Rain Cuts Short Picnic Here But Event Is Success

Parade Put On by Firemen-Legion Sunday One of the Best Ever Held; Joe Slesar Wins Television

Kewaskum's annual pienic sponsored by the firemen and Legion over the week end was a fine success even parade and picnic Sunday and broke it up at an early hour in the evening However, the sponsors made out well meeting. Nominations were closed and with the help of advance "rain insurance' tickets.

The picnic opened with a water fight at 7 p. m. Saturday between the Barton and Boltonville firemen. Boltonville won the fight, taking two rounds in a row, The night was very minutes of the previous annual meetwarm and humid and hundreds of people were in attendance. Free enterstand and the crowd remained until a late hour. The concessions were kept busy and refreshments sold well.

Fortunately the weather was ideal was a different story. During the night port. a violent storm struck, details on which can be read in a separate story on this page. The rain continued all during the morning and it looked like no picnic Sunday. But around noon the rain let up and it was decided to go ahead with the event. Only the parade, scheduled for 12:30, was pushed Schaeffer that unanimous ballot be back to 2 p. m. with the hope for more favorable weather and to give those in Stautz as treasurer for a term of three the parade time to get their entries years. Carried.

Although an hour and a half's business in the park was lost, the parade got under way shortly before 2 o'clock, The mammoth parade easily was the finest and most worthwhile and beau tiful ever held here. The floats were numerous and especially artistic and there were many other excellent units in the line of march. Even the kiddies had some very original and labor-tak ing creations. The only thing lacking was that there were only two musical organizations participating. Hundreds of people lined the streets to witness the spectacle.

Prizes awarded in the parade were

Motion Pictures in Our Small Towns – How Can They Meet Residents' Demands?

Hollywood, or more properly the motion picture industry, has become acutely conscious in the past year or so of the "colossal" importance of the small town-the one-theater town-in terms of box office receipts and in determining the kind of films that will be produced.

There are two main reasons, one technological and the other economic, why the local motion picture exhibitor in the small town is becoming the the small town is becoming the man of the hour as far as the industry is concerned.

A MAIN STREET FEATURE

One of the reasons is, of course, television, and the fact that the great preponderance of TV sets still remains in metropolitan areas. In the big cities, then, television is draining off much of what heretofore has been the motion picture audience.

The other factor is the dollar shortage abroad, which is curtailing foreign demand for American films, resulting in a severely restricted market.

So it comes back to our small towns. What kind of motion pictures do the people living in small communities want? And what is the prospect for improving the motion picture business in these communities?

Perhaps at least a partial answer to these questions is indicated in the results of a recent survey, conducted by I. I. Raines of the marketing division of the University of Illinois, to determine how well the small-town exhibitor is succeeding in meeting the entertainment requirements of his public.

Submitting a questionnaire to adult residents of one Illinois community of 3,000 population, Raines sought to discover the frequency of attendance at motion pictures, program preferences and dislikes, and other factors affecting attendance.

He found, for instance, that the local theater audience in this particular town was predominantly young, with those persons between 15 and 20 attending most frequently. Next highest rate of attendance was in the 21 to 25 age group. After 25, attendance was found to drop materially. Married people are more likely to attend motion pictures when the children no longer require baby sitters.

The survey's results concerning the kinds of movies preferred are equally interesting and significant.

Mystery plays received the greatest number of mentions as first choice, while comedy and musical comedy each had the same number of second choice listings. Comedy is best received by the younger people, but musicals appeal to all age groups. Men prefer mystery, musical comedy, and westerns—in that order. Among women, the first choice is equally divided between musical comedy and drama, followed by romance and comedy.

But what is missing from this array of small town motion picture preferences? Very simply, a place for the more significant, serious films which are not represented in the popularity poll because the persons wishing to see them are in the minority.

The divergence of interest in the small town, with top preferences ranging the way they do, presents an almost unsolvable problem to the small community exhibitor who can't afford to cater to the more discriminating but outnumbered group. In his survey, Raines points out that this fact cuts off the small community "almost completely from meaningful presentations of the more serious and controversial problems."

Is there any kind of answer to be presented to this dilemma? Admittedly, the majority must rule, particularly in the entertainment business where the box office count tells the final story.

