

Lakes Team in State Meet; Play West Bend

The Kewaskum Chevrolets, who placed second in the northern division of the Land of Lakes league as a result of dropping a one-point, 50-49 decision to the West Bend Lithias in the final game of the campaign, will play in the State Home Talent tournament which opens at Hartford this Sunday.

Kewaskum is one of 16 teams invited to compete in this tournament of champions. Others are Oconto Falls, Hartland, Beloit, Baraboo, Prairie du Chien, Madison, Cedarburg, Edgerton, Winneconne, Kimberly, Hartford, West Bend, and the winners of the tournaments at Port Washington, Waubesa, and Waubesa. Tourney games will be played Easter Sunday afternoon and evening, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Kewaskum's first game will be played Tuesday night at 9 p. m. And it so happened (7) that the Chevrolets drew as their first opponent in the meet the West Bend Lithias. These two battled it out for first place all season and split in two games. Kewaskum won the first contest, 73-61, and then lost that 50-49 heartbreaker in the final. The teams counted another game to settle the county championship on West Bend's home floor but were unable to go ahead with it because the gym was not available.

However, this tournament tilt will not settle the county championship and Kewaskum will stand little chance of beating the Lithias because Johnny Tessar, star center and league leading individual scorer, will not be able to play. He is out of action with a sprained knee and without Tessar, team sparkplug, the Chevrolets' chances are slim. In his place, two of the Kewaskum Rivers team cagers will be moved up to the Lakes team, with West Bend in agreement. Tessar injured the knee, which is in a cast, in a post-season game with a Fond du Lac team. It is a shame Johnny cannot play for then this contest would truly decide the county championship and supremacy between these teams.

In the playoffs for the grand championship of the Lakes circuit West Bend defeated Cedarburg in the first game but lost to the Hartland Lions last Wednesday night, 52-48, giving Hartland the title. In the preliminary tilt Sussess trimmed the Hartland Merchants, 49-43, for the grand championship of the Rivers loop. Hartland previously beat the Kewaskum Honkeys, northern division winners, 53-50, to reach the finals for the title.

The lineups and points scored: Kewaskum—Palk 12, Schiefel 10, Schmidt 6, Kempf 15, Keller 9 and McElhatton 2. Elkhardt Lake—Raeder 8, Miller 16, Wirtz 28, Buechel 6, Plum 12, Weber 4, Mudrow 12, Keestell 7, Hamann 3.

Holy Trinity parish in Kewaskum went well over the top in reaching its quota in the campaign. The grand sum of $1,026.05 was realized. Parishmen at St. Bridget's mission contributed $289.30, which amount is slightly over the quota.

Frank M. Surges, K.S.G., general chairman of the campaign thanked all who made contributions, great or small, to the cause of charity. He expressed his gratitude to the clergy, district chairmen, parish captains, 10,000 lay workers and everyone in the archdiocese who helped in any way to make this appeal successful.

A class of twelve children were confirmed during services at the Peace Church Palm Sunday. The class included Rev. Wm. Hohmann. The class included Rev. Wm. L. Tresser, Norman Wain, Harold Klein, P. Lynn Peterson, James Landmann, Arthur Schmitt, Mark Rosenbatter, Edwin Bokst, Richard Wegener, Beverly Steger, Roselin Steger, and Edward Krueger.

Mary Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Strobel of Wayne, was baptized at Holy Trinity church in Kewaskum Sunday afternoon by the Rev. P. C. La Voe. Sponsors were Mrs. William Voland, an aunt, and Lester Strobel, an uncle. The Strobel entertained dinner guests in honor of the occasion.

The Kewaskum High school and grades closed on Thursday for the Easter vacation. Classes will be resumed on Monday, Mar. 26. The Easter recess at Holy Trinity Parish school began at noon Wednesday and will continue until Wednesday, Mar. 29.

Plans of matrimony were announced for the first time Sunday in Holy Trinity church for the bride party of Theodore J. Schmitt, town of Kewaskum, and Mrs. Helen Weber, village of West Bend.

Lyle Bowen Is Badly Burned in Dundee Fire

Lyle Bowen, who operates a tavern in Dundee, was badly burned about the face and hands shortly after the noon hour on Wednesday in extinguishing a fire that started in the tavern basement. An old canvas caught fire in some manner and in his attempt to put out the blaze Bowen tipped over a can of gasoline, which flared up causing his burns.

Fire departments from Kewaskum and Campbellport answered the alarm to the place. Bowen already had the fire under control when they arrived. After being given temporary first aid by one of the Kewaskum firemen, Bowen was removed to a physician's office. Some damage was caused to the rafters in the basement which were scorched by the flames.

The Kewaskum Honkeys, northern division champions in the Land of Rivers league, who reached the semifinals in the gold medal tournament at Port Washington by beating Belgium in the first round, 66-50, were defeated for consolation honors Sunday by Elkhardt Lake, 91-50. After winning the opener, the Honkeys lost to the J and H Heating team of Port in the semifinals, 77-61, eliminating them from the championship flight but leaving them in the running for a consolation place.

In losing to Elkhardt Lake, the Honkeys played without the services of three regular men, Wink, Wierman and Des Smith, and this greatly handicapped the team. Kewaskum trailed throughout the contest although they gave Elkhardt Lake a fight in the first half, despite being far from at full strength. The halftime score was 37-28 but the Lakers turned on the steam in the second half and walked away from the locals.

Facing the winners to victory were their forwards, Miller, with 16 points, and Wirtz, who netted 28. Center Kempf was top man for the Honkeys with 15 markers.

The 1951 Catholic Charities appeal in the Archdiocese of Milwaukee ended Sunday, March 18, with reported contributions and pledges totaling $298,500, which was collected during the two weeks' period beginning Mar. 4.

Salvation Army Drive to Begin Here Monday

The Salvation Army's annual appeal for funds will begin in Kewaskum March 26 and continue through April 4. A meeting for all workers will be held in the municipal building Tuesday evening, March 27, at 7 p. m. The supplies will be given out at this time along with a brief report of the activities.

L. N. Peterson is the local chairman, of the service unit committee and will be in charge of the appeal. Those serving the committee with Mr. Peterson are: M. W. Rosenheimer, treasurer; Charles Miller and Clifford M. Rose. Emergency aid is given through the approval of this committee.

The area captains of the residential district are as follows: Mrs. William Guenther, Mrs. Leroy Keller, Mrs. Paul Landmann, Mrs. M. W. Rosenheimer, Mrs. Joe Schwind and Mrs. Allen Tessar.

Those in the men's division are: Harry Koeb, Carl Schaefer, Homer Schaub, Robert Schmidt.

Support your Salvation Army appeal and "Help the Hand that Helps the Needy."

Farmers of the Washington County Soil Conservation district were praised for the progress they made last year in establishing soil and water conservation practices on the land. Their accomplishments for 1950 and the district's plans for 1951 are recorded in the annual report just issued by the local district supervisors.

E. M. Romaine, Kewaskum, chairman of the district governing body, said that a copy of this report is being submitted to Charles F. Brannan, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture.

This report was prepared in accordance with a provision contained in the cooperative agreement entered into between the local district governing body and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The signing of this agreement in 1944 allowed the soil conservation service to accept an invitation from the supervisors and to complete arrangements with them to provide assistance to the districts.

Supervisors of the Washington County Soil Conservation district, other than Chairman Romaine are: Harry Sheski, county superintendent of schools, West Bend; Charles Rode, Route 2, Hartford; Reuben Schmah, Jackson, and E. J. Campbell, Route 3, Kewaskum.

According to the report, farmers in the district are showing increased interest, especially in the construction of terraces and the establishment of contour strip cropping.

Educational activities, as directed by County Agent Skalsky, included tours of cooperators' farms with the clergy of the county. Many general information meetings on soil and water conservation were held throughout the district; also, two terracing demonstrations on the Herbert Clausding and Isadore Strupp farms were well attended.

The supervisors feel that as a result of these activities, together with the conscientious efforts of our local soil conservation service personnel, interest in the program has been stimulated.

Seven Candidates Seek Election to Trustee Offices

Last Friday, Mar. 16, was the deadline for filing nomination papers for offices in the village of Kewaskum with Village Commissioner William S. Martin for the spring election Tuesday, April 3.

Seven candidates filed papers for the three trustee offices to be voted at this year's election. They are Joe Eberle, George Hanson (incumbent), K. A. Honeck, Jr., Leander Honeck, Robert Ours, Edward Schaefer, and Elmer Yost. With seven candidates in the field, a lively race is assured. The two other incumbents, Henry B. Rosenbier and Lester Dreher, are not candidates for re-election. Three other trustees, elected last year, remain in office for another year.

None of the other village candidates will be opposed. President Charles Miller is up for re-election and has no one running against him. The same holds true of Assessor Edwin A. Bartlett, who was appointed to office to complete the unexpired term of the late Jos. Mayer; Supervisor Elwyn M. Romaine, and Justice of the Peace (two years) Lucile W. Bartlett.

This year for the first time no village clerk or treasurer will be elected. These offices, as well as that of secretary of the water department, are now fulfilled by the newly appointed village commissioner.

