Game Sunday night—Campbellsport at Kewaskum.

The Kewaskum Chevrolets copped their third victory at Hartford Saturday night, 58-44, to maintain a tie for the Lakes lead with Mayville. Each team has been defeated once.

Angie Bilgo had his hottest night of the season at Hartford and paced the Chevrolets to an impressive win. Angie, ordinarily a guard, started the tilt at center and hit the nets for 23 points. He scored 16 of these in the second half when they were needed. Hartford was ahead through most of the first half. Lloyd Keller and Frankie Krueger each contributed 10 points. Top men for the losers were Rutherford and Ashaker, both with 12.

Krueger scored 9 of his 10 points in the first half to keep the Chevies on the heels of Hartford, which team was ahead 11-5 at the quarter and 25-24 at the intermission. Kewaskum passed up Hartford in the third stanza, scoring 18 points and holding the opponents to 12. This made it 42-37. The losers were checked with 7 points in the final period while the winners netted 16 to win going away. The Chevrolets made 14 out of 21 free tosses.

Kewaskum entertained Rosendale on Thursday night of this week and Sunday night Campbellsport comes to town. Campbellsport hasn't won a game to date and the Chevrolets hope to keep it that way. But the Belles always are up for Kewaskum and usually give them a hard time.

Cars Crash at Wayne, 8 Hurt in Another Mishap

At about 5 p. m. Sunday, three vehicles were involved in a crash on County Trunk H in Wayne, about a half block east of County Trunk W. Drivers were Vincent Nigh, 19, Campbellsport, R. 2; Fred Baumgartner, 23, Kewaskum, R. 3; and Arnold Probst, 59, Kewaskum, R. 2.

Radio Dispatcher Robert Lemke of the Washington county sheriff's department said that Nigh was traveling west and Baumgartner east. There was not space for both autos to pass and Nigh's machine skidded into the side of Baumgartner's, then struck Probst's vehicle, which was parked aside of the road. No one was hurt.

A 1950 Ford driven by Ronald L. Koepke, 16, R. 1, Adell, skidded into the embankment at the end of County Trunk H where the highway meets with County Trunk I in a tee crossing, about a mile west of Rosendale Lake at about 10:30 last Tuesday night, injuring all eight of the passengers. The front end of the car was badly damaged.

The driver received contusions to the left eye and both knees and others in the car and his injuries were: Roger Krautkramer, 16, Adell, severe back sprain; James Riley, 18, Boltonville, knees bruised and contusions to the forehead; Carol Hetzel, 17, Random Lake, contusions to the knees; Roy Zimmerman, 16, Random Lake, right leg; Donald Laatsch, 17, Kewaskum, multiple cuts to the left leg, face and chin; Norbert Koepke, 14, Adell, bruised left elbow; Shirley Federer, 16, Random Lake, injured right leg and a cut on the left eye lid.

Officers investigating the mishap stated that Koepke was traveling approximately 50 miles an hour and couldn't stop the car at the dead end of the road because of the slippery condition of the road.

Self-Employed Persons Urged to Apply Now for Social Security Number

Self-employed persons should apply NOW for their social security account number, urged K. A. Albrecht, manager of the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, social security field office. Although self-employed persons are not required to report their 1951 earnings until they file their income tax returns early in 1952, Albrecht said that every self-employed person who does not have a social security account number card should apply for one now to be certain to have the account number when the tax report is made. Applications for account numbers can be obtained from the local post office, or by contacting the nearest social security office.

Most owners or partners in a trade, or business who have net earnings of $100 or more a year are required by the new social security law to pay in full the tax of 2 1/2% of their net earnings, up to the first $2,600 earned in the year, at the time the combined income tax and social security tax form is filed. This coverage of the self-employed is NOT voluntary, Albrecht emphasized. Participation is required by the law unless net earnings from self-employment are less than $100 a year, or if the income is derived from the ownership or operation of a farm or from certain professions excluded by the law, such as physicians, lawyers, dentists, professional engineers, public accountants, and some others.

A new booklet entitled "DO YOU WORK FOR YOURSELF?" which gives a complete explanation of the new social security law applying to the self-employed can be had at no cost by writing to, or calling at, the Social Security Administration field office, located at Room 438, Federal Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

PRACTISE GAME WITH BELGIUM

Last Thursday night here the Chevrolets played a practice tilt with Belgium and the visitors nosed out Kewaskum in the last seconds, 49-48. The end was the only time in the entire contest Belgium was ahead. The Chevrolets built up a sizable 25-4 lead in the first quarter and had an easy time of it. Then all players in uniform were sent into the game for practice. The B teams of the two towns played a preliminary and this one was won by Kewaskum.

