast excellent.

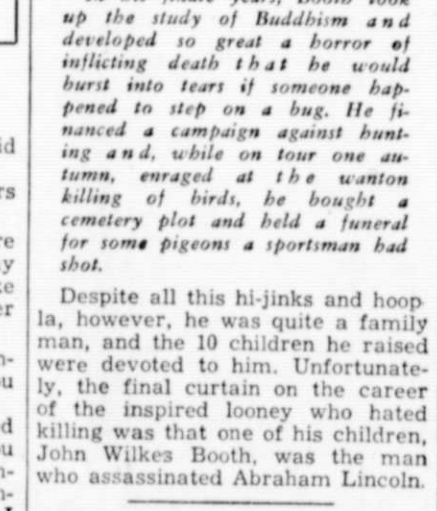

ODDS AND ENDS . . . John Garfield returns to the "Hard Man" type of role which brought him screen prominence in the "The Breaking Point". Zasu Pitts has the "Lum and Abner" cast intrigued with her special cold-weather scarf—it has gloves attached, can be worn under a coat . . . Claudette Colbert's first assignment as a director, at RKO, will be "All Women are Human," a romantic comedy . . . Susan Hayward wanted to adopt the name of her grandmother.

CALLERS . . . Cardinal Spellman receives prominent clergymen visitors.

New York Farmers Hit 'The Jackpot'

New Device Determines Good Soil Management

What a New York farmer gets these days when he "hits the jackpot" might not be dimes or quarters, but it may be increased crop yields in the years ahead.

Or, as the saying goes in Ithaca, Cornell's two versatile soil conservationists have "done it again." Hugh Wilson and Harry Kerr of the state extension staff have come up with another "gadget" to demonstrate the value of good soil management.

That's where the jackpot comes in. Their latest contribution has been dubbed the "one-armed bandit" because it looks like a cross between a slot-machine and a roulette wheel. But it has proved an

The "bandit" is in two parts: one, a chart which determines land use capability (LUC) and the other, an analyzer consisting of four concentric circles. It can set up a possible 768 combinations and a flashing green, yellow or red light indicates whether or not favorable soil balance is being maintained.

But that's the last step. First, the land use capability must be established. It is based on these physical characteristics of the land: slope, length of slope, internal drainage, texture, erosion and humus. Values determined mathematically from these characteristics are assigned to slides of varying sizes which fit into the LUC chart. The color and number which the six slides reach show the land use capability for the field.

Cows Infested With Lice Give Poor Milk Output

Cows with lice make lousy performance records, says T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at Ohio state university. Since lice are often abundant on cattle during the winter and spring when the hair is long, he recommends treating the animals for lice as soon as possible.

Either rotenone or DDT is an effective treatment. If rotenone is used, two treatments, 15 days apart, are necessary. Only one thorough treatment with DDT is required.

Parks states that cattle with lice will not make satisfactory gains in weight, or if being milked, will not maintain a steady milk flow. Symptoms of lice include rough and coarse hair, and, sometimes, large, hairless patches on the neck and body caused by the animal rubbing the irritated area.

Winning Carload

The grand champion earload lot of hogs at the annual International Livestock Show in Chicago was owned by 23-year old Stanley K. Swift, Gilman, Iowa, who is shown with the winners. Swift is said to be the youngest winner of the earload championship in the history of the big show. The hogs are purebred Berkshires.

Insects, Insecticides Team Up on 'Bad' Bugs

According to many scientists, certain insects beneficial to man, in that they prey on harmful bugs, may be expected to team with newer and better insecticides in controlling these harmful bugs. They tell how insecticidal spraying killed the "friendly" bugs as well as others in North Dakota, and that spraying, was suspended for a time sufficient to let predators of the harmful bugs build back up.

Itchy Pigs Soon Rub Off Growers' Profit Dollars

Itchy pigs soon rub off profit dollars, Michigan state livestock specialists contend. That's why they believe that hog mange, mites and lice mean the difference between a fair profit and perhaps a loss in the swine raising business.

