Motion by H. Rosenheimer, seconded by G. Hansen and carried that all these bids be tabled for further investigation and discussion.

Chief of Police Edmund Haack appeared before the board with the following suggestions: That the welcome signs at the village limits be taken down and repainted; that the intersection by the municipal building be cleaned of ice and snow and that the

The Kewaskum Chevrolets tried their best but their best wasn't in them and as a result they were nosed out by the West Bend Lithias in a 50-49 heart breaker at the McLane school gym, West Bend, Sunday night for the championship in the northern division of the Land o' Lakes league.

The entire season's play hinged on this final contest, which had a true championship atmosphere with its huge crowd, rivalry, photographers, and all. Both teams went into the contest with records of 11 wins and 1 defeat.

The Chevrolts looked like the winning team and were ahead 49-47 with about five minutes to play when hard luck struck. At that stage Johnny Tassar, league leading scorer and star of the Kewaskum team, had his fifth personal foul called on him.

After the game the two teams, having split even in two meetings this year, made plans to play a third rubber game for the county championship this Sunday night but since then the Lithias announced they could not get the gym that night. Kewaskum had offered to play West Bend on their own floor to get another crack at them.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Premier Joe Stalin Attacks Britain, United States for Korean Conflict; 100,000 European Force Is Planned

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The Chinese Communist offensive aimed at Wonju in an effort to split the United Nations line came to an abrupt halt with the destruction of two Red divisions. U.N. troops then pushed forward in a limited offensive that carried up to six miles along the 70-mile sector from Seoul to Wonju. The Reds were reported to have lost approximately 31,000 troops in their one week offensive.

STALIN:

The Role of Prophet

Prime Minister Stalin, in one of his rare public statements, predicted that the United States and Great Britain are doomed to defeat in Korea, and the disintegration of the United Nations.

Assuming the role of a prophet thundering from his mountain, the Soviet leader attempted to intimidate the free nations of the world, to stir up discord between the North Atlantic pact nations, and brand Russia the only true champion of world peace.

There was even a minor threat of war when he said war "cannot be considered inevitable," but that it might come if the "warmongers succeed in entangling the masses of the people in lies, in deceiving them."

Stalin went so far as to blisteringly denounce British Prime Minister Attlee for "lying" in saying that Russia had not demobilized after World War II. For his efforts in this direction, Stalin received a sharp slap by the British government with the charge that Russian armed forces now total 175 divisions, 25,000 tanks and 20,000 planes.

Some western observers, noting Stalin's assertion that the U.N. was "burying its moral prestige and dooming itself to disintegration," believed Russia may be preparing to quit the organization.

No one in his right mind could believe any of Stalin's statements and the left-handed assertion that Russia really wants peace. To the contrary, Stalin's statements and the American and British replies only point up the seriousness of the present world situation.

The statement should do much to bring about a concentrated effort on the part of the west for what now seems inevitable.

KOREA:

Reds Pull Back

United Nations troops in Korea regained the offensive after breaking the back of the communist attack which saw the Chinese suffering an estimated 31,000 casualties.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's troops pushed forward in limited advances, but there were indications that Ridgway would not cross the 38th parallel in the immediate future.

There remain large unlocated Chinese elements north of the old political boundary line and the Chinese could bring down masses of men from further north.

Ground gains have assumed a secondary role in the Korean fighting. General Ridgway seems to be operating on the theory of hitting the Communists where the maximum number of casualties can be inflicted and retiring to established positions to plan the next move.

No one can foresee the end of the Korean war which has raged up and down the peninsula for eight months. And although the Chinese have suffered defeats in recent weeks there is no indication that they are seriously hurt.

NEW BIBLE

Modern English Edition Is Planned

The division of Christian education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., announced a revised edition of the Bible will be ready for distribution by September 30, 1952.

The new Bible will be in clear, modern English, with words of more modern usage substituted for words which long ago lost their meaning. Although there is some

BUTTER:

15 Cents a Pound

Another example of the government price support program that causes Americans to shake their heads in bewilderment was revealed with the recent sale of 5,500,000 pounds of butter to Italy at the reported price of 15 cents a pound. At the time of the sale American housewives were paying 95 cents and up. Agricultural department officials said the butter cost the government 65 cents.

TROOPS:

Marshall Tells Plans

Gen. George Marshall, secretary of defense, took much of the steam out of the "great debate" over the question of American military aid to Europe when he told congress that the U.S. planned to send 100,000 more men abroad. The number was much smaller than had been expected.

It seems fortunate that opponents of the administration's foreign policy finally forced General Marshall to reveal the exact number of men. It certainly provided the Soviet Union with a valuable bit of military information.

Official Washington circles reported that sharp debate preceded the decision to tell the size of the army planned for Europe. Both the defense and state departments were against the disclosure.

However, continued attacks on foreign military aid by influential senators, including Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, forced the decision. These attacks were continued even after Taft and members of the senate armed services committee were informed in secret of the plans.

General Marshall told the senators that for security reasons he spoke "reluctantly." His reluctance was understandable in that he knew and disapproved of giving aid and comfort to a possible enemy of the United States. It is too bad other prominent figures on the national scene did not feel the same way as General Marshall, Washington observers reported.

LABOR:

An Open Revolt

Angry labor leaders were in open revolt against the nations mobilization program. It began when the wage stabilization board voted 6 to 3 to stabilize wages at a level generally 10 per cent above that of January 15, 1950. Three labor members quit the board.

But labor's complaint against the board's new formula for equalizing wages proved to be only a pretext. What they really had on their chests was a whole series of gripes against Charles E. Wilson, director of mobilization.

They contended that labor was not given a prominent place in policy-making, and that attempts were made to freeze wages while food prices and rents were still unsettled.

Many observers believed that the blowup was inevitable, that sooner or later someone would challenge the vast power bestowed upon Wilson and the "bull-it-through" manner in which he wielded that power.

It was the old story of big business and labor in open conflict. But in this instance it was the nation's mobilization program that suffered.

Also on the labor front, the brotherhood of railway trainmen unexpectedly pleaded guilty to contempt charges arising from "sick" strikes in the Washington yards and were fined $75,000.

Labor circles wondered to what extent the guilty plea—a union assuming responsibility for "wildcat" strikes—would effect other pending cases, and whether it would help control wildcat tactics in the future.

Churchmen gave this example of how some old words have changed in meaning: "I prevented the dawning of the morning, and cried: I hoped in thy word."

Churchmen said a modern youth reading this verse would interpret it to mean: "I stopped the dawn." It doesn't mean that at all, but "he got up before dawn."

CONTROLS:

New Curbs Likely

The protests of the nations housewives, labor and the average home towner may bring about new legislations soon to stabilize food prices. Eric Johnston, economic-stabilization director, hinted that legislation will be requested to "equalize and stabilize" farm prices and industrial wages.

Critics of recent enacted wage-price controls contend that the law protecting farmers' standard of living—by the parity device—is making a mockery of the government's anti-inflation program.

On the other hand, farm spokesmen have countered with a charge that an attempt is being made to smear farmers and make them the goat in any federal move to roll back prices.