Kober's yield was 155.29, Donald Hammes, Kewaskum, also placed among the ten highest in this section of the state. He won ninth with a yield of 123.70.

Moisture tests were taken in addition to the corn weights and the yields figured on the basis of No. 2 corn of 15% moisture.

There were 519 high school students from this section No. 5 of the state entered in the contest. William obtained his highest yield with Pioneer 273. All students enrolled in vocational agriculture are eligible for this corn growing contest sponsored by the Pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co. and free seed corn was furnished for the corn projects.

"This contest was held in conjunction with the agricultural studies in the Kewaskum High school agricultural department where D. W. Scheid, agricultural instructor supervised the plot. Eighteen other agricultural students were in the contest.

"My corn made a fine yield of 155 bushels per acre. The corn was planted May 26th at the rate of 7 lbs. to the acre. The land was plowed the previous fall and worked up three times in the spring. The previous crops included oats and alfalfa hay respectively with the last crop of alfalfa being plowed under for green manure. A heavy application of chicken manure was applied before plowing and commercial fertilizer of the analysis 3-12-12 was applied when the corn was planted at approximately 250 lbs. per acre. The soil is a clay loam type.

County Agent Evaluates 1951 Year of Agriculture

YEAR ABOVE AVERAGE IN CROP PRODUCTION

By E. E. Skalsky

The holiday season is a time of good cheer to all of us. It is also a time of evaluating what the year of agriculture has brought to us. The year 1951 has about passed into history. A new year is about to begin. We look ahead to this New Year with unbounding hopes and inspirations to make it even a better year than the one we are leaving behind.

The year 1951 has been an unusual year in many respects for agriculture. It was predominately wet and cool. The crop growing season followed a winter of much snow and extreme cold. But the deep snow carried with it a good protection for the soil and for the roots of those crops like the grasses and winter grains that must keep alive during the dormant period of the long winter months. Then when the sunshine and warmth of spring came and the snow melted, the much needed moisture from the melting snows soaked deep into the soil which was greatly needed by agriculture to produce abundantly of the food crops grown on our farms.

Spring and the planting season came late in 1951. It was frequently further delayed by heavy and prolonged rains. But farmers managed to plant their full quota of crops.

The cool and moist summer gave a wonderful grass and hay crop, probably the best in many years. The grain crop, too, was benefited by the cool moist weather, and so were many of the other crops we grow with the possible exception of the corn crop. However, there is a bright spot even in the corn picture as the total production in the nation is only slightly below the general average for the past five years.

We in America, at this holiday season, can find much to be thankful for. We have been prosperous. We possess large measures of liberty. We need not stand in line to buy rationed food. We may speak our thoughts and may come and go as we like. We can worship at the church of our desire and work at the job of our choosing. We can operate our farms, our factories and our businesses as we choose.

These are great blessings, which in much of the old world, do not exist as they do here. With this brief holiday message, I will close with a new year's wish from the personnel of the Washington county extension office for a very Happy and Prosperous New Year to all.

1952 March of Dimes Drive Opens in County Next Wed., Jan. 2

The 1952 March of Dimes will open in Washington county next Wednesday, January 2, with the avowed objective of putting the fight against polio on a "pay-as-you-go" basis after four successive years in which the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has gone into debt fighting the only epidemic disease still on the increase in America.

"During the last four years," said Atty. J. Tom Merriam, West Bend, and Ray Jeffords, Hartford, co-chairman of the 1952 polio campaign in Washington county, "the nation has experienced its worst polio years in history. Many people are not aware of this great increase because polio cases have been widely distributed rather than concentrated in specific areas. But 1952 marked the fourth consecutive year in which the March of Dimes has had to go into debt to pay for the care of polio patients needing help."

"In Washington county alone," said the chairman, "the national organization has advanced the sum of $11,000 over and above the $23,701.01 which was received in the drives conducted during the past four years. Combined with the advances made to other chapters throughout the nation, the estimated deficit at the end of 1951 for the national organization will amount to $5,000,000. Thus the 1952 March of Dimes will be mortgaged for this amount before any money may be set aside for scientific research or for contingencies that lie ahead next summer."

The campaign directors revealed that whereas in the past four years the average annual incidence of polio was seven cases per year in the county, that figure was almost tripled in 1951 when 20 cases which required aid were treated at the expense of the local chapter.

"The tremendous obligations facing the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the local chapter have forced us to double the March of Dimes campaign period," said Merriam and Jeffords. "It will extend from next Wednesday throughout the entire month of January as we endeavor to raise enough money to wipe out the 1951 debt and avoid incurring another for 1952."

