When over 150 Rome-bound pilgrims leave the Northwestern station in Milwaukee on a special train the morning of next Wednesday, March 22, they will be reviewing in excited anticipation the Holy Week they will be observing in the Eternal City, and such far-away places as Paris, Lucerne, Florence, Lourdes, Madrid, Lisbon, Fatima, Dublin, Brussels, Amsterdam and London. The delegation will include three people from Kewaskum who are members of Holy Trinity congregation. They are Mrs. Pauline La Buwl, Mrs. Ellen Steffluf, and Louis N. Bath.

They are the official delegation from the Milwaukee Archdiocese sponsored by Archbishop Meeus E. Kiley and under the leadership of Father A. M. Klink, archdiocesan director of the Propagation of the Faith society. This Holy Year pilgrimage will feature Easter in Rome and visits to the shrines of Lourdes, Fatima, Lisieux and Saragossa.

After traveling from Milwaukee to New York via special train, the group of 150 will depart from that city on the "Queen Mary," world's fastest luxury liner, on Thursday, Mar. 23, with their first principal stop at Paris, where Fr. Klink will say mass in Notre Dame cathedral. They will arrive at Cherbourg, France, on Mar. 25.

A one day trip will be made to Lisieux to visit the shrine of The Little Flower. Palm Sunday will be spent in Lucerne. For six days beginning the Wednesday of Holy Week, the major basilicas will be visited for the gaining of special Holy Year indulgences, as well as the Vatican museums and library, the Catacombs and other places of religious and historical significance.

The group will arrive in Rome, goal of the pilgrimage, on Apr. 5. They will participate in Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday special ceremonies. On Easter Sunday the Holy Father will celebrate a solemn pontifical mass in St. Peter's, followed by the Papal Blessing from the balcony. An audience with Pope Pius XII is planned on Easter Sunday.

On the return trip, the pilgrimage will tour the Italian and French Riviera, and stop at Avignon and Lourdes. Some members will also visit shrines and churches and historical and scenic places throughout Spain and Portugal, Holland, Belgium, Ireland and England.

The group will leave Southampton on May 10, when they will embark on the R.M.S. Mauretania and will arrive back in New York on May 15.

FARMERS OF COUNTY WILL BE SENT CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE QUESTIONNAIRES TO FILL IN

A week or 10 days before the opening of the 17th decennial census in April, farmers in Washington county will find in their mail boxes copies of the 1950 census of agriculture questionnaire. This distribution will be made in advance of the census enumerator's visit to give farmers time to consult their records or prepare information about their farms and farm production requested by the United States Bureau of the Census. Farmers should fill in the questionnaires and when the census taker calls in April during the census of population and housing, he will pick up the completed agriculture census form. This method will save time for both the farm operator and the census enumerator.

In a nation-wide educational campaign through press and radio, in which the census bureau is being assisted by the county USDA councils farm operators are being urged to prepare themselves for their part in the 1950 census.

Not only will the 1950 census of agriculture to be conducted during April in Washington county obtain information about farms and farm production, but inquiries will be included about farmers. The 1950 farm census will provide statistics about the age of farm operators, the number of hours operators worked last week at farm work or chores, the years operators have farmed the same place and other information necessary to provide detailed facts about farms and farm people. The information which farmers supply to the census bureau is confidential and cannot be used for taxation, investigation or regulation.

Every ten years since 1840 and every five years since 1930, the bureau of the census has taken a nation-wide census of agriculture. The 1950 census of agriculture will bring up to date the nation's farm inventory.

Village Only Precinct to Top Red Cross Quota

Partial reports from chapter chairman indicated this week that the 1950 Red Cross fund campaign has now attained about 50 per cent of its quota in the West Bend chapter area. A report on the progress of the drive was released to the press late Wednesday morning by Atty. Michael J. Goring, Jr., general chapter chairman for the campaign.

As of noon Wednesday, Goring reported that no other precinct other than the village of Kewaskum has reported itself "over the top" in the current drive. Inclement weather during the past week has apparently hampered rural workers in their calls, said Goring. With more favorable weather during the next week, the chairman anticipates that a more complete report on the drive will be possible. With this in mind, he urged all town, village and city chairmen to complete their calls and submit their reports to him no later than next Tuesday, Mar. 21. The co-operation of all workers is urgently needed if the West Bend chapter is to complete its drive before the Mar. 31 national deadline.

FARMERS NEEDING WORKERS FOR 1950 SEASON ASKED TO PLACE REQUESTS WITH WSES

Farmers needing workers for the 1950 season are asked to place their requests with the Wisconsin State Employment Service as early as possible in order that they will have more time to make a selection and a wider range of workers from which to select.

This was the message sent out to farm employers this week by A. H. Ludwig, district WSES manager at Waukesha. He also stated that farm workers seeking employment should contact the WSES as soon as possible in order to expedite their placement.

Mr. Ludwig stated that, so far, farm openings are lagging behind the number placed in 1949. Last year was a very successful year from the standpoint of getting workers placed before the spring work started, and he is anxious that this be repeated this year. There were 155 agricultural placements made by the Waukesha WSES last year.

Farm employers who will be needing either single men or couples should write or phone the WSES office at Waukesha.

Chevrolets Win Two, Tie for Lakes Title

On the last week end of play in the northern Lakes league for the season, the Kewaskum Chevrolets won two more games to give them a tie with Plymouth for the loop championship. Plymouth and Kewaskum each won 18 games and lost two in sharing the title. Plymouth and the Chevrolets lost one to Plymouth and one to Campbellsport. It has not yet been determined whether the two will play off for the championship or share the crown.

Friday night Kewaskum and Lomira were scheduled to play on the local floor but due to having players injured Lomira forfeited the tilt to the Chevrolets. They probably would have won easily anyway over the Lions as they did before during the campaign. Only the forfeit hurt the individual scoring record of Johnny Tessar, the league leader, who netted 42 points the last time against Lomira. However, we believe he capped the scoring crown by a good margin without the points he would have scored in this game. The Kewaskum-Lomira Rivers game also was forfeited.

Sunday night in the season's finale here, Kewaskum romped over Grafton by a decisive 63-39 score. The tilt was close in the first half, which ended 25-21, but after a weak first half the team really got rolling in the third quarter and walked away from the visitors.

