CARVE A TURKEY Carving a Turkey Requires Sharp Knives, Know-How and Practice

There really is a way to carve a Christmas turkey so that the meat can be served in attractive slices, but it takes know-how, practice and a good sharp knife.

That's the word from the Ekco Products company, the people who make Flint cutlery. The firm's experimental kitchen went to work and came up with the following suggestions for a fast and easy job of turkey carving.

First, plan your schedule so that the turkey is out of the oven 20 or 30 minutes before it is to be served, if possible. This gives the meat a chance to absorb the juices, and it will be easier to carve.

Then, with a sharp knife begin to slice:

REMOVE LEG (thigh or second joint and drumstick). Hold the drumstick firmly with fingers, pulling gently away from turkey body.

At the same time cut through skin between leg and body.

PRESS LEG AWAY FROM BODY WITH FLAT SIDE OF KNIFE. Then cut through joint joining leg to backbone and skin on the back.

Hold leg on service plate with drumstick at a convenient angle to plate. Separate drumstick and thigh by cutting down through the joint to the plate.

SLICE DRUMSTICK MEAT. Hold drumstick upright at a convenient angle to plate and, turning drumstick to get uniform slices.

SLICE THIGH MEAT. Hold thigh firmly on plate with a fork. Cut slices of meat parallel to the bone.

CUT INTO WHITE MEAT PARALLEL TO WING. Make a cut deep into the breast to the body frame parallel to and as close to the wing as possible.

SLICE WHITE MEAT. Beginning at front, starting halfway up the breast, cut thin slices of white meat down to the cut made parallel to wing. The slices will fall away from the turkey as they are cut to this line.

Remove individual servings of stuffing from opening cut into side of the turkey where leg has been removed. Limit your garnish to a little parsley or salad greens. Anything more handicaps the carver.

It has often been said that carving is becoming a lost art in the American home, but not as much so as many people believe. The head of the family who has the know-how, or who will follow the above instructions which are very simple, will find carving the Christmas turkey a pleasure.

The man of the household will find that his family and guests will take pleasure in watching him. The ceremony will add distinction to the dinner and give it an atmosphere of friendliness.

Many men are afraid of carving simply because they fear something terrible will happen, like letting the fowl slip from the platter, smashing the china and finally coming to rest on the floor. Such a scene is hilarious in the movies, but seldom occurs at the Christmas dinner table.

To make sure it does not happen use a long pronged fork with a guard. An ordinary dinner fork does not penetrate the bird deep enough to give the carver leverage with which to hold the bird firmly.

As each slice is carved relay it to the plate being served immediately. An accumulation will only hinder the carver and increase the chances for an accident.

The broad-breast turkey of 10 pounds or so which has become popular with American families in recent years has also reduced the hazards of carving. The man of the family who plans to carve the Christmas turkey for the first time this year might mention the fact to his wife and make plans to have such a bird.

There are two other points for the amateur carver to remember. Have the bird removed from the oven in plenty of time for it to cool before starting to carve. And above all, don't rush with the carving. Take your time and the job will be done with ease and without accident.

Carving the turkey need not be a messy and disagreeable task for the man of the house. A sharp knife is essential. Then take your time and follow the instruction given in the above story.

INSPIRATION Goal: Perfection

AN EDITORIAL

PRACTICE BRINGS PERFECTION. Every great painter, writer, or musician is the product of intense training. The same is true for any occupation. Practice alone makes good typists, good carpenters, or good cooks.

If practice is necessary for high proficiency in the temporal sphere, it is even more essential in the spiritual life. Man is called to spiritual perfection so that one day he may be united forever to God. This is the ultimate, supreme goal of his life.

To achieve greatness as a scientist, engineer or artist a man must possess certain talents. These talents, without which he cannot rise even to the level of mediocrity, are given to him by God. In the natural order talents vary in degree and kind. In the spiritual order, however, each man is given enough talent to carry him to the heights of perfection. This talent is the grace of God—a free gift available to all who wish to use it.

Those who aspire to the full flowering of their spiritual talent must practice to an ever-increasing degree the virtues of faith, hope and charity. Charity, above all, must be the guide and textbook of their lives. Through practice of the great virtues comes the complete surrendering of self which is the proof of perfection. With this practice comes also the ability and readiness to look at all life through the eyes of God.

In the surrender of self, man discovers the paradoxical truth that the way of spiritual greatness is the way of constant humility. He learns that true wisdom means a child-like confidence in God, and an unswerving hope in His bounty and mercy.

The spiritually mature are never discouraged or dismayed by the seeming triumph of sin in the world. They know that God's Providence is always working surely and silently for good. When they practice charity it is not in vain gratitude or esteem, but to be the messengers and agents of God's love.

Souls made perfect by practice are not tempted to pride as men might be whom the world acclaims for their high talents.

The above editorial and other materials appearing in this column were prepared by Religious News Service.

Widespread medical research has exploded many earlier theories such as that some people are born to be fat and can't lose weight no matter how rigidly they diet; that some people are fat because they have more efficient digestions and retain more of the nourishment from their food; that thyroid or other gland abnormalities are frequent causes of excess weight.

Two sad, homely facts about the problems of excess weight have simmered out of all this medical research:

Sad Fact No. 1: People become overweight simply because they eat more food than their bodies need. Children get fat for exactly the same reason.

Sad Fact No. 2: The only practical, safe way to reduce is to eat less food. There is no shortcut, no "safe, easy way."

Proper exercise is healthful, but as a reducer it is more work than it is worth. You need to climb twenty flights of stairs to lose the weight put on by one extra slice of bread. Leaving out the excess food is easier on you in every way.

