

Highs Trim Brandon, Oostburg; Place 3rd

Final games were played this week in the Fox River Valley Tri-County football conference. Kewaskum ended its season already last Friday with a 61-12 shellacking of Brandon to finish third in the standings. Other teams completed their schedule on Tuesday and Wednesday but the Indians had a bye the last week and played a non-league affair with Oostburg here Wednesday afternoon. They dished out a 44-15 beating to Oostburg.

North Fond du Lac won the Tri-County crown by beating Campbellport, champions the past two years, in the finale Tuesday at Campbellport, 27-14. These two set the pace during the season, leading up to the last and deciding contest. North Fond du Lac had only a tie game to mar its record but their win over the Belgians gave them the title. The champs have a record of 5 1/2 games won and 1/2 lost, the Belgies 5 and 1, and Kewaskum 3 and 2. A tie game counts 1/2 game won and 1/2 game lost.

Kewaskum and Brandon were the only teams playing last Friday. However, two tilts were run off Saturday in which Campbellport tipped Green Lake, 22-14, and Oakfield trimmed Lomira, 25-6. Besides the North Fondy-Belle contest Tuesday, two other final games were played Wednesday. Brandon upset Oakfield, 19-8, and Lomira whipped last place Green Lake in a cellar position battle.

Kewaskum battled up nine touchdowns Friday in overwhelming Brandon, 61-12 on the Scarlet Tanager gridiron. Brandon was able to check the hard-running Green Indians only in the first half. They trailed by a respectable 18-6 tally at the half. But in the second half Coach Ernie Mitchell's backs really started to roll, and they romped against the team with the best defensive record in the circuit. The 61-point total also was the highest single-game score of the season.

Ellie Ramthun got the big Green off on the right foot by picking up a Brandon fumble and running over the initial touchdown. Ronnie Vorpahl then ran about 45 yards and Dick Buntjer scored Kewaskum's third TD on a 40-yard pass completion. Ronnie Billefick racked up Brandon's first half touchdown on a long pass completion. Dick Sabel dashed away the Tanager's only other TD in the second half.

The Indiana's big second half flurry was sparked by Vorpahl and Ramthun. Vorpahl ran over two more scores. Ramthun added one touchdown and kicked two points for a game total of 14. Ken King scored once and got two points on a safety when he tackled a Brandon ball carrier in the end zone. Rog Krautkrumer and Pat Dreher each picked up six-pointers and Don Del got one point on a successful pass for an extra point. Mitchell's team wound up its season with 258 points scored to 143 for the opponents.

The Green had an equally easy time of it Wednesday against the Red of Oostburg of the Kettle Moraine conference in romping to a 44-18 victory. The first string offensive and defensive platoons were used mostly in the first half. Holding a big lead, Mitchell was able to give his substitutes a good workout in the second half and kept the score down.

FORGERY IN GOLD

Nation's Busiest Forger Keeps Out of Prison Only Block Away

The busiest forger in the country plies his trade just a block from Iowa's state penitentiary. But he has no fear his vocation will lead him behind the grim walls as it has hundreds of other forgers.

Mild-mannered, law-abiding James Jordan is well started on a career of counterfeiting signatures at the age of 24. Already he has forged more than 5,000 including those of Herbert Hoover and Gen. Douglas MacArthur—but he's never been in odds with the law.

Every day since October 1, 1950, Jim has duplicated about 20 signatures per day, nearly three every working hour. And he forges only on gold.

Jordan is the signature engraver at the Sheaffer Pen company, whose factory in Fort Madison, 19 miles from here, is just a stone's throw from the prison. Sheaffer products include special fountain pens, mechanical pencils, a ballpoint pen which bears a gold band containing the signature of the owner. It's Jim's job to reproduce the signatures, engraving them on the gold bands.

His kind of forgery is more difficult than the illegal varieties that land their makers in jail after discovery by hawk-eyed bank tellers or merchants. The illegal forger does his signature imitations on flat paper with pen and ink. Legal forger Jordan has to cut his on a rounded surface of hard 14-K gold.

If you would have a hard-to-duplicate signature, Jim recommends neat, compact handwriting. It's harder to duplicate than a signature in long, flowing strokes. Most difficult for him to copy are John Hancock's with many loops and crisscross lines. Cutting the loops and crisscross into the gold is a tough job.

JORDAN ALSO does other kinds of free-hand engraving on special gold-banded pens. It was he who gave the "peace pens" used at the San Francisco signing of the Japanese peace treaty their identification by engraving "Japanese Peace Pact, 1951" on their bands. Those pens have become collectors' items.

Forging signatures on writing instruments is Jim's first engraving job. He was born and raised in this city. After four years as a shipping clerk here, he studied engraving at Kansas City where he served his apprenticeship. In 1950, he joined Sheaffer's working under Ambrose Zeigler, perhaps the world's most prolific forger who engraved more than 40,000 different signatures in his lifetime. When Zeigler died last year, Jim succeeded him.

Jordan naturally prefers the title "engraver." His spouse balks at being known as "the Forger's wife."