"Our committees are being formed earlier than ever before. We want every citizen in the county to play a part in making this March of Dimes the greatest ever conducted."

The Washington county campaign directors said that calls for volunteers had thus far drawn a fine response, but they added that many more hands were still needed. Persons wishing to volunteer their services could do so by calling the county chairman or by calling the chairman of their own village or township. A full list of the county volunteers will be published by local newspapers as soon as they are compiled and released by the general drive leaders.

1952 March of Dimes Drive Opens in County Next Wed., Jan. 2

The 1952 March of Dimes will open in Washington county next Wednesday, January 2, with the avowed objective of putting the fight against polio on a "pay-as-you-go" basis after four successive years in which the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has gone into debt fighting the only epidemic disease still on the increase in America.

"During the last four years," said Atty. J. Tom Merriam, West Bend, and Ray Jeffords, Hartford, co-chairman of the 1952 polio campaign in Washington county, "the nation has experienced its worst polio years in history. Many people are not aware of this great increase because polio cases have been widely distributed rather than concentrated in specific areas. But 1952 marked the fourth consecutive year in which the March of Dimes has had to go into debt to pay for the care of polio patients needing help."

"In Washington county alone," said the chairman, "the national organization has advanced the sum of $11,000 over and above the $23,701.01 which was received in the drives conducted during the past four years. Combined with the advances made to other chapters throughout the nation, the estimated deficit at the end of 1951 for the national organization will amount to $5,000,000. Thus the 1952 March of Dimes will be mortgaged for this amount before any money may be set aside for scientific research or for contingencies that lie ahead next summer."

The campaign directors revealed that whereas in the past four years the average annual incidence of polio was seven cases per year in the county, that figure was almost tripled in 1951 when 20 cases which required aid

MAIN STREET IN ACTION

Main Street Moved a Mountain in a Day To Give Its Children a Safe Schoolyard

By Browne Sampson

It was neither a Rocky Mountain range nor was it a molehill, this mountain whose hilly slopes stood in the way of traffic safety and wholesome recreation for the school children of Ooltewah, Tennessee. What made it a hill of difficulty was the fact that Ooltewah's school buildings, elementary and high, stood together on the hill-sides of this mountain that towers in a sharp peak over the town. And the only available space for the loading and unloading daily of 12 school busses; the parking of cars; and the coming in and going out of 800 pupils, was a strip about 60 feet wide in front of the elementary school building. With no outlets or turn-around facilities, it was a dead-end driveway. Only one bus could enter at a time; the next arrival had to wait until the in-bus backed out before it could drive in.

MARCH OF DIMES

JANUARY 2-31

The people were aware of the need for a driveway and playgrounds too, but what could they do about it? They had no money and no prospects of getting any.

Then Ooltewah got a high school principal who believed that "a school should be able to change the life of a community." With the approval of the local superintendent of schools and the State Department of Education, and the cooperative support of two other principals in the area, he began the drive to turn locally operating schools into community schools.

To secure community cooperation in the solution of existing school problems, this principal called a meeting of parents, teachers, pastors, members of the American Legion, Kiwanis, Masons, Eastern Star, Riding Club, and high school students. Fifteen representative members from these groups became the "Community Council of Ooltewah."

At the time the Community Council was organized, the building of a new school gym held the center of community interest. They had the blueprints and the money, but for some unknown reason had not begun to build. The Council took over and soon there was a new wing added to the high school building. This was the new gym complete with dressing rooms, lockers, showers and bleachers.

The building of the much-needed school gymnasium did two things for Ooltewah; it proved that the Council could get things done; and it emphasized the lack of playground facilities for the school children. Also it brought back into sharp focus the need for a safe school driveway.

Representatives went to Chattanooga and got the promise of a bulldozer, two trucks, and free oil from oil companies. Those who hired out trucks and tractors agreed to furnish this equipment and labor.

Teachers and pupils made tentative drawings of school playgrounds. The students calculated in cubic feet the amount of earth that would have to be moved. They wrote letters and releases for the newspapers.

The State Department of Education, the State Planning Commission, architects of the TVA (Tennessee Valley Authority) and landscape artists of the University of Tennessee all helped to organize Ooltewah for a face-lifting.

Early on a cloudless May day, parents, children, teachers, the Parent-Teacher Association with food and cold drinks for the workers, followed bulldozers, steam shovels, trucks and tractors into the schoolyard.

By sunset, men and machines had accomplished 90 per cent of a $5,000 job; they had moved 5,000 cubic yards of earth; had leveled hilly slopes into a flat area that meant a ball diamond, athletic field and a convenient driveway for school busses and other motor vehicles.