Drugs Are Unsafe No effective and harmless reducing drug is known to medical science, with the exception of thyroid extract when used in those rare cases where thyroid deficiency is actually the cause of excess fat. At least 99 per cent of all overweight people have no thyroid trouble, and will find the extract useless. The three main ways in which so-called "reducing prescriptions" work, if they work at all, are: By numbing the appetite, by disturbing bodily functions, or by small-scale poisoning; the appetite-numbing type of drug is occasionally prescribed in limited amounts by a physician to make it easier for a patient to stick to a reducing diet, but such preparations should never be used except if and as prescribed by your doctor.

When anyone makes up his mind to reduce, it is wise to have the diet prescribed by a physician, to make sure it is properly balanced, and contains plenty of vitamins and minerals. The dieter should get a good bathroom scale and weigh himself or herself, stripped, before breakfast each day. A severe cut in the amount of food usually works out best; results are so slow that a mild out in eating that the dieter grows discouraged. The first three days on a reducing diet are the hardest; then the stomach adjusts to the smaller amount of food taken in, and staying with the program becomes much easier. Once the goal is achieved and you are finally down to your correct weight, look out, warns the report—you can get the fat back much faster and easier than you lost it. Keep on weighing yourself "in the raw" each morning and avoid having to do the job all over.

Religion Question Box

Q: Where were the first Presbyterian churches in America established? A: In Virginia, New England, Maryland and Delaware, during the early 17th century. The first Presbyterians came mainly from northern Ireland and Scotland, but also from the Netherlands and France.

Q: Who were the Manassees? A: One of the twelve tribes of Israel. Moses assigned a part of the territory east of the Jordan to one-half of the tribe, and Jesus gave a section in Palestine proper to the remaining half.

Q: What were the Jesuit Rings? A: Rings made of brass or bronze, with an elliptic disk or seal, given by Jesuit missionaries in the 17th century to their pupils in Oneida, N. Y. The rings were awarded to those who could repeat on Sunday what they had been taught.

Q: What is the Holy Rood? A: The name applied to the True Cross or any representation of it.

Q: What is Homiletics? A: The science or study of composing and preaching sermons, so-called from homily, the name applied to familiar explanations of the Gospel.

French Protestantism Is Now Facing Crisis

PARIS—Unless French Protestantism strengthens its shaky position" it faces a strong decline, according to an article in Christianity in the 20th century, official organ of the French reformed church.

The article was written by Pastor Henri Eberhard, who appealed for "a well-defined and well thought-out policy of reform and a renewal of the Church before it is too late."

Pastor Eberhard also called for "a more progressive attitude among the faithful, whom he accused of 'egotism and self-interest.'"

"If the influence and authority of French Protestantism remains considerable in Europe and the world, it is because of an illustrious past," the pastor wrote. "But if French Protestantism does not find a means now of strengthening its shaky position and practical solutions for its problems, its prestige will rapidly decline."

Pastor Eberhard traced many of the problems to migration.

Child Psychiatrists Condemn Textbook By Swedish Bishop

STOCKHOLM—A special committee of the Swedish Association of Child Psychiatrists has condemned a confirmation textbook written by Bishop Bo Gieritz of Gothenburg as unsuitable in both form and content.

The committee, in a report to the Royal Medical Board, claimed there is a great risk that the book can produce symptoms of illness in psychically sensitive young people.

The report is the latest development in a unique religious controversy which began when a Swedish doctor asked the authorities to intervene against the book on the ground that it is mentally unhygienic. The book, "Grunden" (The Foundation), has sold about 90,000 copies.

In general, the textbook was criticized by the committee for its alleged hard, categorical tone and lack of an understanding, loving spirit; for its description of the battle between God and the devil, which the psychiatrists said is "horrifying and productive of anxious fears," and for the illustrations, which were called inartistic and simplified in such a way that they must have a frightening effect.

The committee criticized a statement in Bishop Gieritz' book that ". . . to separate from your husband or wife is to separate yourself from God." Children of broken homes are especially likely to be sensitive, the committee said, and this sentence and others like it carry a risk of mental damage to them.

A statement that illness can be a punishment from God, the committee contended, can imply the same kind of danger for children who come from a home where someone is chronically ill. The same applies to alcoholics, it added, and to Bishop Gieritz' statement, "a Christian is always sober."

Youths' Hero Choice Causes Grave Concern

NORTH KINGSTOWN, R. I. — Choice of Betty Grable and Hopalong Cassidy among the chief heroes by boys and girls in a recent nationwide poll should give pause to church and youth leaders, Canon Frederick H. Belden, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church here, declared in a sermon.

Particularly disturbing, he said, is the fact that "less than two per cent listed Jesus" in the poll.

"That isn't saying that both Miss Grable and Mr. Cassidy aren't very fine people," Canon Belden said. "They're certainly at the peak, so-called, of their professions."

"But isn't it a shame that we're not giving our youngsters the kind of insight into the character of Jesus so that they want to claim Him and other Christ-inspired persons as heroes too?"

Catholic Nun Gets Military Funeral

NEW ORLEANS — Sister Regina Purtell, the "Florence Nightingale of the Spanish-American War," was buried here with full military honors.

Army officials said they believed it was the first time in history that a military funeral had been given a Roman Catholic nun.

Sister Purtell, who was 84 when she died at dePaul Sanitarium here, nursed Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders at the turn of the century and was well known in hospitals throughout the United States.

She had lived in semi-retirement for the past 15 years at Providence Hospital in Mobile, Ala. A few weeks ago, she was sent to dePaul when her health started to fail.

Government Hits Church

LONDON — Poland's Communist-dominated government has protested against the alleged failure of the Polish Roman Catholic hierarchy to observe one of the terms of the Church-State agreement.

In a note sent to Bishop Zygmunt Choromanski, secretary to the Episcopate, the Warsaw government complained that the hierarchy had failed to live up to Point Three of the agreement.