The entomologists say it's safe to spray swine with benzene hexachloride, also called BHC, if it is done at least 30 days before marketing or butchering.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

British Election Set February 23; Seek Anti-Trust Law for Miners; Conflict Seen on Proposed Budget

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

TRIO WILL CHART RENT CONTROL, HOUSING... With rent control and housing two major items on the agenda of the current congressional session, these legislators will play a major part in law-making activities. They are, left to right, Chairman Brent Spence (D., Ky.) of the house banking committee; Chairman Burnet Maybank (D., S. C.) of the senate banking committee, and Sen. John Sparkman (D., Ala.) member of the senate banking committee. They are shown after conferring with President Truman on rent control and federal housing aid.

ELECTION: Britain's Choice

In a little less than a month Britain's voting populace will make an elective decision on the issue of whether to continue with socialism, state planning and nationalization of industry under the present Labor government or to return to free enterprise with Winston Churchill's Conservative party.

In setting February 23 as the date for the general election, Prime Minister Clement Attlee must have been acutely aware that this will be far and away the most bitterly contested and momentous election in modern British history.

Britain's 33 million voters will elect a new house of commons, with the party seating the majority of candidates getting the right to form the government.

Speculation was high as to whether defeats within the past two months by the Labor parties in both Australia and New Zealand could be taken as a straw in the wind, insofar as the outcome in England is concerned. Most informed opinion held that it would be dangerous to predict a downfall of Attlee's government on the basis of the "down under" elections.

Chief reason for this thinking was that the Labor party very recently had been able to show signs of substantial gains in Britain's fight to overcome poverty.

BIG STICK: Union Monopolies

Virtually everyone from busboy to bureaucrat probably has, at one time or another, discussed the question of whether the tactics used by some of the larger unions—particularly John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers—in securing benefits for their members do not constitute a monopoly in restraint of trade.

ON CAPITOL HILL that issue had been presented more forcefully than ever before when 10 senators—seven Democrats and three Republicans—sent to the senate judiciary committee a report stating that a bill forbidding labor to monopolize control of industry would end the "usurpation and abuse of power" such as currently is being demonstrated by Lewis' three-day work week in the soft coal mines.

The 10 senators were members of the senate banking committee, which had been investigating the problem of the miners' short work week but which had no power to take legislative action in that economic area.

THE REPORT pointed out that "if this usurpation and abuse of power is to be controlled and price is tolerated by the congress, its unbridled and spread from union to union, from industry to industry, and the congress will never again regain its own narrowly circumscribed power to control the economy of the nation consistently with the Constitution of the United States."

RED STUPIDITY REACHES NADIR

Soviets Claim U.S. College Girls Spies

There appeared no end to the absurdity to which Moscow would go in screaming to the world about how it is being imposed upon by low-lived, unprincipled spies. The latest frenzy of the Soviets in that sphere was directed at the Swiss branch of Smith college for women at Geneva. According to charges from Moscow, American girls at this school are being trained for anti-Soviet spy work.

CHINESE REDS: Shake, Pal

The Chinese Communist government lost no time in accepting recognition by Great Britain of its regime, saying, in effect, "Shake, pal!"

It was also announced in New Delhi that the Chinese Reds also had accepted India's offer of recognition, but that action came after a week's delay.

Both Denmark and Israel have followed Britain's lead.

Soviet Walkout

It has been evident for a long time that Russia wants to eliminate China's Nationalist government, both from the Chinese and international scenes, and is sparing no effort to achieve that end.

IN ADDITION to the military pressure exerted by the Chinese Communists, the Soviets had turned on the heat in the United Nations in a continuing attempt to get the Nationalist delegation discredited in the security council.

Latest development along those lines came when Russia's Jacob Malik wrathfully stomped out of a security council meeting because the other delegates would not kick out the Nationalist representation.

And, said Malik, he would not return to the council as long as the Nationalists sat at the table. Meetings with them present would be a parody, he asserted. And the chief Nationalist delegate, T. F. Tsiang, who was presiding as January chairman over the first council meeting this year, "represents nobody," Malik concluded.

