

Chevrolets Trounce Random Lake, 72-38

The Kewaskum Chevrolets returned to their winning ways again Sunday night at Random Lake after losing their only game of the season the week before.

County 4-H Leaders Meet, Plan 1950 Club Program

Many things were accomplished at the Washington County Leaders association meeting Thursday, Jan. 26. Clarence Jang and Robert Mayer were elected as new members on the executive committee.

The 4-H club program for 1950 was presented and discussed. In the process of reviewing this program, approval was given to the following: that the 4-H clubs of Washington county participate in putting up window displays during National 4-H Club Week, Mar. 4 to 12.

Members are encouraged to bring their parents along to this meeting. This course will be open to all 4-H members and persons eligible for 4-H membership.

A conservation speaking contest will be held this year in place of the safety speaking contest. The prize money for this contest will be furnished from the treasury fund. On June 19-21 there will be a state leader and junior leader camp at Madison.

The leaders reacted favorably toward a new venture this year. This is a county 4-H camp. Washington county has never held a local 4-H club camp previously. Tentative plans are toward having a 2 1/2 day camp at a nearby site along with 4-Hers of Ozaukee county.

Miss Agnes Hanson from the state 4-H club office briefly outlined the year's program. She mentioned a state scholarship for an outstanding home economics girl, she told of the Upham Woods, the present plan for building and the effort 4-H members over the state are exerting. It was shown that if every member in the state would contribute ten cents the building on this site would start this year.

The 4-H clubs of Washington county have made this their goal. Many clubs have already sent their donations to the county 4-H office. In most cases their donations have exceeded the quota.

Miss Hansen also told of the conservation speaking program for this year and then went on to explain the duties of the junior leaders and the relationship that should exist between the junior leader and the adult leader.

Paul Cypher mentioned that Cargill seeds were sponsoring a hybrid corn project. A very attractive banner and framed copy of the Gettysburg Address was presented to the outstanding 4-H club of 1949. Mrs. Wm. Kuhn, one of the leaders of Oak Grove 4-H club of Rockfield, accepted this award on behalf of the club.

A framed copy of the Gettysburg Address was also presented to Robert Mayer, a leader of the Slinger Happy Workers club vying closely with the Oak Grove club for top honors.

Joe Welch was presented a $5.00 savings stamp in recognition for his work in the metal roofing activity. Robert Freidman was acknowledged as having received the "second mile award" from the state 4-H club office.

Upon adjournment of the meeting a lunch of hot chocolate and doughnuts was served.

Baroness De Hueck to Speak at St. Michaels

Baroness Catherine de Hueck Doherty, founder of the first Friendship house in New York city's Harlem district, and now on a lecture tour, will speak on the upper floor of St. Michael's school, St. Michaels, at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Feb. 12. The baroness is an acquaintance of Father Eschweiler, pastor at St. Michael's, and through this friendship the parish was fortunate in getting her to speak.

The daughter of a White Russian diplomat, she served at 16 as a Red Cross nurse during World War I. She was imprisoned by the Communists, who killed her father, and later escaped to the United States. She is the wife of a former Chicago newspaper reporter, Eddie Doherty. They live in Combermere, Ontario, Canada.

This week Baroness de Hueck spoke to the Marquette University Alumni association at the Wisconsin hotel, Milwaukee; at Mount Mary college, and to the Milwaukee Serra club at the Pfister hotel, Holy Angels academy, and the Cardijn center.

Following her lecture at St. Michael's, she will answer questions. The public is invited and admission is free.

County to Hold Schools on Tractor Maintenance

Plans to start the 4-H Live-Power Club in Tractor Maintenance were announced this week by Everett Olsen, county 4-H club agent. Two schools will be held, one at Hartford and one at West Bend. All interested persons in the Hartford area should come to the agricultural room, Hartford high school on Tuesday evening, Feb. 21. In the West Bend area the initial meeting will be held in the court house Wednesday evening, Feb. 22. Both meetings are scheduled to start at 8:15 p. m.

Members are encouraged to bring their parents along to this meeting. This course will be open to all 4-H members and persons eligible for 4-H membership.

The course will be fully explained at these meetings, two colored films will be shown which will further explain the purpose of this project.

