

Crash Into Overhead Bridge Abutment is Fatal to Aug. Degner

August A. Degner, 77, of Boltonville was killed when his car struck a concrete abutment on the overhead bridge on Highway 45-55, about one-fourth of a mile north of Kewaskum, late Tuesday afternoon, July 26. This was the tenth county traffic death thus far in 1950. Last year there were only 11 altogether.

Degner's car struck the concrete abutment or railing of the bridge after careening off a vehicle driven by Eric Falk, 56, of Route 1, Campbellsport, at the intersection of Highway 45-55 and County Trunk V. Falk, who was heading north on the highway was waiting for the Degner machine to pass before making a turn onto County Trunk V. Degner, who was alone and was traveling south toward Kewaskum at the time of the accident, apparently lost control of his vehicle and sideswiped the Falk car. The Degner auto then crossed over to the left side of the road, hit a guard rail and finally crashed into the bridge abutment. The car came to rest about 163 feet from the apparent point of impact.

Degner died a few minutes after the crash before he could be taken to a hospital. Death was caused by a fractured skull and chest injuries. The left front side of the Degner car was demolished. Falk and his wife, who was a passenger in his car, were shaken up but otherwise uninjured. The Falk vehicle was but slightly damaged.

August Adam Degner, a retired resident of Boltonville, was born May 9, 1873 in the town of Kewaskum. He lived on a farm near Orchard Grove many years before retiring and moving to Boltonville in April, 1942.

Mr. Degner was married to Ida Oeder on Oct. 15, 1902, and she survives along with two sons, Carl of Milwaukee and Ervin of Boltonville; three daughters, Adeline (Mrs. Edwin Zahn) of Germantown, Edna (Mrs. Don Gilford) of Boltonville and Cora (Mrs. Fred Tews) of Cedarburg, and 17 grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of the Turner Verein of Fillmore.

The body was in state at Miller's Funeral home, Kewaskum, from 2 p. m. Thursday until 11 a. m. Friday when it was taken to the Evangelical Brethren church at Boltonville to lie in state until the time of services at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Maechtie of Batavia officiated and burial was in Union cemetery, Boltonville.

Peterson Attends Camp Long Lake Dedication

Lloyd Shafer, Badger Boy Scout executive, and L. N. Peterson, Kewaskum, member of the executive board, represented the council at the formal dedication ceremonies of the Fred Fabst lodge at Camp Long Lake, Potawatomi area council.

The 60 by 120 foot structure at Long Lake was accepted from the donor, Fred Fabst, by H. P. Kreulen, area president, during the program. Approximately 200 people were addressed by Fabst, who said that "the greatest asset of any community is its boys and girls." He said that there was no better way of accomplishing good boys and girls than by adopting the basic principles of the scouts.

The camp site in the Kettle Moraine district of the southeastern part of Fond du Lac county (about 12 miles north of Kewaskum) was decided in 1945. Purchase of the property was made possible in part through council boys who raised money by various activities. The original buildings on the property were a boathouse and two cottages for adult staff quarters.

New constructions since the camp started included two permanent wintered cabins, a kitchen, shower house and permanent dining shelter constructed by the Order of the Arrow.

The Rev. Gerald McGinnity of Oconomowoc gave the invocation and the Rev. Richard C. Schroeder of Hartland the benediction. The group was entertained by the Wapi Indian dancers of Indian Trails council, Janesville.

County Fair Now in Progress at Slinger

The 93rd annual Washington county fair opened Thursday at the county fair grounds at Slinger and continues through Sunday. Many exhibits and increased requests for commercial exhibits and other concessions occupy all available space on the grounds, according to E. E. Skalsky, secretary of the fair.

About 30 tents have been erected to shelter livestock exhibits and to house the many commercial exhibits available for visitors to the fair. Included in this array of displays is a 40 by 100 foot tent under the sponsorship of the Wisconsin Gas and Electric company. This tent features only electrical displays and is in no way a duplication of displays by local merchants.

Many of the leading lines of farm machinery are displaying a fairly complete line of their equipment. There is bus service between West Bend and Slinger to accommodate people who wish to attend the fair.

There is exhibited for your inspection a complete line of household furnishings and furniture, kitchen ware and pottery. Radio and television are shown and demonstrated in a number of commercial tents. Automobiles and trucks too are shown. Come and see the latest models.

A new feature at this year's fair is a display by the West Bend Model club. They fly "UL"-controlled planes within a large ring. They also feature gas propelled speed boats on a water pond they have constructed. This is a new innovation and attracts many spectators. In addition, the model club has a display of aeroplanes, boats, miniature cars and other hobby devices.

An increased 4-H enrollment and many open class exhibits fill the tables and shelves of the main exhibit building with displays of canning, baking, clothing, grains, vegetables, educational booths and handicraft. Livestock entries are also much larger than in previous years due to the fact that any livestock breeder may exhibit.

The county fair operates as a free fair with no admission or parking charge. There is ample parking facilities for all who attend the fair. A new 5 acre parking area on the Franklin Roecker farm is available. A good gravelled roadway extends around the fair grounds and fair visitors may drive around the grounds for safety and convenience.

The Snapp Shows and Rides are among the best to be found at any county fair. Their equipment is modern and appealing to the eye. They carry a complete line of rides including a motor dome and several top-notch shows.

A stage program of a band and other selected entertainment is presented each evening and on Sunday afternoon. The program to be presented on Saturday and Sunday follows:

Saturday evening, 7:30 p. m.—1. Jack and Patricia Ennis; 2. Dress Revue; 3. Sweet Adeline Quartet; 4. Dress Revue; 5. Sweet Adeline Chorus; 6. Accordionists.

Shirley Weber Bride of Gerald Backhaus

In a 9 o'clock nuptial mass in St. Mathias church, Nabob, Wednesday morning, July 19, wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Shirley M. Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Weber, R. 5, West Bend, and Gerald G. Backhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Backhaus of St. Michaels, R. 2, Kewaskum. The Rev. Robert J. Schweizer officiated. Mr. Weber gave his daughter in marriage.

During the offertory of the mass Joseph Staehler, uncle of the groom, sang "Ave Maria." After the mass the bride placed a bouquet of white flowers on the altar of the Blessed Virgin while the choir sang "Mary, How Sweetly."

The bride wore a gown of white nylon marquisette styled with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with French imported lace and fashioned with a tiny fitted bodice. Two tiny rhinestone pearls surrounded by tiny seed pearls fashioned the front of the skirt which ended in a long cathedral train edged with two rows of French imported lace with rhinestone settings in the lace. Her fingertip veil was edged with scroll design satin braid and was gathered to a crown of satin braid and rhinestone settings. She carried a white orchid surrounded by white roses and centered in a maline heart with streamers of stephanotis with rhinestone settings as she approached the altar on the arm of her father.

Miss Marion Zingsheim, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor wore a yellow gown styled with a nylon lace bodice, tiny lace puff sleeves and a full nylon taffeta skirt. To complete her ensemble she wore a sweetheart shaped bouquet of orchid gladioli and feverfew.

Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Gundrum, cousin of the bride, and Miss Marlene Backhaus, sister of the groom. Their gowns were styled identically like that of the maid of honor. Miss Gundrum was in orchid and Miss Backhaus in light green. Their flowers were sweetheart shaped bouquets of yellow gladioli and feverfew.