Johnston is on something of a spot, with the housewives and labor lined up on one side and the farm bloc on the other. He has expressed himself as believing the farmer is entitled to his parity, too, for as the cost of food goes up, the cost of living goes up.

Meanwhile, the government slapped on stiff new credit terms for nonresidential construction, amounting to 50 per cent down payments, in its battle against inflation.

The new order called for one-half down on construction of new stores, offices, hotels, banks, warehouses, garages, auto-service stations, restaurants, theaters, clubs and "other new structures."

The same requirement applies to repair, enlargement, alteration, and reconstruction of existing commercial buildings if the cost of the improvement exceeds 15 per cent of the building's appraised value.

SPORTS:

Game-Fix Scandal

The sensational disclosure of basketball game-fixing involving three New York colleges and a number of prominent players had repercussions as far down as the home towns of America.

Basketball is the most popular high school and college sport in the nation. Year after year a greater number of people see basketball games—from cracker-box gymnasiums to Madison Square Gardens—than witness any other sport.

It is apparent that game-fixing has not been confined to New York alone. A number of investigations which are just being launched will undoubtedly reveal bribery in many sections of the country.

High school basketball in the home towns of the nation does not draw national headlines, but there can be little doubt that there must have been numerous cases of attempted game-fixing on the high school level.

The scandal among the big schools, if nothing else, will bring about closer inspection of the game on the home town level. It may cause a clean-up that will again stress fair play and sportsmanship among the nation's youth.

CHINA:

An Inside Report

The first reliable information from within Communist China since that country's intervention in Korea was made public by Arthur Moore, a British newspaperman who visited Peiping with the backing of the Indian ambassador.

Moore reported the large number of casualties in Korea is causing concern to Red China's leaders and that Manchurian hospital facilities had been unable to care for the wounded.

The war in Korea, although waged on a limited scale, is still somewhat of a surprise to the Chinese. Casualties are greater than expected and a major gasoline problem has developed.

Off to Europe

In a supposedly secret departure, witnessed by some 25 reporters and 75 cameramen, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and his wife, Mamie, board the Queen Elizabeth. The general returned to Europe to resume his command of western defense forces.

POST OFFICE:

Plans Major Shift

What was undoubtedly the most important change in basic postal transportation policy since air mail, was announced by the post office department. The plan is to transfer short-haul mail from the railroad to highway trucks.

The postal department first planned the shift when the railroads filed a petition with the interstate commerce commission for a 95 per cent increase in mail-pay rates.

Postal officials reported trucks could transport mail much cheaper than railroads on short hauls. The post office estimated the movement of a 60-foot railway car over 200 miles costs the government 80 cents a mile and that this cost goes up to $3.20 a mile if the distance is only 20 miles.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Love Delusions

"HOW CAN WE HELP our daughter?" writes Lucy Cotton, from Duluth. "Fay is 24, our only child, but we had my niece, whom I will call Meg and Emily, living with us for many years. Emily married at 19, three years ago, and has a baby son. Meg worked in an insurance office and was married last year."

"Neither girl is actually as pretty as our Fay, but both are attractive, confident and popular. Of their small estate only a few hundreds are left, but Fay will inherit enough from us and her grandparents to be financially independent. However, she should find occupation, too. She completed a course as a kindergarten, but did not care for the work; later she and a friend opened a tea and gift shop, in which her interest did not last long. The girls sold out, and Fay went in seriously for amateur theatricals, having real talent in character and comic parts. She also worked hard as property woman and prompter, and we hoped she was really started."

Imaginary Infatuations

"However, a year ago, she began to give unmistakable signs of nervous disorder. She shut herself away from us, sometimes was absolutely silent and moody, sometimes talked fast in what a psychologist later called 'delation.' (We took her to our best mental man, who did help, and advised care, love and time as the cure.) From what she told him he gathered that jealousy of her cousins, perhaps unconscious, was partly the cause.

"... best mental man ..."

"Fay seemed better, and for a few months was more like her old self. But now there is a new phase, infinitely disturbing to me. It began, I see now, when she told me last summer that her psychologist was not only in love with her, but had made improper advances. As he is a married man of 50, with three sons, I was at first shocked, and then incredulous. I persuaded my husband to talk her into giving up treatments from this man, which she did."

"To make the rest of the story short, Fay now believes, or at least asserts, that at least half the men she meets are infatuated with her. Her cousins' husbands, their male relatives, our clergyman, even the postman and grocer are all by turns supposedly under her sway and she relates her affairs with these men with a relish that makes my heart ache with pity and shame."

"How Can We Help Her?"

"Yesterday she announced to the papers her engagement to a man I am convinced never had the slightest romantic feeling for her. He is a business associate of her father's which makes it the more embarrassing. Reporters telephoned him, and he went to see Harry, and we were saved publicity, at least, but Fay took the matter very lightly, laughing it off by saying that apparently the man had changed his mind. 'Whom your fastidious daughter had the honor to refuse!' she will say when any man's name is in the paper; whether he is engaged, or going to the front, or has been given some honor or promotion."

"My husband and I can't bear to see her going on into middle-age like this. When she was a small girl she did romance about the man we expected her to outgrow it. But it seems she never has. How can we help her?"

Since she is still very young, and since she has some property to give her a sense of security, I would, in her case, spike her guns in advance. You and her father love her enough to see this subtly and tenderly. Don't harp on it. But remind her often that you see through it."

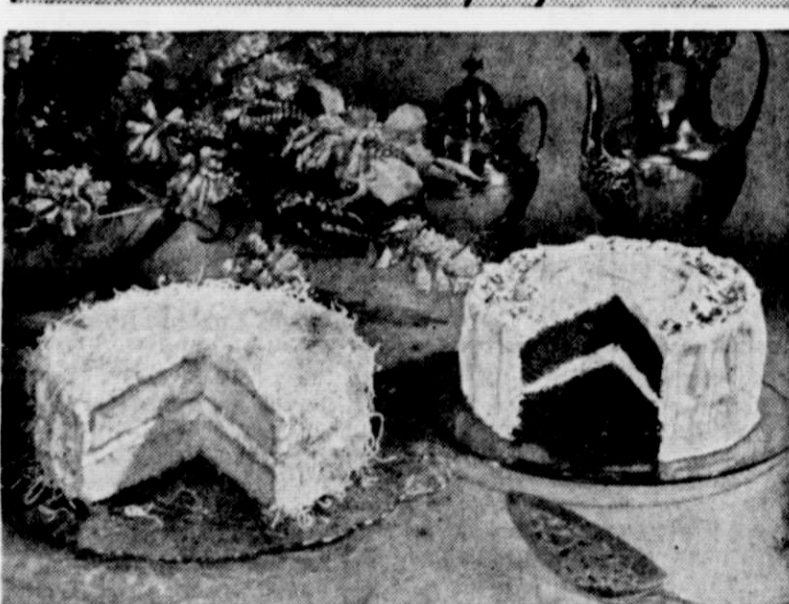

Tell her that you and her friends know that she wants to marry, that it is quite natural, but that only by occupying herself in some hospital or Red Cross or charity work—so terribly needed now on all sides!—can she learn to forget herself, distinguish truth from fable, and make real friends among the sort of men who interest her."

