

Joyce Bartelt, Mary Ellen Miller Brides

Roger Schief, son of Mrs. Linda Schief, R. 3, Campbellsport, claimed Miss Joyce Bartelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bartelt, Kewaskum, as his bride during a 7 o'clock candlelight service performed in the St. Lucas Ev. Lutheran church in this village on Saturday evening, Oct. 7. The young couple exchanged their vows before the Rev. Gerhard Kanies.

Mum plants with candelabra and ferns decorated the altar for the ceremony. During the rite the church choir sang "O Perfect Love" and Donald Haebeck rendered a vocal selection, "The Lord's Prayer."

For her marriage the bride, who was given away by her father, was charming in an imported lace bellina long gown styled with full circular skirt and matching long sleeve bolero with mandarin neckline. Her French imported veil was a combination of rose point and illusion and was held by a small lace bandeau. Mums and ivy were centered about the white orchid in her bouquet.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Otto Weddig, a sister of the bridegroom, was attired in a Grecian rose gown styled identical to that of the bride. She wore a headpiece of rose ostrich tips and carried blue carnations. The bride's maid, Mrs. Ivan Buss, sister of the bride, wore a gown of ice blue lace styled like that of the bride. Her headpiece was fashioned of blue ostrich tips and she carried a bouquet of rose carnations.

The bride's brother, Willard Bartelt, served as best man for the bridegroom and a cousin of the groom, Robert Wolf, was groomsmen. Ushering duties were performed by Webster Bloedorn, cousin of the bride, and Otto Weddig, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Many guests were entertained at a reception at Forest Lake resort following the ceremony. Later in the evening the young newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to the west coast. Upon returning they will reside at Route 3, Campbellsport, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming. Both are graduates of Kewaskum High school. Before her marriage Mrs. Schief had been employed as a dental assistant in West Bend.

Before an altar decorated with baskets of mums and pom-poms in Holy Trinity church on Saturday morning, Oct. 7, Miss Mary Ellen M. Miller, daughter of the Edw. E. La Buwi presided at the service and nuptial high mass at 9:30 o'clock.

The bride's gown of white satin was styled with a chantilly lace bodice and full skirt and train in satin. Her fingertip veil was gathered to a satin Juliet hat which was trimmed with lilies of the valley. Her cascade bouquet consisted of white mums and pom-poms.

A gown of green taffeta with a touch of satin trim was worn by the maid of honor, Miss Donna C. Miller, sister of the bride. She wore gauntlets to match and a green Juliet cap and carried a cascade bouquet of rust and yellow mums and pom-poms.

The bridesmaids, Miss Joan G. Miller, sister of the bride, Mrs. James McElhatton, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Barbara Stangl, niece of the bridegroom, were attired in rust gold gowns similar to that of the honor attendant. They wore gauntlets and Juliet caps to match their gowns, and carried cascade bouquets of yellow pom-poms and mums. Little Misses Isabelle and Clare Jane Miller, sisters of the bride, were the junior bridesmaids. They wore yellow taffeta frocks styled like those of the other attendants, and their flowers were cascade bouquets of gold mums and pom-poms.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, James McElhatton, as best man. Ralph McElhatton, brother of the bridegroom, and Lloyd Keller and Eugene Keller, friends of the couple were groomsmen. Ushering the guests to their places were Edward Dreher, Jr. and Harold Perkins.

Dinner was served to 40 guests at the Republican Hotel followed by a reception for 175 guests in the Holy Trinity church parlors. In the evening the young newlyweds left on a wedding trip in the southern states.

Indians Tip Lomira for Second Conference Win

Kewaskum High school's Indians came back strong in the second half to win over Lomira, 50-25, in a night game at Lomira Friday. The victory was the team's second in Fox Valley Tri-County play and gives them a tie for first place with Campbellsport.

Leroy Bier tallied three times for the winners while Sylvester Hawig and Allen Coulter each tallied twice and Edgar Loomis accounted for one touchdown and one extra point.

Jerry Ernst intercepted one Indian pass and returned it 40 yards for a touchdown and scored a second on an aerial from Jerry Schwefel. James Dims and Dave Raasch also scored for the Lions and Raasch counted on a pass conversion.

Bier's three touchdowns bring his total in two games to 24. He is third highest in the conference in scoring. Gordy Kaufman of Oakfield is first with 32 and Steinacker of Campbellsport second with 26. Right behind Bier and in fourth place is Loomis with 26.

County Receives $1,400 to Aid Polio Patients

A check for $1,400 to help pay for medical care of polio patients was received at West Bend recently by the Washington county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, according to Anton P. Staral, chairman. The funds, provided by national headquarters of the March of Dimes organization, were delivered by Palmer F. Daus, southern Wisconsin representative for the foundation.

