

Judge August Backus, Native of Kewaskum, Passes on Thursday

Judge August C. Backus, 75, who was born and raised in Kewaskum, one of Wisconsin's most distinguished lawyers and jurists and a former publisher of the Milwaukee Sentinel, died shortly before 3 p. m. Thursday, March 6, at his home, 723 E. Lake View Ave., Milwaukee. The judge had been ill for several months, and had suffered several heart attacks. He was still active, however, and had visited his office only last Monday.

Judge Backus had many relatives in Kewaskum and vicinity and occasionally he returned to his old home town to call on them as well as his numerous friends here. He has been a subscriber to the Statesman for many years so that he might keep in touch with his acquaintances and the doings in the vicinity.

Judge Backus complained of not feeling well Thursday afternoon. His grandniece, Mrs. Beverly Robinson of Chicago, walked upstairs with him. As he entered his bedroom, he collapsed on the floor. The Whitefish Bay Fire Department rescue squad and a doctor attempted unsuccessfully to revive him. His death was attributed to coronary thrombosis.

In his long career, Judge Backus had been assistant District Attorney of Milwaukee county, District Attorney and then Municipal Judge from 1910 to 1924. He resigned that post in June, 1924, to become publisher of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Shortly afterward William Randolph Hearst purchased the Sentinel from the owner, Charles F. Pfister, Judge Backus retired from the Sentinel in January, 1930.

The achievement for which perhaps he was best known was the fathering of the adult probation system, which has been the means of saving many thousands of first offenders from prison and giving them a chance for rehabilitation. Nearly all the states have followed his original idea, developed when he was municipal judge. In 1923 he was elected president of the National Probation association, and, with the aid of President Coolidge, was instrumental in securing the enactment of a law giving federal judges power to put first offenders on probation.

He was deeply interested in education. For many years he taught criminal law at Marquette university and served as chairman of the advisory board and trustee of the medical school. He also was a regent of the University of Wisconsin from 1912 when he was appointed by Gov. F. C. Zimmerman, to 1923.

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Philip Weiss chapel, 1901 N. Farwell Ave. The body is in state at the chapel. A memorial service for Judge Backus was held in municipal court at 9:30 a. m. Friday. A deep interest in the welfare of boys and in numerous charitable, educational and patriotic projects marked the life of Judge Backus. On Feb. 19, 1948, he was one of six Milwaukeeans presented with the Boy Scout Silver Beaver award for distinguished service to boyhood. For 25 years he played an important part in the Boy Scout movement. During that time, the Boy Scouts had the use of a camp site at Fox Point donated by the judge.

He was born in Kewaskum April 21. (CONTINUED ON LAST PAGE)

Indians Beaten by N. Fondy in Semi-Finals of District Tourney

Kewaskum High school's illness-riddled basketball squad was defeated by North Fond du Lac in the semi-finals of the W.L.A.A. district tournament at North Fondy Friday night, 52-36, eliminating the team from further tourney competition. The Indians lost to the Tri-County champion Orioles after squeezing past Oakfield, 43-37, in the first round of play Thursday night. North Fondy also went down in the tournament finals, losing to Hortonville in the title game at Wisconsin Saturday night, 39-35, in double overtime.

The Indians were in poor shape for the meet. Against Oakfield, George Hanrahan, regular center, and one of the conference's leading scorers, was ill and didn't play. Against the Orioles in the semi-finals Don Meisenheimer, regular forward, was out of the lineup with illness. Hanrahan came out of a sick bed to play but was not in condition and failed to score a point against the Orioles, one of the state's top ranked teams among the smaller schools. Others on the squad were not feeling up to par because of the flu bug, seefeldt and Hokenkirch were brought up from the B team to fill out the squad for the tournament.

Hanrahan's loss provided Oakfield with an opportunity of pulling one of the season's major upsets. The Oaks were ahead of the favored Indians, 32-20 with 90 seconds to play but a free throw by Merlin Seefeldt and a drive in basket by Ellie Hanthum after he had stolen the ball gave Kewaskum the game. The contest was a typical tourney thriller in which the underdogs rallied only to lose out in the final minute. The Oaks smashed back from under 8-3, 12-5 and 18-10. Kewaskum leads in the first half. The third quarter ended 28-26, Indians, Gordon Wierman was top scorer with 12 points and W. Collier paced Oakfield with 11. In the other opening tilt North Fondy defeated Campbellsport, 49-25.

In the semi-finals against North Fondy, the winners got off to a 10-9 lead and by halftime had increased the margin to 31-17. The Orioles outscored the Mitchelmen 9-5 in the third quarter but Kewaskum came back for a two-point edge in the last stanza. Each team refused 15 free throws to take advantage of possession basketball. Ellie Hanthum was high scorer for the (CONTINUED ON LAST PAGE)

Lakers Win Again at Campbellsport, 64-50

The Kewaskum Chevrolets won their 12th game in 15 starts Sunday night, defeating Campbellsport for the second time this season, 64-50, on the Belle floor. The team is still deadlocked for the league lead with Horton. Each team has three games remaining.

Although the Chevrolets beat Campbellsport by a 14-point margin, the fall end Belles gave them a surprising run at times. However, after the first period, Kewaskum went well ahead. The Belle team was strengthened for this contest with the addition of Dave Wondra, high school star. He dropped in 19 points from his guard position but Andy Wondra copped high honors with 28 points, Augie Bilgo was top performer for the winners with 16 and Des Smith chipped in 10.

After a close first quarter the score was 9-8, Kewaskum. The Chev added 20 points in the second period and held the Belles to 12, making it 29-20 at intermission time. Kewaskum outscored the opponents again in the third stanza, 19 and 12, and pulled away to a 48-32 third quarter margin. The losers tallied 18 points in the final period and the Chevs 16 to bring the final mark to 64-50. Although 22 personals were called against Kewaskum, the Belles made good on only two free throws.

This Sunday night the Chevrolets play their last home game of the season with the strong, third place Mayville quint coming to town. Mayville should prove troublesome. The locals still have a postponed tilt at Cedarburg to make up and end the campaign at West Bend a week from Sunday night, March 16.