A sister of the bride, Miss June Weber, was junior bridesmaid and her gown was also styled like the maid of honor's in a yellow color. She also carried a sweetheart shaped bouquet of orchid gladioli and feverfew. The flower girls were Judy Ann Peters, niece of the bride, and Joanne Backhaus, sister of the groom. Their frocks were a miniature copy of the bride's. They wore nylon net head pieces and carried colonial bouquets of yellow roses and lily of the valley.

The junior bridesmaid and flower girls' dresses were designed and made by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Alfred Pellenz and Mrs. Anton Herriges. The mitts and headpieces were made by the groom's mother.

Harold Backhaus was his brother's best man, Richard Herriges, cousin of the groom, and Kenneth Weber, brother of the bride, served as groomsmen. Lloyd Roden, brother-in-law of the bride, and Gerald Staehler, cousin of the groom, ushered. Billy Staehler, cousin of the groom, was the junior groomsman.

Dinner was served to 75 guests at Goring's Resort, Big Cedar lake, where supper was also served to 135 guests and a reception held for 210 people. Later in the evening a wedding dance was held at the resort.

When Mr. and Mrs. Backhaus return from their honeymoon in the western part of Wisconsin, they will reside with the groom's parents, where he is engaged in farming. The bride, a graduate of West Bend High school, is employed at the West Bend Mutual Fire insurance company.

With "Mix" Marx pitching a three-hitter here Sunday against the Waukesha CYO, the Utensils should have won their third game in a row but errors and some bad base running allowed the CYO to nose them out, 4-3.

Marx pitched a masterful game and his performance deserved to win in any ball game. The big CYO bats were powerless as Marx struck out four and walked three. Kewaskum collected nine hits off the offerings of Betenz of the CYO but could get no more than three runs on them. Betenz also fanned four and passed but one.

Two unearned runs in the fifth inning, both scored on errors, cost the Utensils the ball game. Kewaskum lost a run in the first inning when a runner was tagged out jaywalking off second moments before a hit was made that would have scored him.

Showing the way in the Utensils' hitting department were M. Krueger, W. Tossar and C. Stautz, each with two hits. The three Waukesha safeties were divided among three batters.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

UN Flag Ordered Flown In Korea; Gen. MacArthur Named Commander Of International Forces in Area

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

UNITED NATIONS: Fights Aggression

There are moments in the march of current events that make history. In the eyes of many political observers such a moment occurred recently when Secretary General of the United Nations, Trygve Lie, picked up the three by five-foot blue and white UN flag and handed it to Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the UN, and asked him to send it to General Douglas MacArthur.

The Security Council had just authorized the UN flag be flown alongside national standards in operations against the Red Korean invaders.

And as he handed the flag to Austin, he said: "Bring it back when the job is done."

On these words hinge the hopes of the free world. Observers saw in them a belief that the United Nations efforts in Korea will be successful and at last a world organization has been formed that will endure and protect the minorities for generations to come.

Observers were particularly impressed because it climaxed firm and positive action by the community of nations to secure world peace.

Up to this point the United Nations had:

- (1) Demanded the withdrawal of Communist invaders from South Korea.
- (2) Quickly endorsed the United States action of sending aid to South Korea and called upon all members of the United Nations to render assistance to carry out the police action against the Communists.
- (3) Appointed General MacArthur commander of international forces in Korea.

The historic flag which Lie handed to Ambassador Austin was the one that flew over the headquarters of Dr. Ralph Bunche during his successful mediation of the Arab-Israeli war. It is the visible symbol of the first military sanctions ever levied against an aggressor by a world organization.

THAT SMELL: Not The Russians

Four towns in Illinois and three in Iowa provided the nation with a chuckle, but it was not funny at the time at least to residents of those towns.

A foul smell crept through Moline, East Moline, Selvis and Rock Island, Ill., and then spread across the border into Muscatine, Bettendorf and Davenport, Iowa.

Some residents went into hysterics, one man insisted to Selvis police that "the Russians are flying over and gassing us," citizens were forced from their beds and from taverns, police switchboards were jammed with calls and firemen kept on a near-emergency basis. Scores of Moline residents jumped into their cars and drove in their night clothes to high ground and fresher air.

When the excitement died down investigation disclosed the odor resulted from a leak in a tank of entalarm being hauled through the area on a truck headed west. Entalarm is an odorant used to inject a smell of natural gas, normally odorless, to permit detection of leaks. It is not injurious but can cause nausea.

REORGANIZATION: New Plan Killed

President Truman's plan to create a new department of health, education and security has been killed by the house. It was, incidentally, the first time this session the house has rejected a reorganization plan. The senate has killed six.

The house adopted, 249 to 71, a resolution of disapproval of the measure. It was killed apparently by opponents who argued it would be a step toward "socialized medicine."

Democrats who supported the plan, however, denied it had any bearing on socialized medicine. They said only congress could bring this about by passing necessary legislation.

RETAIL PRICES: Up Another Notch

The Korean situation was not the only worry of Americans during the past week or so. Living costs went up another notch with the prices of meat and bread being increased in retail stores.

Cocoa, coffee, sugar, hides and tin continued upward, cotton soared to $15 a bale, and cattle went to the highest price level in a year. It is all blamed on the Korean war, but other factors entered in.

A short crop in cotton spurred a $10 a bale advance on futures and high consumer incomes and big appetites for meat got the credit for sending meat prices higher.

Meat prices went up 1 to 4 cents a pound in New York stores. A chain store sold sirloin steak at 97 cents a pound. In Salt Lake City beef went up 1 to 2 cents a pound wholesale, with a retail rise expected. Retail meat was up 1 to 4 cents a pound in Chicago, where a spokesman said, "The consumer is paying these prices willingly."

UN Flag

The blue and white flag of the United Nations has been sent to Korea to be flown by troops battling the Communist invaders from North Korea. Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been named commander in chief of the United Nations forces.

KOREA: The Tide Flows

Military observers, still watching the Soviet Union for any signs of open participation in the Korean war, were of the opinion the tide has begun to flow—against the aggressors.

During the first two weeks of the conflict South Korean and American troops, acting under orders of the United Nations, took a beating. But as the battle went into the third week, American arms—guns, tanks and planes—and U.S. soldiers stemmed the rush of the Communist armies.

At a point some 50 to 60 miles south of Seoul, capital of South Korea which fell into the hands of the invaders a few days after the sneak attack, American and Communist troops met.

At first American troops were forced to withdraw before Red tanks. And at the moment when it seemed the invaders might break through again, U. S. big guns and tanks, plus fresh foot soldiers poured into the area. The attack was stopped and many observers believe the counter attack will come as the stream of supplies increase.

A big factor in the blunted Communist attack was the U. S., British and Australian air forces. Fighters and bombers carried out continuous attacks upon tanks, roads, and bridges. They ripped open Communist positions with low flying rocket and machine gun attack. The big bombers blasted away at supply lines and communication centers. Their blows were felt by the invaders and will spearhead the inevitable counter attack. Meanwhile, American divisions within the United States were being readied to move to the Far East. General MacArthur had, at the beginning of the conflict, four divisions in Japan. He has already drawn upon them and troops within the country will replace those from Japan plus reinforcements for the battle area.