Voting April 3 will for the first time be done in the new municipal building instead of the old village hall. The polls will be open from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

Originally scheduled for presentation on Apr. 7, the county-wide talent show being planned by the West Bend Kiwanis club will be held at the McLane school gym in West Bend on Saturday, Apr. 21. It was announced this week. Announcement of the change in date was made by Elmer Ekko, chairman of the committee planning the event. According to Ekko, conflicting programs scheduled for presentation at the gym necessitated the change.

Present plans call for limiting the performance to about 15 to 18 separate amateur acts, the planning committee disclosed. Acts will run from three to five minutes in duration, and the entire show is expected to last from about one and one-half to two hours.

While some county talent has already indicated a desire to participate in the program, applications from others interested will be accepted up to Apr. 1 by the amateur show committee. Persons or groups interested in taking part may secure application blanks by writing to the Kiwanis Club Amateur Show committee, West Bend, Wis. A limited number of such blanks are also available at the West Bend News office in West Bend.

Receipts from the show will be turned over to the club's boys' and girls' activities fund.

Prizes in the form of U. S. savings bonds will be awarded to winning acts, with a $50 bond going to the act winning first place. The West Bend Kiwanis club is planning to sponsor an amateur show annually. Additional information on this year's show will be announced shortly, the committee disclosed.

The Girl Scouts and Brownies will meet at Miller's Electric store at 9 a. m. Saturday to deliver the Girl Scout cookies.

The regular meeting of the Girl Scouts was held Tuesday at the scout rooms.

Alvina Weber, Native of Town Wayne Dies

A heart attack suffered while she was shopping in a West Bend store proved fatal to Mrs. Alvina Weber, 81, Allenton, on Wednesday evening, March 14.

Mrs. Weber, nee Wolf, was born in the town of Wayne on July 29, 1868, and grew up in that township. Following her marriage to Albert Weber the couple made their home in the town of Wayne where they operated the present Wayne-Addison Co-operative cheese factory. Mr. Weber passed away July 6, 1946.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber were the parents of four children, one of whom predeceased the parents. Surviving are Amanda (Mrs. William Martin) and Leander, both of Allenton and Hiram of Shawano. She also leaves three grandchildren, a sister, Leona Benedict of Allenton and a brother, Fred Wolf of Hartford.

Funeral services were conducted at Zion Ev. Lutheran church in the town of Wayne at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, March 17. The Rev. Walter Nottemann officiated and interment was in the church cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH ENDLICH Death claimed Mrs. Elizabeth Endlich, West Bend, on March 13. She formerly resided in the town of Wayne.

Mrs. Endlich, nee Jung, was born in the town of Addison on May 13, 1861. She was baptized and confirmed at St. John's E. and R. church at Kohlsville. On May 25, 1882, she was united in marriage to John Endlich of the town of Addison. Shortly after their marriage they settled on a farm in the town of Wayne where they resided until the death of Mr. Endlich in 1924. Mrs. Endlich moved to Allenton making her home there for several years, after which she moved to West Bend.

They were the parents of ten children, Edward of Little Cedar lake, Robert of Mayville, Alvina (Mrs. John Schmidt) of Cedarburg, Emma (Mrs. Hiram Neff) of Beaver Dam, Erin of West Bend, Hildegard (Mrs. Walter Friedmann) of Kohlsville, and John of West Bend. Three children, Selma, Amanda and Albert predeceased her in death. She is further survived by 17 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday at 2 p. m. at St. John's E and R church at Kohlsville. The Rev. Armin Duchow officiating, interment was in the parish cemetery.

MRS. ERNESTINE WEBER Funeral services for Mrs. Ernestine Weber, nee Marth, of West Bend, native of Elmora, were conducted at Emmanuel E and R church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Harry Baumer officiated and burial was in Union cemetery, West Bend.

Mrs. Weber died at her home Wednesday, March 14, after an illness of several years. She was born at Elmora, Fond du Lac county, on Feb. 18, 1877, and lived there for a short time. She came to the town of Barton with her parents and later moved to the village of Barton. Following her marriage to Mathias Weber, the couple went to West Bend to reside. Mr. Weber was killed in action overseas during World War I. Since then Mrs. Weber had been making her home with her daughter, Gertrude (Mrs. Ernst Boles) in West Bend.

Mother of Local Woman Observes 100th Birthday

Eleven years ago an 89 year old woman was struck by a car while she was walking down a Washington county road to pick up the mail. Doctor Sunday for her life.

On Tuesday that same woman, Mrs. Mary Sauer, observed her 100th birthday at a family gathering in her home at St. Anthony's, a few miles north of Allenton. She's been a lifelong resident of Washington county.

Her confinement to bed wasn't caused by the 1940 traffic accident. She recovered fully from that experience. In 1947, however, she fell in the kitchen and suffered a serious back injury. Since that time, her son, George, has remained at home to care for her. Other members of the family come to see her regularly.

Mrs. Sauer recites the rosary and reads her German prayer book daily. Before her back injury, she visited St. Anthony Catholic church almost every day. Now the pastor, the Rev. Francis Krause, visits her frequently.

Mrs. Sauer, born Mary Jazak, was married to Joseph Sauer on Jan. 20, 1872. He died July 14, 1924. They had operated a farm near St. Anthony and Neno for 40 years before retiring in 1912 to make their home in St. Anthony.

Mrs. Sauer outlived three of her 10 children. The seven surviving children are: Mrs. William (Tillie) Krieser and Mrs. John (Lena) Naeser, both of Milwaukee; Mrs. Ed. Gutschentner R. 3, Kewaskum; Anton and Carl Jr., both of Allenton; William of Red Wing, Minn., and George of St. Anthony.

Evidence that gifts sent to servicemen overseas by the West Bend chapter of the American Red Cross are getting through to front line soldiers was received in a letter which arrived at the Red Cross office in West Bend this week.

The writer, Lieutenant Robert Tucker, detailed his letter, "March 11, 1951, Southwest of Haengchon, Korea." He wrote as follows:

"Dear Red Cross Members: "I received P. G. Wodehouse's Meet Mr. Mulliner, which had your card attached. I want you to know how much I love it and I enjoy any reading material we can get. Your gifts make us realize that we are fighting for a reason and not just to gain some soil over here in Korea. "America is truly a great nation when the people go out of their way to make things easier for the men fighting for her. "Thanks again. Lt. Robert W. Baker, C.O. HQ, HQ & Sv. Co. 70th Tank Bn. $2600 Needed by Red Cross to Reach Quota

With ten days remaining in its month long fund campaign, the West Bend chapter, American Red Cross, was still more than $2600 short of its $6130 goal. A check with precinct chairmen Monday in the urban area covered by the chapter disclosed that contributions thus far have amounted to just over $3800.

Henry Renard, fund campaign chairman, said Monday that the drive has been slowed considerably in rural areas by the extremely bad weather of the past week. As a result, he said the drive in the city of West Bend is running well ahead of that in the villages and townships.

David Rolfs, general chairman for the city of West Bend, reported Monday that a telephone survey of the various sub-chairmen indicated West Bend had achieved its goal of $3300. This was the first such report received by Renard. It was also the first time in several years that West Bend was the first precinct to reach its quota in the annual fund campaign.

Several rural chairmen have called in to advise that the poor condition of some roads and the prolonged spell of bad weather have brought campaign work in the farm areas almost to a standstill. It was expected, however, that the precinct chairmen in these areas would be ready to make preliminary reports by the end of the week. Renard said he expected to contact precinct chairmen this week to remind them that the campaign closes on March 31. He said he hoped that all complete reports would be in from all precincts by that date.

"We have raised the half-way mark in our drive to raise $6130 for our Red Cross for 1951. We must raise another $2600, if we are to reach our goal, and we must accomplish this in the next ten days. If we do not reach our goal by March 31, it will be the first time that we in this area have failed to accomplish that which we set out to do at Red Cross time," Renard said Tuesday.

Pointing to the gigantic Red Cross program for 1951, particularly the shipment of blood to Korea, training of millions for civil defense, and morale services to men in the armed forces here and abroad, Renard expressed a confident hope that the reports during the remainder of March would put the drive well over the top.

MISS JAEHNIG AT CONVENTION OF ORGANISTS GUILD IN UTAH Miss Irene Jaehnig attended the regional convention of the American Guild of Organists at Salt Lake City, Utah, last week. The convention was held at the great Mormon Tabernacle on Temple Square, which seats ten thousand people and has in it the huge pipe organ that is world renowned for volume and tonal quality.

High lighting the meeting were organ recitals by Richard Purvis, guest organist from Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, California; Alexander Hebriner and Dr. Frank Asper, organists at the Mormon Tabernacle; and three students from Brigham Young university.

Dr. Asper, dean of the Utah Chapter guild, honored Miss Jaehnig by giving her the special privilege to play two of her compositions on this world famous five manual console during the convention.

YOUNG ADULTS CLUB The last meeting of the Young Adults' club was held at the Daniel Wagner home. Our toboggan party was called off due to the weather. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Olson attended the meeting.