PETERSON LEADS SCORERS

Dick Peterson of Cedarburg, former Marquette university star, leads the northern Lakers in scoring to date with 244 points, even though he has not played in all games. Strangely, none of the league's top teams, Kewaskum, Horton, Mayville and Grafton have any players among the leaders. This shows they have teamwork. Leading scorers are as follows:

Chairman Reports on Local Red Cross Work

With the 1952 Red Cross fund campaign just getting under way in the West Bend chapter area, drive chairman R. G. Lauson this week issued a report on the achievements of the past year. "Most people are not aware of the broad scope of Red Cross activity in our community," Lauson said, "and we believe that a full report on what has been accomplished during the past year will answer many questions."

Pointing out that the chapter has the services of a full-time executive secretary, Miss Clara Jaehning, Lauson emphasized that Red Cross services are in operation here around the clock. Citing Home Service as an example, Lauson said that 152 cases were handled during the year. These included assistance to service men, veterans, civilians and even emergency aid to displaced persons. A typical case would be processing of a service man's application for release from active duty because of hardship. Home Service case work within the chapter area required the expenditure of nearly $1800 during the year. Much of this money went out in the form of aid grants.

Under Volunteer Services, Red Cross workers made 11,390 surgical dressings for St. Joseph's Community hospital during the year. With 31 schools enrolled, the Junior Red Cross program saw 52 gift boxes sent overseas, several thousand trays favors made for veterans hospitals and a child's wheel chair purchased for use of disabled youngsters in this area.

More than 3,200 useful items, such as tooth brushes, leather goods, recreation items and so forth, were sent to the Veterans hospital at Wood, 24, 19 and 12, and pulled away to a 48-32 third quarter margin. The losers tallied 18 points in the final period and the Chevs 16 to bring the final mark to 64-50. Although 22 personals were called against Kewaskum, the Belles made good on only two free throws.

There were 9 separate canteen groups organized in West Bend and Horton with 52 ladies participating. This activity was in cooperation with civil defense needs in the area. First aid was taught to 5 groups and Red Cross certificates were issued to 135 people who successfully completed the course. A goal of one trained first aid expert in each family in this vicinity was set for this activity. Classified in accident prevention produced 48 certificate holders. Home nursing courses in care of the sick, mother and baby care, and family health saw 79 graduate under the guidance of a registered nurse as instructor. Nearly $1,900 was spent for these important courses.

Another $1,000 expenditure was for the annual water safety program. A total of nearly 600 children and adults took part in swimming classes at West Bend pool and at the 4-H camp at Camp Awana. Red Cross certificates were issued to 145 of the students.

"These are more than just statistics," Lauson said, adding that these facts are the heart of the Red Cross story in the West Bend area.

In addition, he pointed out, the chapter played its part in national and international activities, the blood for defense program, disaster relief in the flood areas of the south central states, service to men in the armed forces and other programs of the national Red Cross.

"To carry on our work, we need $8,240 in the fund drive under way in the West Bend chapter area. I hope that everyone will join in helping us to reach our quota as rapidly as possible," Lauson said.

"Some day this month, a neighbor at your door with an opportunity you won't want to miss... an opportunity to give help to the helpless, hope to the hopeless... an opportunity to shelter the victims of fire and flood, to help a wounded serviceman or veteran back to health, to save a life by making sure that needed blood is there. That neighbor will be your Red Cross volunteer solicitor. Remember, he's not only contributing money, he's asking you to do. He's cheerfully donating precious time as well, to help you to help others. He deserves your thanks. Answer his call from the bottom of your heart. Give generously," the fund drive chairman concluded.

Only 87 Votes Here in Judicial Primary Election on Tuesday

One of the lightest votes on record was cast in the judicial primary election in the village and Washington county on Tuesday. A mere 87 votes were cast here out of more than 200 eligible electors. Reasons were a lack of interest with only four candidates for justice of the supreme court to be voted for and adverse weather conditions. The winter's worst snow storm (5 1/2 inches) hit this vicinity on election day and kept many people away.

Of the four candidates on the ballot, Justice Grover L. Broadfoot, the present incumbent, received the most votes locally with 35. He was followed by A. F. Murphy with 24, Mars Peterson with 18, and Alvon C. Reis with 9. One ballot was left blank. Returns from 3,094 of the state's 5,203 precincts on Thursday gave Broadfoot 91,237 votes and Murphy 82,815 and they emerged the victors over Peterson and Reis, who trailed far behind. Broadfoot and Murphy will oppose each other in the April 1 runoff election. In Washington county only 1,658 votes were cast. Of these, Broadfoot collected 630; his nearest rival, Murphy, received 570; Peterson ran third with 288, and Reis received 170. Voting in the state as a whole was far below normal.

In the county Broadfoot carried 11 out of the 25 precincts and tied in two of them with Murphy. The latter carried 10 precincts and Peterson and Reis each carried one.

The village of Kewaskum, with its 87 ballots, registered the largest vote among villages in the county. The town of Addison, with 82 ballots, took first honors among the townships.

Estimating that the cost to the county of conducting this election amounted to $3,000, each ballot cast cost the county approximately $3.20. So if you voted think your vote wasn't worth anything, it sure was, nearly two bucks.

Badger Firemen to Hold Annual Banquet Sunday

On Sunday, March 9, more than 300 members will gather at Hartford for the annual mid-winter meeting and banquet of the Badger Firemen's association at Marty Zivko's ballroom, formerly known as the Schwartz. About 26 members of the Kewaskum fire department expect to attend. They will travel to Hartford in a special bus.

The chief and delegate meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. according to announcement by the executive board. The banquet in the evening is scheduled for 6 p. m. sharp. A country style dinner will be served. Speakers and entertainment will be on the evening program.

Officers of the various departments assisted by the association are invited by the executive board to cooperate and make an all-out effort to help make the banquet a success. Most of the departments make the dinner a treat for their volunteers by saying the same out of the treasury.

The executive board chose the Zivko ballroom because of the facilities it offers to take care of large banquet crowds. The mid-winter banquet of the Badger association is a leader among the 21 associations in the state, several of whom sponsor similar events.