Perhaps your strongest argument will be that if she decides to grow up now she can make a good life for herself, but that in 10 years she will be confirmed as the simpering, flirtatious old maid."

Well, this is really a hard case, Lucy. Fay's natural little-girl tendency to make herself important, to be noticed, was accentuated and prolonged by the presence in her house of the gay, busy, normal young cousins. Watching their easy charm and confidence she lost her own; they very simply achieved husbands and homes, she couldn't understand how they did it."

In self-protection she has worked up a flock of romances for herself, and childishly exults in them, unconscious of the fact that these fables don't make sense."

It's Time to Bake a Luscious Cake (See Recipes Below)

Cake Magic

THERE'S NOTHING nicer than a delicious, fluffy cake on hand for birthdays, for a company tea or a pop in unexpectedly or for the sewing circle gathering!

One of the all-time favorites is chocolate or devil's food with a fluffy white icing. Close on its heels, vying for honors is the delicate white cake often frosted with Seven Minute frosting and a dusting of moist coconut.

Burnt sugar cake has an interesting flavor, as has the caramel frosting which goes with it.

Deluxe White Cake (Makes 2 9-inch layers)

Measure into sifter: 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour 2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder 1 teaspoon salt 1 1/4 cups sugar - Measure into cup: 1 teaspoon vanilla 1 cup milk

Measure into bowl: 3/4 cup vegetable shortening

Have ready: 5 egg whites, beaten to meringue with 1/2 cup sugar

*For meringue, beat 5 egg whites with rotary egg beater (or at high speed of electric mixer) until foamy, add 1/2 cup sugar gradually, beating only until meringue will hold up in soft peaks.

Have the shortening at room temperature. Grease pans, line bottom with waxed paper, and grease again. Use two deep 9-inch layer pans or a 13x9x2-inch pan. Set oven for moderate heat (350°). Sift flour once before measuring.

Mix or stir shortening just to soften. Sift in dry ingredients; add 3/4 of liquid. Mix until all flour is dampened; then beat 1 minute. Add remaining liquid, blend, and beat 2 minutes longer. Then add meringue mixture and beat 1 minute. (Count only actual beating time.)

Or count beating strokes. Allow at least 100 full strokes per minute. Scrape bowl and beater (if t.e.n.) Turn batter into pans. Bake in moderate oven (350°) about 35 minutes for layers, or about 45 minutes for 13x9x2-inch cake.

Devil's Food Cake (Makes 2 9-inch layers)

Have ready: 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed 2 eggs, unbeaten 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, cut up and melted in 1/2 cup boiling water

LYNN SAYS:

Give Cake Crowning Touch With These Icing Secrets

Ever try to ice a cake that's too fresh or warm? It may break or fall apart, crack or melt the frosting if you haven't allowed it to cool before icing.

It's a mistake to try to achieve a smooth looking surface when swirls, ridges or a textured surface is far more effective. Use the blade of a spatula, a fork or the tip of a spoon to make the surface interesting.

Don't fuss with icings. Use a spatula and make every stroke count or the icing will look as though it had been pawed.

Layer cakes stay together better when the bottom crusts are placed together. Spread the icing on top or bottom crust of the cake, whichever is more level.

Sweetened whipped cream is an excellent icing for many party cakes. You may add further decoration by folding drained, sweetened berries or fruit into the whipped cream or by sprinkling shaved chocolate over the cream.

Spread with seven minute frosting.

Seven Minute Frosting (Makes enough for 2 layers)

2 egg whites 1 1/2 cups sugar 1 1/2 teaspoons light corn syrup or 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar 3/4 cup cold water Dash of salt 1 teaspoon vanilla Few drops red food coloring

Place all ingredients except vanilla in double boiler; mix thoroughly. Cook over hot water, beating constantly with rotary or electric beater until mixture forms peaks, about 7 minutes. Remove from heat and hot water; add vanilla and food coloring. Beat until cool.

*Burnt Sugar Cake (Makes 2 8-inch layers)

1/2 cup shortening 1 1/2 cups sugar 2 egg yolks 1 teaspoon vanilla 2 1/2 cups cake flour 1/4 teaspoon salt 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder 1 cup water or milk 3 tablespoons Burnt Sugar 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten Thoroughly cream shortening and sugar; add egg yolks and vanilla; beat until fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with water, beating well after each addition. Add Burnt Sugar and fold in egg whites. Bake in 2 waxed-paper-lined 8-inch layer-cake pans in moderate oven (350°) about 30 minutes. But layers together and frost with Carmel-Nut Frosting.

Burnt Sugar: Melt 1/2 cup white sugar in heavy skillet over low heat until dark brown and smooth. Remove from heat; add 1/2 cup boiling water; return to heat and stir rapidly until molasses-like syrup melts.

Carmel-Nut Frosting

1/2 cup butter 2 cups brown sugar 1/2 cup light cream or top milk Few grains salt 1 teaspoon vanilla 1 cup chopped walnuts Combine ingredients in saucepan. Stir over low heat until dissolved. Heat to boiling and cook to soft-ball stage (234°). Beat until cool. Add vanilla. Spread between layers and on top and sides of 2-layer cake. Sprinkle with chopped walnuts.

Loose crumbs mixed in through the frosting spoil the appearance of many a good cake. Let cake cool, then brush crumbs with one hand while holding with the other one. Frostings and icings should be cooled before being spread on the cake; otherwise, they may soak into cake.

Chocolate or butter cakes are lovely when you sprinkle confectioners' sugar immediately after taking them from the oven. If sprinkled over a lace doily, the sugar leaves a pattern.

Spread layers with frosting, one at a time. After the layers are put together, frost sides, then pile remaining frosting on the top.

Here's an attractive topping when you don't have time for a regular icing: mix together some butter, brown sugar, cream and shredded coconut and spread over hot, baked cake. Place under broiler for few minutes until icing bubbles.

Before baking you may spread cake with cut marshmallows over the batter and then sprinkle brown sugar and nuts over them.

Brucellosis Is Danger in Work

ALTHOUGH FARMERS are in constant danger of getting brucellosis from cattle and swine, veterinarians and packinghouse workers run an even greater risk, according to a report in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The report, made after a joint survey by the U.S. public health service and the Indiana state board of health, declared that brucellosis can be regarded as an "occupational hazard" of persons whose work brings them into contact with infected animals.

Through use of a blood test, it can be determined if a person has been exposed to brucellosis.

Tests showed that as many as 25 per cent of one group of veterinarians either had had the disease or had been exposed to it. The tests were made during a three-year period on more than 600 veterinarians.

Considerable numbers of packinghouse employees also showed exposure to the disease. Numbers of reactors to the test were highest on jobs requiring frequent contact with infected animals—with group percentages running as high as 33 per cent.

When groups of farm workers were tested, slightly less than four per cent of the men reacted to the test and less than two per cent of the women.

Employees of a rendering plant also showed a high incidence of exposure, with some 27 per cent giving positive readings on the blood test.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

This classroom, typical of those in many new rural schools, is flooded with glareless daylight—even in remote corners. Walls and furniture are in gay pastel colors, desks are light natural wood tones, and even chalkboards are eye-comforting green instead of somber black.

