Children's Pictures to Be Taken Free Monday

Next Monday, June 9, is the big day for the picture taking of your youngsters! The Statesman is having pictures taken of all children who are brought by their parents or other guardian to the Woodman hall between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. absolutely free of charge. The Woltz Studios of Des Moines, Iowa, nationally known children's photographers who have taken these pictures for us in previous years will again be in charge of the photography. The Statesman wants a picture of your child to print in its forthcoming feature "Citizens of Tomorrow," a series of photographic studies of local children. The more we get the better the feature will be, so the cooperation of the mothers and fathers is urged.

It often seems to parents that children are little one minute and are grown up the next, so fast does a child's growing stage pass. Here is a splendid opportunity to catch a likeness of your child or children at this present stage for the pleasure you will get out of it in future years and for the pleasure you will enjoy in seeing it in print. You will want to clip it from this, your home town newspaper, and preserve it for the youngster when he or she grows up.

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for taking the pictures. Parents don't even have to be a subscriber to the Statesman, nor even a reader. You do not have to purchase pictures either, though you may obtain additional prints by representing direct with the studio representative if you want them. That is entirely up to you!

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—The decline in business activity levelled off in March, and that brought bright hopes that a reversal of the trend was in the making. However, a survey of businessmen by the National Association of Purchasing Agents indicates the downward dip was resumed in April and that the expected improvement is farther away than ever.

The Association notes that orders were down, production dips were twice as numerous as gains, and price decreases heavily outweighed increases. Substantial reductions in inventory and purchased materials were also reported.

Even so, panic and depression talk are by no means in order at this time, as Leo Cherne, executive secretary of the Research Institute, points out. Businessmen, Cherne said, appear to be preoccupied with the prospects of disaster when "the only thing they are experiencing is a period of modest business difficulties."

Defense spending will reach $65 billion annually at the end of this year. This plus the fact that Americans have a tremendous spending power reserve in liquid assets, would seem to rule out any sharp recession in the near future unless the steel strike situation has drastic repercussions.

SECOND MILLION—This country buried its millionth traffic victim last year.

The ghastly toll has sent industry, government and private organizations on a concerted drive to curb highway mayhem. Out of it have come a number of driving-safety developments. One of the most recent is a new tubeless tire developed by engineers to reduce skidding, seal punctures and protect against blowouts, three major causes of highway accidents.

The tire has a completely new idea in tread design—in which there are more than 10,000 tiny rubber blocks, each one only 625 ten thousandths of an inch wide (16 to the inch) and a quarter of an inch deep. These blocks enable the tire to grip slippery surfaces and stop up to 39 per cent quicker on ice than conventional tires.

Engineers who worked more than three years developing this new tire found it also starts up to 114 per cent quicker on ice, 40 percent faster on wet pavements and 25 per cent better on snow.

This "Life-Saver" is one of those cases where extra safety is less expensive too, "in the long run"—for it gives 15 per cent better mileage than ordinary tires.

THINGS TO COME—Even dental hygiene has gone mechanized now with an electric toothbrush which features interchangeable brushes so that one unit serves the whole family. . . A service table which doubles as a home bar is equipped with wheels for easy moving and can be folded flat for storage when the party is over. . . Another special device for the home-freezer age presses hamburgers and other meat patties into uniform size for storage. One hundred wax-paper squares for wrapping come with the press. . . Simplicity is the feature of a one-piece water softener for small stores, offices and homes. The machine is electrically operated and employs synthetic resins to increase softening efficiency. The unit contains a bypass so that water is available during regeneration.

SMALL FRY BONDS—Lower denomination ($25 and $50) U. S. Savings Bonds are becoming more popular with the public, according to a survey by the Institute of Life Insurance. New purchases about equal the rate of cashing them in—a novel situation in recent years.

During the last two years of World War II purchases of the smaller bonds were about $5,750,000, but sank to a low of $1 million in 1948. Just a few years ago redemptions were twice as high as in the larger ($500 and $1,000) bonds, the redemption rate recently has been quite high.

The government, conscious that the purchases-redemption situation is still far from satisfactory, came up with a new policy last week to entice the buying and keeping of bonds. The rates of interest have been increased and it accrues more rapidly during the first part of the bond's term. In addition, interest on higher-priced bonds will be paid by check semi-annually instead of accruing.

Minnesota To Plant 8,000,000 Trees

Arrangements are now being completed for the planting of more than 8,000,000 trees on Minnesota farms, along highways, schoolyards, state parks, game refuges and other public lands this spring, according to Ray Clement, forester in charge of nurseries and planting Division of Forestry.

"This is the largest reforestation program since the days of the Civilian Conservation Corps in the 1930's," Clement said, "and about double the 4,500,000 planted last year."

Clement said that all trees available this spring have been allotted to fill requests which have been received since last fall.

About 2,400,000 trees will be planted on private lands for windbreaks, woodlots, game food and cover, prevention of erosion and use of waste land. Farm owners, sportsman organizations, and land owners wishing to start future forests will do the planting which is about 200,000 more than last year.