One signature Jim finds just as hard to duplicate as any is his own. His imitations have satisfied more than 5,000 "forgers" including politicians, actors, sports figures and business leaders. But when he attended a bazaar at the State Penitentiary and offered to pay for his purchases by check, he was asked to give cash. Why? His signature on the check differed too much from that on his driver's license.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

RICHARD "RED" SKELTON, the son of a famous American clown, launched his own television show just ten years from the day when he stepped out as star of his own radio program. The thousands who have enjoyed him in films and on the air now find him doing some of the same characterizations that they enjoyed, but he plans to add some new ones. In this new medium he is, of course, screamingly funny. He is supported by David Rose, musical conductor and composer, and the Skylarks vocal group.

Stanley Kramer, who gave us "The Champion", "Home of the Brave", "The Men" and "Cyrano de Bergerac", is making his first western in "High Noon", and insiders say it may be his most brilliant venture so far. The picture's entire action takes place in 90 minutes. Gary Cooper, whom Zane Grey termed his "ideal westerner", is starred, with an excellent cast.

Jack Benny does just a bit in "Somebody Loves Me", the film based on the lives of Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields, the vaudeville stars. Benny is an old friend of theirs. The picture stars Betty Hutton as Miss Seeley.

Molra Shearer expects to arrive in this country November 12, with her husband, head straight for Hollywood, and begin practicing her ballet routines for Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen". The lovely star of "Red Shoes" will be accompanied by her husband, Lard Lovell Kennedy. Danny Kaye and Farley Granger will co-star in what should be a delightful picture.

People Rank Herbert Hoover Greatest Statesman

By Wright A. Patterson

THREE OR FOUR DAYS before Herbert Hoover moved from the White House back to his home in Palo Alto, Calif., I wrote him a note in which I said: "Regardless of the result of the last election, the historians will classify you as one of the great Presidents of America, and the people of the nation will accept the historians' verdict."

The people did not wait for the verdict of the historians. Of their own volition they have accepted Herbert Hoover as the greatest of present day American statesmen. In every way they can show it they approve his policies. They accept him as an American leader far more than at any time in the past. They have written their own verdict.

While I was visiting with Representative Joe Martin in his office in the capitol building at Washington, a few days before the convening of the Republican national convention at Philadelphia, he asked, "Who is your choice as a Republican for President?"

"My first choice is Herbert Hoover, my second is Joseph Martin," I replied.

"I believe we could elect Hoover, but I doubt if we could eliminate him. As for your second choice, I do not want to be President, now. I do want to be speaker of the house of representatives first."

At that Philadelphia convention Hoover was scheduled to deliver an address. The Willkie managers were afraid of the result of that address. They were fearful it might sweep the delegates off their feet and result in a Hoover nomination, which I believe he would have accepted at that time.

Not necessarily Willkie, but his managers, in an effort to prevent such a possibility, pulled the dirtiest political trick I have ever seen played in any of the more than 20 national conventions I have attended as a reporter.

The instant Hoover stepped to the loud speaker microphone, the system was put out of commission, and it stayed out until the address was finished. Hoover's voice was not strong enough for an auditorium of that size, and no one of the delegates or the audience heard any part of his address.

There followed no demonstration as there had been at Cleveland four years earlier. Had Hoover not left the convention hall the instant his address was completed, he would have been the nominee. I know he did not want it at that time. He had told me so as he left the Philadelphia convention hall. It was reported to me, and I believe it, that he said: "I will never again be a candidate nor will I accept a nomination for any elective political office."

Today, if it were left to the choice of the Republican voters, Herbert Hoover could be nominated and elected President of the United States. The people believe in the policies that—as an elder statesman—he enunciates from time to time. They would cheerfully follow his leadership, and believe he would get

THE FICTION CORNER ALL IN FUN

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THERE has probably never been a greater hatred than that which existed between Barney Craig and Dan Chester. It all started because of Barney's eagerness to become a member of the local lodge. As one of three candidates he was introduced to Dan at the September meeting. Imbued with the feeling of good fellowship which the brothers always emanated, Barney assumed at once a familiar attitude and took liberties. Jovially, he made a crack about Dan's ears, which protruded from the Chester head horizontally, instead of perpendicularly, as is the case in normal man. The blush which mounted to Dan's cheeks provoked guffaws of amusement from the delighted Barney.

After the meeting in which Barney's name was voted on, Dan publicly announced that he would have shot any man who had blackballed him. Every one knew what he meant. Barney's initiation would last for two months and would involve a good deal of horseplay. Dan was out for revenge.

And he got it. During the two months of initiation, Barney suffered all the humiliations, indignations and unrestrained paddings of a college freshman. When it was over, the night that Barney received the ritual and became a full-fledged member, Dan grinned at him good-naturedly. "You sure can take it, Brother Craig. Of course it was all in fun." "Yeah," said Barney. "And now that I'm a full-fledged member I'm as good as you! Is that right?" "Absolutely," brother," said Dan. "Good," said Barney, "because for a long time I've wanted to do this." And he wanted off and let Dan have a smart

Barney poked a neat one at Dan's chin and it connected, one on the point of his jaw. "All in fun, you know," Barney grinned savagely.

Dan picked himself up and nodded. "O.K., Brother Craig, suppose you and I go outside." They went outside and removed their coats. Ten minutes later Barney was lying on the ground staring up at Dan through the one eye that he could still open a crack.

