The Kewaskum Chevrolets won another Lakes game on the home floor Sunday night when they trimmed the Campbellsport Kingspins. The Chevs ran up 84 points compared to the opponents' 45 in taking their seventh victory in eight starts. The West Bend Lithias held onto their first place grip by trouncing Rosendale over the week end. The loop lead will be settled for the time being when the Lithias come to Kewaskum this Sunday night.

The big guns of John Tessar and Fred Engel provided the difference between the teams Sunday. Together they were responsible for 50 points, more than Campbellsport's total. John dropped in 29 points and Engel came through with 21. Wondra of last year's Belle high school team, paced the Kingspins in the scoring column. He walked off the floor with 13 points, 11 of them in the second half. Center Marchant gathered 10.

The Chevrolets dropped in nine points straight before the visitors broke the ice. For the rest of the first quarter the scoring was quite even and it ended 15-8. From here on Kewaskum averaged more than 20 points in the three remaining periods to build a commanding advantage. The winners netted 20 points in the second stanza to the Kingspins' nine and the halftime count was 45-17. This lead was increased to 57-32 at the third quarter's completion and the Chevs added 27 points in a big final period that ran their total to 84. Nineteen fouls were called on each team and the Kingspins outscored the locals from the free throw lane, 13 to 10.

EDITORIAL

Why should I give to the MARCH OF DIMES? If you happen to be a relative, friend or neighbor of a polio-ridden child you've seen all of the heart-rending evidence you need to answer this question.

To the others we can only point out these important facts: In five different years, polio has reached epidemic proportions in Wisconsin. Four of these epidemics have struck during the past six years. Almost 1,000 Wisconsin children and adults were stricken by this crippling disease during 1950. Four out of five needed and received help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Seventy-one Wisconsin National Foundation chapters, including our own, are on the job to see that no polio victim lacks the best possible care and treatment, regardless of race, color or creed. These chapters, manned by volunteer polio workers, have spent their share (half) of the $629,000 contributed to the 1950 Wisconsin March of Dimes and have called upon national headquarters for another $160,000 of emergency aid. Practically every chapter is broke, many operating in the red until 1951 March of Dimes receipts become available.

Nearly three million dollars of March of Dimes funds have been spent in Wisconsin since the National Foundation was organized. Most of this has been spent for patient care but some of this money joined the research fight ($190,000 in research grants to the University of Wisconsin and Marquette university) and some went for professional education (79 scholarships and fellowships granted to Wisconsin residents).

These are very impressive figures. It should be obvious to us all that the National Foundation needs more help from us than ever before so that it may in turn, continue its program of helping us, the victims and potential victims of dread polio. It is heartening too, to know that dimes and dollars we have contributed in the past have led March of Dimes research a long way down the road to the final answers about polio. Maybe, in the not-too-distant future, polio will no longer be a word to strike fear and terror in the hearts of parents everywhere.

Why should I give to the March of Dimes? If you still ask yourself this question, get in touch with the family of a youngster now on the road to recovery can answer you more eloquently than cold facts and figures. In fact, if each of us would meet a young "polio" the success of the March of Dimes would be assured.

PILES OF SNOW REMOVED FROM VILLAGE STREETS

The huge piles of snow along the streets of the village, accumulated from steady shoveling of sidewalks and plowing on the streets, were removed this week. The snow was scooped up by a shovel owned by the Joe Jaeger Excavating Co. and was hauled away in trucks. The snow banks had reached such proportions that shovellers had no more place to pile the white stuff and car driving and parking became a hazard. Although it's only early January we have had more than our share of snow and cold weather. The snow measures from 16 to 18 inches on the level.

Rev. La Buwi Injured in Auto-Truck Crash

Hurled from his car when it was involved in a collision with a pick-up truck at the intersection of County Trunks K and V five miles south of Fond du Lac shortly before noon on Tuesday, the Rev. F. C. La Buwi, pastor of Holy Trinity parish, Kewaskum, sustained fractured ribs, multiple bruises and cuts on his knees, face and hands. Father La Buwi was removed to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, by a passing motorist, Ernest Klett, Campbellsport, R. 1.

Traffic Officer Arnold J. Duenkert of Fond du Lac county said that Father La Buwi was traveling west on V and that the truck, operated by Morris P. Bird, 37, of South Byron was heading south on K.

The impact forced the priest's car around. Riding with Bird were his sons, Philip, 5, and Joseph, 3. None in the truck were injured. Klett, who was following Rev. La Buwi, stopped and rushed him to the hospital.

Dankert said that an arterial sign on County Trunk K was covered by snow. However, the officer said that he would continue his investigation. The impact caved in the front section of the car and the left front portion of the truck.

Although his injuries are painful, Fr. La Buwi is reported to be getting along well at the hospital.

A soft spot in the snow along Highway 28 gave a truck driver a rough time Monday about eight miles west of Kewaskum. Robert Dross, the driver, tried to pass another truck when his vehicle hit soft snow, bounced over a ditch, glanced off a tree and turned over on its side. It lost a wheel in the process. Dross, 33, of Rockfield, escaped injury.