RURAL SCHOOLS

All-Purpose Rooms in New Rural Schools Win Community Favor

(This is the second of two articles on the rural school plant which is undergoing radical changes in many sections of the country. The first article appeared last week.)

In the Grand Junction, Colorado, school discussed in last week's article primary grades have their own toilet rooms and outside exits to play areas; the lunchroom and kitchen are linked to the large general-purpose room to provide better service for special parties and after-school functions; oversized classrooms are flooded with glareless daylight, gay and cheerful in colors which reflect light, not absorb it.

Although more complex, the two-story Moffat county high school at Craig resembles the other smaller "new look" schools in the area. But it's the chance to get college-accredited high school courses that really excites the students.

Previously these courses were offered in a number of small unaccredited schools sprinkled over the county where distances are great and population (a little better than 5,000) sparse. Now school buses serve a 35-mile perimeter, other students living further out must be driven to school or board in town.

Fully equipped with up-to-date laboratories, home economics rooms, shops, library, gymnasium and auditorium with a full-fledged stage, this new high school is not only the pride of rural Moffat county but the envy of a number of city schoolmen who have gone to Craig to see it.

Multi-Purpose Rooms Equally important, however, is the new community spirit that has sprung up as the result of these modern county schools.

Architects, mindful of the community use of the rural school, are equipping these new buildings with multi-purpose rooms—versatile units that can play more roles than a quick-change artist.

As a result, these schools, serving children by day and adults by night, are the busiest spots in the community.

The multi-purpose room, a comparatively new idea in school design, may serve as assembly hall in the morning, a lunchroom at noon, a basketball court in the afternoon and anything from a club room or banquet hall to dance pavilion or little theater after dark.

Storage space under a stage holds folding spectator chairs; sometimes even the stage folds out of the way. So do sports bleachers, telescoping wonders that move in or out of unobtrusive sidewall platforms.

In many of these rooms, fully-equipped kitchens are concealed behind folding partitions; lunch tables and benches swing up flat against wall; and basketball backboards jackknife out of sight when the room converts from sports to social functions.

At Grand Junction, for instance, the usual school stage facilities have whetted interest in dramatics. A little theater group presents regular "Broadway" production—when the multi-purpose room isn't being used by parent-teacher groups, boy scouts, girl scouts, and other clubs and organizations.

Sport Area Provided At Craig, the new Moffat county high school auditorium and gymnasium is pretty solidly booked. The auditorium with its fully-equipped stage offers the only community-owned place where an "artist" series—principally concert—may be conducted.

The sports equipment of these multi-purpose rooms also prove invaluable in Colorado for intramural basketball competition on the elementary school level as well as for other teams. This one feature alone plays an important part in promoting neighborliness between communities previously comparative strangers.

Here's the school that became a model for 15 new ones in rural Colorado. It's the Orchard Avenue school in Grand Junction, Mesa county, and was designed to include the best features of a famous experimental school in Austin, Texas.

'Little Red Schoolhouse' Is Outmoded Five years ago there were 86,580 "little red schoolhouses" throughout the country. This figure represented just about half of all United States public schools.

Weekly Picture Story Guardsman's Kin

Little boys have played at being soldiers since the beginning of history. But few have played at being a soldier with such a fancy uniform as is possessed by seven-year-old Dick Ritchie, son of Sergeant Major Ritchie, of the Irish Guards. The uniform is perfect in every detail, including white gloves, bearskin hat, and brass buttons. To Dick his guardsman's garb is no mere fancy costume. He goes to his father's barracks as often as he can and has acquired a perfect knowledge of all the bugle calls and commands.

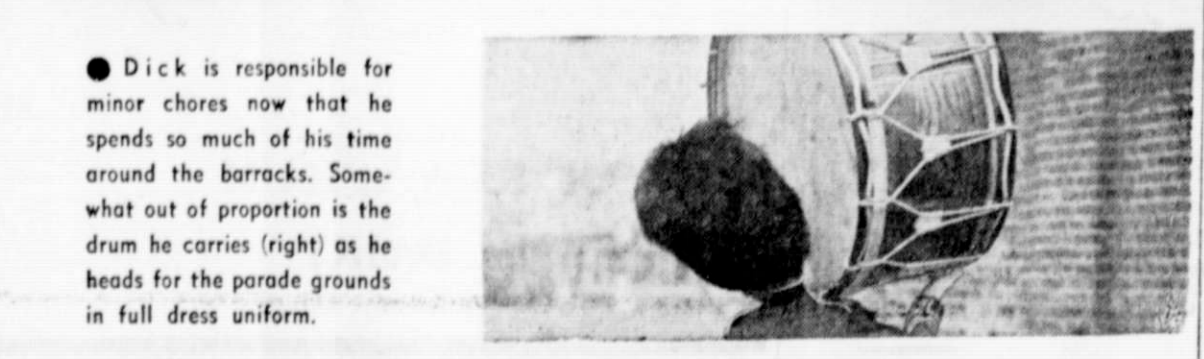

In the above picture Dick and his father step smartly across the barracks square. The lad has found his uniform the object of admiration from the girls he knows. The young guardsman and his girl friend (left) take a walk in the park. Catapult (slingshot) and bicycle forgotten, Dick's pals (below) crowd around to admire his uniform, envy written on their faces. Needless to say, Dick's own ambition in life is to join the Irish Guards and become an officer just as soon as they will have him.

Practicing a barracks square voice (below), Dick takes a leaf from his father's copybook, in issuing commands, all of which he knows perfectly. The youth has learned to march, present arms, and salute as smartly as any old timer.

Stiff and stern, Dick gives a real guardsman's salute in the picture below. The buttons on his sleeve indicate that the regiment was the fourth of the foot guards to be established.

With perfect military precision, the youngster presents arms in the picture above with a gun that is almost too big for him to handle.

Dick is responsible for minor chores now that he spends so much of his time around the barracks. Somewhat out of proportion is the drum he carries (right) as he heads for the parade grounds in full dress uniform.

Don't Talk About Troubles; Correct Them Says Mother

When many folks get to feeling badly they just don't know what to do. They fret and stew around, tell their neighbors, their friends and their family how badly they feel—and they usually do feel miserable. But they don't help matters any by telling other folks how badly they feel all the time, because most folks don't want to be a round them when they act that way.

Now, for example, take Mrs. Zina Lee Bowman, Route 6, Clees Ferry Road, Nashville, Tennessee. When she got to feeling badly, she began taking HADACOL and found that by taking HADACOL she gave her system Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in which she was deficient.

Here is Mrs. Bowman's own statement: "I was so weak I could hardly do my housework. I am 30 years old. I am the mother of 9 children. I was so nervous I hardly wanted the children to speak. I had to rest after I got breakfast and before I cleaned my house. I have taken almost 4 bottles of HADACOL, and I feel fine. The children can make all the noise they wish, and it doesn't bother me. In fact, I join them in their ball games and other games. We are a happy family, thanks to HADACOL."