Offensively, it was all Johnny Tessar again. He rained 32 points through the hoops to add considerably to his season's total. Bilgo and Allen Tessar did outstanding work defensively at their guard positions. Krause's 9 points led the Grafton attack.

STUDENTS, NAVAL RESERVES MAY NOW APPLY FOR RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING PROGRAM

The navy has announced that students who enroll now or who are members of the naval reserve may apply for the Reserve Officer Candidate Training program which awards officers' commissions as Ensign, USNR, to selected enlisted members (men and women) of the naval reserve.

According to Lt. Comdr. Thomas O'Meara, West Bend, who is the local representative of the Commandant, Naval District, this Reserve Officer Candidate program requires no additional work from eligible reservists while in college. Candidates carry their normal college schedule; no navy subjects are required during their collegiate course.

Training occurs in two six-week summer periods at either Newport, R. I. or San Diego, Calif. In the case of women the ROC school will be at U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. The basic course comes at the end of the candidate's freshman or sophomore year; the advanced course follows the junior year. For the basic six-week training period candidates will receive the pay and longevity of a seaman (approximately $133.00) plus longevity, quarters, meals, uniforms, medical care, and transportation to and from their homes or schools. Summer classes for 1950 will begin on July 10. Applications must be submitted prior to April, 1950 to be considered. Successful candidates are not obligated to serve on active duty upon being commissioned unless congress declares war or a national emergency.

College students, not now members of the naval reserve and naval reservists of this area who are interested in becoming commissioned officers under this program, are urged to contact Lt. Comdr. Thomas O'Meara as soon as practicable for full particulars regarding this program.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS ARE STILL NEEDED IN SOME AREAS OF COUNTY

Walter F. Klipstine, district supervisor of the Bureau of the Census, Fond du Lac, announced this week that applications for enumerator positions in Washington county have been closed, with the exception of the following locations for which applications will still be accepted: Towns of Addison, Barton, Erin, Hartford, Jackson, Kewaskum and Polk, and villages of Germantown and Jackson.

Applicants must be residents of the area for which they apply. To make application, an applicant must go to 18 Sheboygan street, Fond du Lac, between the hours of 9 to 11 and 1 to 4. An hour examination is given to each applicant. The district office is not open Saturdays.

Although the majority of enumerators for this county have been selected, none have as yet been notified. Enumerator training begins on March 27 for those enumerators who will work in rural areas, and on March 28 for those in urban areas. Training will be conducted by crew leaders in the local areas of residence. A 5c title mileage allowance is paid to rural enumerators. Rate of pay for all enumerators is under a piece-price basis which means that payment is computed on the actual items of information obtained. It is estimated an enumerator can earn between $5.00 and $10.00 per day.

The enumerator's job is on a full-time basis, although of relatively short duration. The actual census begins April 1 and ends approximately April 15. Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 65.

District Supervisor Klipstine urged all qualified applicants in the areas listed to make application in Fond du Lac.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

British Laborites on Rocky Road; Scientists Warn of H-Bomb Threat; Senate Spy Hunt to Be 'Witchless'

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

REPORT ON MASS-DESTRUCTION WEAPONS . . . Sen. Brien McMahon (left) chairman of the joint congressional atomic energy committee, confers with Gen. Omar N. Bradley shortly before Bradley, who is chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, reported to the senate-house group on possible types of mass-destruction weapons an enemy might use against the U.S.

BRITAIN: Close Call

British Prime Minister Clement Attlee and his Labor party were still holding the reins of British government—but it had been a mighty close call. There was a serious question of how long the Labor government could stand as a result of its meager majority in parliament.

Added to that was the peril of an intra-party strife in which it was reported left-wingers in the party were planning a test of strength with more moderate leaders of Attlee's government.

THE PROBLEM was labor party walk easily in the face of its hairbreadth escape from defeat in the elections, or should it strike out boldly for continuation and expansion of socialism?

The primary interest in the election for Americans was, of course, whether or not the British people were committed to more socialism and resultant nationalism of industry and their way of life, or had they grown apprehensive enough concerning the direction of government to change it?

The answer was clear to the extent that a bare majority of the people are satisfied with conditions—enough at least to return the Labor government to power. But, significantly enough, the balance of that power had waned so much in the past five years that it was almost nonexistent.

WHAT DID IT MEAN? It was much too early to gauge the elections' effect on the American economy or on Europe's overall recovery program, but disappointment in the U.S. was widespread and there was some concern lest the uncertainty of the Labor government's position interfere seriously with American recovery plans abroad.

One American newspaper woman was able to put into print concisely and graphically the divergent British viewpoints when she reported a Conservative as saying that England would never recover until the Laborites were completely thrown out, and a poorer-class workwoman declaring that she didn't care how much she had to do without, just as long as the H-bomb had any more.

H-BOMB: More Warnings

More and more came the warnings from experts of the dread potentialities of the hydrogen bomb. True, there was some disagreement, but a poll would show at this stage that a majority of scientists who should know what they are talking about believe the bomb could kill everyone in the world.

Four top scientists have issued that warning. They have declared that the bomb, if it works, could be a suicide bomb. Why? How?

Here's what they say: IF THE BOMB is ever made and used, it would kill slowly by poisoning everything and everyone with radioactive dusts.

The dusts would be carried around the world by the winds.

It would settle on and poison plants and trees, everything humans eat or use.

THE H-BOMB, they add, could be intentionally rigged to do just that—and it would be relatively simple to do it. Makers of the bomb would have only to put harmless chemical elements around the H-bomb. The bomb itself would turn these chemicals into the fantastic killing dust. Dust of that sort could be made so that it would remain active a few days, a few months or as long as 5,000 years.

That is a frightening, appalling possibility. But there is a ray of hope. These same scientists say it will be another three years before anyone will know if the bomb can be produced.

That gives mankind a little time in which to make up his mind. The decision had better be right.

SPY HUNT: No 'Witches'

There was to be "no witch-hunt no whitewash" in the senate foreign relations subcommittee's probe of alleged infiltration of Communists into the U.S. state department.

That's what Sen. Millard Tydings (D., Md.) said of the investigation when he was named chairman of the committee which was to conduct it.

THE NAMING of the committee stemmed from charges by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) that an unnamed group of Communists held—or have held—high state department posts.

