Next week is United Nations week. Mr. Reynolds' senior social problems class will present a UNITED NATIONS program to the school on United Nations day Oct. 24. These young people have been working on this program for some time so the rest of the student body should learn much about United Nations organization, operation, and responsibilities from this class presentation.

On Saturday afternoon, Oct. 27, a small group of students from the social problems class will present a United Nations program to the Kewaskum Women's club. Programs such as this give these young people an incentive for doing some rather thorough research on a very timely topic and of presenting their material to community groups who are interested in world affairs.

Posters will be distributed throughout the village in business places describing the works of the United Nations.

Gravel Truck Driver Injured in Tip-Over

Losing control of his 1950 model gravel truck when he applied the brakes, Gordon J. Kluever, 18, West Bend, R. 5, was injured at 10 a. m. on Tuesday when the machine overturned on County Trunk V, about one-half mile north of the Fond du Lac-Washington county line. Kluever was reported to be heading north on V at the time and was rapidly catching up to a vehicle ahead. Kluever applied the brakes and the truck went into a skid.

He suffered a fractured left knee, possible internal injuries and numerous cuts and bruises on his left leg. X-rays were taken at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, where he was removed in the Kewaskum fire department ambulance. The authorities were summoned by Robert Bartelt, Kewaskum, R. 3.

Two motorists escaped injury at 5 p. m. Sunday when their autos collided in the village of Marblehead. They were Clinton E. Holtz, 23, Campbellsport, R. 2, and Albert P. Schaefer, 42, Kewaskum. Holtz started negotiating a left turn into a driveway as Schaefer was passing.

A car driven by Bernard Zimpher, R. 1, Kewaskum, collided with the rear end of an auto driven by Harley Gersert on Hwy. 55 near Letch's church hill Saturday afternoon.

Indians Lose First Game to North Fondy

After winning three games straight and holding down first place in the Fox River Valley Tri-County conference, the Kewaskum Indians were dropped into the defeated ranks last Friday afternoon at North Fond du Lac when they were trimmed, 59-37, by the Oriole six. Campbellport took over first place with a win over Brandon.

North Fondy also has won three without a setback but has one tie to mar its record. North Fondy beat the Mitchellmen by a surprising margin. In other contests the Belles got by Brandon, 32-6, and Oakfield drubbed Green Lake, 1-14. Lomira lost a non-conference affair to Random Lake, 32-14.

Glen Gongorek, who had been held out of North Fondy's first three games because of an injury, romped on a four-touchdown scoring spree to lead the Orioles' triumph. Without him the Indians might have reversed the outcome.

North Fondy overwhelmed the Indians by a 41-7 score in the first half and then stayed off a gallant comeback by Kewaskum in the last two periods. Gongorek reeled off 182 yards in 15 rushing attempts and Oriole passers completed 12 pitches. Besides Gongorek's four touchdowns, Randy Johnson scored one, Meier three and Hintz one. Hintz drop-kicked two extra points and passed to Meier for another.

Township PMA Meetings, Elections Are Scheduled

Township meetings will be held in Washington county as listed below. Applications for payment will be ready for signature at these township meetings for those who participated in the 1951 Agricultural Conservation program. Farmers are asked to bring all receipts which have not already been sent to the PMA office and report additional approved practices which have not already been reported.

1952 lime orders will also be taken at these meetings.

Community committeemen elections will be held at these same meetings. Three regular community committee members, two alternates to the community committee, a delegate and alternate delegate to the county PMA convention will be elected in each township. The delegates will elect the county PMA committee for 1952. These elected officers will take office on Dec. 22, 1951, and will serve until the next annual election.

The community and county PMA committees are charged with the local administration of such national farm programs as the agricultural conservation program, sugar program, price support programs, and others. This election is a democratic means of insuring that the voice of farmers will be heard in developing and carrying out national farm programs. Since these programs affect the daily operations of every farmer, it is important to have program decisions and suggestions made by committeemen who represent the choice of a majority of farmers in the community. This will be certain if every eligible farmer votes in the election.

