Bartelt Heads Heart Fund Campaign Here

Attorney Lyle W. Bartelt has been selected as local chairman of the Heart Fund drive. He announced this week that a "letter-appeal" campaign to raise funds to fight heart disease will be conducted here. The drive started on Feb. 1.

Letters will be mailed soliciting funds for the Wisconsin Heart association, which conducts a Heart Fund drive annually during February to carry out a program of research, education, and community service on heart disease.

Attorney Bartelt pointed out that deaths from diseases of the heart and blood vessels totaled 745,440 nationally last year, nearly twice the combined total of the next five causes: cancer, accidents, kidney disease, pneumonia, and tuberculosis.

More than 10,000,000 Americans, 500,000 of them children, are effected by heart disease, says Bartelt. It is estimated that 152,100,000 work days, or billions of dollars in productivity, are lost annually because of heart and blood vessel disorders.

Robert E. Kohler of Kohler is state chairman for the 1952 Heart Fund drive. A state goal of $150,000 has been set; the national quota is $8,000,000.

Indians Hand North Fondy First Defeat of Season; Were Ranked 2nd in State

TRI-COUNTY STANDINGS Won Lost North Fond du Lac 8 1 Kewaskum 7 1 Campbellsport 7 2 Rosendale 5 5 Oakfield 2 7 Lomira 0 10

Results Friday—Kewaskum 67, North Fondy 62 (overtime); Campbellsport 53, Rosendale 33; Brandon 74, Lomira 33.

Results Tuesday—Kewaskum 62, Brandon 55; Campbellsport 70, Oakfield 45; Rosendale 72, Lomira 57.

Games Friday—Rosendale at Kewaskum, Brandon at North Fondy, Oakfield at Lomira.

Coach Ernie Mitchell's underdog Kewaskum Indians upset North Fond du Lac, 67-62, in overtime here Friday night and knocked the Orioles out of the ranks of the state's unbeaten teams. It was also the first defeat in 12 games, including non-conference tilts, this year for the North Fondy quint which was ranked second in the state "Little 10" last week.

However, North Fondy maintained a half game lead over the Indians for first place by virtue of having played nine games to eight for Kewaskum. The Orioles have three Tri-County tilts remaining and the Indians have four.

The game was rough with 55 fouls called, 33 of them on the losers. Four of the Oriole starters were lost on personal infractions in regulation time and Gien Gongorek, one of the loop's top scorers, who tied the game at 62-all with a last minute field goal, fouled out in the overtime.

Kewaskum took a 20-16 lead over Fondy in the first period but the visitors scored twice as many points as the home team in the second quarter to go ahead 22-28 at halftime. The Indians had a tremendous third period, netting 23 points to 13 for the opponents. Ahead 41-45 going into the last stanza, things looked rosy for the Mitchelmen but the Orioles came from behind again with 15 points to Kewaskum's 9 and knotted the score. Fondy was held to two points in the overtime and the Green scored seven.

Gongorek led the scoring with 31 points while Meier had 12 for the losers. Center Hanrahan dipped in 25 markers for Kewaskum and Dick Buntjer added 15.

If both North Fondy and Kewaskum win all their remaining games they will share the championship. The Indians still must face Rosendale twice, Oakfield and Campbellsport.

On Tuesday night Kewaskum played at Brandon and had some difficulty getting past that team, 62-55. Tommy Miller of Brandon tacked 25 points on to his league-leading total. Richard Sabel came up with a sterling defensive effort against the Green. Center George Hanrahan was high for the victors with 17 points but he got brilliant support from Ellie Ramthun, Gordon Wierman, Ken Klug, Dick Buntjer, Don Meisenheimer and Leroy Keller.

Another DP Family Sponsored by Wm. Schaefer Arrives

Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Schaefer of Kewaskum, who accepted sponsorship for them to work on one of their farms near Kewaskum, another war refugee family arrived here last week. The displaced persons are Franz Adomovicius, 43, his wife, Gerda, 36, and their two infant sons, one two and a half years old and the other seven months.

The Schaefer family have sponsored four displaced persons previously who came here on Jan. 26 of last year. They are Zinaida Sadowikowas, 47, her daughter Tatiana, 27, and the latter's two children, Konstantin, 9, and Eugenia, 6. They also are providing a foster home for four homeless children.

The Adomovicius family are refugees from war torn Lithuania. There they were first taken by Russian troops, then Nazi troops and again Russian troops. They finally escaped to the American zone of West Germany. The tale of their experiences under Communism and Nazism is shocking.

The Adomovicius family, very grateful for the opportunity to come to America, left the American zone of Germany in a U. S. Army plane at 8 p. m. Jan. 22 and arrived in New York during the afternoon of Jan. 23, along with 70 other war refugees, two nurses and the crew of four. Most of the passengers were children. From New York they traveled to West Bend by train, arriving at 6:15 last Thursday.

They were met at the West Bend depot by Eugene A. Brumm director of the Washington County Welfare department, who brought them to their new home on the Schaefer farm which had been made ready for their arrival, furnished by the Schaefer, the Red Cross and the Salvation Army.

Franz and his wife are experienced farmers. A plan has been worked out by the Schaefer for the family to receive a salary in accordance with prevailing wages, for farm help, plus housing, farm produce and other assistance.

Game Sunday night—Grafton at Kewaskum.

The Chevrolet's rolled over Cedarburg here Sunday night, 74-50, to keep pace with league leading Horicon, which is a half game ahead of Kewaskum by virtue of having played one more contest.