Football vs. Baseball

As progress moves along the road there is always a new order of things. You can fight this order just so long.

For example professional football met this challenge and made its change. To the older roster of teams, Los Angeles and San Francisco were added.

In spite of the vast changes in population and interest shown, the old game has plodded along, clinging desperately to the past with any views of the future completely hidden.

About College Football

Pro football is building every year. Additions from the Far West and the Southwest have added tremendous strength.

If correct changes are made college football will no longer be largely a battle of scouting, recruiting, athletic scholarships and money against at least a form of sanity.

I have seen Missouri teams in the past in which 33 men out of 33 came from Missouri. I believe Missouri has more home-grown football players than any other big university.

That's the way it should be. Paul Bryant has announced a similar policy for Kentucky. Football players, given their earlier education free in some public high school, too often bolt for the rich bait handed out by some university or college far away.

The Browns Test

The Browns under Veeck and Hornsby are dead sure to show improvement. One question is—how much improvement will they show at the gate?

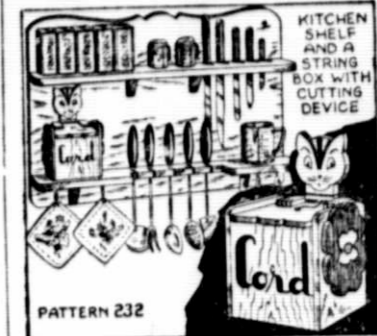

St. Louis is a hot ball town, especially where the Cardinals are involved. But this season the Cardinal pennant outlook over Giants and Dodgers is not too keen, unless Cardinal pitching reaches the peak it might find in the distance.

I should think any community would take a deep interest in a young ball club building up. But if the Browns' attendance increase doesn't come off, there'll be more than one outside city more than willing to get the assignment.

Hornsby has another fine aid in shortstop Marty Marion.

If Marion is able to work 90 games at short he will be a big help. In any event he will be a big helper. St. Louis, with Stanky and Hornsby, will be one of the most interesting spots of the new season.

Chillicothe Youth Is Nation's First Television Opera Star

A 12-year-old boy from Chillicothe, Ohio, has become one of the nation's first television opera stars...

Twelve-year-old Chet Allen, Ohio's gift to television opera, sings with Rosemary Kuhlman in a rehearsal of the Gian-Carlo Menotti opera, "Amahl And The Night Visitors." Chet, who was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, and now lives in Columbus, had the starring role of a crippled boy in the Menotti opera which had its TV premiere over the NBC network.

In Chillicothe (pop. 18,340) Chet Allen developed his first taste for singing, along with cartoon sketching, stamp collecting and football line play...

His father, a chemical engineer, enrolled the curly haired youngster in the Columbus Boychoir at Princeton, N.J. Under the careful supervision of Herbert Hoffman, director of the Boychoir, Chet became a star soloist.

He was, in fact, a veteran musical campaigner by the time that opera composer Gian-Carlo Menotti visited the Boychoir in search of a lead for his television opera, "Amahl And The Night Visitors," commissioned their dreams by becoming one of our outstanding dramatic sopranos. But she is not one of our temperamental prima donnas; she refuses to be glamorized, and will let nothing interfere with her home life with her husband, Robert Reagan, and her son, Robert Reagan, Jr.

The size of the audience reached by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis on television was proved by the result of an appeal for funds to support research in muscular dystrophy, which they made recently. The appeal brought in more than 7,000 responses.

When Herbert Hoover Talks, All America Listens

By Wright A. Patterson

WHEN HERBERT HOOVER talks, all of America listens. When the people of the nation have the opportunity of both listening and seeing, they take advantage of both opportunities.

Then millions of Americans, regardless of political affiliations, both looked and listened. Those letters that Hoover appreciated most were from the homes of the nation, written in longhand on plain stationery, nearly 7,000 of them.

It was the agreement with and the approval of those statements in the 7,000 long hand written letters received by Mr. Hoover from American homes which he so much appreciated.

It would be well for those of us who are interested only in provable facts that we prepare in advance for the storm of invective, mud, filth and generalities that will be showered upon us by political orators of both parties through the period of the coming presidential campaign of July, August, September and October.

The coming one will be such a mud slinging campaign as has not been known since the days of the Menotti seized upon the Chillicothe youngster as a natural for the role of the crippled boy whose impoverished mother was visited by the Three Wise Men. The youth's impulsive gesture in offering his crutch as a present to the new-born King in Bethlehem led to his miraculous recovery.

CHET MOVED on New York with all the assurance of a widely traveled adult. He became an overnight hit with the opera's cast at rehearsal. His role was an exacting one, requiring a wide variety of emotions, and eminent musical men like Toscanini, who dropped in on rehearsals, were both moved and amazed by his vocal and acting capacities.

So, too, were ordinary folks throughout the nation. The opera had its premiere Christmas Eve on a national television hook-up. The next day NBC was deluged with letters, telegrams and telephone calls praising the young artist.

Chet liked what he saw of the big city, but he still feels that a small town has plenty of advantages. "You can get in touch with folks so much easier," he explains.

Chet is now back at the Boychoir where Director Hoffman reports with pride that all the attention focused on him has not gone to his head "one whit." He makes occasional trips to New York to complete a full recording of the opera for RCA Victor, and the remainder of his time is devoted to his school and to extracurricular activities.

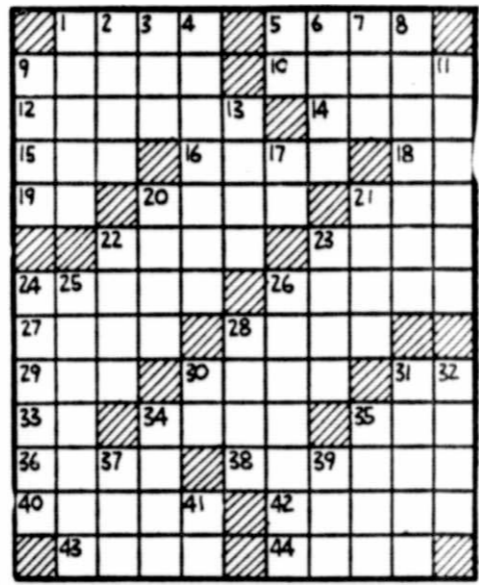

Whether Chet will continue as an operatic performer, or whether he will pick up the old life and perhaps specialize as a cartoonist or become an engineer like his father, depends upon nature. Director Hoffman estimates that in one year, possibly two, Chet's voice will mature.