TRUTH CAMPAIGN: Counteract Propaganda

For years Communist propaganda has been spread around the world, but no one seems to know just how much of the story of democracy has reached the enslaved peoples of the world. Now the state department has announced plans for "a great campaign of truth" to counter Moscow's broadsides of propaganda against the United States and other democratic nations.

Secretary of State Acheson told about the plan in testimony before a senate foreign-relations subcommittee. General Eisenhower also testified before the committee, declaring, "Truth could almost be classified as our T-bomb (truth-bomb) in this warfare."

General Marshall, who also testified, said he is firmly convinced that "we must confine ourselves to the truth" and that we must meet the Soviet procedure in what is called their conquest of the minds of people.

Acheson told the senators the Communist campaign of vilification "jeopardizes the security of the United States and is a threat to the security of the free world."

"The cynical aggression of communism in Korea, and the falsehoods that have preceded and accompanied it, make inescapably clear the importance of the campaign of truth," he said.

Economy

Economically the nation seemed in much better condition as the labor department reported signs pointing to record-breaking employment this year, exceeding the 1948 peak of 61,600,000.

Secretary Tobin said much of the nonagricultural employment gain stemmed from seasonal activities, intensified especially in the construction industry which is enjoying record-breaking activity.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the department's bureau of employment, said "there seems little doubt but that employment this year will exceed the 61,600,000 peak. The report, which requires some time to assemble and evaluate, did not discuss the possible labor effects of the still-developing Korean situation.

Goodwin said the upward surge in employment increased the number of areas classified as "A"—with tight or balanced labor supply—from four to nine, the largest number since 1948.

MANPOWER: Draft in Effect

The recently enacted draft law has been put into effect. President Truman ordered an expansion of the fighting forces in view of the Korea situation through enlistment or the draft.

Immediately after the President's order, spokesmen for the army, navy and air forces said they would be happy to get all their required manpower through enlistments alone if possible. Whether or not enlistments will fill the armed forces needs will be determined within the next two weeks.

Just how much the armed forces will be expanded has been kept secret. Presumably it could run as high as 547,482 men, bringing the services to 2,005,882.

There is also the possibility that reserves will be called up, although spokesmen for the services said none will be ordered to duty at present without their consent.

A spokesman for the Pentagon said the enactment of the draft law was necessary to meet "the situation in Korea," and "constitutes a first step to build up to full operating strength the units of the army, navy and air force to be used in the Korean operation, to provide further maintenance and support therefor, and to replace units to be moved to Korea."

Just how far the United States will go in building up its forces depends entirely upon developments in the Far East and other danger points, military observers reported.

RAILROADS: Strike and Crash

Two items of railroad news were in the public mind, one bad and one good.

The AFL switchmen's union agreed to end its strike against four midwestern railroads. The fifth continued its walkout, but returned to work after President Truman ordered the army to take over.

The switchmen made no bones about why they were calling off the strike. As they put it, we are calling it off "because of the threat of direct governmental action."

Truman had scored again. The day before he had told his weekly press conference at Washington that the union had better halt the strike or else. Evidently the union didn't like that "or else."

On the bad side, two high speed Santa Fe railway streamliners, streaking eastward side by side, one traveling at 90 miles an hour and the other seventy, bumped midsections in a freakish accident. Nine dead and 75 injured were carried from the twisted metal cars in the Illinois collision.

JUMPING JACK: Sets Chute Record

Sgt. John (Jumping Jack) Sweet set out to break the world's record parachute leaps in a single day, which he did with 107 drops. If he proved anything else it was the fact the human body will take a lot of punishment and that some people seem to get pleasure out of risking their necks.

The sergeant, with the aid of his buddies of the 82nd Airborne Division, made 107 drops in 10 hours, an average of one every six minutes.

He twisted his ankle and sprained his knee on the 51st jump and slowed down long enough to have his leg taped. After each jump, a jeep and a pickup truck met him. The jeep rushed him back to the Piper Cub plane which took him aloft again, while the truck took his chutes to the hanger where his six buddies were kept busy repacking them.

The sergeant's only complaint during the endurance test was he would be all right "if he could survive the jeep rides."

Korea

U.S. infantry and artillery rushed into Korea in an effort to stem the Communist advance. Later reports indicated good results from increasing supplies of big guns and troops.

COLOMBIA: Quake Toll 270

Five successive earthquakes in Colombia, some 200 miles north-east of Bogota, are reported to have killed 270 persons, injured some 500, and left 40,000 homeless.

Ten towns in north central Colombia were reported destroyed with property damage estimated at approximately $20,700,000. Additional damage and loss of life may be revealed when a final survey of the area is made.

Scenes of terror were related by dispatches from the area. Electric power failed after the shocks, leaving the stricken towns in darkness. Cold and heavy rains added to the suffering.

The stricken populations grouped in darkness in search of relatives, or wandered wildly, sobbing. Children stumbled through wreckage, frantically calling for parents and crying over crushed bodies.

The town of Arboledas, with a population of about 20,000, was reported completely destroyed.

Sedlac, a sleepy little town about 60 miles from Prague, Czechoslovakia, holds one of the strangest, and eeriest relics in the world—a church whose interior is decorated with the bones of 10,000 people. The church (right) is visited by tourists from all over the world, but one visit usually suffices for a lifetime. Even the villagers who have lived with it most of their lives use it but once a year—during the Easter season—as a grim reminder that life is transient and death is certain. The rest of the time it is shown to visitors as a curiosity of the district by an old caretaker who carefully dusts the skulls every two months.

CHURCH OF BONES

This eerie scene (right) startles and stops the tourist in his track. On entering the church he sees first a row of gleaming human skulls lining the top of the altar beneath the figure of Christ. Skulls stare from the niches on the sides where they have been fitted into lamps. Church instruments include a chalice made of bones.

Other skulls that are fashioned into candle holders and monstrance bear sword marks, and some still contain bits of teeth. Miss Vocelova (left) inspects some of the altar instruments. The caretaker shows the visitor this display with a noticeable lack of enthusiasm.

The chandelier (right) is an inspiration of horror and causes more visitors to retreat than anything else. Strings of skulls form shadows on the ceiling. And when the candles in this grotesque chandelier are lit, the skulls give an uncanny impression that they are participating in the ceremony. One account reports this display was conceived and arranged by a blind monk.

One of the more eye-arresting of the church's displays is this pyramid of bones (left) 12 feet high. Marcella Vocelova peers through the tunnel that runs from front to back of the pyramid. The bones are taken from virtually every part of the human skeleton and all, apparently, are from adults.

Pan American hostess Marcela Vocelova (left) looks at this intricate shield belonging to the house of Count Schwarzenberg whose family has taken care of the church for generations. How and why the bones were put into the church varies with the storyteller. Built in 1280 when a traveler brought earth from Jerusalem for its altar, the church and its yard became a very popular cemetery. Everyone wanted to be buried in its hallowed ground. The 10,000 bones came from the bodies in the cemetery.