Because of a continuing heavy case load from year to year, the Washington county chapter has found it necessary to ask for financial assistance every year for the last six years. More than $76,000 has been returned there during this period, while March of Dimes proceeds for the six years amounted to $12,000.

At present the county chapter is providing funds for the care, in whole or in part, of six patients afflicted this year and is continuing to pay costs for the care of 20 stricken in former years. One case has cost the chapter more than $5,000. Washington county suffered heavily in 1945 with 77 cases recorded—more than have been reported in the last five years. All but 10 of Wisconsin's 71 county chapters of the national foundation have asked for and received financial assistance since 1945.

THE WEEK In Religion

INSPIRATION God Is With Us

AN EDITORIAL

NOTHING is more conducive to love of God than meditation on His abiding presence about us and in our souls.

God is present in heaven. He is also present everywhere on earth. We cannot see God with bodily eyes.

It is by sin alone that man separates himself from God. But the separation ends the moment the soul cries out in sorrow and contrition.

Men's bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit. God dwells in the souls of the just in a personal and substantial way.

To such faithful souls the knowledge of God's unfailing presence is inestimably precious. They know that the path of life is never a road without shadows.

It is an impressive thought that the happiest souls are not those blessed by good fortune and good health, but those who are most aware of God's ever-consoling presence.

BELL TOWER ENTRANCE... Two parishioners of St. Elizabeth's church in Eureka Springs, Ark., leave what probably is the only church in the world where a bell tower is the only entrance.

Church Youth Group Hits Race Prejudice And 'Guardianship'

LYNDEN, Wash. — Resolutions strongly condemning race prejudice and demanding "legislative and educational programs to secure for the Negro rights and opportunities equal to those enjoyed by other members of society," were adopted here by the Young Calvinist Federation of the Christian Reformed Church.

The federation comprising young men's societies in 322 churches in the United States and Canada, also repudiated the "guardianship" solution of race problems as practiced in South Africa where many Dutch Reformed churches are located.

"Although the Christian must always exercise concern and care for his fellowmen," the group said, "this demand is not to be taken as justifying the imposition of an unwelcome guardianship by one race upon another."

The resolutions were contained in a 92-page report drafted by a committee of six Grand Rapids, Mich., churchmen, climaxing a year-long study. Prof. Henry Stoh of Calvin College, Grand Rapids, was chairman of the committee.

Condemned by the federation was "indulgence of racial pride through discriminating practice" and policies of racial segregation.

Ohio Seeks to Tax Bequests for Masses

FREMONT, O. — The Ohio state department of taxation has filed a determination proceeding here as a test case to ascertain whether an inheritance tax can be levied on a bequest designated for Masses for the repose of the donor's soul.

The late Margaret Shanahan left $8,000 to pay for such Masses. She was a member of St. Anne's R. C. church here, but her will did not name any church as the recipient of the bequest.

Probate Judge Robert J. Gabel ruled that the bequest was therefore not taxable, since it was not affected by a ruling on bequests for Masses handed down last February in the Ohio second district court of appeals.

In that ruling the appeals court held that a bequest for $2,000 set aside for Masses to be offered in St. Raphael church in Springfield for the deceased member and her family, was taxable.

The state has now challenged the local probate judge's ruling. It does not recognize a difference between bequests to specific churches for Masses for the repose of souls and similar bequests which do not specify the recipient.

Alberta Has Unique College of Bible

THREE HILLS, Alberta—This little prairie town 70 miles northeast of Calgary houses one of the world's most unusual colleges. It is the Prairie Bible Institute, said to be the biggest missionary school in North America.

Its 1,400 men and women students—more than the whole resident population of the town—are not permitted to have dates, nor sit together in classrooms, chapels or dining hall. Married couples are, of course, excepted.

In 28 years the school has trained more than 1,000 missionaries for Africa, India, the West Indies, Tibet and other foreign fields, while 15,000 other graduates are preaching the Gospel in the U.S. and Canada.

The institute draws men and women from many denominations, 69 having been represented in last year's student body.

Pope Bars Compromise

ROME — Pope Pius XII, in an encyclical letter, solemnly warned Roman Catholics against doctrinal compromises on questions of faith and morals. At the same time, he barred the way to reunion with other Christian Churches unless it is based on acceptance of the Roman Catholic doctrine as the only true faith.

The encyclical letter pointed out trends toward deviation. Such deviation, the Pope said, frequently resulted from a tendency among some Catholic theologians, in joining forces with non-Catholic religious persons in a common defense against atheism, to reduce Catholic dogmas to a minimum.