Private land plantings will be made in 74 of the 87 counties in the state, in amounts from 500 trees to several hundred thousand. The requests have been received through PMA committees, county agricultural agents, farm organizations, and forest service field offices.

About 5,600,000 trees will be planted on public lands, such as county, state, school, city, institutional and highway. Not only will state planting equipment and men be used but organizations such as scouts, sportsmen, Legion and civic groups, will cooperate in the planting along highways, on game refuges and state forests.

Nearly 7,000,000 are conifers such as pines, spruce, cedar, tamarack and balsam. More than 1,000,000 are deciduous trees, such as elm, maple, ash, cottonwood and others. Nearly 70 per cent of the total are three kinds of pines, Norway, white and jack. The pines and spruces are the most popular of the conifers, while American elm, maples and caragana are the popular deciduous trees. The trees are from one to four years old.

The trees are grown in two Division of Forestry nurseries at Badoura and Willow River. As soon as possible after the frost had left the ground digging was started, the trees were packed and shipped, and planting begun. Efforts were made to ship orders to schools and organizations where planting was done during conservation week which was April 27 through May 3, and Arbor Day on Friday, May 2.

FIRST AID for Everybody

V--Treatment of Burns

(This is another of a series of articles written especially for Central Press Association and this newspaper on first aid a subject gripping the nation in the light of threatened atomic aggression. The articles are based on the American Red Cross First Aid course. First aid principles, applicable to atomic as well as other disasters, are outlined. The Red Cross offers a 22-hour course free which teaches fully the technique of first aid.)

By Central Press

BURNS AND SCALDS kill more children than any other type of accident and most of the deaths could be prevented. Prevention methods are too numerous to list here, but all have to do with ordinary precautions that should be exercised in and out of the home.

Burns, of course, take on a new implication when you think of war and bombed-out cities but in peacetime most fatalities from burns could have been avoided. They are due largely to careless habits. Like smoking in bed or pouring kerosene into a stove.

The amount of body surface burned, as well as the degree of the burn, plays a part in its severity. The first-degree burn, with the reddened skin, perhaps from the wind or a day at the beach, becomes a second-degree burn the next day if you find you are blistered.

The third-degree burn, the most serious of all, is when the flesh is cooked and charred and the skin destroyed. Shock is usually severe if the burn is at all extensive. Therefore, the first aider's duties are to relieve pain, prevent infection and treat shock.

FOR BURNS of limited extent, apply petrolatum or ointment. Place it over a layer or two of fine mesh gauze and bandage on. If the burn is extensive, keep patient lying down, and avoid exposure or cold. Don't attempt to treat the victim locally on the street or in a public building. Leave clothes on, wrap him in blankets and get transportation to the hospital. A dressing will allay pain and help combat shock. If stockpiling plans are carried warm baking soda or Epsom salts solution. Keep the patient covered and warm until the doctor arrives.

First aid procedures for burns suffered in an atomic disaster must fit into later medical care dictated by physicians. All burns, therefore, should be regarded as open wounds with shock and infection as hazards. The burn wound needs protection with the cleanest dressing available.

Application of dry dressings must be done in many cases by first aiders if a bomb catastrophe strikes. It is unrealistic to expect first aiders to apply ointment when there are many casualties—therefore, the dry dressing.

But the first aider must decide whether to apply a dressing before the victim can be transported. Even the severely burned can be transported a short distance without a dressing. If the victim must lie on a burned body part, it would be wise to apply a dressing before transportation. A dressing will allay pain and help combat shock. If stockpiling plans are carried out, there will be special burn pads in target areas.

Never use boric acid for burns, and tannic acid should not be used on face, hands or genitals. Don't apply absorbent cotton directly and don't remove wax or metal substances that have stuck to the skin. Chemical burns, including those of the eyes, should be washed thoroughly after which compresses may be used. Then put several drops of olive oil, mineral oil or castor oil into the eye.

In the case of sunstroke or heat stroke, get the victim in the shade. Place him on his back, head and shoulders somewhat elevated. Apply cold cloths to the head, cool cloths to the body and rub limbs toward the heart.

In neat exhaustion, give the patient a half teaspoonful of salt in a one-third glass of water. Repeat until a tablespoonful has been used. Coffee or tea may be administered. Keep him lying down and covered.

and 500,000 injured victims in the last five years constitute the terrible toll of those who violate the "no passing" rule. Even one life lost, or one body crippled is too high a price to pay for such grossly bad judgment.

"This is one type of driver that should be dealt with severely, both by the law and by his own family—for everybody's sake. Traffic life lines mean 'stay on your own side.' These are two ways, I believe, that will help to reduce the large number of fatalities and injuries that result every year from driving on the wrong side of the road."

Wrong Side Drivers Take Many Lives

Drivers who travel on the wrong side of the road once too often cause more than 5,000 deaths and over 100,000 injuries every year, and frequently lose their own lives or are seriously hurt themselves in accidents which occur because they ignore the painted "life lines of the highways," the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies said today.

