

Chevs Almost Upset West Bend Without J. Tessar in State Meet

The Kewaskum Chevrolets were on the short end of the score but gained a moral victory and came awfully close to upsetting the Land o' Lakes northern champion West Bend Lithias in the state home talent tournament of champions at Hartford Tuesday night. Playing without Johnny Tessar, star of the team, and grand scoring champion in the Lakes organization, who has an injured knee in a cast, the Chevs lost by only three points. The Lithias sneaked through with a 60-57 win.

With Tessar, the backbone of the team out of the lineup, West Bend figured to win easily and looked forward to the next round of competition. But they were greatly surprised and very glad to be on the long end of the score when the final horn sounded. The Chevrolets put up an unexpected strong bid against the Lithias. With the opponents consent, Kewaskum moved up two players from the local Land o' Lakes team to fill the gap caused by Tessar's absence. These two, Lloyd Keller and Lee Kempf, although playing with the Lakes quite for the first time, did very well and contributed much in their team's fine showing.

Even with Tessar out the Chevs would have won with just average shooting from the free throw line. That is where they lost the game. They missed 19 free throws for a very poor percentage. Just a few of these made, which ordinarily they would be, would have meant victory. West Bend missed only six free tosses in 22 attempts, making 16. Another thing which hurt the team's chances was a number of bad and reckless passes thrown directly into the Lithias players hands which were turned into baskets.

The Lithias had 32 personal fouls called against them in trying to hold down the Kewaskum cagers. Four of their players fouled out of the tilt but this occurred late in the contest when it didn't hurt much. The Chevs lost one player on personals, 23 of which were called against the team.

Pete Graff paced the Lithias attack with 16 points while Bob Ruten and Al Kissinger followed with 12 apiece. Wayland Tessar was head man for the losers with 13 markers, trailed by "Cocky" Keller of the Rivers quintet with 10. Allen Tessar did a bang-up job in snaring West Bend rebounds.

The Lithias got off to a big lead of 20-1 at the start of the tussle and this saved them later. About the middle of the first period, the Chevrolets started to click and pulled up to 16-10 at the period's end. Kewaskum closed the Lithias lead to only one point and the half-time score was 23-27. The surprising leads kept on fighting and took the lead momentarily in the third quarter. But then Kissinger got a hot streak and dropped in 10 points to give his team a 46-39 advantage as the third stanza ended. The Chevs poured in 18 counters in the final period but were still behind by three points when the tilt finished.

The setback dropped Kewaskum out of further competition in the state meet. Too bad, for with John Tessar they may have gone a long way. West Bend advances to the second round and meets Port Edwards Saturday night at 9 p. m. Port Edwards defeated Waubesa in the opening game on Tuesday night, 99-81. Other first round scores were Waushara 81, Oconto Falls (defending champs) 74; Hartland (Lakes champs) 80, Waubesa 79; Beloit 78, Hartford 68; Sussex (Rivers champs) 69, Howards Grove 54; Winnebago 82, Edgerton 79. The tourney finals will be played Sunday night.

31 County Men Leave for Army; 2 From Here

Thirty-one young men from Washington county left Hartford Wednesday morning, March 28, for induction into the armed forces as the county draft quota for March. The group included two men from Kewaskum.

This group of draftees took their pre-induction physicals early in February, according to the selective service office. The draft quota for Washington county has had difficulty in making its quota for the last couple of months.

The men who left for Milwaukee on Wednesday were:
Marvin Tackes, Merlin Stockhausen, Donald Mueller, Gene Hansen, John Thoma, Richard Yochem, Eugene Bohm, Justin Theusch, William Koenigs, Donald Flaseh, all of West Bend; Charles Rick and Leonard Bierack, Barton; Joseph Spaeth, Vernon Frank, Clifford Butzke and William Bauer, Jackson; William Schoenecker, Glenbeulah; Wilbert Ziegelbauer and Richard Hahn, Slinger; Merlin Felenz, Fredonia; Robert Wilke, Germantown; Joseph Heisdorf, Richfield; Ed. Lynch, Francis Hug and Raymond Komp, Hartford; ALLEN SEEFELDT and DONALD SCHNEIDER, KEWASKUM; Ardell Yahr, Iron Ridge; John Weidner and David Hrazosowski, all of Milwaukee, and Victor Koch, Neoshu.

A total of 64 county men reported to Milwaukee last week for pre-induction physicals.

PARTICIPATES IN CENTENNIAL EVENTS AT DOWNER COLLEGE
Betty Jane Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krueger, Kewaskum, student at Milwaukee-Downer college, recently shared in the centennial events being celebrated by the college this year and culminated on Charter Day, March 1, when delegates from colleges and universities all over the United States participated in the observance of the 100th birthday.

An afternoon panel on "Women and the Challenge of Today" was followed by the centennial banquet at which the main speaker was Dr. Joseph E. Johnson, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Tributes were paid by the governor of Wisconsin, the mayor of Milwaukee, and the students, faculty, and alumnae, to the college and its retiring president, Lucia R. Briggs, who is completing her thirtieth year of office in June.

BASKETBALL BANQUET HELD BY LAKES, RIVERS PLAYERS
Basketball players on the Kewaskum Land o' Lakes and Rivers teams of this season and last year, their wives and lady friends, team helpers and the press were treated to a delicious banquet at Pat's Opera House in Barton Saturday night. Close to 50 people were present.

Kilian A. Honeck, Jr., sponsor of the teams and manager of the Lakes team, served as toastmaster for the program following the dinner. Manager Willard Bartelt of the Rivers five and nearly all of the men in attendance were called on for a few words. Wives and lady friends were introduced. Some of the Rivers players were presented with medals awarded them in the recent gold medal tournament at Port Washington.

Both the Lakes and Rivers teams enjoyed very successful seasons. The Chevrolets placed second in the senior circuit and the Honecks copped first in the Rivers.

LOCAL SPORTSMEN'S CLUB TO RELEASE PHEASANTS SUNDAY
The Kettle Moraine Sportsmen's club of Kewaskum will release about 100 pheasant hens and 15 roosters at 9:30 o'clock Sunday at their pheasant pens just north of the village providing the weather permits. Anyone interested or desiring to attend and help will be greatly welcomed.

The state conservation department has announced that they will furnish pheasant cocks to be released in the near future. So far the pheasants have done very well in this locality. The local club desires to thank all those who took part in the feeding and care of the birds during the winter months.

ENGAGEMENTS OF MISSES BUTZLAFF, GILL ANNOUNCED
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butzloff of R. 2, Kewaskum, announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy, to Ralph Duffrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Duffrin, R. 1, Theresa, on Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gill of Casade recently announced the betrothal of their daughter, Jeanne, to Robert Staehler, USN, of Norfolk, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Staehler of Kewaskum. Staehler recently spent a leave at his home.

BASEBALL MEETING MONDAY
A baseball meeting will be held on Monday night, April 2, at 8 o'clock at Honeck's Chevrolet garage to decide on teams and leagues for the approaching season. Anyone interested in playing ball this summer, ages 7 to 16, are urged to attend. Last year Kewaskum had teams in the Land o' Lakes, Rivers and Puddies leagues.

Red Cross Drive Over Top; $6,977 Collected

With a goal of $6,430, the Red Cross fund campaign went over the top Monday as volunteer workers wound up a week of special effort motivated by the desire to reach the quota before the official closing date of the drive, March 31. Campaign Chairman Henry Renard announced that a telephone survey Monday afternoon, in which all precinct chairmen were contacted, indicated that contributions made up to that time amounted to $6,977, well over the $6,430 quota.