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of aching backache, headache, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these symptoms if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filter flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Annual Crucifixion Program On Greatest Story Ever Told

Radio's most honored program, "The Greatest Story Ever Told," will again present its Easter Programs on Sunday, March 18 and March 25, with "The Crucifixion" on Palm Sunday, and "The Resurrection" on Easter Sunday, at 5:30 p.m., EST, over the ABC network. These two Easter programs, as well as the Christmas programs, have become traditional radio fare for the American public. The fine dramatic presentations of these Biblical stories have constantly increased in popularity since their first presentation, five years ago, when "The Greatest Story Ever Told" first came on the air.

Most unusual among radio programs in many respects, there is no commercial announcement at any time on this program, except for the sponsor identification required by law. Neither are actor, director, writer, or music credits ever given, so that the program is entirely in the spirit of a sincere public service. It is not surprising, therefore, that this sincerity in presenting a radio program has brought it more honors than any other radio offering.

4-H CLUB NEWS

PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN WRITES ON NATIONAL 4-H WEEK TO THE 4-H CLUBS OF THE UNITED STATES:

Greetings and congratulations are not enough this year for your National 4-H Club week, March 2-11. I hope you will make the week memorable by studying and planning to meet the challenges of 1951 in keeping with your own well-chosen national 4-H theme, "Working Together for World Understanding."

Our country and the peace of the world need everything you can do individually and collectively. You will need to put your heads, hearts, hands and health to the task of understanding what our country faces, to producing and conserving the food and other resources we need, and to keeping your bodies, your minds and your spirits strong. It is a source of assurance and pride that our country can count on the boys and girls in the 4-H clubs to do their full part as true citizens of this great nation.

Harry S. Truman

HE'S A 4-H BOY SHE'S A 4-H GIRL

Why does membership in a 4-H club mean so much to a farm boy or girl?

For one thing, consider what's learned. Each 4-H boy has his own projects for raising better crops and livestock. Or he may learn a useful craft. The 4-H girl gets training in cooking, sewing, and a dozen other things that will make her a better wife and homemaker. Then there's friendship and wholesome fun that comes naturally with young people getting together—under the guidance of a 4-H leader, a man or woman who likes to work with youth and develop young talent. But 4-H means even more... 4-H ideals stress character. "He's a 4-H boy... She's a 4-H girl." Through 4-H, farm youngsters learn responsibility and cooperation with others while making something of themselves. They learn pride in good living. For all 4-H boys and girls keep their eyes on this steady goal—

I pledge—
My head to clearer thinking
My heart to greater loyalty
My hands to larger service and
My health to better living
For my club, my community and my country.

This week, March 2 to 11, is National 4-H week. We join the many communities all over the United States now saluting their 4-H clubs, the 4-H leaders who unselfishly help them work out their program, and the parents who encourage their boys and girls in this extra education toward better farm living.

IN MEMORY

In loving remembrance of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Henry Becker, who passed away one year ago, on March 9, 1950:
You cannot say—you must not say
That she is dead. She is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be—since she lingers there;
So think of her faring on—so dear
In the love of there as the love of here;
Think of her still as the same—and say
She is not dead—she is just away!
Sadly missed by her husband and daughter Gladys.

CIVIL DEFENSE

Regional, State Training Centers Planned in Civil Defense Program

(This is the fourth of a series of articles on civil defense by Walter A. Shead, Western Newspaper Union's Washington correspondent.)

By WALTER A. SHEAD

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Authority in the line of command for the tremendous civil defense army needed in case of full scale war stems from the President, through Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell, to the 48 state civil defense directors and down the line to the appointed officers in cities, towns and counties throughout the nation.

National defense against atomic, biological and chemical warfare rests upon thorough training to start in a civil defense staff college to be established for top civil defense planners and administrators. The college will serve as a source of all latest information. Regional technical training centers are also planned where this information will be disseminated in the civil defense training programs in the states and local communities. The technical centers will be staffed by thoroughly trained men and women in all phases of the work and will provide means for standardization of the technical and special training. Standardization is a prime factor for successful mutual aid and mobile support which require a force of uniformly trained civil defense workers.

Graduates of the federal technical training centers will train other civil defense workers and trainers within the states, who, in turn, will train the local volunteers. Under the program, two kinds of training will be provided—general and specialized. General training will consist of instruction in basic subjects to include fundamental principles of organization and operation, basic first aid and improvised rescue operations.

Specialized training will give civil defense volunteers the detailed knowledge and skills to carry out their especially assigned jobs, including specialized health service courses against atomic, biological and chemical warfare. The American Red Cross, officials of the public health service and other organizations concerned with health services will conduct certain phases of specialized training such as first aid and nurses' aid training. Many medical officers of the military services, public health services, the veterans administration and other organizations have taken specialized courses in defenses against atomic warfare and these will be asked to assist in the training program.

ALREADY, in the atomic warfare field, 148 physicians from 38 states have taken courses given by the atomic energy commission in cooperation with the national security resources board. Similar courses for nurses have been started. Other courses either federal, state or local, will be available for dentists, veterinarians and other professional and technical people working in health services. State health officials have taken courses in radiological monitoring which included many aspects of the civil defense program.

Similar training courses will be available for biological warfare against humans and animals, and chemical and biological warfare against crops. Courses in these subjects will have three prime aspects—detection, treatment of casualties, and methods of decontamination. Training will be available for nurses aids and home nurses, radiological monitors, auxiliary sanitary personnel and auxiliary laboratory workers.

For large segments of the general public, the major type of training will be in the category of first aid—what to do first in any of the fields of civil defense. The goal is 20,000,000 trained first-aiders in a 22-hour course which will also include training in special weapons defense and in procedures for treating minor illnesses in time of emergency when physicians will be over-burdened with casualties.

Every state will operate under a uniform system of organization, equipment and procedure. Establishment of control stations in strategic areas, of first aid stations and the implementation of all necessary ambulance, hospitalization, fire fighting equipment and a score of other defense mechanisms will be taught. It is estimated that approximately 35 per cent of surviving casualties in an atomic bomb burst would require transportation by litter to first-aid stations, hence the importance of first aid work. As an example, if there were 40,000 injured survivors, about 13,000 probably would have to be carried by litters. Another 27,000 would walk, or would be taken to first aid stations by other means. So the most important function is in first aid training, since even fire-fighters, rescue teams, police, engineering and other personnel, first to contact the injured, would be called upon for first aid to casualties.

So every individual should watch for announcement of establishment of regional training centers and schools for training volunteers. Don't wait, volunteer your services. In the meantime, thousands of pints of blood, both plasma and whole blood, must be obtained and stored. Here is a first and most duty which can be carried out now.

(The last of this series of civil defense articles will appear next week.)

By INEZ GERHARD

HUMPHREY BOGART proudly boasts that some day his two-year-old son, Stephen, will be paying enormous income taxes. Bogart has made sure of that by setting up a trust fund for Stephen, into which will go the $5,000 weekly which the tough guy of the movies will receive for starring in the Ziv Company's transcribed radio series, "Bold Venture." When reminded that Stephen will have to contribute heavily toward the upkeep of Uncle Sam, Bogart retorts that he'll be able to afford it.