Due to the icy and very hazardous condition of the highways the past week there were at least a half dozen other accidents in the village and vicinity but all were of a minor nature, mostly auto running off the road and into the ditch. A number of vehicles ran off the slippery road in the Kewaskum swamp area.

Purchasers of Christmas Seals Thanked by Manager

Through funds raised by the 1950 sale of Christmas seals, the fight against tuberculosis by the voluntary TB associations can go full steam ahead during 1951.

This was the message of Mrs. Harry E. Koch, Christmas seal sale manager, in thanking residents of Kewaskum for their purchases of seals.

"Today deaths from tuberculosis are fewer than years ago. But the number of new reported cases runs to over 2,000 each year in Wisconsin. These persons must be found early, treated promptly and given vocational retraining so that they can become self-supporting citizens again.

With funds obtained from the sale of Christmas seals, the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and local tuberculosis associations in 63 Wisconsin communities carry on tuberculosis test and x-ray clinics, medical social service, rehabilitation, medical research and health education.

Christmas seal returns are still coming in, Mrs. Koch said.

"Those who haven't yet answered their Christmas seal letter are urged to do so immediately. The sooner the gift, the sooner it can be put to work."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Rejects Hoover Demand For a New U. S. Foreign Policy; Allies Approve Army of 750,000

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Here is another view of a section of the city corridor through which the first marines fought their way to the Hamburg beachhead. Weary leathernecks used every pause to catch a nap, even on the frozen ground. Over 11,000 of them were killed or wounded.

HOOVER:

A New Foreign Policy

Herbert Hoover demanded a new foreign policy for the United States in a major radio-television speech. He urged the U. S. to concentrate on holding the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with the island outposts of Britain, Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. He then warned against sending more men and money to Europe.

The former president's speech created a buzz of controversy in Washington. Democratic officials called it "rank isolationism" and even some top G. O. P. policy makers, including Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, did not agree in all respects with Mr. Hoover.

This is how Mr. Hoover saw the situation: "It is clear continental Europe has not in three years of our aid developed a unity of purpose and that will power necessary for its own defense."

"It is clear that our British friends are flirting with appeasement of Communist China."

"It is clear that the U. N. is in a fog of debate and indecision on whether to appease or not to appease."

He then went on to outline his seven "principles and action" for American policy:

1. Preserve "this western hemisphere Gibraltar."

2. Hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, seeking the cooperation of Great Britain.

3. Arm our air and naval forces "to the teeth," free Japan and help her reform, and stiffen the defenses of Formosa and the Philippines.

4. Reduce other expenses, balance the budget, and roll back inflation.

5. Aid other nations that show "spirit and strength" in defending themselves against the Communists.

6. No appeasement anywhere, "no more Tehrans and Yalta's."

7. Watchful waiting in Europe pending its own development of "unity and will" to resist aggression.

Much of the criticism against Mr. Hoover's proposals centered around the belief that the Pacific and Atlantic oceans can be made a defense line. Some critics pointed out that failure to continue aid to our friends and allies would isolate us and eventually we would find ourselves without any friends in the world.

President Truman issued a statement shortly after Hoover's speech which amounted to a firm rejection of the former president's demand that troops and money be withheld from Europe.

The President said the Atlantic pact nations had shown they "mean business" about setting up a common defense and asserted the protection of western Europe was vital to United States security.

"Let there be no mistake," Truman said. "The unity of the nations of western Europe and the North Atlantic area is vital to their security and ours."

He then announced that soldiers of pact nations—presumably including U. S. troops—will be training together "within the next few weeks."

CIVIL DEFENSE

House Votes Plan to Build Shelters

The house voted 247 to 1 a civil-defense plan that would cost an estimated $3,100,000. More than two thirds of the total amount would go for bomb shelters, with the federal government paying half of their cost and local and state governments putting up the rest.

The plan was sent to the senate and quick approval was expected. A somewhat similar program had

RAIL UNIONS:

Three-Year Pact Signed

The railroads and four big unions agreed to a three-year pact settling a long wage dispute. The agreement raised wages of 300,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen, retroactive to last October 1, and called for future adjustments as living costs fluctuated.

One railroad official estimated the agreement would cost $131,000,000 a year. Sixteen unions still have wage disputes.

CHINA:

Refuses to Negotiate

If the world held any hopes that the Chinese would talk peace in Korea, they were killed when China's Foreign Minister Chou En-lai said they would not negotiate with the United Nations Korean-truce team.

Chou then went on to name his price for peace in Korea.

1. Removal of the United States seventh fleet from Formosan waters.

2. Withdrawal of "foreign troops" from Korea.

3. A seat in the United Nations for Communist China.

Thus ended any hopes that the Chinese Communists would dicker with the three-man truce committee set up by the General Assembly to try to bring about a cease-fire in Korea. Peiping did not even bother to transmit a copy of its blast to Lake Success, seemingly content to let its radio demands remain the last word.

The Chinese statement contained the usual propaganda lines.

Meanwhile, a warning to China by Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's commissioner-general for southeast Asia, that they are heading for disaster caused a stir of comment throughout the east.

