

Granville Trims Chevs on Off Day

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost. Rows include Granville, Grafton, Mequon, KEWASKUM, Slinger, West Bend, Saukville, Newburg, Germantown, Cedarburg.

Scores last Sunday—Granville 14, Kewaskum 3; West Bend 6, Mequon 5 (11 innings); Slinger 5, Grafton 2; Germantown 2, Saukville 1; Cedarburg-Newburg postponed.

Games this Sunday—Kewaskum at Saukville, Mequon at Grafton, West Bend at Newburg, Slinger at Granville, Germantown at Cedarburg.

After being up two weeks in a row and knocking off two of the league's topnotch teams, Grafton and Mequon, Kewaskum got a bad one out of their system at Granville Sunday, where they were trounced by the league leaders, 14-3.

K. Honeck started on the hill for the victims and was relieved by A. Duenkel with one out in the fifth inning after giving up nine hits, walking two and striking out three.

Out of their 15 hits, seven walks and five errors, Granville, with the aid of some helpful plays by Kewaskum, totalled 14 runs. Three of the miscues were made by Stautz before he went in to pitch and Petermann added two more.

C. Burezyk and Bob Petzold teamed up for the winners with three hits apiece to pace the onslaught. Burezyk also scored four of his team's runs.

This Sunday Kewaskum plays its third out-of-town game in succession, meeting Saukville there. In their initial meeting here Bobby Helm blanked the Chevs, 3-0, on three hits. However, the teams are pretty evenly matched according to the standings and the outcome is a tossup.

Table with columns: AB, R, H, E. Rows include N. Held, J. Stautz, E. Dekker, W. Prost, A. Bilgo, R. Schleif, D. Lutz, C. Stautz, L. Petermann, K. Honeck, A. Duenkel, J. Miller.

Table with columns: AB, R, H, E. Rows include J. Storiak, C. Burezyk, B. Petzold, E. Gengler, A. Glesner, H. Tamms, G. Getzlaff, J. Loden, H. Gengler.

Award Warren Schmitz Master's Degree at UW

Warren A. Schmitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schmitz of Mauthe lake, was awarded the Master of Science degree at the University of Wisconsin's 99th annual commencement, Friday, June 20, in the Wisconsin fieldhouse.

A total of 2,899 students filed across the platform to receive diplomas. Bachelor degrees were awarded to 1,800 students, while some 500 men and women received higher degrees. Almost 900 of the graduates are war veterans, and over 600 are married. Exactly 74 per cent of them come from Wisconsin homes, while the other 26 per cent come from 30 other states, the District of Columbia, and from 16 foreign nations and foreign possessions of the U. S.

The graduation exercises highlighted a week of intensive activity on the Wisconsin campus. Thursday afternoon the annual all-university honors convocation cited 539 students for their academic achievements. A reception by President and Mrs. F. B. Fred in honor of the members of the graduating class, their parents and alumni was held Thursday evening.

Members of eight classes who graduated from the university across the year from 1902 to 1947 holding reunions this year, were among the thousands who attended the colorful commencement.

WONDRA-LUBITZ

Seventy-five guests were entertained at a reception and a wedding dance was held at the Kewaskum Opera House following the Saturday, June 21, nuptials of Miss Betty Lubitz, daughter of Mrs. Helmut Lubitz, Sr., R. 1, Kewaskum, and Sylvester K. Wondra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Wondra, St. Kilian, R. 3, Campbellsport. The Rev. Fr. La Bui performed the ceremony at a 9 a. m. high mass in Holy Trinity church, Kewaskum.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Helmut, the bride wore a gown of net over satin trimmed in lace with a fan-shaped train. Her veil was gathered to a sweetheart bonnet and her bouquet of white blooms was centered with an orchid.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. John Ruplinger, matron of honor, wore aqua color and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Russell Neumann, the bride's sister, Mrs. Earl Wondra, Mrs. Andy Polzan and Miss Rita Rohlinger, wore identically styled gowns of pastel shades worn with brief jackets. Their hats corresponded with the colors of their gowns and their bouquets were in contrast.

John Ruplinger was best man and groomsmen were Russell Neumann, Earl Wondra, Andy Polzan and Robert Renner. Leo Wondra and Helmut Lubitz ushered.

The couple will reside on a farm near St. Kilian when they return from a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination. Mrs. Wondra had been employed as a telephone operator at West Bend prior to her marriage.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—Late hours for retail stores are becoming increasingly popular among shoppers and, for that reason, among retailers, too.

A number of things contribute to this change in consumer buying habits. They include: the greater number of family cars which are usually more available in the evening; wide acceptance of the 40-hour week, which usually leaves the head of the family free to shop at night with his spouse; greater availability of baby-sitters at that time, and the fact that when a consumer works near a shopping district, it is simpler to shop after work than to rush out during lunch time.

However, speakers at the National Retail Dry Goods Association urge that store owners keep a sharp eye on the cost of remaining open late. Personnel and operating costs are sharply higher and difficulties arise in keeping workers satisfied with late schedules.

This is especially true of a store that is considering more than one late evening a week. While there is usually enough demand for once-a-week late hours to make up for the higher costs, it is doubtful that an extension of the practice to more than one night is practical now, except during holiday seasons.

MISSED THE BOAT—A huge, 114-ton milling machine just missed being sent behind the Iron Curtain to make "locomotive parts" and is now working for Servel, Inc., and Uncle Sam.

The machine was originally made for Russian-occupied Poland but was stopped by a U. S. government order banning the shipment of such equipment just as it was to be put aboard a freighter at Hoboken, N. J. A two-year legal battle was waged over the ownership, after which the mammoth mechanism was moved to a warehouse where Servel finally tracked it down.

The milling machine, after the delay and long journey, is now back in the Midwest, only 200 miles or so from where it was made. While there is no proof that the Poles intended to make anything other than locomotive parts with the machine, it is interesting to note that engineers of the refrigerator and air conditioning firm at Evansville, Ind., did not have to make any basic design changes to put it to work turning out aluminum forgings for airplane wings! The wings are being made for F-84 Thunderjets.