U.S. BUDGET: No Balance

Mr. Truman's federal budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 was not surprising. It was unbalanced, calling for the government to live more than five billion dollars beyond its income during the year—if congress doesn't pare the figures, or give the President the "moderate" tax hikes he has proposed.

THE OVERALL BUDGET figure was 42 billion, 439 thousand dollars, but Mr. Truman declared the proposed spending "vital to our security... and to the welfare of our people."

As was to be expected, Mr. Truman insisted the budget was one of soundest prudence and restraint. He argued that it was a financial expression of the steps the government ought to take now "to build toward economic growth and the expansion of human freedom in our own country and in the world."

National defense continued to be the biggest expense in the budget, although expansively covered in that is the money being spent in an effort to insure Europe against any further spread of communism. An ironical twist was the fact that while the U. S. is pouring money into Great Britain as a part of that general effort, the British turn right around and give aid and comfort to communism by formally recognizing the Communists.

AS FOR TAX INCREASES, the President was silent on specific recommendations. He did, however, indicate that he would like an earlier date for imposition of an increase in social security taxes from one and one-half per cent to two per cent on employers and employees. The President apparently wanted that extra money to aid a health-insurance plan, which congress seems to have little intention of approving.

FORMOSA:

Many Tanks The administration was standing pat on its decision against U. S. military intervention in Formosa—destined to be the next area of conflict in the Communist drive to control the Far East.

Official U. S. attitude was that this country could do more to combat communism in the volatile Orient by extending economic aid to lands still outside the Red orbit than it could by direct intervention in the struggle.

AT THE SAME TIME, however, the generalized term "economic aid" was being employed as usual to cover a multitude of purposes. A case in point was the news that the Chinese Nationalists had purchased nearly 300 U. S. Army tanks for shipment to Formosa, where they would be used in the defense against the Communists.

The military vehicles were listed as surplus army equipment, and the price tag was $1,000 per tank. Similar tanks, minus weapons, cost about $58,000 to build during the war.

ANOTHER element in the paradox was that the Nationalists paid for the tanks with money from the 25-million-dollar kitty which was provided for the aid of China by congress last year.

U. S. state department's stand on the matter was expressed by Michael McDermott, department press officer, who said that the Chinese Nationalist government had been spending the aid money through its own purchasing agents and had bought whatever armaments it wanted.

"WE STILL recognize the Nationalist government of China and would interpose no objection to its exporting this material from this country," he stated.

Although the destination of the tank shipment was not disclosed officially, it was an open secret that the cargo was bound, aboard a Turkish ship, for Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government headquarters on Formosa.

FEDERAL OUTLAY: GOP Sharpens Knife

Even as President Truman was calling for a 42-billion-plus federal budget for the coming fiscal year, Republican members of senate and house were sharpening paring knives in an effort to slash some of the proposed expenditures. Many Democrats, too, expressed misgivings over the prospect of another five billion "red ink" or deficit, spending.

GOP HOUSE LEADER Martin served notice that the "Republicans in congress have no intention of accepting this budget and will work night and day, if necessary, to bring it within the bounds of the capacity of the people to pay."

Similarly, the GOP senate leader, Wherry of Nebraska, termed the budget message "purely political" which "sugar-coated" the red ink implications.

Representative Taber (R., N. Y.) was the most violent in his attack on the budget proposals. "We cannot maintain our liberties," he charged, "if we turn this money over to the President and the Socialist schemers who surround him." Taber said he intended to battle for a balanced budget.

THERE WAS A POSSIBILITY that the President might be in trouble in his budget, because ever since the congress convened members have been talking of economy.

Answer Is 'No'

Dean Acheson, U. S. secretary of state, arrives for the White House conference at which it was decided that the United States would not interfere in Chinese Communist aims in Formosa. President Truman said this government will not provide any military defense or assistance to the island.

PROGRESS: Deodorized

Rubber products which in the past have been anything but attractive because of their odor, may now smell as sweet as "mountain air after a shower" as the result of development of a new series of odorants.

The I. E. du Pont de Nemours company, introducing the odorants, said they may be used singly or in combinations added during the manufacturing process.