Playing without their ace, Dick Peterson, former Marquette university star, Cedarburg was no match for the Chevrolet's. The invaders practically played Kewaskum on even terms in the first quarter but then the locals began walking away and increased the advantage as time went on. After being ahead by only two points, 15-13, at the end of the quarter the Chevies improved the margin to 34-27 at intermission time. Scoring 21 points in the third period to Cedarburg's eight, the game turned into a rout as the quarter ended 55-35. The winners tallied 19 in the last stanza and Cedarburg 19.

Although his team was downed, Cedarburg's towering center, Ehlers, pocketed scoring honors with 20 points. Heading Kewaskum's net parade was Jerry Stautz with 15 buttons. Augie Bilgo and Des Smith chipped in 13 and 11 respectively.

Kewaskum faces another tough opponent this Sunday night when third place Grafton invades. The Chevrolet's barely nosed out Grafton in their first meeting there and can expect another rough night here. It is probably the toughest card left on the schedule.

Barley Contest Will Again Be Conducted in County This Year

The Wisconsin Brewers Barley contest which has been conducted for the past six years in the major barley growing areas of the state will again be operated in Washington county this year, according to word just received from the Wisconsin State Brewers association by E. E. Skalksley, county agricultural agent.

A total of $100 in prize money will go to the nine winners selected in this county next fall. Three $20 grand awards, two $10 reserve awards and four $5 merit awards will be given.

All the grand and reserve prize winners will have a chance to compete in the state fair barley contest, where prizes will be awarded as follows: Grand award $200, reserve award $200, third prize $100.

A new feature of the 1952 contest will be the awarding of $100 in regional prize money to the best barley growers in Washington, Columbia, Dodge, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Outagamie and Winnebago counties, the so-called central Wisconsin barley growing area.

The area prizes will be $50.00, $25.00, $15.00 and $10.00. Four other geographical sections of the state will each share similar regional prize allotments.

Last year over 1100 growers from 29 counties participated in the Brewers' Barley competition. First prize winners in Washington county of $20.00 each were Louis Ackerman, Route 4, West Bend; Arthur Terlingen, Kewaskum; George Ebeling, Richfield.

Winners of $10.00 reserve awards were Archie Findling, Hartford; Sylvester Rettler, Hartford.

Third prize winners of $5.00 each were Raymond Ritzger, West Bend; Harold Schmidt, Route 1, West Bend; Reuben Ganger, Rockfield; Ewald Hanch, Route 3, West Bend.

The Wisconsin State Brewers' association which sponsors this barley growers competition points out that in the six years contests have been conducted, Wisconsin acreage devoted to this crop has risen from 99,000 in 1945 to 215,000 in 1951. A minimum of five acres must be planted to enter the 1952 contest. They must be planted in either Kindred L, Oderbrucker, or Montclair varieties.

Awards will be made from a one bushel sample submitted at harvest time this year and winners will be selected by judges appointed through a county barley contest committee to be chosen later. Judges' decisions are final. Entry blanks and other information are available at the county agent's office.

A popular tradition of the Brewers' Barley competition is the gift of a case of beer to every contestant who enters and finally submits a bushel sample in the fall.

$80 Collected Here in March of Dimes Porchlight Parade

Campaign Extended Two Weeks Due to Lag in Contributions

Despite a successful porchlight parade, General Chairman J. Tom Merriam on Wednesday announced a two week extension of the 1952 March of Dimes drive. Merriam made his announcement after a check with various county chairmen in towns and villages in the northern half of Washington county, during which he was informed that results to date in a number of localities have fallen below expectations.

Dr. Robert N. Schacht, who directed the porchlight campaign in West Bend, announced Monday morning that the vigils to lighted porches netted a total of $1,188.45. This figure exceeded the amount collected there in a similar drive last year and represented a definitely successful effort, he declared. The figure was made the more satisfactory, he added, in view of the fact that residents of Decorah Lawn were unable to hear the fire sirens which sounded the beginning of the parade. He voiced the opinion that many potential contributors in that area were missed because of the siren silence and encouraged persons who were missed to send their contributions direct to Chairman Merriam in West Bend.

Outside of West Bend, the porchlight canvass attained in greatest success in the village of Newburg, where a total of $102 has been reported to date, with donations still being received. Chairman Leroy Fischer of Newburg told Merriam that five volunteers in the village have yet to report their receipts, and expressed his assurance that the $102 reported Monday was still a preliminary figure and did not represent the village's total contribution.

Porchlight parade donations collected elsewhere in the northern portion of the county and reported to Merriam included Allenton, $52.04; Jackson, $89, and Kewaskum, $90. Total contributions from all sources in Washington amounted to approximately $200 as of Monday morning, Chairman K. Wm. Haasig reported.

In explaining his reluctance to announce an extension of the drive at this time, Merriam stated that he realized inclement weather may have been a factor in the slowness with which this year's drive got underway. Snow, rain, and the resulting icy roads may have prevented volunteers from making as many calls as they had planned, he said. Because of these conditions, chairmen may first now be getting around to complete their calls. He declined to comment on the possibility of the campaign falling short of last year's goal, saying it was still too early to reach that conclusion. He hoped, however, that the present situation may spur persons who have not yet made their donations to this year's drive to do so immediately. Checks, money orders, or cash contributions may be mailed or brought directly to headquarters in West Bend. Address letters to: March of Dimes, 191 S. Sixth Ave., West Bend, Wis.

Aerial Crop-Control Is Booming Industry

25,000,000 Acres Were Treated in U.S. in '51
A midwest wheat tract was so overrun with weeds that the farmer was about to plow it under. He decided, however, to try treating it with 2-4-D and hired an aerial crop-control specialist to apply the chemical at a cost of $2 an acre. The result: at yield of 20 bushels of grain per acre.