But, McCarthy rather put the committee on the spot at the start when he said that if President Truman persists in his refusal to make state department employee loyalty files available, "an investigation would be useless." Mr. Truman has so persisted and declared he would ignore the senate's action in granting subpoena rights to the committee.

Indications were that a court test of the President's position was in the making if the committee chose to use its subpoena rights and called upon the President to deliver the wanted records.

TYDINGS DECLINED to pass on this issue at the outset, and said, instead, that he expected a "full, fair and complete investigation" of McCarthy's charges.

"We will let the chips fall where they may," he said, "and this will be neither a witch-hunt nor a whitewash."

The senator's intentions no doubt were good—but there might be little to worry about where the chips would fall, so long as Mr. Truman declined to pass the committee the axe they needed.

Answer Still 'No'

President Truman persisted in his refusal to give congress confidential loyalty files on federal employees.

However, he said he had promised the senate foreign relations committee he otherwise would cooperate in disproving what he called false charges made by Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) that a Communist ring exists in the state department.

He told newsmen that subpoena powers voted by the senate for committee investigators would "make no difference" to him, pointing out that it would be difficult to serve a subpoena on the President of the United States, since the government affords him protection from such services.

And, indeed it would. But, it doesn't say anywhere that the President may not give information—if he chooses—to those seeking to ascertain the degree of this nation's security against subversive elements.

EDUCATION

Military Effort at School Rule Charged

According to scores of educators and other prominent people in the United States, there is a "systematic and well-financed effort" by the national military establishment to "penetrate and influence the civilian educational life of America."

This charge was contained in a booklet of 80 pages of fine print, put out through the national council against conscription. Among the signers were famed scientist Albert Einstein, author Louis Bromfield and a number of prominent church leaders.

The report centered on the activities of the reserve officers training units, military science teaching, research contracts with universities, and what it sees as a trend toward putting military men in high educational places.

ARMS AID: Best to Europe

James Bruce, operating head of this nation's foreign military aid program, dropped a hint that the United States weapons going to Europe to help head off communist aggression, will include the "latest and best."

Atom bombs, having been ruled out previously, Bruce's comments could refer only to such conventional arms and armaments now available for output.

SPUD TALK: Ethics vs. Dollars

It was ethics versus American taxpayers' dollars as the senate argued whether it would be honest for congress to remove the price supports already promised on the 1950 potato crop.

AS ALMOST every schoolboy knew, the government's potato program was one of the most jumbled, fantastic, reason-assaulting procedures ever evolved in the U. S.

Farmers were being paid a subsidy on potatoes to compensate them for market price differentials, each year the potato surplus was growing, and farmers were permitted to buy back the subsidized potatoes as low as one cent per hundred pounds for use as fertilizer. And all this in the face of world food shortages and a real need for the surplus potatoes by local relief agencies and school lunch programs over the nation.

ODDLY ENOUGH, many Republicans were stringing along with the lets-not-destroy-subsidies thinking, with Sen. Scott Lucas, Illinois, Democratic floor leader, sponsoring a move to cancel price supports for all 1950 potatoes not already planted. Republicans favoring retention of the 1950 subsidy plan included Senators Brewster, Maine, Aklen, Vermont, and Millikin, Colorado.

Lucas was on firm ground as far as economy and mathematics went. Already the record showed, the U. S. is in the red 100 million dollars for price support operations on the 1949 crop alone.

Lucas jibed at Republicans for talking about the need for economy when opposing his potato-curb legislation.

PROGRESSIVES: Support for Henry

Too much attention to name-calling and too little attention to issues. That's the way O. John Rogge, former assistant attorney general of the United States, summed up the trouble with the new Progressive party of which Henry Wallace—one-time vice-president of the United States—is the chief figure.

ROGGE'S STATEMENT was made in support of Wallace, who had made a virtual demand that the party stop trying to "save face" for the Communists in declarations of policy.

The party held a convention in Chicago to develop aims and objectives during which Rogge declared of the party's being called "Red baiters":

"We should be as unafraid of that label as we are of the labels 'Communist' or 'Communist front.'"

There were delegates who found signs of new attitudes among Soviet-friendship groups as an outgrowth of the Tito-resistance. The resolutions committee was reported to have shelved quietly an anti-Tito statement. Rogge touched on this schism briefly when he said:

"WE SHALL NOT BEND reason backward in order to attempt to justify the conduct of the Cominform countries toward Yugoslavia. But when the Soviet Union offers a plan in the field of atomic energy which, with all its faults, at least offers a better basis for opening and continuing negotiations than the Baruch plan, we are going to say just that."

No one doubted Rogge's stand. The Progressives, whether they were happy about it or not, were so completely tagged with Soviet-sympathy labels that there would be no confusion in the minds of the voters when its candidates offered for office.

Whadda You Think?

According to a group of Hollywood photographers, Tony Curtis, a new star on the movie horizon, is the possessor of a profile worthy of comparison with that of the late John Barrymore, whose profile was an international classic. In this composite photograph, you can compare Barrymore's (left) with Curtis' and make your choice.

LOOTER: Force of Habit

Leslie C. Potter, the 40-year-old Detroit factory personnel expert who turned burglar by night was a victim of habit, he told police. Admitting some thousand or more burglaries in the Detroit area over the past seven years, he said looting homes was his "avocation."

Incidentally, there was quite some profit in Potter's hobby—possibly as much as $80,000, authorities said.

Potter also told police, they reported, that he had operated in 23 states before coming to Michigan. He said he had spent the money as he got it "mostly on presents for some 500 friends."

It was one of these friends, all of whom were males, who was the cause of Potter's arrest. He was named as William Whitehead, 24, who shared an apartment with Potter, and who admitted a burglary at an electric appliance store.

There was a touching connection. It seems he had robbed the place to impress Potter.

SERVICE IN PEACE AND WAR

Red Cross Did an Efficient Job for Troops Despite False Rumors, Gen. Marshall Found, Investigating Wartime Gripes of Our GI's

By General George C. Marshall

G. I. COMPLAINTS, during and after the war, frequently reached the office of the chief of staff of the army. As military head of the army in those days, I had frequent so-called "samplings" made of soldiers' reactions in this country and in all overseas theatres. Many adjustments or corrections were made as a result of the information so gathered.

Most of the gripes were directed against phases of army discipline and regulations. Some were concerned with real or fancied grievances against officers. Food was brought into the picture and kicks against officers enjoying privileges which were not generally available to the men.