The odorants, according to the manufacturers, will give a wide range of sulfurous, smoky-smelling products the scent of mountain air after a summer shower. There was no mention of the step, but it was not illogical to assume that, finally, it might be applied to rubber tires, so that in the future the olfactory organs of both pedestrian and motorist might not be assailed by the formidable fumes which emanate from burning rubber when brakes are too hastily applied in traffic, which certainly would be a boon.

GRASSROOTS by WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

Social Security Commendable, But—

APPROXIMATELY 39 million American workers are now paying as social security tax a maximum of $45 each year. The employer adds to that another $45 as a maximum. The total of the tax paid by employee and employer will produce for 1950 about 2.4 billion dollars of which about 700 million will be needed to pay social security pensions for the year.

We are encouraged to think of the difference between the amount collected, and the amount paid out, 700 million as a reserve fund to provide for future social security payments, but that is not the fact; that reserve does not exist. Congress has spent every dime of the 11.6 billion dollars that reserve is presumed to have accumulated.

It has been swallowed up in the wild spendings of congress through the years since social security started in 1935. It means that those millions of Americans, both employees and employers, are, and have been, paying far more than the costs of social security, including the excessive administration expenses. Between the employees and the employers they have been, and are, paying more than an insurance company annuity to pay the same amounts on the same conditions, would cost.

Should there come a year when the costs, the payment of pensions and the administrative expenses of social security should amount to more than the tax for the year produced, the difference would not be taken from that non-existent reserve fund, but would be voted as an appropriation by congress. It would come from the United States treasury, paid from the general tax levied against the American people, as all other government expenditures are paid.

The social security idea may be commendable, but the method of operation is largely fraudulent. It has cost in the past only about half the amount the beneficiaries and their employers pay, and beginning with the first of January of this year congress has provided for the collection of an additional 50 per cent, with another jump in the tax due in 1952. Less than half of the money collected is used in paying for what it was supposedly collected for by the government. It is obtaining money, under false pretenses.

Among the Christmas remembrances received was a card sent by a friend living in New York City. To that card was attached half a dozen potato seeds. On it was a message suggesting that in the spring I plant the seeds and when, in the fall, the crop was harvested, I report to the department of agriculture and receive from the government my 1950 Christmas check.

With it came information to the effect that in 1948 the government spent, of the tax payers money, 199 million dollars to buy up the surplus potato crop, plus 24 million more to destroy what it had bought. All to keep the price of potatoes the people must have at a high price.

In Arrowstock county, Maine, the government paid an average of $13,000 to each potato farmer. That, said the card, is a racket much more profitable than anything offered by the Irish sweepstakes, and it is legal. To me that card and its ironic content was but an evidence of what the five city voters to the one farm vote are thinking of the taxes they pay to keep the prices of food they must buy selling at peak prices.

My friend had emphasized his opinion of farm subsidies. It would be well for that one-to-five farm vote and those who would serve the farmers cause to take heed of that opinion before the five city voters take more drastic measures than merely sending ironic Christmas cards.

A sample of selfishness: Because of a small profit made on sales to 2,500 needless federal employees, merchants at Long Beach, Calif., circulated petitions to their representatives at Washington, demanding Hoover commission recommendations not be effectuated. The many suffer that a few may profit in a small way, but the many fail to express their wishes. That is a sample of what is happening.

It can be a short road to socialism, but it will be a long way back.

That something for nothing that looks so enticing, is, in reality, but a mirage of the desert.

It is all true, as the Governor of Utah says: "The federal government takes one dollar from the states, for every 50 cents it returns."

How long, O Lord, how long, will it take the American people to learn that they, as individuals, must pay for all the gratuities the government so lavishly hands out. And they get back only a small part of what they pay.

The "me too" Republicans can claim partial credit (?) for the hiking by 50 per cent of the social security tax, which increase will never be used for the payment of social security pensions.

MIRROR Of Your MIND How Important Are Souvenirs? By Lawrence Gould

Is cherishing "souvenirs" neurotic?