Point Three stipulated that, "based itself on the premise that the recovered territories (annexed from Germany) form an inseparable part of the Republic, the Episcopate shall address a request to the Holy See that Church administrations now holding the rights of residential bishoprics shall be converted into permanent episcopal dioceses."

The government note declared that the hierarchy had failed to carry out the pledge, "thereby violating it and harming the interests of the Polish State."

Household Hints

If a screw-cap is tight, grasp it with a piece of coarse sand paper and twist. Or slip a wide rubber band around the lid. Or put the cap of the jar or bottle in an open door jamb, close the door far enough to make it tighten up on the cap, and then twist the bottle. Go easy with the door though, or you may break the glass container.

When a bottle is emptied, keep the cork. Such corks are handy to use when partially filled bottles lose their stoppers, especially when they're kept in the refrigerator. Making corks out of rolled up paper wads allows air and food odors to get into the bottles, and won't prevent spilling if the bottle is tipped over.

To preserve the rubber gasket around the refrigerator door, and to kill the rubbery odor that sometimes arises from it, dip a cloth in a solution of two teaspoonfuls of bicarbonate of soda and a glass of warm water, and wash the gasket with that. When it's thoroughly dry, coat it with talcum powder or cornstarch.

If you have to go off and leave them for a few days, plants can be made to water themselves. Set a pan of water next to the plant, and place a strip of flannel with one end in the water, the other wrapped around the base of the plant. Through the principle of osmosis, enough moisture will be conveyed from the pan to the plant to keep it alive.

Czechs Reported Using Bible To Aid Communism

VIENNA—A group of officials attached to the State Office for Church Affairs in Prague is busy compiling all parts of the Bible which could be applied to Communism, Czech refugees said here. The refugees said the Prague Communist regime apparently hopes that by a new explanation of Christ's teachings it may be able to justify its measures against the Roman Catholic Church. The regime also seems to think, the informants added, that it can persuade pious Catholics, especially in the rural regions, that they are acting against Christian commandments when they resist collectivist and cooperative farm programs. A campaign of speeches and newspaper articles is under way to prepare the people for the new Communist interpretations of Christian teachings. They pointed to a recent speech in Moravska Ostrava by J. Leichman, a prominent member of the Communist-controlled People's Party. In his speech, the refugees said, Mr. Leichman told a group of miners and peasants that "every Catholic in Czechoslovakia must eliminate his old liberalistic opinion on property."

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS VOTE TO SPONSOR SIRE PROJECT IN 1951

Spurred on by the success of the 4-H and F.F.A. sire sale held recently, the directors of the Washington County Holstein Breeders' association voted unanimously to sponsor another sire project for the coming year. The association agreed to support the project with the necessary sire calves of an acceptable age. The directors in approving the project expressed a desire to limit the number of calves to twenty or fewer. They also emphasized the fact that only the calves from the very best cows in the herd should be consigned to the project. All boys taking agriculture in the four high schools of the county having agricultural departments should enroll for this project with their instructors. All 4-H boys should enroll with the agricultural extension office, post office building, West Bend. Enrollments will close Jan. 1, 1951. Preference will be given in the order in which enrollments are received. Breeders wishing to consign calves should notify the extension office. Since only top quality calves are to be accepted for the project, all calves consigned will be checked by the committee in charge.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Chinese Delegation Charges U. S. With Aggression in Korea, China; U. N. Forces Face Defeat in Korea

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

The "big-win-the-war" push got underway (1) in Korea with the 24th division driving on Chongju. Other UN forces aimed toward Taechon. The big offensive was touched off by a frontline visit of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who flew from Tokyo to Sinanju (2). He also flew over Sinuju (3) the Suifu dam (4), Hyesanjin (5), and over the Changin reservoir area (6). Superforts bombed Manpojin (7) in one of the war's big raids.

UNITED NATIONS: Is It War or Peace?

Fear gripped the United Nations security council when U. S. delegate Warren B. Austin asked Red China's delegate Wu Hsiu-Chuan, "Will there be war or peace in the Far East?"

It was with these words that the United States charged Red China with aggression in Korea; it was these words that created a feeling of fear never before felt in the United Nations. As one diplomat explained, it created such a great fear that those seated in the security council were afraid to speak lest the wrong words plunge the world into World War III.

Communist China had been invited to the council to debate the charge that the U. S. had committed aggression against Formosa. Instead the Chinese delegate charged the security of his country was endangered by U. S. aggression against Korea, and he asserted he was alarmed by the spread toward China of the "flames" of the U. S. "war of aggression." He demanded the withdrawal of United Nations troops from Korea and a seat in the United Nations for his country.

The American delegate charged China with aggression after General MacArthur reported there were 200,000 Chinese Communist soldiers in Korea and that the U. N. forces faced an entirely new war. Red China replied that the Chinese troops in Korea were volunteers and that Peiping will not stop their departure for the battle front.

Austin asked the Chinese delegate 20 direct questions which, in sum, boiled down to: Why had China thrown 200,000 troops into Korea against United Nations forces and what do you want? The Red delegate did not even answer Austin.

Observers who heard the exchange of charges were agreed that the world was closer to World War III than ever before. It was also evident that China had no intention of calling off its troops in Korea until U. N. forces had been defeated.

But more than this, the future of Asia seemed at stake. China's delegate charged the U. S. with aggression in the Philippines and other Asian countries. This would indicate, most observers felt, that China had mapped a program for the domination of the Far East comparable to that championed by Japan.

And as the diplomats talked and hurled charges and countercharges, the position of U. N. forces in Korea became more desperate. Their defeat would mean a blow to the United Nations from which that world organization may never recover.