Our local motion picture operators are committed to giving the public what "it" wants. Trouble is, the entertainment-seeking public cannot be considered as an "it." It is a many-headed body with many distinct preferences. And despite its minority status, one of the most important of these is that which calls for the serious, searching film—the documentary, the interpretations of classic dramas and novels, the experimental film.

The answer suggested by Mr. Raines is the establishment of film clubs, operating on the book club principle. We will discuss that idea in this space next week.

The most agreeable thing in life is worthy accomplishment. It is not possible that the idle tramp is as contented as the farmers along the road who own their own farms, and whose credit is good at the bank in town. When the tramps get together at night, they abuse the farmers, but do not get as much satisfaction out of it as do the farmers who abuse the tramps. The sounder your argument, the more satisfaction you get out of it.

Attack on Marshall

SENATE Democratic leaders called an emergency off-therecord huddle the other day to decide how to meet Senator Mc-Carthy's 60,000-world attack on Secretary of Defense Marshall.

Minnesota's fiery Sen. Hubert
Humphrey suggested a mass walkout when McCarthy got up to speak.
Pointing out how Hitler started his rise to power by tearing down the heroes of the German republic,
Humphrey snorted his disgust at McCarthy's tactics.

"There are many ways to destroy people—sometimes by outright murder, sometimes through the process of attrition," declared Humphrey. "I mean character assassination, misrepresentation and quoting out of context. This is the most inhumane way."

The senator from Minnesota suggested that the Democrats had only two alternatives—"either stand up and fight back which is almost impossible to do when McCarthy controls the floor, or remove ourselves from the scene of the unsavory conduct."

However, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas favored sending in a conservative southern Democrat to hit back at McCarthy. Anyone else who tried it would be branded as a Communist by McCarthy, Johnson observed. He suggested George of Georgia or Byrd of Virginia, since Marshall lives in Virginia and Byrd made the original motion in favor of Marshall's nomination.

However, McMahon of Connecticut warned that it was an "impossibility trying to debate with McCarthy, because you never can pin him to the facts of the issue."

He added that Marshall had stature enough to withstand the McCarthy blast and suggested that the McCarthyites had lost the MacArthur fight, and McCarthy's attack on Marshall was "a deliberate attempt to gain the offensive again.

Serving Two Masters

The next government agency to get in hot water with congress may be the securities and exchange commission, which polices Wall Street and the big corporations.

The SEC is the only agency which has failed to answer a questionnaire, sent out by alert Pennsylvania Congressman Francis Walter, asking for the names of employees who had given up their government jobs to work for the same companies which they once regulated when they were government officials.

The manner in which some officials have used their government positions to do favors for private companies, then have gone to work for the same companies at higher salaries, is a national scandal.

Probable reason why the SEC is keeping silent is that the answers would be embarrassing. For example, SEC would have to tell how it reversed a recommendation to dissolve the United Corporation, after several former SEC employees were hired by United.

Organized by J. P. Morgan, United Corporation is a giant holding com-pany which gives Wall Street bankers control over several power and electric companies. In 1942 the SEC staff recommended dissolving this parent corporation under the holding company act and on the grounds that it served no useful purpose except to perpetuate banker control. However, the bankers turned round and hired several SEC officials, including some who had vorked on the very recommendation to dissolve the United Corporation. First to move over to United was William M. Hickey, who had been assistant director of SEC's public utilities division. Suddenly in April, 1943, he became president of United Corporation.

In addition, John J. Burns, SEC counsel in the early days, became United's senior counsel; E. Carey Kennedy, ex-SEC analyst, became vice president of the company; and Edward Roll, formerly a minor SEC official became assistant to United's president.

Following this, the SEC strangely had a change of heart and did not dissolve the United Corporation. Last year, a new proceeding was initiated, but again the bankers resorted to the same tactics, and SEC's counsel in charge of the public utilities division legal staff, Harry Slater, overnight became assistant counsel of United's chief sub-

Malik's Korean Peace Proposal Causing World-Wide Speculation

THE TIMING WAS PERFECT-Whether or not Russia's Jacob A. Malik was sincere in his proposed cease-fire in Korea is a question that only time will answer, but of one thing the people in the home towns of America were sure—the timing was perfect.