THINGS TO COME—Socks, pants, sheets, etc., can be quickly mended with a new adhesive fabric. The mending fluid is applied like glue, works on any color fabric and is guaranteed to hold when mended fabric is washed, boiled or ironed. . . Fluorine dental paste that also polishes teeth is available to dentists only. . . Self-cleaning hairbrush has a movable plate which can be raised to bring loose hairs up for easy removal. . . An insecticide works inside growing plants and trees and lasts from two to six weeks, the maker claims.

HOW STRONG?—Two apparently conflicting views of retailing trade were expressed recently.

Malcolm P. McNair, professor of retailing at the Harvard Graduate School of Business and a recognized authority in his field, describes the health of retailing as alarmingly poor. Department stores, he noted, have strongly mirrored the general downturn in business in the last few years, as indicated by their sales volume, net profits, expenses, etc., in 1951.

Another expert, Martin R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, doesn't deny that retail trade was the villain in the economic picture last year, but believes it may well be the hero in stopping a possible major recession in 1953. His thesis is that new product designs and a more favorable environment for expanded consumption may put retail trade in a position "to take up the slack as spending for capital goods reaches its crest."

The main question brought up by both these viewpoints is not which is right, because both may be correct, but whether the industry will be sufficiently strong to assume the role Gainsbrugh has set for it.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Candy makers' sales in April were $75 million, up eight per cent over April, 1951. . . Things were sweet for furniture manufacturers, too. For the first time this year orders were above the corresponding 1951 month—April sales topping April, 1951, by a whopping 18 per cent. . . Manufacturers' sales were $23 billion, up five per cent over March.

Corn syrup, added to fudge, helps to prevent sugar crystals from forming.

FIRST AID for Everybody

X--Oral Poisoning

(This is another of a series of articles, written especially for Central Press Association and this newspaper on first aid, a subject gripping the nation in the light of threatened atomic aggression. The articles are based on the American Red Cross First Aid course. First aid principles, applicable to atomic as well as other disasters, are outlined. The Red Cross offers a 22-hour course free which teaches fully the technique of first aid.)

By Central Press
ON THIS SUBJECT The Red Cross First Aid textbook advises "call a doctor, give first aid at once," and adds, "it isn't necessary to remember a long list of antidotes—use the simple measures always at hand."

In other words, quick action is vital. If the poison taken by mouth can be removed from the stomach before it is fully absorbed, the victim's life may be saved. If it has been absorbed even a doctor may be unable to save him.

The directions say "dilute and wash out." This means the patient should be given large quantities of water. Add a teaspoonful of baking soda to a glass if you have it, but any sort of water can be used, soapy water or even dishwater. Induce vomiting. Tackling the back of the throat may help. After the stomach is emptied, a tablespoonful of epsom salts in water may be given.

There are exceptions to this rule. In the case of acid or alkali poisoning, do not induce vomiting. For acid poisoning, administer magnesium or baking soda followed by olive oil or egg white. For alkali poisoning, give lemon juice or vinegar followed by milk. For strychnine, keep the victim quiet and comfortable.

HERE IS recommended first aid for other poisons:

For alcoholic and sedative poisoning, diluting fluid may be given, vomiting induced, and coffee administered—if the patient is conscious. Rub the arms and legs toward the body if the victim has collapsed. A certain amount of external heat may be applied. Give artificial respiration if breathing stops. Never try to administer liquids to an unconscious person. In all cases keep the victim warm.

If skin comes in contact with poison ivy, poison sumac or poison oak, wash area with thick lather of soap five or six times as soon as possible.

In all kinds of poisoning, control shock and use artificial respiration if breathing has stopped. This is about all a first aider can do if a victim has suffered gas poisoning in an atomic attack.

Food poisoning, mistakenly called "tomatoe poisoning," may be largely prevented by proper preparation of food and cleanliness in handling and serving food and protection against flies and insects. There are certain mushrooms and berries which may cause trouble and it is hard to tell which are poisonous. The safe thing is to use only those grown for food and regularly obtainable in the markets. In food poisoning it probably is unnecessary to induce vomiting because the bad food has usually left the stomach before diarrhea or other symptoms have appeared. Call a doctor.

The Red Cross warns that symptoms of acute appendicitis are frequently mistaken for food poisoning. A cathartic should never be administered to anyone suspected of having simple food poisoning unless a doctor has excluded the possibility of appendicitis.

TOMORROW: General directions.

How To Prepare For Culling Poultry

Culling is a phase of poultry management that should be practiced regularly. But it also should be practiced properly. Below are a few suggestions on how to prepare for this important management duty.

Culling offers the poultry-raiser a good opportunity to increase his knowledge and improve his ability in regard to the judging of poultry. By concentrating on such points as rate of growth, feathering, body shape, fleshing, and egg production, he can learn something new every time the flock is culled. This also gives youths on the poultry farm a good chance to learn about poultry. And since culling usually requires several persons to do the job, it really is an excellent time for them to take a lesson!

Equipment Needed

Some of the culling aids the poultryman can make good use of in carrying out his task are (1) a catching crate; (2) a catching hook; (3) a catching net; (4) a wire or wooden panel for keeping chickens in corners; and (5) a scale for weighing. Although all these items are not necessary, they can be of considerable help in doing an efficient job of culling.

A catching hook or net, whichever the poultry-raiser may prefer, is very useful for catching individual birds. However, when using the catching hook, the handler should be careful not to injure any of the birds. Many raisers have a catching hook or net in the poultry house so that any bird showing signs of unthriftiness can be removed immediately.

A Good Procedure

Here is a good procedure to follow when culling the flock. First, confine the birds to the house. Then cover most of the window space with burlap sack or the equivalent. This helps prevent excitement in the flock.

Also, provide catching crates with lifting or sliding doors at each end and a sliding door in the top. These are handy for culling birds of all ages. Place one end of the crate next to the door through which birds enter and leave the poultry house.

A piece of heavy wire netting is very satisfactory for driving chickens toward the door. However, be careful not to crowd the birds toward the door or into the catching crate, because some may suffocate.

At all times handle the birds carefully. When removing birds from the catching crate, take them out headfirst. Make certain coops or other crates are handy, to hold the birds that are culled.