By exceeding their goal, Renard pointed out, the people in the West Bend chapter area kept alive a long-standing record of achievement in support of Red Cross activities. He praised the generosity of those who made contributions during the campaign and the unselfish spirit of the volunteer workers who helped put the drive over the top.

"As always," Renard said, "it was team work that made it possible for us to fulfill our obligation to the Red Cross within the allotted time. The people in this area are known far and wide for the generous manner in which they give their support to worthwhile causes like this. We are happy that this record goes on unblemished."

In making a hasty analysis of the reports received from the various chairmen, Renard disclosed that the drive was still being allowed down by last week's lead weather in the rural areas. He pointed out that the city of West Bend and the villages of Kewaskum and Barton are the only precincts to attain their individual goals up to Monday. He explained that the rural areas got off to a late start and then were severely hampered by very bad weather and poor roads.

A tabulation of the reports incomplete received by Renard follows:

Contributions	Quota
West Bend City.....	$4900 $3273
Barton Village.....	466 391
Jackson Village.....	124 235
Kewaskum Village.....	791 391
Town of Barton.....	109 198
Town of Farmington.....	209 354
Town of Jackson.....	66 314
Town of Kewaskum.....	29 193
Town of Trenton.....	242 354
Town of Wayne.....	245 354
Town of West Bend.....	* 361

Quota $6430
* No report compiled.
The chairman explained that these figures do not yet take into account allocation of credit where a man works in one precinct and lives in another.

Emphasizing that these were by no means final reports, Renard said that he was confident several of the townships would follow the lead of the city of West Bend and the villages of Barton and Kewaskum in exceeding their individual quotas.

With the drive due to close officially Saturday, March 31, Renard urged all chairmen and volunteer workers to complete their work and make their reports as soon as possible. He said he expected to make a complete and final report on the campaign to the people of the West Bend chapter area next week. This will be possible, he pointed out, only if all the precinct workers and the various chairmen make their reports to him by Saturday.

Charles Brandt Dies
Following a long illness, Charles Brandt, 67, of this village, a retired carpenter, died Friday morning, March 30, at St. Alphonse hospital, Port Washington, where he was confined the past month and a half. The remains will be in state at Miller's Funeral home after 7 p. m. Saturday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. on Monday at the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church.

LAST SKAT TOURNAMENT
The last skat tournament of the season will be held at Heider's tavern, Kewaskum, Monday night, April 2, starting at 8 p. m. Entry fee 2.15. Lunch served. All players invited.

PARISH BAKE SALE
The Ladies' Aid of the St. Lucia, Ev. Lutheran church will hold a bake sale in the church parlors on Saturday, April 7, beginning at 1 p. m. 8-11-51.

Local Teachers to Attend Northeastern Convention

A convention of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education association will be held at Fond du Lac Friday, April 6. Already 3,500 teachers have made reservations. Three general meetings will be held concurrently in the morning, all beginning at 8:40 a. m.

Margaret Griffith, Neenah, association vice-president, will conduct one of the general sessions in the Retlaw theater. Lester Timm, Fond du Lac county superintendent of schools, will preside at the morning meeting in the Fond du Lac theater. George Silverwood, Green Bay, member of the association executive committee, will preside at the third general session. The program will feature outstanding speakers, band, chorus and choir selections. Afternoon sectional sessions will be attended by the teachers.

Miss Margaret E. Browne, Kewaskum, has been named chairman of the business education section, which will begin its program at 2 p. m. in Senior High school. The program will be divided into two groups with teachers in small high schools and teachers in large high schools meeting separately. The former group will hear a talk on "Findings in Survey of Business Education Program in Smaller Wisconsin High Schools" by Norman Theis, Brussels High school. The latter group will hear a talk by L. L. Cunningham, Milwaukee Business Institute, on "Human Relations."

Health and safety group combined with the physical education section will have as chairman Joseph Skuhra, Green Bay. The program will begin at 2 p. m. in the visual education room of Elizabeth Waters school. Another group will convene at the same time in the kindergarten room of the school. This group meeting will hear a talk on "The W.I.A.A. and the Broadcast Aspects of the Insurance Plan" by Cliff Fagan, assistant secretary of W.I.A.A. A panel on "Sportsmanship" will include Fagan, Marinette; Carl Doehling, Ripon college; Ernest Mitchell, Kewaskum; Gordon Winter, Manitowish, and Joseph Capicik, Fond du Lac.

Public Health Council of County Will Meet April 4
The Washington County Public Health council will meet at the court house in West Bend on Wednesday, April 4, at 8:00 p. m. Atty. Deane H. Duseon, council president, announced that Dr. Raymond Evers, medical director of Rocky Knoll sanatorium at Plymouth, Wis., would speak to the meeting on the general problem of detection, control and eradication of tuberculosis.

The health council at its April 4 meeting will make plans to support the coming county-wide chest x-ray program. The Wisconsin State Board of Health mobile chest x-ray unit will be in Washington county from April 23 to May 18 and in the village of Kewaskum May 16 and 17.

Bascom expressed the hope that all persons, whether they were members of the council or not, would attend the meeting and hear Dr. Evers and assist the council in its effort to make this year's chest x-ray program the most productive and successful program ever conducted in Washington county.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS IN TOWN ERIN VOTE TO CONSOLIDATE
On Tuesday evening, March 20, the special school districts meetings were held in the Thompson and Mountain districts of Erin township, for the purpose of discussing plans of reorganization. After a lengthy discussion was had, in which the people expressed themselves very frankly, a ballot was taken. The results of the ballots in each district resulted in overwhelming casts in favor of having the two districts consolidated into one district. As a result of this action, the county school committee can write the order performing the reorganization.

Inasmuch as a building program is in order, the people recorded themselves in favor of effecting a lay-away plan which would provide for a building fund.

The people of these districts are to be commended for this intelligent action, for it reflects their sincere interest in the welfare of their children.

The order of the county committee will not be effective until July 1.

YOUNG MAN CUT AND BRUISED WHEN AUTO RUNS INTO DITCH
William Vorpahl, 23, Kewaskum, suffered cuts and bruises to the face in an accident last Thursday. The driver of the car involved, Vernon Flrks, 21, also of Kewaskum, told officers he hit an icy stretch on Sheboygan county trunk 3 near Beechwood and lost control of the car which hit a snow bank and then slid into a ditch.

Contests for Three Trustee Offices Stir Interest in Election

Next Tuesday, April 3, is spring election day. The polls in the village and town of Kewaskum will be open from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Voting in the village will be in the new municipal building for the first time. Residents of the town of Kewaskum will do their balloting in the Woodman hall.

Seven candidates in the race for the three trustee offices to be elected in the village has stirred up much interest in the election locally. All offices will be for a two-year term. George Hansen, incumbent, has his name on the ticket for re-election. The two other retiring trustees, Henry B. Rosenheimer and Lester Dreher, are not running. Six new candidates on the ballot seeking office include Joe Eberle, K. A. Honeck, Jr., Leander Honeck, Robert Ours, Edward Schaefer, and Elmer Yost. The three other trustees now in office hold over for another year.

