Pfc. Allen Mertes Is Reported Killed in Action in Korea

Mrs. Emma (Clarence) Mertes of this village on Saturday received a message from the war department at Washington, D. C., advising her of the death of her son, Pfc. Allen Mertes, 19, in Korea on Nov. 4. Pfc. Mertes was killed in action while serving with the 24th Infantry Division. This is the second casualty for Washington county since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

On Sept. 15 of this year Pfc. Mertes was reported missing in action, but later word was received from him that he had been a patient in a hospital with malaria and that a mixup in the records caused him to be listed as missing by his commanding officer. He rejoined his unit the latter part of September.

Pfc. Mertes was born in Kewaskum on March 7, 1931, and attended grade and high school in this village. In November of 1948 he enlisted in the army. He left the states for overseas duty in July of this year, and since the latter part of that month had been in Korea, where his unit has been in the thick of the fighting all through the campaign. He was serving with Co. C of the 24th Infantry Division, 19th Infantry Regiment.

The young man is survived by his mother, a sister, Ariene (Mrs. Oscar Ashman) of Waldo, and a brother, Donald Mertes, who resides with his mother and also is a veteran. Allen was the youngest member of the family.

He was a former Boy Scout and a member of the Kewaskum Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. Allen was a popular young man among his many friends, who join with the family in hoping and praying that the message received Saturday may be in error and that the young man may still be alive.

Foreign Policy May Be Big Issue When the 82nd Congress Convenes; Slight Advance Made in N. Korea

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily those of this newspaper.

G.O.P. VICTORY: The Battle Is Underway

The echo of the G.O.P. victory in the November national election has not subsided before another voice was heard on the national scene. It was a Republican chorus of "fire Acheson" and a hint of congressional reorganization. The battle began for greater G.O.P. power in the coming session of congress.

On the domestic scene, Republican leaders opened fire on what they called the "grave inflationary situation." This was not believed to mean price controls for the benefit of the American housewife, however.

Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, fresh from a re-election victory, said: "It is a national tragedy the way prices of military items have been allowed to leap since the Korean conflict started." Controls were expected to be along this line.

There were indications also that a new investigation of Communist influences in government would be launched by Republicans when the next congress convenes.

Notice was also served on the Democrats that Republicans will insist upon advance consultation on foreign policy steps.

And Sen. Robert A. Taft, now the acknowledged "big-wig" of the Republican party, made it clear he would like to hang Acheson's scalp to his belt when he stated: "I haven't the slightest confidence in Acheson's judgment."

To most observers it was clear the Republican party had launched an all-out campaign for control of the U.S. government. The final battle will be fought with the ballot box in 1952.

While the world speculated about China's ultimate aims in Korea, the battle continued.

Reports from the scene were confused. Military observers estimated as many as 90,000 Chinese Communist units fighting in North Korea, but said United Nations forces continued slow advances behind smashing air attacks.

Meanwhile, a Chinese delegation was invited to the United Nations to hear the charge of aggression in North Korea lodged against them by the United States.

Many observers believed they had found the one main reason for China's action in North Korea. It centered around the great North Korean power plants along the Manchurian-Korean Yalu river boundary.

The Chinese Reds apparently were willing to fight to protect them. The reason being that the mighty hydro-electric plants strung across the neck of North Korea produced 2,681,180 of Korea's 3,132,727 kilowatt hours. An undetermined amount of that power going into Manchuria, the great center of China's heavy industry.

With this in mind, Chinese forces pushed into North Korea and forced United Nations troops to withdraw from the area. Since the Chinese have constructed a "Magnet Line" below the vital plants and will put up a determined defense when U.N. forces reach the area again.

Mao Tze-tung does not want that power shut off. Although the Russians looted much Manchurian productive equipment during their post-war occupation, what is left is China's chief hope for industrialization. And the Communist party line says industrialization is the answer to China's historic poverty.

Headliners

Sen. Robert A. Taft has held several press conferences since his astonishing election victory. On one occasion he said, "Only an idiot would be an isolationist today." This was in reply to the label so often applied to him. On another occasion he said, "Unquestionably some of this sacrifice is necessary to protect us against the real threat of Soviet aggression. But the facts ought to be clearly brought before the people, and they must be satisfied in their own minds that the sacrifice is essential. If they are convinced by fair arguments, they will make any sacrifice to assure the freedom of America."

The long awaited message from Tibet, appealing to the U. N. to rescue her from Chinese Communist invaders arrived at Lake Success. It said in part: "Tibet will not go down without a fight, though there is little hope of a nation dedicated to peace resisting the brutal efforts of men trained to war." That quotation seems to express the view of world history today.

CRIME: Dwarfs the 20's To those who remember the "roaring twenties" and such gangs as the Capone boys, Senator Kefauver, chairman of the senate committee investigating crime, made a shocking announcement.