The above photograph shows aerial dusting of an orchard. This method of insect control is becoming more popular with farmers throughout the country.

crop acreage, I. J. Becnel, agricultural research director for the Freeport Sulphur Company, reports.

Becnel pointed out that more than 25,000,000 acres of U.S. crop, range and forest land were treated last year with chemicals sprayed or dusted by airplane.

Some 6,000 pilots are engaged in the aerial battle against insect pests, weeds and plant diseases. And they are doing the job faster, more efficiently and in many instances at lower cost than ground distribution of insecticides, fungicides and herbicides.

Store Unused Tractors Under Shelter in Winter

If you want to ruin your tractor in a hurry, just let it sit outdoors, exposed to the weather, this winter.

Farm machinery specialists say no amount of tough use will wear out your tractor as fast as leaving it out in the rain and snow.

Tractors are fairly expensive and may be hard to get. So, if you're not going to use your machine this winter, it will pay you well to find storage space for it in some building.

Clean the machine thoroughly, especially the motor, and then store it in a dry protected place.

Block up the tractor to take the weight off the tires. Then drain the radiator, block, gas tank, fuel lines and carburetor. Put fresh oil in the crankcase and add a rust inhibitor.

Most important of all, remove the spark plugs and pour one-fourth cup of light oil or kerosene in each cylinder. Then turn the crank a few times to work the oil around the rings and pistons, and replace plugs. Cover the exhaust pipe and crankcase breather pipe with old rags to keep out dirt and moisture.

Farmers Are Advised To Store Fertilizer

Farmers are still being advised to buy and store sufficient chemical fertilizer to meet their needs during the next 12 months. The supply is expected to be somewhat limited. Be sure it is stored in a dry place where there is little temperature variation, don't pile it any higher than five or six bags, and never pile it on the ground or even a concrete floor—the ideal storage place is an elevated wooden platform.

Wood Preservatives Safe For Treating Equipment

Chemical wood preservatives can be used safely, as far as both livestock and humans are concerned, to treat wooden livestock equipment. Recent tests on the effects of using pentachlorophenol and copper naphthenate on hog houses and troughs, cattle feed bunks and sheep salt boxes show that normal use of such treated equipment does not cause any harmful effects. The livestock did not absorb a harmful amount.

Smiles

God Knows Best
In the synagogue I heard men praying," said the puzzled young boy. "It must be awfully hard for God."

"Why?" asked the rabbi gently. "The woodcutter was praying for cold weather."

"Naturally," the rabbi said. "He makes his living cutting wood for our stoves. The colder it is, the more wood he sells."

"But the fruit seller prayed for mild weather."

"Well," said the rabbi, "he stores autumn fruit to sell in the winter, and severe cold would freeze his stored fruit."

"The farmer prayed for rain, and the bricklayer for dry weather. They are godly men. How does God know how to answer all their prayers?"

"How is the weather now?" asked the rabbi. "Dry . . . and mild." "And last week?" "Let me see . . . on Monday and Tuesday it rained . . . and on Thursday it was cold." "See?" said the rabbi.

Europe Wants War Goods Faster, But Armament Is Enormous Job

By FARMHAM DUDGEON (Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles prepared by the Editor of Western newspaper Union while on a reporting trip through Europe and the Near East.)

In the current build-up of strength against Russia, two major considerations project themselves into the thinking of the NATO leaders who are charged with the awful responsibility of meeting this threat to the peace of the free world. They are: (1) Are supplies from the arsenal which is the United States reaching the "front" fast enough? (2) Are the free Europeans functioning to the full extent of their abilities in terms of "self-help" in building up their defenses?

Progress Being Made Sifting through the evidence presented by these sources, and supplementing it with our own observations, we had to rely for the answers on briefings by U. S. military and diplomatic personnel stationed in the countries through which we traveled, and on the official government viewpoint of the nations we visited. We got the latter viewpoint from their top-flight officials.

Without attempting to evaluate the current U. S. domestic controversy on the adequacy of military supply schedules, there is no secret about the fact that our leaders in Europe and the Near East would like to get materials at a faster clip.

However, on this point our military leaders are realistic. They are doing the best they can with what they have and can get. A year ago there were probably six fully and properly equipped "free-country" divisions in Europe. Today there are between three and four times that many.

Considering the situation in Korea, the long period of time required to switch production lines from tractors and plows to tanks and planes, and balancing these factors against the ability of certain of our allies to absorb mechanized warfare equipment, these leaders are inclined to describe the rate of incoming supplies as being "adequate in tone."

There seems to be no single item which is needed more desperately than the others. Everything needed to fight a modern war is in demand: tanks, planes, communication equipment, etc. But the record of deliveries already made by United States under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program is impressive.

To attempt a generalization on the strength and vigor of effort of the countries which we visited would be foolhardy, yet you come away from the continent with the net impression that the effort being put forth is far better than might be expected.

Production Is Up Industrial production is considerably better than it was in the period immediately before World War II. Best figures indicate that production is about 130 per cent of 1938. Military forces are growing in those countries not restricted by treaty regulations.

Republicans Ignored Nation's Home-Town Voters

By Wright A. Patterson

IN THE 1948 political campaign Herbert Brownell of New York, the manager of the Dewey-Warren campaign, was so confident his candidates would receive the farm vote that he entirely ignored the media of greatest influence with the farm vote, the home-town newspapers.