The tone of Wu's security council speech was not new to U. N. delegates. It could have been written by the Russians. At one point Wu threatened the countries backing the United States not to "pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the United States—because if you support United States aggression you must bear the consequences of your actions."

Chinese Reds

KOREA: Chinese Attack

With Gen. Douglas MacArthur personally directing the start, U. N. forces in North Korea launched what was called the "big-win-the-war-push." Initial successes were reported by U. N. commanders, but Chinese Communist counterattacks stalled the drive and broke through the U. N. front at a number of points.

As many as 200,000 Chinese Communists were reported in North Korea, overrunning U. N. positions and threatening the entire army. The Reds were swiftly exploiting their breakthrough. They were reported swarming along "every road, gully and ridge line." As many as 21 divisions were reported to be in action.

The situation in Korea was so serious that General MacArthur told the non-Communist powers that they must decide quickly what to do about the grim prospect of "an entirely new war" against Red China. He went so far as to suggest that World War III had actually begun and could be stopped only by a last-minute political solution.

Overnight the military situation in Korea became desperate. MacArthur said Chinese Communists had already thrown "a major segment" of their armies into Korea. They have shown "the obvious intent and preparation" to reinforce this spearhead with perhaps 300,000 more men now on the move in Manchuria, he added.

Observers said that total defeat in Korea was not unlikely if some last minute action is not taken by the United Nations. It was no secret that military commanders wanted the authority to bomb supply centers and concentration points in Manchuria where the Communists have organized for the attack.

CONGRESS: The Politicians Fight

President Truman put several questions to the lameduck session of congress on the opening day and immediately the politicians began their wrangling. To the American listening to the depressing news from Korea and screams of a troubled world, the gentlemen in the senate and house appeared somewhat ridiculous, to put it mildly.

The administration asked for extension of rent controls, statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, increased taxation to meet budget requirements, and increased defense appropriations.

Most observers believe the rent control extension measure is doomed to defeat. Republican senators said it could wait. What the delay is for no one knows, unless it is to tighten the squeeze on the little man.

A bitter and possibly long fight was indicated in both houses over the administration's call for an excess-profits tax. Even the proposed legislation granting statehood to Alaska and Hawaii seemed in for a knock down and drag out fight.

Republican leaders, buoyed by election victories, seemed determined to have a greater say in the nation's foreign policy. Many observers believe if they could collect Secretary of State Acheson's scalp they would be satisfied.

This wrangling of the politicians is getting results in one way, however. The American public is on the verge of screaming fits. More than anything else the average American would like to see some degree of unity in congress at a time when the nation faces a serious crisis.

ATOMIC POWER: To Reveal Secrets

The announcement that the United States, Great Britain and Canada had agreed to release data relating to "low-power" nuclear reactors was greeted by most observers as one of the most important decisions in regard to the question of atomic secrecy to be made by the three powers.

The agreement permits the publication of information necessary to the design, construction and operation of four U. S. low-power reactors as a means of stimulating atomic-energy development in the countries, particularly for peace-time application.

The atomic energy commission said the three governments agreed that the release of the information under the revised guide will speed the training of nuclear-reactor engineers and technicians and will hasten atomic-energy development in these countries, particularly for peace-time applications.

Before such a reactor can be built by a private institution, however, the permission of the government to use the necessary fissionable materials is required.

SECURITY LAW: Wheels Begin to Turn

The first step against the Communist party under the subversive control act, passed by the last session of congress, was taken when the justice department filed a petition with the subversive activities control board to force Communists in this country to register.

Thus the wheels of law begin to grind under an act that has been criticized as unwarranted.

The 4,800 word petition, signed by Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, charged the Communist party of the United States with being run by the government of Soviet Russia.

The Communist party refused to register voluntarily under the internal security law and is expected to fight the petition.

Sen. Richardson, chairman of the control board, said the hearings on the petition might be expected to run for months.

Tragedy

Two trains on the Long Island railroad smashed into each other in one of the bloodiest wrecks in the nation's history. Seventy-seven dead and 332 injured were removed from the wreck which has touched off an investigation of the railroad on which another crash a few months earlier took a toll of 33 dead and 125 injured.

A-BOMB: Use Is Vetoed

American military leaders considered, but voted against using the atom bomb on massed Communist troops early in the Korean war.

Authoritative sources said the proposal had been advanced simultaneously but independently by army and air force officers when the bulk of the North Korean army was concentrated in a small area near the town of Suwon. Moral reasons entered into the decision.

At the time the proposal was made, U. S. authorities were seeking wide support for the stand against Red aggression in Korea, and feared that world sympathy might be alienated by hasty resort to universally dreaded atomic warfare.

The potential A-bomb target was a triangular piece of fairly flat land, with the town of Suwon at its apex. The triangle measured 25 miles on each side, and within its boundaries were several Red divisions. It would have required upward of 200

AMERICAN COMMUNISTS

Jury Indicts Six Top U. S. Communists

A federal grand jury ordered contempt of congress prosecution against former Communist boss Earl Browder and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, New York millionaire and alleged "angel" of Red causes. The jury also indicted Philip Jacob Jaffe, former editor of the defunct Amerasia magazine and a key figure in the 1945 "stolen secrets" case.

Meanwhile, the supreme court refused to postpone argument on the conspiracy conviction of 11 U. S. Communist party leaders, but granted them permission to employ a British lawyer.

The 11 asked a delay so D. N. Pritt, former leftist member of the house of commons, would have time to get to this country.

At stake is the constitutionality of the Smith Act under which the 11 leaders were convicted last year on charges of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of this government.

WINTER: Great November Storm

Winter descended on 22 eastern states with one of the greatest November storms on record, causing damage estimated in the hundreds of millions and at least 266 deaths from cold and exhaustion.