"All in fun, Brother Craig. Come around again some time when you feel in a playful mood."

BARNEY spent most of November and December in a gymnasium. Shortly after the first of the year he encountered Brother Dan again. "Hello, Big Ears," he remarked, "suppose we go outside?" Dan was willing. They went outside, and in nine and one half minutes Barney decided that Dan must have practically slept in a gymnasium.

Barney went home and cursed himself to sleep. He decided that he'd lick Dan Chester if he died trying which by the feeling of his jaw he thought might happen any minute.

Barney hired K. O. McManus to train him. K. O. was pretty rough and Barney suffered a lot, but he acquired knowledge. On the first of March he invited Brother Dan "outside."

The battle lasted 20 minutes this time. Spring was in full bloom when Barney again sent word to Dan to meet him outside. There was quite an audience on hand this time.

The fight lasted 25 minutes. Both participants were pretty groggy. They were swinging wild and without much zip. It began to look like a draw, when suddenly it occurred to Barney that for the first time Dan wasn't beating him. The thought gave him a feeling of elation and a burst of energy. He poked a neat one at Dan's chin and it connected. Barney, thrown off balance, too weak to steady himself, fell across his opponent's prostrate form and lay there.

It took an hour to revive the batters. Barney came to first and looked at Dan thoughtfully. Presently Dan stirred and opened his eyes. He saw Barney and propped himself up on an elbow. "Well, well, Brother Craig. Congratulations!" "Thanks," said Barney, and grinned too. "All in fun you know." "Sure," said Dan, "all in fun." And he extended his hand.

Barney gripped the hand and started to make a crack about Dan's big ears, but changed his mind.

Old Test Fails

The old test of moistening your finger, then holding it under a piece of linen to see if the moisture will spread to the surface and thus prove the fabric is really linen, no longer works. Cottons are being made which give the same reaction.

Safety First

A fire screen between the fireplace and you may not look so pretty—but it's safer. Make sure your rug is well away from the fireplace too.

Jelly Hint

When covering jelly with paraffin, pour a thin layer of paraffin over the top of the jelly. Then put a strong piece of string on top of the paraffin with the end of the string over the edge of the glass. Now pour another layer of paraffin over the top. When you get ready to use the jelly, remove the paraffin with the string.

Nut Meats

Have you ever wanted to use nutmeats in cakes or cookies, yet changed your mind when you thought of having to shell nuts? Food preservation specialists suggest shelling nuts when you have time, then freezing them for use when the occasion arises.

Salty Soup

If soup is too salty, cut a raw potato up and boil with the soup for a few minutes.

A mild soapuds, a clear rinse, and a wiping dry with a soft cloth will keep your chrome utensils looking like new. To polish chrome, just use a soft cloth.

90% For! 10% Against

Railroad workers are represented by 23 standard unions. By mutual agreement, 20 of these unions—comprising about 1,200,000 men, or more than 90%—are working under wages and rules agreed to by them and the railroads. But leaders of three unions—with only about 130,000 men, or less than 10%—still refuse, after more than a year of negotiations, to accept similar wage and rules agreements. These are even more favorable than the terms recommended by the Emergency Board appointed by the President.

Time to settle...

END THIS QUIBBLING!

On June 15, 1950, an Emergency Board appointed by the President under the terms of the Railway Labor Act—an Act largely fathered by the unions themselves—made its recommendations on certain wage and working conditions ("rules" in railroad language) which had been in dispute between employes and the railroads.

More Than 90% of Employes Accept
Since then, terms equal to or better than the Board recommendations have been accepted by about 1,200,000 railroad employes—more than 90% of the total of all workers. They are represented by 20 of the 23 standard railroad unions.

Less Than 10% Refuse
But three unions—with about 130,000 men, or less than 10% of the total—have refused to accept, even after months of negotiations. These three unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors. These are three of the so-called "operating" unions. Already the highest paid men in the industry, their leaders demand still further advantages over other workers.

In all, there are about 270,000 operating employes. But not all of them, by any means, are represented by BLE, BLF&E, or ORC. As a matter of fact, less than half—132,000 to be exact—are in these three unions. More than half—about 140,000—are in other unions, principally the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. What makes the whole situation so hard to understand is that these 140,000 operating employes are working under wages and rules which the leaders of the other 130,000 say they cannot agree to.

What Do the Railroads Offer?
They offer these three unions the same settlement which was contained in a Memorandum of Agreement signed at the White House on December 21, 1950, by four brotherhoods and the railroads. Later this agreement was sought to repudiate by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen signed a complete agreement carrying out the principles of the Memorandum Agreement of December 21. They have been working under this agreement since May 26.

What About Wages?
Under the terms of the agreement, yard engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving a wage increase of $34 an hour ($2.72 a day) and road engineers, firemen and conductors would now be receiving an increase of 19 1/2 cents an hour ($1.56 per day). Large sums of retroactive pay have already accrued and if the agreement is carried out, will be paid promptly.

What About "Cost of Living" Increases?
The White House Agreement includes an "escalator" clause under which wages will be geared to changes in the Government's cost-of-living index. Two such increases—April and July, 1951—have already been paid to the 90% of railroad employes covered by signed agreements.