Whether the post-adolescent Chet will have the vocal capacity for an operatic career is something that neither Chet, Director Hoffman or anyone else will prophesy. In the past, instances of boy sopranos who successfully bridged the change of voice have been rare. But few have been as successful in pre-adolescence as young Allen and even fewer have demonstrated his remarkable adaptability for operatic acting.

DOUBLE MISTAKE

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT WAS convenient thought Martha Sidney that Larry had money. "You see," she confided to Dorice Merton, who was to be maid of honor at the wedding, "Larry could hardly expect me to accompany him on these excursions into the wilderness. A f t e r all he has enough money so that this forestry business he's interested in could be classed as a hobby."

Dorice was dubious. "I sometimes wonder, Mart, whether or not you're wise in marrying Larry. Somehow I feel that he expects you'll be eager to follow him into the woods."

"Absurd! How could he expect me to get a thrill out of trees. Besides, there's that little summer home of his just outside of town. I'd much prefer to live there when I can entertain my friends and make some good use of his money."

It was rather an elaborate wedding. Martha's mother, who called her daughter extremely fortunate at making such a catch, went the limit. She didn't want Larry to think Martha was hopelessly poor.

The couple spent a few weeks' honeymoon on Long Island and returned to Larry's summer home in Albany in late September. All during the boat ride up the Hudson, Larry talked of the woods and their glory in autumn. That night he said:

"Better get your packing done, honey. We're leaving early."

Martha arched her brows in surprise. "My packing! Why, Larry, dear, you don't expect me to accompany you into the wilderness!"

"Larry, darling," she said, "please let me stay."

Larry looked at her in bewilderment. He saw the whiteness about her lips, and knew suddenly that she had never intended to go with him.

There was a quality in his voice when he replied that frightened her. "So that's how it is! I'm the season's outstanding sucker, eh?" He shrugged. "Tomorrow I'm leaving for the woods and you're going with me—whether you like it or not."

They departed by train the next morning. At Saranac they shifted to a power boat, and for hours drove steadily in the wilderness. At the head of the last chain of lakes they disembarked. The power boat was left alone, standing on a narrow strip of wilderness that projected out into the lake. There was a log cabin, a canoe and nothing else.

Martha felt afraid and very much alone. Larry had been painfully formal during the entire trip. The mountains, the stillness, the vast solitude awed and frightened her. She stood quite still until the last faint put-put-put of the power launch had faded. Then she turned and entered the cabin that was to be her home.

In spite of herself Martha could not help enjoying her new existence. For the first time in her life she knew sheer joy at just being alive. The cabin was comfortable and home-like. There were books. There was work to be done.

Larry made no effort to assist her about the cabin. His eyes still held the same cold glint that had frightened her on the night before their departure. He seldom spoke, was away from the cabin a good deal and spent his evenings bent over drawings and reports.

It was a month before Larry let down the barrier. He came up from behind Martha as she stood alone on a bluff overlooking the lake. She turned at his step and looked into his eyes. The cold glint was gone.

"The power launch is due back tomorrow," he said. "You may go back with the driver if you like. I—guess I made a mistake."

Martha felt a lump in her throat and swallowed hard. "Larry, darling, please let me stay. I—I've been selfish. Can't you forgive me?"

Larry's head jerked up. For one brief moment he stared. "Martha, Martha, I—hoped, I—I wanted you to—love the woods as I do. I brought you here for that purpose, and thought I'd failed."

Martha pulled his face down and kissed it. "Let's forget the past, Larry, sweetheart, and start all over again. I really don't feel as if I've had a real honeymoon. Let's begin over again. Now! Here!"

STATE COMPLETES 1ST ROUND OF RING TESTS FOR BANGS

Completion of the first round of ring testing under the new Brucellosis program was announced this week by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Ring tests were made, at all of Wisconsin's dairy receiving plants, on milk from about 135,000 patron's herds. 66,651 herds showed positive results while 78,213 produced negative reaction.

The percentage of positive herds then was approximately 41%. The actual percentage of infection in individual animals in herds now tested is only 4.8% for the entire state.

The number of official vaccinations of calves since July 1, 1951, has passed the 300,000 mark. Calf vaccinations during the past seven months have increased about 33% over any previous similar period.

The legislation providing for carrying out the Bangs program calls for a herd ring test approximately every six months. Following the first ring test all positive reacting herds must be blood tested.

The second round of testing will get under way early in March.

TEST SEED GRAINS

Because of damp and unfavorable harvesting weather last summer much grain heated in granary bins. Some of the grain heated sufficiently to impair its germination. Those who plan to plant uncertified seed grains should run a reliable germination test to determine if the grain they intend to plant will be satisfactory for seed. Grains that germinate less than 92% should not be planted.

Any farmer can make a test of the germination of his seed grain. Merely take white muslin cloth one foot wide and three feet long, count out exactly 500 kernels of the seed stock, spread them out on the cloth. Roll it up, and soak for one hour in tepid water, then keep in a warm place where the temperature is around 70 degrees or warmer.

er. Keep the roll moist and in 5 to 8 days check the germination. It may be easiest to count the kernels that failed to germinate. If 500 kernels from various parts of the seed bin were used, deduct 1% for every five kernels that failed to sprout. If 20 kernels failed to sprout, then the germination of the sample would be 96%.

All seed grains should be well cleaned and treated before planting. A good fanning mill will remove most of the weed seed and the light kernels. These can be ground up for stock feed. Chemicals for treating seed grain are available locally. It is best to treat the grain at least two weeks before planting. Store the seed grain in bags during this period of time.