Following is the schedule of meetings; each farmer is asked to attend his own meeting:

Poik—Thursday, Oct. 25, town hall, Cedar Creek, 7:30 p. m.

County Holstein Sire Sale Set for Oct. 26

Friday afternoon, Oct. 26, is the date of the 4-H and FFA sale of 20 registered Holstein bulls. These young bulls are from 10 to 14 months old and all should be ready for service in dairy herds the coming winter. All of these calves were carefully selected from various herds in the county, usually only one animal was selected from a herd, thus giving prospective buyers a wide choice of bloodlines for choosing a herd sire.

The plans for this sale were made almost a year ago when 17 breeders having purebred Holstein herds volunteered to consign 20 choice calves which were assigned to a similar number of 4-H and FFA boys. The boys were to furnish the feed and care for the calves until sold at public auction on Oct. 26 of this year. All calves are on a share-basis.

All of these animals have been exhibited at the Washington county fair and a number of them at the Wisconsin Junior State fair where many of those exhibited won top ribbons.

These young bulls will be available for public inspection at about 11:00 o'clock a. m. on the morning of sale date, when they will be shown in a fitness for show contest. Here the animals will be judged on grooming, training, finish, and development with respect to age.

Practically all of these bulls are from dams having butterfat production records in excess of 450 lbs. Several are from dams with B. F. records between 550 lbs. and up to 671 lbs. All records are DHIA records and have been checked for accuracy by local DHIA fieldmen.

All animals will be TB and Brucellosis tested and injected for shipping fever.

The names and addresses of the project members who have raised one of the share-basis bulls are as follows:

Roger Shoedel, West Bend, R. 2; Frederick Laatsch, West Bend, R. 5; Joseph Altschaefer, Jr., West Bend, R. 5; Karl Peters, West Bend, R. 4; Joseph A. Kenny Polio Fund Appeal in County Ends Saturday

The Washington county committee for the 1951 polio fund appeal of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation is completing the drive which ends Oct. 20.

Mrs. V. Bauer of the Associated Women of Farm Bureau, county chairman, pointed to the wide acceptance of the famed Kenny treatment for polio and the ever-growing number of appeals for Kenny therapist services when incidence of the disease rises to high levels.

"The Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, which provides the Kenny treatment and medical services, at no charge, has left nothing undone to prepare for polio emergencies such as may occur anywhere, anytime," she declared. "But it takes at least two years to train physical therapists and registered nurses to become Kenny therapists. This training and the scholarships which are provided qualify candidates for the course require a great deal of money which must be raised through public contributions.

"The Kenny Foundation has no source of revenue for carrying on its battle against polio other than the funds contributed by the public."

County Contributes $2561 to United Defense Fund

Last week Washington county sent a check for $2561, which was the balance of the Washington County War Chest fund left from World War II, to the Wisconsin Community Chest & Councils, Inc. for its share of the 1951 United Defense fund.

By so doing, Washington county will not have to make a drive this year in order to do its share for the United Defense fund, which now supports the U. S. O. and similar agencies as well as the United Community Defense Services, which is a combination of 13 agencies helping residents and newcomers in swollen defense areas.

Originally the state headquarters of this fund assessed Washington county more than $2,000. However, former Washington County Council of Defense members, who had the leftover fund of $2561, felt that this would be the proper time and place to use it, thereby winding up the financial affairs of the Washington County War Chest. The state headquarters were contacted and agreed to accept the War Chest balance for Washington county's share of the United Defense fund 1951 drive. Other counties in Wisconsin are following a similar procedure in using World War II chest funds for the current emergency.