MacDonald said in part: "... Should the Chinese government stay hostile to the western nations, oppose the Asian powers who strive for eastern and western co-operation, and defy the United Nations, then we could only adapt our attitude accordingly."

Observers were quick to point out that such a statement would not have been made unless previously approved by London. It would seem a blunt warning to Peiping that Britain is getting fed up. For this reason many observers believed it was the first indication of a get-tough policy by the British.

EISENHOWER:

Concerted Effort Needed

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the Atlantic pact armies, urged Americans to settle down to a concerted effort to meet the emergency confronting this country and stop partisan squabbling over the nation's leadership.

In his first formal press conference as supreme commander, he asked for "no more business as usual, no more profits as usual, no more working hours as usual."

Observers were interested in the general's view on including German troops in the new western European army. He said he wanted his former foes included but emphasized his belief that the Germans should make their military contributions only on a "voluntary basis" to be a really effective combat organization.

"In accepting anything like that," he said, "we must be sure we are getting strength and no weakness."

Of one thing Eisenhower was positive. The nation's strength is so great that its people can do "anything in the world they set out to do."

CASUALTIES:

The Price of War

The horrible price of war was brought home to the American people with the announcement that 11,964 United States troops were listed as dead, wounded and missing from the time the Chinese Communists attacked up to December 12.

With previous defense department figures, total American casualties for the war exceeded 42,000. The report said the Chinese Reds had suffered approximately 120,000 casualties during the same period.

The defense department's last previous total of casualties, whose next of kin had been notified, numbered 36,421. These included 5,518 killed, 25,587 wounded and 5,316 missing. Of the wounded 662 died later.

RUSSIA:

Race of Sea Power

The Soviet Union has entered the race of sea power. Jane's Fighting Ships, the authoritative yearbook on the navies of the world, reported the Russians put into service last June a 35,000 to 37,000 ton battleship with towers for firing guided missiles.

Jane's also reported that 350 to 370 Russian submarines were believed already in service, with 120 more building.

"It is also believed," Jane's said, "that the Russians are concentrating heavily on large destroyers, and that they may have as many as 48 destroyers or ocean-going torpedo boats approaching destroyer size in the far east, 36 in the north and eight each in the Baltic and the Black Sea."

Jane's stated that the chief trends among the major naval powers in the last year were the reconstruction and improvement of aircraft carriers, adaptation of big destroyers as submarine killers, and high-speed submarines.

CONQUEST OF DARKNESS

One of the most surprising schools in the world is located at Tomtebodav, just outside of Stockholm, Sweden. On the surface the school looks no different from any other educational institution. The visitor sees the scholars at play and engaging in athletics, just as other children do. He sees them running, broad jumping, high jumping and wrestling. And then comes the surprise. He learns that every one of them is blind. In the above picture a blind youth demonstrates his skill at broad jumping.

Not the least remarkable of the feats the visitor sees performed by these blind children is this one of high jumping. A rope is stretched between uprights. A handkerchief is attached to the rope. The jumper paces off the distance from the starting point of his run to the rope so that he can gauge his take-off point. Then he feels the handkerchief to ascertain its height in relation to his body. Above you see the boy preparing for the jump. At right you see him making it.

The youngster at the right is a newcomer to the school. He has not yet gained confidence, so the boy who is assigned to him as a companion holds his hand and leads him during a race. The youth leading is also blind. Any blind child in Sweden is privileged to attend this strange school, where the main item on the curriculum is the lesson of conquering darkness.

Wrestling is one of the simplest sports for the blind. It is simple physical contact with simple rules and the youngsters enjoy it. At the left two girl pupils are engaged in a bout. There is never any hair-pulling. That's illegal. All school books are in braille and the students learn to "see" with their fingers.

Teaching a new sport requires infinite patience on the part of teacher and blind pupils, but the results pay great dividends in satisfaction. Teacher Annagreta Ryman (right) is instructing blind pupils in the mysteries of volley ball. The youngsters must learn entirely by sound and touch. On the athletic field and playground it is difficult for the casual visitor to detect a difference between these children of darkness and children who have the God-given gift of sight.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Preventing candles from melting and dripping in the summer offers a choice of two approaches. Either take the candles out of their holders, wrap them in waxed paper, and lay them away flat in a drawer or closet; or give them a couple of coats of clear varnish or shellac before the hot weather sets in.

Doeskin, pigskin and most smooth-leather gloves can be washed in lukewarm water and mild soap. The handiest way is just to put the gloves on, and proceed as if you were washing your hands. The important part is not to rinse them in clear water, as this usually leaves the leather stiff and hard after it dries. Instead, make sure that every batch of rinse water used has soap in it; the soap residue in the gloves will keep the leather soft. If you need more softening effect than that, try mixing a spoonful of olive oil in with the wash water.

To clean pearls and amber beads, rub olive oil on them with a piece of flannel or chamois. Go easy on the amount of oil and the pressure of your rubbing.

Nearly any kind of ring is best cleaned with a toothbrush. Soap and water will do the job, unless the ring is badly tarnished, in which case try using bicarbonate of soda. Just dip the damp brush in the bicarb and scrub the ring; then rinse the ring when you're finished.