Other officers to be elected are village president, assessor, supervisor and justice of the peace for two years. All incumbents are unopposed for re-election in these offices. They are President Charles Miller, Assessor Edwin Bartelt, Supervisor Edwin Romaine, and Justice Lyle Bartelt. No clerk or treasurer will be elected this year for the first time. These offices are now filled by the village commissioner, who is appointed to office.

Anyone wishing to vote Tuesday by absentee ballot must file a written request for ballot three days prior to the election. If application is made in person such application may be accepted until the day before election.

Besides local officers, a supreme court justice, with John Martin the only candidate on the ballot, will be chosen and three state referendums will be voted on. The referendum questions are:

Shall Article II, Section 2 of the state constitution be amended so as to allow state and local taxation of land the property of the United States when permitted by federal law?
Shall Article XI, Section 3 of the state constitution be amended so that the total indebtedness of cities authorized to issue bonds for school purposes shall not exceed eight percentum of the value of taxable property in such cities?

Shall the constitution be amended to increase from two years to four years the term of office of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer and attorney-general?
In the only opposition on the ticket in the town of Kewaskum Chairman Ed. J. Campbell will be opposed by Arnold Frost. Other candidates for re-election include Supervisor No. 1 Wm. C. Backhaus, Supervisor No. 2 Henry Krausheide, Clerk Alfred Seefeldt, Treasurer Lloyd Schmidt, Assessor John Etta.

Candidates in the town of Wayne are: Chairman, George Peter and Leo Rosch; supervisors (two), Mike Darmody, John Oehlafen and Felix Yoger; clerk, Paul Moritz; treasurer, Oscar Boegel; assessor, Bill Coulter; justice of the peace (full term), Bernard Strobel; constables (three), Ray Bohlender, John Hawig and Julius Terlinden.

There are no contests in the town of Auburn. Candidates are: Chairman, William Wunder; first side supervisor, Henry Ketter; second side supervisor, Ervin Mathies; clerk, Reuben Backhaus; treasurer, Joseph Schiltz; assessor, Elmer Krueger; justice of the peace, William Klabahn; constable, Henry Becker.

Eisenhower Says He Would Employ A-Bomb Under Certain Conditions

DECISION—"To my mind the use of the atomic bomb would be on this basis. Does it advantage me, or does it not, when I get into a war? Now, if I felt that the material destruction that I was going to accomplish was not equal to the moral or great reaction otherwise to this act, then I would abstain."

"If I thought the net was on my side, I would use it instantly because I proceed from this basis: The United States is not going to declare war or conduct an aggressive campaign. It is merely going to defend itself, and if someone, in spite of its peaceful purpose, jumps on it, I believe in using what we have in defending ourselves."

With these words Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the world—friend and foe alike—just how far he would go to defend western Europe. It was the kind of clear-headed, logical reasoning that people in the home towns of the nation could understand. It reaffirmed their faith in the man chosen to fill the most important post in modern history.

It is this kind of reasoning and determination that the Communist nations of the world understand. And if the world understands this reasoning, it could mean another step toward the preservation of peace.

18-YEAR-OLDS—It would be difficult to say at this point who was more surprised by the 79 to 5 senate vote that passed the bill to draft 18-year-olds, opponents or supporters of the measure.

For weeks the debate had raged in the senate over lowering the draft age from the 19-year-old limit. And although the bill must go to the house for action, it appeared that much of the pressure against the administration's defense plans has been relieved. Most observers were inclined to believe the bill will eventually reach the President's desk.

The senate vote caused considerable speculation across the nation. In the first place, the man on main street wanted to know is it possible for five senators—the number who voted against the measure—to bombard the U. S. senate with so much propaganda that it completely ties up important legislation for weeks? Second, what happened to the other senators who had ranted and raged against drafting the 18-year-olds? And third, were the statements by opponents that the mothers of the nation flooded Washington with telegrams against the draft entirely true?

Striving desperately to make peace between labor and the administration, Eric Johnston (center), economic stabilizer, met several times with union leaders in Washington. Shown with Johnston (left to right) are: Meany, AFL; Leighty, RFEZ; Hayes, IAM; Murphy, presidential council; and Goldberg, CIO.

NO! NO! NO!—After a full week of conferences, watched anxiously by the "average man" who does not understand very clearly the niceties of diplomatic language and maneuvers, the foreign ministers' deputies of the United States, France, Britain and Russia, meeting in Paris, had nothing to report.

The only statements were "no, no" issued by Russia's Andrei Gromyko to every proposal put forth by the western powers.

Gromyko first gained the attention of the home-townners of the nation as the "no" man of the United Nations.

The main point of difference between the west and east remained the subject of rearming Germany.

KOREAN BATTLE—Slowly, methodically United States troops advanced in Korea, storming the hills, digging the Communists out of foxholes with bayonets, stopping and breaking a Red attack at other points, but always pushing toward the 38th parallel.

U. N. commanders continued to expect a spring offensive by the Reds, scheduled for some time during the last part of March or April. Meanwhile, the Chinese suffered severe casualties as U. S. troops pushed ahead, estimated by some observers at 20,000 to 30,000 in two weeks.

There were reports that the Communists had 200,000 men in the front lines below the parallel. In addition they were reported to have 100,000 more troops in immediate reserve in North Korea and a great reservoir, perhaps more than 300,000, across the Yalu river in Manchuria.

RUSSIAN ARMS—According to Russian reports the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) has adopted a 1951 budget of 451½ billion rubles, of which 96 billion would go for defense purposes.

Russia has placed a value on the ruble of four to the American dollar, but since there are so many imponderables involved, the rate does not reflect the true position of the ruble. If the rate is taken, it would indicate a total defense budget of $24 billion.

However, Soviet production, through use of forced labor and purchases from dominated countries at extremely favorable rates, is considerably cheaper than that of the United States.

A NEW JOLT—The administration's price stabilization effort which has been called nearly everything, including "fraud," received another jolt, this time in the black and white of the wholesale price index.

The bureau of labor statistics' index hit an all time peak of 17 per cent above pre-Korean war prices and 20.2 per cent over a year ago. The bureau said all major commodities advanced except building materials.

The new figures wiped out any hope that the stabilization effort had finally started taking effect and a leveling-off was about to take place. The figures also brought renewed charges from labor that it would take a law "with teeth in it" to stop the inflation spiral.

Michael V. DiSalle, price director, told worried housewives in a television speech that it would be three more months before ceiling prices on food will be posted in stores. It couldn't be done sooner, he reported, because food prices vary by localities.

LAST HOPE—The supreme court refused by a vote of 6 to 0 to review the case of Alger Hiss, convicted of giving government secrets to a Russian spy ring before World War II. It was Hiss' last hope of escaping a five year prison sentence.

The Hiss trial made headlines in the nation's press for months. A guilty verdict and prison sentence was returned after a second trial.

The slender, brilliant attorney has stubbornly denied the charges of giving away governmental secrets.

COST OF LIBERTY

1,000,000th Man to Die for Country

The cost of liberty is high for this Republic. As mothers and fathers throughout the nation ponder over the world's ills and worry about their sons in service, or soon to join the armed forces, somewhere in the mud and filth of Korea the 1,000,000th soldier to die for this nation may already be a casualty.

Adding in the Korea casualties, Radio Controlled Bombs Used by Yanks in Korea

Two types of guided bombs are being dropped upon Chinese and North Korean targets in Korea, the United States air force reported recently.