Margaret Sheridan, discovered five years ago by Howard Hawks, has been studying hard all this time in preparation for a picture career. She makes her debut as the feminine lead in Hawks' "The Thing" for RKO.

Thelma Ritter's first starring film, "The Mating Season," has a fine cast, good direction, and a familiar story. Miss Ritter was better as a supporting actress. Gene Tierney, John Lund and Miriam Hopkins are excellent.

Publicity of Punishment Will Halt Delinquency

By Wright A. Patterson

YOUTH DELINQUENCY is growing and spreading rather than abating. In the cities, considerable sections are over run with youth gangs who terrorize the public by committing many depredations, up to and including murder. But youthful delinquency and the organization and operation of gangs is no longer only a city problem. It has spread to the towns and villages.

My home town is a rural community. In it, the automobile owners over a considerable period suffered the loss of auto parts, spare tires, hub caps, hood caps and other things of value that could be easily detached. Those thefts were traced to a gang of 12 high school boys, and the police of the county arrested them. Through some of them admitted the thefts, none was locked up to await trial. Instead the names and addresses of the boys were taken, and also the names of their parents. They were given instructions to appear at the juvenile court, accompanied by their parents, the following day.

The boys and their parents were present, and the police presented convincing evidence to which no rebuttal was offered. After sentencing each of the boys to one year in prison, the court listened to a plea of clemency made by the parents. The judge suspended the sentences, placing each boy under the parole of his parents for the one year period, with the provision the boy must continue to attend school until graduation and must not be allowed outside of the home after six o'clock each evening, for the one year period, with the provision that any violation of that parole would be construed by the court as making the parents an accessory before the fact, subjecting the parents to conviction and sentence under such a charge.

The liberal publicizing of that case, including names and addresses of the 12 boys, and the sentence of the court caused both the boys and their parents to be ostracized in school and in the community, but failure to attend school meant going to prison. That was a wise decision on the part of that judge. It not only put the fear of the law into those 12 boys and their parents, but it had a similar effect on other boys with criminal and gang tendencies and on their parents. The one lesson has gone a long way toward curbing youth delinquency in my home town. It would not have been effective without the publicity given by the newspapers.

A committee of the senate that keeps its eye on the expenditures of the operations of the federal government, asked the 26 departments and agencies for the effect of the legislation that activated the recommendations of the Hoover commission. Of the 26 departments and

THE FICTION CORNER

A DULL FELLOW

By Richard H. Wilkinson

"IT WAS PROBABLY suicide," I said, looking around the cabin. "Why?" Capt. Rhodes asked. I nodded toward the walls. At least a half dozen photographs of Arthur Kimball hung there.

"Any man," I remarked, "who was so vain as to take all those pictures of himself along to decorate his cabin on a two weeks' cruise, must have been vain about other things."

"You mean he'd probably suffered financial reverses or something, and was too proud to face the facts, so he shot himself?" "That's about it," I nodded, pleased that the captain should give so much consideration to my theory. A very dull fellow this Capt. Rhodes.

The captain looked down at the lifeless body of Arthur Kimball. He had apparently been sitting at his desk, writing. There was a bullet wound in his temple. An automatic was clutched in the fingers of his right hand.

"I'm probably right, don't you think, Captain?" I said. "Captain Rhodes?" "No," he said, "I don't." He turned abruptly and went out.

Well, this only confirmed my ideas about the Captain's stupidity. To me the thing was dead open and shut.

The first mate, a tall, rugged individual named Brooks, told me to go to my quarters and stay there until I was called.

agencies which received that request, 25 complied. Each of the 25 reported increased efficiency, better service for the people, and, in practically all cases, a reduced cost of operation, ranging from a few thousands into the millions.

The one not reporting was that of defense. General Marshall merely acknowledging receipt of the request from Senator John L. McClelland, chairman of the committee. But he gave no estimate of actual or expected savings, though it was expected the legislation would reduce the cost of operation in his department by from three to four billion dollars a year.

The committee is instituting an investigation of the department of defense to determine for itself what result has been accomplished. It has full authority to make such an investigation. General Marshall has seemingly resented any interference on the part of congress with the operations of his department and has shown no interest in a reduction in cost.

He has on his department payroll a larger army of employees than the number of men fighting in Korea. The Senate investigation may cost his department an appropriation to pay that army of civilians. It would do a welcome job if it did. Senator McClelland, Democrat of Arkansas, is a real fighter for economies. General Marshall will discover that congress, including the senate, is top brass in the armed services.

A dull fellow, the captain.

Capt. Rhodes was prepared. As I sprang I landed in the arms of one of his men.

IT WASN'T UNTIL evening that the mate summoned me. I followed him down the corridor to Arthur Kimball's cabin. Captain Rhodes was there and several other men in uniform, and a strange man and woman.

"That was a very logical theory you advanced," the captain said, looking at me. "But we've proven it to be dead wrong."

"Wrong?" I said. "Mr. Kimball was murdered!" "I didn't say anything. The captain was not only a dull fellow, but now he was revealing a tendency toward dramatics."

"As soon," went on the captain, "as I decided that Mr. Kimball was murdered, I began to look for someone who knew him before he sailed. This wasn't an easy as it sounds. Kimball was traveling alone. Still, I figured that someone had engaged passage on the same boat with the idea of murdering him. That someone, I reasoned, would have taken a cabin as near to his as possible. So we began inquiring into the careers of all the cabin occupants along this corridor. The only two people whom we discovered who might have known Kimball are Mr. and Mrs. John Cole, these people here." The captain glanced toward the strange couple.

"But," he continued, "they have conclusively proven that they were in the main salon at the time the murder was committed."

"How did they know when the murder was committed?" I asked importantly.

"I told them," Capt. Rhodes said. "So I continued my hunt, and presently I discovered there was only one other person on board who knew Kimball. I discovered that this man had suffered financial losses through Kimball's activities."

"And who?" I asked quietly, "is this man?"

"You," said Capt. Rhodes. "It was a remote possibility, and I had not believed it would occur, but nevertheless I was prepared. Capt. Rhodes was prepared too. That's why the uniformed men were present. One of them had sidled in behind me, and as I sprang I landed in his arms."

The captain granted, "If," he remarked dryly, "you ever have occasion to plan another murder, consider the details." He pointed to one of the pictures of Arthur Kimball. It was the picture in which Kimball was seated at his desk writing. "Note," said the captain, "that Mr. Kimball is holding his pen in his left hand, as he is the riding crop and polo mallet in the other pictures. He must have been left handed, yet you placed the murder gun in his right hand."

A dull fellow, the captain.

The Old and the New

TIME MARCHES ALONG to a rataplan of knocks and raps. The loud noises and the squawks usually come from a group of gray-haired veterans panning the present generation. It may be a group of old-time ballplayers attacking the mediocrity of the present-day crop. It may come from a bunch of old-time fighters giving the world proof that those hanging around today are Grantland Rice largely bums. The same is true of football where the platoon system has been composed of half-players, according to the veterans of older wars. Those who can run or pass can't block or tackle and those who can tackle can't run or pass.