With the mountain flattened out, the Council concentrated next on turning a small pine grove into a picnic ground. And the Garden Club turned its attention to dressing up the school yard with transplanted native shrubs. Soon, the driveway will have a hard surface; this will mean easier driving in and out and the children will bring less mud on their shoes into the school building.

Household Hints

How To Iron Pockets
Fancy, gathered pockets, like those on little girls' party dresses, are a cinch to iron if you stuff them with soft tissue paper.

Kitchen Scissors
Always keep a pair of scissors handy in your kitchen. Good for trimming bread for sandwiches, cutting dates, nuts, lettuce, etc.

Eggplant
To keep eggplant from absorbing too much grease while frying, peel, slice into one-half inch wedges, and soak in salted ice water.

Saving Steps
A towel rack, nailed to the wide end of your ironing board or near it, will save you steps when you're ironing small pieces.

Color Fastness
To test for color-fastness, dip the tail of a blouse or a loosened hem into lukewarm water and let it remain in for three minutes. If the water acquires no more than the barest trace of color, it is safe to wash the fabric.

Sweet Potatoes
Add a slice of lemon to peeled sweetpotatoes while they are boiling. It will keep them clear and free of any discoloration. This is especially true for candied sweetpotatoes.

Capehart Amendment Allows Price Increases on Thousands of Items

HERE WE GO—With a sigh of "here we go again", home town housewives across the nation learned the Capehart amendment to the controls law is effective immediately.

Under this amendment manufacturers and processors are allowed to use their pre-Korea prices and add or subtract cost increases or decreases through last July 26 in computing new ceilings.

There is just one possible hope for the consumer. Manufacturers are not required to seek new ceilings, but are allowed to do so.

Among the items affected by the new order are wool and cotton yarns and fabrics, soft drinks, liquor and wine, lumber and millwork, crude oil, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, and many other processed foods.

Price Director Michael V. Di Salle has warned congress that prices apparently are rising again and it would be a dangerous risk to decontrol any major item now.

FOOD PRICES—While the OPS was announcing possible future price increases, the Bureau of Labor Statistics revealed that its latest index on food prices indicated an increase of nearly 1 per cent since its previous report.

The bureau pegged the price index at 231.2. That placed it 131.2 per cent above the 1935-39 average and 14 per cent above June, 1950.

Leading the advance were fruits and vegetables, and dairy products, including milk, cheese and butter. Meats, poultry and fish declined, as did fats and oils.

TRUCE TALKS—The drawn-out, frustrating Korean peace talks continue with the two sides deadlocked over supervision of the truce and the Reds refusing to open discussions on the exchange of prisoners.

Perhaps the most significant news from the truce talks is that the negotiations have entered the sixth month. It is almost inconceivable that two parties can talk for five months without agreement if there was good faith and a desire for peace on the part of all concerned.

By the time this reaches print the December 27 deadline on the provisional cease-fire line will have expired. If an armistice has not been agreed on, then a new cease fire line must be drawn before a final settlement.

It was considered unlikely there would be any public announcement concerning decisions about the Korean situation until those decisions had been carried out. The tax scandal, however, was another matter.

The President and those surrounding him have become more and more concerned with the developments (see below) in the tax fix probe. White House intervention, even the calling in of J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, to conduct a sweeping investigation, appeared to be a likely prospect.

TRUMAN—President Truman cut short his Florida vacation and returned to Washington. The President hastened to assure the public that no sudden world emergency dictated his return.

It was obvious two things were uppermost in the President's mind: (1) The deadlocked Korean truce talks, and (2) the still-developing tax scandals.

It was considered unlikely there would be any public announcement concerning decisions about the Korean situation until those decisions had been carried out. The tax scandal, however, was another matter.

The President and those surrounding him have become more and more concerned with the developments (see below) in the tax fix probe. White House intervention, even the calling in of J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, to conduct a sweeping investigation, appeared to be a likely prospect.

MRS. F.D.R.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, one of the most controversial figures to appear on the American scene, came under attack of Archbishop J. Francis A. McIntyre for "assuming the role of an agnostic and fatalist."

Mrs. Roosevelt said on a radio program recently: "I don't know whether I believe in a future life. . . I came to feel that it didn't really matter very much because whatever the future held you'd have to face it when you came to it, just as whatever life holds you have to face it in exactly the same way."

"I think I am pretty much of a fatalist. You have to accept whatever comes, and the only important thing is that you meet it with courage and with the best that you have to give."

The archbishop said he considers it "a strange situation that one who is chairman of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, on the question of religion, assume the role of an agnostic and fatalist."

DEFENSE—Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett has announced that a provision for increasing the Air Force from 90 to 143 wings—126 of them combat—will be in the 1953 fiscal year budget now being prepared and which will be presented to congress early next month.