One, the Tarzon, is a 12,000 pound general purpose bomb fitted with radio equipment and movable tail fins so that its course can be altered within limits after release. The other is similarly controlled, but it weighs only 1,000 pounds.

Farm Topics

Starter Fertilizing Insufficient for Crop Use of Fertilizer Alone Won't Build Corn Yields

One reason why some farmers swear at and not use fertilizer, is that they don't use enough plant food, the middle west soil improvement committee points out.

Adding a small amount of "starter" fertilizer at planting time may get corn off to a quick start. But scanty applications often fail to provide sufficient nourishment to carry the crop through the season on low fertility soils.

Well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes grown in rotation will build a reserve of plant food in soil and increase corn yields.

Without a reserve of plant food in the soil, the corn crop will starve in midsummer and not have enough nourishment to make ears.

The use of fertilizer alone will build corn yields on most farms. But for maximum yields, the farmer needs to build the soil's tilth structure and organic matter supply. When well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes are grown regularly in the rotation, the soil is mellowed and conditioned for high corn yields. There are extra reserves of crop-feeding organic matter available.

Iowa Factories in 1950 Outproduced Iowa Farms

For the first time in 11 years, Iowa factories outproduced Iowa farms.

As of January it was estimated that Iowa factories turned out 2½ billion dollars' worth of food products, machinery, chemicals, drugs, printed matter and other goods. Sales of farm products in 1950 were estimated at more than $2 billion, but no estimate was as high as $2½ billion, even including the value of produce eaten and used on the farm.

Factory products frequently nosed farm products out of the number one spot in Iowa's economy between 1924 and 1939, although it usually was a close race.

In 1924, for instance, cash receipts from farm marketings totaled $666,533,000 and manufactured products sold for $685,276,088.

Farm production is expected to increase in Iowa during 1951, as elsewhere in the nation, but with the increased rearmament program in full swing, factory production will also increase.

Clip Dairy Cows—Care of the dairy herd includes clipping. Clipping helps produce clean milk, reduces labor needed in care of the herd, helps control cattle lice, and improves appearances of the cattle.

Flock Protectors

A pair of fleet-footed greyhounds accompany Harold Jamieson, Oshkosh, Nebraska, turkey raiser as he inspects part of his flock of 2,000 brood-bred bronze turkeys.

Jamieson explains that the dogs are poison to coyotes which abound in that part of the country, but never bother the turkeys. A pair of huge dogs like these are standard equipment with many turkey raisers in southwestern Nebraska.

Neglect of Dental Care Lowers Milk Production

Ivan H. Loughary, dairy specialist, reports to many dairymen neglect dental care of their cows. When a cow is about two to three years old, the second set of teeth come in. Occasionally, one or more of these may come in crooked and when this occurs the cow will not eat well and her production is retarded. Proper care by a veterinarian will eliminate this defect in many dairy herds.

Milk Consumer Pays 23 Cents of Driver's Wage

According to a recent survey the average milk consumer in the average Indiana town pays 23 cents of the weekly wage of the driver that delivers his milk. The survey was made in an effort to show the milk industry ways of decreasing costs. The survey revealed the competition was keen among the dairies, although consumers were charged a uniform price in each market.

THE WEEK In Religion

INSPIRATION God's Intimates

AN EDITORIAL

IT IS NOT the lot of ordinary men to be on intimate terms with the great and powerful. It is a rare privilege to meet a king or a president. The man in the street reads about and admires a great public figure; but he does not presume to become intimate with him.

This generally accepted characteristic of man's social life is not, however, found in the spiritual order. It is one of the sublime wonders and mysteries of God—the Lord of all—that He not only tolerates, but welcomes, even the lowliest human being who seeks intimacy with Him.

No one should think that only a select few are called upon to be God's intimates. The boon of close friendship with God is available to all. No man has to regard the Creator as inaccessible. Whoever loves God can find Him anywhere at any time.

Love is the passport to God. It is the supreme virtue to which all men are called. But sometimes the question is asked: How can I love God? Anyone who has tasted the joy and satisfaction of intimacy with the Master can supply the answer.

Man loves and serves God by keeping His commandments, by being submissive to His will, by accepting the joys and sorrows of life as both coming from His hands.

Intimacy with God develops perfection in the soul. It does so by giving men a deeper insight into the ways of God, by keeping them mindful of His constant solicitude for those who make Him their model and their hope.

Perfection comes slowly, but the intimates of God are not impatient. They realize that, for many years, perhaps, they have been slack in His service. Those who have aspired to a belated intimacy certainly are bound to realize that they have many faults to overcome before they can be thoroughly at home with the Master.

Sometimes the growth of intimacy with God is marked by trials and temptations.

VACATION SCHOOL BIRTHDAY—Young actors dramatize the anniversary of the vacation church school movement in Columbus, Ohio, by portraying a modern class.

Religion Question Box

Q: What was the Lincoln Judgment?
A: A decision rendered in a famous ecclesiastical suit in the Church of England in 1890. The case involved Bishop Edward King of Lincoln, who was accused of having reintroduced Roman Catholic ceremonies into the celebration of Holy Communion.

Q: What are Phylacteries?
A: Two small square leather cases worn by Jews during prayer, one on the forehead and the other on the left upper arm. They contain passages from the Scriptures written on parchment.

Q: What are Purgatorial Societies?
A: Roman Catholic organizations whose object is to assist the souls in Purgatory by prayers, Masses, and good works. A leading group in the United States is the Purgatorial Society under the direction of the Redemptorist Fathers.

Q: What is Pulver Day?
A: This is an old English name for Ash Wednesday.

Q: Into what categories are the miracles of Christ divided?
A: They are classified under five headings: nature miracles, miracles of healing, deliverance of demoniacs, victories over hostile wills, and cases of resurrection.

Church Council Opposes Red Control Legislation

LINCOLN, Neb.—Action on Communist control legislation was delayed by the government committee of the Nebraska legislature following protests against the measure by the Nebraska council of churches.

The bills would require the registration of Communists and members of Communist front organizations and the signing of loyalty oaths by public officials.

The Rev. Carroll Lemon, of Lincoln, testified that the executive committee of the council of churches felt the bill would lead to "irresponsible accusations," threaten civil liberties and make it dangerous to disagree with "popular thought."

H. H. Foster, Lincoln attorney, also speaking for the council of churches, said ample laws already exist to combat Communist influences. The proposed legislation, he said, would be like "using dynamite when insect powder would do."

Will Pray for Business

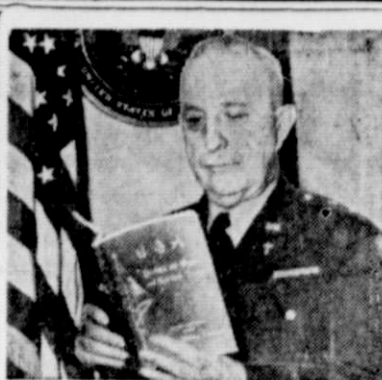

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—St. Luke's Episcopal church, East Springfield, has announced that it will pray at regular Sunday services for local gas stations, drug stores, manufacturing plants, and other business establishments by name.

Under a plan set up by the Rev. Ellwyn J. H. Nichols, his church vestry and young people, the rector will pray:

"Almighty God, who hast given us this community for our heritage, we humbly beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor and glad to do Thy will.

"Bless especially (for example) the Corona Market, Loyal Masters Cleaners and Dyers, and Carew Gardens Service Station.