CELEBRATING FATAL

Tokyo—Kiichi Kasuga, 27-year old office worker, had some drinks with friends to celebrate Japan's new independence and they started home in an open car. Jubilant Kasuga stood up and shouted, "Banzai!" fell out and was instantly killed.

Bible Comment:

Job Finds Solution: Undying Faith in Our Divine Judge

SOME problems are "modern" in the sense that man has never encountered them before our time.

But some problems are as old as man himself, and one thing that is unchanged is the fact that man has to be the problem solver. Some ancient experience and wisdom may have much to offer, even in the presence of problems that are as new as the new-born day.

Deep and unchanged in human life is the problem of suffering, and especially the suffering of the apparently morally guiltless. Much human suffering offers no problem, though the fact may alter its acuteness. It is the direct and observable result of sheer disregard of moral or physical laws. But the suffering of the good is another thing.

It is this problem with which the Book of Job deals. The Book has been called "a sublime drama of God's providence and man's suffering." It's central character, Job, a man of moral rectitude and apparently blameless life, is stricken with dire calamity, in himself, his family and his affairs.

The situation is made intensely dramatic to show the full impact of the problem. Yet it is no more extreme than that which many men and women have experienced today, especially the thousands of innocent people who have suffered war's ruthlessness.

Three of Job's friends sought to comfort him with plausible or conventional notions. These centered around the ideas that suffering is a sure sign of sin and that Job must be guilty of some secret fault.

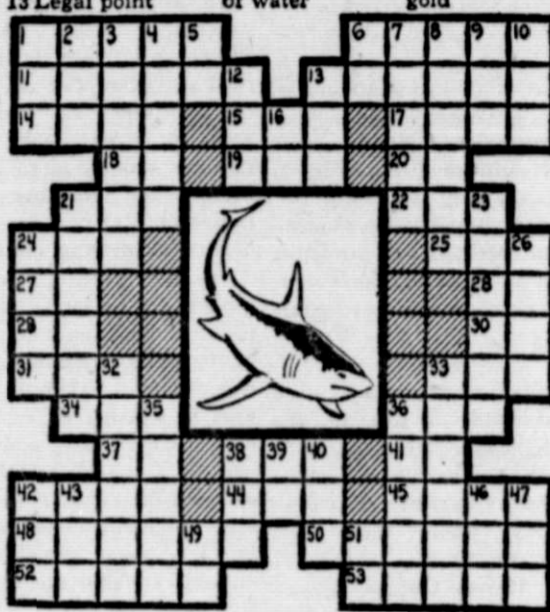

This easy view Job refuses to accept. His faith is tried, and he is tempted to "curse God and die." But while he finds no solution to the problem of suffering, he finds a solution to his personal problem in the conviction that the Judge of the earth will do right and in the determination to trust Him no matter what may happen.

Here's the Answer

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

I'm turning today's column over to Ted Trueblood. He has some mighty interesting things to say to you trout fishermen:

I am a rule breaker when it comes to fly fishing. It took me a long time to get so brave. Like everybody else, I started fishing a dry fly upstream, and using small flies and light leaders, attempting to cast curves right or left, and paying strict observance to all the other theories that look so good on paper and are so hopeless on the stream. I'm all for tradition in the right places, but when you're fishing it's a handicap. Let's look at some of these time-honored rules.

The first cardinal principle—and the worst handicap under which the beginner can possibly labor—is the old rule to fish a dry fly upstream. You're supposed to face the current, wade against it and cast curves in order to float your fly down ahead of the leader. Nuts! I usually fish my dry fly downstream, the easy, natural, fish-taking way.

Next to the fish-upstream rule, the worst bugaboo of the beginner is drag. I have caught hundreds of trout on a dragging dry fly. I have actually seen days when the fly was dragging. In order to catch trout most consistently on the drag the angler should work it, not give up to it. I don't simply let my line pull tight and rip the fly across the surface. Instead, I pull it a little, feed some slack and pull again.

One of the old rules with which I am in wholehearted agreement says the leader must sink. But the method that I am sometimes driven to for sinking my leader will probably shock some conservatives to the marrow. I put lead on. Two little chunks of lead, about the size of No. 6 shot, clamped on near the last two knots, will break the surface film and take the leader down, yet not bother the fly.

When it comes to playing fish the most popular erroneous belief is this: Let a fish have slack and he'll get off. With a plug, maybe yes. With a fly, nothing could be farther from the truth. You keep tension on a fish so that you can wear him out and land him. The drag of the line going through the water when a fish is moving or the pull of the current on it when he's stationary is enough to keep the hook in his jaw. When a big one jumps it is a good idea to lower the rod and give him slack so that he won't break the leader.

Timely Tips

It's the little things in life that count, they say. . . and the little things that make homemaking easier, too. Put these in your bag of tricks for future use.

When you need only a little lemon juice, don't cut a full lemon. Roll it first on a hard surface, pierce it twice near one end and squeeze out the amount of juice you need. You end up with the juice and a whole lemon to boot.

That mammoth refrigerator can be moved from its nook for cleaning with ease! First, wet the floor and rub it with soap. Now the giant will simply glide.

Use your head and not your brawn when cleaning greasy stove parts. Just boil them in a deep solution of water and a cup of sal soda. They'll come out slick as new!

U.N. Relief Hospital in Taegu, Korea

From the beginning of the conflict in Korea the United Nations has been doing the utmost to maintain the health of the civilian population. In Taegu, for instance, despite lack of facilities a school house was transformed into a relief hospital which can take care of as many as 600 in-patients. Here, in the hospital's laboratory established by the United Nations Civil Assistance Command, Erik V. Spangfort, of Denmark, instructs a Korean assistant on laboratory techniques while a Korean woman doctor makes a test.

BOOK OUT 18 YEARS

Harrisburg, Ill. — After an absence of eighteen years, Jane Austen's book, "Sense and Sensibility," withdrawn in 1934 from the Harrisburg library, turned up in good shape recently in a local hotel. The overdue fine, if collected, would amount to $108.

Child's Appetite Fits Rate Of Growth

Because a child's appetite tends to fit his rate of growth, the wise parent should not attempt to fit the child's appetite to any certain pattern of feeding. A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association points out that parents should understand the food needs of their children, because individual differences are important.