He confined his efforts to secure votes to the metropolitan centers. As a result the votes of the farm states turned to the President, and that vote re-elected President Truman by a small margin. Dewey and Warren were deprived of a victory that they might easily have had as a result of either ignorance or gross mismanagement on the part of Herbert Brownell.

The farm vote can never be counted in the ballot boxes for Republican candidates, regardless. That vote must be sought, and the one most influential media through which to seek it is the farmer's home-town newspaper. He knows the home-town editor, and has implicit confidence in his political judgment.

He looks to that hometown paper as his source of political leadership. When it is silent, the farmer must turn to other sources for political information and leadership. In many cases the home-town paper editor is sufficiently interested in the result of an election to take an active part in a campaign without any urging, but in many hundreds of cases they do not do so unless the party asks for his local support, and

Brave Patrolman Plays No Favorites, It Seems

SADINA, Kansas — Mrs. Paul Froman went to town in her car to do a little shopping. She left the vehicle parked in a time zone. As people often do when shopping, she stayed too long. Upon returning, she discovered that an alert police officer had left her a ticket for overtime parking. The brave patrolman who had left the ticket was Paul Froman, her husband.

If the fighting broke out tomorrow, all of the countries we visited, France, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Western Germany, Yugoslavia and the Netherlands, would give good accounts of themselves with their limited military establishments. Not necessarily because of NATO ideals, but surely to defend their own countries.

Unstable governments have hindered arms production and held down military training in some of these countries, of that there can be no doubt. France is usually offered as Horrible Example No. 1 in the non-cooperative sweepstakes. Europeans like to say that the Frenchmen are "dragging their feet." SHAPE leaders recognize France as a special problem but they do not share the dismal viewpoint of the French military effort often attributed to that country by other Europeans.

France is fighting a man-sized war in Indo China. Much of her military strength is being diverted to that sector and while some critics will characterize this as a "Colonial" war rather than a struggle for the freedom of suppressed peoples, the hard fact is that 48,000 of her commissioned and non-commissioned officers are engaged on that battle front.

Our military leaders think the Frenchman will, and has the ability to put up a good fight if called upon. The French economy is rocky and the government is shaky, but when the chips fall, France is expected to do its part.

Italy can't do much about building up her forces until she is released from the restrictions of the World War II peace treaty.

Greece has just finished a horrible and bloody civil war against Communists and is ready to fight Communists again, if necessary. But the Greeks too want peace.

Yugoslavia Will Fight Yugoslavia will fight Russia if necessary, but she won't fight communism. This country is itself communist to the core. In fact, the "Jugs" claim a rather superior kind of communism. A good tough partner to have on your side but certainly not a partner to get enthusiastic about when you come to consider idealism and an appeal "to the hearts of men." It is still a police state despite Tito's assurances that he is opening the gates to all types of inquiry and investigation of his country's affairs.

Looking beyond the possibility of immediate war, the people we visited sense that their fate is closely tied to ours. They believe that the only language Russia understands is power. They know that the power Europe has to offset Russia without American help is not enough to deter the aggressor.

From this fact they conclude that there can be no turning back in present efforts to build up Western forces. While the 1951 goals for a unified armed force were not met, they agree with our SHAPE leaders, who contend that 1952 will be a crucial year.

It is upon us, and goals formerly set for 1953 must be met in the next 12 months. This is the year in which the strength of German industrial production within the Soviet zone will make itself felt in the struggle for increased arms.

This too, is the year in which the American people will decide how much further they are able and willing to keep the arsenal running and the checkbook open.

again ignoring the home-town papers, through which to appeal to the farm vote? Should they do so, I am placing my money on the President as the victor in his race for a third term.

If those in charge of the Republican campaign invite support for their candidates, the chances for success will be much improved, and the chances for the President again succeeding himself greatly lessened. That would be done, socialism as a political issue will be dead.

Candidates seeking the nomination of either of both parties will do well to realize that the home-town papers can materially aid in securing delegates to the nominating conventions, as well as in providing votes at the November election. In the towns and on the farms, the home-town newspaper exerts a powerful influence as a collective media. The answer is up to the candidates, and to whoever may be named to conduct their campaign.

"Birds of a feather"—It would not be fair to indicate that President Truman is lacking in integrity and honesty because some of his cronies of former years, whom he appointed to government jobs, proved themselves to be crooks.

The army of bureaucrats continues to grow and will until the votes are cast next November. Senator Taft proposes to fight for the electoral votes of some of the southern states, if he wins the Republican nomination.

Such support was not asked for by Brownell in the 1948 campaign, and the electoral vote of the northern farm states largely went to the President, on his personal appeal to the farmers and his promise of continued subsidies.

Will the Republicans and the opponents of socialism make the mistake Brownell made in 1948 by

THE FICTION CORNER

BRUCE WHEELER looked across the restaurant table at his daughter Avis. He hadn't realized how much he missed her since he had sent her to Grand River to school.

3-Minute Fiction

"Remember!" Avis said with fire-alarm emphasis. "I was just a 15 year old baby then. I didn't know about the big wheels at Grand River, and that I'd be a main spoke. You're scrim-grangorous!" Avis eyes grew large over the fried chicken placed before her.

"We don't seem to talk the same language," Bruce said slowly. "Please interpret. What's a 'big wheel' and a 'main spoke'?" That scrim-something word, is it good?" Avis smiled. "Dad, I forgot you're of the vintage of the terrific twenties! 'Big wheel' is someone important around High. And I'm important—a 'main spoke'! 'Scrim-grangorous' is swooning gaily." Avis turned to the chicken.