What About the 40-Hour Week?
The White House Agreement calls for the establishment of the 40-hour week in principle, for employes in yard service. The employes can have it any time after January 1, 1952, provided the manpower situation is such that the railroads can get enough men to perform the work with reasonable regularity at straight time rates. If the parties do not agree on the question of availability of manpower, the White House Agreement provides arbitration by a referee appointed by the President.

What Else Do the Union Leaders Demand?
The continued quibbling of the leaders of the three unions has to do principally with rules changes, which have already been agreed to by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Of these, the principal one seems to be that having to do with so-called "interdivisional service"—runs which take in two or more seniority districts.

The union leaders would bar progress and efficiency in the industry, and better service to the public, by maintaining a situation where they can arbitrarily stop a railroad from establishing such interdivisional runs. The carriers propose that if a railroad wishes to set up an interdivisional run, the railroad and the unions should try to agree on such run and the conditions which should surround its establishment, and if the railroad and the unions can't agree, the matter will be submitted to arbitration.

But the three union leaders still refuse.

Rules Can Be Arbitrated
The railroads have not only offered these three unions the same rules agreed to by the BRT and covered by the White House Agreement, but have even agreed to submit such rules to arbitration.

The Industry Pattern Is Fixed
With the pattern so firmly established in the railroad industry, it seems fair to suggest that the leaders of BLE, BLF&E, and ORC stop their quibbling and take action to make the railroad labor picture 100% complete. Certainly today's economic and international situation calls for a united front. And certainly no good reason has been advanced why these three unions should be preferred over all other railroad employes.

Farm Scrap Iron and Steel Will Help Our Defense Effort

"Have you turned your farm scrap into cash? Move it out of the fields now. Take a load to town and sell it on your next trip. It is needed to make steel for the defense program. It is a vital material and must not be allowed to waste away?"

Many farmers have responded to that appeal recently, says the Committee on Iron and Steel Scrap, American Iron and Steel Institute. Those farmers have made a little money and gained space in their fields. The scrap is being put to use instead of being abandoned to rust and ruin.

But more farm scrap is needed. Steel output can't be increased without a big supply of scrap. With winter coming on, when scrap is more difficult to find, the situation is truly critical. More scrap must be obtained from farms in order to make more steel.

Old tools, wornout parts of tractors, trucks, cultivators and other implements; broken and discarded pieces of metal and other scrap should be taken to town and sold right away to the local scrap dealer. Every pound of scrap which comes back to steel mills helps to make two pounds of new steel, on the average.

If the scrap is unusually bulky, preventing its easy transportation by the farmer, the scrap dealer can be called or the local farm agent can be asked to work out an arrangement.

"Farms are one of the big sources of scrap," says the Committee. "Never have farmers had a greater stake in the nation's steel output."

Harvest your iron and steel scrap right away. Turn it into cash. Do your part to aid the defense program.

MAIN STREET IN ACTION

Maine Town Bases Promotion Program On Single Resource: Abundance of Deer

According to local legend, the little community of Old Town, Maine, located in the central part of the state, was founded by a band of food-conscious pioneers who settled there because it provided the best deer hunting to be found anywhere.

Whether or not that story is historically true, residents of Old Town have been consistent in their belief that they live in the deer capital of the continent, even though they didn't attempt to publicize the information or capitalize on this fascinating natural resource to any great extent.

FEATURE

This year, however, the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, spotting a high potential for profitable home town promotion, has picked up the ball. It has issued a blanket invitation to hunters everywhere to come to Old Town and seek the fleet venison-on-the-hoof on the outskirts of the city.

To get things started on the right hoof, the Jaycees staged a Hunter's Breakfast at 3:30 a.m. on October 22, opening day for deer hunting in Maine. After the visiting deerslayers had stoked up on beans and similar delicacies, they were advised, if they wished advice, as to where to hunt in the locality.

Tickets for the breakfast, which cost $1.00, also entitled the holders to enter a "Largest Deer Contest," which is being sponsored by the Jaycees and which offers two prizes—one for the largest buck, the other for the largest doe.

One of the main devices in the campaign to popularize Old Town among the nation's deer-hunting gentry was the publication and wide distribution of a small but persuasive pamphlet which declaims the virtue of Old Town as the "Hunting Center of the Northeast."

That local and regional merchants and businessmen are cooperating intensively with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in this energetic promotion program is made evident by the variety and volume of advertising in the 32-page pamphlet. There are a total of 45 paid ads in the booklet which, we safely may assume, have done much not only toward paying for the cost of the publication, but also to assure the success of the entire community-promotion campaign.

Calling the attention of the world-at-large to your community often can be done with a high degree of effectiveness through the medium of just such a relatively inexpensive pamphlet as the Old Town Jaycees have put out.

This particular pamphlet opens with a cordial letter from City Manager Daniel Webster welcoming "Deer Hunters" (to whom it is addressed) to Old Town. It is followed with a magnetic little essay entitled "There's a Deer 10 Minutes Away!" There is an article on hunting safety by Maynard Marsh, state inspector of hunting accidents, as well as reports by Various Bangor newspaper writers concerning hunting conditions.