The child's diet should be related to his rate of growth. If he is a slow-growing child with a small appetite, the mother who tries to force him to eat large amounts will create a feeding problem. He may have so small an appetite that he is likely to eat too little to supply diet needs, unless some special attention is given his diet. A pediatrician can help the mother plan a diet with small amounts of bulk, but adequate in calories and protein.

A child's diet should be based on all-around good quality, not on a single vitamin or mineral or any one nutrient. Also, there is a slowing down of the child's rate of growth and appetite that may come any time from nine months on. At that time, the mother can avoid forcing the child to eat more than he needs. Many children cut down on milk at this time, but the preference for it usually returns when the growth rate speeds up again.

A good all-round daily sample diet for a two-year-old includes: one and a half slices of dark bread, one-half cup of dark, cooked cereal, three tablespoons of cooked or raw vegetable, one medium potato, one-half cup of fruit, one small orange, one tablespoon of butter, one ounce of lean meat, one medium egg, three cups of whole milk, and cod liver oil concentrate to supplement for Vitamin D.

"STEAMBOAT COMIN' ROUND DE BEND" NO MO'

Commercial steamboating on the Mississippi began between Aitkin and Grand Rapids when rails reached the Aitkin site in 1870. Side by side Bunyan-scale lumbering and river steamboating grew up, flourished, and, about 1920, expired. By 1880 upstream freight volume reached 5½ million pounds and downstream volume included 226,000,000 board feet of logs. This busy water route of 130 miles shrank with roads to 53 miles and with airplanes to 40 miles. There were 25 regularly scheduled landings, and accommodation stops wherever any passenger or shipper desired. The "fleet" included the Pokegama, White Swan, City of Aitkin, Andy Gibson, Walter Taylor, Irene, Oriole, but longest period of active service seems to have been achieved by the Fawn.

QUESTION: Our walls are finished in a texture paint finish with a stippled surface. We would like to remove this for papering. Can you tell the best way to go about it?

ANSWER: Unless covered with waterproof paint, the surface can be well soaked, scraped as nearly level as possible, and when it has dried, sanded smooth. A power sanding machine used on the dry wall will accomplish the same purpose. In both cases, fill remaining depressions with spackling compound to level the wall for paper.

QUESTION: My house, stuccoed with a scratch coat and an outside coat of 1/2-inch white sand and cement, has broken at the chimney and two corners of roof had this fixed once, but it has broken off again. Can you offer any solution?

ANSWER: Stucco repairs often fail due to application of stucco to oily or dirty surfaces. Best way is to apply strips of metal lath to the broken area, anchoring them to the masonry, then applying new stucco to this lath.

QUESTION: I added a room to my brick home, but could not match the shingles. Could you tell me where I can get a stain to match the asphalt shingles on the rest of the house?

ANSWER: Neither water nor oil stains are apt to penetrate waterproof asphalt shingles—at least with any color. Use a stain that will adhere and color would also be quite conspicuous—probably worse than no stain at all.

QUESTION: Would painting the bare wood with aluminum paint before I put up insulation improve its effectiveness?

ANSWER: While aluminum paint does provide a certain amount of heat-reflective quality, it cannot be accurately measured when so applied. Regular foil insulation reflects a measurable 90% in tests, making further treatment unnecessary.

New Mirror and Saw Transform Old Bedroom

BY EDNA MILES

HAVE you taken a good impartial look at your bedroom suite lately? The chances are very good that it's become a bit shabby with the passing years. But the chances are also good that the budget won't take a big bite for a new suite.

Even if you can't afford to toss out the old furniture, you can work magic with what you've got. Just as you'd buy a new hat to dress up an old suit, so you can turn a shabby, out-of-date dresser into a handsome, modern piece through the use of mirror magic. If your dresser is the old-fashioned type with mirror attached, the first step is to strip it of gingerbread. Using a screwdriver, remove the mirror and its moorings. Use putty to plug up the holes and a coat of shellac or varnish to smooth the surface. Then you're ready to remove the legs.

To get a close-to-the-floor-effect, in keeping with modern design trends, use a saw to take off the high, spindly legs. Now, you can apply decorator's magic. Pick a new mirror, one in good design, chosen to blend with the style of your bedroom furniture. Hang it flat on the wall over the dresser, placing it vertically at eye level and centering it so that not more than three inches of side. That's all there is to the worked wonders for your bedroom dresser extends beyond it on either face-lifting. But you'll find you've on mere pin-money.

With the aid of a saw, putty and a new mirror this out-of-date dresser becomes... a modern chest, giving an entirely new feeling to an old room at a budget price.

John Brandt Calls For Farm Youth Military Deferments

Deferment of farm youth from military service was called for recently by John Brandt, president of Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., as a means of meeting the need for competent farm labor.

Consideration is now being given to college youth, Brandt notes, and the question before the nation is whether or not a good farmer is as important to the nation as someone who may be in the process of getting a college education.

"Draft boards are now often scraping the bottom of the barrel for youths over 19 and are irritated by the large reservoir of deferred college students," Brandt said. "Colleges are holding more than 500,000 physically fit young men of most desirable draft ages, while draft boards are compelled to take working youths off the farm in filling their quotas."

Young men on farms are getting their education the hard way, Brandt goes on. They contribute to the productivity of farms while getting their education and experience in the battle with the elements that makes farming a particularly hazardous business operation. Boys who are getting their training in this school of experience are not being supported by the earnings of somebody else to get their education but are paying their own way and contributing to the earnings of the farm.

The question as to who should go into the military should be determined on a basis of which group is making the greatest contribution to the world engulfing program we are trying to carry out here in America. Many of our farm boys who are getting their experience the hard way on the farm are not only capable of running a farm but of taking their place most anywhere else in the business world. There is a question as to whether the boys getting their training in college could take the farm boys' places on the farm. At least we know that the farm boys of draft age who are working on farms are applying their abilities to produce the world's greatest need, which is food and fiber, while their deferred brothers in college are staging panty raids and getting into mischief, some of them even getting a good training in the philosophy of communism, the very thing we are trying to defeat in drafting farm boys in the military.