UNITED NATIONS

UN Korean Action Is Collective Security Move for World Peace

What the League of Nations was never able to accomplish the United Nations has done: undertaken collective security for peace. For the first time in history there is international collective action—in Korea, and it is under the aegis of the United Nations.

The United States is acting in Korea as a member of the United Nations and because of United Nations action, dramatically taken within 18 hours after Secretary-General Trygve Lie first made his before-dawn calls to delegates and secretariat personnel to get on the job that Sunday, June 25.

The American Association for the United Nations points to the temptation on the part of some to speak of the Korean conflict in terms of a United States rather than a United Nations action. It is an effort on the part of the UN to stop a clear-cut case of aggression by the North Korean government by the Republic of Korea. It is an effort which has received the support of more than 40 nations of the world. It is an effort under the United Nations blue and white flag and under a commander appointed through the UN.

The UN Security Council asked the U. S. to appoint a chief of the forces fighting under the UN flag. Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been appointed. The Council also asked for periodic reports from the U. S. As a U. S. soldier, he is responsible to the Commander-in-Chief, President Truman, at the same time that as commander for UN forces, he is responsible to the UN Security Council too.

Ambassador Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the UN, has indicated that the efforts for international action "may well have been a turning point in man's struggle for means to unite his strength against aggressors, to rally effective defense for the principles of peace."

The independence of Korea has been a United Nations matter since September 17, 1947. Korea, formerly a part of the Japanese Empire, was surrendered to the Allies at the end of World War II, that area north of the 38th parallel to Russian troops and that, south of the 38th parallel, to the troops of the U. S. UN Problem Since '47

There followed the setting up of a commission, of U. S. and Russian representatives, to look into the matter and make recommendations, in consultation with Korean representatives, for forming a Korean government. The commission, after several attempts, was deadlocked on all major issues of the problem. In August of 1947, the U. S. proposed that the Korean situation be referred to the four signers of the agreement reached at Moscow (China had subsequently endorsed this agreement). China and Great Britain agreed; Russia objected, so the U. S. submitted the Korean problem to the United Nations General Assembly in September 1947.

There was prolonged discussion in the Assembly of the question, and one proposal after another was submitted on the matter of holding elections and withdrawing troops from both the Southern and Northern section. Basically, Russia wanted Korean representatives to sit in on the Assembly discussion. The United States maintained that consultations should take place in Korea itself as only an election, observed by a UN commission, could prove who the elected representatives of Korea would be. Finally, the U. S. argued that elections should be held before discussion of withdrawal of troops was undertaken as the Soviet had suggested. The U. S. view was upheld by a majority. Russia then refused to participate in the work of the UN Commission established to facilitate the elections and withdrawal of occupation troops.

After months of preparation, the UN commission supervised an election in South Korea on May 10, 1948. Meanwhile, a Democratic People's Republic of Korea had been set up in Northern Korea and was recognized by the Soviet Union in October 1948. The Government of the Republic of Korea (South) was recognized by the UN General Assembly as the only legitimate government of Korea. This government was recognized by the United States in January 1949, as well as by France, Great Britain, the Philippines and others, and applied for membership in the UN. It was rejected because while the vote in the Security Council was 9 to 2 in favor, the veto of Russia—a permanent member—obtained.

Unification Unsuccessful
Here it might be well to point out that even if Russia had been attending the Council meetings after the invasion of South Korea, the veto would not necessarily have paralyzed UN action. The General

Ambassador Warren R. Austin, Chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations who introduced the historic resolution calling for United Nations police action in Korea.

Assembly—in which there is no veto—could have been called into special session and member nations could have taken steps toward collective international action much as has been done. The United Nations Charter provides for collective action in Article 51, which makes possible individual or collective self-defense against armed attack.

After the Korean elections, the UN General Assembly renewed its Commission in Korea to try to bring about unification, observe withdrawal of troops and be available for consultation as the Koreans need it in solidifying their government. The Commission was not successful in its efforts, and was not able to go north of the 38th parallel to make observations. It was able, however, to report removal of U. S. occupation forces from Southern Korea on June 29, 1949, and it was renewed, with stronger powers by the General Assembly in October 1949. The Commission was therefore on the scene and operating as it could in the turmoil and uncertainties of a neophyte nation—divided by two ideologies—when the attack came. It verified the fact that North Korea had committed an act of aggression.

United Effort
Within 18 hours after Ambassador Gross (Ernest Gross, deputy U. S. representative to UN) called Trygve Lie in the middle of the night to request a meeting of the Security Council, the United Nations had acted. It was this resolution (of the UN) which enabled President Truman to make his historic decisions.

"The events that have followed have been the most inspiring I have witnessed in my career as the Representative of the United States at the United Nations. If proof ever were needed of the vitality of the United Nations, this situation has provided it. If proof ever were needed of the strength of United States support for United Nations principles, this situation has provided that also.

"But perhaps most significant of all has been the manner in which the vast majority of the member nations have rallied to the call of the Security Council for assistance to the Republic of Korea. The Organization of American States, speaking for 21 nations, adopted by acclamation a resolution endorsing the action of the Security Council. Many of the Latin-American states have buttressed this collective expression of their solidarity with individual messages of support.

"India and Pakistan, the largest free nations in Asia, have endorsed the action taken by the United Nations. Moving evidence of the particular concern of the smaller nations for the success of United Nations action against aggression has come from Thailand. Unable to contribute armed forces, Thailand has expressed its willingness to provide foodstuffs, such as rice.

"The nations which have announced their support for the action now under way in Korea under the aegis of the United Nations, have forcefully expressed their conviction that this issue is not between two power blocs, but between an aggressor and the United Nations. This magnificent collective response is the world's best hope that peace will be restored and maintained."

MacArthur Heads United Nations Forces

UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie has sent to General Douglas MacArthur, via the U. S. government, the UN Nylon flag which Dr. Ralph Bunche flew over his headquarters during the Palestine conflict. Mr. Lie asked Ambassador Austin to bring it back to him when Gen. MacArthur was through using it, as Dr. Bunche had done.

By this action the United Nations has proclaimed to the world its determination to end aggression and that the military action in Korea is a UN undertaking.

UNITED NATIONS . . . Considers Korea action.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By Lawrence Gould

Is "chitchat" a waste of time?

Answer: Not always, at any rate. There's a type of intellectual snob who feels it is beneath his dignity to talk to the elevator man about the weather or to exchange polite nothings at a party. But these often are the only practical ways of making human contacts and letting our neighbors know we are aware of their existence. Saying, "Nice day, isn't it?" to someone who has heard it twenty times already may save him the hurt of feeling that you don't regard him as important enough to be worthy of your notice.

nation may (at least, unconsciously) resolve to "show his independence" by being a failure. If he feels his wife is trying to "make him" succeed. But to any normal man a home where he is loved and happy will be a real and effective "inspiration."

Are "anxiety" and "insecurity" the same?

Answer: Not as psychiatrists use the words, writes Dr. Siegfried Fischer in the American Journal of Psychotherapy. "Insecurity" is an habitual state of mind which influences every act and feeling, while "anxiety" is an acute reaction of intolerable tension which occurs only in specific situations. For instance, a person who is chronically unsure of himself (insecure) might be thrown into a state of anxiety if called upon to face an audience. Both emotions have their origin in childhood and both are characteristics of neurosis.