The average man in the small towns of the country has a sincere desire for peace. He is sure of a number of things: (1) U.S. casualties now number 73,600 and he wants his sons and brothers home; (2) The war has strained the nation's bipartisan foreign policy and threaten to cause an even more serious internal split; (3) and the war has increased the dangers of inflation throughout the western world.

Perhaps the Russians realized these facts and picked the first an- ers will find the tourist more likely niversary of the start of the Korean war for their peace move. THE BALANCE SHEET-As the first year of conflict ended in Korea, the fighting was as bloody and dirty as the day it began. But the balance sheet would indicate the Communists have lost the first round in their smash into another car. planned aggression.

On the credit side of the ledger: (1) The first U.N. battle force was raised and integrated in the initial bloody weeks; (2) the U.S. and her allies were dynamited into world-wide alertness and rearmament; (3) American military forces have learned valuable military lessons, developed new techniques, and tested much of the enemy's strategy; (4) the west has have accidents because they begin proved it will not abandon the small nations of Asia and Europe; and (5) the North Korean army has been mangled and the Chinese have had startling losses, estimated in all at 1,162,500 casualties.

THE YEAR OF INFLATION-Since the Korean war began on June 25, 1950, livestock prices in this country have increased $3 to $10 a hundred pounds. At the same time, livestock production was much greater during the past 12 months than the preceding twelve. A year ago hogs were no higher than $20.50. Today they are selling at $23.50, and last summer went to $25.50 a hundred pounds. The cattle trade is about $6 a hundred pounds higher than a year ago although production ran 20 per cent above the 12 months preceding the start of the war. When the war broke out, steers were selling downward from $31.50. Currently they are topping at $38.50.

For the people of this community who plan a vacation by private automobile, it would be well to remember that the nation's motorists probably will drive into more accidents this year than ever before. ### Homemade Freezer Serves Farm Needs Farmers Turn to 'Build Your Own' Once More

With labor costs up and appli-ance growing scarce, many farm-ers are beginning to "build their own" once more. One example of what can be done with cinder blocks and insulation—plus a few spare hours of labor-is the homemade food freezer shown below.

The freezer is tucked away in a convenient corner of a farm home and all the surplus cherries, strawberries and lima beans grown on the farm. Besides farm produce, this homemade appliance makes an ideal storage place for left-overs, ice cream and large quantities of special cuts of meat processed at a neighboring locker plant.

Like other freezers, however, it must be remembered that freezing does not improve the quality of the food stored in them. You get out of a freezer only what you put in. Also, farm wives are cautioned about correctly packaging freezer food. Included among acceptable packaging materials are moisture-proof vegetable parchment paper, moistureproof cellophane (which can be heat-sealed), aluminum foil, cello-phane-lined containers, freezers bags and approved cartons. The use of such materials are necessary regardless of whether freezers are purchased or are homemade. Unless properly packed frozen foods may deteriorate.

The freezer, illustrated, is operated with a 1/4 horsepower compressor. Rafters above the appliance are used for the storage of canned

Intestinal Disease Hits Numerous Swine Herds

Thousands of pigs in major swineproducing states have been stricken with an intestinal disease regarded as the most serious of its kind ever seen in the U.S.

The American veterinary medical sociation reported that transmis sible gastroenteritis has wiped out the entire pig crop on some farms. No swine-raising farm can consider itself completely safe from the disease, the AVMA warned. Symptoms are severe scouring, vomiting, and dehydration. There is rapid loss of flesh in spite of the fact that affected pigs continue to nurse until they die.

At present, no drug can be recommended as a standard treatment for this infection. Only possible means of control is to keep healthy breed-ing stock and healthy litters completely out of contact with sick animals and away from houses and grounds where outbreaks have oc-

Gardener Knee Rest

This knee rest will take the strain out of gardening when weeding or performing some similar operation where it's necessary to work on your knees. The base is large enough se that it won't sink into soft ground. The edges of the three vertical pieces should be rounded. Sufficient slack is left in the canvas cover to provide comfortable rests for the knees.