The actual size of the defense budget has not been announced, but it is believed to be within an informally set ceiling of $45,000,000,000 for the entire military establishment.

Congress appropriated a total of $59,403,264,000 for the Army, Navy, Air Force and the Office of the Secretary of Defense for the present fiscal year, exclusive of foreign military aid.

The present 90 wings of the Air Force—their size varies from about 75 planes for fighter units to 30 for heavy bombers—are not modernized since they are in many instances made up of aircraft such as the B-29 and B-50. These planes are World War II vintage and must be replaced.

TAX FIX—The House Ways and Means subcommittee graft in the Revenue Department was blown wide open by the charge of Abraham Teitelbaum that two men claiming friendship with federal officials tried to shake him down for $500,000 with promises of a "tax fix."

Teitelbaum, a wealthy Chicago lawyer, further identified as attorney for the Capone family in some of their legal troubles, swore that Bert K. Naster, Hollywood, Fla., businessman, and Frank Nathan, Pittsburgh, led him to believe that they knew of a Washington clique which was on the lookout for "soft touches."

Naster and Nathan both vigorously denied the charge, but Attorney General Howard McGrath ordered a grand jury investigation of charges.

As far as the people in the home towns are concerned, the charges and denials continue to throw a darker shadow across the Internal Revenue Bureau under fire since the dismissal of Assistant Attorney General Theron Causey by President Truman. And the deeper the investigating committee digs the more dirt that is likely to be uncovered.

There is no doubt now that the echo of this investigation will be heard in the election campaign of 1952.

GRASS ROOTS MEDICINE

Hoosier Receives A.M.A. Award for Year

Dr. A. C. Yoder, 84-year-old Goshen, Ind., man has been named "Family Doctor of 1951" by the American Medical Association for his exceptional service to his community.

He was chosen as representing the untiring general practitioner whose devotion to duty symbolized the medical profession.

Previously, he had been elected family doctor of the year in Indiana at the Indiana Medical Association convention.

"I have done nothing outstanding—nothing unusual—unless this is an exception," he told his colleagues. "I have interested myself in the grass roots of medicine, the county medical society."

Dr. Yoder was accorded the honor at the clinical session of the A.M.A. in Los Angeles.

A native of Lagrange County, Indiana, he was principal of a high school for six years before deciding to take up medicine. He received his medical degree in 1902 from Rush Medical College in Chicago and has practiced in Goshen since.

He started calling on his patients on a bicycle soon after he got out of medical school, but took to a horse and buggy in bad weather.

Although he has been practicing 50 years, he refuses to retire. "What would I do?" he asks.

He was city health officer of Goshen for eight years.

SOCIAL SECURITY 4,400,000 People Receiving Survivors Insurance Payments

A young man walked into a social security field office recently and said: "I've just started to work for myself and I want to get straight on my rights and obligations under old-age survivors insurance."

The conversation developed some interesting facts. His father had been a plant foreman, and his job was brought under social security when the original law went into effect in 1937. At the time of his death in the forties, he was fully insured.

This particular interview was of unusual significance in that it is an outstanding example of a generation protected by old-age and survivors insurance building social security protection for the next generation. It is proof that social security has come of age.

In January, 1937, when the program was inaugurated it was frankly an innovation and an experiment.

For several years, its progress was necessarily slow, and its impact on family economy was limited. Beneficiaries added to the rolls did not average over a quarter of a million persons yearly and coverage was restricted to persons employed in commerce and industry.

Fifteen years, and the several amendments to the original act, have changed the picture. The widow and the son in our story are numbered among the three out of every four mothers and children who now have this insurance protection.

Moreover, not only jobs in commerce and industry, but most other kinds of work are now covered by the social security law.

In brief, the old-age and survivors insurance program under federal social security now affects three out of every four workers in the nation. Sixty-three million persons gainfully employed or self-employed are in work covered by the law.

OBVIOUSLY, fifteen years of operation has not been a sufficient length of time to bring old-age insurance protection to even a majority of the people past 65. However, at the close of the fifteenth year of the program, 4,400,000 people were receiving monthly old-age and survivors insurance payments.

How much in benefit payments does this mean to the average worker and his family? For the worker who after 1950 earns $250 a month his personal monthly benefit payment will be $72.00; he and his wife will get a total of $108 monthly, and in case of his death his widow will get $54.40.

The scale of benefit payments ranges from a minimum of $20 monthly to an individual to a maximum family benefit payment of $150. As earnings up to $3,600 a year are now credited to a worker's social security account, the average benefit payment will steadily increase in the years immediately ahead.