Rub a little castor oil or mineral oil lightly over the leaves of house plants to keep them looking green and to stimulate growth by cleaning the pores through which the plant breathes.

Ivy growing in water will be helped considerably if you keep a small chunk of charcoal in the water.

MARCH OF DIMES 30,000 Men, Women, Children Stricken With Polio During 1950

Polio struck again in 1950. For the third consecutive year, infantile paralysis went on a rampage across the nation, striking more than 30,000 men, women and children.

Only once before—in 1949—had polio attacked with greater violence. The toll of that tragic year was still being counted as the fresh onslaught began. Hospitals and clinics were crowded with polio patients from previous epidemics who were depending upon March of Dimes aid for continuing treatment. Then, on top of this staggering load, came the new cases. Dozens, at first. Then hundreds. Then thousands and more thousands, as the epidemic swept the country from California to New York and from Texas to Alaska.

Before 1950 was over, March of Dimes funds had assisted in some measure more than 54,000 polio victims of this and other years—at a cost of $20,000,000. And that wasn't enough. The National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, for the second year, was forced to operate at a deficit. Polio played no favorites in 1950. Every section of the country suffered heavy attacks. Texas, the battleground of major epidemics for six of the last eight years, was hit harder than ever before. Virginia, with a long record of light incidence, suddenly found itself the focal point of a raging epidemic. Maryland and Iowa watched their case records climb to unprecedented heights. But, whether records were broken or not, it was evident that the entire nation still was being battered by a polio wave higher than any in our previous experience.

Three Black Years

The last three years have been the three blackest polio years in the nation's history. Cumulative incidence for this period reached the monstrous total of 100,000 cases—almost as many as the entire case load for the preceding ten years.

Fortunately, wherever polio hit, a chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was on the spot, ready to help the patient, his family, and the entire community, as necessary. Your local chapter was the first line of defense against the disease. Its chief weapon was money—money contributed by the American people to the annual March of Dimes.

March of Dimes Money, administered by 2,822 national foundation chapters, serving the entire nation has paid bills for patient care totalling $47,000,000 during the last two years. Under the pressure of successive epidemics 873 chapters in 45 states were broke by mid-October of 1950 and had to turn to their national office for financial assistance. Before the year was over, national foundation headquarters had sent out more than $7,500,000 in supplementary aid to these hard-hit areas.

March of Dimes money paid hospital bills for thousands of families who could not meet the high cost of polio care unaided. Four out of every five of the stricken needed—and received—financial assistance from the national foundation and its chapters.

March of Dimes money paid for nursing care, physical therapy, transportation, wheelchairs, braces and crutches wherever necessary. Help was given to all who need it, without regard to age, race, creed or color.

$94 Million Spent

March of Dimes money paid salaries, travel expenses and maintenance of more than 1,600 desperately needed nurses recruited for the national foundation by the Red Cross for emergency service in high-incidence areas in 37 states. Other personnel furnished on the same basis included more than 100 physical therapists and approximately 120 nursing consultants.

March of Dimes money shipped more than $1,000,000 worth of iron lungs, hot pack machines and other vital equipment on short notice from seven equipment depots strategically located throughout the nation. Up to mid-October these depots had rushed into epidemic zones 521 respirators, 299 hot pack machines, more than 200 cribs and cots, and a heavy volume of miscellaneous hospital supplies and equipment.

Bills for polio patient care alone have consumed more than $94,000,000 in March of Dimes funds since the national foundation was established in 1938. Almost two-thirds of this money has been spent during the three years 1948 through 1950. Of all the money spent in the constant battle against infantile paralysis, the largest part is spent on patient care. Four out of five cases need financial assistance, the national foundation reports.

Join MARCH OF DIMES JANUARY 15-31 PATIENT CARE EPIDEMIC AID EDUCATION RESEARCH

Four Out of Five Need Help in Polio Four out of five of all reported cases of infantile paralysis require aid, in whole or in part, from funds raised during the annual March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Since the establishment of the foundation 13 years ago, it is estimated that costs of polio patient care alone use up 94 per cent of a billion dimes—$94,000,000.

GRASSROOTS by WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

Take a Letter!

AGAIN PRESIDENT TRUMAN has done himself an injury by writing a characteristically impetuous letter that will cost him votes should he again be candidate for the Presidency. In billingsgate such as a marine might use in expressing his opinion of the Chinese Reds, he upbraids a music critic on the Washington Post for a criticism of singer Margaret's voice. The critic said it was flat. It was the President, not Margaret, who objected to the statement. He might have disagreed without injury, but he will not be excused for the language he used in telling that music critic how and where he will beat up that critic should they ever meet.

It was language that he should not have used while holding the job as President of a great, cultured and Christian nation. It is language that will be recalled, and remembered by many thousands should the President again ask for their support in 1952. Harry S. Truman should establish for himself a censor to pass on all of his unofficial correspondence who would check his impetuous outbursts.