Listing driving on the wrong side of the road as one of the leading causes of highway deaths and injuries, probably ranking third after speeding and drinking-and-driving, the Association's accident prevention department said this dangerous practice is on the increase and urged drivers to make it a rule never to cross solid traffic lines.

About one of every six traffic deaths and more than one of every seven injuries suffered in highway accidents last year were caused by drivers who ventured onto the wrong side of the road, according to Thomas N. Boate, the Association's director of public safety and acting manager of its accident prevention department.

Three years ago, he pointed out, deaths from this cause totaled about 3,400, or 1,600 fewer than an estimated toll of more than 5,000 fatalities last year. Injuries resulting from drivers going on the wrong side of painted "life lines" jumped about 15,000 annually in the same three-year period, with nearly 94,000 persons injured in 1949 compared with approximately 110,000 last year. This year the toll may be even greater, he said, unless drivers generally learn to curb their impatience and remain on the safe side of solid lines on the highways.

As a step towards reducing the increasing toll, he advised family groups to insist firmly that solid traffic lines be held inviolate at all times. Any driver in a family who ignores safety lines and attempts to travel on the wrong side of the road should be rebuked by others in the car for endangering their lives, Mr. Boate suggested, before a fatal mistake is made that can bring tragedy to one or more members of the family. State and local police also were urged to step up enforcement against drivers who illegally cross solid lines.

"Inability to judge distances at high speed is a common failing of drivers, particularly at night," said Mr. Boate. "Unfortunately road lines are not identical in all states, but there is never any doubt when the line or lines mean: 'Danger! Don't cross this line!' They should always be respected."

"The penalty of misjudging distance and being caught on the wrong side of the road at the wrong time is often worse than getting a traffic ticket for violating the law. Nearly 20,000 deaths

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

With some people musky fishing is a sport, but for all too many it becomes a disease—an obsession they try hard to cure, but can't. It's totally unlike any other fishing in the country, so the man thinking of taking it up should at least know what he's getting into.

Muskies are the rare, prize big-game fish of the continent. Nowhere are they common because no water could support many of the voracious brutes. Even where they are "plentiful" they have devilish tricks all their own which seem especially designed to drive fishermen to cutting out paper dolls. All too often this is what takes place:

One day you feel a terrific strike. Your rod bends and thrashes, your reel screams, and your left thumb burns on the spool as line is torn away. You might as well try to stop a Diesel train with a fishing line. Suddenly it goes limp. Lost him. What did you do wrong?

Bible Comment:

Judah's Unsteady Course Indicates Lack of Morality

JUDAH became the Southern Kingdom of Israel after the division of the country into the southern and northern kingdoms by Jeroboam's successful revolt against Rehoboam, son and successor of Solomon.

The strength of David and the glory of Solomon soon waned when a people who ought to have been united with a common heritage in history and religion became strife-torn and divided. In this history there is a warning for modern nations.

The freedom that our democratic lands accord in speech and action is being used by some to promote discord and draw lines of hate and prejudice, sometimes in the sacred name of Christ and Christianity.

Along that way so surely lies ruin that all who love God must set themselves to do everything possible to promote the national strength that can come only to a people united in justice and righteousness.

The Northern Kingdom, as we have seen, was the first to fall. It was swept away eight centuries before Christ when the armies of Assyria came down upon it. Its people became known to history as the "Lost Ten Tribes." The Southern Kingdom survived for another 136 years, but it also went down before the armies of Babylon.

There was an interlude during this 136 years when a good king, Hezekiah, and the noble prophet, Isaiah, were dominant in Judah. But at best, Judah's course was unsteady. Periods of better living, wise kingly guidance, and welfare were intermixed with periods of bad leadership and idolatry.

Hezekiah himself, though a good king, was by no means perfect. He did a foolish thing when he vainly displayed to envoys from the king of Babylon his wealth and the treasures of the palace. The prospect of loot, in ancient as in modern times, was a fruitful cause of war and invasion.

Nothing—not a blamed thing. Here's what happened: He never touched your hook. He merely had a chisel-like nip on the tail end of your bucktail or pork rind while making those runs. That's muskies.

Jason Lucas, who knows as much about muskies as he does about bass, insists that they do go over 100 pounds. He says: "Further, I feel sure that such a monster is occasionally hooked. But it should hardly be necessary to point out how slim would be the average angler's chance of landing such a powerful creature."

For the guy with limited time, and perhaps more limited patience, the best way to fish for muskies is—not to fish for them. By all means, make it a point to go where they are. But in the same water you will always find bass or pike or walleye, perhaps all three. Fish for these with suitable lures, but use about the heaviest tackle that you can conveniently cast. Then, if a musky hangs on you're ready. If not, you're having sport with the smaller game fish.

Another suggestion: Why not combine a hunting trip with a little musky fishing? Note that the present record musky was caught on October 20. Midsummer fishing for muskies is dull. The very late fall in quite cold weather is by far the best time.