Soldier in Korea Receives Gifts From Local Red Cross

Evidence that gifts sent to servicemen overseas by the West Bend chapter of the American Red Cross are getting through to front line soldiers was received in a letter which arrived at the Red Cross office in West Bend this week.

The writer, Lieutenant Robert Tucker, detailed his letter, "March 11, 1951, Southwest of Haengchon, Korea." He wrote as follows:

"Dear Red Cross Members: "I received P. G. Wodehouse's Meet Mr. Mulliner, which had your card attached. I want you to know how much I love it and I enjoy any reading material we can get. Your gifts make us realize that we are fighting for a reason and not just to gain some soil over here in Korea. "America is truly a great nation when the people go out of their way to make things easier for the men fighting for her. "Thanks again. Lt. Robert W. Baker, C.O. HQ, HQ & Sv. Co. 70th Tank Bn. (Hvy) APO 560, San Francisco, Calif.

The "card" referred to in Lt. Baker's letter is a small printed greeting card which carries the good wishes of the members of the West Bend chapter of the Red Cross. Such cards are generally attached to gifts which are sent out from here for distribution to servicemen in this country and overseas.

West Bend Chapter Chairman C. J. Schloemer announced that any persons in this area who have books in undamaged condition with which they are willing to part should bring them to the Red Cross office on the second floor of the West Bend public library building. Schloemer said the chapter would pack and ship such books to the far east for distribution to our fighting men and the wounded in hospital through Red Cross workers on the scene.

DENTAL HYGIENE

Child Dental Hygiene Changed Greatly as Result of School Study

WALPOLE, Mass.—In the schools here, they have added a new element to the traditional three R's, reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic. The fourth, 'tem is brushing. Brushing the teeth has become a carefully controlled, carefully recorded daily event, as the children lend themselves to a study that may bring about a major change in child dental hygiene. Every afternoon school session in the past two years has had a period devoted to supervised brushing of the teeth.

The Walpole studies have been carried on by the Tufts College Dental School in Boston. Dr. Helmut A. Zander, professor of dentistry at Tufts, chose the town (population 9,000) because it offered the opportunity to study the dental problems of children in two schools representing similar home environment. In some cases, different children were enrolled from one family in each of the two elementary schools. His purpose was to note the effect of penicillin when applied locally as a dentifrice.

Following three years of laboratory study and experiments, Dr. Zander's research staff had settled on penicillin as an effective control for dental caries (cavities). They had eliminated several hundred chemical compounds during their experiments.

WALPOLE SCHOOL and health authorities cooperated with the Tufts hygienists, dividing 400 youngsters into two groups, one in each elementary school. Their ages ranged from 5-14 years. Each child brushed his teeth regularly—following a course of instruction on the proper method for brushing teeth—under classroom supervision.

One group used a tooth powder containing penicillin, and known as dentocillin. The other group used the same tooth powder, without the added penicillin. Both groups were given dental examinations at frequent intervals.

The children who used the tooth powder with the added penicillin showed a reduction in tooth decay of 55.3 per cent at the end of the first year. At the end of the second year of the study, the same group had 53.8 per cent fewer cavities than the children who used the tooth powder only, without the penicillin formula.

Information on these studies has been requested by school administrators in many areas of the country, as the statistics developed.

To study the possibility of penicillin sensitivity or induced resistance to the penicillin ingredient, research was conducted by the Tufts dental hygienists on more than 4,000 adults. No serious reactions were noted, even in people with known sensitivity to penicillin in other forms.

Your Bank Account Backs Up Government Deficits

By Wright A. Patterson

SINCE JULY 1, 1950, the government has spent more than it took in. The government now owes $255,979,876.517. Although the government is not taking in as much money as it is spending, it is paying all bills promptly. No one with a bill to collect is left standing on the steps of the treasury building to wait for more money to arrive. I have frequently wondered about the government's settlement of its debts and have just had the answer.

Government bills are being paid with the money of American bank depositors from both saving and checking accounts. The government demands that each bank maintain an extra reserve in addition to that maintained for the protection of depositors. This is a sum equal to a prescribed percentage of deposits. Against this extra reserve, the government writes checks.

So, out of the money of depositors, the government writes checks in settlement of its debts when sufficient taxes have not been received. Simple, isn't it? People with bank accounts are financing government deficits. I know of one rural bank that is forced to carry 4 million dollars of extra reserve so the government may draw on the bank for all or any part of that amount. The government pays no interest on that reserve it forces the bank to keep.

depositors. The people of the community are denied the right to borrow any part of the $1 million. The denial affects not only the bank's earnings, but the accommodations it can offer its patrons. The local economies are affected.

I do not know whether it was congressional or presidential edict that demanded this extra reserve, but it is a long step on the road to socialism. It socializes the money of people with bank accounts. If it is the result of presidential edict, it is a long step toward dictatorship. When government can control people's money, it can control all their activities.

The fact the government is paying its bills does not mean it is not going into the red. Bills are being paid from American bank deposits to the detriment of the banks' stockholders at a cost to the communities the banks serve.

It is fair to assume that the people of no community would have approved of such methods of government financing had they known what was happening. But neither the government nor the banks explained it as protection against the moves the clever guys in Washington got away with.

THE FICTION CORNER

WHEN "SNICKER" Snyder, owner-manager of the Whirlwind baseball club, signed on the new player he always handed the newcomer a sheaf of typewritten papers and told him to read every line. Snicker was 50 years old and had been affiliated with baseball and basketball players all his life.

When Jock Dudley was handed the sheaf of papers he stared at it blankly and grinned. Snicker said sharply: "You read 'em, young feller! Every danged word." Butch Garrison, Snicker's head scout, had found Jock. Butch was enthusiastic: "The kid's a natural," he told Snicker. "He plays by instinct."

"Instinct be damned!" Snicker said sarcastically. "Some players are naturally good, but by gum, I've been in the game long enough to know you gotta learn the fundamentals or you get no place!" Three days later in the bullpen Snicker watched the new rookie throwing a few to old Dutch Feverell. Snicker fiew off the handle. He could tell by the way Jock was throwing the ball that he hadn't read the typewritten sheaf of papers. He called Jock aside and laid into him.

But a week passed before Snicker was sure that Jock had read the typewritten rules. Then he wasn't satisfied. "Maybe he read 'em," he snapped at Butch, "but they facts, however, are facts. Jock pitched in 10 games that season and won them all. "He don't need to be polished," Butch says. "I tell you the boy is a natural." "You're crazy! That stuff's for books. It don't happen." "It is happening," said Butch. "The kid's throwing 'em and he's hitting 'em. What more do you want?" "Polish," said Snicker. "He's got to do better."

Others have suggested the abolishing of all post-season and all Bowl games. This would reduce part of the annual autumn hysteria. A big part of football's weakness is the pressure put upon college coaches. Such colleges as Princeton, Yale, Tennessee, Miami, Kentucky, etc., have answered this by signing coaches for 10 years or for life.

Football vs. Education

THE FESTIVE (after a fashion) game of football has its share of troubles today, but nothing that encroaches on education. Football is numerically too small to have any serious adverse effect on a student's career.

For example, in a midwest university of some 14,000 students you'll find around 100 football players. You will also find that in most cases the football player has to meet the same student requirements as anyone else. This isn't always true. There are colleges with low standards of admission and low student standards later on. But these are in the minority.

What is it about football that has caused Athletic Director Dick Larkin of Ohio State to label the game a "Frankenstein monster"? Apparently he has asked a question that we can't answer. What has hurt football is not only the demand for a winner everywhere—but also the various devices used in trying to get this winner.

You don't hear a demand from students or alumni for a winning baseball team—a winning basketball team—a winning track and field team—a winning hockey team. But if you have a losing football team for over a year the howl that follows is heard around the world as the losing coach is catapulted into oblivion.

The alumni and student body or bodies take to the warpath in full war panoply, including tomahawks. As fine a game as football is, we can't see that its importance belongs above all other sports. It is difficult to call a sport amateur that takes in from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 at the gate in one season for one team. No other sport can draw 100,000 people for one game and often turn another 100,000 away.

The Army-Notre Dame game could easily have drawn over a million people at $5 a seat if there had been room enough. This is moving pretty high up for what was originally intended as "exercise, recreation and entertainment." A river is the fine thing for a community, but it isn't so helpful when it turns into a raging flood. A cooling breeze can be useful, but a hurricane or tornado seldom helps.

There is no questioning the fact that football's importance as a college sport should be brought back to the importance of other sports—if possible.

Many cures have been suggested. John Kieran, an ex-college athlete and a keen thinker, suggests that all gate receipts be abolished—as they are in some instances. That would be the complete answer.

Others have suggested the abolishing of all post-season and all Bowl games. This would reduce part of the annual autumn hysteria.

A big part of football's weakness is the pressure put upon college coaches. Such colleges as Princeton, Yale, Tennessee, Miami, Kentucky, etc., have answered this by signing coaches for 10 years or for life.