Farmers are becoming more and more pressed for competent labor on the farm, Brandt states. This is especially true on dairy farms. One of the reasons why dairy farming is on the wane so far as cow numbers and farm production is concerned is because it is difficult to get competent farm help on dairy farms. This is in spite of the fact that the ratio of return from dairy farming as compared with grain and livestock has become more favorable during 1952 than last year.

Dairying is not only a process of developing high producing animals and feeding them a proper ration for milk production, but it is one of competent and detailed attention so far as the milking process is concerned. This cannot be done by farm help that is only casual and not especially interested in dairy cows. Farm boys who are raised as dairy farmers take a special interest and, therefore, not only take good care of the animals but are good milkers.

Don't Hurry Child's Toilet Training

Parents should realize that it is important to take it easy in toilet training for their children. In time all normal children can and do acquire bladder control. A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association states that timing is far more important than method.

Parents should determine the time to begin training by keeping a record of the regularity with which the child wets or soils his diapers. If it is regular, then training should be started.

An average baby can achieve bowel control from 12 to 18 months; bladder control during day, from 18 to 24 months; and bladder control during night, from 34 to 40 months. Here are rules to follow:

- Watch for indications that the child wants to go to the toilet. Fidgeting, squirming or grunting are good signs. Don't put the child on the toilet if he does not show signs that he wants to go.
- Give him reasonable time on the toilet, but don't insist on his "doing something"—resentment can be built up.
- Let the child assume some responsibility by teaching him the words to use to let you know his need, placing a stool in front of the toilet to let him climb up himself, and letting him wear clothes he can manipulate himself.
- Encourage development of normal rhythm by control of the food he eats and the quantity and timing of fluid intake.
- Praise him for all successes but don't gush. Let him and yourself know that everyone has "accidents" sometimes.
- Be relaxed and matter-of-fact when accidents occur. Don't talk of accidents to the child or in front of others—don't embarrass the child.
- Give a reasonable time to establish these habits; don't be concerned if he isn't perfectly trained until he is five or six.
- Let him know you are working with him to help master this problem.

Safety Council Lists 10 Right Attitudes For Farm Safety Week

To back up President Truman's call for the adoption of right attitudes toward farm safety during National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26, the National Safety Council lists 10 right attitudes which are manifested by a desire to:

- Take time to take care: Realize that haste makes waste. Short cuts or failure to stop long enough to correct hazard may result in a loss of time, money, and health.
- Be open-minded to safety suggestions: New machines and techniques mean new hazards. A wise farmer listens to the safety lessons his children bring home from school or farm group meetings. He profits from radio and news items that bring him safety information or reminders.
- Check and double-check: Make sure your equipment is in safe operating condition. Don't take needless chances. Don't gamble with your life and happiness.
- Take safety seriously: Don't be a traffic scofflaw. Know and obey commonsense safety rules. Be alert for danger at all times.
- Keep your farm in order: Have a place for everything and keep everything in its place. Be a good housekeeper in the home as well as on the farm.
- Plan ahead: Allowing adequate time reduces the temptation to hurry.
- Be fire-sighted: Don't smoke around the barn. Don't smoke in bed. Break matches in two before discarding them. Mark oil and gasoline cans in red. Get rid of fire hazards in barns, basements, and attics.
- Be courteous on the highway: A courteous driver believes in living and letting live. Courtesy saves lives. Mind your motor manners.
- Support safety education: Be a safety example to your children. Encourage safety instruction in schools. Take advantage of every opportunity to learn more about safety.
- Follow safety instructions: Replace that shield. Stop machinery before oiling or adjusting. Realize that printed instructions are "signs of life" wherever they occur.

One of the best ways to keep your life interesting and stimulating is to take up a hobby, says Betty Ann. It should be a pastime that affords you complete relaxation and at the same time utilizes your creative urge.

Even if you have very little time to spend on extra-curricular activities, try to set aside at least 15 minutes a day to develop some personal interest.

You will not only be helping yourself to a fuller life, but your family and friends as well. Everyone is always fascinated with people who are doing interesting things.

If you have no definite hobby in mind, you'll find, on investigation, quite a variety to choose from. Perhaps you've been wanting to work in leathercraft, or to become a photographer.

Gardening may be your glory, or caring for the local bird population may encourage your outdoor spirit.

Should you have the time, every community needs recreation leaders for its youth.

Knitting or dressmaking can prove relaxing and profitable. Then, there's always the possibility you might like to know how to refinish your porch furniture, or do something about that old-fashioned bureau in sister's room.

Once you decide on the hobby you feel will give you the greatest satisfaction, you will find many sources of information to guide you.

The public library is one source and, of course, there are adult night school classes offering information on many subjects.

The superintendent of documents in the United States government printing office in Washington can supply you with helpful pamphlets on practically every known hobby. All you have to do is write for a listing.

It's a good idea to keep records about frozen foods; you will want to know what you have in the freezer and when it was frozen, so you can use frozen products at the peak of their value and know when to replenish the stock. An inventory list near the freezer, a record book or a calendar will do the job. But don't trust your memory!

The all-nylon baby will be comfortable in hot weather. Mothers can now get pastel colored nylon plisse play sets—toppers and trunks—for boys and girls both. The nylon washes quickly in lukewarm soapsuds. Rinse, omit wringing, and hang to drip dry; no ironing needed.

When laundering socks or any other knitted articles made of dyneel, turn them inside out to prevent fuzziness.

In drying dyneel socks, avoid extremely high temperatures. If you send them to a laundry, warn the laundry not to dry them on a hot bare metal form, but with hot air. Temperature is no problem in washing, as the material will stand boiling water.

There's no need for sock stretchers and forms because dyneel hose are knit to size and remain that size and shape for the life of the article. They are virtually shrinkproof, stain resistant, mothproof and mildewproof. It's even safe to disinfect them by soaking in full strength household bleaches.

Unaffected by body acids and salts, dyneel socks may safely be left in a pile of laundry you won't be able to wash until next week.