The joint statement issued at the close of five days of conversations failed to disclose any real purpose for the British prime minister's visit to Washington. All that was accomplished, if anything, might have been done in a 15-minute telephone conversation. Of course, Prime Minister Attlee may have needed a vacation, or he may have wanted a few unrationed meals, with bacon and real eggs, not the powdered kind, for breakfast. Such things are hard to come by in socialist England.

As far as the President was concerned, the one thing he asked for, but did not get, was for England to stop the supplies it is selling to Red China, direct or through Hong Kong. That would touch the British pocket-book, and Attlee turned thumbs down on such a proposition. Any way it was a nice call, and went off with every evidence of friendliness. What purpose there may have been back of it we may find out later, and then we may not.

The increase of 16 cents an hour in the wages of U. S. steel workers is but the beginning of another round of wage increases, to be followed by another round of commodity price increases, that is more inflation. For the next two or more years the largest purchaser of commodities will be the United States government, either for rearming ourselves or for the rearming of western European nations, for which we are obligated to do the paying. U. S. Steel has already announced a 5 1/2 per cent increase.

According to the figures of Raymond Moley, a 16 cent an hour wage increase for only 6,000,000 workers means a total increase of more than $6,000,000, all of which will be passed on to the purchaser. It is $6,000,000 the American tax payer must dig up.

Congress gave the President authority to freeze both wages and prices, but it did not fix the time. Fortunately he cannot freeze price increases without also wage increases. While he waits, the dollar continues to devalue, inflation continues to grow. We not only pay more for the commodities we buy for our personal use, but we pay billions more for what the government buys for rearmament at home and abroad.

Inflation is not "just around the corner"; it is here and is growing. The President tells us to quit buying things we do not need, things we can get along without, but his government does not practice what he preaches. The one big spender for things we could get along without is the government.

I wonder why the President in making appointments, finds it expedient, in so many cases, to pick those with questionable backgrounds—those who made the wrong guesses in our Chinese policy, causing us to favor the Chinese Reds. Certainly there are enough members of the Democratic party, whose associations are not questionable, who cannot be charged with Communist leanings, to fill the jobs and whom the senate would confirm without question.

It may be good politics to insist on keeping Secretary Acheson on the payroll, but the flood of protests pouring into the President does not indicate such a condition for a man who may again be a candidate for the presidency.

Two mysteries for which we may never be given a solution: one, the President's real reason for the trip to see MacArthur. Two, the real purpose of Prime Minister Attlee's trip to Washington.

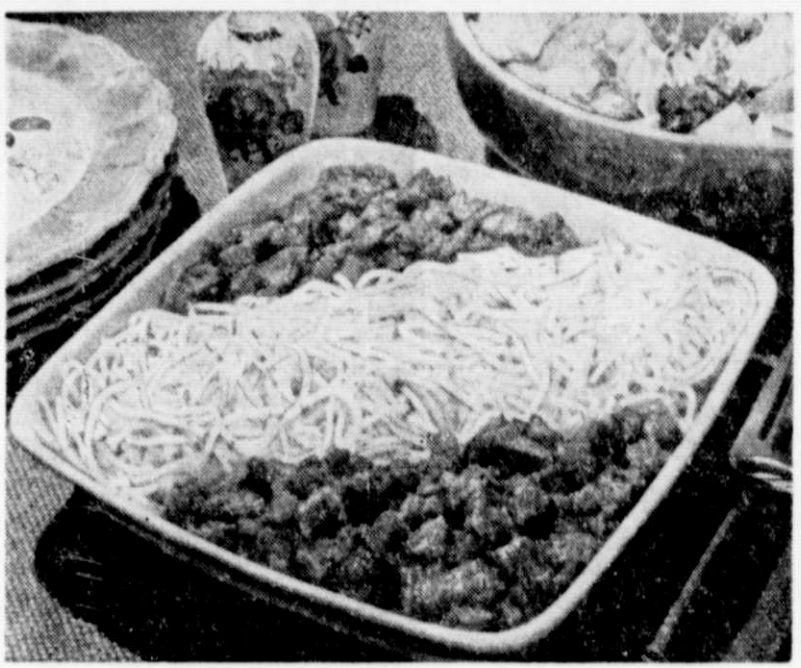

Whatever may be the final result, the marines have proven themselves to be capable policemen, and then some.

Saving face for Secretary Acheson and Secretary Marshall is not worth the price it will cost the free world.

Was it politics or idealism that sent us into Korea?

The weather is a subject on which all of us never agree.

Barbecue the Lamb, Parsley the Spaghetti (See Recipes Below)

Economical Main Dishes

WHEN THE BUDGET'S sorely pressed, food, like every other item, will come in for its share of economy.

In an expensive meat cuts, extended wisely with nourishing and filling foods like potatoes, lentils and vegetables offer tasty substitutes for roasts, chops and steak.

You can add interest to meats by varying the carbohydrate (starchy) food with them, like paralyzed spaghetti and savory noodles.

Parsley Spaghetti with Barbecued Lamb (Serves 4-6)

- 1 chopped medium onion
2 tablespoons butter
3/4 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1 can tomato paste
1 1/2 cups water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Few drops tabasco sauce
2 cups cooked lamb, cubed
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces thin spaghetti
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1/4 cup finely chopped parsley

Saute onion in butter until tender. Add vinegar, sugar, tomato paste, water, Worcestershire sauce and tabasco sauce. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add lamb; simmer until heated. Meanwhile, add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Toss with melted butter and finely chopped parsley. Serve with barbecued lamb.