It is a known fact that the average tractor operator loses a lot of money every year through improper carburetor adjustments and other faulty operating and servicing practices. This school is designated to help members to better understand their tractor, thereby making it a longer lived, smoother running tractor.

The course is set up to train members in a three year program of tractor maintenance and operation. However, an example of the program may be shown by the following subjects of the first year members: safety, operator's manual, air cleaner service, spark plugs, wiring and battery service, cooling system service, fuel intake and carburetion, engine lubrication, and general lubrication.

Final Plea for Special Effort in Dimes Drive

As the extended March of Dimes campaign in Washington county approached its Feb. 15 closing date, B. D. Rice, West Bend, general chairman of the drive, this week issued a final plea to the people of the county to make an extra-special effort to make the drive a success during the few days that yet remain.

While calling for a last concerted effort to put the drive across, the chairman was able to report that as a result of the drive being extended, and due to the fact that mailed donations were exceptionally slow in arriving at his office this year, the outlook was slightly more favorable this week than it has been heretofore.

In spite of the increased optimism, Rice maintained that the possibility still exists that the $10,000 goal will not be reached before the drive closes. A check with A. P. Staral, chairman of the local infantile paralysis chapter, made by Rice in the forepart of the week, revealed that this chapter still has bills outstanding from last year which must be paid with funds received from this year's campaign.

These bills alone, the chairman continued, will cut sharply into the funds now being collected.

Reports that the town of Erin had completed its drive were somewhat reassuring, Rice stated, inasmuch as that area's contributions appear to have exceeded last year's donations.

If the remaining chapters report proportionate gains, the prospects for a reasonably successful drive will increase accordingly. Rice urged his county chairmen to make their reports as soon as they can, even before Feb. 15, if possible, so as to enable him to ascertain to some extent the progress which is being made.

In voicing his final plea for funds, the chairman stated: "I only hope that when I make my report to the residents of this county on the amount of money raised in this year's campaign, I can again tell them that, because of their generosity, the drive was a success, and that the fight against infantile paralysis will not be relaxed due to a lack of funds."

KEWASKUM WOMAN'S CLUB

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 4, Mrs. L. N. Peterson, L. N. Peterson, Charles Reigle, Clayton Kohn and Miss Edna Oster conducted the local Woman's club on a tour of the Kewaskum Utensil Co.

The club first was briefed on aluminum, the metal, which was discovered by a Danish scientist in 1825 and is mined from huge deposits of bauxite. Extracted from the crude bauxite is alumina which undergoes a smelting process and is poured into ingots from which the sheets of aluminum are rolled. The degree of thickness of the sheets depends on the type of utensil it will be used to make.

These aluminum sheets are cut into discs. The club witnessed the changes which take place from the aluminum discs to the finished pots, pans, coffee-makers, roasters, trays, etc. The aluminum discs which are stamped and oiled are ready to be drawn. Many huge presses are part of this operation. The newly shaped utensil undergoes spinning, cleaning, buffing, polishing, and edging processes. After primary inspection the handles are put on the utensils. Each pot or pan undergoes a final inspection before it is wrapped and cartoned.

The modern factory is equipped with conveyors throughout—from transporting the original aluminum discs to the final loading of the finished products in trucks or box cars. Since the war the factory has increased its floor space over three times its original size and over 400 men and women are employed there. A well-equipped first aid room with a R. N. in attendance, locker rooms with individual lockers for the employees, and modern lavatories are off the main part of the factory. The well-equipped offices occupy most of the second floor. The employees showed a high degree of accuracy and speed in the type of work each was doing. The machinists were busy in their department doing the precision work needed on the dies for the presses. The club members were greatly impressed with the planning, accuracy, skill and work it takes to make a "little pan." Each member was presented with a perfect Regal Aluminum specimen as a memento. The Woman's club is proud that Kewaskum is the home of Regal Aluminum, the world's finest cooking-ware.

On Saturday, Feb. 18, the regular meeting of the Kewaskum Women's club will be held in the clubhouse. Each member is bringing a new or used article of clothing for our Onondia Indian children, ages 1-15 years. Miss Gladys Salter, our county nurse, will address the group on "The Work of the County Nurse." Mrs. Richard Schwartz and Mrs. Clyde Smith are the hostesses.