You can stop colleges from paying for talent, but no one yet has been able to think up a device that will stop alumni from offering under the table as much as $5,000 to a worthy athlete who can help win a few games. These outside hands often run from $100,000 to $150,000 a year. It costs around $250,000 to run a big-time football season.

A coach's job no longer consists of simply coaching a football team. He must become a touring orator, taking in banquets all over the map.

"I haven't been home with my family but two days since my season closed," one leading coach told me recently. "And that was over two months ago. If I have to look out at rubber steak and stale potatoes again, I think I'll pick out some tall building for a jumping take-off."

Football is still a great game—one of the greatest of all competitive sports. It has simply been pushed into an importance it doesn't deserve. Just how to cure this overgrowth is something beyond our limited reach. Its so-called friends are the main wreckers.

There has been intermittent scandal uprisings in sport between the Black Sox trouble of 1919 and the basketball mess in 1951. But these are the twin peaks of shame, corruption and coming crookedness. Baseball had a terrific let-down around 1918, 1919 and 1920 because of Judge Landis' take over in 1920. Any number of games were thrown by various teams and players in those three years. More than a few people knew about it.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Stubborn Deaf

WHY NOT FACE THE FACT that you are deaf, or getting deaf? Why make your affliction—a very common one—a blight to your family as well as yourself? The blind are tremendously courageous in lessening the burden of their own particular cross for everyone; most blind persons take particular pains to assure you that they get along very well.

The toothless—also a large army in middle life—smile over their troubles. They smile rather as a picket fence might be supposed to smile, perhaps, but nevertheless they minimize their misfortune, if it is one, and assert gallantly that to be done with dentists and toothache and fillings and all the rest of it is a relief.

(A boy on crutches thanks you) as you give him a hand into a bus or train. Perhaps he lost that leg fighting to keep you free and secure, but he doesn't remind you of it; he thanks you. One man I know wears but one arm; he was young when a railway accident changed him physically, for all the years to come. He drives his car, ties his tie, manicures his hand, runs a big business, and says that perhaps that misfortune "kicked him upstairs." He might have been a cog in a big machine, with two arms. The shock of his loss forced him to think and act independently.

But the deaf! Why are they so sensitive? "My daughters visited my mother in New York last year, looking forward to a wonderful time in the big city," writes Margot Younger from Plattsville. "It happens that my mother, my uncle, and an elderly cousin who lives with them are all rather deaf. The housekeeper is also deaf. None of these old persons would stoop to any of the hearing helps that are so wonderful now.

Deaf Go On Blandly "The girls screamed and repeated and interpreted until they were hoarse. Then they secretly sent my husband a wire to say that on any pretext they must be summoned home. By co-incidence their brother was expected back from Seoul for a few weeks leave, and Ray used that as an excuse, and they came home. Of course, they were both disappointed and discouraged, and we all began to think of this question of the bald and the blind, and the toothless and the blind, who face their own trials and carry them, while the deaf are going blandly on under the impression that nobody knows they can barely hear a word."

So much for Margot's letter. I quote it because when you are old you are constantly meeting this trying situation. Not long ago at a dinner I was seated between two elderly and impressive men, both of whom had almost lost their hearing. After you pass a certain age you rarely escape the necessity of having to shout when you are in a group of your contemporaries. "Deaf!" breathes the hostess tactfully, as she introduces. And you come home from the party exhausted.

Patience Wins One woman solved this in the case of a small, dainty little mother of 80, who had been a beauty and a belle, and was pretending that a wig, dental replacements, strong glasses and almost total deafness had not descended upon her years before. An aurist had ascertained that with a small apparatus attached to a thin cord, she could hear perfectly. But she wouldn't use it.

The family, her daughter, her son-in-law—a man of 60 who wore a hearing aid—her granddaughter and grandson conspired to bring her to reason. They began to talk in normal tones, and when the old lady shrilly demanded to be let in on the conversation they answered her in normal tones. They kept it up.

When the daughter explained that they were all afraid that the effect of shouting and explaining it would be bad for the family nerves Grandma demanded indignantly, "What shouting and screaming? You don't have to shout and scream at me," she said. "Just stop mumbling the way you've been doing. I'll hear you."

"Then we'll go on that way," said the daughter inflexibly. And again they did. And in less than three weeks Grandma was not only wearing a hearing aid, but hearing perfectly, back in the family circle.

The toothless have to come to dentures. The lame have to come to artificial. The bald woman knows her wig is quite recognizable, but she wears it. The war-blinded have no choice; they must face facts. But the deaf continue the pretence. And into the bargain—and because of their infirmity—they are the most irritable and sensitive persons alive.

Let's hope some of them can read.

Records Are Vital For Farm Efficiency
Well Kept Records Show Best Way to Cut Costs

Not long ago a farmer sent the internal revenue collector in his district a check for $200 with the explanation that he did not keep accurate records of his farm income and he hoped the check would cover any tax deficiencies of the past several years.

That farmer, of course, is an exception to the general rule, but there are some who still don't keep records.

No farmer can tell much about farm costs unless he keeps a record of his income and expenses. Keeping records isn't difficult; get an inexpensive farm account book and put down all income from sale of farm products, as well as all money spent for farm supplies and equipment. Take inventory at beginning and end of the year.

By close inspection of these records from time to time the farmer can tell exactly where he is losing money and on what he is making a profit. And there will be no doubt that he had paid the correct amount of income taxes.

University of Minnesota Develops Two New Fruits

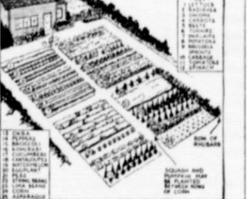

Two new fruits, a sour pie cherry, and an apple, have been developed by the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station and are being introduced to home gardeners this year, W. H. Alderman, chief of the division of horticulture, reports.

Named the Northstar cherry (Minn. No. 58) and the Lakeland apple (Minn. No. 978) because of their adaptability to conditions in that state, both are winter hardy enough to succeed in southern Minnesota and possibly farther south.

The Northstar cherry should be a valuable addition to the home garden for beauty as well as fruit, according to Alderman. It is the first pie cherry developed by the university and probably will prove to be the hardest and best adapted of any of the pie cherries grown in Minnesota. The Lakeland apple has promise of becoming an important commercial variety.

Introduction of the two new fruits brings to well over a hundred the number of fruits, vegetables and ornamental plants developed by the University of Minnesota to meet the climatic conditions of that and other northern states.

Garden Plan

Many gardeners never plan their gardens. As a result, they sometimes find themselves space-short and loaded with unbalanced variety of vegetables. The above plan perhaps contains too many varieties for the average home gardener, but it gives a general idea of what garden planning can do. From it the average gardener can draw his own plan and eliminate those vegetables he does not wish to bother with or which his family does not particularly like. Every gardener will find that planning pays big dividends.

Vegetables Good Method To Increase Farm Income

Farmers in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia who want to earn extra income during 1951 might do well to try producing vegetables, fruits or nuts, farm management specialists report.

Continued high employment and high income are expected to create a stronger demand for vegetables during the coming year. The increased demand is expected to continue next year.

Lice May Cause Big Drop In Flock Egg Production

If egg production drops for no apparent reason, one of the first things to look for is lice in the laying flock, poultry experts advise. Lice control is easy with available chemicals. One of the simplest methods is to apply 40 per cent nicotine sulphate solution to the roosts about an hour before the birds go to roost. The fumes will penetrate through the feathers. A second application is sometimes advisable.

Ground allspice and chopped parsley mixed with ground lamb give a tangy taste to this bland meat. If desired, the patties may be marinated in lemon juice or salad oil for one-half an hour before cooking.

If you prefer some commercial brand of sand-soap—especially for removing paint—and it isn't kind to your skin, add a little petroleum jelly to the soap before you use it.

Before going out to work in the garden, scratch your fingertips over a moist cake of soap so the soap will get up under your fingernails. This will keep soil from getting there instead, and the soap can be washed out easily when your day's toil in the vineyard is over.

Add flavor to meat by placing strips of bacon at the bottom of the pan. You'll also find it helps prevent it from sticking.

MILLER'S Always Dependable and Reasonable

Grasses and Legumes Chief Food for Man and Beast

This Irrigated Clover-Grass Pasture in Idaho Carries 25 Head on 10 Acres.

Men and their domestic animals live chiefly on grasses and legumes which include most field crops used as forage, feed and staple food crops in the United States, and also several important garden vegetables.

All our true cereals are grasses—corn, wheat, oats, barley, rice and rye (not buckwheat or flax), plus the true grasses such as timothy, orchard grass, brome grass, blue grass, sorghums, millets, etc. Among the legumes are peas, beans, soybeans, cowpeas, alfalfa, clovers, lespedeza, etc.

To make use of the newer techniques in culture, in farm practices and in the utilization of these crops, it is vitally important that the user, whether he be grower, feeder or manufacturer, have knowledge of these two families of plants, their structure, functions and relationships.