Skillet Noodles and Beef (Serves 4-6)

- 3 tablespoons butter
1 cup thinly sliced onions
1 cup chopped celery
1 pound round beef
2 cups sliced raw carrots
1 No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes
1 cup water
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
8 ounces egg noodles

Melt butter in large heavy skillet over low heat. Add onions and celery; saute 5 minutes. Add ground beef, stirring occasionally, until meat is brown. Add remaining ingredients, including the uncooked noodles; mix thoroughly. Cover skillet; simmer 40 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Baked Sauerkraut and Frankfurters (Serves 4-6)

- 1 No. 2 1/2 can sauerkraut
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
2 medium cooking apples
1/2 cup thin onion slices

Lamb Paprika (Serves 4)

- 4 slices bacon
1 tablespoon butter
1 medium onion, sliced
1 pound shoulder lamb or mutton, cut in small pieces
Flour
Pinch of rosemary
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika, to taste
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup canned tomato
1/2 cup beef bouillon
1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
3 medium potatoes, sliced

Fry bacon and remove from pan. Add butter. Fry onion and meat, dredged lightly with flour, until golden brown. Blend seasonings except caraway seeds, with tomatoes and bouillon. Pour over meat. Place bacon slices on top of meat. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°) 45 minutes.

*Tamales Pie

- 1 cup corn meal
3/4 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 green pepper
2 teaspoons onion flakes
1/4 cup hot water
3/4 pound ground beef
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
3/4 cup chopped ripe olives
1/2 cup shredded cheese

Make mush of corn meal and boiling salted water. Add olive oil and chili powder. Line casserole with 1/2 of the mush. Fry green pepper and onions (soaked in 1/4 cup water) in oil until clear. Add meat, salt, pepper, chili powder. Stir until meat changes color. Add tomatoes. Simmer till thickened. Add olives. Turn into casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Top with remaining mush. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 to 40 minutes.

Apple butter spoils readily because it does not have a high sugar content. Place in refrigerator after opening.

Buy spices once a year in small quantity, as they lose flavor on standing, even though not opened. Highly seasoned sauces with many spices and high vinegar content keep well for months. Store in cool place without light.

Honey should not be discarded when it crystallizes. Liquefy by placing in water that is not over 140°. Higher temperature may injure flavor as well as color.

Always purchase your fish last, but store it first when you get home. The coldest place in the refrigerator, right under the freezing unit, is best for it.

All fats require a cool, dry, dark place for storage. They should be tightly covered at all times to avoid contact with strong odors which fats readily absorb.

To keep flavor content high and prevent their oils from turning rancid, shelled nuts are best refrigerated. Sterilize jars in which they are kept, and keep the nuts airtight.

Meat should be lightly wrapped before placing in refrigerator because a little drying of the surface retards bacterial growth. The paper which the butcher places on it may be used, or you may use waxed paper.

Season a head of cooked cauliflower or shredded cooked cabbage and sprinkle with fine dry bread crumbs browned in fat

Gold Tipped Cigarettes End Romance and Start Career

By BILLY ROSE

Yesterday, at one of those cocktail parties where only pedigreed olives are used in the Martinis, I met a movie actress who used to dance in one of my chorus lines back in the '30's.

"Glad you're doing so well," I said. "You've really gone places since the days when you made a fast forty a week."

"Have I changed much?" she asked, lighting a gold-tipped cigarette.

"Well, for one thing," I said, "you never used to smoke buck-a-pack ciggies."

"You mean these Sobranies?" said the actress. "Matter of fact, I started smoking them while I was working at your club. One of your customers introduced me to them."

"Boy friend?"

"Yes, if a man in his 50's can be called a boy. Remember Big Joel?"

"The oil fellow?"

"That's the one," said the star. "Know something? I probably would be married to him today if not for these Sobranies."

"Tell me about it," I prodded.

"WELL, IT'S NOT much of a story," said the actress. "One night Big Joel threw a party at the Central Park Casino for a bunch of his pals—Jimmy Walker, Billy Seaman,

LITTLE BOY NEXT DOOR

By Papinta J. Knowles

NEW PEOPLE were moving in the old house across the fence and Molly went about her sewing near the window complacent with the certainty that the couple with the ten-year-old boy woman the truth about the house being drafted and needing repair, and about Frank Overton being so tight he'd never do anything about it.

Molly Turner had never liked children, and through all these twenty-five years she had been fortunate that none had moved next door. She felt in a way that telling prospective tenants with children the bad features about the old house couldn't have endured. There hadn't been anything wrong in speaking the truth.

Molly put her sewing on a table, got up from her chair with difficulty and hobbled over to the coal stove to shake it down and put in a scuttles of coal. She had told the woman the truth about the house being drafted and needing repair, and about Frank Overton being so tight he'd never do anything about it.