Industry and business was stagnated in a wide area as record snow was recorded. The hardest hit states were New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Prince of Thebes Tomb

The amazing picture at the right is the burial palace as it looks today excavated to the first level. Openings on the right and left lead down to burial chambers where members of the Mentemhet family were found. Note how 2,700 years of sand and gravel have built up over the tomb. This discovery was made near the famous Valley of the Kings where 60 Egyptian Pharaohs were buried amidst splendor the world has never equaled. Workmen below carry out a coffin, a 2,700-year-old mummy which was found in a remarkable state of preservation. Great expense and labor went into the tombs of high-born Egyptians of ancient times.

The tomb of the High Priest Mentemhet, Prince of Thebes, governor of Upper Egypt 700 years before Christ, was discovered near Luxor on the Nile after three years of excavations. Egyptian government officials announced the find, buried 150 feet under sand and rock within a "stone's throw" of the temple of Queen Hatshepsut, history's first great woman ruler. Pictured at the left is the huge statue of Queen Hatshepsut. She was queen of Egypt nearly 3,000 years ago and personally led expeditions that spread Egypt's trade and culture over the Middle East. Mentemhet held the title of "Sacerdota (priestly) Primacy of Egypt" and was one of the wealthiest of all Egyptian priests. His burial temple, discovered in almost perfect condition, reflects the pomp and pageantry of the Egyptian kingdom of that period.

Archaeologists are still searching in the Valley of Kings for the tombs of 10 undiscovered kings of the 21st dynasty buried there in 900 B. C. And Egyptian government officials are still searching for the most fabulous of all, the tomb of Cleopatra. According to legends and the history of Egypt, treasure worth $200,000,000 is believed to have been buried with her. At left is the picture of a mummy after 30 centuries of mummification. The mummy is a priest and is in a remarkable state of preservation. Modern science with all its resources has been unable to discover the secret used by the Egyptians to preserve the bodies of nobles and priests. Even the features of the mummy can be distinguished in this case.

Without Painful Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slow down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headache and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years! While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 million kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

BILL OF RIGHTS

Hysteria Is a Chronic Disease That Thrives on National Fear

This is the last of three articles on the Bill of Rights and Bill of Rights Day which will be celebrated December 15.

Hysteria is a chronic national disease which thrives in an atmosphere of fear. It is an illness which has gripped our nation before and which is flaring up again as we face the threat of communism and take steps to meet that threat.

Hysteria over national security legislation is not new in American history. Shown here in clash in Congress in 1798 during debate on the Alien and Sedition Acts.

Charlie Employs Strategy to Out-Maneuver Ice Digger

By BILLY ROSE

At least four times in the past week I've been buttonholed on Broadway and asked, "Have you heard what happened to Charlie Felitus?"

For as long as I can remember, Charlie Felitus has been a promoter of things and people, and by and large he has always made a pretty nice dollar at it.

Billy Rose

In recent months, to hear the wisemen tell it, it's been rough going for Charlie in both departments seeing as how (a) most of his earnings have been going into the jewel box of a platinum-mopeded tuxedo named Hazel Duke, and (b) his luck at the race track has been as Damon Runyon used to put it—a whole lot less than somewhat.

Hazel. "And while we're having this heart-to-heart, I might as well tell you I've been thinking of calling it quits. Don't slam the door, sucker."

NATURALLY, Charlie was hurt by this kiss-off, especially after his many blue-white kindnesses to the little lady, but he was an old campaigner and so he left without breaking her arm or doing anything else ungentlemanly.

The next day Hazel got a phone call from Butch Fleson, the bookie. "Hello, beautiful," he said. "I hear tell you've given Charlie the brush and—"

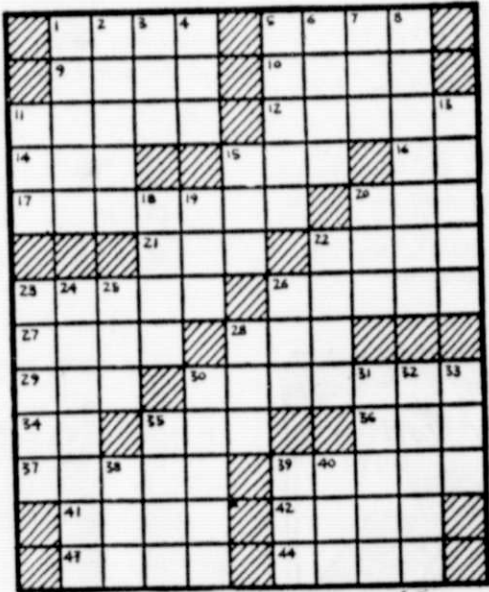

"You want to pick it up where he left off," laughed Hazel. "Okay by me, and you can begin by taking me to dinner."

"An hour and four Martinis later, Butch phoned Hazel at the restaurant. 'I got jammed up,' he said, 'but I'll be over in a few minutes. Have them ice up a couple of quarts of champagne and order the biggest double steak in the house. I'm starved.'"

THE FICTION CORNER

MAN OF MYSTERY

By Lula W. Kellams

AT 3:30 Eddie House called his wife from the office. "Know what I've been thinking about, angel?—Herring! My mouth's simply drooling. What's for supper?"

"Your favorite menu, supper special . . ."

Eddie g o a n e d. "That's too elaborate, baby, I only want herring. Just herring . . . Evelyn!—I are you listening?"

There was silence, then a click in his ear. "There was wife and e r s t and ing! And just because a man got a hankering for herring!"

Soon, however, he grinned. She'd have the herring, all right. That was Evelyn's way, flying off the handle, then after consideration, humoring him.

He had gone to work by bus that morning because Evelyn needed the car for some special shopping, she said. To be sure of a healthy appetite for the herring, he decided to walk home.