The total effect of this modest but unique little booklet is as warm and inviting as the handclasp of an old friend. It constitutes a forceful and sincere sales argument which is going to bring a good many solidly sold "customers" to Old Town before the deer hunting season closes in Maine on November 30.

The point is, of course, that nearly any small community which has a reasonably dramatic and exploitable "product"—natural, historical, architectural, or whatever—can use this same scheme or a variation of it to capitalize on the local attraction.

In most cases there are state agencies standing ready to assist local communities in the planning and public relations aspects of projects like this. Old Town was given a hearty assist by the Maine News Service of the Maine Development Commission in getting the story out to all parts of the country.

As has been said so often here, cooperation at all levels is the key to community success; and that being the case, Old Town, Maine, is going to boom in more ways than one during the deer hunting season this fall.

When I'm getting ready to reason with a man, I spend one-third of my time thinking about myself and what I am going to say—and two-thirds thinking about him and what he is going to say.

—Abraham Lincoln

Asbestos Shingle Siding
QUESTION: I would like to have some information regarding asbestos or cement shingles. Do you think they make a good siding for a house? How long do they last and can they be painted? Could they be put on over shingle weatherboard? Do you know of a better way to tighten and protect the outside of a house?

ANSWER: Good asbestos shingle siding is considered a very fine finish for a house and would improve its appearance greatly, besides providing some degree of extra warmth in winter time as it acts as a sort of "overcoat." The siding can be painted, for special paints have been manufactured for the purpose. You will give good protection to your house with asbestos siding. Being a composition of asbestos and Portland cement that will not disintegrate, there is no reason why the shingle should not last for many years.

Agriculture Department Considers New Program for the Small Farmer

NEW FARM PLAN—As a result of a recent survey into the problems of the small American farmer, the Truman administration may come up with a new farm program in the near future more controversial than the Brannan plan and which could become one of the major issues in the 1952 presidential campaign.

The survey was conducted with the idea of learning what the department could do to help the small farmer who is having difficulties because of inadequate land, machinery, livestock and know how. Thousands of meetings have been held in the home towns across the nation discussing crop control, price support, farm loans and other small farm problems.

As a result, a major question has developed: should the government buy up land, redivide it into "economic" or "efficient" units, and resell it to low-income farmers? Also, should present crop controls be extended? Brannan believes that if productivity of standard farms can be increased many agriculture problems would tend to disappear. On the other hand, many farm leaders have remained aloof and have not taken part in the meetings, criticizing Brannan's methods more than his objectives.

Two possible legislative proposals may come from the survey: (1) A technical assistance program for the less efficient farms and farmers, and (2) a farm-loan program designed to help such farmers acquire land, machinery, equipment, livestock and the know how to operate efficient farms.

Whatever the final form, any new farm plan, whether it incorporates the government buying and redivision of land or not, is bound to become a major campaign issue. Much of the opposition will come from the farm bureaus who have long resented Brannan as trying to usurp the roles of the private farm organizations and regimenting agriculture.

Meeting Place

Panmunjon, is the proposed site for new Korea cease-fire talks. Meanwhile, fighting continues on the central front with Allied forces making limited advances.

BOYLE RESIGNS—The big question in political circles since William M. Boyle, Jr., close friend of President Truman resigned as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is whether or not Guy Gabrielson, GOP national chairman, will be the next to go?

Boyle and Gabrielson have been under fire as having used their positions to influence the Reconstruction Finance Corporation into granting loans to companies they represented or were connected with. And although Gabrielson insists he will stay on, political observers believe his number is up, too.

In his letter of resignation Boyle gave health as his reason, insisting he had at all times conducted himself with "honor and propriety." He did admit in testimony during the congressional hearing that he accepted eight law cases involving government agencies, at fees totaling approximately $158,000, while serving as chairman of the national committee.

LESS CIVILIAN GOODS—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson announced a cut in civilian goods production, effective January 1, that will be felt in the home towns across the nation.

The cutback in civilian production, 10 per cent for washing machines and stoves and even more in the automobile industry, will provide steel for the armament program which will hit full stride during the first three months of 1952.

The home town that has a school or hospital under construction will get enough materials to finish the project, but there will not be materials available to start new ones. As for farm machinery, so vital to agriculture and home town economy, there will be enough to support production "at a healthy and adequate level."

MIDDLE EAST BLOWUP—There is shaping up in the Middle East an explosion that could be felt in the smallest American community. The situation has developed as Egypt has increased pressure in recent weeks to remove the British from the Sudan and strategic Suez.

As a compromise, the United States, Britain, France and Turkey have asked Egypt to become the center of an alliance in the area against communism, but the proposal was received coolly by King Farouk's government.

This dispute is important to home town Americans because of the nation's interest in Suez, which if placed under Egyptian protection, would be a prize the Russians could take with little difficulty. The British, under present treaties with Egypt, have the legal right to maintain troops in the canal zone which is her economic life-line. She will not back down in her determination to remain in the zone. Thus, if the Egyptian government attempts to remove them by force the British will resist. If the Russians should decide to step in at this point, the world would become involved in World War III.

There is a chance that Egypt may accept the west's proposal of joint defense of the area, but only because she is not in a position to defend herself.