Bruce decided he wasn't hungry. For the thirtieth time he wished Avis' mother could have lived. . . . To avoid bringing up Avis in a woman-less household he had sent her to Grand River.

Avis finished the chicken and whispered, "Can I have a float?" "Sure," Bruce answered, "but what is it?"

"This is the $64 business! A float is ice cream and a coke mixed. Yummy!" Avis continued. "What are we doing after dinner? Frankie Martin's in town. . . . Frankie's a sex man! Can we go, Dad? I mean, can we?" Bruce nodded and felt dizzy. Maybe a show with Avis listening would give him time to impress the new language onto his mind.

AVIS openly applied lipstick (her mother would never have done that!) as Bruce saw a familiar face across the restaurant. It was Jim McKinnon, son of an old friend. Jim returned Bruce's nod casually then Jim's eyes widened. Jim was 20. Bruce was glad when he came to their table.

Bruce pulled out a chair and began petting the boy with questions about his father and about business. Jim responded that his father was well, business was fine, the football games had been won, but all the time his eyes were on Avis.

It hit Bruce like a wallop, Jim hadn't come for man-talk. . . . it was Avis!

And Avis!—Bruce squirmed. Her eyes were downcast. The sparkle was gone. Bruce knew that bashful ten year old's had more personality. Plainly Avis was mentally swooning over Jim.

Jim asked her, "How do you like Grand River High?" "Nice," Avis said softly. "Do they have a good football team?"

"It's—it's nice," Avis answered. She raised her eyes as far as Jim's hands like it was a terrific effort.

Bruce clenched his teeth. Didn't she know anything? If she put one tenth of the gayness of her conversation five minutes ago into talking with Jim, he would be interested.

"Do you like having dinner here?" Jim asked, already searching the room for an escape.

Avis took a long time to answer, and managed to raise her eyes to the level of Jim's. "It's so-so nice here," she said.

Bruce knotted his hands. Jim sighed with disappointment and politely asked Avis to dance. He probably expected her to say she couldn't push one foot ahead of the other. As they walked away Bruce closed his eyes—probably she would fall! If only her mother had lived. Maybe she could have taught Avis how to talk!

Then they were back and Avis was drawing on her coat and Jim was walking away.

"He's peachy!" Avis breathed. Bruce began, "There's something I should tell you. If you want a man to be interested you have to be alive."

Avis interrupted, "Jim? Oh, we've a date for tomorrow night, another for the fraternity party and he asked me to go to the Fall Prom too! Not bad?" she asked with lifted brows.

"You'll do," Bruce whispered.

SPORTLIGHT

Durocher Cuts In

When big Don Newcombe was officially announced as baseball's new pitcher for the army, we ran into Leo Durocher.

"Naturally," Leo said, "losing a pitcher with Newcombe's stuff isn't going to help any team. It wouldn't help us to lose Maglie, Jansen or Hearn. But this isn't going to break the Dodgers, either. They have too good a ball club to have any one man wreck them. But Chuck Dressen must rustle himself a pretty fair pitching staff. He's a good starter in Preacher Roe. There's a pitcher—a great one."

Durocher didn't care to comment on how Branch, King, Labine, Erskine, Podbielan and the others would make out.

Certainly Newcombe's absence gives the Giants a much better chance to win. Newcombe has never quite worked to his potential ability as his career down the hot stretch proved late last summer. But he could be good and might have found himself this year.

"What about Willie Mays?" I asked Leo.

"Not a word about him," the Giant manager said. "But we'll have a good ball club," he said. "You were right in saying our ball club was in fine condition when we left St. Pete. I never had a ball club in better shape. We were rearing to go on the side. Our pitchers were all set. I was dead sure we'd get away flying. And then we drop 11 straight and almost fall out of the league. How can a ball club drop 11 straight in April and May and then win about 80 per cent of its games to come from behind in August and September? When you see things like that happen you get afraid to make any predictions."

I asked Leo which of the Giants he expected to have a big year.

"It's about all of them," Durocher said. "I mean by that they'll play up to their ability. We have a real hustling club. You don't have to needle them. I know Maglie, Jansen and Hearn will have good years. I expect to have two more good working pitchers to help out. We'll miss Eddie Stanky, but we'll have a good man in his place. The rest of my infield is pennant material. So is our outfield. Wait a minute, Monte Irvin. There's one of the best."

The Modern Ballplayer

In the course of a fanning bee Durocher brought out one important point. It concerned handling ballplayers—the ballplayers of today.

"The old-time rough-riding managers couldn't have gotten away with their stuff," he said. "They would've been run in by the bunch today."

In the old days managers were handling ballplayers getting from $2,000 to $4,500 a year. Lajoie jumped the Phillies when he asked for a raise from $2,500 to $3,000. Joe Jackson and Ed Walsh, two of the greatest, got $4,000 or $4,500. But the good average player was far cheaper. You could bowl those fellows out—or give them a ride.

"You can't do that with fellows getting from $75,000 to $75,000. How is a $40,000 manager going to ride a $90,000 ballplayer? These fellows today, many of them, are well fixed with comfortable homes, an automobile, nice clothes and various luxury items. And the ballplayer today is also a higher type. Many of them are college graduates. Few old rough-necks break in any more."

"I only wish they did," I suggested. "So do I," Leo said. "But not too many of them. I could stand a few like Waddell, Sherry Magee, Mike Donlin, etc. But this is a different bunch today. Just a few years back you could see Al Dark scoring touchdowns for L.S. U. All Reynolds doing the same for Oklahoma A. & M. or Kuzewski for Indiana. Ballplayers today are serious minded, working hard at their jobs. You can't handle them like galley slaves. Maybe they live better than you do."