Stunning treatment for the pro-saic carrot is this carrot and almond ring. Grated raw carrots are teamed with slivered blanched almonds and baked in a rich custardy mixture in a ring mold. Ingredients are one bunch carrots (two and one half cups finely shredded), two eggs, one cup evaporated milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sugar, few grains pepper, one-half cup blanched almonds, coarsely chopped, and one and one-half tablespoons butter.

Wash, scrape and shred carrots with fine shredder. There should be about two and one-half cups. Beat eggs until yolks and whites are blended. Stir in milk, seasonings, almonds and carrots. Melt butter in a one quart ring mold. Let butter run around mold to grease thoroughly. Pour remaining butter into carrot mixture. Fill mold. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees, until firm, about 35 to 40 minutes. Run spatula around sides of mold to loosen ring and unmold on chop plate. Makes six to eight servings.

Mid-Summer Meeting of Holstein Breeders

The annual mid-summer meeting of Washington county Holstein breeders and dairymen will be held on Thursday evening, July 10, at the Paul Pamperin farm, at 7:30 o'clock. A good program has been arranged. This includes:

7:30 p. m.—Livestock judging and classification, junior and adult groups.

8:15—Motion pictures, "Pure-breds," Charles Brace, Feldman, National association.

8:45—Address, "Our Dairy Industry" by Dr. E. E. Helzer.

In securing Dr. Helzer, chairman of the Dairy Husbandry department, College of Agriculture, as speaker we feel that the program will bring a good dairy message to all who hear him.

The Paul Pamperin farm will donate a young bull calf, eligible for registration, as an attendance prize.

There will be a junior judging contest for boys and girls under 21 years of age beginning at 7:45 o'clock and prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Sandwiches, doughnuts, coffee and milk will be served after the program. Also there will be musical entertainment.

The Paul Pamperin farm is located on County Trunk "D," two and one-half miles west of Kohlsville.

Anyone interested in better dairying is invited to attend.

—Misses Mary Jane Mayer, Corrine Wahlen, Pat Campbell and Pat Hanrahan of Kewaskum were on a week's trip in the western part of the state last week. On their trip they stopped in Wisconsin's second oldest city, Prairie du Chien, and visited the nationally famous, historic Villa Louis. The interior of the Villa Louis has been called the truest and most complete example of mid-nineteenth century style to be found in the midwest. The mansion was built in 1843 by Colonel Hercules Dousman, fur king of the old Northwest Territory. He amassed a fortune as agent for John Jacob Astor's American Fur company and made the Villa Louis his home, into one of the showplaces of the 19th century. The visitors saw antique furniture including George Washington bronze lamps, made in 1776, and 109-year-old Brussels carpeting. The most interesting room in the mansion is the dining room where, at the long table, Jefferson Davis, Zachery Taylor, General Sibley, first governor of Minnesota, Lucien Caultier, and many other famous figures in American history were entertained. The 54-acre Villa Louis, which commands a beautiful view of the Mississippi River, is built on a mound made by prehistoric people centuries ago and later used by the Fox Indians for a burial grounds.

FOOD PROCESSING PLANTS OF COUNTY SHORT OF HELP

Food processing plants in the Waukesha, Washington and Ozaukee county areas are in full swing with their pea packs.

Albert H. Ludwig, manager of the Waukesha office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service stated that the labor supply for the food processors may be a critical one this season. Many openings are now available for 16 and 17 year old boys as well as for older men. In some instances, Ludwig stated, supervised living quarters are available for boys from 16 to 18 years of age.

Ludwig emphasized the vital role food processors are playing in our national defense program and urged all persons interested in summer work to register with the Wisconsin State Employment Service at 323 West Main street in Waukesha. Workers who live outside of the Waukesha area can register with a Wisconsin State Employment Service representative at: Oconomowoc—Tuesday, armory, 9:15-10:00 a. m.; Hartford—Tuesday, city hall, 1:00-2:00 p. m.; West Bend—Wednesday, court house, 9:45-11:00 a. m.; Menomonee Falls—Wednesday, city hall, 1:30-2:30 p. m.; Cedarburg—Thursday, city hall, 9:30-10:30 a. m.; Port Washington—Thursday, city hall, 1:00-2:00 p. m.

Fish Rescued From Shallow Lakes

During the six months period from October 1 through March more than 580,000 fish were rescued from shallow freezeout lakes and placed in suitable waters according to Frank D. Blair, Director, Minnesota Division of Game and Fish.

Of this number about 96,000 were northern pike. More than 750,000 minnows were also rescued.

This is the largest rescue operation since the work was undertaken, and in the future, such work will be continued on a larger scale.

Shallow lakes, less than 10 or 12 feet at the greatest depth are in danger of winter kill during periods of extreme cold and heavy snow, Blair said.

COLLECTORS CAN SOMETIMES COLLECT

Paul Benson, Heron Lake insurance man the past 38 years, has a sort of an involuntary collection of 115 pipes—didn't set out to be a collector, just accumulated them, and now they're worth over $1,000. . . Mrs. Alice Mueller, Madison, has more than 50 pairs of shakers, of many ages, from many countries, of many different materials. . . Because she didn't like to throw away pretty Christmas tree cones, Mrs. Ted Benson, Leech Lake, is in business—shells, acorn caps, birch bark, other odds and ends, combined with imagination and ingenuity—and she has for brisk sale soldiers, hula dancers, Indian scouts, and all manner of picturesque little figures.

HOW TO STOP RATTLING PIPES

There may be many causes of pipes rattling. Often it is a loose part inside the faucet. Try tightening the washer. It may be that the packing nut is not turned down tightly enough. Give it about a quarter turn with a monkey wrench. If it will not turn any tighter, without danger of breaking something, put a little extra packing under the packing nut. You can buy regular graphite filled packing washers at your hardware store, or you can buy graphite filled packing rope. If the pipes bang when you turn the faucet off quickly, the cause may be faulty installation. Faucets which come through the wall from an ell on the end of a pipe are apt to bang because there is no cushion to absorb the sudden stoppage of water.

They should be connected to a short piece of pipe which comes through the wall from a tee.

Another short piece of pipe and a cap goes past the faucet. This is filled with air and serves as a cushion.

If your pipes rattle inside the walls, or against floor joists or heat ducts, use cushions as illustrated.