NEW DECLARATION—In a major speech last week President Truman again declared American foreign policy is "based upon the hope that it will be possible to live, without a war, in the same world as the Soviet Union—if the free nations have adequate defenses." And he again offered to "sit down with the Soviet Union" and other nations to work out agreements to relieve mankind of "the horror of another world war" and provide the basis for "a durable peace."

The President pointed out the central theme of America's present foreign policy and defense program: "So long as one country has the power and the force to overwhelm others and so long as that country has aggressive intentions real peace is unattainable. The stronger we become, the more possible it will be to work out solid and lasting arrangements that will prevent war. Our strength will make for peace."

IRAN'S OIL—Mohammed Mossadeq, premier of Iran, who has taken the British-Iranian oil dispute to the United Nations Security Council, told UN diplomats to keep their hands off the dispute and warned "we will not be coerced."

In presenting the Iranian point of view he said there are only two questions open to negotiations: (1) Compensation for British investments in the now nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil company, and (2) possible sale of oil to Britain.

He then made his strongest point: "We will not take action and will not engage in negotiations affecting our internal affairs under pressure. To do so would not only constitute an admission that we are not a sovereign and equal nation, but would eventually be fatal to our independence."

The question remains who will operate the huge Anglo-Iranian Oil company refineries. The Iranians do not have the technical know-how and the British experts have already been sent home. How can Iran sell oil when it can't produce it?

THUMB-SUCKING

A Natural Habit, Noted Doctor Says

Since the beginning of time mothers have tried to stop their babies from sucking their thumbs. It now appears, if one is to believe Dr. I. Newton Kugelmann, noted pediatrician of New York, that "thumb-sucking is as normal as breathing" and is not to be worried about until the child is over two years of age.

Thumb-sucking usually declines after the second year of life, the noted physician observes. If it persists after the age of two, he has discovered as the result of intensive studies, "the child feels unloved, unwanted, guilty, resentful or in need of consolation."

What is the remedy if a child continues to suck his thumb? "Treat the child, not the symptoms," advises Dr. Kugelmann.

"The chronic thumb-sucker shows signs of immaturity for his developmental age," says Dr. Kugelmann. "He excludes himself to suck his thumb and thus develops undesirable sensitivity."

When the doctor has his way he sees to it that the child is given more rest and that there are periods of play between feedings, that child-parent relationships are evaluated to avoid over-protection or rejection as well as over-criticism and inattention or indifference. It is a natural habit after all, he warns.

Wholesale Prices Edge Up for Fourth Week

For the fourth straight week wholesale prices edged up one tenth of a per cent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported last week. The index reached 177.3 per cent of the 1926 average, 5.2 per cent above a year ago and 13 per cent higher than just before the Korean war. Greatest increases were in farm products, grains, cotton, eggs and potatoes. The food index advanced to 177.

Fertilizing Important In Balanced Farm Plan Lime, Fertilizer Pays Off in High Hay Yield

Farmers in every part of the nation are realizing more and more the importance of well-balanced fertilizing programs to build production and soil structure.

Ben Vossen, who farms near Watkins, Minn., believes his investments in lime and fertilizer have done more for his farm than anything in his career.

The results of one of his investments are shown in the above picture. At the right is a run-down field of bluegrass overgrown with buck grass. At the left is a field of oats after the buck grass was sprayed to kill it, grubbed and plowed under.

Farmer Vossen inspects his field of oats. At the right is the field of bluegrass overgrown with buck grass. Fertilizing has turned the oat field into a high producer.

Vossen limed and fertilized the oat field with plant food carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash before he seeded it. He keeps the field in oats two years, then seeds down to an alfalfa crop. He takes hay and pasture off as long as the stand is productive. He helps lengthen its life by top-dressing regularly with manure.

The use of lime and fertilizer pays off in much bigger hay yields. Vossen reports he harvests eight tons of hay on two acres that used to produce about one-half ton of timothy.

Total Feed Supply Will Be Higher Than Last Year

With the approach of the 1951-52 feeding season, livestock feeders will be interested to know that the expected total supply of feed grains and concentrates will be greater than last year, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

The available supply of feed will permit livestock to be fed at about the same rate per unit as last season. The number of animals to be fed, however, is also expected to be greater. An estimated 174 million animals will be on hand as compared with last year's 168-million.

A large acreage and a fair carry-over is expected to provide a larger corn supply. About 4 billion bushels is expected to be available for the 1951-52 season.

The total supply of corn, oats, grain sorghums, and barley for the coming season is estimated to be 127.1 million tons. This compares with last season's total of 125 million tons of grain.

The department reported total crop production may be the second highest in history in 1951.

Tractor Drawbar

A heavy piece of angle iron bolted to the rear of a tractor and extending well beyond the wheels makes harrowing easier. Fastening the harrow with a long chain hitch, especially when making turns at ends of the field. Bolted to the drawbar. It can be removed when not in use.

Iowa Tests Show Value Of Alfalfa for Swine

Everyone knows that alfalfa pasture is good for hogs. But just how good? The Iowa experiment station thought that one way to find out would be to feed one batch of hogs on dry lot; and another on alfalfa.

They found that the biggest value in alfalfa comes from a saving in high-cost protein and mineral supplement. Hogs gained faster on alfalfa.