The senator said that "organized crime in the country today would make kindergarten play out of the operations of the Capone boys" and that the influence of crime on public officials is "very sinister and very great."

He went so far as to say that his committee had the facts to prove that well-organized and "tough" groups of criminals are operating throughout the country with "interlocking ownership between all groups."

He said the racketeers are corrupting public officials and law enforcement officers, and are putting their money into "so-called legitimate businesses" in which they use racketeering methods.

Kefauver's reasons for the continued prosperity of crime agreed with those of most observers: Local public indifference to stopping the rackets.

Kefauver's nation-wide study is aimed at strengthening federal laws to block the way for organized crime. Such laws would include interstate ban on the shipment of gambling devices, more control over wire services, strengthening of the postal laws, and amendments to the internal revenue laws which would "require real bookkeeping."

Gamblers and racketeers now cheat the United States out of hundreds of millions of dollars a year in taxes.

CORN BELT: Rural Vote Counts Leaders of both major parties have spent considerable time since the election trying to read the future from the election results. One obvious conclusion was drawn. The major battle ground for the 1952 election will be in the midwest corn belt.

As most voters remember, Truman won the 1948 election because three Midwest states jumped from their traditional G.O.P. column to the Democrat side. They were Ohio, Illinois and Iowa. Had any two of these states voted for Dewey in 1948, he would have been elected.

In the recent election, however, the rural vote returned to the Republican ledger. Two factors may have influenced the switch in the farm voting: a tendency for farmers to return to their traditional Republicanism when times are good and to vote Democratic only when their prices and incomes are declining, and, apparent dissatisfaction with foreign policies of the administration.

For these reasons the farmers of the Midwest will find themselves the target of both Republican and Democratic candidates in 1952. The Republicans will attempt to increase their gains and the Democrats can be expected to launch a full-scale attack to retake command. It might even be said that the farmers of the midwest will elect the next president of the United States.

While the corn yield is below last year's 3,377,000,000 bushels, it is sharply above the government goal of 2,600,000,000 and a normal-sized crop of 2,900,000,000. Supplementing this year's crop is a record carry-over of about 860,000,000 bushels from last year's production, the department reported.

FOREIGN AID: Extension Proposed

A vast extension of America's foreign aid program was proposed by President Truman and the question will undoubtedly be subject to hot debate in congress.

Urgent recommendations for lengthening the period of Marshall type aid to western Europe stood high on the list. The area was termed as this country's "most critical area" in a security sense.

The declared immediate objectives of the new program are to promote adequate western rearmament, bulwark southern Asia and the Middle East especially against Communist aggression, and expand production of strategic raw materials throughout the non-Communist world. The program would entail an indicated several billion dollars a year.

Just what attitude the new congress will take concerning the program will be still a question in the minds of most observers.

One thing can be sure, the new congress will be one of the most unpredictable in a number of years. The balance of control is so narrow anything might happen. The issue of more money for Europe and Asia will face bitter debate.

TAFT: The Next President? If the Republican national convention were scheduled for today, there is little doubt but that Robert Taft of Ohio would get the G.O.P.'s nomination for president. The question remains, can he get it in 1952?

A recent nation-wide survey of Republican state chairmen showed Taft an overwhelming choice, with Earl Warren of California and James Duff of Pennsylvania, second and third in that order.

Democrats and labor's political chiefs have tagged him the man to beat. The senator beat them both by 430,000 votes—the biggest plurality of his career.

Taft is reported to have said he was not a candidate for the presidency right now, but he indicated he could be influenced.

"I don't say that I wouldn't take the nomination if it were offered to me," he said, "but I shall make no campaign to get it."

Ray Bliss, Ohio Republican chairman, summed up the opinion of most Republican leaders throughout the country: "If Senator Taft is interested, he would in my opinion be the logical person for the Republican nomination in 1952. He took the issues to the voters in Ohio this year and won. That is the type of aggressive campaigning we need in 1952."

At the present time only one man could beat Taft out of the nomination—Eisenhower, and he is not available.

Career Woman For the first time in history a woman has been named to a post of authority over the army, navy and air force. She is Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, government career woman, who was named by Defense Secretary George C. Marshall as assistant secretary of defense in charge of manpower and personnel problems in the armed forces.

BUSINESSMEN: To Fight Profit Levy A group of more than 100 businessmen announced they had formed a committee to fight against an excess profits tax.

They based their campaign on the idea that such a tax is inequitable, inflationary, destructive and dangerous.

The businessmen, however, did not have the gall to stand on that announcement alone. They empered their campaign with "Business profits must bear their fair share of increased taxation."

HERE'S HOW BLASTING cap accidents start—a youngster finds a deceptively harmless-looking lot of shiny tubes lost from a construction job or mine operation. . . .