The UDF (United Defense Fund) was originated because of the Korean War and the intensified defense effort to solve welfare and recreational problems in much the same manner as U. S. O. and similar agencies did in World War II. In fact, the U. S. O. has been revived and will receive funds from the UDF for its clubs, camp shows and entertainment of servicemen wherever they are stationed. Likewise the United Community Defense Services, a combination of 13 agencies, will organize social and welfare services in the crowded areas around defense plants. Many of these 13 agencies are peacetime organizations such as the YMCA, National Travelers Aid and the Child Welfare League, which have been called upon to expand their work in these areas.

LABOR FORCE

Ratio of Workers to Persons 65 Or Older Continues to Decline

Today there are only five adult workers in the United States for every person 65 years old or over; in 1850 there were 11 workers, 16 years old or over, for every older person.

respect to our aging population, reports the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

As medical science and improving conditions enable more people to live past 65, we are at the same time retiring more older persons from useful work, says the report.

Simply voting the old people more dollars is no solution, either for them or the nation, the report observes, adding that old people do not consume dollars—they consume goods, like everyone else. Somebody has to produce the extra food, clothes, shelter and other things needed for their comfort.

Therefore any practical program of security for our aged must face two basic requirements, says the report:

- (1) Production of goods and services by our young and middle-aged people must be expanded much further, through industrial progress, so there will be a greater margin left over from the workers' own needs, to take care of helpless older members of our population.
- (2) At the same time our increasing millions of older people must be permitted and helped to keep on at productive work as long after 65 as possible, instead of being discouraged and penalized for so doing.

Unless these basic realities are kept in mind, the problem will grow worse instead of better, says the report; passing out more and more government dollars looks like an easy solution, but only means that each dollar will buy less and less.

MOST AMERICANS want to stay useful after 65, says the report, pointing to a recent survey of the retirement aims of 3,000 of the company's male policyholders. Results, as previously published, showed that only 25 per cent want complete leisure when they reach retirement age. The remaining 75 per cent want either to keep on at their present jobs as long as they are physically and mentally capable, or else to be financially able to ease up a bit, with shorter hours or in some lighter occupation. Thus, three out of four of the men in the survey want to keep right on doing something useful after 65.

Such responses further emphasize the need for all retirement programs, whether based on life insurance, industrial pensions or government payments, to be made highly flexible in their provisions for actual retirement from work, the report concludes.

Proud Father Gets Wish; Triple Mary-ment Occasion

KILDANGANAN, Ireland—Joseph Geraghty had told all his friends that he was wishing for it to be a daughter. In fact, he had already chosen a name to be used when the blessed event happened.

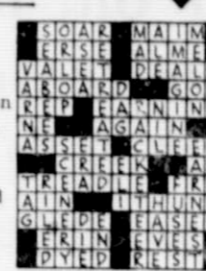

Mrs. Geraghty surprised the proud father by presenting him with, not one daughter, but three female family additions. Proud Joseph still was granted his wish.

The girls, he announced merrily, would be named Julia Mary, Norah Mary and Christina Mary.

THE FICTION CORNER

BERTHA

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

ROY was correcting his English IV mid-year book reviews and the whistling annoyed him. It came from the alley beneath the window at the end of the hall. It had begun early that morning, a bright, cheery whistle, measured, high-pitched.

Presently he could stand it no longer. He was not a violent man, but as he descended the back stairs there was a grimace about his mouth.

Roy emerged into the alley and headed for a high board fence, from behind which came the measured whistle. He went through a door in the fence and stopped short. A voice said: "Hi, kid!"

Suspended from a peg in the fence was a cage and in the cage was a parrot. As Roy stared at it the parrot emitted a shrill, piercing whistle.

Roy was in the act of opening the cage door when someone shrieked. He turned to see a girl with red hair and blazing brown eyes rushing at him.

"Don't you dare touch that cage! Who are you? What are you doing here? You were going to harm Bertha!"