HOBBYISTS RIDE UNUSUAL HORSES

At 14 Donald Unruh, West St. Paul, has 300 model horses of a wide variety of materials, sizes, shapes, and colors. . . And down at Austin Mrs. C. J. LaBar has ridden far on the same hobby the last 12 years, her collection of equine figurines representing seven different countries. . . Edwin Hake, St. James, spent 2½ years making a chiming clock in the form of a famous European cathedral. . . Charles Meunerschwander at Fairmont takes a hobbyist's delight in making anything from a steak knife to a steam engine that requires skill and patience. . . Another horse collector with a widely varied "stable" of 200-odd head, is Mrs. O. P. Gedstad, New Ulm. . . It took five years for Mrs. A. T. Ladwig's hobby to bloom at Pipestone, but bloom it did, into a lovely South American orchid.

PUBLICIST PROVES SCIENTIFIC DETECTIVE

Poultry is a hobby of W. L. Nunn, Director of University Relations; convinced this spring that some of his flock were eating eggs, Bill planted several radio-activated eggs, next day marched the flock past a Geiger counter, two complacent offenders "paid the supreme penalty" and now Bill is gathering all his eggs and looking for another problem. . . Brainerd reports one of those recurrent egg-within-an-egg oddities. . . Some sort of record was established by a New Hampshire Red on the Robert Neske farm near Princeton with an 8x9 egg weighing seven ounces!

MAJIC CHLOROPHYLL

What is it that makes plants green? What is it that liberates the oxygen in the air? What is it that kills the odor of tobacco, striped kitties, garlic, and things? What is being hailed by physicians as a remarkable new tissue-building and curative agent? It is a magnesium ester known as chlorophyll. This mysterious substance, which accounts for the living tissues in plant life, can now be isolated and reduced to water-soluble form for commercial purposes—from deodorants and anti-acids to ointments and reducing pills.

Margaret Truman Finds Advantages A Handicap

Being the daughter of the President has been Margaret Truman's chief drawback in her five-year struggle to carve out a musical career. It brought upon her, from the very start, a weight of criticism that would have blighted the hopes of a less persistent girl. But with unaffected graciousness, humor and hard work, she triumphed over these obstacles, won the affectionate regard of press and public, established herself at the top in the entertainment world, and became her father's biggest personal asset. In an intimate story appearing in June McCall's Magazine, Terry Morris points out that in spite of these successes, Margaret's personal life is still painfully restricted, and that although she manages to have fun, her parents are gravely concerned over the frustrating effects of these restrictions on their daughter's happiness.

"Five years ago the press and public gave Margaret Truman a reception that might have destroyed anyone else. 'She seems to sing carefully,' one critic wrote after her 1947 radio debut, 'seems obliged to, indeed, by the poverty of her resources.'"

"The public accused her of capitalizing on her father's position. The entertainment world made it clear that she was an intruder. But Margaret took it with characteristic grace and humor, and today is popular with press and public, loved by fellow entertainers, and admired even by her father's severest critics.

"The New York apartment Margaret now occupies in a quietly fashionable midtown hotel twenty-nine floors above the pavement permits her to live pretty much as she chooses. According to Margaret, about the best training for public life is to have been born and raised in a small town. 'You learn very early that there are definite restrictions on what you may or may not do. You learn that your business is everybody else's too.'"

"Punctuality is almost a vice with her. 'Goodness,' Margaret says, laughing, 'what's so remarkable about that? Mother brought me up to be a lady, you know.' This training pervades her dress, manner and speech and is an integral part of her. But her contact with smart theatre and show people have given her clothes a flair and chic they did not have a few years ago.

"Last year Margaret made a whirlwind seven-week tour of Europe and hoped it would be as just another tourist. But she was routed from embassy to embassy and from palace to palace in England, France, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy, and achieved enormous popularity as a good-will emissary from the President and people of the United States.

"What the ordinary people of the countries she was visiting thought was eloquently summed up by a porter in a Rome hotel. 'Ah,' he told reporters, 'how simple and gracious and ladylike she is!'"

"America's proud estimate of Margaret's tour was summed up by a newspaper well known to be on the opposite side of the Truman political fence: 'After some of the dames who've represented American womanhood in Europe's salons — and saloons — she must have been like a breath of air straight from a clover patch.' And it is this same 'clover patch' personality that has been winning Margaret new laurels in her guest appearances on star-studded radio and TV shows.

Professionally Margaret has few restrictions on her activities, but socially she has a rather heavy burden to bear. Those who know the President and Mrs. Truman say that they are gravely troubled by it and that it was a factor in the President's decision March 29 not to seek re-election. Like other parents, they want to see their daughter happily married. But, while Margaret has many beaux, her father and mother have known the chances are against her marrying while she is still the White House daughter."

THOSE "DEAR OLD GOLDEN RULE DAYS"

Vincent Johnson, 17, graduated from Excelsior high school after 13 years of regular attendance without one single absence, even for mumps! . . . When Galen Bottemiller got his Bertha high school diploma he wrote this to a 60-year era during which there has always been at least one Bottemiller in Bertha schools—beginning with Louis H. in 1892 and including 21 others of the same family name. . . Verliiss Rasmusen overcame a polio handicap to become valedictorian of her Alden high school class, then her proud father was hospitalized and couldn't attend. So classmates took a number of pictures and a tape recording of the whole proceedings, and Dad was practically there.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Chicken 'n' Vegetable Bake Is Tasty

Casserole dishes are the delight of most homemakers for this is an easy way to give the family hearty food that is delicious. Try chicken 'n' vegetable bake.

- Chicken 'n' Vegetable Bake
- 2 cups milk
  - 4 tablespoons flour
  - ¼ teaspoon rubbed sage
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - ¼ teaspoon black pepper
  - 2 cups diced chicken
  - 2 cups cooked mixed vegetables
  - 2 cups crushed potato chips

Pour milk into top of double boiler. Combine flour, sage, salt and pepper; sprinkle over milk; beat with rotary beater until well blended. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in chicken and vegetables; turn into 1½ quart casserole. Sprinkle crushed potato chips over surface. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 10 to 15 minutes.