... and setting it off with a baseball bat looks like a lot more fun than playing sandlot baseball. . . .

BLASTING CAPS

Innocent Looking Blasting Caps Can Easily Maim You for Life

One day in the spring of 1948 three children in an eastern Kentucky coal mining area were playing in the tool shed behind their home. In a camp placed where their father had placed odds and ends of mine equipment, they found four shiny metal tubes about two inches in length.

The children took the tubes out into the yard in front of their home and were playing with them. None of them were ever able to tell exactly what happened, but suddenly there was a smashing blast. When their mother reached them she found one little boy's hands terribly mangled.

The youngest of the three lost the sight of an eye. The third child was not seriously injured, but suffered from a shock she was months overcoming.

The shiny little tubes which had been so pretty and such fun to play with were blasting caps, the heart of dynamite.

Hundreds of children and adults are seriously injured and some times killed because of carelessness or ignorance while handling blasting caps. Older children, who should have known better, have been injured in the dangerous "sport" of setting off a blasting cap which had been lost, strayed or stolen from a mine or construction job.

May Happen Anywhere This kind of accident is not necessarily limited to a mining area. They can take place anywhere, since blasting caps are used wherever road building and other concrete occurs, say authorities at Olin Industries, Inc., Alton, Ill.

Blasting caps are smaller than a lead pencil and from one to two inches in length. Because they contain extremely powerful explosives, such as RDX used in wartime block-busters, they are very dangerous in the hands of persons inexperienced in the use of explosives.

One type of blasting cap, the ordinary big inch, is exploded by flame from a burning fuse and the other is fired electrically. Sunk in the explosive charge of the electrical cap is a thin wire which becomes heated and explodes the charge when an electric current is passed through the lead-in wires.

Don't Touch Them While blasting cap accidents have dropped 60 per cent in the last decade, the accompanying pictures are intended to reduce them still further by showing youngsters, who may some day encounter them, what the caps look like, and picturing the danger of playing with them.

Blasting caps are so sensitive that men experienced in the use of explosives have been seriously injured when they were accidentally exploded. Construction workers have been known to lose fingers, their hands and even their lives from such explosions.

There is one important safety rule to follow if anyone finds a shiny object they might suspect as being a blasting cap: don't touch it. Leave it alone, but immediately call a policeman. Officers are often trained to handle explosives, and if not, he will call someone who is.

It is difficult for most people to believe that anything so small and innocent looking as a blasting cap could be so deadly. It is well to stop and think if you ever find one that they were devised by engineers as the heart of dynamite which can move mountains of stone.

"F" For Freedom

● Taking a leaf from the historic book of resistance movements in German-occupied countries during World War II when the "V" for victory symbol was an irritating thorn in the side of German occupation, a well organized anti-Communist propaganda machine is using the letter "F" in a campaign for freedom. The letter makes mysterious appearances everywhere in eastern Germany. Peace raiders (above) splash their "F" symbol on a Soviet zone sidewalk. The symbol makes its appearance on ceilings of the Soviet elevated trains (right), on streets and any other available space the anti-Communist workers can find. If captured the workers face severe punishment.

● A group of peace raiders (above) embark on a mission. The faces of the youths working in this anti-Communist campaign have been partially blocked out for their own protection. They run the risk of capture by Communist police and threat of imprisonment and deportation to Soviet slave camps for periods as long as 25 years. On the east Berlin elevated trains which travel through all sectors of the city under the eye of Communist police, peace raiders (left) pass their pamphlets to east zone travelers.

● East Berliners (above) leaving the subway train are approached by the militant anti-Communist peace raiders. In just one mission, tens of thousands of these leaflets pass through their hands and into the hands of people living under Communist domination. When winds are favorable, pamphlets are attached to balloons and floated across into the Soviet zone.

● At right anti-Communist raiders rubber-stamp "F" for freedom symbol on the walls of Soviet-sector subway cars. The Reds lost out in their attempt to twist the "F" for freedom to their own use by trying to say it stood for peace.

Impact of Election

WHILE THERE will be comparatively few new faces in the 82nd congress and the Democrats will maintain "paper" control of both houses, the result of the recent election may be far-reaching in its impact.

These factors may be considered: (1) With a presidential election coming up in two years the Republican leadership actually did not want control of the 82nd congress; (2) Democrat leadership has been warned and forewarned concerning the issues to which the American people object; (3) Although Dean Acheson, the day after election, denied vehemently that he would resign as secretary of state, there is a persistent rumor here that he may quit, which will involve an extensive cabinet shake-up; (4) Despite the proportions of the victory of Senator Taft in Ohio, there is bound to be a clash in the Republican ranks over leadership of the party in the senate and (5) it is evident Democratic policies will move over closer to the conservative side with every indication that the 82nd congress will be an anti-administration congress.