Gripes leveled against the Red Cross seemed to develop largely during the demobilization period and, usually concentrated on the in-off-post clubs. The Red Cross wanted to make these services free. But on May 20, 1942, Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, requested the Red Cross to impose these minimum-charges. Since such charges were imposed on allied soldiers in their clubs and canteens, free service to our troops would have created a morale problem among our allies.

The Red Cross did not charge for such items as cigarettes, chapter-produced garments or comfort articles. On a number of occasions Red Cross supplies were mixed with army supplies in the hastily organized warehouses or open field dumps and subsequently offered for sale, but not by the Red Cross.

Occasional stories that the Red Cross sold blood or blood plasma are manifestly untrue. The Red Cross did not administer blood; it acted only as the blood collection agency for the army and navy.

It seemed to be a surprise to some ex-servicemen to learn that the Red Cross had no authority to grant leaves. This function is reserved exclusively for the military authorities. The Red Cross does, however, verify home conditions by request whenever it appears that a soldier or sailor is urgently needed at his fireside.

On the matter of loans, I found that the Red Cross disbursed almost 74 million dollars in loans and free grants to servicemen and veterans between 1941 and 1946. These loans, non-interest bearing, and these grants were for emergencies.

The Red Cross couldn't take care of every applicant. It had to limit its lending activities and its financial grants to individuals who could demonstrate both emergency and urgency, and it did so.

It would be absurd to say that the Red Cross did not make mistakes. Some of our personnel in the field misinterpreted official policy. A few may not have lived up to Red Cross regulations and traditions. I found, for example, one case where a Red Cross employee sold the organization's supplies on the black market. He was court-martialed and dismissed from the service.

In brief, it appeared that most of the complaints were based on misrepresentations or rumors, on the scarcity of Red Cross girls and regarding their dates with the officer personnel. Most of the kicks were directed against one kind of service for which the YMCA received, ungrudgingly in my opinion, a highly destructive criticism after the first world war, that is, charges for supplies in the canteens or post exchanges.

The Red Cross, working in a different field of activity and close to the front, escaped such criticism in World War I. In this last war, charged with most of the responsibility carried by the YMCA, and other agencies in World War I, they inherited all of this criticism.

As to the young women who worked their hearts out in the mud and the cold and rain, there seems to be no complete solution to the main burden of the G. I. reaction unless it is to have a ratio of one Red Cross girl to every soldier. And that seems to be a bit impractical.

Infantry soldiers knew the source of their last snack on the "safe side" of the channel when they stopped for coffee and doughnuts on the beach of an invasion embarkation port in southern England.

All this spelled disillusionment for the returning serviceman. He was in a mood to complain about any number of things, and he exercised his American right to do so.

It appeared that the complaints against the Red Cross in general followed these three lines:

The Red Cross had charged for its goods and services at home and abroad.

The Red Cross did not give adequate service in such matters as communications home, family problems, requests for emergency leave, and financial assistance.

Red Cross men and women received excessive salaries. Here are the facts as I ascertained them:

The Red Cross did make below-cost charges for meals and lodging

Why the Red Cross? After General Marshall took over leadership of the American Red Cross, he made a search to discover for himself the aims and purposes of the organization. This is what he discovered: The Red Cross is unique among national welfare agencies. It derives its authority from its acts. Under federal statute the Red Cross has two inescapable obligations. First, to serve the men and women of the armed forces in peace as well as in war and second, to act promptly and efficiently in times of disaster to ease human suffering and distress.

All their possessions lost during the Italian campaign, these men of the First Armored division got new issue from Field Director John Cor-mack.

On the beach at Eniwetok atoll, coast guard and marine invaders gave life-saving Red Cross blood plasma to a comrade, shot down in the terrific fighting that eliminated the Japs and planted the American flag firmly in this Marshall Islands stronghold.

Shortly after Gen. George C. Marshall was appointed head of the American Red Cross he made a personal nation-wide tour of key local chapters to "look inside" the organization and talk with Red Cross workers throughout the country. The information he gathered during this inspection tour has been set down in a series of four challenging articles, of which this is the first. Watch for General Marshall's second report on the Red Cross next week.

When I was appointed head of the American National Red Cross last October, I started to find out myself to what extent the complaints directed at the Red Cross services seemed to be justified. It was important to learn if the organization had been lacking in its work. It was still more important to find out whether or not the criticisms applied generally or were based on isolated instances.

As I have said, most of the complaints developed during the period of demobilization. Our forces returned from the war for their homes to find that the domestic front was in a much disturbed state. The post-war economy had not yet been adjusted to take them back to its civilian fold. Schools and colleges were overcrowded. Housing problems were especially acute. Prices were high. Necessities were frequently not available in the shops.

All this spelled disillusionment for the returning serviceman. He was in a mood to complain about any number of things, and he exercised his American right to do so.

David would like to accept an offer he had had from a California firm, 3,000 miles away. He makes

He Might Be Lonely
"What shall I do? David is 41; I am 37. His work is so highly specialized, and he has been so successful in it, that I have no success for his future in that line, but the loneliness of a boarding house or hotel room might easily reduce him to a condition of despair."

Serve Protein-Rich Foods for Lent (See Recipes Below)

Lenten Main Dishes
LENTEN MEALS need an extra spark to keep them interesting and appealing since they are meatless. They should, however, be substantial and nourishing, and with plenty of cheese, fish, eggs and vegetables they will have plenty of stick-to-the-ribs quality.

Don't get into a rut with one or two dishes each season. There's plenty of variety and interest available in Lenten dishes if you'll just try new recipes and plan sparkling menus.

Vegetable combinations can give plenty of texture, color and menu interest. Cheese as a main ingredient snaps many a main dish from the doldrums. Add fish to macaroni or spaghetti and you'll never miss meats. Try new ways with eggs, and the family will cheer you to new culinary accomplishments.

Eggs Mornay (Serves 2 to 3)
4-6 eggs
2 cups thin white sauce
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup grated cheese
2 egg yolks

Fresh Vegetable Casserole (Serves 6)
2 cups cooked carrots, sliced
2 cups cooked string beans
2 cups cooked peas
2 cups cooked lima beans
1 cup vegetable stock
1 cup cooked creamed celery
1/2 cup mushrooms
1/2 cup vegetable glaze

Have all vegetables cooked and seasoned separately. Grease shallow individual casseroles and place sliced carrots around the sides of each dish. Place a spoonful of string beans, peas and lima beans in the dishes in the order given; add a little vegetable stock; then top with a small spoonful of creamed celery and a broiled mushroom. Pour a spoonful of vegetable glaze over the mushroom and when all dishes are filled bake in a moderately hot oven (375°) for 10 minutes.