Farmers Are Advised To Stretch Feed Supply

To stretch this year's feed supply, farmers are advised to make good use of all grain by balancing it with protein supplements, minerals and grazing or other feeds, depending on the type of livestock or poultry on hand. They are advised to save all the corn, hay, and other feeds now maturing by harvesting some with livestock and storing the remainder for use later when feed becomes scarce.

Ham and Eggs Make a Supper Loaf
(See Recipe Below)

Supper Topics

"WHAT'S FOR SUPPER, Mom?" Once the homemaker has spent a lot of time preparing a big dinner, she's apt to feel it's a bit of a strain to think of supper.

She's right, of course! Supper should be simple, though satisfying.

Families require something good-tasting and nourishing and when the main dish can be prepared easily from ingredients on hand, so much the better.

Once the main dish has been decided on, a salad and very light dessert with beverage should easily complete the meal.

HAM AND EGGS can be a fine dish, and there's no reason why this all-American team has to be simply a breakfast standby. The same basic combination of ham and eggs, toast and coffee can be made interesting and varied enough to be suitable for a delectable supper, lunch or even brunch dish.

*Ham and Egg Loaf (Serves 6)
12 slices whole wheat bread
1 cup ground, cooked ham
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 can condensed mushroom soup
4 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter

Chop two of the hard-cooked eggs; mix with ham, seasonings, 1/4 cup milk and half of the soup, undiluted. Trim crusts from bread; place 3 slices close together on baking sheet; spread with ham mixture; top with three bread slices. Repeat until there are three layers of ham mixture and four layers of bread. Brush top slices with half of the butter; bake in a moderately hot (375° F.) oven until lightly browned.

Blend together remaining milk, butter and soup; heat. Add remaining eggs, sliced. Serve loaf, sliced, with sauce.

A GOOD POT of coffee makes the perfect accompaniment for any ham and egg meal. Use 1/4 cup (a measuring cup) of cold water and two level measuring tablespoons of coffee for each cup to be served.

DEVILED EGGS need not be confined to picnics, as they make a delicious supper dish when mushrooms are added to the yolk mixture, and tomatoes and cheese made into a sauce.

Deviled Eggs, Tomato Sauce (Serves 24)
4 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons chili sauce
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup cooked or canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons grated cheese

Cut eggs into halves; remove yolks and mash. Sauté mushrooms in butter can make an excellent main dish for a supper. Serve over a bed of hot, fluffy rice with a sauce made by heating a can of condensed chicken soup in the drippings from the livers mixed with 1/2 cup sliced, stuffed olives.

Smothered onions do wonderfully well with hamburgers, frankfurters or leftover roast beef. Slice the onions thinly and cook in drippings in a heavy skillet, until light brown. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve.

Make a tasty salad dressing for your fruit salads with soured cream blended with mayonnaise. Herb vinegar added to this dressing is excellent.

French-fried chicken is a nice change from just fried chicken. Dip the pieces in flour, then in batter and cook in deep, hot fat for 10 to 15 minutes. Drain and serve at once.

You know how well fruit goes with pork chops, don't you? Cut a pocket in the chop and stuff with thinly sliced apples and a pitted prune. Brown and bake the chop until tender.

and parsley in butter until tender and combine with egg yolks, chili sauce, salt and pepper. Refill whites. Place in buttered baking dish and add tomatoes; sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven until heated through.

Ham and Egg Souffles (Serves 6)
5 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper
1 cup cooked diced ham or pork

Beat egg yolks well, then add butter, milk, salt, pepper and ham or pork. Beat thoroughly. Fold in well-beaten egg whites. Pour into custard cups and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven until firm, about 25 to 30 minutes.

CORN MADE INTO A CUSTARD with a crisp topping of buttered cracker crumbs can be a tempting supper. If a more nourishing meal is desired, serve the custard with broiled slices of Canadian bacon or bacon strips.

Southern Corn Custard (Serves 6)
3 eggs
2 cups canned corn
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Cracker crumbs
Butter

Beat eggs thoroughly. Combine with corn, melted butter and milk. Stir well. Add seasoning and sugar. Pour into a buttered casserole and sprinkle with cracker crumbs, dot with butter and bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven for 40 minutes or until custard is firm.

Noodle Oyster Loaf (Serves 4)
1/4 pound noodles
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 pint oysters
4 hard-cooked eggs
2 cups white sauce
Parsley
Paprika

Cook noodles in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Combine with milk, salt, eggs, cleaned oysters and mix thoroughly. Pour into a greased loaf pan, dusted with cracker crumbs or flour. Set this pan in a larger pan with hot water; bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven, 45 minutes. Unmold on a platter and slice. On each slice place a hard-cooked egg cut in halves, lengthwise, then cover with hot white sauce and garnish with parsley and paprika.

Why Not Belts?

So why not seat belts in cars? It seems to me that the mothers and fathers of America's children and teenagers ought to welcome this idea. Mr. Allen talked of such abstract matters as "the law of inertia, the law of momentum, and of the fearful velocity of the occupant of a car when that car is abruptly jarred or suddenly stopped."

We don't all know about these technical terms, but we do all know the anxieties that beset us whenever the children we love are in the car. We shudder at the accounts—daily accounts—of what has happened to other people's children. We shrink away from pictures of crumpled cars, glass and blood.