Prior to the 1948 election the Republicans found that performance, instead of promises, was a difficult feat, and as a result their control of the 80th congress was a factor in the Truman victory in that campaign. For this reason the GOP leadership believes their best position prior to 1952 is the minority in the congress where they will be free to act without the responsibility of making a record.

The GOP leadership, therefore, is elated over the election results for the reason that a definite Republican trend is indicated which puts them in a position to go on from there in 1952. At the same time, the voters in the home towns throughout the country indicated in no uncertain terms they took to heart the fight made by Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin against Secretary Acheson and the alleged harboring of Communists in that agency. Although Senator McCarthy never proved his charges the folks back home acted as though there must be some fire where there was so much smoke. The defeat of Sen. Millard Tydings of Maryland, veteran of 24 years in the senate, was because of this issue of "McCarthyism." Tydings, chairman of the sub-committee which probed the McCarthy charges, found them unfounded and was in turn charged with "white-washing" the whole thing. McCarthy trumped Maryland from one end to the other telling the people this story and lambasting Tydings unmercifully.

Duff Called Anti-Dewey

Although Gov. James Duff of Pennsylvania, who defeated Democrat incumbent whip of the senate, Francis Myers, was an anti-Dewey man at the Republican national convention in the election they will team up with the Taft-Wherry-Millikin axis in the Republican leadership. Rather, because of his more liberal beliefs and his eagerness to clean the GOP of reaction, he is believed likely to throw his lot with Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Ives of New York, and other more liberal senators on the Republican side.

May Drop Farm Plan

Significantly, Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan said a few days before the election that he might be willing to sidetrack his Brannan farm plan in the interest of unity. Also significantly, everywhere candidates supported the Brannan plan in the election they were defeated. This happened with Thomas in Utah, Thomas Fairchild in Wisconsin, Albert Loveland in Iowa, Ferguson in Ohio and others.

Tydings Big Upset

The only real upsets in the election were Tydings in Maryland and Thomas in Utah. However, one of the paradoxes which developed was in the Utah race and in Missouri where Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., defeated Republican Sen. Forrest Donnell. Both Thomas and Hennings made their campaigns on a straight fair deal program. Hennings won handily, but Thomas, one of the most scholarly men in the senate was soundly whipped by Wallace F. Bennett, Republican former president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Balance of Power

If they desire, the southern bloc of Democrats can take over the reorganization of the senate. They have the votes to name one of their own members, probably Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia. However, the best bet is that the southerners will let President Truman name his leaders so they can feel free to oppose whatever legislation they desire including civil rights. It appears that Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney may succeed Sen. Scott Lucas.

Labor Drive Fails

One feature of the election was the failure of organized labor to turn out or control the votes of its membership. Senator Taft in Ohio ran up large votes in the big urban centers of Ohio in spite of the determined effort of the CIO and AFL leadership to beat him. The same thing happened to Senator Lucas in Chicago and other industrial Illinois cities; that is, he failed to get the big vote which labor pledged him.

Scrapie isn't just for breakfast, especially if you serve it breaded and fried with eggplant, sliced tomatoes and grilled mushrooms. Put your prunes in a salad, if they're cooked and stuffed with cream cheese mixed with orange juice and pulp and some chopped walnuts.

Bake or fry your pears just as you do apple rings, then season with lemon juice. Serve with pork chops or sausages. Bacon slices easier when it's icy cold. Then you can cube or slice as thin as you please.

*Magic Truffles (Makes 1/2 pound)
 1 package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
 1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon sweetened condensed milk
 Pinch of salt
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate, without stirring, in top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water. Remove from heat. Add sweetened condensed milk, salt and flavoring. Stir until blended. Turn into container lined with waxed paper and press into block one inch high. Chill in refrigerator until firm (about two hours). Turn out of container, remove waxed paper and cut into serving pieces. Store in airtight container.

Brazil Nut Scotchies (Makes 3 1/2 dozen cookies)
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup shortening
 1 tablespoon molasses
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 egg
 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 1/4 teaspoon soda
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1 cup rolled oats
 1 cup chopped Brazil nuts

Combine first seven ingredients and beat thoroughly. Sift together flour, soda, and baking powder. Add to first mixture; mix well. Stir in rolled oats and chopped Brazil nuts. Drop from level tablespoon onto greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350°) 10 to 12 minutes.

Meringues with whipped cream can be a fancy dessert if two are put together for each serving with sweetened, flavored whipped cream.

Good salad dressing for greens uses soured cream blended with mayonnaise, mustard, celery seed and just a touch of minced cardamom seed.

With lamb chops you can find nothing better in the way of a sauce than currant jelly blended with chutney, a dash of lemon juice, salt and pepper.