Discuss Interest in Soil Conservation at Meeting

Stimulation of interest in soil conservation in Washington county was discussed at a meeting in the county courthouse on Friday, Feb. 4. Those who took part in this discussion were: E. M. Romaine, county board chairman; N. C. Nicholson, A. R. Kurtz and J. Chitwood, agricultural instructors of Hartford, West Bend, and Slinger high schools respectively; H. D. Sheakl, county supt. of schools; Clifford Rose, principal of Kewaskum high school; E. E. Skalsky, county agent; E. Olson, county club agent; C. W. Skalfie, district conservationist from Waukesha, and D. A. Wanless, local representative for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Educational program in the rural schools, and with adult groups was suggested as a means of telling more people about the service available from the Washington Co. Soil Conservation district.

The loss of our valuable topsoil is a serious problem in Washington county. 49% of our cropland in the county has lost from 6 to 8 inches of valuable topsoil. The U. S. Soil Conservation Service is equipped to give technical assistance through the Washington County Soil Conservation district to any farmer or landowner to reduce this loss.

The agricultural and community leaders who attended this meeting believe the people in the county should know about the service available. They discussed the possibilities of holding tours, demonstrations, and displays as a means of familiarizing the people with this service.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

BIG DEFICIT: Some Are Worried

The two-year, 10-billion-dollar deficit looming as inevitable for the United States had some economic experts in a state of apprehension.

Among these was Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, former chairman of the President's council of economic advisers. The deficit, Dr. Nourse indicated, has stirred fears of inflation and possibly a "rising uncertainty as to the stability of the dollar itself."

DR. NOURSE, who recently resigned his chairmanship on the economic council, called for a "specific and hard-headed plan for getting back to the black ink."

He declared the federal budget could be balanced in a year or two, but only if the government practices economy and reduces or defers many of President Truman's programs "in the development and welfare areas."

To objective observers, Dr. Nourse was another voice crying in the wilderness—for, on the basis of political results in the past 16 years, practice or support of economy didn't bring many votes when the chips were down.

THE SENSATIONAL SUCCESS of the late Mr. Roosevelt, also a great spender of public money—a program which helped give him four presidential election victories—was bound to loom as a vital lesson in practical politics.

On the record, the American taxpayer cares less about his government's saving money than he does about its being spent.

FORMOSA: Token Aid?

According to reliable reports, U. S. State Secretary Dean Acheson was in favor of a congressional move to send about 28 million dollars in economic aid to the Chinese Nationalists in Formosa.

THE QUESTION which immediately arose was: Why?

Was it another money-down-the-hole action? Another token appeasement of those who were demanding more and actual aid to Formosa?

Those were legitimate questions, in any attempt to penetrate the maze of the intricate foreign policy being practiced by the United States. Acheson had let it be known most clearly that he feels the Nationalist cause is lost in China, and there were many who contended that it wouldn't be long until the state secretary advocated U. S. recognition of the Chinese Communist regime.

If those things were true, why send 28 million good American dollars rolling helplessly into the path of a Red juggernaut already conceded as sure to roll over all China?

ACHESON, it seemed to most, was laying himself open to charges of inconsistency, or, perhaps even more important, willing to play fast and loose with American money for more time to juggle his highly involved and puzzling diplomatic concepts.

At the risk of over-simplification, it could be contended that there was still hope to stop the Communist surge in China, or there was not. If not, then there seemed little point in wasting further U. S. resources in a futile attempt otherwise. If so, then applying 28 million dollars to the effort would appear as simply a peurile gesture.

TAXATION: One Billion More

Just as nearly everyone expected, Mr. Truman's tax recommendations were well below what he had stated a year ago he would ask for when congress convened. The first figure was 12 billions. What Mr. Truman asked for, instead, was one billion.

MR. TRUMAN'S proposal included both tax cuts and tax increases, but, overall, it would hike the nation's tax bill by a billion dollars. Even so, there was no ready assurance the President would get that much.

That he trimmed his tax proposals at all was due to mounting sentiment within his own administration ranks that appreciable tax increases would be unwise at this time, and that the effort should be toward stimulating business as much as possible, rather than retard or discourage it by added tax burdens.

THE PRESIDENT recommended a cut in excise taxes—as it had been generally believed he would. These would include levies on travel, telephone and telegraph bills, luggage, women's pocket-books, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, etc. This would be done provided "loopholes" in other taxes were closed.