"There are other safety features, of course," Clayton Allen said. "Loose seats, insecure doors, protrusions like handles and ashtrays, the sharp hood ornaments that sometimes act as pedestrian 'cutter-uppers,' bumper guards and fenders that tend to spin the car if it upsets. But since a large proportion of in-car injuries and maimings and even killings would be removed by safety belts, why not safety belts?"

Careful driving is, of course, the first requirement. But that depends upon the other driver.

And he may be like the cocktail-warmed young man who raced through traffic on one of our bridges last night. In his entirely illegal right-hand passing of the traffic he bumped into the car in which a woman was driving home two small daughters. They were flung down to the floor in the collision.

The jolly boy-driver was untouched. But the two little girls are lying very still this morning, and they won't go driving with Mother ever again. Safety belts would have saved them.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Safety Belts

HOW ABOUT SAFETY BELTS for all the seats of our cars? Belts like those we fasten so regularly on the shortest of air trips?

Before an airplane leaves the ground, and before it lands, and if ever any rough weather threatens, passengers are required to strap about themselves a broad webbing belt. This belt opens with a single flip of one finger, there is no question of getting entangled in it or being unable to open it instantly.

"Why not have similar belts in cars?" asks Clayton M. Allen, engineer in the department of water and power in Los Angeles. Mr. Allen has studied and charted the all-important subject of accident control, and in a long talk we had on the subject he called my attention to what he calls the "secret weapon" against accidents in cars.

Law of Inertia

We all know that when a car is stopped suddenly while going at good speed, the bodies on the seats of that car do not stop. They are subject to what he calls the "keep-on-going" law. And they keep on going, straight through the glass of the windshield, or onto their knees from the back seat, with a consequent danger of concussion.

This year our fatalities in motor-cars will reach the million mark. We've actually killed a million of our fellow creatures since cars came into everyday use some 45 years ago. This figure exceeds the combined fatalities for all our wars, by the way.

But it isn't just the dead. It's the nine million more who have suffered shocking injuries and disfigurements by being flung against seats and doors and handles, or gashed with broken glass.

One night years ago my brother and I were walking a hospital corridor, waiting for the announcement of a baby's arrival. A man of perhaps 50 was walking, too, and it was natural to ask him if he was also waiting a delightful event of the sort.

"No," he said mildly, "I'm waiting for my wife. She's telling our little girl, Ellen, who is 16, that the accident she was in yesterday has blinded her for life."

Another girl I know, 5 years old, wears a long white cut across a little face that is lumpy and misshapen because a sudden stop of her father's car flung her against the door handle when she was two. And in my town stands a church built by the heartbroken parents of a beautiful 18-year-old who was thrown from a car when the door opened and chance to be hurled against a tree. These girls, and hundreds more, could have been saved by the simple device of safety belts.

We've all experienced accidents that involve violent jerking and flinging about. We would be the last to protest when the sign "fasten seat belts" flashes up in the plane. We would have no respect for the traveler who thought it smart to laugh at them. Yet anyone who travels on our highways at crowded hours and in Sunday congestion now is in infinitely more danger than he who comes down to earth in the great clearances that are landing fields.

Why Not Belts?

So why not seat belts in cars? It seems to me that the mothers and fathers of America's children and teenagers ought to welcome this idea. It's Wonderful the Way
Chewing-Gum Laxative
Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE
—NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT's modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different.

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "stimulating" action too soon, right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! (See FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.)

U. S. Must Build Civil Defense

AIR FORCE CHIEF SAYS ENEMY BOMBERS CAN ATTACK AMERICA

(This is the first of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This Is Civil Defense" prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 10c each.)
 By MILLARD CALDWELL
 Federal Civil Defense Administrator
 General Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, has made a startling statement—one which most Americans find hard to believe. He had said that at best we could knock down only 30 out of every 100 enemy planes attacking the United States. That means that at least 7 out of 10 would get through. Despite our traditional attitude that "it can't happen here," we must believe these facts.

This does not mean that our Air Force is ineffective. We have an excellent air force and our anti-aircraft defenses are good. In the last war, the Germans also were well equipped with defense weapons, but they were not able to stop our attacking bombers. On the average, we lost fewer than 10 out of each 100 planes. That gives us something to think about!

We know that everything possible will be done to stop the enemy at our borders, and to prevent sabotage within, but we also can be sure that, in case of war, a good percentage of enemy attacks would be successful in spite of all that we could do. That is why we must have Civil Defense.

The wide oceans which once protected us have given way to global bombers. Today we face more kinds of attack than ever before, and our danger is much greater.

There is only one sure way to keep any enemy from knocking us out of a war. We must know how to save lives and property, restore our cities and industries, and carry on the fight no matter what kind of attacks are hurled against us.

Russia has hundreds of heavy, long-range bombers patterned after our B-29s which could get through most of our defense setups. We know that Russia has atomic bombs and that their heavy long-range bombers are capable of delivering them anywhere in the United States at any time the Kremlin dictates.

We have no time to lose in preparing to ward off such an attack. Your home, your job, your family, your own life may be at stake.

Civil defense is the sure way—the only organized way—for survival on the home front.

(The next article will discuss what is civil defense and how it can help.)