Baked bean salad is bound to appeal to the men folk when it's properly seasoned, say with chopped celery, chives, minced olives and salad dressing.

Give those baking powder biscuits variety if you serve them often. In place of milk, use orange juice, and just a bit of grated orange rind.

Don't neglect the dried herbs when you're seasoning meat balls. Let the herbs soak in a bit of the milk you add to the meat, so they will regain their flavor.

Those large Spanish onions really go well with steak. You can bake them in cream and fill with creamed or sauteed mushrooms; and they're really elegant.

THE WONDERFUL world of make believe—Experts say every child needs it as part of his normal development. And it makes mother's life a lot easier—especially on rainy days.

LAUGHTER under your roof—the shared pleasure that binds your family closer. The greatest comedians of the entertainment world are in your living room every night on TV.

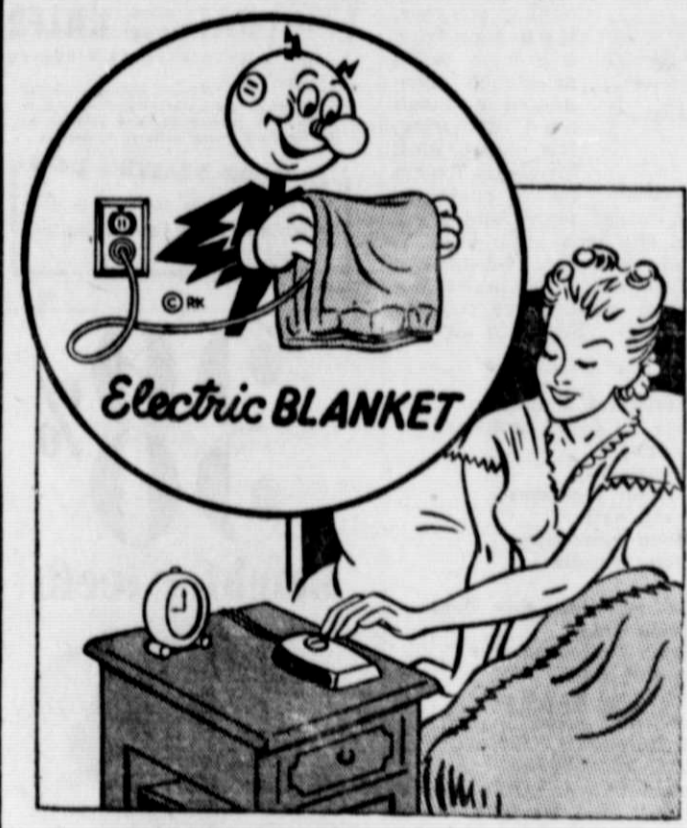

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

United States Delegate to The General Assembly of the United Nations says:

"To me television offers a magnificent opportunity to increase the education which we make available to the children of today. If parents will supervise carefully the type of show and the time spent by children watching television, they can see the best that television has to offer, which can bring much enjoyment and much that will be valuable in their education. Of course, I am a firm believer in the supervision of children's reading habits, and now that we have television, I think that the same thing should be true for television. It is a parent's duty to see to it that the children get the best in books and the best in television entertainment and education."

BILL OF RIGHTS

Bill of Rights Is a Precious Heritage and a Solemn Trust

This is the first of a series of three articles on the Bill of Rights and Bill of Rights Day which will be celebrated December 15.

December 15, Bill of Rights Day, commemorates the one hundred and fifty-ninth anniversary of the most important document in American history. As every school child learns, the Bill of Rights comprises the first 10 amendments to our founding fathers so wisely attached to the constitution of the United States to safeguard our civil liberties. Freedom of speech, press, assembly and religion, together with the guarantee of fair trial, due process and equality before the law, form the cornerstone of democratic government.

Now, as never before, our democracy is being challenged. Anti-democratic forces often hide behind the protection of the Bill of Rights, hoping to frighten us into curbing our civil liberties, the first step toward totalitarian rule. Being fully aware of their insidious purpose, we must preserve these liberties, even for those whose opinions we detest.

TO REMIND AMERICANS of their precious heritage in the Bill of Rights, and to renew the faith of free men everywhere, the American Civil Liberties Union is planning a nationwide program of publicity through the press, radio, television and magazines. Featured in this program will be a newspaper survey of the current status of civil liberties in the country's largest cities, a documentary drama broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company network and a series of articles in leading national magazines. The American Civil Liberties Union is also sponsoring a contest in cooperation with the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, for the best college radio script on civil liberties.

Today the Bill of Rights takes on new world significance as one of democracy's proudest achievements. Only by continuous support of both the word and spirit of the Bill of Rights can we insure the heritage of freedom for our children and furnish the best argument for universal acceptance of the democratic way of life.