Answer: That depends on how important they are to you. We all hate to see happy moments pass, and cling to anything that we think will preserve them, though we usually end by finding that our "souvenirs" are soon forgotten and are thought of only when we "run across them" when we're going through a bureau drawer or closet. The more they mean to us, the more rarely cherishing them is to be neurotic, since a healthy-minded person seeks his satisfaction in what he can do next, not in memories of past pleasures.

quires it of you, not because you really have it. But to marry under such conditions is a risky business because if you cannot give up your "dislike," you may end by proving its "sincerity" by turning it against the person you "thought you loved."

Is "greediness" the main cause of overeating?

Answer: As a rule, not if what you mean is simple devotion to the pleasures of the table—or the ice-box. A few gourmets may be over-stuffed, but the average person who eats too much hardly seems to know what he is eating. Possibly our earliest "association" is that of a full stomach with security—with the sense of mother's nearness and protection. And it's the unconscious effort to regain that feeling which is most likely to make you eat when you're not really hungry. Too much food won't even "tempt" a secure person.

KEEPING HEALTHY Method of Preventing Tooth Decay

By Dr. James W. Bolton

FOR MANY YEARS physicians have been seeking ways of preventing ill health, which, from the selfish standpoint, is really cutting down on their yearly income. For many years also, dentists have been seeking ways of preventing decay of teeth, which really provides their largest source of income.

The latest discovery in preventing tooth decay is the application of sodium fluoride to the teeth. Various communities have been able to show over the years that applying sodium fluoride in a certain strength reduces tooth decay by 40 per cent.

As long ago as 1947, the council on dental therapeutics, American Dental association, stated that "the evidence is convincing that fluoride solutions properly applied to the teeth are capable, to some extent of reducing tooth decay in children."

Following this the dental section of the American Public Health association unanimously endorsed

HEALTH NOTES

When children's specialists taught mothers how to feed their children properly, summer diarrhoea almost disappeared. It was preventing deaths by proper feeding that is still considered the first and perhaps greatest forward step in lengthening the life span of men and women.

Overweight is really an ailment. Before women stopped wearing tight corsets, women with gallstones outnumbered the men with gallstones by four to one. Since the wearing of loose girdles, the ratio is less than two to one.

Some physicians say that cutting down table salt in the treatment of high blood pressure would give the same results as the rice diet. High blood pressure may exist over many years without causing any symptoms.

The first and outstanding symptom of lack of vitamins in the system is tiredness yet inability to sleep, lack of appetite, cramps in arms and legs, red tongue, ulcers of the mouth and at corners of the mouth, and diarrhoea from irritable bowel. Fortunately, vitamins do no harm when not needed—except perhaps Vitamin D.

A sprained ankle is one of the commonest accidents of everyday life and because it is so common and the patient seems to recover in time with or without treatment, nothing much is thought of it. However, what most of us—including the patient—forget or fail to notice is that the sprained ankle "goes back on him" from time to time, which means suffering and loss of time from work or play. Your liver does more work than any other organ in the body.

Ain't It So? Some men can't see why a man needs a good conscience, when he can hire a good lawyer. When a man is too old for a girl to marry, and too rich for her not to marry, she'll marry him, all right.

JUST AS YOU ARE

Mr. Jones squinted into the living room where his daughter's young man was comfortably ensconced in the most luxurious chair in the house. He frowned and turned to his wife.

"Ye Gods," he grunted, "why doesn't she marry him and get him out of my easy chair?"

"Now, now, dad," she reminded him, "you were young once yourself, you know."

"Yes, I do know," he muttered, "but you didn't keep me waiting that long. After all, the only thing she has to decide is whether she loves him or not."

"Well," she replied, "she's had to wait a while to see if she can do any better."

Three years had passed since the honeymooners had descended from their lofty pedestal and apparently their puppy love had matured.

"You don't love me any more," she sobbed. You used to be so nice to me, now you're always barking and growling."

"What do you expect?" he demanded. "You've always got me in the doghouse."

Young Tom was the picture of utter dejection. "My girl turned me down," he explained to a friend. "Now I have nothing to live for. I may as well cut my throat."