Maine Casserole (Serves 6)
3 onions, sliced
2 cups kernel corn
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 1/2-pound can baked beans without pork
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Cook onions in boiling water 20 minutes and drain. Arrange corn in casserole. Cover with a layer of

LYNN SAYS: Use These Essential Rules For Good Meals
Do not eat very much more than you need unless you are planning to do heavy, muscular work, as extra food will be stored as fat in the body.

The average man will need about 1 1/2 times as much as the average woman. This can be managed by giving him slightly larger servings. Growing boys and girls between 12 and 20 will need slightly more than the average adult.

Do not eat between meals except possibly at tea time. Children may have a glass of milk and a cracker in the mid-morning and in the mid-afternoon.

Have sufficient protein of good quality (milk, egg, lean meat, fish or poultry). A cheese dish such as a soufflé or macaroni and cheese may be substituted for the meat occasionally.

Do not use large amounts of liquid at mealtime. This leads to faster eating and less chewing. Serve dinner at noon for children and also for adults if possible.

County Agent Notes

JACKSON GRAIN IMPROVEMENT MEET OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Farmers from many areas of Washington county assembled at the Jackson village hall on Thursday of the past week to hear university and commercial grain specialists discuss the relative merits of the various varieties of oats, barley, flax and other farm crops best adapted to southeastern Wisconsin.

Following introductory remarks regarding the seed grain situation within the county by E. E. Skalsky, county agricultural agent, George Briggs discussed the seed grain situation from a state viewpoint. He was followed on the program by Frank Cummings of the Federal Grain Inspection Service, who spoke on the services of his department in sampling carload shipments offered for sale on the grain exchange terminals, Herbert Laidlaw, barley buyer for the Kurth Maltting company of Milwaukee, reviewed the malting qualities of the barley varieties now being grown in Wisconsin. He praised the new Moore variety and the Kindred variety as having top malting qualities. J. H. Parker, secretary of the Midwest Barley Improvement association, discussed cultural and harvesting practices as carried out in the major grain producing states. Dale Johnson, Swift and Company commercial fertilizer salesman, showed motion pictures and explained the limited availability of fertilizers and the kind of fertilizers best suited for the various crops.

The farm bureau chapters of Jackson and Polk townships served a tasty noonday luncheon, gratis to all, as a service of that organization.

Attendance prizes were donated by the Hoge and Gumm store and by the Alfred Held store, both of Jackson. The prizes given and the winners are as follows:

Hoge and Gumm store prizes—100 lbs. of Conkey poultry feed, Hugo Kressin, R. 1, Rockfield; 50 lbs. of King Middas flour, Ray Held, R. 1, Slinger; 100 lbs. of Doughboy chick starter, Wm. Vogel, R. 1, Jackson.

Alfred Held store prizes—100 lbs. Marktop feed balancer, Plus Wiedmeyer, R. 4, West Bend; 50 lbs. Robin Hood flour, Frederick Mellus, R. 1, Jackson; 25 lbs. dog chow, Verlin Busch, R. 1, Rockfield.

FLAX A GOOD CASH CROP

Many farmers regard flax as a good cash crop. Land that is suited for small grains is also good for flax. As a nurse crop for grass seedlings, flax is very popular. From 3 to 5 pecks of seed should be planted per acre. Flax should be one of the first crops sown. Early planting of flax enables it to take advantage of the cool moist spring weather. Flax seed germinates and grows at a lower temperature than weeds or most other crops. Planted early, it will reach the blooming stage before hot weather interferes with normal seed setting.

The Redson or the Red Wing varieties are adapted varieties to this section of the state. The government support price for 1950 has been set at $1.29 per bushel at terminal markets. There will be a ready market for all flax seed produced.

LADINO CLOVER IS AN EXCELLENT PASTURE CROP

Of all of the legumes grown in Washington county none equal Ladino clover in food value or the wide range of ground upon which a legume crop can be grown.

Ladino clover is richer in protein than any other legume including alfalfa. Its protein content is often as high as 25%. This high protein content makes it an excellent forage for poultry. Every farmer should plant a quarter or a half acre of pure Ladino to be used as a poultry range. Growing pullets and laying hens are fond of it and will forage large amounts during the summer season. Such forage will replace many pounds of growing or laying mash. Use 4 lbs. of seed per acre when seeding alone. Remember Ladino can't be pastured until the year following the seeding year. Ladino clover also can be the chief legume in any pasture mixture.

For livestock pastures it should never be seeded alone. The best practice is to add one or two lbs. of the seed to the regular bromegrass and alfalfa mixture. Swine, sheep and cattle will seek out any pasture containing Ladino. If planted alone it readily causes bloat. There is also a tendency to pasture it too close thus causing winter killing. It can be planted on almost any field. Low lying fields, where the drainage is good, make excellent Ladino pasture fields.

Ladino stands more winter hardships when planted with other grasses. It is easily smothered by sleet and ice. Severe dry cold weather is also hard on it, but if properly cared for, Ladino fields don't winter kill easily.

Rotation pasturing should always be practiced. Ample winter protection is necessary. Remember that a well cared for field of Ladino will return you a greater income than almost any other non-cultivated crop you can grow.

BETTER BARLEY GROWING CONTEST IN STATE, COUNTY

With the 1949 national barley crop only three-fourths that of 1938 and with its chief user, the brewing industry, producing for a public at a record high, the 1950 Wisconsin brewers better barley growing contest is expected to attract a record number of contestants this year. Previous years' surpluses of barley are being rapidly used up and prices are expected to remain firm.

The contest has been conducted for the past four years in the major barley growing areas of the state and will again be operated in Washington county this year, according to word just received from the Wisconsin State Brewers' association by E. E. Skalsky, county agricultural agent.

A total of $109.00 in prize money will go to the county winners selected next fall. Prizes will be as follows: Three grand awards of $20.00 each, two reserve awards of $10.00 each, four merit awards of $5.00 each. In addition there will be state prizes amounting to $1,000. All state entries will be selected from the top five county winners.