The chemicals used will penetrate to all of the kernels and destroy fungus and blight spores. No grain should be planted without first treating it. Treated seed should not be fed to livestock.

Seed of Legumes Grown at Profit on Many Farms

Combining Sweet Clover Seed From the Windrow is a Recommended Practice Under Most Conditions.

Increased supplies of legume and grass seeds must be made available if grassland farming is to reach its goals. Legume seeds especially are needed to maintain soil fertility and occupy their place in nearly every crop rotation. The grass-legume relationship is the dominant factor in profitable grassland production and maintenance.

The great areas of specialized legume seed production as a major enterprise are in the West, mostly under irrigation. This does not preclude, however, seed production of several of our more important legume crops in the Central, North Central and Eastern States as adjuncts to the regular cropping systems and as an important supplement to the income of diversified and livestock farms. In fact, the Corn Belt States still constitute the large area of production of red and alsike clover seed.

There are occasions on almost every farm when it would be most desirable to use some of the acreage of legumes and grasses for seed production. It may be planned in advance to use a particular crop for seed, or unlooked for situations may arise when a crop could not be harvested at the proper time for hay or silage and such crop could be harvested later for seed. Even though conditions may not be most favorable for a maximum seed yield, such crop may prove very profitable and at present seed prices add materially to farm income.

There are a few rather essential things which should be borne in mind, if one is to use even a few acres for legume seed production. Among these are the following:

1. Among the crops most suitable for seed production in this area are red and alsike clover, white and Ladino clover, and sweet clover, and in some of the drier western part and in dry seasons alfalfa is a possibility.

2. The time of harvest should be when warm, clear weather is likely to prevail. Rainy, cool weather is not conducive to the production of good seed.

3. Cross-pollination is necessary for seed production with all these legume crops. Bees are needed to effect adequate pollination. Two or more hives of bees to each acre plus 1 in or near the field will ordinarily more than pay their way in increased seed production. Competing flowering crops or flowering weeds should not be in close proximity to seed fields to attract the bees away from such fields, as they will reduce the effectiveness of the bees and lower the seed yield.

4. Fields of low fertility do not ordinarily give good seed yields. If not well fertilized for the preceding crop, applications of phosphates and probably potash are desirable. Regional and soil conditions must decide time and extent of fertilization.

5. Time of cutting must be determined by stage of crop development, weather conditions, actual or prospective damage by diseases or insects. Optimum stage to cut alfalfa is when two-thirds to three-fourths of the pods have turned brown, red and alsike clover before shattering occurs from the heads that represent the largest bulk of the crop, white and Ladino clover from 3 to 4 weeks after blooming, and sweet clover as early as a good portion of the pods appear mature, or nearly so.

6. The seed crop may be cut with a mower and windrowed, and threshed when dry with a combine having a pick-up attachment, or perhaps better still with a combine or thresher as a stationary machine, because of the desirability frequently of retreshing the straw to save more seed.

7. If a good job of threshing has been done, the seed may be in suitable condition for sale to the processor or dealer, since he will have the complicated machinery usually needed to put it in condition for sowing. Ordinarily, however, unless it is to be recleaned and paid for as released seed, it should be scalped with a fanning mill so that it can be sampled and dechaffage determined more accurately at time of sale.

Rural Teachers of County Hold Conference Program
The rural teachers of the Washington county schools are meeting in an in-service conference program. The teachers make up six working groups which have convenient centers for the various meetings.
The teachers have a program that tends to promote better teaching techniques, and also to discuss problems and professional reading. The hostess teacher gives a teaching demonstration which is followed by discussion of the various problems pertinent to successful teaching. Along with the problems individual teachers bring, the handbook, which is the teacher's guide, is carefully explained, so the best possible use can be made of such a teaching aid. Teachers bring study guides and various teaching aids which they use as exchange material.
On February 26 a group of teachers met at the Elm Grove school, Mrs. Fellenz, teacher. Mrs. Fellenz gave an excellent demonstration on "How to Teach a Picture."
On February 27 a group met at the Polk Dairy school, Miss Alice Hembel, teacher. Miss Hembel very skillfully presented a socialized class on weekly readers.
A cup of coffee and a doughnut helps to finish off the afternoon conference. Further meetings are in the making.

County Girl, Polio Patient at Kenny Institute Since November, Attends Classes

Although a polio patient at Elizabeth Kenny Institute at Minneapolis, Minn. since November 23, 1951, Carol Kuchanberg, age 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Kuchanberg, Rockfield, Wis., is keeping abreast in her school work with her second-grade classmates back home.
Children who are able to do so attend class for an hour each day, Monday through Friday. Carol is the only pupil currently receiving second-grade instruction in the school.
An accredited Minneapolis public school teacher, with an M. A. degree, conducts regular classes six hours a day, five days a week, the year around in the classroom at Elizabeth Kenny Institute.
The institute's teacher, upon request, follows a course of study outlined by the patient's instructor back home. Grade cards are issued periodically to the parents. At times of medical discharge from Kenny institute, each student report to take to his or her home school authorities.
Without exception, school authorities back home have given discharged patients full credit for their classwork at Kenny institute.
Many a youngster at Kenny Institute has taken a new lease on life upon learning that he or she can attend school while receiving the Kenny treatment for polio and thus will not fall behind his or her classmates. Moreover, quality of school work at the institute is unusually high. Small size of the class at a given hour almost permits the Kenny teacher to tutor each student individually. Twenty pupils is capacity number permitted under one teacher in a hospital school by Minnesota state law.

During the summer, the Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, which operates Kenny institute, absorbs the entire expenses of the school, including payment of the teacher's salary. While Minneapolis public school classes are in session, the Kenny teacher is a board of education employee. The city receives part of the money for her salary from the state of Minnesota under its aid-to-handicapped-children program.
School and recreational opportunities supplement the Kenny treatment for polio, helping speed boys and girls like Carol among victims of the dread disease back to normal living.