Joe McCarthy rarely bawled any ballplayer out. He simply fired, sold or traded any bad actor. A man couldn't have a better system.

Who said 'Over'?

"Now that the football season is over," a writer starts his piece. Over for how long in many places? About three weeks and then "spring practice" will be under way again. It's not over.

We have never felt that spring practice, held under correct supervision, is wrong in any way. It is the overindulgence in this part of football that eats in too heavily on a student's time.

Spring practice wouldn't be harmful if limited to 20 or 24 days, with each practice session held to an hour and a half. But in many places it runs on for two or three months and often uses up three hours of an afternoon.

From 20 to 24 days, held to an hour and a half, could produce no damage. It is the only part of football that isn't overpublicized. The average young college player can use this spring instruction to certain advantages. Naturally the coach won't let it. But there are times when everyone wants too much.

Nation Joined In Polio Fight

The 1952 March of Dimes cam- paign now being conducted here and in 16,000 communities throughout the country is aimed at equipping the nation to cope with polio on a national basis—the only way, experience has shown, that this strange epidemic disease can be fought with any degree of suc- cess.

The fact that no community—no matter how large or small—can meet a full-scale attack of in- fantile paralysis, is demonstrated by the experience of the first ten months of 1951 when headquar- ters of the National Foundation sent almost 7,000,000 in March of Dimes funds to some 900 county chapters whose own funds had been depleted by epidemic de- mands.

But money, as such, is not the only factor in fighting an epi- demic of polio. When infantile paralysis strikes, many other forms of help must come from the "outside," help such as nurses, physical therapists and equip- ment. During 1951, hundreds of trained personnel and huge quan- tities of equipment were dis- patched to critical areas by the National Foundation.

1-story masonry building, 50x80, with bene- ficent machine shop, defense plant, dust filter, chain store, and a variety of other office space 11x17. Large display room, with large windows, and is 34x7 feet has large sliding door to second room, 29x47 feet, which has 2 large overhead doors, for drive through arm trucks; then the complete upper room 14x47 feet. This partition wall is of concrete block and can be moved if wanted, making this 2nd room 43x47 feet. Has 2 laboratories, etc. in office. Ceiling has 100-watt light. It has 12 tons of steel I beam, and has a 100-hp concrete floor. The building under this building is 30'x20'. Has a low pressure hot water heating (Gasoline type) heating system. The building is well lighted by 6-year old last Sunlighter. The lot has about 125 feet of frontage, with room for about 10 cars of parking, and in addition to the building, site has in their right of way north side of building, which can be used for another part of the building, or can be used as a parking lot. This place has a frontage on Highway A and rear on north side of lot, also can drive around building.

Its worth your while to investigate before you invest into building a new place. At today's price, you will find that you will have to pay $7.00 per square foot to build, or more, and this place has about 4500 square feet. It would cost anyone about $31,500 or more, without the lot. And could you get the materials?

If you can use this building, which I am holding vacant, I will sell at less than cost, for $23,500, with only $6,000.00 down, the balance on long term land contract, payable at the rate of $135.00 per month including interest. Included in this price, I will redecorate the front display room and office. And will also put on new roof with Johns Manville material.

For inspection of this building, see, call or write, owner

MAIN STREET IN ACTION

Old Sawtooth Mountain Hurls Challenge And a Small Town Accepts and Beats It

Up on the north shore of Lake Superior is the village of Grand Marais (population 1,078), which boasts an active ski club, several hundred ski enthusiasts—and a big hill for them to operate on. The hill ascends back from the town and rises to a 1,700-foot elevation. Because of the natural construction of the range, which resembles the teeth of a saw, the hill is called Sawtooth Mountain.

It happened that Old Sawtooth had represented a standing challenge to the Grand Marais skiers to "just try to break me for skiing." Many had considered the idea, but all had been brought up short by the forbidding obstacles that presented themselves. No one even dared to start the project, and Sawtooth Mountain's challenge remained unaccepted for a long time.

FEATURE

But in 1948 a handful of civic-minded men, led by Howard Joynes, then president of the Chamber of Commerce, made up their minds to pick up the gauntlet and throw Old Sawtooth's challenge back in his old sawteeth. How well they succeeded is admirably demonstrated by the fact that Grand Marais and its mountain will be host to the Central United States Downhill Slalom Championships this February 16 and 17.

It is a tribute to Grand Marais' sense of community pride and motive of self-improvement to say that although the sights were set on procuring just such meets as this in the future, the chief purpose was—and still is—to build a recreation area for the folks about town who enjoy and participate in this type of sport.

When the civic group decided to go to work on the Sawtooth project, the first step was to visit ski areas in Fort William, Ontario, a district which had been established skiing terrain for many years. Here they gleaned information about tows, trails, club activities, ski building, and whatever other points of information they could find relative to skiing.

A ski club was organized, and that fall a bulldozer began rearranging the southern exposure of the mountain. Here and there trails began showing through the evergreens, aspens, and birches. A rope tow, powered from the bottom of the slope, was set up. When the snow came—and it had been eagerly awaited—an assortment of intrepid skiers gingerly tried out the lower slopes to give the project its initial test. They came away happy.

From there on the work was continued with one immediate goal—the "Central." But before that could be accomplished, more challenges had to be faced and conquered. A temporary warming house had to be built. A beginner's tow had to be constructed. Local skiers had to be taught. A nucleus of skiers attended the Canadian traveling ski school and brought back what they learned to pass on to the tyros at home.