Some Catholic sources here consider the encyclical the most important and the most uncompromising document issued by the Pope. In their zeal for a united Christendom to repel the attacks of atheism, the Pope declared, some Catholic theologians have reconciled dogmatic differences among Christians

Tourists from all over the world thrilled as Italy's fabulous Venice, which rose to world fame as a trading center 635 years ago, forgot the trials and tribulations of a war-weary world and celebrated its annual water carnival. Pictures above and at the left show medieval pomp come back to life. They are general views of the water parade as hundreds of gondolas proceed down Venice's "Broadway"—the Grand Canal.

Over 500,000 people, using anything and everything that floats for seats, lined the Grand Canal to watch the world's biggest water carnival. Hundreds of gondolas and gondoliers made a magnificent procession up and down the canal, over the exact route used by the Doge six centuries ago. The gondolas haven't changed much—the costumes are authentic and the backgrounds are the same. Most of Venice's professional gondoliers (right), 500 of them, are water taxi "cobbies" 364 days of the year, but the water carnival is their chance to be "king for a day". Below is one of the ornate gondolas with eight gondoliers.

To keep the children from dirtying various parts of a roller towel before the parts in between are used, pin the back and front of the towel together near the top with a safety pin. Since the towel won't roll then, they'll have to wipe their hands on the front part. When that's dirty, take out the pin, roll the back part to the front and put the pin in again.

The better portions of otherwise worn out bedsheets can be cut up and used as dish towels, especially if you run an embroidered hem around the edges.

Baptist Meeting Raided In Quebec Mining Town

LASARRE, Que. — A noisy mob, armed with firecrackers, broke up a Baptist revival meeting on the streets of this northwestern Quebec mining town.

The incident followed earlier disorders at similar meetings, but several weeks ago, after the town had agreed to give protection to the evangelists, the disorders ceased. The evangelists were surrounded by a large crowd.

Pastor L. G. Barnhart, leader of the group, said his Bible was torn from his hands and trampled by the crowd. The Baptists finally fled in a taxi after someone had let the air out of the tires in their own car. Meanwhile, at nearby Val d'Or, Baptist evangelists were arrested for the third time in a month while attempting to hold a street-corner revival meeting.

Their arrest came a few hours after the local magistrate had sentenced four other evangelists to pay fines of $40 each or spend two months in jail on traffic counts.

Household Hints

If the stains in your sink were caused by fruits and vegetables, mix up a paste by combining equal parts of bicarbonate of soda and chlorinated lime with boiling water and spread it on the stains. Leave it until it dries, and then wipe it off. Another paste for the same purpose can be made of three parts of cream of tartar to one part of peroxide.

For general or unidentified stains in the sink, put the stopper in the drain and fill the sink at bedtime with a mixture of vinegar and laundry bleach. In the morning pull the plug out and the chances are the stains will go down the drain with the liquid.

A handy rack for your kitchen towels can be made by tacking a pinch-type clothespin to the wall near the sink. Or, a small spring mousetrap.

Johnny—"What makes the new baby at your house cry so much, Tommy?"
Tommy—"It don't cry very much—and, anyway, if all your teeth were out, your hair off, and your legs so weak you couldn't stand on them, I guess you'd feel like crying yourself."

"Encouragement? My boy, it looks to me as if you were already a member of the family."

Congress Overrides Truman Veto Of Tough Communist Control Bill; United Nations Forces Take Seoul

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The race of U.N. forces from the Incheon and Pusan areas to cut South Korea into two sections and isolate thousands of Communist troops in the south went forward at such a clip correspondents were unable to keep up with the advance. The two spearheads made a junction north of Taejon, trapping about 100,000 Communist troops in southwestern Korea. Arrows indicate the directions the converging advances took.

KOREA:

Three Bloody Months

After three bloody months the war in Korea appeared near the end with the capture of Seoul, 500-year-old Korean capital, and the junction of U. N. troops from the Incheon and Pusan beachheads. The war seemed to be in the last of three stages. The first began with the invasion of Communist troops and their capture of Seoul and the general retreat of American and South Korean troops to the narrow beachhead at Pusan.

The second was that period when U. N. forces maintained their beachhead while troops and weapons for an offensive were being built up in Japan and near Pusan. The third and final stage began with the Incheon invasion and a general attack from the north and south to isolate the invaders below the 38th parallel and thus destroy them.

The breakout from the Pusan beachhead came suddenly and in force. Troops landed at Incheon captured Seoul and headed south. The two forces were within a few miles of each other at last reports and thousands of Communists were doomed to isolation and destruction in the final phase of stage three.