Mr. Truman also proposed a billion dollar increase in the taxes on corporations, big estates and gifts.

As it stood, the proposal added up to bad news for big business, good news for small business, and some cheer for wage-earners.

INDICATIONS were that some of the excise taxes would be repealed but Mr. Truman served notice he would veto any tax measure which provided only excise tax cuts.

Thus the stage appeared to be set for a colorful presentation of a venerable drama: "The President versus Congress on Tax Measures." It was a show as old as the nation itself.

The audience—the American people—would have more than a spectator's interest, however, in the production.

Recall Asked

Donald R. Heath, U. S. minister to Bulgaria, has been termed "persona non grata" by the Bulgarian government which has asked that he be recalled. The Bulgarians charge Heath received secret government information from Traicho Kostov, former deputy premier of Bulgaria who was executed on a charge of treason.

WAGES: 75-Cent Floor

That means that all workers employed in interstate commerce, or in production of goods for interstate commerce, must be paid a minimum of 75 cents an hour.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN hailed the new law as being "dictated by social justice" and a step that will bring "great and lasting benefits."

Significant, however, was an almost immediate call by certain CIO union leaders for effort to boost the minimum wage to a flat dollar an hour, and broadened coverage under the law.

IT WAS PERHAPS with these new union demands in mind that President Truman said he had asked labor secretary Tobin to "keep me informed on the operation of the new law."

Most workers are now making more than 75 cents an hour. But it has been estimated that the new minimum will mean wage increases to about 1.5 million persons, more than half of whom are in the South. This is expected to cost employers about 300 million dollars annually.

NEWS: No Monopoly

Since the early days when Reuter's news agency and the Associated Press were pioneering in the gathering and dissemination of news, there have been frequent legal tangles over the ownership of news and rights of its distribution.

NOW THAT RADIO has invaded the news field, it was inevitable that the same sort of argument would arise over the ownership of radio news and whether one station or a chain of stations can create a monopoly in broadcasting the news.

The federal communications commission ruled that such cannot be done, and a United States court of appeals has upheld the FCC. The court ruled that the FCC may deny a license to a radio station applicant if it finds that approval would tend to create a news monopoly.

The court said: "Monopoly in the mass communication of news and advertising is contrary to the public interest, even if not in terms prescribed by the antitrust laws."

THE RULING was in connection with the case of the Mansfield (Ohio) Journal and the Lorain (Ohio) Journal whose applications for radio station licenses were turned down by the FCC. In rejecting the applications, the commission ruled the Mansfield Journal used its position in the community "to coerce its advertisers to enter into exclusive advertising contracts with the newspaper."

The commission added that since both newspapers were owned and controlled by Samuel A. Horvitz and Isadore Horvitz, it took the view that what happened in Mansfield "was indicative of what might occur under similar circumstances in Lorain."

In appealing to the court, the newspapers contended the FCC had gone outside its province and had acted under antitrust laws.

FEPG Stalled

In the first test of the fair employment practices commission bill in the current congress, President Truman ran afoul of southern-led filibuster tactics, with his good friend, Sam Rayburn, leading them.

Rayburn, the administration's own leader in the house, twice was able to bar consideration of the FEPG bill by giving priority to measures aimed at statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

That was a rather clear indication, observers held, of the slight chance for approval which the FEPG bill has at this session of congress. However, there was no anticipation that Mr. Truman would abandon the fight.

Instead, he was expected to seize on the occurrence as another platform plank when he goes before the people to advocate his choices in the coming congressional elections.

But this time, Mr. Truman's points might not be so telling. The congress already was Democratic

HISS TRIAL: Verdict & Question

The average American could not help but discern strange and disturbing ramifications in the Alger Hiss perjury trial verdict. Hiss was found guilty on two counts. The jury found that he had passed secret documents to Whittaker Chambers and that he had seen Chambers after January 1, 1937. Hiss had denied both allegations.

In a rambling expose of what now seems to have been juvenile intrigue with infantile overtones of cloak-and-dagger hue, the one big fact that came out of the trial is that somebody lied—somebody lied in such colossal fashion as to be unmatched in any recent instance in American jurisprudence.