"Now, now, wait a while," said his friend placatingly, "don't lose your head."

Nourishing Desserts Build Family Health Just as Other Foods

IS DESSERT at your home something that's used just as a filler, to take up that empty space at the close of a none too hearty meal?

Or, is it well designed to do its share of assuming some of the nutrients should belong in the balanced diet?

If you can't answer the question, then look to the desserts of the past week. If they were all starchy foods lacking in fruit or berries, milk and eggs, they are not being planned with the health of the family in mind.

It's all very well to serve cakes and pies, but desserts should also include plenty of fruits and milk and eggs to be truly health-building. When youngsters skip their milk, refuse their eggs or turn thumbs down on breakfast fruits, include these in luncheon and dinner desserts.

HOMEMAKERS WHO SAY these are not interesting desserts should take a look at the parade of health building dessert recipes in today's column. They're tops in appetite appeal and just as high in vitamins, proteins and minerals.

Candied Fruit Cup
(Serves 4-6)

3 to 4 oranges
1 cup crushed pineapple
1/4 cup broken candy mints
Add candy mints to pineapple. Chill together. Section oranges removing all membranes. Line dessert dishes with orange sections and place pineapple-candy mixture in center. Serve chilled.

Orange Custard
(Serves 6-8)

2 cups milk
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites, beaten stiff, but not dry
1/2 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 oranges, sectioned

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Combine thoroughly sugar, salt, cornstarch and slightly beaten egg yolks. Add scalded milk slowly, return to double boiler, cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add orange juice, rind, and vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Garnish with orange sections. Chill.

Fig Bread Pudding
(Serves 8-10)

2 cups dry bread crumbs
1 quart hot milk
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup chopped figs
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup melted butter
3 eggs
Salt
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Add crumbs to hot milk and set aside to cool, then add all other ingredients and pour into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake at 325° for one hour.

Milk, eggs and oranges give a delicately flavored dessert that will please at any meal. This type of dessert offers an easy way to incorporate important foods into the daily diet.

LYNN SAYS:
Improve your Foods With Simple Seasonings
To rejuvenate doughnuts, try splitting and toasting them. Serve spread with butter and jam and you'll wonder why you never tried it before.

Your salad business will pick up with a simple trick like adding broken pecan meats to shredded cabbage and chopped celery. For something really delicious, fold the ingredients into an old-fashioned dressing.

Ever try baked beans in a salad? They'll be interesting with chopped celery, chives, minced olives and enough salad dressing to moisten. Finely-minced watercress rolled into a rich baking powder dough makes a good crust as well as a tasty one for chicken pot pie.

Shape leftover mashed potatoes and flaked fish into small balls with some slices of bacon. Fry in deep fat and serve hot.

Maple syrup mixed with soured cream and a dash of cinnamon makes a mighty good mixture for thin dessert pancakes.

An assortment of fruits makes a pretty and tempting dessert that provides health-giving nutrients painlessly. Serve this colorful dessert as a perfect close to a heavy meal.

Toasted Pears
(Serves 6)

1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup melted butter
2 1/2 cups corn flakes

Sauce:
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Peel, halve and core pears. Dip at once into lemon juice in which sugar has been dissolved. Dip in melted butter. Roll in crushed corn flakes. Arrange cut side up on a shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°-375°) for 20 to 25 minutes, or until pears are tender but not soft. To make lemon cream sauce, beat confectioners' sugar into the sour cream and flavor with lemon juice.

Fruit Marlow
(Serves 6)

1/2 pound marshmallows, quartered
1 cup strong hot coffee
1 cup whipped cream
1 1/2 cups fruit cocktail, drained

Caramel Baked Apples
(Serves 6-8)

6-8 medium apples
1/2 cup seedless raisins
3 tablespoons enriched flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup orange juice

Wash apples and core. Pare about one strip around top. Place in deep baking dish. Fill centers with raisins. Combine flour, sugar and cinnamon. Cut in butter with pastry blender or fork. Add walnuts. Sprinkle crumb mixture over apples. Pour over water and orange juice. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (350°) one hour, basting occasionally. Serve with cream.