"Save them and us from violence, discord and confusion. Bless our community with good schools, honorable industry, sound civic life and upright Christian citizens."

Educator Defends Public Schools On Religion Issue

COLUMBUS, O.—A University of Pittsburgh faculty member challenged statements by Protestant leaders here that public school education is secularistic and indifferent to religion.

Dr. Lawrence C. Little, director of religious education courses at the university, took issue with assertions made at the first meeting of the division of christian education, national council of churches, that public schools had shown a negative attitude toward religion and were training children in what amounted to practical atheism.

"The fear often expressed that secularism has captured our American public schools," Dr. Little told the meeting, "is soon allayed when one reads the wealth of material dealing with the problem which has been issued by school officials and the departments of public school education."

He said that public school leaders feel a growing concern for the religious development of their pupils.

"It is safe to say," Dr. Little stated, "that an overwhelming majority of public school leaders are deeply religious people. Many of them have given outright expression to their commitments to religious faith."

He upheld continued adherence to the principle of church-state separation, but said that this separation "does not mean that the state cannot deal with the important aspects of our culture."

"Some public school systems are already, independently of the churches, providing courses," he said.

Housewife Sentenced In Lottery Test Case

MIAMI, Fla.—A 35-year-old Roman Catholic housewife was given a 30-day suspended sentence here by Judge Cecil C. Curry in what was regarded as a test case to halt charity and church raffles and bingo under any guise.

Mrs. Bessie O. Pope was the latest church worker apprehended in a drastic drive against all forms of illegal gambling in Dade county. The campaign was launched by the Greater Miami crime commission, religious and civic organizations, grand juries, the Kefauver senatorial investigating committee and a new crusading sheriff.

Mrs. Pope set up an ironing board in front of the entrance to the Dade County tax license office and solicited 25-cent donations to the Catholic Daughters of America. For each "donation" a ticket was given for an automobile raffle in the Knights of Columbus hall. She was arrested and charged by Miami police with selling lottery tickets.

The anti-gambling sheriff is Thomas J. Kelly, a past exalted ruler of the Elks, who had warned the local lodges that if they attempt to operate slot machines or other gambling devices he would confiscate them.

Ohio Pastors Warn Against Militarization

COLUMBUS, O.—A "grave and patriotic concern for the growing militarization of our country" was voiced here by the annual Ohio Pastors' convention.

The clergymen called on the government to "stem and to curtail the authority and the control of the military establishment over the civilian affairs of our life."

Other adopted resolutions expressed opposition to universal military training, lowering of the draft age to 18 years, and extension of the provisions of the current selective service act.

The convention also urged support of the United Nations, but suggested that the body's charter be revised to eliminate China as a permanent member of the security council, replacing it by an elective member.

TELL A FAT WOMAN THAT SHE IS GETTING OLDER, IF YOU WANT TO. BUT FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE DON'T TELL HER THAT SHE IS GETTING FATTER!

GRANDMA

By Charles Kuhn

KATHLEEN NORRIS
Marrying Harriet

"WE ARE THE MOST unmarried family you ever heard of," writes 19-year-old Harriet Sloper, from a Cleveland suburb. "Mother has been a widow since I was four and my sister Elena 10 years old. We have two half-sisters, teachers and part founders of a girls' school. Mother's sister, unmarried, lives with us. We all talk marriage and beaux and romantic affairs—mostly imaginary—all the time, and we're all unmarried."

"We have a big house and plenty of money; Mother has a car, Elena drives to and fro in her own car to a good job in Cleveland; I have a small car, attend college, but live at home. My half-sisters live at home. "It is the fashion in this family," this unusually frank letter goes on, "to talk as if men were rather inferior beings, and as if we all had refused several good chances to marry. Lillian and Frances, my half-sisters, we've had an afternoon of tennis, and a hot weather supper with my asp and my strawberry ice cream, reach over and squeeze my hand when we're sitting out on the steps? What haven't I got? I want a home, I want children and a kitchen and a lawn to rake and a man to meet when the afternoon train comes in. Is that so unreasonable?"

"I don't want to dry up and wither on the family stem; I want life!" Harriet's letter finishes. "Mother can't help me, she talks as if marriage was one long trial for a woman. Certainly my sisters and my aunt are no help; they are really a hindrance, watching and interested and all, but asking any man who ventures into our house what his intentions are. There must be men as anxious to find a good mate as I am. I forgot to say that I am studying to be a public librarian, and hope to have a job in about 14 months."

Sit Tight
That's the letter, and in answer I wrote Harriet that I would advise her to sit tight for those 14 months. I would advise her to give up the job of hunting for a sweetheart in these discouraging circumstances, but devote herself to her work, and to the family.

Then, when she graduates, let her go to the head of the library board and explain that she wants to go away. It will be a very simple matter for her to carry her new credentials to some other city, and the family, though perhaps shocked, cannot find that course anything but natural and understandable. Once away from home Harriet will make new contacts, meet all sorts of new people, spread her wings. Before she knows it she will be taking an acceptable man home for the family's approval.

That is, if nothing happens in the meantime. But something romantic is extremely likely to happen in the meantime. Just her plan to go away will make her more interesting, and her enthusiasm over the complete change, with all it involves in clothes and luggage and books to read and a new fountain pen, will take her attention off the young man to whom she is talking, and make him a little anxious to get it back again. Over and over again in this life, when we pull ourselves out of a rut and make one plan, another unexpected plan shoots across it. The wife who feels she never will have a child gets all ready to adopt one, and nature immediately sends her hopes of motherhood. The businessman feeling himself unappreciated in the office, reaches about for another job, and just as he secures it the old firm offers him a raise and a promotion. When Harriet graduates with honors and begins to bustle about deciding just what she will take and won't take into the new venture, quite suddenly some young man in her circle will discover her and make her stay.

Good Memory

A school teacher who had been telling a class of small pupils the story of the discovery of America by Columbus, ended with: "And all this happened more than 400 years ago." A little boy, his eyes wide open with wonder, said, after a moment's thought: "Gee! What a memory you've got."

LIFE INSURANCE DIVIDEND PAYMENTS TO GIBS TO BEGIN SHORTLY, KOLB ANNOUNCES

In answer to many inquiries regarding dividend on National Service Life Insurance George A. Kolb, county service officer, has released the following statement:

The Veterans Administration is planning to begin payments of the 1951 dividend soon. One of the principal difficulties, however, is the fact that 600,000 persons still remain to be paid on the 1950 dividend. The size of the next dividend is still unknown but it is expected to be in the vicinity of $543 million as compared to $2,673,000,000 paid out in 1950. The new dividend will cover the years 1949, 1950 and part of 1951. It is expected checks will be mailed according to the anniversary date on each policy. Under the 1950 dividend which covered 1949 through 1948, the money was paid out under a priority system based on service serial numbers. Distribution of the 1951 dividend is to begin in March, 1951. Veterans who hold policies which have January or February anniversary dates will be first to be paid.

The dividend must be taken in cash and cannot remain on deposit. Deductions will be made for any indebtedness to the United States government.

Policies issued or reinstated prior to January 1, 1950, under the provision of the law that the existence of good health shall not be denied because of disability or disabilities less than total in degree resulting from or aggravated by service between October, 1940 and September 2, 1945, have numbers prefixed by the letter H. Such policies are considered non-participating and are not entitled to dividends.

MAIN STREET IN ACTION

Does the Overworked "Small Town" Label Still Apply to Our Community These Days?