Can a wife help her husband "succeed"?

Answer: Yes, but not all husbands need the same kind of help. A man who grew up depending on his mother to plan his life for him might need prodding, if not nagging to spur him to do his best work and stand up for his rights, while one who at heart resented and rebelled against parental domi-

KEEPING HEALTHY The Emotions and Skin Diseases

By Dr. James W. Barton

WE ARE FAMILIAR with the effect of the emotions upon certain organs of the body: rapid beating of the heart, rapid breathing and stomach upsets. Recently we have learned that attacks of asthma are brought on by the emotions. However, many of us are not prepared to agree with the statement that certain skin disturbances and diseases can be caused by the emotions.

As we think of the matter, however, we must admit that if fright can cause the hair to stand on end, the skin to become clammy and cold sometimes, and turn red at other times, why then cannot the emotions cause or aggravate skin ailments by affecting the nerves and blood supply of the part?

In "General Practice Clinics," Dr. A. H. Gottesman, Beverly Hills, California, states that dermatologists (skin specialists) are in general agreement that the emotions and skin changes are often related but controversy exists as to the nature of the relationship. "Do certain types of skin diseases owe their origin to disturbances of the emotional sphere?" they ask. "Or are emotional factors without any significance in skin diseases?"

Dr. Gottesman and his co-workers at Menninger clinic believe that overconcern with the question of whether the emotions are the underlying cause really interferes with the prompt treatment of the skin disease. That the relationship exists, to some extent, must be admitted and treatment should be given with this thought in mind. Four or five methods of treatment are then available: (1) Treatment of the skin disease according to symptoms present disregarding the emotional condition of the patient. (2) Combined skin and psychiatric treatment by the skin specialist. (3) Combined treatment by the skin specialist and psychiatrist working together. (4) Treatment by psychia-

HEALTH NOTES

While infection is the commonest cause of pain in the shoulder and arm, pressure on the nerves of shoulder and arm is the next most frequent cause.

Tuberculosis experts have been so successful that some tuberculosis hospitals are being closed because there are not enough patients to justify them.

Ninety per cent of all heart disease is the result of rheumatic fever, high blood pressure, or hardening of the arteries.

We have so many overweights in the United States and Canada that our problem, at present anyway, is overeating.

Bloating of the abdomen is not always caused by gas. Asthma in those over 40 is not usually caused by allergy.

Because physicians are able to give relief to asthmatics in most cases, it is well that these patients should know this and consult their physicians.

When emotional disturbances cause skin reactions, it is because of some frustration in the life of the patient which makes him more allergic to various substances.

During both wars, medical officers found many cases where symptoms pointing to stomach ulcer or even cancer were caused by emotional disturbances.

While we may not readily or privately brush our teeth after use of sugar, we could rinse the mouth and sluice water between the teeth.

Certain conditions (jaundice and pregnancy) actually have a beneficial effect upon rheumatoid arthritis.

Pack an Easily Carried Lunch Box (See Recipes Below)

Have a Picnic!

PACK YOURSELF a basket of fun and good eating with a well planned, easily carried picnic lunch if you plan to trek out-of-doors to have your meal.

Many will tell you that picnic lunches don't satisfy because they're better sounding than they are eating. Others tell you they always forget the salt, pepper, forks or napkins, while still others maintain that something always spills or is too bulky to carry easily.

If you take as much care planning the picnic lunch as you do a meal at home, it can be not only good but well balanced so that it doesn't leave you uncomfortable. With modern aids, you can pack many things in lightweight containers that are easy to carry and spillproof, too.

It's not necessary to forget anything if you have a basket or hamper that's fitted with table accessories such as complete table settings. Keep salt, pepper and sugar in the basket, and you won't forget them. Make a list of the menu and check off each item as you pack, and this will eliminate forgetting other essentials.

SANDWICHES ARE favorites of every picnic lunch. Butter the bread thoroughly so that the filling does not soak through. Wrap each sandwich carefully in waxed paper so it doesn't dry, and you'll enjoy them. Here are some excellent fillings:

Banana-Pineapple Special (Makes 3 sandwiches)
1 banana
1-2 tablespoons real mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
4-6 slices date-nut bread
6-8 pineapple chunks

Mash banana and mix with mayonnaise until of good spreading consistency. Add lemon juice. Spread on bread and top with pineapple. Cover with bread.

Bacon-Egg Sandwich (Makes 4)
12 strips bacon, cut
4 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 large buns

Fry bacon until crisp. Pour off fat. Add eggs, vegetables and salt. Scramble mixture while it cooks. Serve on toasted, buttered buns.

Ham-Potato Sandwich (Makes 6)
6 hamburger buns
1/4 cup soft butter
12 lettuce leaves
12 slices boiled ham or bo-logna
1 1/2 cups potato salad
6 slices tomato, if desired

Cut buns in half and spread with butter. Place a lettuce leaf and a slice of ham on each bun half. On the bottom half of each sandwich, place 1/4 cup potato salad and one tomato slice. Cover with top half of bun.

LYNN SAYS: These Picnic Tips Make Eating Fun
Next supper picnic you have, bring hot soup for a first course. It will carry safely in your thermos. You will find that hot cream soup is very welcome, especially if the other dishes are cold salads and sandwiches.
Layer cakes are not easy to carry to picnics. Bake the cake in an oblong pan, frost, and carry in the same pan.
Picnic sandwiches are kitchen crisp when you take the ingredients separately and combine them at the last minute. A tightly sealed quart jar holds lettuce and keeps it crisp and fresh. A few ice cubes in the jar give extra cooling.
A quart jar serves as a good container for carrot sticks, slivers of green pepper, celery hearts and green onions.
Is chicken salad a picnic favorite with your crowd? Add a pinch of marjoram and some capers for variety and note that your salad has a "new look."

Hearty Chicken Sandwich (Makes 6)
1 cup chopped, cooked chicken
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1/4 cup salad dressing
1 teaspoon salt
6 Vienna rolls
1/4 cup soft butter
6 lettuce leaves

Combine chicken, celery, green pepper, salad dressing and salt. Cut rolls in half lengthwise and spread with butter. Spread chicken salad on lower half of rolls. Top with lettuce leaf, then cover with roll top.
These ham and egg roll-ups are sandwich like, but require no bread. They make excellent nibbling on a picnic.

Ham and Egg Roll-Ups (Makes 3)
2 slices Swiss or American cheese
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
3 tablespoons real mayonnaise
1 teaspoon mustard-with-horseradish
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
3 ham slices
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut cheese in half. Chop hard-cooked eggs and add mayonnaise, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper. Place strips of cheese on bread board and top with ham slice. Spread egg mixture in center of ham. Roll up tightly. Wrap in waxed paper.

THEY WHO LIKE hot food on the picnic spot will be interested to know that small size cans, eight-ounce size, are available now for the first time, of food favorites.

To make a balanced meal, plan to have a tossed salad which can be carried in a jar or a lightweight, unbreakable bowl that comes fitted with a cover. As a dessert you might pack some fresh fruit and simple cakes, baked in paper cups, with a baked on frosting that won't get messy in transport.