Pausing when he reached his own back door, Eddie clocked his hike, proud of the four minutes clipped from last trip's walking time.

By 9, Hazel had polished off most of the porterhouse and all the champagne, but there was still no sign of Butch. Finally, plenty peeved, she told herself that no horse hustler was going to make her wait around with ketchup on her mouth.

Five MINUTES later the manager appeared. "I'm sorry," he said, "but I just phoned Mr. Fleson and he says he had no appointment here tonight."

"Okay," said Hazel wearily. "I'll leave this bracelet as security and come in tomorrow to pay you."

The manager took the bracelet and beckoned to a stoutish girl who was sitting at the bar.

"You can explain it in court," said the detective. "In the meantime, hand the stuff over. I'll let you go home tonight but I'd suggest you don't try to leave town."

When Hazel got to her apartment she found a sheet of paper under the door. It was a duplicate of the jewelry list the "detective" had shown her. At the bottom was a message in Charlie's familiar scrawl:

"Butch Fleson thanks you, and the syndicate thanks you, and I thank you. Don't slam the door, sucker."

Evelyn squealed with delight when she saw the coat. "You're the best husband a girl ever had, darling."

could he have forgotten? Days ago he had scribbled down this reminder, to be sure.

Furtively he glanced at the high kitchen windows. There stood Evelyn, her head and her shoulders framed in glass like she were a beautiful portrait. She was working at the sink and she was crying.

Eddie felt like a heel. No wonder she had used the car to shop, and had fixed his favorite menu. She had remembered, while he—he had requested herring for supper!

He watched Evelyn sniffle and blink tears. He stood on the stoop, considering. If he went home with a girl, he might convince her the herring was a gag.

All the stores would be closed by now—unless Old Jan, the jeweler, was still tinkering in his shop.

BECAUSE EDDIE thought Evelyn might miss the car if he took it, he walked to the nearest drug store and phoned for a cab. Thirteen minutes passed before it came.

"Hurry!" begged Eddie. "Jan might remember to close on time." Jan had closed on time. He returned slowly to the cab.

"Flowers are always appreciated," suggested the driver. "That's an idea!"

They drove to Marley's Flower Shoppe—and found it locked. He just had to find something! He couldn't go home empty-handed and face a weeping wife.

He was moping toward the cab when inspiration hit him. "Hanfel, the furrier! My business neighbor! He'll come and open up for me."

"Wait twenty minutes," Hanfel said when Eddie called. "We're eating. I got herring, yet."

He waited forty-five minutes before Hanfel drove up. "I want a mink, size nine."

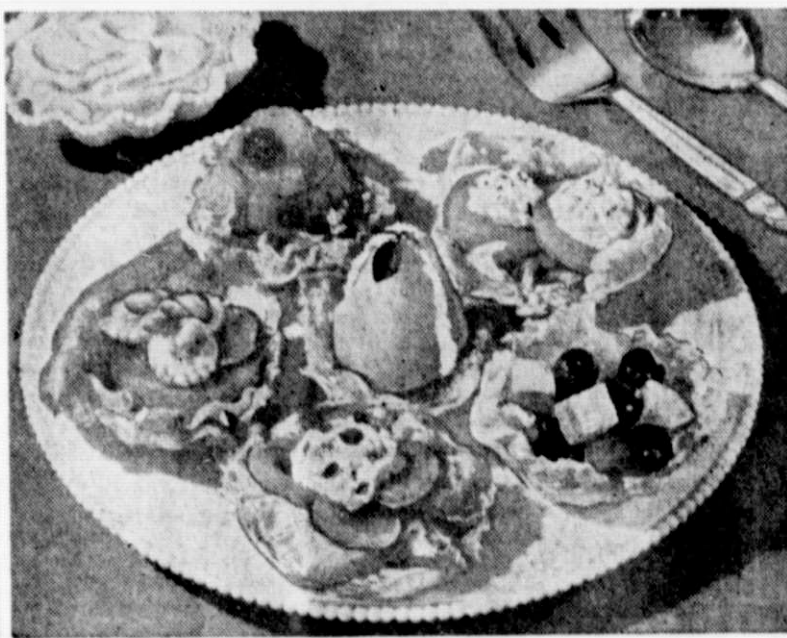

"A size nine mink, I don't have. I got a Russia Fitch jacket, size nine."

"Wrap it up," Eddie said, resigned. Evelyn must have been watching for him. She met him at the door. "Anything wrong, Eddie?"

"Flowers are always appreciated. The Russian Fitch jacket. 'It's a special day, honey—remember—'"

Evelyn squealed with delight and kissed him. "You're the best husband a girl ever had, darling. And I was afraid you'd forgotten our anniversary—Imagine!" She seemed scared suddenly. "Eddie!—You were kidding about the herring—!"

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Make your Prettiest Salads for Guests (See Recipes Below)

Party Salads EVERY WOMAN likes a compliment on a salad, especially one which she has prepared when entertaining. Picture-pretty salads are wonderful decorations for holiday tables, and they give a lift to menus which are full of hearty foods.

Fish salads molded in attractive shapes are excellent when the menu calls for extending the last of the sliced roast beef, ham or turkey. Made ahead of time to chill until firm, they'll also relieve a lot of last minute preparation.

Tuna Mousse (Serves 6) 2 cups aspic jelly (canned mardlene, consommé or tomato aspic) 1 cup puree of canned tuna fish 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin 1/2 cup cold water 1/2 teaspoon paprika 1 cup mayonnaise 1/4 cup whipped cream Salt

Coat fish or ring mold with aspic jelly by pouring the cold, but not quite jelled aspic into a chilled mold and tilting the mold in all directions until completely covered with jelly. (If desired, decorate mold by pressing sliced olives into jelly.) Put in refrigerator while mousse is being prepared. Puree tuna in a blender or by running it through a fine food chopper. Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat tomato juice and paprika in a saucepan. Add softened gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool, then stir in puree tuna. Add mayonnaise and whipped cream. Salt to taste. Pour into aspic-lined fish or ring mold. Chill thoroughly.