The task involved a sizable amount of construction work—more, it would appear on the surface, than was within the capabilities of a small town of 1,078 persons. New areas had to be cut out, and tow motors had to be changed to operate from the top of the hill. Electricity had to be brought into the areas to run the tows and light some of the slopes for night skiing. New trails had to be planned and cut.

The answer, as in the case of virtually every worth-while community project, turned out to be volunteer labor and the unstinting cooperation of the townspeople. Merchants, professional men, day laborers—all came out to help. The ladies faithfully furnished coffee and cake for the crews.

Meanwhile, the local skiers daily were becoming more proficient. They soon were taking the expert trails in their stride. Finally, the ski club applied for membership in the Central U.S. Ski Association and was accepted. This, in a sense, was a fitting reward for the people who, in just three years, had advanced the area as far as many older skiing spots had gone in twice that time or more.

Next week we shall discuss how Grand Marais asked for the Central U.S. Meet and got it.

Cynics build no bridges; they make no discoveries; no gaps are spanned by them. Cynics may pride themselves in being realistic in their approach, but progress and the onward march of Christian civilization demand an inspiration and motivation that cynicism never affords. If we want progress we must take the forward look.

MASTERPIECE RETURNED . . . This war-damaged early 18th century painting of the assumption of the Virgin has been returned by this country to the monastery of Monte Cassino, Italy. It was discovered among the rubble of World War II by a German soldier and still bears the mark of the siege of Monte Cassino. The German took it to Austria, where it was found by the invading Americans. Our state department returned it, via the Italian consul at Munich.

HE WAVED GOODBYE TO FREEDOM . . . Detective Frank Farrell phones for pie wagon while Detective Arthur Damick holds gun on Joseph Ricciardi in New York apartment. They saw Ricciardi, carrying a fur coat and a radio, leave the apartment. He saw them too, and, as a ruse, turned to wave goodbye to someone in the apartment. There was no one inside. The detectives said Ricciardi took furs, radio and jewelry from the apartment to the value of $1,000.

SIX WOMEN CLAIM MAN AS HUSBY . . . Six women, arrested on charges of "open and notorious cohabitation," confer with attorney in Mesa, Ariz., before their appearance in court. All claim as husband George Dutson, who is sought on bigamy charges. The complaint against Dutson and the women was signed by a bishop of the Mormon church, which has ex-communicated Dutson. Dutson allegedly lived in a house with the six women and also two other women, and was preparing to wed another.

Truman's State of Union Speech Termed Friendly, Conciliatory

STATE OF THE UNION—Was it a wiser or politically minded President who delivered the state of the union message to the second session of the 82nd congress? Was his conciliatory and friendly mood dictated by the fact that 1952 is an election year, or was it an effort to consolidate the majority behind the defense program and the nation's foreign policy? These questions have been in the minds of every American since the President's speech.

For the first time in five years, President Truman, who is beginning to show the strain of his years as chief executive, did not go all-out for welfare-state legislation. He made it clear, however, that he was not abandoning any of the things he has advocated since 1948. Rather, he would have the country concentrate its full efforts to defense and keeping economically sound.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN

In this respect he said the stabilization law was shot full of holes at the last session and "it will be one of the main tasks before congress to repair the damage and enact a strong anti-inflation law". As for defense, he warned that the situation in Korea remains dangerous and that "the Soviet Union is increasing its armed might." The world still walks in the shadow of another world war, he said.

But his approach to taxation, compulsory health insurance, civil rights, and other controversial issues was so amiable that it left many Republican critics speechless. In fact, Republicans, who obviously were all set for a field day to demonstrate.

The main criticism, when it was all over, was the charge that the speech was just a rehash of past messages. Generally, Democrats praised the message. But from the opposition came such statements as: "The same broken record..." "The President's speech could be characterized as follows: spend more, waste more, socialize more, give more away, control more, talk more, and blame the other fellow for all the ills of the United States and the world."

The fire and stubborn fight of the Truman of old was so obviously lacking that it seemed almost apathetic to many home towners who heard the address.

PRODUCTION—Production of civilian goods for the second quarter of 1952 has been cut back sharply. Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson announced the government has ordered home building slashed by 23 per cent for the months of April, May and June. Automobile output was slashed by 7 per cent and other consumer goods using scarce materials were trimmed 10 per cent.

This is the general picture for the second quarter: Construction—Home building, now at a rate of $50,000 a year, will be slashed to a rate of $60,000. Only factories vitally needed for defense production will be built, and little material will be available for office buildings, stores, and other commercial construction.

Autos—The industry will get enough copper and aluminum to make 800,000 cars and enough steel to make 900,000.

Civilian Goods—Most consumer goods, including refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, television sets, and radios, will be cut by about 10 per cent from the first quarter.

Railroad Equipment—Freight car production will be reduced about 14 per cent below the 20,000-car output for the first quarter.

Roads—Only the most urgent road building will be permitted.

Ships—Allotments to the Maritime Administration will be increased.

TAX EVADERS—The Treasury department has launched a new policy that should receive wide approval of the average home town taxpayer. The Treasury will no longer let tax evaders escape criminal prosecution if they voluntarily confess their fraud and pay up.

The department also took steps to speed up its prosecution of tax evaders, including: (1) Reducing the number of conferences with taxpayers about their cases, although taxpayers still will be heard when necessary to develop actual facts; (2) The only persons who can represent taxpayers in these conferences must have duly certified powers of attorney to speak for the taxpayer.

The new policies are expected to reduce the lag in prosecution from an average of 292 days to about 100, it was estimated by the Treasury department.