There is no such thing as a "small town" anymore.

True, there are many communities with a low population count, as compared to our great metropolitan centers. But in terms of expansion, improvement, desirability, activity and conveniences, they no longer can be set aside under the all-embracing "small town" label.

Take, for example, the state of Iowa, which has been virtually synonymous with the home town community. The towns there are crackling with action and expanded effort. Witness the results of an industrial survey made last year:

Of Iowa's 3,856 manufacturing firms, 54.8 per cent are scattered through 577 cities and towns of less than 10,000 population. There are at least five factories in each of the state's 99 counties.

Moreover, Iowa towns of less than 1,000 population contain 780 manufacturing firms, or 20.5 per cent of the state's total. Towns with populations of between 1,000 and 5,000 boast 905 manufacturers—23.4 per cent.

These towns aren't small, unless you judge them arbitrarily on the basis that the number of persons in each of them is less than 5,000.

And, after all, the size of a town is far from the ultimate criterion that ought to be applied in a measurement of its worth, even though a lot of superficial lip service habitually is extended to bigness for its own sake.

The point here is that the term "small town," as applied to communities like this, has more in it of habit than of sense. A town is small only insofar as it doesn't have as many people living in it as does another particular town.

To see where the "small town" stands today, let's take as a point of reference retail trade, which is nothing less than the blood and bones of every going community in the country.

The trend in retail trade is away from the big metropolitan centers and toward the smaller towns. That is an unemotional fact, established in a series of statistics gathered by the U. S. census bureau between 1929 and 1948.

During those two decades, the census takers found, the number of retail businesses in the nation's 32 cities with populations of 250,000 and over actually declined 1 per cent. On the other hand, retail businesses in other areas—those represented by smaller town trading centers—increased 20 per cent.

In line with the expanding national economy, all stores have greatly increased their sales, but in point of the percentage of increase from 1929 to 1948 the big city merchants again are the also-rans.

Total retail sales of the merchants in the large cities was 17 billion dollars in 1929 and increased 119 per cent to 38 billions in 1948. Not chicken feed, certainly.

But get this. Retailers in the smaller towns and suburban communities boosted their sales 191 per cent, from 32 billion to 92 billion dollars. It has been the establishment and growth of new businesses in these areas that has accounted for virtually all the increased number of new retail enterprises in the nation as a whole since the depression years.

Surely there is room here to put forward the theory that it is in the small towns—towns like this one—where the real economic vitality of the United States lies today. And any of the forward-looking businessmen in this community ought to be able to prove that theory to everyone's satisfaction.

This is a town to conjure with. The potential for economic and civic expansion and improvement is here in the minds, abilities and material support of those who call this place home.

A small town? Rather, let us say, a growing market place for greatness.

We hear a good deal about business confidence, which means confidence of business in itself, in its government, and in its capacity for expansion. But confidence is only another way of saying that people believe each other, keep their promises, pay their debts, and regard their duty to society. As long as business observes these rules, it will have the confidence of the community and it will be safe from all the irresponsible attacks of its enemies.

GRIM GROMYKO . . . American, French ambassador Frank Gromyko.

FIRST MARINES ARRIVE ON ROTATION . . . A long procession of cars bearing felled marines, returned from Korea under the armed services' rotation plan, proceeds down Montgomery street in San Francisco through the financial district as the city pays homage to the first group of marines returned under the new plan. These men, 774 fighting men along with 400 wounded, are fresh from the Korean war front and are given a welcome that is due heroes.

SOLDIERS RUN FOR SHELTER CARRYING WOUNDED . . . A United States lieutenant, two soldiers and a Republic of Korea soldier run for the nearest shelter bearing a wounded United Nations officer on a litter. They are under the direct fire of an enemy burp gun, as the grimness of their faces testifies.

MAN THREATENS LEAP . . . Convict Thomas Blackburn, atop water tower at Joliet penitentiary, turns a deaf ear as Prison Chaplain E. Grey Wintinger pleads with him to come down. After shouting insults at prison guards for five hours, Blackburn descended of his own will. Warden Joseph E. Ragen said that Convict Blackburn refused to give any reason for his act. The water tower is 90 feet tall. Blackburn is shown in middle of tower catwalk.

NICE COOKIES . . . Four GI's in Korea sent word to New York's Hunter College saying they'd heard of the classic beauty of the coeds, but while pinups were fine, a cake or a cookie was finer. So three students in the home economics department, Eileen Walsh, Florence Henninger and Elaine Brooks, got to work and cooked up this batch for the boys. Here they are tasting the cookies which they hope the boys will appreciate more than pinup pictures.

DEFIES FATAL DISEASE . . . Doomed by Hodgkin's disease, Nurse Evelyn Crutcher takes the blood pressure of a patient at a Houston hospital. Death may wait as long as 15 years, during which time the nurse plans to help others.

RACE FROM KOREA . . . A race to the bedside of his mother, critically ill with peritonitis, brought Marine Corporal Thomas Grant from Korea to a Brooklyn hospital for a reunion with his mother whom he hadn't seen in 2½ years.

POLIO PREVENTIVE? . . . Dr. Louis Gebhardt, University of Utah bacteriologist, has announced isolation of three types of polio virus. The discovery is expected to lead to a polio vaccine. It climaxed two years of research.

FATEFUL RING . . . Mrs. Emma Homeyer fingers ring that belonged to her husband Charles' sixth wife, Anna. Police say he confessed to dismembering body of Anna after the discovery of a human skull in concrete beneath Factoryville, Pa., home.

CONVERSATION PIECE . . . Seems Leon Rappaport, latest suspect in basketball "fix" scandal, is pleading with his reflection in New York police station. He was long sought as the mysterious "Stanley."

IF YOU DON'T FEEL GOOD

Don't Put Off Finding Relief

HADACOL May Bring the Relief You Are Seeking If Your Condition Is Due to Lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron.

If more folks would remember the old saying, "Don't put it off until tomorrow what you can do today," there's no telling how much better off they'd all be. And the worst thing about it all is that folks usually put off the most important things until a later date. For instance, there are a lot of folks who don't feel like they should who put off doing something about it. Luther Harris, 516 Chestnut St., Bowling Green, Kentucky, didn't feel good for a time, but he acted when he heard how HADACOL was helping people suffering from nervousness, aches and pains and run down condition caused by deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin. Yes, Mr. Harris started taking HADACOL and now he says he feels good.

Here is what he says: "For quite some time I was nervous and run-down, and I suffered from aches and pains. I was weak, and I could hardly do a day's work. I started taking HADACOL and from my first bottle I felt better. Now I feel good, and I can do a good day's work. I am still taking HADACOL and I wouldn't do without it. I praise HADACOL very highly."

HADACOL Attacks Real Cause Remember, HADACOL is not a quick-acting product that only attacks the symptoms of your ailments, but actually relieves the real cause of these disturbances when due to such deficiencies. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 family economy size or $12.50 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied. Adv.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headache, dizziness and loss of an amount of energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—keeping the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

MODERN HEATING

Dirt-Free Home for the Average American Rapidly Approaching

The dawn of the dirt-free, dust-free home for the home owners of the nation, which will relieve the average housewife of endless hours of drudgery, is rapidly approaching.

The building industry reports that home builders in all parts of the country are not only installing air purifying devices to remove dust particles, but also are concealing the heating pipes and radiators in walls, ceilings and floors.