Only recently Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby, baseball's two greatest hitters—Cobb, the greatest—Hornsby, the game's greatest righthand hitter—decided there were no modern players who belonged among the first 20 of other years.

I don't believe this will quite stand up. I'd say an outfield composed of Musial, DiMaggio and Williams would have been awarded many sprigs of laurel or olive over 20 or 30 or 40 years ago. This trio would have been a great outfield back in the peak year of Cobb and Ruth.

One main trouble which arises in all comparisons is the change that has come to all games. For example, baseball has changed in many ways since the days of Cobb, Ruth and Hornsby. Or in the big days of Honus Wagner. Those were the days of the dead or much dealer ball—the days of the steal—not the days of the home run. Speed and quickness ruled over sheer power. Nine home runs would lead a league in one season. But it would take 70 or 80 or 90 stolen bases to lead a league.

Baseball from 1900 to 1920 was an entirely different game from baseball in 1920 to 1950.

A big part of the game's old science had given way to the home-run hitters.

Same Everywhere

Football is also an entirely different game from what it used to be. The first big change came in with the forward pass in 1906. The pass began to dominate the attack around 1915. Now it is a big part of football. The two platoon system changed football completely. The game of 1900—even the game of 1920—had passed out. Football is no longer a team game. It is practically one college meeting another college.

Today you have 30 or 40 men on each side throwing from 30 to 40 passes. So again how can you compare old-time football stars with the modern bunch, who either never make a tackle or else never run with the ball?

It might be well for all concerned to remember this—in the words of Bernard Gimbel—"In every sport that can be measured or timed records are improving year by year. The game is getting better and better."

Every sport should be well advanced today over bygone yesterdays. There are many more players, bulk training and smarter coaching in general.

There is no Cobb or Ruth around today and we'll likely never have another pair like this. But there have been some pretty fair ballplayers—Musial, Williams, DiMaggio, Rizzuto, Slaughter, Reese, Robinson, Terry Moore, Johnny Mize, Marty Marion, Yogi Berra, etc.

Bill Dickey ranks Berra up with the best catchers he ever saw, and Arkansas Bill knows about all there is to know about catching.

When it comes to comparisons, old and modern play are entirely too far apart to start any definite ranking.

The Case of the Cubs

Just across some 18 or 20 miles of water beyond Los Angeles there is a very beautiful island. Its name is Catalina—the training spot for owner Wrigley's Chicago Cubs.

On this island with its hills and vines you can go wild goat hunting, quail shooting or play golf. Or you can watch Frank Frisch and his Cubs getting ready to keep out of last place, if possible.

It is generally understood that Branch Rickey has no idea of permitting the Pirates to linger much longer around the cramped confines of the cellar. Smart baseball men are betting he will have his Pirates in the first division in two years. But the Cubs, in spite of Frank Frisch's driving ability, don't seem to be going anywhere in the general direction of any higher plateau.

But the Cubs have the most comfortable and best-kept park in either big league and so big crowds wander out to the West Side.

Frank Frisch is a first class manager and a terrific worker but for some odd reason it takes good ballplayers to win ball games, of which the Cubs have only a few.

Last season the Cubs broke briskly from the barrier and acted for a few rounds like a first division outfit. But not for long. Mr. Frisch was a worn and weary leader when he returned to his flower beds in New Rochelle at the season's end. He may be a worn and weary leader when he returns again this fall, but it will be a spring and summer reprieve with much vocabulary.

To prevent bedroom curtains from getting dirty and blown around when you open the windows before retiring of a winter's night, fold them out of the way and secure them with pinch-type clothespins. The pins can be hidden on the window sill back of the curtains during the day.

To put new life in a soiled powder puff, wash it in warm soapsuds, scrubbing the bad spots with a fingernail brush. But don't lay it out flat to dry, or it may turn sour. Pin it instead to the sunny side of a window curtain so that air can get at it.

Return in Relation To Feed Cost Down

Beef, Hogs, Sheep Show Highest Feed-Cost Gain

The nation's farmers are not making as much from each dollar spent for feed as they have in the past few years. In fact, the return for each dollar spent for feed in the production of eggs and milk is below the 1935-39 average.

For each dollar of feed the farmer spent in the production of hogs, cattle and sheep, however, return is higher than the 1935-39 average. In the production of eggs the farmers received $1.72 for each dollar spent on feed during 1935-39. But as of September, 1950, he was receiving only $1.56. The amount of return in the milk industry was three cents less than the $1.92 average of 1935-39.

The above chart shows the return for each dollar the farmer spent for feed in the production of the five farm commodities listed.

For each dollar spent for feed for hogs, the farmer's return in 1950 was $1.80, a drop of 23 cents from the 1949 return. The 1935-39 average return, however was even lower, only $1.50.

In beef production the average return as of September, 1950, was $2.35 for each dollar spent for feed. The 1935-39 average was $1.39 and the 1949 average $2.01.

Steps to Help Curb Swine Enteritis Are Outlined

- The American Foundation for Animal Health outlines seven steps to help curb swine enteritis.
1. Isolate newly-purchased swine from the home herd for at least three weeks, until they are known to be free of disease.
 2. Control internal and external parasites which weaken the animals' resistance.
 3. Keep swine away from old hog lots, contaminated pastures, cow pastures, stagnant pools and other sources of infection.
 4. Keep feeding and watering equipment clean.
 5. Check rations carefully, especially possible deficiency of B-complex vitamins. Prevent over-eating of rich concentrates.
 6. Earmark sows and their litters to identify and weed out sow "carriers".
 7. Watch for scouring, loss of weight, and failure to feed into gains. At the first sign of trouble, get a diagnosis and isolate the ailing animals from apparently healthy ones.

Tire Tether

Instead of tying a tether directly to the stake, fasten it to an old automobile tire casing and then drop in over the stake. The later, of course, should be much higher than ordinary so the animal will not pull the tire off the stake. This keeps cattle from winding the tether around the stake.

Chemical Blossom Thinning Raises Yield 15 Per Cent

Research men of the U. S. department of agriculture co-operating with orchardists of the northwest report that for the fifth successive season the chemical thinning of blossoms in golden delicious orchards has resulted in gains that average six boxes a tree or about 15 per cent.

The new thinners were used on an estimated 20,000 acres this past season.

Air-Filled Tractor Tires Outpull Liquid-Filled

Air-filled and weighted tractor tires can outpull liquid-filled tires on two types of southern soil, the American association of agricultural engineers has been informed. The types of soil on which they were tested were Norfolk sand and Davidson loam. No attempt was made to compare the two types in initial cost, tire life, bounce, convenience, or their effect on the soil, the association said.

The Way it Happened ...

IN TULSA ... A vengeful thug stole a police car from headquarters, used its two-way radio to taunt the cops in the station, got clean away.

IN PORTLAND ... Reported the Oregon Journal, a local dress shop put a placard in its window: "Maternity Fashions for the Modern Miss."

IN SANTA FE, N. MEX. ... Arthur Stein, head of the local chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous and executive director of the State Commission on Alcoholism, applied for a license to operate a liquor store.

telephone company be contacted to determine whether closer co-operation could not be effected in regard to the prompt placing of incoming police calls and the turning on of the officer's signal light. Supt. Wm. Schaub was authorized to clean up this intersection immediately and to take down, repaint and to replace the welcome signs at his earliest convenience. President Miller volunteered to contact the telephone Co. about the police calls.