QUESTION: What size footing do I need for a one-story frame house on a concrete block foundation? What is a good coating to waterproof this foundation?

—J. R. F., Fall River, Mass.

ANSWER: Extend the footing one-half the thickness of the foundation on each side, and make the depth one-half the width of the footing, for one-story houses. A coating of waterproof cement, pitch, tar, or roofing asphalt will seal a properly constructed concrete block foundation.

QUESTION: In trying to build some flower stands, I had to cut part of the lumber at various angles, such as 5, 12, 30 degrees. Is there any tool that will help determine these angles?

—R. M. H., Haddonfield, N. J.

ANSWER: Cheapest tool is a protractor, a half-circle measuring tool with angles from 0 to 180 degrees marked along its curved surface. Adjustable miter saws are sometimes equipped with a measuring gauge up to 90 degrees, which is measurable on the base.

QUESTION: When the flame of my floor furnace shuts off, a sound like a slow-motion riveting machine develops. Can you suggest a solution to such a problem?

—C. M. W., Chula Vista, Calif.

ANSWER: This noise probably comes from some loose joints in the jacket. One way to silence the furnace is to put asbestos washers in all bolt connections, if merely tightening them does not do the trick.

QUESTION: If I fill the space between ceiling joists with mineral fill insulation, do I need a vapor barrier? Could I use sawdust in place of the mineral fill for the purpose?

—E. J. G., Bend, Oregon

ANSWER: You need no vapor barrier where loose insulation is applied. Sawdust is a good insulator but inflammable. In a hot attic, damp sawdust could catch fire spontaneously unless treated with fireproofing chemicals.

West Indies Sundaes Real Treat for Summer Parties

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

A BIG scoop of vanilla, coffee or mint ice cream with a tablespoon of molasses over it, and a bright red cherry on top—well, that's a West Indies Sundae. Isn't that the perfect treat for your next warm-weather porch party?

We like to serve old-fashioned soft molasses cookies with it. My grandmother used to make them—they are really wonderful.

Molasses Cookies

(Yield: 6 to 7 dozen 3½-inch cookies)
Seven cups sifted enriched flour, 4 teaspoons soda, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup shortening, 1-1/3 cups sugar, 2 cups unsulphured molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 eggs, ½ cup milk.

Sift together first six ingredients. Melt shortening in a saucepan large enough for mixing cookies. Stir in sugar, molasses and vinegar. Cool. Beat in eggs. Add sifted flour mixture alternately with milk. Chill dough about 30 minutes. Drop from tablespoon onto greased cookie sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in pre-heated moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.).

If you like the rich flavor of molasses as much as we do in our home, you'll welcome this recipe, too.

Fruity Fudge Bars

(Yield: 24 bars)
Two-thirds cup sifted enriched flour, 1/8 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons cocoa, 1/3 cup shortening, 3/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup unsulphured molasses, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1/3 cup raisins.

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Sift together first four ingredients. Melt shortening in a saucepan large enough for mixing batter. Stir in sugar, molasses and vanilla. Beat in eggs. Add flour mixture; mix well. Stir in nuts and raisins. Spread batter in a well-greased, lightly floured, 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Bake 35 minutes or until done. Turn out on wire rack to cool. Cut into 24 bars when cold. Top with pecans or almonds if desired.

Urges Prevention Of Fly Hatching On Farms

The record high temperatures during the past week have greatly increased the need for preventing the hatching of flies on farms, says Lester Legrid of the Dairy Division of the Department of Agriculture.

The yearly toll exacted by flies tormenting livestock amounts to many thousands of dollars lost in milk and meat production, Legrid said.

And now is the time for fly eradication—not after they have had ample time to breed.

Farm-wide sanitation is the one sure preventive way to keep the number of flies at a minimum.

Remove or bury all refuse including manure, old straw stacks, leaves and other organic matter, Legrid suggested.

Low spots where water can accumulate should be drained and then filled in. This will keep adult flies from finding the moisture and food necessary for breeding.

After the current spring farm cleaning is completed, Legrid urged farmers to maintain a continuous program of farm sanitation. It will pay off, he said, in fewer flies around the farm.

of Surgeons has led in recognizing abuses in female surgery and in seeking to set firm standards of practice. Surveys recognized throughout the medical profession indicate that one-third of all removals of the womb may be unnecessary. For the tragic fact is that many gynecologists are scalpel-happy.

Here are eight principles vital to being a successful patient:

1. Don't try to diagnose your own case.

2. Learn from your physician just what he is doing about your case.

3. Undergo a basic laboratory examination, including blood count and urinalysis, even though your symptoms seem trivial.

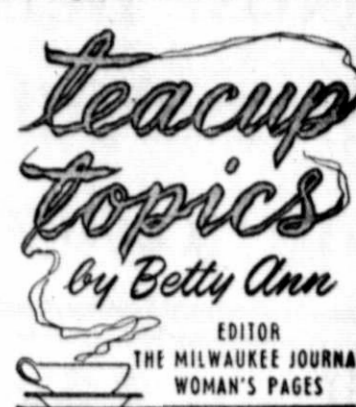

4. Follow your physician's orders.

5. Search yourself thoroughly for the answer to this vital question: Could my emotions, or my nerves, or my thinking, be part of my trouble?