HERE IS A SALAD idea for the picnic:
*Tossed Garden Salad (Serves 4)
2 cucumbers, sliced
10 radishes, sliced
1/2 cup sliced green onions
1 bunch watercress or other greens, separated
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup shredded raw carrots
1/2 cup shredded cabbage
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 French dressing

Toss vegetables together in a bowl with the salt and French dressing. If desired, the bowl may be rubbed with a split clove of garlic.

Cooling drinks are much in demand as picnic fare. Mix together some apricot nectar and pineapple juice with gingerale and ice cubes and place in the thermos. The beverage will be deliciously cold and refreshing, as well as ready to serve.

Chill whole melons thoroughly before taking to the picnic, and wrap in several layers of newspaper with ice. Place in dishpan or bucket for easy transport to the picnic grounds.

Scalloped potatoes will be piping hot at picnic time if your casserole is first wrapped in wax paper, then insulated carefully with several layers of newspaper.
All picnics deserve an especially delicious dessert, but it must be easy to transport. Next to ice cream, fresh fruits and berries rate high, particularly if served with cookies, cupcakes or caké squares (wrapped individually in wax paper).
Transport soft vegetables like tomatoes, whole, to the picnic, and slice them when you get there.

200 County Farmers Visit Grain Demonstration Plot

More than 200 farmers visited the county grain variety demonstration plot on the Ben Zinke farm last week. This plot, according to E. E. Skalsky, Washington county agent, under whose supervision the plot was planted, contains 11 varieties of oats, 3 varieties of barley and one of wheat. All varieties were the new and recommended varieties for southern Wisconsin.

The various varieties were planted in double seeder width strips and were marked with the name of the variety. Visitors to the demonstration could inspect the various varieties and draw conclusions as to the relative value of each. Fertilization demonstrations also were a part of the variety plot demonstration.

For the benefit of those who were not present let it be sufficient to say that the newly improved strains of the Clinton, Bond, Shelby, Andrew and Cherokee varieties showed good growth with well filled out seeds and without lodging nicely.

In the barley varieties the new Moore strain, because of its many good qualities interest many barley growers. The Oederbrucker variety showed up well, but showed a tendency to lodge in the more heavily fertilized area.

George Briggs, agronomist and Earl Wade, plant disease specialist, both of the College of Agriculture, were present to answer questions raised by those present.

Following the visit to the grain demonstration, the group lunched on the spacious farm lawn of the Zinke farmstead.

The first afternoon stop was on the Harry C. Kissinger farm, Jackson, Route 1. Here modern hay harvesting methods were viewed. Mr. Kissinger dries newly cut and chopped hay by forcing heated air through it. The loads of hay are next taken to an unloading platform where it is unloaded by means of a hoist and distributed to the hay mow by means of an elevator.

The use of a hay crusher owned and demonstrated by the Horvath Bros., West Bend, Route 5, was of special interest as the use of such a machine in the hay harvesting program is relatively new. This machine allows the newly cut hay to pass between two rollers that crack the stem. This process speeds up harvesting by at least a day and makes it possible for stem and leaves to dry in about the same time. This saves much loss of leaves which contain most of the proteins of the legume plant.

Other points of interest seen on the Kissinger farm included an automatic spraying device which sprays the cattle as they enter and leave the barn, farm work shop, water storage tank and hay moisture tester. The farm work shop on the Harry Kissinger farm recently received much publicity in the Wisconsin Agriculturist, the state's leading farm paper. Next visited was the Ben Krause farm, located south of Jackson. Here a Graham-Hoeme plow was seen. The group listened with interest to Mr. Krause's explanation and his estimation of the use of this type of farm machinery.

The tour continued on to the Paul Liesener farm where a corn field sprayed with 2, 4-D was seen and also a newly constructed diversion terrace. Both of these demonstrations were new to Washington county farmers.

The final stop of the day's tour was on the Earl Schuster farm at Dheinsville, where the county potato variety demonstration plot is located. Here visitors saw 15 popularly grown varieties of potatoes growing under similar conditions. Mr. Skalsky described the varieties, discussed their previous growing characteristics under Wisconsin weather conditions, and pointed out the varieties appearing to be best adapted to local conditions. Farm tours are valuable as a means of showing approved farm practices not commonly carried out on most farms. Washington county is one of only a few counties in the state where such tours are annually held.

George Briggs, agronomist and Earl Wade, plant disease specialist, both of the College of Agriculture, were present to answer questions raised by those present.

and second categories into play. Peace-time rates of compensation, he explained, are 50 per cent of wartime rates. He pointed out that those taking part in action in Korea would not be entitled to GI bill benefits as a result of that service. They would otherwise have to meet all eligibility requirements set forth in that act. The GI bill, he added, was designed primarily for the readjustment of World War II veterans.

Atty. Bascom was thus one of the very first candidates for any county office to file the required papers and declaration of acceptance.

NEW PRESUMPTIVE PERIOD GRANTED VETERANS WITH TB

County Veteran Service Officer Geo. A. Kolb advised that veterans of World War II who develop pulmonary tuberculosis within three years from date of discharge are granted new presumptions of service-connection for purposes of compensation, hospitalization and medical treatment under the terms of Public Law 573, approved by the President on June 23.

Previous law provided a presumptive period of one year generally for chronic diseases, with additional presumptions running up to two years for varying stages of tuberculosis. Presumption of service-connection means that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, a disease which becomes manifest within the specified period to the extent that it is at least 10 percent disabling is presumed to have had its origin while the veteran was in service.

World War I veterans were granted a presumptive period for tuberculosis which extended up to Jan. 1, 1925. The purpose of the new law is to provide a comparable presumptive period for World War II veterans.

Veterans administration announced it is drafting regulations to administer the new law for World War II veterans.

MANY COUNTY DAIRYMEN WILL BUILD MILK HOUSES

Thoughts of building a new milk house or remodeling the present one are running through the minds of many local farmers these days. Under the new milk regulations dairy farmers have only three years time in which to build an approved milk house. After November 15, 1952 no milk may be sold from any farm which does not have an approved milk house. The first thing to decide is the location of the new milk house. The convenience of taking the milk from the barn to the milk house is of primary concern. It is therefore advisable that it be located near the barn, or attached to the barn. It should be so located that it can be reached directly through a vestibule connecting it to the barn. A direct opening from the barn into the milk house is not permitted.

It is best to locate the milk house on the clean side of the barn, away from the livestock yard and silo. A graveled "U" road should lead to and from the milk house.

A location that would make it necessary to carry the milk through the horse section of the barn or through the feed storage room should be avoided.

Water supply and waste disposed are other important items to consider. Locating the milk house near the well because the barn does not have running water is not to be considered. Most milk marketing requirements do not permit such arrangements. The practical thing to do is to locate the milk house near the barn and pipe the water over to it.

After the location has been carefully determined, the next step is to decide upon size, type of construction and floor plan. Bulletins containing detailed milk house plans for sized farm and of various types of construction may be obtained from the agricultural extension office. Phone or write for a copy.

SERVICEMEN CALLED INTO SOUTHERN KOREAN ACTION ELIGIBLE FOR BENEFITS

American servicemen called into action in southern Korea might be eligible for several benefits administered by the Veterans Administration. It was announced according to George A. Kolb, veteran service officer.