Roy blinked, "Yes," he said calmly, "I was going to bring Bertha's scrawny neck. Bertha's whistling annoyed me. It was driving me crazy. All morning long I have been trying to correct my English book reviews. If the book reviews aren't in by tomorrow I'm apt to lose my job."

The girl's eyes brimmed with tears.

"I'm sorry," Roy said, "Unless you remove Bertha from her present location I shall insist on bashing in her stupid head."

"I'm sorry," said Roy, "Unless you remove Bertha from her present location I shall insist on bashing in her stupid head."

The redhead gasped. "And I'll bet you would do it, too! It's only on bright days that I place Bertha outside. Otherwise, she has to stay in where it's dark. If you don't believe me, come and see."

Roy realized that she was appealing to his better nature, if any. He permitted himself to be led into the house. The room, where abode the girl and Bertha, was truly a gloomy place.

"I concede the point," Roy admitted. He stared at the girl closely. "I should think on warm days you'd want to get out into the air yourself."

"I do. I spend nearly all my time looking for a job. Today I stayed home so Bertha could have a sunny. Tomorrow she won't bother you at all."

"Tomorrow," said Roy, "I won't be here to mind." He scratched his chin.

"Look here," he said, "What kind of work are you looking for?"

"I used to be a librarian," said the girl.

"A librarian!" exclaimed Roy. "Would you like a job correcting English IV book reviews?"

The redhead's eyes grew round. "Do you mean—why I'd adore such a job!"

"By the way," he said, "I haven't asked your name."

"It's Roberta Cameron. And if you want these papers tonight, I think you'd better let me get to work on them."

It was in October that Bertha had first aroused Roy's ire. Two weeks before Christmas he asked Roberta an important question. She shook her head. "I couldn't marry you. You don't like Bertha."

"But I've really grown fond of Bertha!" Roy cried. "Why, if it weren't for Bertha, I'd never have met you."

The day after this, Bertha caught a cold. It was bright and warm in the morning and Roberta left the bird outside while she went to town. At noon it turned cold and began to rain. Attracted by a series of hoarse shrieks, Roy rushed into the alley, seized the cage and returned indoors. Bertha died the next day.

"I—I suppose," said Roberta, "I shouldn't have put her out."

Roy stared. A thousand thoughts galloped through his mind. But he had the good sense not to mention them. Instead he picked up Roberta's hand and Roberta smiled.

Church Groups Push Programs for Older Members

Since 1900 the proportion of individuals in the United States over 65 has nearly doubled. Faced with this fact, Protestant church groups are giving increasing attention to the problems and needs of the aging.

In St. Louis, Mo., recently, Dr. Beverly M. Boyd, executive director of the National Council of Churches' Social Welfare Department, indicated that while the churches are showing special interest in the problems of youth they are by no means relaxing their efforts on behalf of the old.

Dr. Boyd spoke at the Second International Gerontological Congress. Declaring that the religious groups of the country are giving increasing attention to improving the welfare of old people, he said: "Young and old alike are of inestimable value in the total program of the churches."

According to Dr. Boyd, there are some 350 to 375 Protestant homes for the aged in the United States. The majority of them are under direct church or ecclesiastical control.

The general attitude of church groups is that much more must be done for the aging than building old people's homes.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

JACKIE KELK has so long been identified with his role on radio's "The Aldrich Family" that mail addressed to "Homer, New York" reaches him. Now both star and producer of television's "Young Mr. Bobbin", the new character is taking over; cops near the NBC building are hailing him as "Bobbin". He is a comedian with no desire to be anything else; he began learning his trade when he was a child stooge for Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen and others. But in real life he sheds the naive teen ager role that has brought success; he is actually an astute business man, with many profitable business investments.

Ronald and Benita Colman

Ronald and Benita Colman returning from vacationing in Italy with plans for "The Halls of Ivy"; he so enjoyed writing that one script for it last year that he has done some writing for the NBC show. They also mulled over the idea of appearing in the stage version which Don Quinn has been preparing. They're interested in doing a test television version as a try-out.