It is not difficult to evaluate the effect of this social insurance program on the average community and the average family. As in the case of the young man mentioned at the beginning of this article, it is making it possible to hold many homes together; as illustrated in his case also, it is enabling one generation to acquire the means to build the same protection for the next generation. This, as old-age and survivors insurance enters its sixteenth year of continuous operation, is the most significant achievement of the program.

Truman and Taft Will Be Opponents in Election

By Wright A. Patterson

AT THE TIME this is written it seems entirely safe to name the candidates for the presidency on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the political race of 1952.

Truman has not definitely said that he will seek another term, but has so broadly intimated that he proposes to do so, that there can be no chance of a miss in naming him as the Democratic nominee.

His is the last chance any one will have of being named for the job for more than two terms. The new law providing for a two-term limit specifically exempts the incumbent, which in this case is Harry S. Truman. Whether he is elected or not, he can at least have the glory of being the nominee of his party for a third term.

The President will start his campaign with an advantage of some nine million votes, representing the army of government bureaucrats, their relatives and friends. With such an advantage he believes he can win, and it does represent a big handicap for the Republicans to overcome.

Many Republican leaders, who have in the past figured that Senator Taft was not a vote getter, did not have popular appeal, and did have organized labor against him, changed their opinions on both points following the last election in Ohio, when Taft carried the state in his fight for reelection by a majority of better than 440,000. It proved to the doubting Thomases of his party that the senator could attract votes, and that union labor leaders did not control the union labor vote. They want a candidate for 1952 who will not take success for granted, but will fight for the needed votes.

The limited demand for Eisenhower has largely petered out because the general has not made an announcement of his political affiliations, or uttered any desire for the nomination. Had he done these things, by this time the result might still be very much in doubt.

In his campaign it is reasonably expected that Senator Taft will have the enthusiastic backing of MacArthur. As a participant in the campaign on the Republican side, MacArthur will do much to offset that nine million vote handicap Taft must overcome to win.

Taft is not the type to be overconfident and count the votes before they are cast, as did Dewey. Regardless of straw polls, or the opinions of political leaders, he will figure he can lose up to the counting of the votes next November.

Taft will stand for the maintenance of our free enterprise system; he is opposed to all forms of socialism; he believes in helping those who are down, but he does not believe in making us a nation of indigents by the voting of indiscriminate doles to all who are willing to accept.

His platform will undoubtedly embrace those things he considers as of value to the nation as a whole, and not only those of one or more minorities. It will, in no sense, be a "me-too" platform that has resulted in Republican defeat in the last three campaigns. The 1952 campaign will be a real political battle. It will not be lost because of a lay-down on either side, but it will not be won until the votes have been counted.

We need airplanes to wipe out the Communist nests in Moscow, but the planes we need have not yet been ordered.

It is said the French Communists do not like Eisenhower. We hope Stalin and his compatriots in Moscow do not like him for the same reasons.

MacArthur and his plea for Americanism will largely determine who will be inaugurated as President in 1953.

Let us hope the "too-big" DuPonts are successful in perfecting an H-bomb.

Cheer up, Mr. President, it could be worse. Not all of the less than 3,000,000 for whom you have provided government jobs, even those from Missouri, are bad. Some of them are both legally and morally honest, even though dumb.

Enemy Casualty Total Reported at 1,483,982

The Department of Defense has estimated total enemy casualties in Korea through November 29 at 1,483,982. The latest total is an increase of 11,087 over the previous report. In addition, the Army listed 33,149 civilian internees. Total Communist battle casualties were placed at 251,964 and counted prisoners of war at 126,455. U.N. casualties have passed the 100,000 mark.

3-Minute Fiction

THE FICTION CORNER

SUMMER STORMS

By Ralph Blanchard

FOR a week it had been raining. Ken sat on the porch of the resort hotel and looked over the lake.

"Why in thunder doesn't it stop," he asked? He threw the newspaper at a fly on the railing.

Gail was sitting on the swing. She was pretty, with a few freckles over her nose and cheeks—just a few.

"There's no use letting it get you, Ken," she said, knowing inwardly that she was tired of it, too.

"With this thing on your leg, you'd be fed up," he snapped, thumping the heavy cast. He had been in an accident two weeks ago. Now that there was rain he was doubly unhappy.

"Maybe by tomorrow I can take you for a ride in the boat," Gail suggested. "It looks as though it might stop raining tonight."

Ken kicked his good leg against the steps. "I'll go by myself. I'm not a cripple."

Gail felt her face redden a bit. She, too, was nervous and on edge. The rain had been so bad for the last week that no one had done anything but play cards. She turned her face from Ken.

"I'm sorry," he said. "Gail turned abruptly. "But Ken, you know the doctor warned you about being on the lake. What if you should have an accident?"