She straightened and turned toward the window, and that was when she saw him: Ronnie, the ten-year-old boy belonging to the woman she'd talked to the other day. He was standing against the fence looking toward her house. Planning up his conquests of deviltry, she thought, and she groaned in sick disappointment.

She hobbled back to her chair. So they had taken the house after all! Well—somehow she had to keep the brat out of her yard. There were her flowers in the spring and summer. He'd rammage in her sheds and break up things.

She glanced out of the window and saw Ronnie climbing the fence. She pulled herself out of the chair and waddled hastily to the door. "Here, here," she called to the child. "Get back in your own yard." Ronnie looked at her a second then climbed back over the fence.

Molly thought she had Ronnie settled, but the next afternoon there he was at her door.

MOLLY THOUGHT she had Ronnie settled, but the next afternoon when she went out to the shed for a bucket of coal, he came to the door.

"I'll get your coal in," he said. Molly wouldn't look at him. "I don't need you to get my coal in," she said. "Get back in your own yard. Go on, now!"

It was the way Molly looked that caused the kid to scamper down the walk and climb over the fence as if she had actually shot at his feet.

The unpleasant incident didn't keep Ronnie away. Every day Molly had to chase him out of her yard. Every day she vowed she'd skin him alive. What kind of mother did Ronnie have that she allowed him to pester a crippled old woman like her?

But one night a blizzard came, and the town of Hanover was covered with ice. Molly just had one bucket of coal by her stove, and she dared not venture out on the ice to get more. She used the coal sparingly, and when she got down to the last shovelful, a lost, desperate kind of feeling went over her. What would she do?

Late that afternoon a knock sounded on her door, and when she opened it, Ronnie smiling up at her uncertainly.

"I'll get your coal in, Miss Turner," he said. "It's slick, 'n you might fall..."

Molly couldn't speak for a moment. She felt almost humble with shame and gratitude that he had come. "Well, I—well, that would be sweet of you," she said finally, and for the first time in all these twenty-five years of not wanting children next door, she saw the injustice of her prejudice toward them. What queer quirk in her mind had blinded her to the happiness a child could bring her?

Maybe it was because she had never looked at one—not as she was looking now at Ronnie and seeing the clear innocence of his eyes.

A smile broke across her old face. "Thank you, Ronnie," she said.

Strange, how good she felt saying that. The feeling was beautiful—one that she had waited much too long to experience.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Choosing Father

"WILL YOU HELP my brother and me solve a terrible problem?" writes Vivian Bates, from a Philadelphia suburb. "We are 16 and 14. Five years ago my mother divorced my father, taking us with her to Reno, and marrying there, on the day of her divorce, a man to whom she had long been devoted. My father had just been appointed to the management of a California brand of his company, and he moved there. The arrangement was that we were to spend summers with him, which we have done, and that when Bob was 14 we should have the right to choose which parent we wanted to live with.

"My mother has a little boy by this second marriage, and also the care of a 10-year-old daughter of my stepfather's first marriage; our house is very small, and money scarce, although my father pays generously for my support and Bob's. Both my brother and I have decided that we want to go to my father, who now has a comfortable home, with a beloved aunt of ours, who is widowed, keeping house for him.

"Bob and I love our father, and although we love our mother, too, we feel that we can do little to make her happy in the difficult circumstances here. But she cries bitterly at the idea of our going away and tells us very frankly that she cannot make ends meet without the allowance our father makes her for our expenses. She says we owe her more than we ever can repay, and of course we do. But I feel that if I am to go to college I want it to be a California college, and Bob and I never want to be separated. So we are writing to you to see if you can suggest any argument to my mother that will make her feel that this is the right thing to do."

False Position

Here is one more case of a divorce that puts innocent children into an absolutely false position, and of a mother so blind that she cannot see how serious an injustice she is doing to her son and daughter. While married to their father, in their small childhood, she transferred her affections to another man, dragged the children through the bewilderment of a Reno experience, and a second hasty marriage, and then established them in one of those mixed households indefinitely confusing to immature minds.

Vivian and Bob, between ruptured relationships, step-relationships, half-relationships, between the curious fact of their banished father helping to support his successor, and their mother claiming from them the loyalty in which she has been so conspicuously lacking herself, have been victims of an adult selfishness rare even in this world of broken homes and broken vows.

A Hard Life

She is attempting to hold them now against their own will in a home infinitely less comfortable and dignified than that their father offers them. Any woman reading their story knows just how much work there is in a small household containing a baby boy, three older children, and a man and his wife; just how much picking-up, table-setting, bedmaking, dishwashing falls to Vivian's share. Even if her mother were the least selfish woman in the world, even if the circumstances were natural ones, this would be a hard life for dreaming, eager seventeen. And if Vivian were offered an escape from it, such a mother would encourage her to take it.

As it is, I can only advise Vivian and Bob to write their father that they are coming to him, and keep such arrangements as he makes secret from their mother until almost the day of their departure. Then they must briskly and quietly pack and get away, leaving her a little time as possible for lamentations and reproach.