While most of the country is busy building super-markets, Renfro Valley, Ky., is rushing construction on an old-fashioned country store. A replica of the town's original general store, it will be heated by a stove, lit by kerosene lamps, and will house the U.S. Post Office cabinet, almost 100 years old. High-topped shoes, copper teed boots and bustles will be displayed.

Gene Autry is all set to make a picture in Japan, probably early next year. The Japanese adore westerns, and Gene's comic books, suits and shirts have a terrific sale there. So prepare for his appearance in "Cowboy in Tokyo."

President Disregards His Dixiecrat Opposition

By Wright A. Patterson

REGARDLESS of what the permanent effect may be on the future of his party, how wide the factional split may spread, the President is determined to make another try at securing legislation on his Fair Deal program.

Senator Humphreys of Minnesota has been delegated to prepare and introduce in the senate eight bills that, if they can be passed, would effectuate the Fair Deal program as contained in the Democratic platform of 1948, for the adoption of which Senator Humphreys was largely responsible.

Senator Humphreys is promised the active support of half a dozen other northern Democratic senators who support anything the President asks for.

The first of these measures is the anti-lynching bill, which the south has been able to talk to death, as an invasion of state's rights. It is the President's belief that the passage of such a measure, with its effect on the northern negro vote, could mean turning the electoral vote of such states as New York, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, and others with a large negro population into the Democratic column, without seriously affecting the white vote of any of the southern states, the people of which are regarded as first protestant, second democratic and third American.

Only a counting of the ballots in the next election can determine the real answer. If the President is right in his surmise, it could mean his election to a third term. All such bills are to be promoted as welfare legislation.

What the action of the Republicans in the senate, whether or not they will support the Dixiecrats of the south, will not be known until the senate votes. The Republicans are not anxious to affront the northern Democratic negroes. The Republicans, too, would like to have as many of those votes as possible. In it all there is much more of politics than of welfare on both sides.

Such a move on the part of the President could mean a permanent split in his party that in time might be politically expensive and mean a third party and a loss of regular Democratic control of congress. Such a result could not be evident in the next election.

When I was in Hawaii between the first and second world wars, an invariable subject of conversation was "statehood for the islands." A large majority of the people of all the racial groups were for it. A small minority, led by the Honolulu Advertiser, was opposed.

The Advertiser based its opposition on its expressed belief in a lack of loyalty on the part of the racial groups in the islands, but the publisher and owner admitted the real reason was the certainty that the publisher and owner of the competing daily, The Star-Telegram, would undoubtedly be elected to the United States senate following admission of the islands to statehood, and that he could not afford to have a competitor selected for such a job which would add to his influence and prestige among the island's people.

I am told the opposition to statehood has grown some, since I was in the islands, and such opposition as exists is fathered, not alone by The Advertiser, but also by the army, especially the intelligence service of the army. It is fearful that statehood would affect the army's privileges and practices.

Such objections are as back of consideration on the part of congress. The islands are fully entitled to being made a real part of the United States. It has been a step child for an overly long period. To longer continue it on a territorial basis is unfair. Give it a chance to rule itself and to enjoy the advantages of statehood, regardless of petty objections.

The examples starting the breakdown of morality and integrity in America were to be found in the White House, among the President's cabinet officers, ambassadors, and public officials fairly generally. They have accepted bribes for betraying the interests of the American people. But the President says they have done nothing illegal.

Briton's Utility Blade Proves Ancient Weapon

HOCKWOLD, Eng.—About three years ago William Dodman found a sharp-edged piece of metal in a field. He experimented and found it made a perfect tool for hedging, ditching and weeding beets. Lately, however, he has stopped using it as a mere tool. Experts have informed him that the blade he was using as a handy tool was a middle-bronze-age sword.