6. Keep a symptom diary.

7. Confide in your physician as though he were your closest friend.

8. If your physician ignores possible mental or emotional factors in your condition, leave him.

The next time you become involved in a conversation, watch your hands. Do they flutter and wave as if in accompaniment to the sound of your voice, or do they rest quietly in your lap?

One of the best ways to keep your hands under control is thru relaxation, says Betty Ann. Actively think about their movements. Develop your voice to a point where you won't have to rely on your hands to punctuate and emphasize what you are saying.

It's a good idea to include hand exercises in your daily beauty routine. There are several good ones that will more than serve the purpose.

Stand in front of your mirror and shake your hands vigorously. Then rub them together. This is no time for the gentle touch. Really rub. Next, massage each finger, using a slight pulling action as you work down toward the tip. Repeat this exercise at least 20 times.

Another effective and simple exercise which you can do while you are sitting down is to pretend you are drawing with your fingers.

Here are two ways to improve a complexion: Scrub your face several times a day with warm soapsuds on a good thick washcloth, and wear a touch of white nearest the face. The face scrubbing act brings a healthy glow to the skin; the white collar, dickey, or scarf softens face tones. It's important to keep the white accessories as clean as your face with nightly sudings.

When eyes are tired, use either hot or cold pads whichever makes you feel more comfortable. Warmth dilates the blood vessels—relieves tension. Cold water, or witch hazel, takes the fire out of strained muscles, soothes and contracts them. For bruised or black eyes, use only cold compresses.

Quick action, not tears, is recommended when an accident happens to your fine carpet. No crying over spilled milk, for instance. Soak up the excess as fast as you can move with a clean dry cloth. Then rinse thoroughly with water so nothing remains to turn rancid. Mop up excess moisture as you proceed. Never use soap on a milk stain.

Try this useful hint for getting stubborn corks out of bottles: Safety pins are inserted on opposite sides of the cork and then used as a handle to withdraw the tight fitting cork.

On cold spring evenings stew for dinner is as welcome as a friendly handshake. This rich tasting Hungarian goulash, a type of stew, is one you'll find particularly enticing. Bouillon and paprika give it interesting flavor.

Ingredients are one pound beef stew meat, one clove garlic, minced, two medium onions, sliced, two teaspoons paprika, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two bouillon cubes, three cups boiling water and two cups diced potatoes.

Cut meat in one inch cubes and brown in some hot fat. Add garlic, onions, seasonings and the bouillon cubes dissolved in two cups boiling water. Cover and simmer two and one-half hours. Add the other cup of water and the potatoes, cut into three-fourths inch cubes. Cook 20 minutes longer, or until potatoes are tender. Yield: Four servings.

When making applesauce, add a tablespoon of salt to the water in which you drop the sliced, pared apples. This way they can remain uncooked without discoloring.

Cut spring rhubarb without peeling, add sugar, place in pan, cook without water over the simmer burner. Simmer until tender. You will find that your rhubarb has a better and fuller flavor.

Here's an easy hot canape: Mix crab meat with mayonnaise, spread on small triangles of toast, and run under the broiler just until bubbly hot. For an extra special touch, sprinkle the crab canapes with grated cheese just before broiling.

When putting those beautifully washed blankets away for the summer drop among them one or two tiny muslin baks containing cloves. Moths will keep away and the aroma is pleasant.

Doctor Explains Emotional Factors In Disease; Eight Rules For Patients

In two out of three cases, heart "attacks" are emotional outbursts. An astonishing number of operations are unnecessary — collaborations between tension-twisted patients and knife-happy surgeons. Women far outnumber men as doctors' patients, and the reason for this are the emotions that surround sex and childbearing. In an outspoken article featured in Redbook Magazine for May, Dr. Leo Smollar, prominent San Diego physician, explains the fears and frustrations which underlie dozens of common diseases and disease symptoms and which many doctors today still stubbornly ignore or misunderstand. Writing with Neil Morgan, he gives eight vital but simple rules for patients, to help them get the most out of their physician:

"More than seventy per cent of my patients—and those of most doctors in general practice—have been women. There are two reasons for the predominance of women patients. One is childbirth and its consequences. The other is sex.

"A man approaches sexual relations reasonably confident of fulfillment. But the sex act, even under ideal conditions, may often leave the woman aroused and unsatisfied or tense and dejected. Sexual frustration is not the only result. Countless nonsexual complaints are related to this widespread failure of women to gain proper release and happiness through intercourse. These find expression in various symptoms like excessive fatigue.

"As my personal interest in child care grew with the growth of my own daughter, I began to study the practices of pediatricians. Many were experienced diagnosticians with firm medical integrity, but several were what I came to call Dr. Lollipops. One, who reputedly had made a fortune from pediatrics, saw more children than any other doctor. His manner was suave and designed to charm young mothers. He offered snap statements and often hinted at possible dire developments in the child's condition. Because of the pretense of mutual respect among doctors, there was no means of exposing him as the profiteering automaton that he was.