Those who suffer injury or disease in line of duty may be entitled to disability compensation pay at full wartime rates, despite the fact that this nation is not at war.

Also, if they carry National Service Life insurance, premium payments may be waived in case of injury or disease "traceable to the extra hazard of service"—and any action in South Korea could fall under that category.

Dependents of those who might lose their lives in action may be entitled to death compensation benefits at wartime rates.

Full wartime rates for disability and death compensation, arising under conditions similar to the Korean situation, are authorized by Public Law 559, 77th Congress, passed 12 days after the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Under that law, wartime rates are payable for disability or death resulting from injury or disease received in line of duty "(1) as a direct result of armed conflict, or (2) while engaged in extra hazardous service, including such service under conditions simulating war, or (3) while the United States is engaged in war."

County veteran service points out that the Korean action brings the first

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Johanna Stern, who passed away one year ago, July 25, 1949:

You left this world of sorrow, And are free from pain and harm, And now rest in peace and comfort, In the blessed Savior's arms.

Some day we will see you mother, Then we will tell you o'er and o'er, How we missed you since you left us, When we meet to part no more.

You are gone but not forgotten, Never will your memory fade, Loving thoughts will always linger, Around the grave where you are laid.

No one knows how much we miss you, No one knows the bitter pain, We have suffered since we lost you, Life has never been the same.

In our hearts your memory lingers, Sweetly tender, fond and true, There is not a day dear mother, That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by her surviving children and grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

We are sincerely grateful to friends and neighbors for their many kind acts of sympathy during our sad bereavement, the death of our dear mother, Mrs. Albert Buss. Our appreciation cannot be adequately expressed. Special thanks to Rev. Kaniss, the organist, choir, Ladies' Aid members, pallbearers, drivers and donors of cars.

New GOP Candidate

RECENTLY this reporter sat in a lush, walnut-paneled office high in Chicago's towering Board of Trade building and listened with some amazement to the political and economic pronouncements of one of the oracles of that part of industry which is particularly allied with agriculture.

This man, a tall, lanky pipe-smoker who is listed by the treasury department as among the first 10 in the nation in earned income, spoke with pontifical pessimism about the devalued dollar.

At least, however, he did have a new thought from a political standpoint. Of course he is a Republican in politics and if, by any chance of political legerdemain such a thing possibly happens, remember you read it in this column first.

The Republican party cannot accept Senator Taft for the presidency. We cannot take General Eisenhower or Dewey or Governor Warren. We must have a man who has worked with his hands, a man who is a fighter, a man who is close to the soil, some entirely new blood in the political picture, and that man is Allan B. Kline.

Of course you folks in the rural areas know Allan B. Kline. In case you don't he is an Iowa farmer, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, particular foe of Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan and the Brannan farm program and, who, some declare, was slated to be secretary of agriculture had Tom Dewey been elected president in 1948.

Kline's traditionally Republican state of Iowa, however, has not been doing so well from the GOP standpoint recently. Iowans elected a Democratic senator in Guy M. Gillette last time and President Truman even carried the state.

The political posters, however, say GOP Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper stands a good chance of reelection over former Under-Secretary of Agriculture Albert J. Loveland, who resigned to run for the Democratic nomination.

The issue there, agriculturally speaking, is over the Brannan plan. So Kline's first hurdle will be the reelection of Senator Hickenlooper and getting Iowa back in the Republican column.

Victor Johnston, popular publicity director for the GOP senatorial campaign committee, who recently tailed President Truman's tour of the country via airplane, came up with a humorous campaign statement. In commenting upon the age and the lack of young men and women in the Young Republican organization Johnston remarked: "We are now busily organizing an alumni of the Young Republican organization."

Former President Herbert Hoover, in commenting upon the Korean situation and the President's declaration, asserted the nation should give full support and unity of thought in backing the president and the government in this time of crisis.

GOOD CITIZEN Laws Are Rules People Make So They May Live in Harmony

This is the fourth of a series of ten articles from the booklet "Good Citizen" published by The American Heritage Foundation concerning the rights and duties of an American.

THE THIRD promise of a good citizen: I will respect and obey the laws. I will assist public officials in preventing crime and the courts in giving evidence.

Laws are rules people make so they can live together without stepping on each other's toes.

The simplest law of all, perhaps, is the traffic light. When it is green it's supposed to protect you against the other fellow. When it is red it's supposed to protect the other person from you.

Ours is a government of laws—not men. Our constitution guarantees that our laws may be made in one way, and one way only, by the people, through their elected representatives—not by one man, or a few men, or by any appointed group.

No man in this country is so big that he is above the law, and no one so insignificant that he cannot look to the law for protection.

A good citizen cooperates with the law. He assists public agents in preventing crime, and the courts in giving evidence.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, of the special senate committee investigating interstate crime, held a screening of Columbia's "711 Ocean Drive" for Sen. Kefauver and the other members. The film, starring Edmond O'Brien and Joanne Dru, exposes the techniques and methods used by horse racing wire services to disseminate their illegal information throughout the country.

Matt McHugh was cast as a hard-boiled sheriff in "Return of the Frontiersman" because he looks more like a cowboy than most cowboys do. But Mat, born and raised on New York's Tenth Avenue, had never mounted a horse or carried a gun before the picture started.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, of the special senate committee investigating interstate crime, held a screening of Columbia's "711 Ocean Drive" for Sen. Kefauver and the other members. The film, starring Edmond O'Brien and Joanne Dru, exposes the techniques and methods used by horse racing wire services to disseminate their illegal information throughout the country.

Former President Herbert Hoover, in commenting upon the Korean situation and the President's declaration, asserted the nation should give full support and unity of thought in backing the president and the government in this time of crisis.

His next hurdle likely would be his own political background insofar as the GOP leadership is concerned. He recently told a press conference at which this reporter was present: "I am the kind of a Republican who voted for Al Smith in '28 and who voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt in '32 and '36." And while that indicates independence and a lot of people would commend him for it, it does not go down so well with GOP.

As a matter of record, 32 of the 35 votes against extending the borrowing capacity of the Commodity Credit Corporation to take care of the farm price support program were Republicans. It took Vice-President Alben Barkley's vote to break the 35 vote tie and his vote alone means the CCC will have the funds to continue farm price support. The CCC can thank Barkley for its new lease on life.

FISHHOOK, Ill. — Robert Earl Hughes, 24, weighs 800 pounds. He lives on his father's farm which is astride the boundary of two Illinois counties, which runs through the Hughes' living room.

A good citizen does not evade the law. He does not say, "I know somebody who can fix my ticket." Laws necessarily change with needs of the times. A good citizen's attitude toward a law which he regards as unfair, unreasonable and out of step with the times is that of working to get it changed—but obeying it while it is on the books.

There is the letter of the law—and the spirit of the law. You cannot make good men by laws, and the hope of law and order is grounded in the reverence of a majority of people for justice, truth and goodness.

But, in the final analysis, a law has teeth in it. Using federal offenses as an example, one great historian says: "If you refuse long enough to make out a correct-income tax return and refuse to obey an order to appear in court, you will get a touch of government power. Three or four husky fellows will take you by the scuff of the neck and the seat of the pants and hustle you into a police van motored by the power of internal combustion."