BOLTONVILLE BUSY BEAVERS 4-H CLUB NEWS

Roger Zettler was elected president at the regular meeting of the Boltonville Busy Beavers 4-H club on Friday evening, Oct. 12 at the MWA lodge rooms.

Other officers for the coming year are: Marilyn Laatsch, vice-president; Myrna Laatsch, secretary; Rose Mary Staehler, treasurer, and Eileen Laatsch, reporter.

Under the able direction of Norbert Dettmann, the club members learned to identify nine different kinds of apples. His interesting excellent display consisted of the following varieties: Wolf River, Greening, Northern Spy, McIntosh, Russet, Snow, Talmon Sweet, Jonathan, and Delicious. Eugene Laatsch had the highest rating for identifying.

After the members had the opportunity to judge three plates of delicious apples, an explanation of good quality apples was given by Norbert Dettmann.

In recognition of Fire Prevention week, Carol Riley told how fire prevention and civil defense go hand in hand. If an enemy would attack this country his bombs would cause most damage by fire. Since close houses seldom burn, anything done to make it hard for fires is a step toward preparing our community to protect itself if war comes.

Birthday songs were sung for Mary Ann Stahl, Oct. 8; Mary Ellen Deigner, Oct. 12; Margie Beck, Oct. 14, and Arlene Zettler, Oct. 20. Their request on station WBRV Oct. 20 is "The Little White Duck."

On Oct. 15 the club was the hobo guests of the Pleasant Hill Troopers at a Halloween party at Buettner's hall, Myra. A prize for the best hobo was given.

Marilyn Laatsch reported on the progress of the club constitution. The completed constitution will be read at the achievement meeting for parents Nov. 14. Refreshments for that meet.

MAIN STREET IN ACTION

'Must Do Our Share First' Was Theme Of Community's Hospital-Building Plan

The independent, hard-working people of Alexander county, North Carolina, spend their time raising apples and tobacco, spinning cotton in their mills, weaving hose, making paper, and sawing wood; but they aren't too engrossed in their personal routines to notice a serious lack in their community that needed to be filled.

Very simply, the county had virtually no health program. There was no public health nurse, no school health program, no sanitary inspector. There were only the doctors, who carried a heavier load than they should have been expected to bear.

A
FEATURE

To this skeletal structure of facts, a survey of county opinion added the flesh of a powerful truth: Practically everyone wanted a hospital for Alexander county.

A hospital to meet the pressing health needs of the community, to relieve the overworked doctors. It was like planting a standard around which the people could rally.

Alexander county's leaders were aware of the existence of the Hill-Burton act, designed by congress to help small and needy communities to finance hospital facilities if the state and local community would share the cost. North Carolina had appropriated funds and created a Medical Care Commission to implement the act.

With this knowledge at their disposal, the community leaders backing the hospital idea realized that if any action were going to take place they would have to start it off. "We must do our share first," was their theme at this point.

As it turned out, their "share" was weeks and weeks of hard work, worry, discouragements, and constant effort. But they did it. And they made a noble success out of it.

First step was a public meeting, attended by leading citizens representing every township in Alexander county, called for the purpose of formulating plans to secure the badly needed hospital.

As an outgrowth of the meeting, a group was dispatched to confer with the Medical Care Commission at Raleigh to find out exactly what needed to be done.

The commission told the delegation that it had granted Alexander county an "A" priority for a 20-bed hospital. There was one big proviso: If Alexander county wanted its hospital, it would have to raise 20 per cent of the cost, plus the cost of the land, itself.

Fired by hope, spurred by the challenge, the people elected a 21-member committee to take charge of the fund-raising program. As secretary of the committee, they chose Ray Jennings, an attorney, whose qualifications included at least one which was unique in Alexander county: he had a stenographer who could type a letter on a typewriter.

The goal of the fund drive was set at $40,000. The committee divided the county into districts and embarked on a house-to-house canvass to secure the money. A group of dedicated workers pitched in and started making the rounds.