CHAMBERS, former Communist courier by his own admission, and a former senior editor of Time magazine, said Hiss passed the secret state department papers to him and that he turned them over to the Russian. Hiss said he didn't do any such thing.

However, the jury, as a second trial of the case, chose to believe Chambers and convict Hiss. Naturally, Hiss will appeal, but if the verdict is upheld, he faces a possible maximum sentence of 10 years imprisonment and fines of $4,000.

The disturbing element in the case is how the Communists could so pervert the Americanism of abnormally intelligent individuals like Hiss and Chambers, if Chambers' story is true, to the point where they would actually serve the interest of the Soviets against the interests of their own country.

THE STRANGENESS of the case, as many see it, are the intricacies of U. S. law which permit an admitted Communist courier to escape any sort of legal punishment and yet permits a long-time sentence and heavy fines for a defendant accused of lying about what it is alleged he did. Chambers admits his acts and is never charged in court. Hiss had to be convicted on charges against him.

Hiss got one break—because of a statute of limitations he could not be charged with having betrayed his country as a spy.

BERLIN: An Old Story

The unpredictable Soviet mind again was indulging its tortuous working to the discomfiture of Berlin and the western allies. In a sort of "junior blockade" of the former reich capital, the Russians had for 24 hours set up an aggravating check system which stalled supply trucks to such an extent that only one was allowed to pass every 15 minutes.

IT WAS EXASPERATING, it was puzzling and it set in motion grave fears that the Reds were about to set up another Berlin blockade which cost America so much in money and equipment when "Operation Airlift" was all that kept Berliners from starvation and freezing.

And then, with no explanation or apparent reason, the Russians abandoned the "junior blockade" as suddenly as they had imposed it.

American, British, and French commanders of Berlin met in emergency session and discussed the latest Soviet harriving tactics. This resulted in a decision to take a wait-and-see attitude.

SOME AMERICAN officers were convinced another full-scale blockade was coming. But the British commander expressed a conviction that the Russians were merely engaging in a passing phase of "pin pricks."

It was made clear, however, that American plans are such that in the event a major blockade is clamped on, another airlift operation could be put into effect in time to stave off any disastrous results to the people of Berlin.

TAX DODGERS: Trap Proposed

In connection with widespread charges that federal revenue is inadequate because of "too many tax dodgers," Representative Sutton (D. Tenn.) has proposed a trap by which he hopes to catch the offenders.

SUTTON PROPOSES that the secretary of the treasury change the color and design of paper money and schedule a day on which old bills would have to be exchanged.

The bill would require everyone to provide banks with information about his identity and his funds at the time of the money trade-in.

SUTTON MAY have introduced his bill with tongue-in-cheek, and he may as well have been performing that oral maneuver as far as any chances of his bill becoming law are concerned.

The public would quickly see the measure for what it was—a financial "switch hunt" in which every citizen would be grilled about what every American citizen believes is no one's business.

"DOUBLE A" VICTORY

Here, at right, the psychiatrist tests the patient for signs of tremors by having him hold a sheet of paper flat on the back of his hand. This is a reliable test in which shakes not previously noticeable are revealed.

On the third day of treatment at the hospital, a new John Doe (left) is emerging from the morass of alcoholic enslavement. He now can navigate under his own power, take part in the gab sessions with other patients, and enjoy a game of cards. Optimism and hope are gaining new strength as the treatment, which features vast quantities of fruit juices, continues.

This is a big day in the restoration period of the alcoholic. His "A. A." sponsor invites the patient's wife to meet him in the hospital. There she learns (right) that John is on the road to recovery from the "curse" and he thus wins her cooperation in the continuing battle. Her aid and understanding are essential helps. She agrees to resume her married life with John when he is released from the hospital.

In the photo at right, John, who has gone three months without a drink, finds himself an "A. A." crusader, helping the good work of saving others by telling of his own victory in a fight that now may be regarded as won.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Overcome Fear Of Being Hurt By Lawrence Gould

Can the fear of being "hurt" be overcome?