Subsequent issues of this paper will in its columns give further information regarding the rules, entries, etc. in this contest.

COUNTY AIMS OF 1950 ACP ANNOUNCED BY CHAIRMAN

Farmers of Washington county who co-operate in the 1950 agricultural conservation program will help to insure their own future while strengthening agriculture generally and thus contributing to a stronger nation, says A. John Cleary, chairman of the county PMA committee.

This is the foundation upon which the agricultural conservation program rests, the chairman explains. The future of the nation—its health and strength—depends on the productivity of the land. Because the people of this country have such a vital interest in keeping our land productive, the ACP has been established. It provides the way for all the people to co-operate with the farmers of Washington county and of Wisconsin, and of all the states in carrying out conservation practices which assure continued abundant—but balanced—production.

For the welfare of the nation, the people, it is necessary that the soil from which all people depend for a living be protected from erosion and deterioration. Assistance to farmers through the ACP has proven the most effective and economical means of accomplishing this end.

The aim of ACP will continue to be that of obtaining the greatest possible conservation with the funds available.

By providing a part of the cost of the needed conservation practice through the ACP, the chairman explains, the people of the country through the government carry their fair share of the responsibility and they encourage and make it possible for farmers to carry out the needed conservation.

Conservation practices stressed in Washington county for 1950 are contour farming and pasture establishment.

WASHINGTON COUNTY'S 1950 POTATO ACREAGE ALLOTMENT 287 ACRES

The Washington County PMA committee has just received notice of the 1950 potato acreage allotment for the county which is set at 287 acres. A. John Cleary, chairman, announced this week.

The chairman stated that much of the preliminary work in connection with establishment of allotments has already been done and farm allotments will soon be ready for release. While it is not required, in most cases, that application be made in order to receive an allotment, there are some farms on which there are changes in operations or new information is available, or there may be potato farms that previously have been overlooked which should be brought to the attention of the committee. Mr. Cleary cautioned that the time is short and that if producers have such information that might be helpful they should contact the county PMA committee at once.

Any person who has not been growing potatoes during the years 1947, 1948 or 1949 and who this year intends to grow potatoes on a farm upon which 3 or more acres of potatoes were not grown during any of those years, should apply at once to his county PMA committee. In no case will applications for allotments on such new farms be accepted after May 1, 1950.

The state allotment this year is 33,300 acres for commercial farms (farms normally raising 3 or more acres) as compared with 28,500 acres in 1949. A similar reduction in acreage is necessary throughout the country if we are to bring our production in line with consumers needs and avoid large excess supplies such as have been a burden and expense to the government in recent years.

COUNTY USDA COUNCIL MEETS PLANS FOR 1950 CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE

A meeting of the Washington County USDA council was held on March 1 according to A. John Cleary, chairman. The meeting of the council was devoted to discussing arrangements for publishing the 1950 census of agriculture to be conducted in this county in April. Help of USDA county councils throughout the country in informing farmers about the forthcoming census has been asked by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The county councils will co-operate with the offices of census district supervisors now being established throughout the nation in preparation for the seventeenth decennial census of the United States. This census will include population and housing as well as agriculture. A population and housing census was last taken in 1940, while the last agricultural census was in 1945.

The department of agriculture and its branches throughout the country are among the principal users of the census statistics. Facts ascertained about the farm industry are used as bases for plans, studies, and estimates made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the Farmers Home Administration, the Farm Credit Administration, the Production and Marketing Administration, and other farm agencies.

Members of the USDA council for Washington county are:

A. John Cleary, PMA; Arthur Kurtz, Vocational Agriculture; Marjell Kolb, Home Economics Extension; Delbert A. Wanless, Soil Conservation Service; Guido Schroeder, Production Credit Association; George Kolb, Veteran Service Officer; E. E. Skalsky, agricultural Extension; Wendell Smith, Farmers Home Administration.

Additional information concerning the agricultural census will follow in future issues of county newspapers.

MARCH 31 DEADLINE IN STATE ESSAY CONTEST

March 31 is the deadline for submission of essays for the state essay contest sponsored by the governor's committee on the Employment of the Physically Handicapped. This was announced this week by Albert H. Ludwig, Waukesha local manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Service.

The second annual essay contest will offer eleventh and twelfth graders of public, parochial, and private high schools a chance to compete for $2,000.00 in national prizes, as well as $100.00 offered as prizes in Wisconsin. Only first prize winners in each state will compete in the national judging.

The subject of essays must be "Hire the Handicapped—It's Good Business." The Wisconsin State Employment Service office in Waukesha has background material available for those junior and senior high school students who plan to enter.

Other sources of information besides WSES are disabled American veterans' posts, offices of the Veteran's Administration, the State Rehabilitation division, and the Civil Service Commission; also public libraries. Additional information and regulations have been sent by the governor's committee to all high schools in the area, and in most instances is in the hands of English teachers.

In a similar contest in 1949, two of the four Wisconsin winners were from the area served by the Waukesha WSES office. Second prize, a $25.00 savings bond, went to Phyllis Indermuehle of Jackson of last year's senior class of West Bend high school.

The winner of the first prize, a $50.00 savings bond, was Patricia A. Thelosen of Cassville.

POSITIONS OPEN AT PRESENT FOR QUALIFIED LIBRARIANS

Qualified librarians are needed by a number of Wisconsin libraries, it was announced this week by Albert H. Ludwig, manager of the Waukesha office Wisconsin State Employment Service. Current openings include a cataloger, a reference librarian, and a librarian to direct child reading programs.

The most urgent positions open at present, according to Ludwig, are in connection with bookmobile units that serve communities with no permanent libraries. Considerable traveling in an established area is required. Applicants may be male or female, preferably not more than forty years of age, and must be physically active.

Minimum requirements are graduation from an accredited library course and two years of experience. Starting salaries range from $2200 to $3600 per annum.

Detailed information on these openings may be obtained at the Wisconsin State Employment Service office, 333 West Main street in Waukesha, or Washington county applicants may apply at the Hartford city hall, Tuesdays between 1:00 and 2:00 p. m. or at the court house in West Bend, Tuesdays between 9:45 and 11:00 a. m.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET What to Seal in Cornerstone? Gold Piece, Balloon, G-String

By BILLY ROSE

If anyone is going to lay a cornerstone in 1950, I would suggest he seal up the following items for the benefit of the folks in 2050.