Military commanders were quick to report that bloody fighting would go on for some time as mopping up operations continued. They expected guerrilla warfare in the mountains for a long time since many Communist units were expected to resist to the death.

One important question remained unanswered. Will U.N. troops cross the 38th parallel into North Korea?

NOBEL PRIZE:

To American Negro

Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. mediator who brought an end to conflict in the Holy Land, was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1950.

Dr. Bunche, grandson of an American Negro slave, is the first of his race to receive the peace prize. It will be presented to him December 10. He will receive $23,000 and a gold medal.

A member of the U.S. state department, Dr. Bunche was loaned to the United Nations in 1946. He succeeded Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden as the U.N. mediator in Palestine after Bernadotte was assassinated in 1948, effected an armistice and ended the bitter clash between Jews and Arabs.

When informed of the award, he paid tribute to his predecessor for laying the essential foundations of the Palestine agreements.

"At this moment, I cannot forget that Count Bernadotte and 10 other members of our team gave their lives in the effort to restore peace to Palestine," he said.

Dr. Bunche is the eleventh American to win the peace prize. Others were President Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Woodrow Wilson, Charles G. Dawes, Frank B. Kellogg, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Jane Addams, Cordell Hull, John R. Mott, and Emily G. Balch.

BUSINESS: Buoyant Economy The business boom flourished on all fronts during September, supported by a buoyant civilian economy and increased spending for the rearmament program.

Virtually every one of the standard measuring devices that tell the state of business at any given time showed gains, and in some instances new peaks for recent years. Where there were no advances, indicators held steady. Labor unrest accompanied the business boom, however. With living costs in a steady climb and federal tax collectors taking a bigger bite out of paychecks, thousands of workers struck to enforce higher pay. Other thousands were pacified for the moment by pay boosts ranging from 5 to 10 cents an hour. Still other thousands had spokesmen at bargaining tables spelling out in uncertain terms the conditions under which present contracts would continue to be honored and new ones negotiated. The trend was expected to continue.

UNITED NATIONS.

Vote Down Red Move

Again the Soviet Union's campaign to seat Communist China in the United Nations met defeat. The defeat was significant in that a vote was taken within four hours of the opening of the fifth session of the general assembly and was the first time the assembly ever tackled a major issue before disposing of routine organizational problems.

The motion to seat the Communist government of China was introduced by India and led to an immediate clash between Russia's delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky and the U.S. delegate Dean Acheson.

The U.S. secretary of state said in his speech, "Vote on it now and vote it down." He reminded the assembly that 43 of the U.N.'s 59 members recognized the Nationalists as the true government of China. The vote was 33-16, with 10 abstentions.

Political observers speculated that the Soviet foreign minister might walk out after the vote. He contented himself, however, with declaring the assembly's action "illegal and incorrect."

A Canadian proposal to set up a seven-nation committee to study the question of Chinese representation and report back to the assembly when its recommendations were adopted.

Whatever the report, observers believed Russia would continue its campaign to seat Red China. It was only a matter of time until the question was brought up again.

RUSSIA:

What New Game?

World diplomats are wondering what new game the Russians are playing.

The first clue of a new Soviet attitude was evident with the opening of the U. N. general assembly. Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the Russian foreign minister, and his colleagues on the Soviet delegation were affable. Their speeches were almost soothing, in comparison to what they used to be. They were making a deliberate show of reasonableness.

Later, Jacob A. Malik declared he favored a meeting of top leaders of the U. S. and Russia to negotiate for peace. He said also his government would pledge not to be the first to use the atomic bomb. He also favored general disarmament.

Malik made his views known in answer to questions submitted to him by a Maryland committee for peace. The Russians are always careful in answering questions and never do so unless the questions have been cleared and approved.

With this thought in mind diplomats were wondering could it be possible the Soviet realizes what a narrow escape the world has had from a general war? Could it be possible the Russians finally desired peace or was this a propaganda move?

The state department was inclined to believe the latter. After a hurried conference the department declared Malik's statements were only propaganda.

WAR-TAX BILL:

Congress Approves

Congress approved the $4.7 billion emergency war-tax bill that boosted taxes from 12 to 20 percent on individual incomes.

It was significant that the senate shouted its approval of the bill without a roll call and the house passed it 328 to seven. And even while the vote was still ringing in the two chambers, the house ways and means committee called a meeting to begin drafting a second tax increase bill.

The two measures together could boost taxes by $12 billion, to almost $50 billion a year—higher than any collections in World War II.

MUMPS:

A Commercial Vaccine

Development of a commercial vaccine against mumps has been perfected.

Dr. Karl Habel of the National Institute of health said that limited human trials showed the vaccine, while "not 100 per cent protective," appears to give a three-fold reduction of mumps cases among vaccinated people, as compared with those who were not vaccinated.