"In conversation one evening at dinner, a respected pediatrician friend exposed some of the common 'rackets' among members of his specialty. 'One of their biggest rackets is constantly juggling the baby-milk formula,' he said. 'The conversation shifted to tonsillectomies. Too many kids nowadays have their tonsils cut out as a matter of course,' the pediatrician said. 'It's the greatest myth in American medicine today. There was a survey last year which took a group of a hundred kids' cases under review. It found no justification for tonsillectomies in 73 per cent of the children.'

"Emotion problems also play a major role in various stomach and intestinal disorders. The flow of blood to our faces, which we dismiss as a blush, is accompanied by a blush of the stomach lining. When our faces turn pale, the flow of blood to the stomach lining decreases, too. With moderns, the major fear when stomach pain becomes insistent is that an ulcer or cancer is developing. The fear immediately makes matters worse.

"The heart attack has gained a reputation as the Great Leveler. Yet the most dreaded and deadly

MILLION TONS IN TWO YEARS—Representing the million ton of military equipment shipped to France under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program, a 155-millimeter self-propelled gun is loaded aboard the U. Tree And Shrub Winter Damage Repairs Suggested

Home owners in the city and on the farm can repair winter damage to shrubs and trees by careful pruning, says E. L. Chambers, State Entomologist for the Department of Agriculture.

Perennial plants and small fruits such as raspberries have been especially hard hit during the past winter.

Shrub and tree damage from low temperatures, rabbits and field mice, is common in Wisconsin, Chambers declared.

He cautioned against drastic pruning on evergreens until the buds are definitely open since a moderately pruned tree will recover much faster than one cut too severely.

Where shrubs have been injured in certain definite areas of the plant the injured part should be removed and the plant reshaped.

If the tree or shrub has been completely girdled down to the hard wood by animals there is little chance for recovery, Chambers said. If the girdling is only partial and not deep the wounds should be water proofed with shellac or tree paint.

Pruning back the top of the plant will compensate for any lack of sap from the roots while the plant is recovering.

Plenty of water, some fertilizer and a little extra attention will bring most damaged trees back to good health, Chambers said.

Help!

An old maid was aroused one night to find a man under her bed. She neither fainted or screamed. Instead, she said, "Sit down, sir, I want to talk to you."

An hour later, there came a frantic ring over the telephone at police headquarters. "There's a burglar in Miss Spinister's bedroom. Send the police at once."

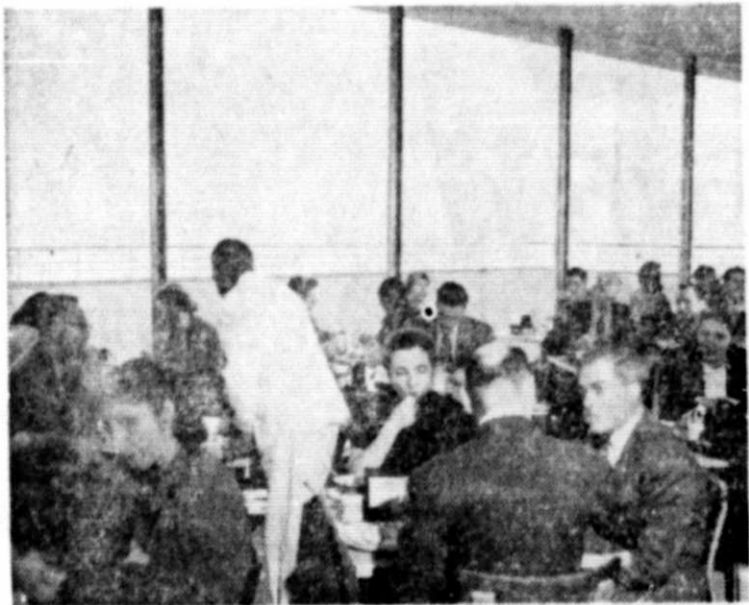

"All right," answered the sergeant. "Is this Miss Spinister speaking?"

"No," came the anguished voice, "this is the burglar."

HELP WANTED

HOUSE WORK—Wanted reliable woman for general housework in Evanston, Ill. Permanent, plain cooking, near all transportation. Own room and bath, all modern appliances, two adults, one six year old school child. Top salary, wonderful home for right person. References required. Write to Mrs. Sanford C. Miller, 646 Forest Ave., Evanston, Ill.

Fashions Ready To Make

When summer's heat becomes unbearable and you look fresh and cool in frothy voile or gossamer lace. Designs for these fabrics, featuring softly draped bodices and billowing skirts are shown among McCall's new ready to sew fashions. Also included are patterns for four-piece sets of separates, one of the pieces being the ingenious new design for removable raglan sleeves. Writing in McCall's for May, Barbara Olson Hodgkins describes these easy-to-make fashions that will make your summer uncomplicated and cool.