1. A COPY of The Congressional Record. It will make dullish reading, I grant you, but it will prove that our legislators could get up on their hind legs and sound off on anything from the price of asparagus to the plight of the Zuni Indians. And if what's happening in Europe or Asia is the shape of things to come, it will undoubtedly interest our descendants to know that there once was a time when a legally elected representative could shoot off his face without being shot an hour later.

2. A $20 GOLD PIECE. At the rate we're going, by 2050 a pound of butter may be worth more than a pound of printed money, and there's no telling how much the lucky finder may be able to buy with 20 bucks worth of the yellow stuff.

3. A PAY CHECK, complete with stub showing all tax deductions. It's my hunch that it will amaze the folks of the future to realize that back in 1950 a guy did have a few bucks left after the government was through with him.

4. A COPY of the New York classified telephone directory to show how enterprising 8,000,000 people used to be when their enterprise was really free and frolicsome.

5. A G-string and a length of cord used in a lynching—two examples of what the 20th Century was capable of doing when given enough rope.

6. A PHONOGRAPH record of "Mule Train," with Frankie Laine's whip alongside it. The song won't make much sense, but I'll bet a cup of uranium it'll whistle better than the Concertos to Collectivist Agrarianism which future Shostakoviches will compose.

7. A COPY of James Thurber's "Is Sex Necessary?" to show the kinds of questions we are asking ourselves. And a copy of the Kinsey Report to show the kinds of answers we are getting.

8. A TOY BALLOON filled with hydrogen to prove that this destructive gas was once used in the public interest.

9. A PRINT by Picasso. This cultural left-over may amuse our 21st century friends, and if it doesn't it will at least teach them that there once were countries where even a Communist could paint as he pleased.

10. A COVER of TIME magazine—the one with the picture of Mark III, the electronic computing machine developed at Harvard. Also the accompanying article suggesting, on the basis of Prof. Norbert Wiener's new science of cybernetics, that the world may eventually be ruled by this machine's brains, since the machine's brains are getting larger and larger while man's brains are getting smaller and smaller. It will probably startle the cellar-dwellers of 2050 to learn that there was a time when people were only thinking of the machines taking over.

11. A SNAPSHOT of the immigration buildings on Ellis Island. Generations hence, people may be curious to know what the island was used for, because by then it will probably be a launching platform for robot missiles, and similar knick-knacks. Next to the snapshot, an 8-by-10 glossy of the new U. N. building on First avenue, wrapped

By the Light of the Years

I HAVE learned these things by the light of the years,
Like a child conning over his books,
That the darkness outside of my window at night
Is never as dark as it looks,
And if I but run out and search, I can find
Some little light, steady and kind.

I have learned that Hope is the white-feathered bird
That sings all day on its nest,
That Fear is the crouching beast that comes
To tear the bird from its nest.
I have learned to close the door on Fear
After many and many a year.

I have patiently learned that pain will cease
Though peace comes slowly and late,
And that there will drift down to sleepless eyes
Lost sleep at last, if I wait.
So why should I worry and fret and cry,
Knowing these things pass by

12. An architect's model of a voting booth. And with it, instructions on how you can pull a lever and vote a straight ticket, or flip off any candidate you don't like and flip on the one you favor for a particular office.

I'd take it kindly if the man laying the cornerstone were to make certain that the curtain is on the model—that bit of cloth which makes it possible for one to vote without a cop peeping over his shoulder. This little curtain, I suspect, is darn near the most important piece of equipment we have in 1950, and judging from what's happening to it elsewhere in the world, it may be as rare as the dodo by the time another cybernetic century rolls around.

ALMOST A MISTAKE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

AARON JORDAN had a swell job writing advertising for a Chicago agency. The night he came home and told Sally, his wife, that he was going to quit because he wanted to write movie scenarios, she thought he'd been drinking.

"Either that," she said, "or you're crazy."

"Correct," said Aaron. "Just crazy enough to be able to write good scenarios. You've got to be crazy to get by in Hollywood. Joe Neal told me."

"Are we going to live in Hollywood?" Sally asked. "Naturally. That's where movies are made."

Sally was young and never had liked the idea of settling down too early in life. Besides, the idea of living in Hollywood was thrilling. They had a little money saved up, which was lucky, because after living three months in the cinema city they hadn't made a dime. Aaron had written four scripts, which had almost sold. Almost. That one word had become the bane of their existence. It was the one word in Hollywood that drove people crazier than they were at the start.

Two months passed and the Jordans had almost made a pile of money. The money that they had saved was almost gone. They began to wonder about the future a little.

Another fortnight passed and Aaron and Sally decided they couldn't evade facts any longer. Almost selling something didn't buy bread. Aaron's latest story, now in the hands of Pacific coast studios, would, they felt, be returned like all the others. Almost good enough would be the comment. They held a council of war. As soon as Pacific Coast returned the story they'd have to quit and go home.

"But your finger isn't seriously cut."

The day after the council of war, Aaron cut his finger while examining a typewriter ribbon in a nearby stationery store. The store manager gave first aid, made a report, took down his name and address and told him an adjuster would be up the next day.

When Aaron got home he told Sally about it. "It's a chain store. They're insured against accidents. I'll collect at least $100."

"But your finger isn't seriously cut."

"So what? Insurance companies have plenty of dough."

The adjuster came early the next morning. They knew him to be an insurance man by the benign, ingratiating look on his face.

"Cut your finger?" he asked. "And pretty badly, too," Aaron replied. He glanced at Sally. She was eyeing him severely. He knew it gave them a sinking, frustrated feeling.

She didn't approve of what he planned to do.

"How'd it happen?" Aaron gave a detailed account of the accident. "Too bad. Bother you about working?"

AARON HESITATED. This was the crucial moment. He could say the wound practically incapacitated him. He could make it strong, and perhaps collect $50.

Sally was regarding him steadily. He didn't like the look in her eyes. It made him feel small and cheap.

He shrugged. "No. I can work all right. It isn't anything serious. Let's forget it."

His visitor looked relieved. "Good. I have a proposition to make. We didn't like your latest story especially."

"Eh?" said Aaron.

"Too farcial. But Jackson, he's our story man. Sent me up here to ask if you'd consider going to work for us. You see, we think you write pretty good dialogue. We need a dialogue writer."