The vaccine is designed primarily for the immunization (protection) of large groups of children or adults, housed together in close quarters, as in schools, camps, institutions or military installations where a mass outbreak of mumps would cause serious inconvenience, Dr. Habel said.

"It is not recommended for routine use in the prevention of mumps in childhood, inasmuch as it confers immunity for only about one year and annual revaccination is necessary," Doctor Habel added.

Hot Milk Makes an Easy Sponge Cake (See Recipes Below)

Let's Bake Cake WHY BAKE a cake? First of all there's a personal satisfaction in it to you and second to your family. Third, it's nice to have a home-baked cake on hand. "Just in case," if there are afternoon callers, or if the folks in your house are just plain hungry for something sweet during a busy week-end.

Good cakes are easy to turn out, even though you may be trying one for the first time, if you use standard measuring equipment, and follow instructions to the letter. If you want a cake success every time you bake, you'll always follow measurements accurately, because that leaves nothing to guesswork.

Measure ingredients and set them out before you start mixing. This assures you of not forgetting anything. It also makes mixing the cake easier than starting to blend a few ingredients, then stopping to measure out the next one or two.

Many of the cakes, we have now found, are easier to mix and give better results if ingredients are allowed to stand at room temperature for two hours or so. This makes measuring them at one time a necessity.

A HOT MILK sponge cake is easy to mix and delicate to eat. Frosting is easy as you can see from the picture if you place a lace paper dolly on the cake and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Hot Milk Sponge Cake (Makes 2 8-inch layers) 2 cups cake flour 1/4 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons baking powder 4 eggs 1 1/2 cups sugar 1 cup milk, scalded 1 teaspoon vanilla 3 tablespoons butter, melted

Sift flour, measure; sift three times together with salt and baking powder. Beat eggs with rotary beater until light and lemon-colored. Add sugar gradually and beat until fluffy. Fold in flour mixture. Add scalded milk, flavoring and melted butter last. Fold until well blended. Pour into two round buttered 8-inch cake pans, bottoms of which have been lined with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven for 30 minutes. Cool in pans. Serve with chocolate filling, berries or sugared fruit in-between layers.

HERE'S A small-sized recipe for a fudge cake that uses the egg yolks in the cake, while the whites go into a delicious frosting.

Fudge Fluff Cake (Makes 1 8-inch layer) 1 cup sifted flour 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup sugar 1/4 cup shortening 2 egg yolks 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add shortening and egg yolks. Mix vanilla and milk and add to flour mixture. Stir to combine ingredients. Beat 3 minutes (450 strokes) scraping batter down sides of bowl. Pour into greased, paper-lined 8-inch pan. Bake in a moderate (375° F.) oven about 25 minutes. Let cool 10 minutes before removing from pan. When cool, cut in half and frost:

Fudge Fluff 2 squares fudge chocolate 1/4 cup butter or substitute 1 cup confectioners' sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla Dash of salt 2 egg whites

Melt chocolate over boiling water. Cream butter with 1/2 cup of the sugar until light. Add vanilla, salt and chocolate and blend well. Beat egg whites until stiff and gradually beat in remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Gently fold egg whites into chocolate mixture. Spread generously on half of cake, put on top half and spread top and sides.

HERE ARE TWO good recipes for those of you who frequently get sour milk on hand. They're both the good kind of cakes that sour milk makes, light, fluffy, tender and moist.

Spice Nut Cake (Makes 2 8-inch squares) 1/2 cup shortening 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup brown sugar 1/2 cup granulated sugar 2 eggs, well beaten 2 cups sifted flour 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon cloves 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk

Cream together shortening, vanilla and sugars. Add eggs; beat thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with sour milk. Stir in nuts. Pour into 2 greased, waxed-paper lined 8-inch square pans. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven for 30 to 35 minutes.

Pear-Gingerbread Cake (Makes 1 9-inch pan) 2 tablespoons butter 1/4 cup corn syrup 1/4 cup brown sugar 6 pear halves, cooked or canned 1/2 cup walnut meats 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup granulated sugar 1 egg, beaten 1/2 cup molasses 2 cups sifted flour 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon cinnamon 2 teaspoons ginger 1/2 cup sour milk

Melt butter in 9-inch round cake pan. Add corn syrup and brown sugar then blend. Place walnut-filled pears in pan. Cream together shortening and granulated sugar; add eggs; beat thoroughly. Add molasses and blend. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with sour milk. Pour batter over pears. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven for 60 to 70 minutes. Invert to serve.