COUNTY FARMERS MUST SIGN ACP WORKSHEETS BY MAR 15

A. John Cleary, chairman of the Washington County FMA committee announces that in order to participate in the 1952 Agricultural Conservation program, farmers are to sign a 1952 farm worksheet on or before March 15, 1952. The only exception to this requirement is for those landlords or tenants acquiring an interest in a farm after February 15, 1952. Mr. Cleary points out that in this case a farmer may sign up later, provided he does so within 30 days after acquiring his interest in the farm.
Anyone who intends to participate in the 1952 Agricultural Conservation program and who has not signed a worksheet indicating his intention to participate should, without delay, contact the county FMA office at 212 No. Main St., West Bend.

O'MEARA REVIEWS PROGRESS OF SCHOOL DISTRICT TO KIWANIS
At the weekly West Bend Kiwanis meeting on February 26, the guest speaker was Attorney Thomas O'Meara, chairman of the Washington County School committee. Mr. O'Meara reviewed the progress of school district re-organization since 1947, when the first county school committee was created by legislation. He explained that the committee filed the type of master plan which the people would accept, one which also greatly improved the educational services of the county. He further stated that the committee has no authority to close or open schools, but that it has authority to alter the district areas. The people of the newly created district then decide what policy is to be followed.

Workers Transform 'Poor Man's Mountain' Into Promising Source of Annual Income

They're rich in scenic loveliness, those Blue Ridge mountain areas in Patrick county, Virginia. But the local people looked on their beauty with disdainful eyes and scornfully labeled them, "Poor Man's Mountain" and "No Business Mountain," because, as they phrased it, people had no business trying to make a living on such rugged hillsides. So they gave their time and labor to tobacco growing, cattle raising and orchard cultivation. The honey-sweet blueberries and big luscious blackberries that grew wild on the mountain sides, they left for the birds to gather, until in the 1940's.

An enterprising investor aware of the whole world's critical need for food, provided the facilities that enabled Patrick county to harvest its abundant wild berry crop. He opened a cannery at Stuart, the county seat; set up receiving stations every few miles in farm homes and country stores. He visited mountain homes, and became known as the "Blackberry Man."

With the backing of the county agent and the home demonstration agent, he persuaded the people to gather the berries and take them to the receiving stations to be weighed, picked up by trucks and hauled to the cannery. Berries picked in the morning were collected in the afternoon; and by seven o'clock that evening they were at the cannery. By the next morning they had been processed and canned, ready to be shipped. This prompt processing plus the natural goodness of the fruit won for Patrick County the highest rating of any canned berries purchased for the armed forces and inspected by the government that year.

The berry-picking season comes in Patrick county during a lull in tobacco-growing activities, so the men are free to help gather the crop. Most of the pickers, however, are women and children. Among them you'll find little girls pushing wheelbarrows of berries along the Blue Ridge Parkway; small boys hang their berry-filled buckets close together on a long pole. Two boys, one at each end carry it to the receiving station, where each youngster is paid cash for the berries he individually picked.

One six-year-old girl filled her five-pound lard bucket often enough to make $7.50 before the berry-picking season ended. One four-member family earned $84 a week; they came three times a week to the receiving station and averaged $28 a trip. Three members of another family earned $12 a day and they confess that not one of the three over-exerted himself.

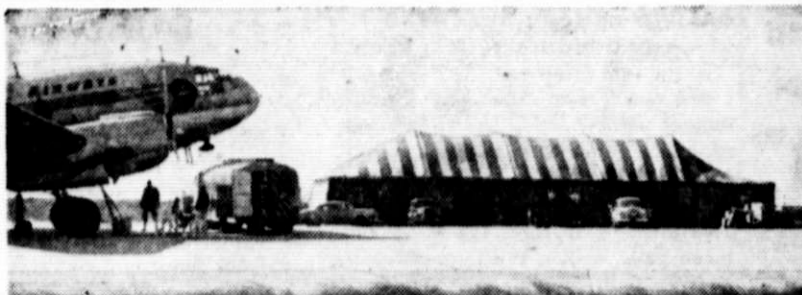

In the beginning, Patrick county had citizens who set their heads against undertaking the new enterprise. It had calamity howlers who were certain that they would not have enough berries to keep the cannery going. Other wise guys declared that the people would not pick the berries. Still others doubted that the wild berries would sell even if they harvested and processed them. None of these predictions came true by a long mountain mile.

That first year the pickers were late starting; trucks for hauling the berries were not plentiful; local estimates of the crop gathered vary from 2 per cent to 40 per cent, with the conservatives holding out for 10 per cent.

Disregarding the percentage of the crop harvested, this much is certain—41,000 gallons of blackberries and 32,000 pounds of blueberries were picked in Patrick county that season. And that was a real accomplishment when we consider that up to then, no one had picked any berries, except once in awhile a lone individual, hard pressed for money, had gathered a gallon or two which he peddled in Martinsville. Or at rare intervals, a truck might haul a load of blueberries to Georgia to be canned.

Now, with $31,000 cash-money representing the proceeds from one season harvest, the mountain berries became things of value, economically significant. Many who had not considered wild berries worth canning for home consumption, now gave family needs a priority. The home demonstration agent states that the year following the big sale she found home shelves filled with canned berries. One woman, we are told, refused to sell a single berry until she canned 119 quarts for her family.

a little safety is good for life

It is an undoubted truth that the less one has to do the less time one finds to do it in. One yawns, one procrastinates, one can do it when one will, and, therefore, one seldom does it at all; whereas those who have a great deal of business must (to use a vulgar expression) buckle to it; and then they always find time enough to do it in.

American Plan for European Army Endangered by Allied Bickering

EUROPEAN ARMY - The American plan for a united European army to check Communist aggression in Europe, to which America has given millions of dollars, equipment, and its greatest military brains, is on the verge of being smashed.

The big question is how and under what conditions West German troops are to be included in the European army. The United States has proposed that West German manpower be brought into an "integrated" force under General Eisenhower.

The German view: She will agree to participate in the "integrated" force only if taken in as a full partner in the Atlantic alliance. In addition she wants several other concessions, including maximum sovereignty under the "peace contract" yet to be signed.

The French view: France would agree to inclusion of German units, but stipulates that they can not be recruited until after the five other participating nations have ratified the treaty. These nations are France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, and Italy.