Star Dust

By INEZ GERHARD

TONY DEXTER, chosen from 75,000 candidates for the lead in Columbia's "Valentino" movie, began life as a Nebraska farm boy, the son, grandson and great-grandson of clergymen. While in college he became interested in acting; his first role was with Eva LaGallienne in "Ah, Wilderness." As Walter Craig he had a successful Broadway career, interrupted by three years in the army. Katherine Cornell suggested him for the Valentino role, and Producer Edward Small kept him under wraps for three years, training him for the part; because of his startling resemblance to the dead star he couldn't even rumba at a dance hall!

Linda and Boyd Morse, great-grandchildren of Adolph Zukor, titular head of Paramount, have roles in the Pine-Thomas "The Last Outpost." They are also great-grandchildren of Marcus Loew, founder of Loew's M-G-M.

Richard Whorf, well known in Hollywood, heads the cast of the wholly delightful new play, "Season in the Sun." He staged "Champagne for Caesar" and "The Groom Wore Spurs" before leaving for Broadway. Nancy Kelly, appearing opposite him, has made some 25 films as an adult, 50 as a child; Anthony Ross has also included the movies in his career. The play is one of the best comedies to reach New York in some time, and will make an award-winning comedy when it reaches the screen.

The new March of Time, "Schools March On!" presents a vivid story of public school consolidation in Woodford County, Ill. It also strikingly presents the advances of educational techniques and facilities in other parts of the United States. But it emphasizes the necessity of improving our public schools and raising educational standards throughout the country.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Moe's Biggest Catch Found Rose Dangling on His Line

By BILLY ROSE

Among the doodads on my desk is an old piece of string wrapped around a wooden spool, and people who come to my office often quiz me about it. My rough, ready and routine answer is: I'm fond of that bit of string because, thanks to it, my business address is Sixth Avenue instead of Davy Jones's Locker.

But let me crank the reel back 44 years and give it to you—as my Aunt Frieda would put it—"in sequins."

The scene I remember most vividly on the East Side is the dock near the Fulton Fish Market where we used to go swimming on summer days when school was out and the tide was in. And the water-front character who usually takes stage center in my memory is a little ragabag of a man we called Crazy Moe who spent most of his days spool-fishing over the edge of the pier.

We often pointed out to this incomplete angler that he was wasting his time that no self-respecting flounder would be caught sauteed in the polluted waters of the East River—but Crazy Moe paid no attention to us. His answer, when he bothered to answer at all, was that he didn't much care about catching anything—he just liked to fish. And as nearly as we could tell, he never even took the trouble to bait his hook.

Burglar Donates Five Cans Of Coffee to Church Social

PEORIA, Ill. — Mrs. Beatrice Johnson issued an appeal for contributions of coffee and canned goods for a church social.

The next morning she found five cans of coffee on her porch. Grateful but suspicious, she notified police. Investigators found that a burglar had smashed a nearby store window and stolen his church-social offering from the window display.

ONE DAY A BOY named Terry, the most promising juvenile delinquent on Avenue A, swiped a mackerel from a fish stand, dove off the dock when Moe wasn't looking and hooked the fish onto his line. And when the tetcher one began to pull in his "catch," his hands shook so violently that the fish looked alive.

Before he could get wise to the deception, however, one of the kids grabbed the mackerel out of his hand and hacked its head off with a jackknife. Crazy Moe cursed at us for five minutes—and it wasn't because he wanted to stuff and mount the fish, he just wanted to throw the poor thing back.

There was another day when this same Terry decided it was time I learned how to swim, and when I tried to ward him off with the wily dialectics of a seven-year-old he began calling me "sissy" and "yella belly." Finally, realizing there was no way to dodge the dunking, I stripped down to my shorts. Terry and another kid grabbed hold of me, gave me a cou-

THE FICTION CORNER

POLICE GUARD

By Richard H. Wilkinson

OLD Man Bursley phoned in to headquarters about 6:30 P.M. one evening. His voice was quite calm and unruffled.

"I've just been held up and robbed," he explained. "I think if you go to No. 302 Market street you'll find not only the bandits, but the money."

"Wait a minute," said Deke Miller. "What is this? Let's have a few particulars." "I suggest," cut in Old Man Bursley, "that you get down to 302 Market street at once."

Deke hesitated. "Where are you now, Mr. Bursley?"

"I'm at my office at 1102 Main street." "O.K. You stay there till we get back," Deke hung up and nodded to me. "Come on," he said. "It sounds screwy, but you like screwy set-ups."