Grasses and legumes together form the major part of the grasslands of our prairies, woodlands and ranges. Agriculturally they have several things in common. Nearly all of the most useful varieties for grasslands are biennial or perennial plants which spread by means of underground rootstocks or maintain their original crowns and their productiveness for a number of years. Also, most of them are nutritious and withstand, without serious damage, tramping and grazing. They may be cut for hay or silage from one to several times a year, and under intelligent management will retain their productiveness. Under mismanagement they stand much rough treatment and neglect, and still give some returns when most other plants except a few of our more noxious weeds would disappear.

In soil conservation they are outstanding. Without perennial grasses and legumes the problem of reducing or preventing soil erosion and of conserving soil fertility would be far more difficult. With them, we obtain the combined result of soil conservation and profitable forage production. This unbeatable combination of yield plus soil improvement is the backbone of profitable grassland agriculture.

When we refer to "grasslands" we refer to lands in sod crops, whether those crops are only grasses or legumes, or include other species. Formerly, and still in the minds of some, sod crops or grasslands were rated below open-cultivated crops in importance and value. This may have been excusable half a century ago, when little attention was given to grass, but the tide has turned and today well managed grasslands are looked upon as the most important asset of any stock farm.

When one sees dairy or beef cattle wading knee-deep in a pasture of brome grass-alfalfa, he realizes that the day has passed of worn-out, neglected pastures, where cows fed on grass an inch high and had to browse all day long to maintain a livable weight.

This evolution of pastures and pasture crops has been accomplished by sowing adapted grasses and legumes, by adequate fertilization, and sound management practices.

Many productive and nutritious combinations of grasses and legumes which perform well together, are now known, seed is available, and there are usually several varieties available in any locality in the United States. The wise farmer and stockman studies these grasses and legumes from every angle before sowing, so as to attain the greatest possible yields of the best quality forage and thus make his grassland the most profitable part of his farm.

All county fruit growers desiring to purchase orchard spraying supplies such as lime sulphur, lead arsenate, etc. through the County Fruit Growers' association, must place their orders before Monday, Mar. 26. Orders are to be placed with Joe Monawetz, Route 1, West Bend.

DO IT EARLY

Fix it now and avoid the rush. This is a suggestion aimed at getting machinery and supplies ready for the busy spring season. You will probably be doing a high pressure job of farming this year. War demands, a shortage of labor, and some equipment shortages make early preparation more important than ever before. Now, if you have not done it already, is the time to check and repair every implement you need for spring work. Why? Because:

You have more time now. Repair men have more time now. Your equipment has more time. If repairs are made now, and equipment is put in shape, there will be fewer hours lost during the busy season. Already there are reports of slow deliveries on parts. So it might be a good idea to get the things you are going to need.

There will be less new equipment this year too, if you are going to need any, get your order in quick. This is also the best time of the year to talk trade-ins. If your dealer gets your old tractor or mower into his shop now, he will have time to work it over and sell it this spring. He will give you less for it later on because he may have to carry it over until next spring.

BARN OWLS ARE VALUABLE

Hold that gun! That barn owl is your friend. Ninety per cent or more of its food is mice and other animal pests. In Australia, laws actually encourage the barn owl and impose a $25 fine for killing one. In Michigan, it was found that the barn owl is a better mousetrap than most cats. One owl caught 73 additional mice while she brooded her young. These days feed is too expensive to feed to mice.

CARELESS BUYING

CAUSE OF DISEASE
The season of auction sales and community sales is in full swing. This is the time to remember that it is dangerous to buy cows that might bring disease to your herd. Heard's Dairyman says one of the most important causes of disease outbreaks in livestock each year is careless buying. If you are buying replacements this spring, be careful that you don't buy an animal carrying disease. Even if you buy a cow for $50, you lose money if she dies. You will lose a great deal more if she infects your entire herd.

To prevent trouble from careless buying, insist that the seller give you a veterinarian's certificate of health before buying. If the animals you buy are healthy, the seller won't mind this formality. It is good business. Would you buy a farm before making certain the title was clear? Probably not. Yet, with cow prices as high as they are today, the loss of your herd would mean about as much money as a farm did a few years ago.

As a final caution, keep new cows separate. This is added work, but it is worth it.

BROME THINS QUACK GRASS
Quack grass can choke out most crops, but it makes no headway against brome grass, says CARPENTER FAIRBANK. In Wisconsin tests, a brome-alfalfa combination caused quack grass to die out almost completely. In straight alfalfa seeding the quack grass made good growth. When brome is included in the seeding, a rook battle is on and brome almost always wins. When seeding the brome-alfalfa mixture, thin the quack grass so that the new seedlings of the legume mixture can get a good start.

Hank Peters, one of the Nova Scotia guides, featured at the Sentinel Sports show, Apr. 7 through 15 in Milwaukee's new arena, has not been beaten at a log-chopping contest in 51.

A $2500 lake-front property on Conners Lake, near Phillips, Wis., will be given to the person making the heaviest single catch of the entire 5 days and nights of the Sentinel Sports show, Apr. 7 through 15, at the show's famous "catch 'em an' keep 'em" trout stream. The stream will be located in Milwaukee's auditorium.

MALTING INDUSTRY APPROVES NEW MOORE BARLEY VARIETY

The Malt Research Institute has during the past week given unanimous approval to including the new Wisconsin developed variety of Moore barley as a malting barley. This approval was given as the result of a report by the steering committee of the Malt Research Institute and others who collaborated in running large scale tests of the top varieties of malting barley. On the approved list of desirable malting varieties are the Kindred, Montcalm, Moore, Manchuria, Dry, O.A.C. No. 21, Odebrucker, Odesa and Wis. No. 38.

This committee also pointed out that the Moore variety is, in a three year average, the highest yielding barley variety grown in Wisconsin.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR ARTIFICIAL BREEDERS

Because of the large demand for fieldmen a two weeks' short course for training artificial breeding inseminators will be offered by the College of Agriculture beginning April 16 and ending April 27.

Young men between 20 and 45 years of age, with some high school training, and with a farm background will be given admission preference. The fee for the course is $18.00 plus room and board.

Further information may be obtained from the agricultural extension office.

Dairy cows produced by artificial breeding are averaging more butterfat than all cows in the Wisconsin Dairy Herd Improvement association, university dairy husbandry specialists say.

of Main Street and the World

Labor's Recent Revolt Called Open Warfare on Truman Administration

LABOR IN REVOLT—The Truman administration has had many and varied difficulties in its history, but few of them ever approached the seriousness of labor's recent revolt against the government's mobilization effort. The decision of labor to withdraw from the wage stabilization board and other government agencies amounted to a declaration of war on the Truman administration.

The united labor policy committee, composed of 14 top officials of the C.I.O. and A.F.L., ordered the withdrawal. As a result, labor men resigned from 24 advisory posts and other positions in defense agencies including the military.

Labor made it clear that it felt "big business" dominated the mobilization effort, and that the several labor men in top federal jobs were used merely as "window dressing." The charge of "big business" was directed at Charles E. Wilson, director of the office of defense mobilization, who ignored labor when he first took office.

Labor was especially bitter about the 10 per cent wage formula as recommended by economic stabilizer Eric Johnston. The union leaders were not pacified when Johnston exempted from the wage ceiling all cost-of-living escalator clauses in union contracts written before January 25.

These grievances were serious enough in themselves, but there seemed to be other motivating facts behind labor's revolt. Hidden behind the curtains of petty disagreements was the fear of a labor draft during World War II.

In the interest of mobilization and the well-being of the nation, peace between the administration and labor has become a pressing, desperate need.

HOUSEWIVES' DISTASTE—It has been said by critics of this country that the United States is ruled by women, that our economy and way of life centers around the wives, sweethearts, daughters, sisters and mothers of the nation.

An example of the woman's influence on the nation's economy was reflected in the meat markets of the nation when housewives' distaste of costly cuts of beef caused some real price roll-backs.

A nation-wide canvass revealed that prices were cut from 10 to 25 per cent on the more expensive cuts of meat. And in every case, the price-cutters declared housewives' lack of relish for high red meat prices was the main reason for their action. There was evidence, too, that this trend might continue since meat supplies are abundant and getting more so. The agricultural department is on record as saying "prospects are for a larger meat production in 1951 than in 1950."

Meanwhile, the agriculture department had other interesting statistics for the general public, namely, farm-product prices climbed to a record level in February. The figures revealed that prices paid farmers for all their commodities was 2.25 per cent higher than the old record set in January, 1948, and about 26 per cent above the level prevailing before the Korean war.

However, despite the high level of the farm commodity market, only nine major products were selling at or above parity—the price standard declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products. The products above parity were beef cattle, veal calves, lambs, sheep, cotton, cotton seed, wool, rice and soybeans. Such products as wheat, corn, peanuts, potatoes, butterfat, milk, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, grain sorghums, dry beans, citrus fruits, apples, sweet potatoes, chickens, and eggs were bringing less than parity prices.

CASUALTIES TOTAL 50,675—The people of the cities, home towns and crossroads of the nation were beginning to feel the full force of the Korean conflict. Every day families in communities across the nation were being notified of casualties of war. The latest summary listed 50,675 wounded, missing or killed in action. Of this total, 7,639 were reported killed, 33,041 wounded and 9,635 missing.