Cool to look at and cool to wear is a sleeveless voile dress with a billowing skirt. Shirring on the high-waisted bodice and on the shoulders emphasizes the narrow look of a princess fitted waistline. Floating, light as this-tledown, pretty printed voile for an easily made dress. The skirt is in four gathered pieces, the bodice gathered at the shoulders. Mandarin collar ends in wide ties for a big soft bow.

Lime-green lace is as cool and refreshing as ferns by the brook. It is the material for a lovely dress, with a princess torso line and a straight gathered skirt. The boat-shaped collar is stiffened (we used taffeta) to hold its crisp line.

Separates for summer are practical and dressy: A blouse with a surplice front, an open neckline cut wide and low across the back come with pattern for a wide sash. The circular skirt is six yards around the hem. McCall's made these of crinkled cotton that needs little ironing. A strapless bodice has long scarves pleated at the side seams to tie as a halter, a scarf, a wrap-around. The gathered skirt has an attached petticoat. McCall's did the ruffles and applique in white; the pattern gives yardage for three contrast colors.

Sleeves that now you see, now you don't are the latest addition to the wonderful world of separates. The basic dress is square-necked, easily made. Over it go removable raglan sleeves fastened with a bow in front.

Side-zipped shorts, a button-front skirt and two versions of a blouse designed to team up with them are all pieces in another pattern. Make all four pieces and you'll have four complete outfits. For another many-purpose set of separates there are four different patterns in one package... shorts, skirt, halter and another version of removable raglan sleeves. We combined solid denim and striped seersucker for the pieces in this set.

Lydia Pinkham's is modern in its action!

So get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or new, improved Tablets with added iron. See if it doesn't give relief from those backaches, jitters—help you feel better before and during your period!

Or—if you suffer from functional "hot flashes" or "change of life" find out how wonderful Pinkham's is for that, too!

It has a quieting effect on uterine contractions that often cause "period" pain!

WHEN OUTSIDE PAINT PEELS

There may be several causes of peeling paint, but the usual cause is dampness. The wood may be damp when it is painted. More often, it is caused by dampness from the inside of the house.

Siding boards on the gable ends of attics often peel. In these cases, you usually will find the attic is ventilated poorly.

There is a musty odor. Install louvers at both gable ends. You should have one square foot of louver space for each 300 square feet of attic floor space.

When paint peels from siding boards outside of a plastered wall, the cause often is moisture which penetrates the inside wall and condenses.

When there is no insulation, it may condense on the sheathing, and on the inside of the siding boards.

When the walls are insulated, the moisture often condenses in the insulation and, of course, keeps the sheathing wet.

In new construction, it is best to use a type of insulation which has a vapor seal. It is important the vapor seal be on the warm side of the wall.

In old construction with old type insulation, the vapor seal must be applied to the plaster. Two coats of aluminum paint usually are effective.

Regular wall paint may be applied over the aluminum paint. When repainting the outside wall, be sure to scrape off all the loose paint.

Sandpaper may be used to smooth up the rough edges where the paint peeled.

Always allow three or four bright, sunny days after a rain before priming the bare spots. The wood must be thoroughly dry. It may feel dry to the hand, yet be wet under the surface.

Prime the bare spots with aluminum paint, or good quality house paint. House paint should be thinned with linseed oil and turpentine. There will be directions on the can.

It is best to paint the south side of the house in the late afternoon when the sun is not too hot. Paint the west side in the morning, and the east side about noon.

Paint will peel if applied to wood which is soaked with mineral oil.

All dirt or paper also should be removed.

Shellac all knots before painting to seal in the pitch. Aluminum paint also is used for this purpose.

New Materials Need Care When You Sew Or Wash Them

This spring and summer we'll be finding more and more synthetic fabrics in the clothes and yard goods we buy. These fabrics will wear better and longer than many other materials, but they do need a little special care.

Vicara, dacron, dynel, orlon and nylon are all affected by high temperatures. Most of them require little ironing, but that little should be done with a cool iron.

Can Be Washed

Read the label on the material, dress, blouse, or shirt carefully. If the manufacturer recommends dry cleaning, washing may ruin it. However, most of them can be washed. Lukewarm water and mild soapsuds will make them look like new again in short order.

When you're sewing on the new fabrics, don't try to tear them. Use a sharp shears, as vicara is the only one of the synthetics that isn't a strong material. In fact, it's almost impossible to tear some of them evenly.

Fine Pins, Needles

Fine, sharp pins will work out much better than coarse ones for pinning the pattern to the fabric and pinning pieces of the material together. A fine sewing machine needle (00) is needed and eight to ten stitches to an inch on the material are recommended.

It's a good idea to finish plain seams with a row of machine stitching along the raw edges because the synthetics ravel so easily. On very sheer fabrics a French seam may be best and a lapped seam is another one that works out well.