Seafood Mold, Green Goddess (Serves 4) Soften 1 tablespoon gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water; dissolve over hot water; cool slightly. Add 1/4 cup Green Goddess Dressing; 1 cup seafood (flaked crabmeat, salmon, or tuna; diced lobster; whole or cut-up shrimp) 1/2 cup finely chopped celery; 1/4 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives; salt to taste. Pour into an oiled mold; chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens.

Green Goddess Dressing (Makes 1 1/2 cups) 1 egg yolk 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar 1 tablespoon anchovy paste 1 cup salad oil 1/4 cup cream 1 tablespoon lemon juice 1 teaspoon onion juice Dash of garlic powder 2 tablespoons chopped chives or parsley

In a deep bowl, mix egg yolk, salt, mustard, vinegar, and anchovy paste. Add two tablespoons oil; beat with a rotary or electric beater until blended. Beat in remaining oil, two tablespoons at a time. Stir in rest of ingredients. Store in tightly covered jar in refrigerator until needed. At serving time, pour dressing over salad.

LYNN SAYS: Make Foods Festive With Holiday Tricks Those steamed puddings will taste excellent with a cinnamon sauce served hot or cold. Use juice drained from pears and season with cinnamon. Thicken with cornstarch and add butter while the sauce is hot.

Carrots can be festive if they're served with pineapple chunks. Out of the pineapple juice, make a thickened sauce with cornstarch to glaze the vegetables and fruit.

You'll like these Christmas snowballs for dessert. Roll scoops of ice cream in shredded coconut and spoon whole cranberry sauce over the balls.

If your tables need red and green touches, serve salads made with apples cooked and tinted red or green. Tastes but a minute, but oh they're so pretty!

Don't let the family spoil their dinner after a shopping tour. Give guests, then topped with sardines spread with mustard and a slice of cheese. Broil until cheese melts.

ing over mixed greens in a bowl and toss lightly with two forks. For a main dish salad, add sliced chicken, flaked crab meat or shrimp to the greens.

PRETTY FRUIT salads are easy to make, when you depend on "fix-ins" from the pantry shelf. Canned fruits are all ready to use—saving you precious time. As for variety, there are so many fruits available today in a number of can sizes that it's easy to find your favorites any time.

Try an arrangement of one or more of these salads on your nicest platter. Be sure your fruits are icy cold and well-drained—the secret to salad success.

Peach 'N Cottage Cheese — Place drained halves of canned cling peaches, cut side up, on salad greens. Top with cottage cheese to which chives have been added.

Pineapple Chunks 'N Cherries — Arrange drained canned pineapple chunks with dark sweet cherries on salad greens.

Molded Fruit Cocktail — Fold well-drained canned fruit cocktail into slightly thickened fruit gelatin. Use fruit cocktail syrup for part of the liquid. Mold as desired and chill until set. Unmold on salad greens.

Blushing Pear — Drain canned pear halves and put 2 halves together with softened cream cheese. If desired, sprinkle paprika on one side to make a "blush." Top with cream cheese and a short strip of green pepper or a leaf of watercress. Stand upright on salad greens.

*Grapefruit Surprise Salad (Serves 6) 1 No. 2 can grapefruit segments 1 3-ounce package orange or lemon-flavored gelatin 2 tablespoons sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 6 to 7 Maraschino cherries 1/4 3-ounce package cream cheese 2 tablespoons mayonnaise

Drain grapefruit segments, reserving juice. Add sufficient water to juice to make two cups liquid; heat to boiling point. Pour over gelatin dessert, to which sugar and salt have been added, and stir until dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Cut cherries petal fashion by quartering at stem end and place one in the bottom of each individual mold, spreading out the petals. Soften cream cheese; add mayonnaise and blend. Roll into balls and place one in the center of each cherry. Line molds with grapefruit segments. Pour slightly thickened gelatin carefully over grapefruit and cherries. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with watercress and serve with fruit salad dressing.

A quick casserole for shopping days before Xmas layers sweet potatoes in a baking dish, covers them with applesauce and tops with pork sausages. Bake in a moderate oven until sausages are cooked, about 30 minutes.

Brown sugar and cinnamon, mixed and spread over cooked sweet potatoes before baking will spice them nicely. Dot with butter.

Let your cranberry jelly or sauce take on a holiday air by mixing with mince-meat. Chill thoroughly before serving.

When you're staying up late wrapping gifts, try this for a snack: spread toast with deviled ham and serve with creamed peas.

If you've opened canned fruit for salads, make cocktails with the juices. They'll be delicious and festive when the juice is mixed with equal quantities of ginger ale and garnished with lemon slices and cherries.

Add a gay touch of red to your creamed soups like chicken, corn or mushroom for the holidays with bits of pimiento floating on top, or several dashes of paprika.

Ain't It So Reasoning with a child is fine, if you can reach the child's reason without destroying your own. No smile is so beautiful as the one that struggles through tears. Cherish all your happy moments, they make a fine cushion for old age.

Vegetarians The dinosaur might be called the "father of the vegetarians." Despite his great size, sometimes more than 40 tons, the monster fed only upon the tender leaves and foliage of tree tops.

America's Number One Antihistamine

Clarence L. McKinsey, 727 South Ludlow Street, Dayton, Ohio, who is night supervisor of hospital attendants at the Ohio State Hospital in Dayton, says a man has trouble getting used to working nights and sleeping days. And if a man isn't getting the proper rest it not only makes him groggy on the job, but also makes him feel poorly the rest of the time. This will never happen to him again, says Mr. McKinsey—now that he is taking HADACOL.