And while American troops had suffered the greatest number of casualties, the 10 other nations fighting beside U.S. and South Korean troops reported casualties totaling 2,813. The breakdown showed Australia with 48 killed, 209 wounded, 6 missing, 2 prisoners; France with 44 killed, 201 wounded, 3 missing; Greece, 20 killed, 45 wounded, 1 missing; Netherlands, 24 killed, 76 wounded, 2 missing; Philippines, 150 casualties (not broken down into categories); United Kingdom, 145 killed, 442 wounded, 244 missing, 61 prisoners.

WATCHFUL WORLD—As deputy foreign ministers of France, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States met in Paris in an attempt to work out an agenda for a big-four conference, a watchful, but pessimistic world waited for announcement of first results.

Considerable doubt existed as to whether or not even an agreement on an agenda could be reached among the four nations. The Soviet Union indicated it would stress the German problem and charge the western powers with rearming western Germany. On the other hand, the United States announced it would direct the discussion to the vast build-up of arms in the Soviet Union and its eastern European satellites, and argue that those arms are the basic cause of the world's ills.

It was believed doubtful, therefore, that the big four could even agree on a list of subjects about which the big-four could talk with any hope of success.

It was also reported the United States would try to put the settlement of an Austrian peace treaty on the agenda, an achievement long sought by this government, but continually blocked by the Soviet Union.

Even if the deputy foreign ministers could reach agreement on an agenda, there exists little hope that the big-four can reach any settlement of the world's ills that will materially decrease the possibility of open conflict in the immediate future.

SPRING OFFENSIVE—The threat of a big spring counteroffensive by the Chinese Communists still hung over the Korean front as United Nations troops continued their push northward. Heavy movements of troops were reported at several points behind the Red lines.

Increasing numbers of Communist trucks were reported moving south into Seoul and the Reds stepped up night mortar and artillery fire from the old South Korean capital. There were also indications that a new Chinese division may have been moved into Korea in preparation for the expected offensive.

Frontline observers pointed out that the Chinese have switched from night to day operations, usually a sign of desperation. There was no indication, however, that either side could chop out a clear-cut victory that might terminate hostilities. It remains a battle of Chinese manpower vs American firepower.

REDS DECLINE IN EUROPE—An indication that the Communists are losing the battle to take over western Europe by boring from within was revealed in a state department report that said the party had lost a third—1,295,000—of its members in the west since World War II.

The report said there were 1,673,002 Communist party members in western Europe (except Italy) in 1946, and 2,300,000 in Italy in 1948—a total of 3,973,000. The number dropped to 2,678,000 in 1950.

ATOMIC BOMB

Scientist Says It Could Destroy Russia

The often questioned power of the atomic bomb was given a shot in the arm by one of the nation's leading scientists recently when he asserted that American atomic bombs "would destroy Russia" if the Soviets started war in Europe now.

Dr. Vannevar Bush, president of Carnegie Institute of Washington, one of the codevelopers of the atom bomb, said: "We could destroy not only the key centers from which her (Russia) armies would be supplied, but also political centers and the communications of her armies on the march. Initially equipped with weapons and supplies, those armies might keep rolling for a time, but there would be no Soviet Union behind them as we know it at the present time."

World War I Veterans Will Get New Dividend

The veterans of World War I will split a $16,000,000 insurance dividend this year, the veteran administration announced.

This dividend is in addition to a second special N.S.L.I. payment of $685,000,000 that will be paid, starting next month, to holders of 8,900,000 World War I policies. The VA announced that dividends are to be paid annually when there is a surplus.

The Iron Curtain

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S well-known phrase "the iron curtain" has now become so universal that some people really believe the Soviet border is encased in iron. Actually, however, the curtain is made of barbed wire—and rusty barbed wire at that.

This writer visited the southernmost segment of the iron curtain today at a spot where democratic Turkey and Communist Bulgaria meet. This border is the start of a long tangled barricade zigzagging north past Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Poland. And though the fields of winter barley are just as green on both sides of this barbed-wire barricade, it might just as well have been made of iron as far as free exchange of human intercourse is concerned.

I drove up to the curtain in a jeep with Captain Fethi Seekin and Lieutenant Ali Aksoz of the Turkish army. The latter is in command of a ten-man detachment guarding the Kaprikule outpost. The road leading to the curtain was paved with centuries-old stone and beside the road were Roman wells built by Emperor Adrian. But the traffic leading to the barbed-wire curtain, aside from an ox team pulling a John Deere disc drill, a tribute to the Marshall plan, was nil.

Suddenly the road ended. Ahead was an iron gate bearing that international English word known to every tongue: "Stop." Beyond it was another gate slightly rusty and dilapidated bearing the words "Bulgaria" in both French and Cyrillic. This was the iron curtain and the place which Turks call Serhad, which significantly has two meanings: the frontier and the neckline where one's head is chopped off.

Blockhouses Guard Curtain

Alongside the gate was a series of blockhouses—one on the Bulgaria side, a little shabby with some of its windowpanes missing, and two on the Turkish side, both new and orderly. One Turkish blockhouse—set back from the iron gate but connected with it by a series of trenches—housed troops.

I climbed stairs inside the thick-walled parapet to the tower on top of which a Turkish soldier stood scanning the landscape through field glasses. Through his glasses we could see a Bulgarian guard in the tower on the opposite side of the iron curtain, scrutinizing us. From time to time he would run to the telephone evidently to notify his headquarters about our party. Aside from this, there was almost no movement on the frontier. The sturdy walls, pierced with rifle slots, looked down on nothing more than the winter barley fields and the long, long barricade of barbed wire extending north.

Prisoners Escape

A herd of water buffalo grazed in the distance. They did not know the difference between communism or democracy. Through Russianized Bulgaria or Turkey—to which the Truman doctrine is supplying arms and Marshall plan aid. They only knew that the grass was just as green on either side.

"Sometimes," remarked Captain Seekin, "sheep or buffalo get under the wire and cross to the Bulgarian side and the Communists shoot them. Our farmers get no chance to herd them back." Sometimes, also, I learned, Bulgarian political prisoners sneak through the barbed wire at night to give themselves up to Turkish authorities. This happens at the rate of two or three times per month and they tell a story of harassment and political suppression in what once was a relatively democratic country.

Climbing down from the water-tower we moved closer to the iron curtain to the second Turkish building. This one was just six feet from the gate separating the two countries.

On rare occasions an official with a properly visaged passport is permitted to pass through this gate and customs officials are kept on the Turkish side to handle such transits. We sat down a few feet from the gate to drink coffee with the customs officials. The weather was cold but the sun was warm, and I pulled my chair out onto a stone platform in the sunshine in full view of the Communist guards peering down through rifle slots in their watchtower fifty feet away.

I don't know and never will know what they thought of the stranger—the civilian dressed in western clothes who sat and drank coffee just below them.

I don't even know whether they recognized me as an American but the Turkish guards, who watched them from the tower with their field glasses, reported that, on the opposite side of the iron curtain, there was more scurrying and more frantic telephoning back to their headquarters.

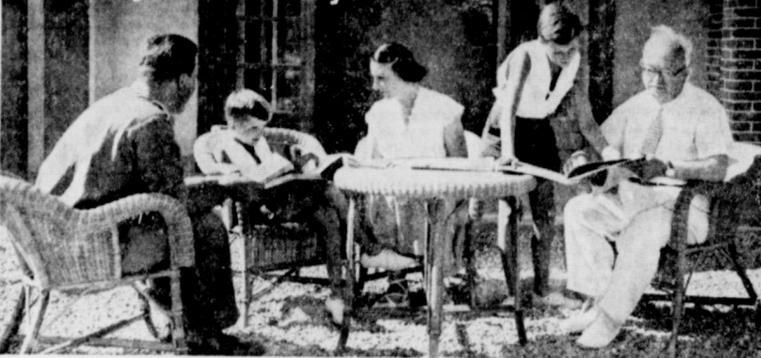

However, the sun was warm and the coffee delicious and we lingered talking about the days when the army of Sultan Bevizid battled with the armored knights of the Polish king and the grand marshal of France.

Battle for Adrianople

For hundreds of years men had fought to control this gateway to the Bosphorus and they were still fighting. But the big question is would another war start actively this spring? Would the Russians attack before Eisenhower has a chance to strengthen the armies of western Europe, before an American-equipped Turkish army becomes stronger, before Marshal Tito further solidifies his hold on Yugoslavia? That is a question discussed in the chanceries I came to Europe to try to answer.

First Family Of France

Weekly - Picture - Story

Every summer the President of France and his family leave the Elysee palace in Paris to spend several weeks on his peach farm 40 miles southwest of Toulouse. Above is an informal picture of the President away from the cares of state. He is scheduled to visit President and Mrs. Truman at Blair House between March 28 and April 3. In the above picture (left to right) are Paul Auriol, the President's son, Jean Paul, Madame Michele Auriol, Jean Claude and President Vincent Auriol.