Officer Haack and Mr. Hess appeared and suggested to the board that the members of the safety patrol be treated to an occasional free movie in order to keep their interest alive in this worthy cause. The board agreed to authorize any reasonable expense that may be incurred by this entertainment.

Architect Alfred H. Sewert was present and reported that he and the Pette Construction Co. were in the process of putting the finishing touches on the municipal building and the building would be ready for final inspection in about two weeks.

The board agreed to sell the old village safe to Wm. F. Schaefer providing he raises his bid to $15.00.

The bill of Erdmann Electric for the electrical work on the municipal building was placed on file pending final inspection of the building.

The commissioner was instructed to gather information in regard to insurance for the Fire Dept. ambulance. Trustee C. Sparks inquired whether the village contemplates any water main extension to the Utensil company's new warehouse. The board promised to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Motion by L. Dreher and seconded by L. Kohn that all bills and wages as recommended by the finance committee be allowed and paid. Motion carried.

90 County Fruit Growers Attend School at Jackson

About 90 members of the County Fruit Growers' association attended the one day fruit school held at the Jackson village hall on Thursday, March 1.

Among those who spoke at the meeting were C. L. Kuehner. Mr. Kuehner pointed out that if a heavy set of fruit is obtained this year, growers may want to resort to a chemical thinning of the fruit, thus assuring larger size and better quality apples. He also discussed apple maggot, plum curculio and red banded leaf roller control. He explained the use of new chemicals now available for orchard sprays to control these insects.

John Long, State Department of Agriculture, spoke on the need for active swarms of bees in orchards at blossoming time. Active bees will carry the apple pollen from flower to flower as they go about their job of gathering nectar thus insuring good pollination. Wm. D. Fitzwater of the Federal Wild Life Service, Purdue university, discussed the use of poison baits for mouse control in orchards. He mentioned the most effective poisons to use and how such poisons can best be distributed throughout the orchards.

The questions of what varieties of apples, pears, plums, cherries, etc., to plant are usually asked at fruit grower meetings. Here is a recommended list.

Early apples: Melba, Red Duchess, Milton, Early McIntosh, Dudley. Fall apples: McIntosh, Snow, Cortland, Wealthy. Winter apples: Double Red Delicious, Yellow Delicious, N. W. Greening, Secor, Red Spy, Northern Spy, Minnesota 790 (a good baker), Fireside.

Pears: There are a number of good varieties of pears suitable for Washington county. Clapps favorite is, perhaps, the best of the early ripening varieties. The most popular variety grown in the county is the Kieffer. Other good autumn varieties are the Bartlett, Flemish Beauty, Anjou, Lawrence and the Lincoln. The Winter Nellis is a good winter variety.

Cherries: Montmorency (best so far cherry).

Raspberries: The Latham is the best and the hardest variety of red raspberries. The Taylor and the Marcy are good promising varieties.

Grapes: Blue—Fredonia, Worden, Moore's Early; red—Delaware or Brighton; white—Portland or Niagara. The above list is merely a suggested one from the viewpoint of what apples are most in demand on the commercial markets. Many people prefer other varieties like the Russet or the Taiman Sweet. It is all right to plant such varieties for home use if you prefer them, but remember that they do not have a market demand.

The Surviving Children of 14 programs in the series over radio station WBKV, West Bend, at 5:15 p. m. Saturday, Mar. 10.

The transcriptions, dealing with the lives of 14 outstanding American leaders, emphasize the fact that America is still the land of opportunity where everyone with ambition, integrity, and willingness to work can reach the top. They are geared to reaffirm one's faith in private enterprise and to counter Socialist and Communist ideologies.

The Century Theatre, under the direction of Peter Prouse, is producing the transcriptions. This little theatre group was organized in Hollywood by movie and radio people who wanted to take a tangible stand against the Communists who were concentrating on their industries. Backing this group are such "name" stars as Gary Cooper, Irene Dunne, Clark Gable, Cary Grant, Loretta Young, and many others.

The first transcription features Rogers Toomey, a noted screen and radio actor of long standing, in the role of Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, who, as a Russian emigre, began his career as an office boy and rose to the chairmanship of the board of Radio Corporation of America.

Three succeeding programs will portray the lives of J. C. Penney, chain store founder; Dr. Elmer Henderson, president of the American Medical Association; and Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania state college.

The other 10 American leaders whose lives will be dramatized are Carroll R. Harding, president of the Pullman Co.; Alexander Harris, president of Inson Art Metal Works; Mrs. Lane Bryant Harris, founder of the Lane Bryant stores; Capt. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager of Eastern Air Lines; Louis B. Seltzer, editor-in-chief of Scripps-Howard Newspapers of Ohio; Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Electric and now Director of Defense Mobilization; LeRoy A. Wilson, president of American Telephone and Telegraph Co.; John L. McCaffrey, president of International Harvester Co.; Vernon L. Clark, national director of the U. S. savings bonds division, treasury department; and Thomas E. Courtney, founder of Northern Illinois Corp.

One of his principal tasks as chairman will be to head the speakers' bureau program, under which the bar association will endeavor upon request to furnish lawyers to speak to various lay groups upon a variety of legal, semi-legal and patriotic subjects. Groups desiring speakers should contact him a reasonable time in advance.

Through its public service program the bar also has made available two free leaflets, "Have You Made a Will?" and "It May Be Your Turn Next!"—what to do in case of an auto accident. Copies may be obtained from the local speakers' bureau chairman, or the Wisconsin Bar association, 122 West Washington ave., Madison 3.

VETERANS URGED TO RECORD THEIR DISCHARGE PAPERS WITH REGISTER OF DEEDS

In an interview with George A. Kolb, veterans service officer, he emphasized the need for having discharges recorded with register of deeds in the following statement: "This office has experienced difficulties with securing benefits for former members of the armed forces who were commissioned while in service, especially navy officers. Usually an officer who was released from duty received only a certificate of honorable service and a form 553 (military history) in most instances the veteran failed to preserve this form 553, which is a very important document. This office suggests that especially navy veterans write to the Department of the Navy for a transcript of enlistment service record and have this document recorded. This procedure usually takes about thirty days, so we urge veterans to check their service records to see if they would have the necessary documents when it becomes necessary for them to seek assistance from the veterans administration or other veterans assistance agencies.

A routine check shows that many veterans have neglected to have their discharges recorded with the register of deeds and this should be an important "must" with every veteran.

Recently it became necessary to file a claim for a widow of a World War I veteran, and for lack of documentary evidence, several months passed before benefits became available to the widow, who was experiencing hardships before the veterans administration could make payments and all because a veteran did not see fit to record his discharge and thus protect those he left behind.

Service Officer Kolb urges all veterans to see that their discharges are recorded and in case of a navy veteran that form 553 is also included. There is no charge for this service and your attention in this matter may be the dear ones left behind. This should also include your birth certificates, marriage certificates and other vital statistics.