The three big powers - the United States, Britain, and France - have already told the Germans they can not be included in the Atlantic alliance for the time being. There was a hint that if Germany signed the European army pact, however, and showed the Allies she could behave, then it would be a much easier job of selling western Europeans on the idea of bringing Germany into the alliance.

RECORD DIVIDENDS - The Department of Commerce reports corporations in the United States paid a record $8,053,000,000 in cash dividends during 1951, a 2 per cent gain over 1950.

ATOMIC TESTS - A new series of atomic tests will be held at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific, it was announced by the Atomic Energy Commission. It was also revealed that further tests are planned for the near future in the Nevada desert near Las Vegas.

POLITICS - As the political pot begins to boil in earnest, the biggest question in the minds of most home towners remains: will President Truman seek the Democratic nomination? There seems to be a little question but that the President can have it by simply saying so.

THE DRAFT - The armed forces will draft 19,000 men this month - 15,000 for the Army and 4,000 for the Marine Corps. The April call brings to 894,000 the total of announced draftees since the draft was resumed in September, 1950.

KOREA - The United Nations have agreed to the Communist proposal for a conference after an armistice is signed in Korea to discuss political issues concerning Korea. An armistice in Korea, however, is still a long way from an accomplished fact.

When these questions are settled, the home towners of the nation can then begin to hope for an armistice.

Multiflora Rose Is Popular in Midwest

Natural Fence Protects Crops and Game Birds
In recent years the multiflora rose as a permanent, living fence has gained popularity in many areas of the west.

The fast growing multiflora rose was first championed by sportsmen who had watched natural cover for birds and small animals decreasing steadily through the years.

Farmers report multiflora rose acts as an ideal windbreak and reduces wind erosion and protects young crops. It does not grow tall enough to shade crops and does not sap strength from nearby crops as farmers first feared when it was introduced.

Although most often planted in straight rows in the Midwest, there is no reason it can not be planted on contour to fit the individual farm conservation plan.

Last Five Years Are Called "Golden Era"
Economists have labeled the past five years of prosperity enjoyed by the farmers of this country as "the Golden Age of American agriculture."

This era has been characterized by rising prices, larger production per unit of labor, a phenomenal increase in crop yields, mechanization of farm operations, application of proved practices based on research, expansion of commercialization and specialization, and last but not least, the remarkable improvement in the farmer's physical plant and standard of living.

Economists maintain that never before has there been such a vast application of power to agriculture nor such a rapid advance in knowledge and its acceptance.

As for the future, increased application of new methods and more machinery will prolong the "golden age."

Canned Spray Paint
A national manufacturer has come out with cans of spray paint just for touch-up jobs around the farm that should make a big hit in all sections of the country.

Increase in Real Estate Prices Foreseen for '52
Many economists expect at least a 5 per cent increase in farm real estate prices in 1952 due largely to the fact people are thinking of land as a safe place for investment.

Winter Wheat Acreage Estimated at $6 Million
Acreage seeded to winter wheat for all purposes in the fall of 1951 is estimated at 56,257,000 acres, nearly 1 per cent more than the 55,862,000 acres seeded a year earlier.

Water Resources Legislation Proposed
The final purpose of the legislation would be the conservation of all watershed lands; control of floods; and use of flood waters; improvement of navigation; land reclamation through irrigation and drainage; development of electric power; preservation of fish and wild life resources and development of recreational opportunities.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Try Bowls of Creamy Soup for a Hearty Meal (See Recipes Below)

Let the Soup Simmer
COME, LET'S PUT on the soup kettle, and let it simmer merrily while other household duties are put on their way to completion.

Vegetables and meat make this soup rich, colorful and delicious: Tomato-Vegetable Soup (Serves 6)

1 Small shank bone
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup potatoes, cubed
1/2 cup carrots, chopped fine
1/2 cup green beans, sliced
2 tablespoons bean sprouts
1 cup tomato juice
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Chopped parsley
1/2 cup celery, cut fine

Soak bone in cold water. Simmer for about 1 1/2 hours, until broth is made. Strain and season. Add vegetables and cook for 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

A rich soup which might well serve as a meal is this one with lobster, very simply prepared: Rock Lobster Bisque (Serves 6)

2 flat cans of lobster
2 cans mushroom soup
1 can water
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
6 tablespoons real mayonnaise

Cut lobster chunks. Combine with all remaining ingredients except mayonnaise. Heat thoroughly. Stir a small amount of soup into the mayonnaise, then blend with remaining soup. Heat 5 minutes without boiling. Serve hot garnished with parsley.

Red Bean Soup (Serves 6)
2 slices lemon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 slices stale bread, diced and fried
3 slices bacon, diced
1 onion, sliced
1 stalk celery, diced
2 bay leaves
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon paprika
2 cups hot water
1 No. 2 can red kidney beans

LYNN SAYS: Let Variety Highlight Serving of Soups
Certain garnishes can be used for all kinds of soups. These include minced chives, minced parsley or popper.

Garnishes for soups are planned to point up flavor as well as appearance. Chopped bacon bits or thinly sliced frankfurters go well, for example with split pea and bean soups.

Bouillon cubes or meat sauce can be added to clear soups as well as cream soups for extra flavor.

Make meat and vegetable soups richer by floating small pieces of toast on top of the soup, then sprinkling with grated cheese and placing in a hot oven to melt the cheese.

If cream soups are too thick for your taste, and not as flavorful as you like, use part chicken broth or consommé with the milk for the liquid, and make thin white sauce base in preference to the thick or medium sauce.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

*Corn Chowder
Jellied Tomato Aspice
Crackers Olives Celery Sticks
Baked Apples
Caramel-Frosted Spice Cake Beverage
*Recipe Given

*Corn Chowder (Serves 6)
2 strips bacon, diced
1/2 cup diced onion
1 cup diced celery
1 cup finely diced potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
1 quart milk, scalded
1 No. 2 can cream style corn
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons tabasco sauce
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Cook bacon until crisp, then add onion, celery and potato with a very small amount of water, about 1/2 cup. Cover and cook until tender. Add butter, milk, corn and seasonings. Serve with chopped parsley.