To guard against hasty and ill-advised action or the concentration of powers in any one man or body of men, a system of checks and balances is provided by the federal constitution. Of these:

It would take six years completely to replace the elected branches of the federal government composed exclusively of members of one party by the members of another.

This is due to the fact that: The President is elected for four years; the members of the house of representatives are elected every two years, and one-third of the senators are elected every two years for a six-year term.

Laws passed either by the senate or by the house of representatives must be approved by a majority of the other body. The President can veto laws enacted by congress, and his veto can be overridden only by a two-thirds vote of each house.

The courts have the right to interpret laws passed by congress and to review the legality of acts of officers of the government charged with the administration. In many cases the courts have held acts of congress invalid as being in conflict with a provision of the constitution.

The senate has the power to review and reject Presidential appointments of diplomatic, judicial, and certain other officers of the government, as well as the power to approve or reject treaties with foreign governments.

The house of representatives has the power to impeach and the senate the place of trial and to remove from office all civil officers of the United States including even the President.

home screen as so much hash. To unscramble the picture one picks up the phone and asks the operator to pipe in the missing 1 per cent through a gadget on his set hooked up to his telephone line.

At the end of the month, the charge for this service is included in his phone bill, and the gross take divided between the television station, the creator of the program, and the phone company.

According to Dr. Faught, Phonovision—or some equivalent device—will make it possible to collect millions of dollars in a single evening for, let us say, the Red Cross by putting on one nationwide benefit video show.

THE FICTION CORNER TABLES TURNED

By Richard H. Wilkinson

FLIRTING was second nature with Deborah Bellamy. No one would have guessed, after one glance at her gay, laughing face, after one look into her mocking, tantalizing eyes, that inwardly she was afraid.

Tables. That is to say, she knew that one day she was going to fall in love with one of the men with whom she flirted. And that, she knew, would be the end. The end to all her gay, reckless happiness. She never dreamed—that this man would prove to be a cowboy, named Lon Fairweather.

Deborah had joined a party who planned a month's vacation at a dude ranch in Wyoming. Lon was the foreman. He was tall, fair, handsome. After one look into his sober blue eyes, Deborah began to lay her snares.

Lon was different, but he was also human. Hence he succumbed to her wiles, just as had the others. The night he told Deborah of his love they were seated on a high boulder overlooking a hemmed-in lake.

Something about the beauty and grandeur of the scene stirred Deborah's soul. She found herself listening to Lon's love-making more soberly than was her custom. "Oh, Lon," she said a little breathlessly. "Not now..." She pushed him away and ran up the path toward the ranch house. Once back in her room she faced herself in the mirror and laughed.

Spanish, or child care, or interior decorating, whereas the average class on campus today consists of from 25 to 50 students.

YOU-SEE revenue from these home extension courses would provide the monies for new university buildings, laboratories, scholarships and teachers' salaries, and once and for all our colleges could stop passing the hat. Education, the dog goes on to say, is our best bet to stand off totalitarianism, despite which it's probably the most obsolete merchandized commodity in our society.

The economist stresses that he has no quarrel with the advertisers, but maintains that if they're the only source of revenue, TV is a cinch to wind up the same sort of cultural pigmy that radio is.

The living room, he argues, is probably the room farthest removed from the marketplace, and if Joe Jones and his missus want something in it besides cornflake and Cuticura commercials, they'll have to contribute the pennies to make it possible. The government could probably be pressured into doing it for them, but who with an IQ above zero, asks Dr. Faught, wants political appointees messing with our educational processes and cultural preferences?

I particularly like the last line of his speech: "Never in the history of the communicative arts was there a greater premium on foresight."

The Thundering Herd Is Back

IN A FEW DAYS NOW, close to a thousand mammoths, mastodons and gazelles will be turned loose on the public domain. These represent the pro football crop for 1950, with peace finally established. There will be 13 teams in action, where each squad will be large at least in the earlier days of practice, before the pruning knife

Just what the aggregate weight of these 13 squads will be is beyond our guess but the weights run from 155 to 285 pounds and there are more players over 200 than under 200. The 13 head coaches and their aids have a tough job to face in reducing the oil and fat content where steaming blubber must be taken off in tons.

The new season will open with a Philadelphia explosion where the Eagles and Browns are figured to draw some 100,000 clients. So many players, good and average, have been shifted around, back and forth, that it is only a raw guess now to start picking any winners, but you can be pretty sure the Eagles, Browns and Bears will be up there. Bo McMillin's Detroit squad will be another effective outfit, especially with Leon Hart's 270 pounds in the cast.

Hart may not weigh quite that much but it won't be far away, according to Frank Leahy's judgment last fall. "The boy is still growing," Frank said, when Hart reached 260. "He is only 20 years old."

Among those who will be featured this season are Van Buren of the Eagles, Lujack of the Bears, Waterfield of the Rams, Graham of the Browns, Conery of the Giants, and other good passers with the Yankees, Colts, etc.

Both leagues are well fixed for passers but the Eagles still look to have the better passing and running combination for an all-around attack. The others, however, getting first call in the draft have all been well strengthened where Greasy Neale had to stand pat—or nearly so.

The Williams Goal Ted Williams has apparently fixed both eyes on the Babe Ruth home-run mark of 60.

Ted sensed the fact that 1950 was about as good a season as any other with the ball at least giving a good imitation of jack rabbit in action.

Ted also remembered that he isn't getting any younger. He will be 32 years old in October, which isn't venerable, but which also isn't too youthful.

In other years Ted has mixed his home-run hitting with more attention to mere base hits. This season he is really giving it the full treatment at a time where as Ford Frick says — "Even the pitchers are trying for home runs."

Williams will have plenty in the way of competition the rest of the way from Rosen, Kiner, Dropp, Stephens, Campanella, Snider and a few others, including DiMaggio and Easter. But from the way long Ted is taking his cut at the ball, he is the one more likely to reach the goal, if anyone does.

Ralph Kiner is leading the National league and he is sure to pick up his pace later. As a rule he falls into the groove after July Fourth. A year ago he hit 20 home runs the last 30 days of the season. The same output in 1950 might just push Kiner over the top. He is the one drawing factor the Pirates have left for the season.

It might interest Joe McCarthy to know that no manager ever left the scene with a better press than the departing Red Sox leader drew around the circuit.

What's With Baseball? It has become pretty evident that something has been shaken loose from the baseball we all knew as it is now played in the two big leagues and the leading minors.

We have the Red Sox scoring 20 runs against the Browns in one game and a day later the Red Sox piling up 29 runs against the same team. Then the Cleveland Indians pile up 14 runs in the first inning against Mr. Mack's disintegrating Athletics who have hit the soapy chute at record speed.

Is this baseball or cricket? Scores ranging from 12 to 16 runs are common. Few pitchers ever complete seven innings. The pitching can't be that bad. The war has been over five years. So the war can't be used as an alibi for so much inferior playing all over both leagues.

SPORTSTICS Babe Herman batted .393 in 1930, but failed to win the National League hitting title. Mel Ott hit 30 or more home runs for seven years in the National League.