His system lacked those necessary Vitamins B, B, Iron, and Niacin, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mr. McKinsey's own statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I had a great deal of trouble with a nervous stomach. I had an awful hard time sleeping—I would just roll and toss all night. It affected me during my working hours, too—I was restless and nervous all the time. My nerves were so jumpy that the least little thing would put me on edge. I was just beside myself in knowing what to do. Then I heard how other folks that were nervous and rundown were being helped by HADACOL. I decided to try HADACOL. Now, after 10 bottles of HADACOL, I feel fine; in fact, I think so much of HADACOL I would walk 5 miles for a bottle of HADACOL—I'm not exaggerating. Why, the way I sleep and the appetite I have are marvelous. The best thing is that my nerves are calm as they can be. I just can't praise HADACOL enough."

Thousands Have Been Helped by HADACOL, whose systems lacked Vitamins B, B, Iron, and Niacin. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomach distress, certain nervous disorders, insomnia due to upset stomach, nagging aches and pains, and a general run-down condition when these troubles are caused by such deficiencies.

Give HADACOL A Chance . . . to help you, as it has helped thousands of others if you suffer such deficiencies. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL doesn't help you, get your money back.

If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied.—Adv.

Cat's Credit is Good, He Just Charges His Meals

CHERRY GROVE BEACH, S.C.—J. Carl Lynn's tomato has a charge account. The restaurant across the street from Lynn's store serves up hamburger and milk three times a day for Tom. He just purrs, "charge it, please." Lynn gets a monthly bill. "It's cheaper than taking time off to fix it myself," he explains. "And besides, it teaches him not to go sticking his head into tin cans."

Teachers of County Meet to Discuss Reading Texts

The Washington county elementary teachers are having their first discussion of professional reading texts. The book discussed during November was "Child Development and the Curriculum" by Arthur T. Jersild of Columbia University. The second book to be discussed during January will be "Audio-Visual Methods in Teaching" by Edgar Dale of Ohio State University.

The theme of study this year is the curriculum revision program. Last year, the theme was the child and his relationship to educational experiences. Each group of teachers is being guided in these informal meetings by Mr. Spitzke, county supervising teacher, and Mr. Sheski, county superintendent of schools.

The schedule used in November and the one to be followed in January from 2 to 5 p. m. are:

1. Child Development and the Curriculum.
Nov. 25—Slinger Grade school—Adrian Center, Allenton, Kohlsaville, Rugby Junction, Coney River, Lakeview, Richfield State Graded school—Richfield St. Graded, Germantown St. Graded, Plat St. Graded, Rockfield, Friess Lake, St. Augustine, Hillside, Belle Grove.

Nov. 29—Barton State Graded school—Barton St. Graded, Fillmore St. Graded, Mrs. Mulca, Boltonville St. Graded, Old Brick, Chicesville, North Trenton, Marx.

Nov. 30—Jackson State Graded school—Folk Dairy, Maple Hill, Mayfield, Edmwood, Jackson St. Graded, Rusco.

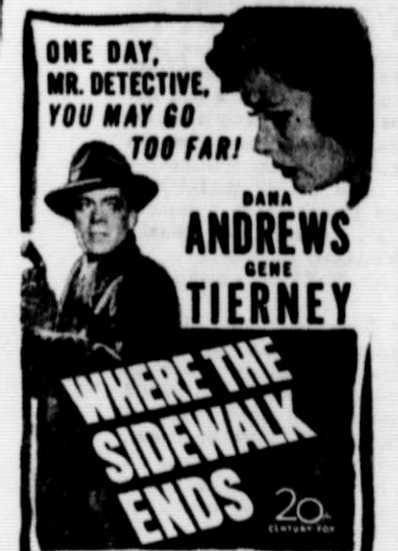

2. Audio-Visual Methods in Teaching.

The birthday song was sung for Eileen Laatsch, Nov. 12, and Roger Zettler, Nov. 25.

Walter Dishno favored us with his interesting letter that he had received from his German correspondent, Lothar Beck, Mrs. Anna Stege translated the letter for him.

After the achievement pins were distributed by Norbert Dettmann, he announced the winners of the two best club record books as selected by the Modern Woodmen committee: Evelyn Staehler, junior first; Walter Dishno, senior first.

Mr. Olson, club agent, spoke to the club and parents on the values of 4-H club work, and the need for parents, club members, and leaders to co-operate in order to achieve. He further pleased the club members very much when he showed the colored slides of our activities during the club year.

The president, Elmer Belger, appointed Rose Mary Staehler chairman of the Christmas party to be held during the holidays. She appointed the following committee: Marilyn Laatsch, Joan Fay, Douglas Wierman, and Elmer Belger. Names were drawn and gifts will be exchanged.

A delicious lunch of cake and hot chocolate was prepared by the mothers of the new officers and served by Mrs. Fred Belger, Sr., Mrs. Arthur Groeschel, Misses Jeannette Staehler and Myrna Laatsch, and Mrs. Giles Wierman.

ACCIDENT FACTS

How many motor vehicles were involved in reportable traffic accidents in Wisconsin last year?

According to Wisconsin Accident Facts, issued by the safety division, motor vehicle department, a total of 55,678 vehicles figured in street and highway mishaps.

Property damage only resulted for 41,031 vehicles, serious personal injury resulted for 14,112 individuals, and death cut short the lives of 749 citizens.

The human suffering, loss of companionship, crippling of bodies and economic waste arising from these accidents cannot be measured in dollars and cents. We who are alive and well today should heed the voice of experience of yesterday's traffic victims, safety-minded drivers and pedestrians have proved that accidents are avoidable.