Shortcakes aren't just for summer if you have canned berries. Place rich shortcake dough in a baking dish and cover liberally with cornstarch-thickened berries sweetened and flavored with a dash of nutmeg. Bake in a moderately hot oven until dough is done and serve with thick cream.

Pears make attractive dumplings when they're wrapped with strips of crinkle-edged pastry. Use one-half of a peeled pear for each one. Serve with lemon sauce, spiced with a dash of ginger.

Here's a novel bread pudding: layer sweetened, cooked dried apricots with quartered marshmallows and toasted bread cubes. Use the juice from cooked apricots for moistening and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Pears can be baked or cooked in orange juice, too, with some sugar added for sweetening. Use pear halves prepared like this as a topping for ice cream.

Coffee cake and rolls may be sliced and toasted on cookie sheets, then buttered and served hot as breakfast treats.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Consular Service Consolidated With Diplomatic Branch in 1924

This is the fifth of a series of six articles on the state department and its personnel by Walter A. Shead, Western Newspaper Union's Washington correspondent.

By WALTER A. SHEAD

Washington, D. C. — Benjamin Franklin was the first member of the foreign service of the United States department of state when in 1776 he was appointed joint commissioner to France and in 1778 minister to France.

At least seven men who later became President served as chiefs of missions abroad. The consular service was launched in 1780 as an adjunct of the diplomatic service, but was not consolidated with it until 1924.

Briefly, the foreign service represents the American people and the American government throughout the world and is the means of carrying out American foreign policy abroad.

In the set-up of the functional operation of the state department as now constituted, the foreign service operates directly under the secretary and the under secretary of state. It is broken down into six major departments which in turn are broken down into 19 small offices. The six main bureaus, all under an assistant secretary of state, include the bureau of German affairs, bureau of United Nations affairs, bureau of European affairs, bureau of inter-American affairs, bureau of near eastern, south Asian and African affairs and the bureau of far eastern affairs.

With the eyes of the world focused today on the Far East and South Asia, these latter two departments are of tremendous importance. The Near East and the South Asian affairs bureau is broken down into the office of Greek, Turkish and Iranian affairs, the office of African and near eastern affairs and the office of south Asian affairs.

The bureau of far eastern affairs is broken down into the office of Chinese affairs, the office of northeast Asian affairs and the office of Philippine and southeast Asian affairs.

Presiding over the near eastern bureau is Assistant Secretary George Crew McGhee of Texas, an Oklahoma university graduate and a Rhodes scholar. Serving as chief of the Far Eastern affairs bureau is Dean Rusk of Georgia, a graduate of several American colleges.

Irene Beasley, mistress of ceremonies of "Grand Slam," has been doing a little figuring. The show recently celebrated its fourth anniversary on the air, and Irene says she's used approximately 3,000 questions and distributed 16,000 prizes.

30 Months Late, Letter Makes a Christmas in August

By BILLY ROSE

This morning's batch of mail included the following from a man in Great Neck, L. I.: Dear Billy Rose:

As you probably noticed in the papers one day last August a boy named Henry Turrill found a sack of undelivered mail in the rear of a junked automobile on the outskirts of Great Neck.

It consisted mostly of Christmas cards which had been mailed in December, 1947, and the post office, after apologizing for the delay, promised to deliver them the next day.

Well, one of the pieces of mail was addressed to me—a letter from my wife, postmarked Cleveland, Ohio, and dated December 19, 1947. But what was in that letter wasn't make sense to you unless I first tell you something about myself.

Shortly after I was married in '44, the draft boards began taking anything with two legs, and after ten months in Texas I was put on a boat and shipped off to that swamp called Okinawa. By the time I got there, the shooting was over, so I guess I was better off than most of the boys, but it was a dull and muddy sort of life, and I was pretty glad when I was shipped back and discharged in '47.

IT WAS TWO DAYS before Christmas when I arrived in Great Neck, and you can imagine how let down I felt when I found that my wife wasn't there waiting for me. Instead, there was a note on the table saying her mother wasn't feeling well, and she had gone to Cleveland. She'd be back in a few days—that is, if everything was all right.

Ex-Policeman, Now Seventy, Still Swims Mile a Day

LOWELL, Mass.—Mike Rynee, 70, an ex-policeman, is becoming something of a living legend around Lowell. He is still a powerful swimmer.

He can tow a boat with his arms and legs tied. He can still swim after being tied to a chair and shoved off the dock. He can carry a 200-pound dead weight strapped to his back and still swim. At 70 he swims more than a mile a day.