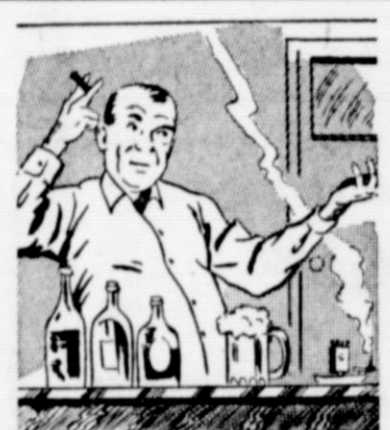

Old Man Bursley owned and operated one of the city's biggest department stores. There were about 300 people in his employ and he personally supervised the making up of payroll envelopes.

I asked Deke about details of the hold-up as the police car rushed us downtown.

"I don't know any," he said shortly. "Bursley simply told us to go to 302 Market and we'd find the money and the bandits."

The address at Market street was a saloon. We got out and went inside. "Where's the boss?" Deke asked. The barkeeper shot a quick glance toward a rear door, wet his lips and shook his head. "He ain't in."

Deke headed for the rear door.

The bartender shot a quick glance toward a rear door, wet his lips and shook his head. "He ain't here," he said.

He banged it open. Three men were sitting around a table and on the table was a heap of money and pay envelopes.

There was a lot of excitement during the next 15 minutes. No one but Deke Miller could have handled the situation so adroitly. He stood with his back to the wall at the farther end of the room with a gun in his hand while I called headquarters.

WE saw the three gangsters safely away in a patrol wagon, then returned to the police car.

"Where to?" I asked Deke.

"Bursley's department store. I don't mind telling you I'm burning up with curiosity."

"Me too," I agreed.

SO WE DROVE up to Bursley's and a watchman let us in and told us that Mr. Bursley was still in his office. Bursley was sitting there calmly reading the evening paper.

"Did you get the money back?" he asked.

"Yes," said Deke.

"Thought you would," said Bursley.

"What made you think so?" Deke asked.

"Eh?" said Bursley. "Oh, well that's where they phoned before leaving here. I and my assistant were locked in that closet. We heard them phone."

"Do you mean to say," Deke asked "that they were stupid enough to give away their hide-out by phoning from here?"

Bursley chuckled. "It amounts to that, though they didn't know it. They used that phone. Dial, you know. Didn't have to speak a number so figured no one could check back." I counted the clicks. Easy. You count the clicks of the dial when she goes back, and you can figure what number anybody's calling."

It's quite a jolt when you find an ordinary citizen as calm and level-headed in time of emergency as a cop should be.

Deke cleared his throat. "Mr. Bursley, I'd like to remind you again that it is dangerous the way you make up your payroll. Now—"

"Tut, tut, tut," said Bursley. "I've taken care of that. Beginning next week I'm having the envelopes made up at the bank. Also I'm paying off by check. Besides that, I'm having a police guard to watch over things." Yes, sir, gentlemen, I've decided I ought to have a police guard to keep an eye on things."

Calumet Farm Makes Profit Grazing Cattle

Famous Horse Farm Handles 200 Yearly

Proud-faced titans of the turf world and white-faced hereford steers share the lush Kentucky blue grass carpeting the 1,200 acres of pastures at Calumet farm, Lexington, Ky.

Calumet is grazing some 200 head of hereford steers shipped in last April from the panhandle of Texas. They are bought as long yearlings and grazed through Noember. Their average grain ranges in the neighborhood of forty pounds per month.

Since Calumet is not equipped to fatten cattle for the market, manager J. P. Ebelhardt has keyed his cattle grazing to the eight-month program.

"We find," he says, "our net profit amounts to as much in this shorter period of time as if we had carried them on a feeding program for 12 months."

Ebelhardt and his staff of helpers also prefer herefords "because they seem a quieter type of cattle and handle well in moving from pasture to pasture."

Farmers Use Larger Part Of Income for Fertilizer

Farmers spend a larger proportion of their income for fertilizer than they did before the war, a recent survey revealed. The average amount used, however, may still be no more than half the amount that could be used economically.

A fairly general standard is that a farm should be using the equivalent of 100 to 200 pounds of single strength fertilizer per year for each tillable acre in the farm. A farm of 160 tillable acres using 150 pounds per tillable acre per year would require 12 tons of fertilizer per year.

For most economical operation it seems certain that crop expense is not an item to reduce but one that the average farmer needs to increase. For example, good seed is high priced, but generally the increase in yield offsets the added cost.

Atomic Farmer

Aaron Ganz of Chicago, the "atomic farmer" who has grown radioactive tobacco plants, received his doctor of philosophy degree in pharmacology at the University of Chicago.

Ganz, working at the university's "atomic farm," grew tobacco plants in a container radioactive carbon dioxide. Minute doses of nicotine extracted from the radioactive plants was injected into rats and mice for the purposes of studying the behavior of nicotine in the human body. Ganz's tests showed that the body quickly gets rid of nicotine. The liver was shown to pick up more of the nicotine than any other organ, the brain the least.