It's a far cry from the days of the 1870's when great-grandfather first installed a central heating system and gave up his attempt to heat his home with fireplaces.

Today the American home builder is taking cognizance of old Roman methods and is using hot water to heat his house and is burying the pipes out of sight and sound.

The Greeks may have had a word for it, but the Romans were the ones who pioneered heating practice. Their fabulous baths at Pompeii and Caracalla contained steam rooms, "hot rooms," and "cold rooms," all of which precluded a knowledge of the three basic heating means known today—hot water, steam and warm air—and, of course, a smattering of air conditioning.

What is it for which heating experts have been searching all this time since the fall of Rome? To tell the truth, nobody was doing much searching at all in the thousand years immediately after Rome's eclipse. The fireplace served quite well, with all the functions of the home being done in, over or in front of it until the middle of the 18th century when Benjamin Franklin invented his stove.

This stove, a very neat invention at the time, was the forerunner of the modern warm air plant. It also was the grand-daddy of all dust dispensers and dehumidifiers. It used a large amount of fuel and gave off a minimum amount of heat.

DURING THIS TIME, the use of steam as a heating means also was evolved, first in England then in the United States. It's use followed, naturally enough, the development of the boiler and the radiator.

Hot water heating had its start in the chicken coop of one M. Bonnemain in the France of 1777. Mr. Bonnemain used a crude hot water loop to spur the incubation of chicks. Hot water, off to such a promising start, did not do well in competition with steam, however, until about 1920.

Today's homes are no longer uncertain compromises between heat and dirt, heat and health, and heat and cold. With radiant panels, or with radiators recessed or concealed in walls or baseboards, the full use of the space of the room is available. The air remains cool and sensibly moist, whatever the room temperature desired.

Proof of the economy and performance of modern hot water heating is its exclusive use in large developments like Levittown on Long Island, perhaps the largest heating installation in the world. Here, forced hot water systems supply heat to the radiant panel floors, and serve year round by furnishing the domestic hot water for baths, kitchens and laundries from the same boilers that heat the homes.

The perfection of radiant heating to the installations in general use today, leaves only one uncertainty—what now in heating? Where to go, short of atom heat? Home builders will have to wait and see, but whatever it is it will be good.

ness not long ago; it had caved out from under him. He'd long been a radio star, had done fine in his only film, "Margie," but there was no demand for him. He was just about ready to take his family home to Toronto and tackle something else. Then one night he auditioned his television show—a sponsor grabbed it instantly for the west coast, east coast rights were sold soon afterward. Just what he deserved!

Marvin Miller, the radio announcer, seems typed for Oriental characterizations in movies. He played Ghengis Khan in "The Golden Horde," now is slated for the role of a Chinese black market operator in "Peking Express."

Anne Sargent's latest picture, "Three Guys Named Mike," opened in New York the same week that she stepped into the important role of Jocelyn McLeod in "The Road of Life" and began discussing new television assignments.

THE FICTION CORNER COMPLETE WITH GADGETS

By Richard H. Wilkinson

DANA BRIDGES is a printer by trade, but every one says he should be a salesman. He has a very competent and confident manner. His choice of words is vivid, his gestures impressive, his delivery powerful.

Back in 1934 Dana bought a Northland Special Six. As every one knows the Northland is one of the most expensive cars on the market. Dana's income was not large, but he is the type of man who likes the best or nothing.

"In the long run a Northland is the best buy," he told his wife. "It will outlive three smaller and cheaper cars."

Rachael, Dana's wife, knew by experience that Dana usually knew what he was talking about.

So when Dana stated they ought to own a Northland she nodded and smiled and felt confident that everything would be all right. She didn't, however, anticipate owning and driving the same car for 16 years. Not that she minded too much. The Northland, as the world knows, is expensive enough so that the manufacturers don't have to change the design too radically each year. Fundamentally, the 1934 Northland had the same lines that the new 1950 Super Six possessed.

Moreover, Dana being a painstaking type of person, kept the machine in perfect order.

Nevertheless, it was an ancient hack and the neighbors used to grin when the Bridges' drove by, and Rachael felt embarrassed and wished that they could have a new car.

Dana was a painstaking type person and kept the machine in perfect order. The paint looked like new.

"Why," Dana demanded when she hinted at such an idea. "The old hack's doing all right. No engine trouble. Looks good. Why swap her in?"

After the Bridges' had owned their Northland seven years a salesman tried hard to sell Dana a new car. Dana listened to his talk and then asked what he'd offer for the 1934 model. The salesman named a figure so low that Dana got mad and kicked him off the place. And Rachael decided, with a sigh, that now their chances of buying a new automobile was remote indeed.

She was right. For 16 years the Bridges' kept their Northland Special Six, and after while the neighbors stopped laughing and some of them began to think that maybe Dana was pretty smart.

IN THE SPRING of 1950 Dana drove his Northland Special down to the Northland salesroom and told the floorman he wanted to buy a new Super Special Eight, complete with radio, heater, clock and any other gadgets they had.

"Have you a car to trade in?" the salesman asked.

"Sure," Dana said. "It's a pip, too. A 1934 model."

"You mean, of course, a 1944 model," the salesman said politely.

"No," said Dana. "I mean 1934."

The salesman coughed. "I'm afraid we can't allow you very much on a car as old as that."

Dana waved an airy hand. "Take me to the president of this outfit. I can't be bothered with underlings." He glared at the salesman.

So a few minutes later Dana was ushered into the president's office. "Commere," he said to the president, beckoning him to the window. "See that shiny, good looking car out there? It's a Northland 1934 model. It's been driven over 200,000 miles. It runs as good as new. Looks as good as new, doesn't it? Now, look, Mr. President, would it or would it not be a good advertisement for your show window and put a sign on it, saying it was 16 years old and has gone 200,000 miles and doesn't take that prove that a Northland can take the gaff?"

The president got his hat and went out and looked at Dana's car. He drove it around the block. "What kind of trade do you want?" he asked Dana.

"I'll swap you even," said Dana. "For a 1950 Super Special, complete with gadgets."

The president smiled, then sobered, then figured on the back of an envelope, then looked at Dana's car again, then nodded. "It's a deal," he said.

And now poor Rachael is wondering if she will have to wait another 16 years before she gets a new car.

Chinese Reds Laughed at MacArthur Across River

By Wright A. Patterson

HOW UTTERLY FUTILE would be any United Nations' armed force in preventing the suppressing acts of aggression was amply demonstrated by the Korean debacle. It was not any lack of ability on the part of MacArthur that caused that result; it was not any lack of valor on the part of United Nations' armed forces—it was the delay and lack of decision on the part of an international debating society. It was a case of "too many cooks spoiling the broth." It could not change its instructions to its field commander without debate.

The first instance of the inability to decide came when the United Nations forces reach the 38th parallel. MacArthur had instructions not to go beyond that line. It took better than a week to get those instructions changed. That more than a week of delay gave the North Koreans time to reorganize their shattered divisions; to get new arms and munitions from the Red Chinese army on the Manchurian border.

It prevented the total destruction of the North Korean army in North Korea. The job had to be done all over again, and before the Manchurian border was reached. The next stopping point was the Yalu river.

Just north of the Yalu river in Manchuria, a vast army of Red Chinese was being assembled. Into its camp was being poured vast numbers of transport vehicles and tanks. Great munition dumps were being erected. There was no slightest question as to the purpose of it all.