"I'm not an undernourished school kid, you know!" She knew what he was thinking and answered, "Of course, you can take care of yourself, but it's better to be safe than sorry."

"Will you please shut up!" Gail looked at him. He had never come right out and said that he loved her, but she knew that he did. And she understood him. It wasn't that he was angry at her, but it was the whole business of rain and a broken leg.

THE next morning the rain stopped for a while. Ken was up early and down by the lake walking along the shore with his crutches. He felt better than he had for several days, and when he came to a boat he decided that he would go out just a little ways from the beach.

With his crutch, he pushed the boat out, and laboriously placed himself between the two oars. He heaved a sigh as he felt the boat move over the water.

For a while he thought the sun was coming out from behind the clouds, but the sky grew darker. As the boat sped through the water, it would snap at the waves. After a few minutes, Ken realized that he had gone further than he had planned. He looked up at the sky and saw that it was just on the verge of storming. As he looked up, one of the oars slipped, slid down into the darkening water just out of reach.

The rain poured down as though someone had taken a knife and slashed the under side of the dark clouds. Quickly, he took the other oar and used it Indian fashion, but the boat was much heavier than a canoe, and it was hard to lift the heavy paddle.

The waves grew larger. The shore was at least three-hundred yards away, probably more, and the wind seemed to push the small boat further away. If only he had two oars, his arms would not have been so tired.

In his mind he saw Gail sitting on the porch. He wondered if he would ever see her again. His wrists ached and sharp pains shot through his broken leg.

A wave nearly swamped the boat and he was thrown backwards. His head hit the side of the craft.

He was having a crazy, ugly dream. Multicolored spots swam up and down before his eyes. A sickening hum rang loudly in his head. Suddenly the dots disappeared. The hum stopped abruptly.

When he opened his eyes, he saw Gail blurred before his vision, and he heard her voice, softly, "It's all right, Ken. It's alright, now."

"She must have missed me and gone for help," he thought. Then, her voice faded away. As he closed his eyes, he knew she was right. Everything would be fine.

He felt her soft hand on his face. He wasn't quite sure whether he was sleeping or awake now, but he kissed her fingers as they caressed his lips.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of aching backache, headache, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys in these conditions. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used moderately by millions for over 60 years. While often forgotten, it's amazing how many times Doan's gives happy relief from these discomforts—helps the 15 million of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Veterans' News Notes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many servicemen from Korea and elsewhere are being discharged now. Their most frequent questions concern their rights to government life insurance. This is the first of a series of four articles released by George A. A. county veterans' service officers, that will attempt to answer these questions.

INSURANCE AFTER DISCHARGE

Two new types of low-cost government life insurance are available to eligible veterans of the U. S. armed forces who served anywhere in the world since the Korean campaign started on June 27, 1950.

The first of these two types is a non-convertible five-year level premium term policy that may be renewed every five years at the premium rate for the then-attained age.

The second type is a special form of national service life insurance, on either term or permanent plans, that may be issued to disabled veterans whose disabilities have been found to be service-connected.

In this article, we will discuss only the five-year level premium term plan. The special NSLI provided for disabled veterans will be discussed in the next article.

To qualify for the five-year level premium term policy (under section 621 of the NSLI act), veterans must have been ordered to active duty for 91 days or more; they must have served since June 27, 1950, and they must have been released from active duty.

These veterans are eligible, without physical examination, for a five-year level premium term policy in amounts ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, less any other government life insurance in force at the time of application.

They must apply in writing to Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. C. within 120 days after their release or separation from active service, and pay the required first premium.

The premium rates for most ages under this policy are the lowest of any government life insurance yet authorized by the Congress.

While this policy may be renewed every five years at the premium rate for the then-attained age, it is not convertible to any other plan of government life insurance, nor will it earn dividends.

Because it is a term policy running for only five years, it does not have any loan value, cash surrender value, or extended insurance value. It merely provides life insurance coverage while premiums are being paid for the five-year period.

A veteran taking out this type of policy may name any person or persons, firm or corporation, or his estate as the beneficiary or beneficiaries to whom payments shall be made in event of his death while the policy is in force under premium-paying conditions.

Death payments made to the beneficiary or beneficiaries are exempt from taxation, but the exemption does not extend to any property bought with this money. These payments also are fully exempt from claims of creditors against the insured veteran or his beneficiary or beneficiaries, but this exemption does not apply against the United States.

Veterans who plan to apply for this insurance may do so immediately following separation or release from active service, but they must meet requirements within 120 days after separation or release.

For further information, veterans should contact their nearest VA office immediately after separation or release.