If It Puckers

Sometimes you may find the material puckers when you're testing the stitches before starting your actual sewing. (This is a good reason to test them!) If it does, try loosening the upper tension a little, then stitch slowly. Rapid stitching can cause the seams to pucker.

Everyone lives and learns—but some live so very much faster than they learn.

The best way to save daylight is to use it.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Something New In Good Taste

Nothing new under the sun? Oh, but there is something—not only new, but so practical and pleasure-giving that to try it is to ally it with the "musts" of good cooking.

You may already know the magic crystalline seasoning that brings out all the wonderful natural flavors of good food. It's Ac'cent—pure monosodium glutamate—Old Mother Nature's original flavor booster.

It is naturally present in all protein foods when they are still growing in the garden or wandering on the hoof, but starts to slip away immediately after the harvest. It continues to diminish through processing, packing, storing, and we consequently get only a fraction of the original flavor when the food is finally placed before us at the table.

Simple solution to this flavor loss problem is to put the flavor back in. That's what is accomplished when you use Ac'cent. Its sole purpose in life is to make foods taste more like themselves.

It's hard to believe that all the tempting tastes of the garden can be restored by a mere sprinkling of crystals during cooking, yet families far larger than our own—industrial, military, and institutional "families"—wouldn't serve without it for this very reason. Hundreds of the canned and packaged foods you bring home from your grocery store are also flavor-enhanced with pure monosodium glutamate.

This new flavor enhancer is as simple as salt to use—sprinkle it on any non-sweet food during cooking in amounts that suit your own taste, using the recommendations on the package as a guide. It works its flavor wonders on practically everything you like to eat. Here, for instance, is a yummy chicken recipe that calls for it. Try it, and see if you don't agree there is something new under the sun after all.

Chicken Provencal

- 1 fowl (4 to 5 lbs.), disjointed
- Seasoned flour
- 1/4 cup fat or salad oil
- 1 bunch baby carrots
- 1 lb. small white onions
- 1/2 bunch celery, diced
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 whole clove
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon powdered marjoram
- Few grains mace
- 1 teaspoon Ac'cent
- 1/2 cup domestic Burgundy wine

Roll chicken in seasoned flour; brown on all sides in fat or salad oil; place in large casserole. Add whole, scraped carrots, whole peeled onions and celery. Pour water into pan in which chicken was browned; add salt, spices, herbs and Ac'cent; boil 5 minutes; strain into casserole. Cover; bake in slow oven, 300° F. 1 1/2 hours. Add Burgundy; continue baking in hot oven, 400° F. 1 hour. Yield: 6 servings.

Single Pie Crust

- 1 cup sifted enriched flour

- 4 to 6 tablespoons lard
- 2 to 4 tablespoons cold water
- Add salt to flour. Cut lard into flour until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Add cold water, a little at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through flour with a fork until dough just holds in a ball. Use as little water as possible. Roll to about 1/4 inch in thickness. Line 8-inch pie pan. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 8 to 10 minutes.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks

Hunters Contribute 27 Million For Waterfowl Restoration Program

Waterfowl hunters, during the past 17 years, have contributed nearly $27 million to assist in the national waterfowl restoration program through their purchase of Migratory Bird Hunting Stamps, the Wildlife Management Institute reports. Practically all except $350,809 of the $26,909,141 total has been spent or will be applied to the development, administration, and management of refuges; to law enforcement; land acquisition; and waterfowl investigations. For printing and distributing the stamps, the Post Office Department has received the smaller sum.

Ain't Saying Who

At an amateur show one budding star imitated a well-known actor who was to appear on the same bill. Afterwards the amateur tackled the professional.

"Would you mind telling me what you thought of my abilities as shown by my impersonation of you?" he asked.

"Well," said the other cheerfully, "one of us is awful."

Modern

After searching in vain for a job, a man applied for relief. A girl was behind the desk filling out a questionnaire.

"Do you owe any back house rent?" "Ma'm, we replied with utmost dignity, 'we have modern plumbing."

PFC. LAMBERT BOEGEL OF CAMP PENDLETON WRITES

The following letter was received from Pfc. Lambert Boegel of Camp Pendleton, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boegel of the town of Wayne:

Saturday afternoon
24 May, 1952

Dear Bill:
Just thought I would drop you a few lines and let you know that I am as well as can be expected. I am sending you my change of address. I finished my inf. trans. last week, and have now been assigned to guard duty for a while. I don't know how long I will be doing this but I don't mind it at all. We work it one day and one day off. And also every other week end off. The days that I work I work four hours and then have off 8 hours, then 4 hours on again and 8 off. Pretty good racket, don't you think?
Well, here is my new address: Pfc. Lambert Boegel 1197492, H. & S. Co., 2nd Inf. Trng. Regt., T. & R. Command, M. B., Camp Joseph H. Pendleton, Oceanside, California. Sure am very glad to receive the paper. Kind of brings a fella a little closer to home when he can read the home town paper. Well, so long, Bill, and the next time you get to see any of them say hello to the rest of the gang. So long for now.

Yours truly,
Lambert Boegel, U.S.M.C.