Afterward, Vivian and Bob, don't forget to send affectionate letters to your mother, small reminders to other members of the family that you have not forgotten them. No matter what your mother says, or even writes after you leave, forget everything and maintain a friendly footing. In time she will forgive you, although since she is capable of so peculiar a conception of her duties and dignities as a mother, she may never concede that you did anything but treat her unfairly.

As a matter of fact she has had her own way throughout; leaving a good husband, taking two affectionate children away from their father, putting a stepfather over them and sharing maternal care.

Milk and Cream Squirted By Hose at Tavern Blaze

LUXEMBURG, Wis. — Squirted milk, cream and whey on a blaze is an expensive way to fight a fire, but it had to be done near Luxemburg recently.

The fire broke out in a tavern near Andrew Ratajczak's cheese factory. To save the factory, pumps sprayed the dairy products on the fire. Volunteers also carried water to two fire engines in milk cans and trucks.

Electronic Purifier Kills Offensive Odors
Farmers Using Purifier To Clear Up Farm Odors

The old problem of odors on a farm caused by live stock or poultry, by dampness or mustiness, can now be solved. And for less than a half cent a day.

Single lamp Air-Tron being used on numerous farms to reduce offensive odors.

A powerful air purifier, called Air-Tron, uses ozones, nature's own "air freshener" to create outdoor freshness in foul-smelling places by killing odor-producing bacteria in the air and on the surfaces. Farmers in many areas are reported taking advantage of the purifier and are turning their farms into more pleasant places in which to live and work.

The Air-Tron is a compact unit which generates short wave ultraviolet rays destroying unpleasant odors electronically. It is produced by Roy C. Stove and Company of Chicago.

A single-lamp unit provides air freshening protection for an area up to 600 cubic feet—the size of the average milk house. For areas up to 1,200 cubic feet, the double lamp has been developed.

Herd Numbers Decrease, But Milk Supply Grows

In the past two decades, milk production on United States farms has increased by 20 billion pounds, or one-fifth while the number of milking herds has declined. In some of the individual dairy states, changes have been even more spectacular. In New York, for instance, one-half more milk is marketed by 15 per cent fewer farmers than in 1929.

Milk is produced on about 4 1/2 million of the six million farms in the United States. On about two million of these, the milk is produced solely for home use. Most of these farms have only one or two cows, but their milk provides an important part of the food of some nine million farm people.

On the other 2 1/2 million farms that have milk cows, some milk, cream, or farm-churned butter is sold. These sales range from a few pounds of farm-churned butter per year to thousands of pounds of milk per day.

World's Record

A new world's record for a purebred beef animal was set recently when Hillcrest Larry 4, was purchased by Henry Sears, owner of the Chino Farms in Church Hill, Md., for $70,500 at the Hillcrest Farms sale. Surrounding the high-priced hereford are (left to right) Jim McClelland, manager of the Turner Ranch in Sulphur, Okla.; C. A. Smith, owner of Hillcrest Farms; Henry Sears, the purchaser, and his wife; and Arnold Olson at the halter.

Keep Garden Seeds—Many leftover vegetable seeds may be kept for planting next spring, but should be stored at about 50 degrees.

Strawberries Need Good Protection From Cold

Strawberries need protection against cold by means of mulching with straw, leaves or sawdust, fruit specialists warned farmers.

Wheat straw, oat straw and rye straw have all been successfully used as strawberry mulches. Fairly heavy coverings are suggested in order to avoid heaving from frost and consequent root damage. Ordinary leaves give good results on home plantings.

Good Controlled Grazing Requires Fencing Plan

Controlled grazing is necessary to properly manage a pasture so as to get the maximum returns over a long period of time. And controlled grazing requires very little labor if a good fencing system is used.

A suggested fencing system for a pasture may include a permanent perimeter fence and cross fences to divide the pasture into three or more sections.

Hattie's Garden Crescents

These tangy dinner rolls have a straight-from-the-garden appeal. Here's something different to perk up that luncheon or dinner.

Bake at 400° F. for 12 to 15 minutes • Makes about 16 crescents

Dissolve 1 cake compressed yeast (or 1 package dry granular yeast) in 1/4 cup lukewarm water. Combine 1/4 cup shortening, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup boiling water. Stir until dissolved.

Coat to lukewarm by adding 1/2 cup tomato juice. Blend in 1 tablespoon each: grated onion, celery, carrot, 1/2 teaspoon each: garlic salt, sage. Add dissolved yeast.

Measure 1 1/2 cups sifted Pillsbury's Best Enriched Flour. Add 2 cups of the flour and beat thoroughly. Then add remainder of flour and mix well. Knead dough 5 to 7 minutes on floured board. Let rise in warm place (85° to 90° F.) until double in bulk, 45 to 60 minutes. Divide dough into two parts. Roll each on lightly floured board to circular shape about 1/4 inch thick. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Cut each round into 8 wedges. If desired, 1 drop tabasco sauce may be added to each wedge. Roll each wedge, starting with wide end and rolling to point. Place on greased baking sheet, point-side down, and curve ends to form crescent shape. Let rise in warm place until light, about 45 to 60 minutes. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. *If you use Pillsbury's Best Enriched Self-Rising Flour, omit salt.