Industrial Fire Loss Climbs

91 FIRES DAILY Cause—Carelessness Cure—Vigilance and good plant housekeeping

OBEY SAFETY RULES NO SMOKING Be sure it's out when you throw it out. Don't take chances with defective equipment. Beware of static electricity.

AVOID SPONTANEOUS IGNITION Keep oily rags in cans Use care with flammable liquids Provide ventila- tion

ENCLOSE VERTICAL SHAFTS Don't pile stock against doors. Keep fire doors closed. Mark and keep exits clear.

MAINTAIN SPRINKLERS Keep water valves open. Too high stock piles cut off water spray. Keep extin- guishers ready.

TRAIN PLANT FIRE BRIGADE Inspect hose and fire equip- ment monthly. Cooperate with local Fire Department.

For every estimated $100 of industrial plant expansion in 1950, $8 went up in smoke, the National Fire Protection Association reports. This was the loss at a time when every effort was being made to expand sorely needed production facilities for the defense program. The NFPA, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week, October 7-13, says that an estimated $3,000,000,000, an all time high, was spent in industrial plant expansion last year, and that $175,000,000 worth of industrial property was destroyed by fire. Representing 25 percent of the nation's total fire loss the $175,000,000 industrial loss does not take into account lost production, loss of wages, medical costs, and reduced savings and business failures. The NFPA says this loss is the price of carelessness, and that common sense and constant vigilance can immediately eliminate nine of the ten fires taking such a heavy toll of our productive capacity.

Entertain Easily at an Informal Buffet (See Recipes Below)

Holiday Buffets
Entertaining a large group? The easiest and most informal way to have a large party is to serve food buffet style. In this way you can have a beautiful table because food attractively arranged will do just that. Your guests will be at ease serving themselves with what they like, and also in the quantity which they prefer. Sitting at the table and being served by host or hostess, they may get more than they want on their plates, and food is consequently wasted. For the hostess, buffet style serving is simple, too, as everyone understands that he must take care of his own plate. It saves time and energy, too, to have the food all set out, and then there's no running back to the kitchen when second or third helpings are on call. Another good feature of buffet style entertaining is the lack of having to have many of the foods piping hot. Baked ham or turkey can be served warm, for example, and all other foods may be of the "chilled" type. If desired, the main dish may be hot, but this is no problem as you can serve a casserole which is easy to keep hot. Creamed foods can be served in chafing dishes, and this makes for easy and attractive service.

- Holiday Fruit Mold (Serves 8-10)
- 1 package lime-flavored gelatin
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1/2 cup cold water
 - 12 maraschino cherries, quartered
 - 1 cup diced, canned pineapple
 - 1 cup diced, canned pears
 - 1 cup fresh seedless green grapes

Add boiling water to gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add cold water. When partially set, add the fruits and pour into mold or bowl. Chill until firm. Unmold, garnish with lettuce buds and serve with mayonnaise to which whipped cream has been added.

The creamed main dish may be served on toast or pastry triangles or in pastry tart shells made in muffin tins:

- Cream Sweetbreads and Ham (Serves 8-10)
- 1 pair sweetbreads
 - 4 cups water
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1/4 cup butter or substitute
 - 1/4 cup flour
 - 1 cup chicken broth
 - 1 cup light cream
 - 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 1/2 cup cooked ham, diced
 - 1/2 cup blanched almonds, roasted
 - Salt

Soak sweetbreads in cold water for an hour. Drain. Pour 4 cups water over them, add lemon juice and bring to a boil to cook 20 minutes. Drain and remove membranes; cut in pieces. Melt butter and blend in flour. Add chicken broth and cream, stirring constantly, cooking until thickened. Add Worcestershire sauce, sweetbreads, ham and almonds. Taste and add salt if necessary. Serve hot over toast, or pastry triangles.

LYNN SAYS: Put Appetites in High Gear With Appetizers

Sardine snacks are tasty when bread strips are brushed with sardine oil, topped with chili sauce and a sardine. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and broil until lightly browned. Serve a Shrimp bowl at the buffet table. Serve well-flavored Thousand Island dressing in a bowl, stirred with large, cooked cleaned shrimps on toothpicks and place crackers around them. Get your guests in the mood to enjoy your holiday buffet by serving appetizers with tangy vegetables before the meal begins. Place thin slices of cheese on thin bread squares. Roll and wrap in a strip of bacon. Broil slowly until bacon is crisp. Mashed avocados are a favorite dip with many people. Add lime juice or lemon juice to the mashed avocado, then season with salt and pepper and mayonnaise. Dice bacon fry until crisp and drain. Fold into the avocado with a bit of grated onion.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different! Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out. But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling.