The President's library at La Bordette is a treasure of favorite volumes of the French leader. Above he is shown selecting a book from a cabinet that holds mostly French classics. Fishing is one of the favorite pastimes of the President. With his grandson, Jean Claude, the President is pictured at the left getting his equipment ready for an expedition.

Painter Feels Good Again

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B¹, B², Niacin and Iron Which His System Lacked

When a man works hard all day, he has to get a good night's sleep in order to keep going. Take Mr. Tony Wesalick of 1010 Tabor St., Houston, Texas, for example. Up until a few months ago Mr. Wesalick just couldn't sleep, had no appetite, and was bothered with indigestion. Then he heard about HADACOL and started taking it. A painter by profession, Mr. Wesalick says that now he gets up in the morning feeling so rested, and so full of energy that he's almost never tired any more. He eats everything he wants without being troubled with indigestion, and has a wonderful appetite since HADACOL helped overcome his deficiencies of Vitamins B¹, B², Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Wesalick's own statement: "I was run-down and I would get up in the morning feeling as if I hadn't slept at all. My appetite was bad, and I just didn't feel like eating, and when I did eat I had terrible indigestion. After a bottle and a half of HADACOL I felt much better. I have now taken about five more bottles of HADACOL and can eat and enjoy everything I want. I sleep much better and feel more rested. HADACOL has done this for me." If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied. Adv. © 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Policemen Seen as Symbols By Lawrence Gould

May a law-abiding person hate policemen?

Answer: Yes. And the less contact he has had with them as human beings, the stronger the hatred may be.

are really envying is the other fellow's appearing to get away with being childish, even though you know that childishness never than to anyone's advantage is that keeps you from acting as he does.

Can music express humor?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Helen K. Mull, of Sweet Briar College, Va., in the American Journal of Psychology.

Answer: On the surface, it may seem so. If you understand why someone is in a bad humor, you will make allowances for him which you know he would not make for you, and you may be tempted to resent the fact that you "have to do all the adjusting."

Units for Studying Common Cold

By Dr. James W. Barton

WE HAVE ALL HEARD OF cancer units—groups of research laboratory workers, practicing physicians and chemists whose entire efforts are devoted to investigating the cause of cancer so that humanity may escape this terrible scourge.

to infect by inoculation any laboratory animal other than the chimpanzee, failed.

The findings of the Common Cold Research Unit, Harvard Hospital, Salisbury, Wiltshire, England, set up by the Medical Research Council and the Ministry of Health in 1946, are reported by Dr. C. H. Andrews in the British Lancet.

Notwithstanding the failure of this unit to cultivate the virus and learn more about colds, some important information about colds was obtained by a study of injections into the nose of substances causing infection, into 899 human volunteers over a period of two and one-half years.

The apostle appointed in place of Judas. He is said to have suffered a martyr's death.

HEALTH NOTES

It is comforting to know that in so many instances nature provides extracts from animals to replace man's needs.

Removal of a clot in a portion of the brain has restored normal movement of the body and restored normal mental behavior.

Emotional ill health causes most lost time in industry.

Mixing with others helps us to keep normal in our mental development.

A thorough physical examination of the neurotic patient is most important.

All gallstone patients are not overweight.

Everybody needs some table salt daily.

Dizziness is a condition often associated with underactive thyroid.

Standard blood pressure readings are now considered too low.

Blood pressure in some people will rise from time to time and stay elevated for a period, then drop back to normal.

Headache is often caused by eye disturbances.

It should not be assumed that high blood pressure is an upper income bracket ailment.

Home treatment may prolong course of some skin ailments.

One type is especially susceptible to high blood pressure: the hefty type.

INSPIRATION Joy In God

AN EDITORIAL

"REJOICE in the Lord always," says St. Paul, "and again I say, rejoice." The best Christians are the happiest.

Some people picture the religious man as a somber, sad individual. They seem to think that piety and gloom go together. The truth is quite opposite.

Anyone's life can be a joyous one if it is filled with the buoyancy and exaltation that comes from friendship with God.

Joy in God does not mean, of course, freedom from all worldly care or suffering.

Another man might work just as diligently and be just as charitable, but he might also lack the happy inspiration of referring all he does directly to God.

The key to happiness in God is service. The more we give to God, the happier we shall become.

Another man might work just as diligently and be just as charitable, but he might also lack the happy inspiration of referring all he does directly to God.

The above editorial and other material appearing in this column, was prepared by Religious News Service.

Clergyman Reveals Gambling Bribe Offer

NEW ORLEANS — A Jefferson Parish county clergyman testified before the senate crime investigating committee here that New Orleans gamblers tried to bribe him by the offer of an $80,000 new Sunday school building.

The Rev. Dana Dawson, 33, pastor of the Memorial Methodist church in Metairie, told the committee that gamblers offered him the building to keep quiet.

Mr. Dawson said he turned down the offer and the congregation erected its own building. He was a principle in a number of padlock suits in the local courts.

The clergyman said he started his campaign against gambling shortly after he moved to the parish in 1946.

"When I moved in during November of 1946 I had been there only a short time when people began to call, objecting to gambling," he said. "They wanted an organization. We organized a citizens' league in Jefferson Parish."

Offers Amendment That Recognizes The Law of Christ

WASHINGTON, D.C.—An amendment to the Constitution which would declare that the United States "recognizes the authority and law of Jesus Christ" has been introduced in the senate by Sen. Ralph Flanders (R-Vt.).

The proposed amendment would contain language making it clear that it would not in any respect abridge freedom of religion or establish any particular ecclesiastical organization in contravention to the present separation of church and state.

Senator Flanders said that he introduced the resolution (S. J. Res. 29) at the request of numerous individuals who wrote to him following his address "Let's Try God" delivered in the senate last fall.

The resolution would require approval by a two-thirds majority of both house and senate in order to submit the amendment to the states for ratification.

Text of the proposed amendment follows: "Section 1. This nation devoutly recognizes the authority and law of Jesus Christ."

"Section 2. This amendment shall not be interpreted so as to result in the establishment of any particular ecclesiastical organization, or in the abridgment of the rights of religious freedom."

"Section 3. Congress shall have power, in such cases as it may deem proper, to provide a suitable oath or affirmation for citizens whose religious scruples prevent them from giving unqualified allegiance to the Constitution as hereinafter amended."

Resolution Expresses Friendship for Russians

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A bipartisan group of senators from the three major faiths have introduced a resolution expressing friendship for the Russian people.

Sen. Brian McMahon (D-Conn.) led the group of 22 senators introducing the resolution in the Senate. Rep. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) introduced a companion resolution in the house.

"The deepest wish of our nation," it said, "is to join with all other nations in preserving the dignity of man, and in observing those moral principles which alone lend meaning to his existence."

"The American people desire neither war with the Soviet Union nor the terrible consequences of such a war. Although they are firmly determined to defend their freedom and security, the American people welcome all honorable efforts to compose the differences standing between them and the Soviet government."

Protestants United Protest Movie Ban

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Action of the St. Paul city council in barring the showing of the movie, "The Miracle," at the request of the Knights of Columbus has been protested as "hasty and undemocratic" by Protestants United of St. Paul.

In a letter to the council, Dr. Irving A. West, pastor of the House of Hope Presbyterian church and chairman of the Protestant group, said "this issue is not centered around the merits or demerits of this particular film."

"We hold no brief for it," he declared. "The issue is whether one group in the community, representing a segment of our population, can secure the barring of a motion picture from the entire population of the city."

"No other cultural or religious group was consulted by the council in this action, and we believe that their decision was hasty and undemocratic."

Lessons in Atheism?

COLUMBUS, O.—America's public school children are being trained "in what amounts to practical atheism," a Protestant leader said here.

Dr. Truman B. Douglass of New York made the charge in addressing the first meeting of the division of Christian education of the national council of churches.

Dr. Douglass said the position of education toward religion has shifted.

"A nation which acknowledges its Christian origins, and even proclaims to the world that it is in some sense a Christian nation," he said, "is so ordering its education enterprise that children are trained in what amounts to practical atheism."

"Some of us would insist that an educational program which is neutral toward the supremely momentous spiritual truth underlying our common life is actually a program of miseducation."

He said the public should be alarmed.

Economical Easter Dinner Possible With Seasonal Vegetables

MOST OF OUR HOLIDAYS call for big meals that require a lot of preparation. Easter dinner can be different! Delicious to eat, lovely to look at, with its generous sprinkling of fresh Spring green color in the foods, a simple to prepare is the Easter dinner if you follow these recipes.

Vegetables for the meal and the salad are seasonal, and thus economical; so, too, is the ice cream with its lovely green plums that require no preparation except the serving.

Lamb Shoulder Roast

Before roasting shoulder of lamb, be sure to note its weight in order to determine the proper cooking time. Low cooking temperature is important for best results.

For roasting, wipe meat with a damp cloth, sprinkle with salt and pepper and place on a rack in an open pan. Insert a meat thermometer into a part of the roast which is free from fat and gristle.

Roast in a free oven (325°) for 35 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers an internal temperature of 182°.

If you like a hint of garlic flavoring in the lamb roast, do this: Grate a clove of garlic and mix with 2 tablespoons olive oil or melted butter. Before roasting, cover the top of the lamb with this mixture, using a pastry brush.