Heifers Should Be Bred By Weight — Not Age

Many dairymen have calving troubles in heifers even though they don't breed them until they are 15 to 16 months old, specialists report. These calving difficulties are usually due to small heifers that have not been grown out properly, the specialists said.

Feeding of proper growing ration will mature heifers quicker and start them on the road to production.

Rural Homemakers Vote For White Bathrooms

According to a recent survey American rural housewives want their bathroom in white. In a nationwide survey, green was the preferred color, because city housewives liked that color.

But in the rural areas more than 24 per cent picked white, and green wasn't even ranked among the four most popular colors. Only 17 per cent of all homemakers preferred white.

Effective Cough Syrup, Mixed at Home for Economy

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving. Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, and is still one of the most effective for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Make a syrup with 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup water. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

HOT FLASHES?

Are you going through the functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women (38-52 years)? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel so nervous, high-strung, tired? Then do try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms! Regular use of Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against this annoying middle-age distress.

Personal To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exercising, smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slow down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complaints of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor kidney irritation due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretion.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Nurse Tells How Hadacol Was So Helpful To Her

Supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin Which Her System Lacked

Mrs. Jennie Lee Adele, 412 N. 27 St., East St. Louis, Ill., a nurse, says she wishes she had found out about HADACOL sooner because since taking HADACOL she feels so good. Mrs. Adele was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Adele's own statement: "I have been a nurse for over 14 years. My food never seemed to agree with me. I heard one day how so many folks were being helped because of HADACOL. I tried it and after 3 bottles I could tell a big improvement. Now I eat anything I want—sleep well and I am full of energy."

WHY HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results

HADACOL does not bring just symptomatic relief. HADACOL now makes it possible to actually relieve the cause of aches and pains in the shoulders, legs and arms, certain nervous disturbances, and a general run-down weakened condition due to such deficiencies.

So what are you waiting for? Don't you see that HADACOL is the kind of product you need—the kind you should buy and the kind you should start taking immediately!

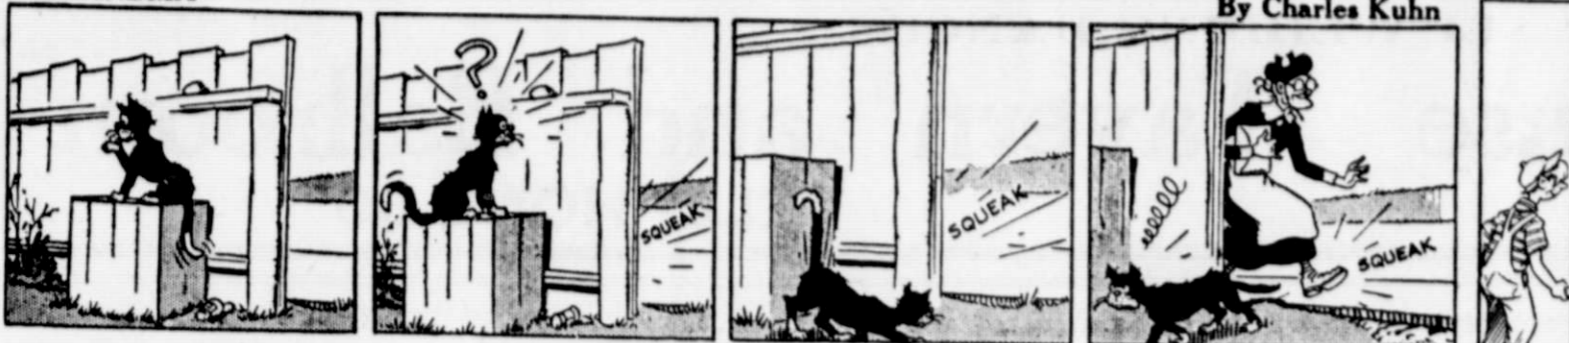

Sold On A Strict Money-Back Guarantee

HADACOL even helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when iron is needed) to course through your body, carrying these great health-building elements to every body organ. No wonder HADACOL helps you feel wonderful. Be fair to yourself! Give yourself a break if you have such deficiencies! Why continue to drag yourself around—a burden to yourself and your family—when relief may be as close at hand as your nearest drug store if you suffer a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. This great HADACOL is inexpensive, too—costs only a small amount a day. Trial size, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you're 100% satisfied.—Adv. © 1959, The LeBlanc Corporation.

Use Chewing-Gum Laxative - REMOVES WASTE...NOT GOOD FOOD

When you can't sleep—feel just awful because you need a laxative—do as millions do—chew FEEN-A-MINT.

FEEN-A-MINT is wonderfully different! Doctors say many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon...right in the stomach.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food!

Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel 100% fine, full of life! 25¢, 50¢, or only 10¢