Answer: It's not easy. One main reason why so many people do not marry—and why those who do can't "let go" enough to enjoy and truly love each other—is fear of the power to hurt your feelings which loving another person gives him. But remember that what makes this kind of hurt so terrifying is a childish sense of helplessness—it's a relic of the time when you felt unsure of your parents' love because you could do nothing to deserve it. Realize that as an adult you're worth loving, and you'll be less vulnerable.

to mean is something to be ashamed of) may be driven to mental illness when she faces the experience herself, especially if her labor is a difficult one. If you fear approaching motherhood unduly, go to a psychiatrist and get your childish fears "out of your system."

Has everyone a "neurotic conflict"?

Answer: Practically everyone, writes Dr. H. Giltay in the Netherlands Journal of Psychology. For what makes a man neurotic is an undeveloped personality, and he's held back mainly by the conflict between his instinctive urge to grow up and his wish to cling to the emotional security of childhood. The fact that we humans are dependent on parental care so many years longer than the animals is what makes this conflict uniquely severe. Helping children to enjoy the sense of independence is a vital goal of education.

May childbirth unhinge a woman's reason?

Answer: Only in the sense in which a spark may be the "cause" of an explosion—that is, when it falls on explosive material. A girl who was given the impression as a child that "having a baby" is a subject about which she must not ask questions (which she takes

Coalition Effective

Meeting behind closed doors in the rules committee the Republican coalition not only demanded the reinstatement of the old gag rule by which the committee can bottle up any bill, but even refused to let Chairman Adolph Sabath of Illinois, who opposed the gag rule, speak. Each time the 83-year-old Sabath started to talk he was shouted down with cries of "vote!—vote!" by Democrats Gene Cox of Georgia and Howard Smith of Virginia and their Republican cohorts. Finally, GOP Congressman Lee Allen of Illinois took pity on the little champion.

"He has a right to talk," pleaded Allen, above the bedlam. "Let him speak for two or three minutes." Sabath didn't appreciate the humor in this. He was so riled by the roughhouse tactics of the coalitionists that he almost choked up.

"We ought to at least have a public hearing, so that opponents of this resolution can be heard," he demanded. "This is a matter of vital concern to every member of the house. Since we repealed the gag procedure last year, this committee voted out 55 rules on bills and resolutions, the greatest number in history.

"Some of you say that the resolution will give the committee more power—that is, power to stifle legislation which you oppose. As committee chairman, I don't want that kind of power. I want to protect the rights of the house membership."

Backslider

However, Sabath's motion to postpone action on the Cox resolution and to give house members a right to testify for or against it at a public hearing was smothered under a 7-4 vote. The three members who joined Sabath for a free discussion were: Democrats Ray Madden of Indiana, John Lyle of Texas, and James Delaney of New York.

The seven who voted for immediate action without a public hearing were: Democrats Cox, Smith and William Coler, of Mississippi, and Republicans Allen, Clarence Brown of Ohio, James Wadsworth of New York, and Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

Lyle of Texas and Delaney of New York, however, backslid into Republican ranks on the final, 9-2 vote for the gag rule, leaving Sabath and Madden standing alone against it. Delaney, who usually supports the Fair Deal, somewhat sheepishly explained his defection by saying that he wanted to restore the power and "prestige" of the committee which, he contended, was abolished by last year's rules reform.

What this amounts to, though Delaney didn't say so, is that the New Yorker favors giving seven men on the rules committee more power than 500 other members of congress.

Minors Not Protected

From the nation's rogues galleries, the children's bureau has dug up a shameful, shocking story. It is a side of American life that isn't generally known, but the bureau estimates close to 100,000 children were thrown into adult jails last year alongside hardened criminals.

Youngsters were even flogged shoveling dirt on road gangs and serving sentences in state penitentiaries. These were not mere isolated cases, but might have happened right in your home county. For in 34 of the 48 states children were discovered in jail with grownups despite the fact that most of these same states have laws protecting children from such treatment.

Not only were juveniles often found in filthy jails with foul toilets, splashed mattresses, and with roaches running along the walls, but in some instances youngsters were lodged in the same cells with murderers and rapists. In Taylorsville, Ky., a 13-year-old runaway boy was locked up in a two-cell log jail for four days with a screaming, laughing maniac. A 10-year-old Negro boy was sentenced to the South Carolina state penitentiary by Circuit Judge M. A. Mann in Abbeville, S. C.