Aaron gulped. "Then—you're not—I mean—"

"At what salary?" Sally asked practically.

"Well, I'm authorized to offer $250 to start."

"Why," Sally exclaimed, "that's almost $300."

"Almost!" yelled Aaron. "Don't mention that word again. We'll take the job. Wow! I'm almost crazy!"

"Me, too," Sally agreed.

WENDELL COREY, "hotter than a two-dollar pistol" at the moment, can have just about anything he wants in Hollywood, but is so experienced an actor and so wise a young man that he knows how to take only what's best for him. Currently seen in Paramount's

WENDELL COREY

"Thelma Jordan," he was lent out for "No Sad Songs for Me," soon to be released. He was lent again for the coveted role opposite Lana Turner in her comeback, "A Life of Her Own," but turned it down. After his recent visit to New York he and Mrs. Corey planned going home via New Orleans. "But I hear my son asked, 'When's Daddy coming home?'" he said. "So I guess I'll skip it."

Ray Milland inherits the role Corey turned down in M-G-M's "A Life of Her Own," right back where he made "Payment Deferred" 19 years ago and was fired immediately afterward. He says it took him six days to make scenes he should have done in two. His new Paramount deal calls for six pictures in six years, giving him time to make outside films like this one.

"Father of the Bride" was finished at Metro a few weeks ago and work on a sequel, "Now I'm a Grandfather" was begun immediately. "Father," in which Elizabeth Taylor stars, will be released soon after her marriage.

"Operation, Good Samaritan," a series of programs produced by Church World Service, Inc., is being aired by radio stations throughout the country. The programs dramatically describe the work of this religious overseas relief agency in aiding those in other countries who are still hungry, hopeless or homeless in the wake of war. They are well worth hearing.

When Cary Grant starred as "Mr. Blandings," who built a house with such difficulty, he little knew that this year he would be re-building one of his own. His bride, Betsy Drake, is letting him supervise everything, including re-decorating; she claims that all the experience he gained while making the picture qualifies him for this real job.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Steve Cochran, handsome new Warner Bros. star, says he's going to stay single from now on—but has he forgotten what happened to Jimmy Stewart after he said he'd probably never marry . . . Billy Redfield, of "The Brighter Day" and "Young Dr. Malone," has just replaced Eddie Albert in the Broadway hit, "Miss Liberty" . . . Edmond O'Brien, star of CBS' "Yours Truly, Johnny Dollar," has been signed by Columbia Pictures to make "Prowl Cat."

THE TWO-ROOM MIND

"JOE DOAKES," the court clerk called.

Donkes took the stand. He was charged with stealing a cinnamon bun.

"Guilty or not guilty?" "I ain't sure," replied Doakes. "Ya see it's like this and I'm surprised ya didn't know. I gotta two-compartment mind . . . Kitchenette and bath . . . Controlled schizophrenia."

But the theft of this common bun?" demanded the court.

"Well, when I'm using my compartment a u m b e r one mind, yerroner, I am the nicest guy in the world. I wouldn't take a dime from a millionaire. I get little impulses to smoke in subways and things like that, but my number one compartment voice says to take it easy and not be a social outcast."

"What about the theft?" snapped the court.

"Strictly compartment two job," said Doakes. "This here cookie looked tempting and I was a little hungry. So I pulled down the shades and locked the door of the compartment section of my noggin' . . . I also put a sign 'Out To Lunch' on it . . . Then I moved my brains over into compartment two, which is nicer on account of it has dizzy wallpaper and open plumbing . . . Before I knew it I had swiped the bun and I would of took a strawberry shortcake if I hadn' been nabbed."

"Thirty days," said the court. Doakes didn't seem to impress anybody. He was booted out of circulation in no time. (It seems to make a difference, if you haven't been a scientist in the pay of Russia.)

The latest double crossing marabout-atom-plants to be exposed blames it all on the two compartment mind. It's all done by controlled schizophrenia. You can't get away from that if you just walk on the park grass but if you have betrayed two nations and double-crossed civilization it's bad.

"I had to form bonds of friendship. I also had to conceal my true work. So I divided my mind into the two compartments," the confession said. Klaus Doubleedome, the man with two minds, with the one on the left labeled "Gents," . . . Old Dr. Half-and-Half, the two-headed laboratory wonderboy! He parted his hair in the middle and his brain likewise.

We will wager he not only had two compartments, but "uppers" and "lowers" in each. It must have been quite a struggle when the Russian part of a scientific mind wanted to get into the "lower" at the same time the British and American parts did.

MOBILE, ALA.—City Attorney Harry Seale was having a bit of trouble in court and grunted and wise-cracked to show his opinion of the court. The grunt cost him $5. He tossed the bill on the judge's bench. Then the judge fined him $10 more for the way he did it.

Asking if that was for contempt of court, the attorney was told that it was, and that the penalty would be six hours in jail.

Welfare Commissioner Lives on Relief Budget and Still Saves $28

NEW YORK.—New York's welfare commissioner, under fire for relief cuts, fed his family of six on a "relief budget" for a month and contended he had $28.54 left. But when he showed the food list to his department's chief home economist, she took him to task.

"Too much meat and not enough milk and vegetables," said Miss Eleanor Lurry. But she conceded that the family ate pretty well at that. The commissioner, Raymond M. Hilliard, started the project January 1, he said, and continued it throughout the month. "We kept a careful account of all food purchased and consumed during the month," he said. "Our total food bill was $95.96. If we were on relief, we would have received $118 for food at home plus $6.50 for my own lunches, a total of $124.50. In our case, the surplus cash we had left over amounts to $28.54 for the month." Hilliard said he had to push back his plate at official lunches in January to keep true to his sandwich program. As it was, he said the sandwiches allowed him to save 30 cents of lunch money a day.

Industrious Frontiersman

B. W. Raymond, one of the first mayors of Chicago, came there from New York to start a business career in 1836. Three years later he became chief executive of the lusty young metropolis, and still later was in large measure responsible for starting the watch manufacturing industry at nearby Elgin, Ill. A timepiece bearing his name is still made there.

Provident Pioneers

The city of Elgin, Ill., owes its leadership as a watch manufacturing center to the foresight of its pioneer residents, who donated 35 acres of land and subscribed $25,000 in stock to attract the infant industry in 1864.