HERE'S A TASTY way to use the leftover portion of the lamb roast: Creamed Lamb on Toast (Serves 6)

3 cups cold, cooked lamb, diced 4 tablespoons flour 4 tablespoons butter 2 cups milk Salt and pepper Paprika Button mushrooms

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Add meat and mushrooms, cut in slices. Serve hot on toast triangles. Garnish with a sprinkling of paprika and a sprig of parsley.

Quick Celery Crescents (Makes 1 dozen rolls)

1 package dry yeast 1/4 cup warm water (105°-110°) 1/2 cup milk 1 tablespoon sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 3 tablespoons soft shortening 2 cups sifted flour Melted butter Celery seeds, salt

Add yeast to water and let stand. Scald milk and pour into a large bowl with sugar, salt and shortening. Blend together and cool to lukewarm. Stir yeast mixture and pour into bowl. Mix in flour, one cup at a time. Place in a greased bowl. Cover with a damp cloth and let rise in a warm place for 30 minutes.

Punch down. Toss dough onto lightly floured board. Roll into a 12-inch circle, 1/4-inch thick. Brush with melted butter. Cut into 12 pie-shaped pieces. Stretch wider end of each piece a little as you roll, so the long point winds up on the outside. Curve ends to form a crescent. Brush with beaten egg. Sprinkle with celery seeds and salt. Let rise

French Dressing (Makes 1 cup)

1/2 head lettuce Few leaves of leaf lettuce 1 medium-sized cucumber 1/2 cup sliced radishes 1 green pepper Salt and pepper 2 tablespoons blue cheese, crumbled French dressing

Break head lettuce into bite-sized pieces. Arrange on leaves of lettuce. Add cucumber, peeled and sliced with radishes and green pepper which has been sliced. Sprinkle with salt and freshly ground pepper, then cheese. Add French dressing and toss lightly.

Ice Cream with Green Gage Plums (Serves 6)

1 quart vanilla ice cream 1 No. 2 1/2 size can green gage plums

Drain syrup from plums. Arrange ice cream in a large bowl with large spoon or scoop. Garnish or surround with the drained plums. Serve immediately with a pitcher of the syrup, drained from the plums.

Plums for the ice cream dessert may be chilled in advance, though it's not necessary to remove them from cans or jars until almost serving time.

Plum Filling in Biscuit Baskets or Tart Shells becomes a special Easter treat when decorated with pale green coconut and jelly beans.

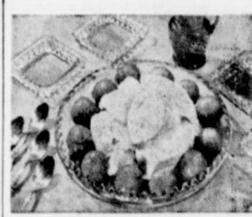

Pears, cut in two, hollowed out and filled with cream cheese and mint jelly make a snappy garnish for any lamb cut, roast or chops.

Plan to use some of those decorated Easter eggs, which have been hard-cooked, for Sunday night supper. Slice and fold into cheese sauce. Pour over some canned, drained sardines which have been arranged on toast.

Peach or pear halves can be nestled on frills of lettuce, then filled with fruit as an attractive and seasonal salad. Use green and red maraschino cherries to simulate colored eggs in the salad "nest."

French fried noodles or Chinese noodles can be used to make nests. Use creamed eggs and peas in this type of food service, making simple foods attractive.

Make bunny decorations on cakes by cutting the head, body, ears and tail from gum drop candies. Use against a thin white icing for best results.

Let dessert for Easter be easy to prepare, so you can enjoy the holiday. Ice cream is simply placed in a large attractive bowl, then garnished with canned, green gage plums. If desired, roll the plums in shredded almonds or other finely chopped nuts.

for 15 minutes. Bake in a hot (400°) oven for 12 to 15 minutes.

Franconia Potatoes

Wash and peel medium-sized potatoes. Rinse well in cold water. Parboil for 10 minutes, then place in pan in which meat is roasting.

Either asparagus or green peas are a good choice for a vegetable with the lamb dinner. Pay special attention to seasonings if you want them to be at their best.

Minted Peas

Cook green peas in a small quantity of boiling, salted water. Season with butter and minced mint leaves. Toss until leaves are well mixed with the peas.

Asparagus Polonaise

Use fresh or quick-frozen asparagus tips and cook in a small amount of boiling, salted water until tender. In the meantime, melt butter in skillet, and brown fine dry bread crumbs in it. Toss this mixture into the asparagus just before serving.

Tossed Spring Salad (Serves 6)

1/2 head lettuce Few leaves of leaf lettuce 1 medium-sized cucumber 1/2 cup sliced radishes 1 green pepper Salt and pepper 2 tablespoons blue cheese, crumbled French dressing

Break head lettuce into bite-sized pieces. Arrange on leaves of lettuce. Add cucumber, peeled and sliced with radishes and green pepper which has been sliced. Sprinkle with salt and freshly ground pepper, then cheese. Add French dressing and toss lightly.

French Dressing (Makes 1 cup)

1/2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon sugar 1/4 teaspoon paprika 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard 1/4 cup vinegar 1/4 cup salad oil 1 teaspoon minced parsley 1 clove garlic, cut

Combine all ingredients in a bottle; cover and shake. Chill and use as needed.

Plums for the ice cream dessert may be chilled in advance, though it's not necessary to remove them from cans or jars until almost serving time.

Uncle Sam Says

"The U. S. Defense and War Bonds that my wife and I bought for our country's defense helped us to build our own home." Those are not the words of a man working for a big salary or who invested in the stocks and bonds markets. They are the words of a wage earner, a factory employee. Security for yourself and family and for our American way of life is contained in your purchase of U. S. Defense Bonds. BOLTONVILLE BUSY BEAVERS 4-H CLUB NEWS

"Working together for world understanding" 4-H club 1951 slogan, was beautifully developed when the Girl Scouts of Troop 2, West Bend, happily joined the Boltonville Busy Beavers 4-H club on Thursday evening, March 15, at the Modern Woodmen lodge rooms, to celebrate the 35th National Girl Scout birthday. The scouts were accompanied by Mrs. Roger O'Meara and Mrs. Fred Geminden, troop leaders; Mrs. A. R. Finch, committee member; Miss Caroline Richter, president of the West Bend-Barton council; and Mrs. George Stube, Girl Scout executive director.

 After the Girl Scout ceremony and presentation, the decorated birthday cake was served by the scouts and the 4-H club committee members, Elmer Laatsch, Carol Riley, and Mary Ellen Degner served soda.
 An interesting talk on polio-myelitis was given by Myrna Laatsch and the club members voted to donate $1.00 to the polio fund and the same amount to the Red Cross fund campaign.

 Walter Dinslow read a delightful letter that he received recently from his German friend, Lother Beck. The lad sent greetings to the club and wished

ELECTRICAL TIPS FOR THE HOME

If You Intend to Redecorate or Remodel This Fall...

DON'T let ugly, makeshift electrical extensions spoil the looks of a newly-decorated room. They're not only unsightly, but they're also unsafe.

DO provide enough convenience outlets for all your lamps and appliances. Space them every 12 feet along the wall and in smaller areas of 3 feet or more.

he might belong to it. The letter was translated for Walter by Mrs. Anna Stige, West Bend.

The observation of 4-H Sunday, April 29, was discussed, and Roger Zettler, who presided at the meeting, appointed Marilyn and Myrna Laatsch and Rose Mary Staehler to serve on the committee for arrangements.

The organization of a baseball team and the improvement of the swimming facilities was held for further consideration.

The invitation from the Welcome club to attend their basket social was read by the secretary.

For club meeting recreation it was voted to purchase two games of checkers, and to have members construct a dart ball and bean bag game.

The new bulletin board recently made by Elmer Belger and Roger Zettler and used for the window display was hung in the lodge rooms.

At the next meeting, April 11, conservation and safety talks and a demonstration will be given. Refreshment committee will be Irene Enright, Rose Mary Staehler, and Myrna Laatsch.
 Douglas Wierman, Club Reporter

Two two-hundred year old Wisconsin Norway pines will be transported in one piece from the Menominee Indian Reservation north of Shawano, Wis., and erected in the Milwaukee arena for the Sentinel Sports Show, April 7-15. They will serve as climbing trees for Walt Manberg, Mel Hoffman, and Harold Johnson, Washington State timber-toppers, appearing on the star-studded stage and tank program.

Jimmy Running, the world's champion log-roller, and native of Eau Claire, Wis., will be featured at the Sentinel Sports show, April 7 through 15 in Milwaukee's new arena.

FOR YOU WHO LOVED
 "STARS IN MY CROWN"
HERE IS ANOTHER WONDERFUL FAMILY PICTURE!

We know that folks enjoyed and fondly remember the recent M-G-M picture "Stars In My Crown". Now, from the same studio, comes another picture in the same mood and spirit. Like its predecessor, it also won the Parent's Magazine Medal of Merit.

It tells a story of people you know and understand, folks like those who live in this town. It has honest, humor, real warmth and powerful entertainment. We ask you to see it on our recommendation for we sincerely feel you'll love it!