The United Nations had an adequate supply of airplanes and bombs. Those planes and bombs could have destroyed the transport vehicles and tanks. They could have blown up the ammunition dumps and scattered the million men the camps contained. But MacArthur's instructions would not permit the firing of so much as a rifle across that river.

The planes at his command could neither fly beyond the south bank of the Yalu or drop so much as a fire cracker on the amounts of military supplies. But the North Koreans and the Red Chinese could stand on the north bank of that dividing stream and thumb their noses at the impatient United Nations troops on the south bank. Nothing could be done about that situation unless and until MacArthur received new instructions.

He waited, as he was ordered to do, while the discussion went on and on, and then came the attack. That Red army, with its transport vehicles, its tanks, its munitions crossed the Yalu, the debating society had talked too long, and the United Nations' forces in Korea paid the penalty for that delay.

What happened in Korea would be the inevitable result in any case where the activities of a United Nations force came under the orders and directions of an international debating society, representing 53 nations, all of which insist on being heard. It creates an impossible condition for a field commander, just as it did for MacArthur.

It is a safe bet that he would not again undertake such a job as was assigned to him by President Truman. When the time and conditions were urgent both the President and Secretary Acheson failed to urge speed in arriving at a United Nations decision.

It savored of more consideration for the Chinese Reds, of which we have had entirely too much in the past. There should be no place for any who had a part in such actions in the American government. It has cost the lives of many thousands of Americans fighting under the flag and the instructions of the United Nations. In the future we should have no part in any armed activities that operate under the orders and directions of the members of an international debating society. Such bosses do not keep pace with military necessities.

The leaders of organized labor, like leaders of other segments of the American people, proved themselves selfish in their demands for those they lead, and the general public turned on them, as it turned on capital when it ignored the interests of the people. The people will turn on the farmers if they ignore the general welfare, and keep on pushing prices of food up.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Cookies Rate High at Snack Time (See Recipes Below)

Cookie Jar Time

"WHEN I HAVE the cookie jar filled," says many a homemaker, "I feel that I'm ready for anything, the children's coming home from school, teen ager's get together, or friends dropping in."

With an assortment of delicious cookies on hand, you can indeed be ready for almost any form of simple entertaining. Serve them with a beverage for most occasions, add ice cream, sherbet or a delectable creamy pudding and you add a flourish to your entertaining.

If the drain on the cookie jar is heavy, make simple drop cookies which are so easy on effort and keeping quality.

Stone Jar Molasses Cookies (Makes 3 1/2 dozen)

- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup molasses
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 teaspoon soda

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, ginger, and salt, and sift again. Heat molasses, remove from fire; add butter and soda. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll very thin on slightly floured board. Cut with floured 2 1/2-inch cutter or with fancy cutters. Bake in greased baking sheet in moderate oven (350°) 10 minutes.

Fudge Squares (Makes 2 1/2 dozen)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup shortening
- 3 eggs
- 2 squares bitter chocolate
- 3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 egg broken nut meats

Blend shortening, sugar, and eggs. Melt chocolate over hot water and add to first mixture. Add flour, baking powder, and salt which have been mixed together. Add vanilla and nut meats. Place in 7"x10"x12" pan which has been rubbed with shortening. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 25 to 30 minutes. Cover with Fudge Icing.

2-tablespoon shortening

- 2 squares bitter chocolate
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate over hot water. Pour over the shortening and mix thoroughly. Gradually add the confectioners' sugar, salt, milk, and vanilla. Stir until smooth. Cover fudge squares while still warm.

Date Nut Drops (Makes 4-5 dozen)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups broken nut meats
- 2 cups seedless raisins
- 2 cups chopped dates
- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

LYNN SAYS: There's always time to make a dessert if you use simple ideas which can be dressed up easily. For instance, melt some chocolate peppermint wafers and use to frost pound cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Griddlecakes make an excellent dessert if they're fruit-filled. To regular batter add some chopped tart apples and fry. Serve with brown sugar and cinnamon.

Dress up a serving of ice cream like this and it's pretty enough for a party. Place the ice cream in a bowl and set in a larger bowl of chopped ice. Serve with a platter of strawberries, Bing cherries and pineapple spears.

Fruit Betty takes on special appeal when it's served with hard sauce to which some ginger has been added to flavoring.

Give your custards an easily made sauce simply by placing some brown sugar into the bottom of the custard cups before pouring in the sweetened egg and milk mixture.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- Veal Balls, Sour Cream Gravy
- Buttered Noodles
- Julienne Carrots
- Lettuce-Spinach Salad
- Bran Rolls
- Rhubarb Sauce
- *Fudge Squares
- *Recipe Given

- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 2 tablespoons orange or pineapple juice

Cream shortening and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Add nut meats, raisins, and dates and mix. Add flour, soda, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, cloves, allspice which have been mixed together, and fruit juice. Chill dough.

Drop from teaspoon two inches apart on a baking sheet rubbed with shortening. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) 12 to 15 minutes.

Corn Flake Kisses

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup melted shortening
- 1 cup flour (sifted before measuring)
- 1 cup corn flakes
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup chopped nut meats
- 1 cup finely cut dates

Combine sugar, shortening and egg. Sift dry ingredients together. Add to the first mixture along with remaining ingredients. Drop from a teaspoon onto a greased cookie sheet. Flatten tops slightly. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400°) for 10 minutes.

Scotch Oatmeal Cookies

- 1 cup lard
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup sour milk
- 2 cups flour, pastry (sifted before measuring)
- 2 cups oatmeal
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream lard and sugar until light and fluffy. Add sour milk in which the soda has been dissolved. Add oatmeal and flour, reserving enough flour to roll out cookies (about 1/2 cup). Roll out and cut into squares. Place on a greased cookie sheet, sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderate oven (350°) 15 minutes.

Sour Cream Cookies

- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 1 cup chopped nut meats
- 2 cups pastry flour (sifted before measuring)
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sour cream

Cream shortening, add sugar, then mix well. Add the egg; beat thoroughly. Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, salt, and nutmeg, then add alternatively with sour cream to the first mixture. Mix well and drop from a teaspoon on well-greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 20 minutes.

Several kinds of fruit left in the refrigerator? Place in deep dish, top with piecrust and bake. Invert so crust is on the bottom, slice like pie and serve with whipped cream.

Baked fruit like peaches and apples can be served on top of small slices of slightly stale cake. Have plenty of syrup from the fruit to spoon onto the cake.

Keep individual pastry tart shells on hand along with chocolate, vanilla and butterscotch puddings. You have a choice of tarts any time you want them.

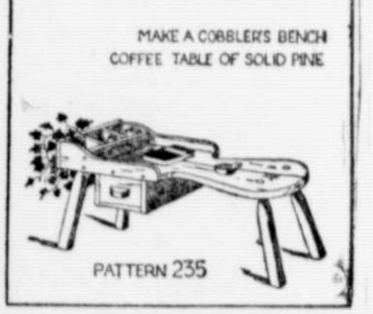

If you have a can of peaches and a pint of soft custard sauce, do this: place peaches in a casserole, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and almond extract. Cover with sauce, then with meringue and brown in a hot oven.

Leftover cake crumbs? Use one cup to 1/4 cup of chopped almonds and toast together on a cookie sheet until golden. Serve over a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Pear halves, well chilled, then filled with chocolate ice cream, sprinkled with nuts are hard to beat for a quickie dessert.