WILLARD LONG THORP, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs. Economist born Oswego, N. Y., May 21, 1899. A.B., Amherst, 1920; M.A., University of Michigan, 1921; Ph.D., Columbia, 1924; L.L.D., Marquette, 1928. 1928-21, instructor economics, University of Michigan; 1921-22, professor economics, 1922-24, appointed deputy to assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, 1925. Assistant secretary since 1946.

including Davidson of North Carolina, and also a Rhodes scholar.

THE THOUSANDS of men and women in the foreign services are screened, chosen for particular aptitude and technical training for specific jobs, and are known as "career" men and women and generally make a life work of the foreign service.

So conscious has the department of state become of the necessity of winning political objectives through diplomacy after the country has won military victories or without military aid, the department in 1947 established the foreign service institute, which is actually a school for training young men and women in the foreign service of the country. It is departmentalized for specialized training, including schools for all the languages of the world.

The institute is now located in an eight-story building at 2115 C street N.W. in Washington and periodically its graduates, coming from every state in the union, find their way into the ranks of the foreign service. The institute also trains employees of other governmental agencies concerned with foreign affairs. The courses run up to six months, with the regular course for new foreign service officers now three months.

The school for basic officer training provides courses designed to prepare new personnel for initial field duty. The school of advanced officer training is concerned with graduate-level instruction in the social science fields, including economics, politics, law, sociology, social psychology, cultural anthropology, etc. And the school of languages is designed to equip the employees with a rudimentary or even advanced knowledge of the language of the country of assignment.

The foreign service institute equips the representatives of the American people to do a much better job for them in the 75 nations where consuls, embassies and other diplomatic missions are maintained. By the measurement of every yardstick the training is giving to the department a higher type of American citizen than has ever before been possible.

This, of course, wasn't the homecoming I'd been figuring on and I took it pretty hard. But realizing there was nothing I could do about it—her mother didn't even have a phone—I sent her a Merry Christmas wire and told her to hurry back as soon as she could. It wasn't until after New Year's however, that my wife showed up.

That was in '47, and in the past three years a lot of nice things have happened to us—a son, a pretty good job, and most of the mortgage paid off on our house. None of which would have come about if the letter my wife sent me from Cleveland had arrived on schedule.

In it, you see, she confessed there had been another man while I'd been away—nobody she cared anything about, just someone who had happened along while she was lonely and miserable. She said if I didn't want her to come back to write and say so and she'd understand, but if she didn't hear from me she'd figure I had forgiven her and would return and try to make it up to me.

WHEN THE MAILMAN handed me this three-year-old letter a

THE FICTION CORNER

SECOND WIFE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

LIFE began for Lionel Ainsley when he met Cynthia Trumble. She was the fulfillment of dreams that were dreamed while he sat alone by his camp fire in the wilderness, while he listened to the hoots of owls and the screeches of bobcats, and wondered if the time would ever come when somebody sat with him by the fire and listened to the night sounds that had been his only companions since graduation from the state school of forestry two years ago.

Lionel gestured toward the girl. "Cynthia, meet the new Mrs. Ainsley," he said.

3-Minute Fiction

The first week was deliciously sweet. Cynthia had been a country girl, and because Lionel was her first real love, she eagerly looked forward to spending weeks alone with him in the wilderness.

That was before they reached Woodsville, where Lionel had his base. There was a big packing company at Woodsville, run by a man named Benton, who had a son named Austin. Fresh from college young Austin had come to Woodsville to learn the packing business. Quite naturally the place was dull and boring to one so sophisticated.

Then Lionel and his new wife arrived, and Austin looked on Cynthia and vowed to know her better. Austin had that polish about him that attracts women.

So when Lionel finally heard his canoe toward Woodsville to replenish their supplies, Cynthia's pulse quickened a little, and she kept her eyes fastened on the bend in the river that would first reveal the great buildings of the packing house.

What followed made Cynthia a little ashamed. She hated to hurt Lionel, he was so fine and generous and kind. And so devoted. She thought he'd object to a divorce, and it was a little disappointing when he agreed readily.

AND SO Lionel went back into the wilderness shortly after the divorce was granted, and Cynthia, free and excited, waited for Austin to come to her.

He came at last and stood near where she lay in a hammock. It was night and she could not see his face.

"Cynthia, darling, why did you do it? I feel like a cad, breaking up you and Lionel like that. He's a good sort and—well, I meant nothing by my attentions. It was all—well, sort of fun."

"But, darling, you do love me? You do want to marry me?" Misgivings chilled her heart.

Austin ran a finger under his collar. "Well, you see, Cynthia—you see, I can't, that is—I'm already married!"

Cynthia nearly swooned. When she again opened her eyes Austin was gone. She was alone. Panic gripped her, then fear. Later she thought of Lionel. She'd not known how to appreciate him. She'd wait. He'd be out of the bush again in three weeks. He'd understand.