PEACE TALKS—The Korean peace talks remain deadlocked over the question of whether or not the Communists be allowed to build airfields in North Korea during an armistice. The Reds insist that any ban on rehabilitation of combat airfields would infringe on North Korean sovereignty by interfering in internal affairs. On the other hand, the United Nations says it will not make a peace that gives the Communists the right to build up military forces and installations for further aggression.

At home, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reports he is hopeful for a workable truce in Korea, but there is one price we won't pay—appeasement.

CLEANUP—President Truman's long awaited plan to clean up graft in government is under way, although it drew considerable fire from Republican critics.

The President dropped his plan for a special commission and handed the job to Attorney General McGrath. Republicans immediately began their criticism. The general charge was that "a whitewash is coming". The President did not indicate how extensive the clean-up measures will go. A number of administration leaders are known to want action which would remove the corruption in government issue as far as possible from the approaching presidential election campaign.

Truman first asked Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy of New York to head a cleanup commission. Murphy withdrew before his appointment could be announced officially. What caused him to change his mind has not been made public.

One of Russia's newest twin jet planes is depicted in this drawing, released by Aviation Age. The trade and technical magazine said it was either a twin jet fighter, night fighter, or ground attack aircraft, recently developed by the Red air force. Its exact designation is not known.

THE NATION'S SCHOOLS

Rearming Brakes U.S. School Gains

The nation's schools are again facing a serious crisis, brought on by four major factors: increased enrollments, inflationary costs, lack of building materials and an acute teacher shortage.

Educators, however, contend that the nation's economy is strong enough to support the defense program and the schools. And they insist that schools are the first line of our defense.

A recent survey revealed that 3,500,000 elementary and high school children—one out of eight pupils in the public schools—are suffering an impeded education because of inadequate facilities.

An estimated 400,000 boys and girls are not getting a full school day—some are attending school on triple-session schedules.

Educators say incompetent teachers, poorly equipped classrooms, inadequate buildings and poor supervision are cheating America's young people of a proper education so necessary in our way of life.

Inflationary costs are the big headache. Everything schools need has gone up 50 to 100 per cent. And teachers are insisting they get their share. In many instances cost-of-living bonuses have been handed out, but the teachers complain not fast enough. Educators are worried because there appears no relief within the next two year.

HAPPY POP... Joseph Graber, 38, poses with his mother-in-law on steps of Brooklyn's Bushwick hospital after receiving news that his wife, Fannie, 33, had given birth to quadruplets. The quads, three thriving girls and a boy, were the first born in New York in 1952.

MIRROR Of Your MIND Don't Urge Man To Come Back By Lawrence Gould

Should a girl urge a man to "come back"?

Answer: Never. If she is reasonably sure the basis of his leaving her was a misunderstanding, she may try to clear this up, though even here she should be careful not to appear to be putting any kind of "pressure" on him. But if the man seems at all reluctant or is "not sure how he feels about her," all that she can do is wait until he makes up his mind, or try to "forget" him. Her attempting to persuade him to come back against his will will either make him angry or give him the feeling that he is acting from a sense of duty rather than because he wants to, and no man can love a woman on that basis.

that medicine alone cannot cure him, so that he will not attribute his recovery to it if he gets well. Any medication that is used should be chosen only to relieve the symptoms, since it is psychotherapy that the patient really needs. Itching and scratching may be basically "rage reactions."

Answer: Yes. In certain situations refusing to speak to someone may hurt more than harsh words or being ignored in this way is the same as being "rejected," which is the most painful of emotional experiences. Again, refusing to speak to a person leaves him without any hint of what you are thinking, or planning to do, and if he is inclined to be imaginative, this uncertainty will be worse than the most painful knowledge. There are times, particularly if you are angry, when it is wise to "stop end count ten (or 1,000) before you speak, but don't use the "silent treatment" as a form of punishment, especially with a child.

KEEPING HEALTHY Healthful Treatment for the Elderly

By Dr. James W. Barton NOW THAT 20 full years have been added to the life span during the past 50 years there is, as stated often before, a very large number of men and women past 50 years of age. The lengthening of the life span means that these elderly folk need attention not only for the ailments common to the young and middle-aged, but for the ailments that come on with old age. It can thus be seen that the geriatrician must know diseases and symptoms common to all ages. One of the important factors in preserving the health and preventing ailments in the elderly is nutrition and food. Generally speaking, the dietary of the geriatric patient should fulfill the following requirements: Food intake must maintain normal weight with 1 gm. protein (meat, fish, eggs) daily for every two pounds of weight. There should be sufficient vegetables and dairy products to yield the necessary vitamins and minerals, and then enough carbohydrates

Are skin ailments Psychosomatic? Answer: Most of them have at least an important psychic (mental) factor says Dr. D. E. H. Cleveland of Vancouver, B.C. The emotional disturbance is not the sole cause of the ailment, but provides the fertile soil on which skin trouble may grow.

May silence be cruel? Answer: Yes. In certain situations refusing to speak to someone may hurt more than harsh words or being ignored in this way is the same as being "rejected," which is the most painful of emotional experiences.

LYNN SAYS: Add Protein to Enrich Hot Supper Dishes Ready-to-serve meats and sausages added to any of your meatless dishes add flavor appeal and protein enrichment to them, and are especially appetizing during cold weather.

Pork sausage balls or cubed pieces of bologna are excellent with your macaroni and cheese or macaroni and tomato sauce casseroles. Highly seasoned sausage meats can be ground and used as the stuffing in green peppers, tomatoes or onions. This provides a very savory flavor.