Oxtail Soup (Serves 6)
1 1/2 pounds oxtail, cut in 2" pieces
1 1/2 quarts water
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 cup diced onion
1/2 cup diced raw carrot
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons white rice
1 cup cooked or canned tomatoes

Brown oxtail pieces with a small amount of fat in a deep kettle. Add water and salt and simmer covered about 3 1/2 hours. Remove meat from bones and return to kettle with broth. Add all vegetables, except tomatoes, along with rice and cover; simmer for 30 minutes. Add tomatoes, heat thoroughly and serve.

Clam Bisque (Serves 8)
2 7/2-ounce can minced clams
1 cup water
1 to 2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon grated onion
2 teaspoons minced parsley
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 tablespoon flour

Mix together the liquor drained from the clams with salt, pepper, celery salt, onion and parsley; simmer for 3 minutes. Add milk. Gently stir into milk mixture a paste made of the butter and flour. Boil one minute stirring constantly, then place over boiling water until ready to serve. Stir in the minced clams just long enough to heat through. Serve, garnished with minced parsley.

Thinly sliced lemon does wonders for chicken-riced soup, chicken-noodle soup, clam chowder or consommé. Vary the serving of cream soup by adding some croutons at one time, and then at another time some sliced almonds.

Are you having some extra guests for luncheon or dinner, and no two cans of soup alike? This can prove interesting because tomato soup, for instance, can be combined with the following: bean soup, clam chowder, chicken and rice, chicken noodle, or green pea.

Barley, noodles and rice may be added to many of the clear vegetable and meat soups if you like to enrich them.

Shredded vegetables such as green beans, carrots and green pepper will add a great deal of color to the all-white soups like chicken and seafood chowders and cream style soups.

Good way to use leftover vegetables is to pop them into soup served for luncheon or supper the following day. They'll extend the soup, too, in case you have an extra person for the meal.

Waldorf Salad
To make a Waldorf salad, squeeze the juice of a lemon over about two cups diced apples, add a cup of finely cut celery and a half cup of broken walnut meats. Mix with enough mayonnaise to moisten and sprinkle with paprika before serving on salad greens.

Weekly honor scores—R. Miller 582, P. Lauffmann 565, C. Wieter 564, C. Wieter 215, C. Wieter 210, A. Bilgo 219.

Highlights of the week—The two top teams in the league met each other this week and after the smoke had settled there was a new leader. The Regal Ware No. 1 team had a 2-game lead over the Bank of Kewaskum at the start of last Friday night's session but after the crucial match was over the bank team took over the top rung. As the above scores indicate the top 3 series of the week were all bowled by members of the bank team. With Miller, Landmann and Wieter leading the way, they smacked down the lumber for a neat 2674 series, which is good bowling in any league. These two teams have been battling each other for league honors all season and the trophy will probably not be decided until the final night. A battle royal right down to the wire.

Basketball Tournament

losers with 11 tallies. Arnie Meier was top man for the evening with 20 and Randy Johnson had 17 for the Orioles.

In the consolation game Friday night Oakfield upset Campbellsport, 42-42.

The tourney was held at two centers, with four teams competing at North Fond du Lac and four at Winneconne. At Winneconne in the first round Brandon beat Rosendale, 65-44, and Hortonville bested Winneconne, 62-32. In the semi-finals there Hortonville defeated Brandon, 57-41, in the championship flight and Winneconne tipped Rosendale in consolation, 63-52. So North Fondy and Hortonville advanced to the finals played at Winneconne. Hortonville emerged the champion in a real close game which went into two overtime periods before Hortonville copped the title, 39-35. That team succeeds Campbellsport as district titlist and this week Hortonville met Juneau for the right to advance to sectional play next week. Surprising Oakfield went on to defeat Winneconne in the consolation finals, 64-60.

Judge Backus Dies

1877. His father, August F. Backus, a Prussian immigrant, was a Civil War volunteer and was wounded in action while serving under Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. Both of Judge Backus' parents, Kneg Lincoln and his mother a few years ago told of going on a sleighride with the Grants.

Young Backus began to earn his own living at the age of 12, his first job being a messenger boy for the Western Union at $12 a month. He also went to night school while holding other jobs and worked his way through Spencerian Business college and the University of Wisconsin.

He played on the football team at the university, volunteered in the Spanish-American War, served until the end and then was graduated from the University Law school in 1900.

The elder Robert M. La Follette, then governor, appointed him attorney for the State Department of Labor. Young Backus won fame for his vigorous prosecution of child labor law violators. In one term he is credited with getting 4,600 Wisconsin children under 12 out of factories and into schools. He served as assistant district attorney under Francis E. McGovern, later elected governor. Gov. James Davidson appointed him municipal judge in 1910.

One celebrated trial he presided over was that of John Flammang Schrank, who shot ex-President Theodore Roosevelt as he was leaving the old Gilpatrick Hotel for a campaign speech at the Milwaukee auditorium. Schrank was found insane and committed to the Central Hospital for the Insane at Waupun, where he died in 1943.

In World War I he was active in nearly a dozen different war organizations, among them U. S. Food Administrator Herbert Hoover's committee for feeding of children in stricken countries of Europe. He took part in drives that raised millions for such institutions as the Children's hospital, Marquette university and its Medical school, various hospitals and other civic projects.

President Warren G. Harding offered him the chairmanship of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, and President Hoover offered him judicial appointments. They were all declined.

In World War II Judge Backus was active again, serving as chairman of the Selective Service Board of Appeals in Milwaukee and taking part in a 5 million dollar drive for the relief of wounded survivors of Pearl Harbor and relatives of the victims.

His wife, Elizabeth Hausmann Backus, whom he married in 1902, died in 1946. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Caroline Backus, 96, Marshfield, Wis.; two sons, August C. Backus Jr. and Walter Alexander Backus, with whom he had been associated in the practice of law since 1930; two daughters, Dr. Charlotte Jordan, Straubersburg, Pa., and Mrs. Alva Newcomb, Wilmette, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. Louis Harth, Marshfield, and 13 grandchildren.