Schools for Crime

Criminal studies show that jail doesn't cure as much crime as it breeds, especially when juveniles are locked up with professional criminals. For cellmates don't make the best teachers, and sending children to jail is actually like putting them through a school in crime.

A better method of handling young lawbreakers has been worked out by the Big Brothers of America, now celebrating national Big Brother week.

Volunteer "big brothers" are selected from prominent citizens in each community who are willing to put a friendly arm around a wayward boy. Their individual guidance saved more than 5,000 boys from a life of crime last year—less than 7 per cent of the boys who have been given this individual counsel. Yet the cost is less than $45 a year for each boy—for club dues, camp-life and vocational guidance. This is only a fraction of the $2,000 it costs to keep a boy in a reformatory for a year.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Simple Fireside Party Eases Budgets (See Recipes Below)

Entertain Simply IF YOU'VE DECIDED to watch the budget but keep your friends, what could be nicer than a fireside chat party on a long winter evening?

Entertainment props need be something strictly simple such as a popcorn roaster and a marshmallow fork or two. Serve a big pot of coffee and pass a plate of doughnuts, and along with your spirit of friendliness and casual conversation, you have the makings of a successful evening, easy on the food budget.

The hostess who truly wants to enjoy her guests will always plan something simple to prepare, particularly foods which need little last minute attention. Have all dishes and silverware set on a cabinet top, ready to whisk into the living room when refreshments are called in order.

Entertaining is simplified, too, if you have such things as doughnuts, cakes, or cookies made well in advance of the party. This leaves you free for those last minute furniture arrangements and phone calls that always take more time than you've allowed for them.

Guests will enjoy nibbling on popcorn as well as toasting marshmallows during the evening.

HERE'S A RECIPE for delicious, home-made doughnuts which can be stored in a stone crock until serving time to keep them moist:

- Doughnuts (Makes 2 dozen) 3 1/2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons double acting baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 4 egg yolks, well beaten, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon lemon extract, 1 cup milk. Sift flour once, measure and add baking powder, salt and nutmeg; sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and flavorings and beat well. Add milk and mix thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients, beating until smooth. Chill dough for easier handling. Roll dough 3/4-inch thick on floured board. Cut with 3-inch floured doughnut cutter. Fry in hot fat (375°) until brown, turning when tops of doughnuts become rounded. Drain on absorbent paper.

- Chocolate Swirl Cookies (Makes 3 1/2 dozen) 6-ounce package chocolate chips, 1 cup sifted flour, 1/2 cup cold water, 2 cups hot milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, separated, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup crushed pecan nuts. 1 baked pastry shell Pecan toffee shavings. Soften gelatin in water five minutes. Combine milk, salt and 4 tablespoons of the sugar, stir until dissolved. Add to slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring constantly. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. Add vanilla and toffee when custard begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until stiff, add remaining sugar and fold into custard mixture. Pour into pastry shell and chill until firm. Sprinkle with toffee shavings.

- Cottage Cheese Apple Pie (Makes 1 deep 9-inch pie) 1/2 recipe plain pastry, 1 1/2 cups thinly sliced apples, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup cottage cheese, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg. Line pie pan with pastry and cover with apples. Beat eggs slightly, add cottage cheese, 1/2 cup sugar, cream, salt and lemon rind. Mix remaining sugar with cinnamon and nutmeg and sprinkle over apples, then cover with cottage cheese mixture. Bake in a hot (425°) oven for 10 minutes, reduce temperature to moderate (350°) and bake 30 minutes longer.

Broiler pans should be scoured after each use so the grease particles do not harden on them. To make broiler pans easy to clean, line them with aluminum tin foil underneath the broiling rack. This prevents grease and food particles from caking onto the pan. Simply fold the foil with its drippings and toss away and the pan is easy to clean. If broiler pans are removed while the oven is on, when they themselves are not in use, the pans will last longer. When burners on a gas range become clogged remove them from their sockets and boil in a solution of soda and washing soda. Metal skewers, knitting needles or pipe cleaners are good for cleaning the holes in the burners. Always wipe gas burners completely dry before restoring them to their place on the range and lighting the burners. When a stove does not have an enameled finish, the iron parts may be given an application of stove oil to prevent them from rusting.