Side-Dressing Corn Crop With Nitrogen Pays Off

Prof. C. J. Chapman, University of Wisconsin extension agronomist, reports that side-dressing corn with nitrogen fertilizer in late June, paid off in an extra 41/2 tons of corn silage per acre on one Dane county farm last year. He says the amount of nitrogen to apply depends on the soil's fertility level. He recommends at least 40 pounds per acre. Under some conditions this could be increased.

Electric Brooders Aid Farmers Save Pig Crops

Farmers in North Daktoa are making good use of electricity in having more pigs, per sow, according to reports.

John Meisch of Dunn Center, reports "electric brooders sure make big difference in the number of pigs saved during springs like this year and last." Four of six sows to farrow on the Meisch farm saved an average of 91/2 pigs per litter, it was reported.

The Way it Happened ...

IN LONDON. Charging his wife with desertion, Francis Brooks presented as evidence a letter she had written from Ireland: "It's no use trying to get me and the kids to come over to England to share your semi-starvation. It's bad enough coming to a place you loathe without being balf-starved as well. We are staying where the food is."

IN BOSTON . . . A man charged with bigamy was ordered either to go to sail or give his first wife $25 for living expenses until the case came to trial. When he pleaded that he was stony broke, his second wife turnished the money.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

By ROGER C. WHITMAN Selecting A Water Heater

QUESTION: I'm contemplating buying a water heater. My water supply has a high lime content and I'd like to know if lime will collect on the walls of a glass-lined heater. I don't know whether to buy a water softener or not. If I can get a satisfactory length of service with a glass lined tank, minus a softener, it will mean a real saving for me. Glass lined tanks are guaranteed against rust and corrosion, but I wonder if the same holds true when there is lime in the water.

ANSWER: The lime would be less likely to stick to a glass lining than it would to a rough metal surface. It sounds like a good investment to me, Regarding a water softener, I believe you have the wrong idea as to the cost of of these units. The Architects Samples Exhibi, 101 Park Ave., New York 17, can furnish you with names of manufacturers and you may find that the price of a good one would not be at all excessive.

Vacation Days See Youth In Full-Time Employment

NEW YORK, N.Y.-School days are ended and for many of our youth full-time employment has begun. According to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians, 7 out of 10 American boys in the 18 to 20 year age bracket have already taken jobs. "WHEN LIL and I were first married we had a lot of fun,' writes a 34-year-old husband from "We danced, we had a gang of pals, we had wedding present checks to fix us up in a nice place, and, darn it," Carter Neill goes on youthfully, "Lil wore pretty things, and we went off for summe week-ends, well-we had fun! It makes me mad to look at the old snapshots in her books. Swimming, tennis, weeny roasts, beaches, and the rest.

"Now it's nine years since we've had any of that. I make twice as much money, but we never have a cent. Do you want to know the reason? I'll tell you. It's Babby, 9, Tom, 8, Patricia and Penelope, 5, Gary 3 and Kittens, 1. Yesir, we have six of 'em. Twenty-four meals a day, how's that? "Last winter we had whooping cough in November, and the coughs stopped at Easter. We thought we were going to lose Penny. Lil has a washing machine, bought with some of the thousand her father left her, and Babby's a swell help. But my kick is that there is never a moment of peace in this house. If it isn't yelling from Kittens, it's Patsy and Pen tearing things to pieces, Tom crying because he doesn't like his teacher, everyone asking if he or she mayn't have a pal overnight or go somewhere overnight. The big ones think we spoil the little ones, and the little ones raise the roof if the big ones are going to a Saturday movie without

Most Important Job

Carter and Lil Neill have engaged in the most important business in the world. Of course it's a tiring and expensive and nerve-racking job, what else could it be? Of course it takes every bit of money they have, and the money is the least of it.

But what a harvest they'll reap as these babies grow into lovely youth, and they have girls and boys in the house, turning to them, helping them, paying them back hours of happiness for every one of today's minutes of care.

Growing up is a painful business. But if every couple who married saw marriage as a time of growing up, a chance to be better and stronger and less selfish in the new life, what a world we'd have! There are a great many vocations and emloyments for women today, but

Lil has the best of them. Years of rest are ahead for Lil and Carter. And what will be one of the heartaches of those years? Why, looking back to just such mornings as the one on which Car-Frank laughed. "That's good! I ter wrote me his good-natured,