Apricot-Marshmallow Betty
(Serves 6-8)

1 pound (3 cups) quartered dried apricots, cooked
5 cups toasted white bread cubes
1 pound (about 16) marshmallows, quartered
1 cup liquid from apricots
1 1/2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons butter

Alternate layers of apricots, bread cubes and marshmallows in greased 6x10-inch baking dish. Top layer should be bread cubes. Heat apricot juice to boiling; add lemon peel and juice and butter; pour over. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (350°) about 35 minutes. Note: Add four cups water to dried apricots, cover, simmer tender.

Stewed pears will take on a festive touch if you serve them with chilled custard and then top with meringue, browned until golden.

Mix some herbs with bread or cracker crumbs before breading veal or other meats.

Fried sausages are just as good with fried pears as with apples. Fry the pears in the sausage drippings just as you would the apples.

Smart garnish for a fish dinner uses tiny red beets, cooked and chilled, served in salted soured cream.

When boiling artichokes, add to the water 2 tablespoons of salad oil, a clove of garlic and a dash of lemon juice. The treatment does wonderful things to the flavor of the vegetable.

Good to serve with lamb chops is this sauce made by melting currant jelly, then adding some chutney, lemon juice and salt and pepper to it.

On a frosty night, you'll like nothing better than scrapple fried to a crisp and served with breaded, fried eggplant, broiled mushrooms and sliced tomatoes.

● Because of the push-button "magic" he employs on the farm, an Alabama boy is being hailed as a sort of 16-year-old combination of Burbank, Bromfield and Edison. He is Johnny Clyde Williams of Fayette, whose ingenuity in putting electricity to work on the farm has won him one of six Westinghouse national awards in the 4-H better methods electric contest sponsored by the company. In photo at right, Johnny is shown with his two registered Jersey cows which have won him 19 ribbons in district cattle shows.

PUSH-BUTTON FARM BOY

● A critical step in the processing of galdiolus bulbs (right) is handled neatly here by Johnny's ingenious device. Bulbs drop down the vertical chute and at the same time are sprayed with DDT powder to protect them from plant pests. The bulbs are counted automatically as they drop down, then are tossed onto a conveyor. Johnny built the machine at a cost of about $46. The motor is portable and has many uses.

● Johnny is shown above installing a new, three-wire electric service entrance as a part of installation of new circuits in his home to make sure the needs of all home appliances would be met. He built his own electric fan. At right, the Alabama youngster builds a scale-model Fairchild PT-19 plane. His model workshop is a room in the barn where he repairs electric motors and any other equipment.

It's "old home week" for these chickens who were kept warm as toast early last spring by this electric brooder which Johnny built. Here (above) Johnny lifts the electric hot plate heating unit which is fastened to the lid of an old lard can. A circular tin roof and six wooden legs complete the device.

● As vice-president of his local 4-H club at Fayette county high school, Johnny (at right) recites the pledge at the start of a meeting. At these meetings, the young farmers discuss best methods of raising crops, animals, electrifying their farms, and other topics.

FISH LIKE SAWDUST

Fish thrive on sawdust. Hatchery men have included sawdust—especially for roughage—in the diets of fish and have found it reduces mortality. The fish flourish on it, growing only a little less rapidly than those fed on more conventional diets.

QUIET

word for quality

NEW "HUSHED" 100 H. P. V-8
Yes, you can even hear Ford's quality
... in the new quiet of Ford's new "hushed" 100-h.p. V-8, the only V-8 in its field. It's the type of engine you find in America's costliest cars... yet it's years for hundreds less than most "sixes."

NEW "HUSHED" RIDE
Sound-conditioning all around, plus Ford's "LifeGuard" Body (now 13-ways stronger) make the '50 Ford so silent, you can talk in whispers. It's the one fine car in its field.

FORD AUTOMATIC OVERDRIVE--optional at extra cost, pays off in savings and smoothness of operation. It's an automatic fourth speed cruising gear. Engine speed drops 30% while the car speed remains unchanged.

There's a Ford in your future
...with a future built in