THE CORNER 'PLUG STORE'

ARE WE TO HAVE "horse automats" and corner "plug-stores"? Mayor O'Dwyer of New York says the police and taxpayers are left in the stretch in the contest with bookies and that the only answer to the American gambling mania is the state operated "Hunch-ette" onto which a man may walk and make a bet openly.

His position is that you can't take away a man's determination to lose money on wrong information, and that the state might as well take its cut, to the relief of taxpayers.

Civic morals and high standards of character are all right, hizzoner seems to believe, but they break too slowly and seem never in shape for distance events.

Bookies outnumber the police. Before a cop gets one of 'em to the station house the customers are located another through a platoon system. A raid merely gives a horse player a hunch on some skinner named "The Pincher" or "Rockpile."

Judges, prosecutors, police, politicians, city officials, businessmen, professors and people in all walks of life play the ponies all over the land in tremendous numbers. As a cop tosses a horse player into the puke he is apt to snarl, "Ya bum, it took me so long to get you here I'm an hour behind in my handicapping."

Right or wrong, horse betting is close to a national pastime. It is the mayor's contention we should face facts. And concede that they always win easily and unextended.

This column feels that millions bet on horses because they love to be furtive. Once they walk into a "deucelette" and make a bet with no trouble, they may decide something is making it so easy there must be a catch in it.

Shudda Haddim, the Egyptian plunger, says, "I got more bookmakers around me than relatives. They get on my nerves. But I dunno about open betting parlors openly arrived at. If they set 'em up they should put a tree inside each one so a horse player can sneak behind it to make a bet and feel natural."

"And the state has gotta train the help to develop a larcenous expression and talk out the side of their mugs. It won't be no fun for me risking my dough with some government clerk with an honest face. Habit is habit."

"Also, if the state goes ahead with the idea, they should put in easy chairs, sofas, soft drinks, sandwiches and video broadcasts of speeches by high turf officials tellin' how they hate gambling and only wanna improve the breed. Didja see what happened the day the cops drove the bookies across the river? A skinner named 'Jersey Bounce' won at Tropical in telephone numbers! And I let it go!"

CAN YOU REMEMBER?

A steel bridge was stolen in Alabama the other night. It puzzled the police. We can't understand why. Probably some fisherman who wasn't getting a nibble moved it to a better river. Or maybe those fellows who stole the million bucks in Boston took it to throw their pursuers off their trail.

Ain't It So The only time a merchant will admit that he is making money is when he isn't—and trying to sell out. When a couple is engaged, they spend most of the time throwing the bull; when they are married, they spend too much time throwing the hammer.

KEEPING HEALTHY We Fight Nature's Healing Methods

I OFTEN WONDER how nature puts up with our blundering ways of what we consider wise or sensible methods of preserving health.

For instance, something irritates the small and large intestine and diarrhoea occurs. This extra water manufactured by the lining of the intestine is to help wash or clean away the irritating substance, yet we do our best to try to stop this extra flow of water; the diarrhoea must be stopped.

A little head cold occurs and the lining of the nose manufactures an antiseptic juice, which, if left alone, will put up a great fight against the organisms that are causing the cold. Our first thought is to shrink or "dry up" the nose instead of letting nature's antiseptic nose juice do its fighting without interference on our part.

Similarly with a cough in its early stages, nature manufactures extra juice on the lining surface of the little tubes which are branches

HEALTH NOTES

Just as infantile paralysis does not cripple every patient, so also rheumatic fever seems to leave some hearts undamaged.

Infected tonsils cause rheumatism and rheumatism causes heart ailments.

Heartburn may be caused by emotional disturbance.

In all cases of sprained ankle, an X-ray should be made as a bone may have been broken requiring a splint or cast.

Nature placed tonsils in the throat to act as filters to the blood circulating in this important part of the body.

While there is apparently no symptom of indigestion, the fact that the aging individual is not getting the full value of the food eaten may cause tiredness early in the day.

Pain at the side of the head, about the ear, is in most cases caused by diseases of the ear and teeth, and even by eyestrain.

While allergists have found some cases of allergy to be caused by street dust, it is more often substances in the air of the home that are to blame.

The treatment for an attack of asthma is the injection of seven to 15 drops (minims) of Adrenalin under the skin.

If the overweight person eats plenty of lean meat and more leafy or rough vegetables, weight will be lost.