People like cookie salesman Elbert Bouman, who "... rang an awful lot of doorbells in this fund-raising campaign, and I found folks willing to give." People like Mrs. L. C. Connolly, who "... found people more responsive to this cause than any I have canvassed for."

Nine months of punching doorbells, of reciting the reasons why Alexander county needed a hospital, of watching the hard-earned fund grow slowly to its maturity. And at the end of nine months, Ray Jennings was able to report cash and pledges totalling $40,000.

They were on their way—they thought. They organized a Hospital Association, membership in which cost $15. They appointed a board of directors. The program was rolling.

Then they learned that they would need an additional $17,000!

Next week we shall hear how Alexander county met and beat this new and bitter challenge and finally made their dream of a hospital into a reality.

A character standard is far more important than even a gold standard. The success of all economic systems is still dependent upon both righteous leaders and righteous people. In the last analysis, our national future depends upon our national character—that is, whether it is spiritually or materially minded.

—Roger Babson

IN COLORADO . . . Students dig graves of air show victims.

RED BARLEY FOR BRITAIN . . . Russian barley is pouring into the holds of a lighter from the Russian freighter Staneleve at Surrey docks, London. The grain is transhipped by vacuum power. Last year Britain took 800,000 tons of Russian grain for which she paid in machinery and material needed by the Russians. Recently the British contracted for one million tons of Red grain from this year's harvest. Britain defends this as vital to her economy.

FIREWORKS FOR BRAZILIAN GOVERNOR . . . Governor Eugenio de Barros, his wife, two daughters and a son take refuge in a huddle on the floor of the "Lion's Palace" in Sao Luis, Maranhao, Brazil, when a rebel force of thousands greeted him with guns, knives and clubs on his return after a federal tribunal had confirmed his election. Four persons were killed in the demonstration and about 20 others were wounded. The opposition contends too many ballots were thrown out.

ENGLISH TRAIN DISASTER . . . This is an air view of the wreckage of the express passenger train that was wrecked recently near Rugby, England. The train was derailed outside of a tunnel. Thirty persons were reported killed and at least 35 injured. One of the cars in the foreground of the picture was smashed into matchwood. The locomotive of the train, after derailling, rolled down the embankment at right.

DIDN'T CHOOSE FREEDOM . . . A Czech private and staff sergeant who were among the passengers aboard the "freedom train" which crashed the iron curtain into west Germany are shown with U.S. M.P.'s and border guards shortly before they were turned over to Czech authorities. Before they were returned to their homeland, the private was found with his nose glued to a show window looking at the first bananas he had seen in six years.

The Way it Happened . . .

IN LOS ANGELES . . . Because "getting pushed around, elbowed, struck by umbrellas, even knocked down," and the other occupational hazards were not too much, a woman elevator operator announced that she was quitting, going back to the circus and the high-flying trapeze work she used to do.

IN EAST PATCHOGUE, L.I. . . . A swan which flew across a busy highway struck a 4,000-volt electric wire, broke the wire, which fell to the ground and started a fire in the grass, burned a telephone cable, knocked out phones and power in more than 100 homes, and disrupted traffic. The swan flew on, unharmed.

A Tree Should Be Kept Within Bounds Always

Shade trees require trimming in the summer when they grow out of bounds.

Dense foliage of street trees create hazards by hiding traffic lights and obstructing views. Lush growth of lawn trees darkens the interiors of houses. A low hanging branch, bowed under the weight of leaves, restricts passage over doorways and can become annoying to pedestrians on sidewalks.

Corrective pruning will eliminate these faults. There are few trees that cannot be improved, in beauty and health, by judicious pruning. Raising limbs by eliminating lower branches will prevent sidewalk obstructions. It also lets in more light to the turf beneath, which is highly desirable under lawn trees.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. You here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors state that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy" energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢/oz. or 10¢/oz.