It was almost unbearable, that waiting. The people of Woodsville looked at her curiously and whispered among themselves. Three weeks passed and Lionel didn't return. Another week dragged by and still no sign of him.

Then, at last, Lionel came back. Cynthia, watching from the veranda of her rooming house, saw his canoe sweep into sight, and her heart leaped. Lionel at last! Lionel, whom she'd loved and would love again. Lionel who had loved her so tenderly. Love like his didn't die. She had treated him miserably, but she'd admit all that, ask his forgiveness.

And then the canoe neared the shore and Cynthia went down to meet it. Lionel saw her, and waved a greeting.

Cynthia's heart stopped beating. There was someone else in the canoe. A girl.

The canoe touched the shore. Lionel grinned at her happily. "Cynthia, it's good to see you again. Hope you and Austin are happy." He gestured toward the girl, who had turned to stare. "Cynthia, meet the new Mrs. Ainsley."

MacArthur Worshippers THE AMERICAN PEOPLE are intensely interested in the future of the far east, and America's place in that future. On that subject, they want all the reliable information that is obtainable. They want that information from those who know from experience, and not merely from guesses.

The people have implicit confidence in General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. They know he knows the military needs of the nation in that faraway section, a section in which America must be dominant or surrender interests in the Pacific to others, exposing our western shore line to attack.

When it is a choice between information on a far eastern military subject from Douglas MacArthur or Dean Acheson on such a subject, the vast majority would turn to MacArthur, who has faithfully and capably served his country in that field, whose ability as a soldier made it possible for him to lead us to victory in a Pacific war. They accept his statement as to military needs in preference to the bad guesses, if they were no worse than that, of Secretary of State Dean Acheson, whose bad guesses were based, not on any personal experiences, but on the opinions of those with whom he surrounded himself.

Quite naturally, the large majority of the American people resent the rebuke to General MacArthur for his effort to provide to the people his opinions on a purely military subject, and they resent the insinuation of that rebuke coming from the man whose bad guesses are responsible for our present difficulties in Korea, filling military cemeteries with hundreds, possibly thousands, of dead American soldiers.

That rebuke was a political blunder and will undoubtedly cause loss of votes to the President's party in the elections of this year and again in 1952.

The following of that rebuke by a complimentary letter to General MacArthur does not change this situation, but merely aggravates it. It will not satisfy any considerable number of those who resented the administering or the rebuke. Most people realize the political purposes that were responsible for that letter, and the giving of it to the people in a public way. It will not satisfy those who believe in General MacArthur and who appreciate his efforts to give them his opinions on a purely military subject.

Justly or otherwise, as may be the case, the people in a large degree have lost faith in either the ability or the loyalty of Secretary Acheson. There has been so much Communist smoke pouring out of the state department that the people feel there must be some fire back of it all. There is also the bad guesses in refusing to support the Nationalist forces in their contest with the Russian-supported Communists.

Had the President gone but one step further, and removed General MacArthur from his post in Japan, he would have so aroused the nation as to insure the defeat of his party in the November elections. As it is, he has seriously injured its chance of success.

We, as a people, are given to hero worshiping, and General MacArthur is very definitely one of our national heroes. He is appreciated as one who has faithfully and loyally served us. That has been done by both Douglas MacArthur and his father, in the capacity of soldiers. Both have been chief-of-staff of the American army, and in addition, the son has been, and is, one of our illustrious field commanders, winning for us an imposing victory against exceptional odds. The people resent any evidence of disapproval of such of our heroes, especially so when that disapproval is brought about by a man whose only claim to fame is based on his official mistakes or his bad guesses.

The house of representatives passed the bill to curb the activities in this country of the Reds and the Pinks by a vote of 373 for and 20 against. Rep. Helen Douglas of California, now a candidate for a seat in the United States senate, was one of the 20 who voted against the bill. Representative Nixon of the same state, and the opponent of Mrs. Douglas in the senate race, voted for the bill. That is the California senatorial race in the California.

Political fences are in a sad need of repairing, and congress should go home to do the job. It has spent all the money there is and more. It has passed over its own responsibilities to the President, with greater authority than any other President has ever had. He has been told to spend the money and to control the national economy as he wishes. There is nothing more the President can ask for and expect to get, unless it be a congressional check upon pay roll padding, and that is hardly possible.

If what congress has appropriated for national defense is actually spent for such purposes, we should, in time be prepared to fight a real war.

Those pay roll padding rumors sound like an opportunity for airing a lot of dirty linen.

We might not have to rue the day when we did not make adequate war preparations.

What will be the President's verdict on the 81st congress?