Broiled Steak

A steak cut 1 to 1½ inches thick will give much better results than a thinner one. A sirloin cut 1½ inches thick will serve six. Broiling directions vary with different ranges. These general directions may be followed with good results.

1. Preheat broiler.
2. Slash fat edge of steak in several places to prevent curling.
3. Broil steak 3 inches from source of heat. For a medium done steak, broil approximately 10 minutes on each side. To test doneness, cut into steak close to the bone and note the color. Season, turn with large fork stuck into the fat and broil second side.
4. Serve broiled steak immediately. It tends to overcook and dry out if allowed to stand.

French Fried Onions

Peel large, mild, sweet onions. Cut in ¼ inch slices, and separate dip in flour. Fry in deep fat heated to 380 degrees 4 to 6 minutes. Drain on paper towel and sprinkle with salt.

Oven Fried Potatoes

Wash and pare potatoes. Cut in eighths lengthwise. Cover with cold water. Let stand 30 minutes. Drain and dry thoroughly on paper towel. Dip in melted fat, using butter, bacon fat, or suet. Arrange in shallow baking pan. Bake in an oven 400 degrees about 40 minutes or until delicately browned, turning occasionally. Sprinkle with salt.

Vegetable Salad

- 2 large beets
  - 2 tablespoons vinegar
  - ½ cup wax beans
  - ½ cup peas
  - ½ cup asparagus tips
  - French dressing
  - Lettuce
  - Radishes
- Boil beets until tender. Cover with vinegar. Drain off the vinegar. Arrange beans, peas, asparagus tips in little nest of lettuce leaves. Garnish with radishes. Pass French dressing.

Hamburgers Deluxe

Ask your meat man for ground chuck (from the beef shoulder). This is a more economical buy than ground steak and makes juicier patties. Add ¼ cup of cold water to each pound of ground meat. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Shape into patties and broil or pan-fry in just a little hot fat.

California Salad

- 1 head lettuce
  - Few stalks endive
  - Few leaves of mustard greens shredded, or spinach uncooked
  - 3 small onions, sliced very thin
  - 1 medium sized tomato sliced very thin
  - 1 hard boiled egg sliced
  - ¼ teaspoon each, minced thyme, sweet marjoram and summer savory
  - 1 tablespoon parsley, chopped very fine
  - 2 tablespoons French dressing
- Toss all together, in a large bowl. This salad should be served chilled.

Deep Dish Apple Pie

- 6 cups sliced, peeled tart apples
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¾ cup sugar white or brown
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon butter

½ teaspoon salt

- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- Flaky pastry

Arrange apples in baking dish about 10" x 6" x 3". Blend remaining ingredients except pastry. Pour over apples. Put on top crust only. Bake in an oven 425 degrees for 40 minutes. Serve with vanilla ice cream.

Cherry Pie

- 1 quart cherries
- ¾ cup sugar
- Flour
- Pastry

Stone cherries. Line pie pan with pastry. Fill with cherries. Sprinkle with flour. Put on top crust. Bake in an oven 425 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 40 minutes.

Scrambled Eggs with Cheese

- 6 eggs
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ to ¾ cup grated cheese

Beat eggs slightly. Add seasonings and milk. Mix. Heat butter in skillet until melted and hot enough to sizzle when egg is added. Add eggs, reduce heat and cook slowly stirring the eggs from the bottom. When almost done add cheese. Serve as soon as eggs are fairly firm. Serve on hot platter. Garnish with strips of crisp bacon.

Too many people run behind trying to keep up a front.

WEST POINT CADETS ON PARADE—Outstanding interest to the host of visitors who will attend the sesquicentennial exercises at the U. S. Military Academy this year is in the exercises on the historic parade ground where for 150 years have drilled the young men who became America's most distinguished soldiers. The approximately 2,400 cadets of the Corps are organized into 24 companies of about 100 men each. The 24 companies are formed into six battalions; and the six battalions into two regiments. The two regiments make up the cadet Brigade.

M-VACCINE NOW AVAILABLE TO LOCAL VETERINARIANS

M-vaccine for use in vaccinating livestock against Brucellosis is now available to local veterinarians. Livestock owners must keep in mind that M-vaccine has not been approved for interstate shipment, therefore, can be used only on herds located in Wisconsin. The law authorizing the manufacture and use of this type of vaccine provides further that it is to be used on both adult cattle as well as on calves.

Summer's a busy time—and it can be a dangerous time for youngsters. Clean up yards and vacant lots so the children won't get bad cuts.

Main advantage books have over people is that you can shut up the uninteresting ones.

SUMMER FARM FIELD DAY AT UNIVERSITY JULY 10

The annual summer field day at the College of Agriculture will be held on Thursday, July 10. Farm folks are invited to attend.

Here are some of the highlights that will be featured at this year's farm field day. Visitors can view:

- (1) More than 50 varieties of oats, barley, and other small grains planted in demonstration plots for easy comparison. A number of these grain varieties are from foreign countries.
- (2) A new simple soil test for nitrogen.
- (3) Demonstrations and tests to show how to detect the need for the minor plant food elements.
- (4) Milk vending machines and their use.
- (5) Bulk milk handling on farms.
- (6) Pasture renovations and new-type machines for doing such renovation.
- (7) New method of grain harvesting using a forage harvester.
- (8) Farm terracing, equipment and how it can best be used.
- (9) How atomic energy can be put to work.
- (10) Hormone treatments for broiler production. The foregoing are only a few of the many farm topics that will be discussed on farm field day. Many other new research developments in the field of agriculture will be demonstrated.

The field day program will be held on the West Hill farm on Thursday, July 10. To get to West Hill farm follow University avenue west turning left onto the East Hill farm. There will be signs to guide you when you get near the farm.

CENTURY FARM, HOME OWNERS ELIGIBLE FOR STATE CERTIFICATES

Just 100 years ago Wisconsin was in the midst of the biggest population boom in its history. Census records show that during the 10 years between 1959 and 1869 the population of the state more than doubled. Families who settled in Wisconsin during these first years or earlier, and who have retained ownership of the farm or the urban home continuously up to the present time are eligible to receive a Wisconsin Century Family Ownership certificate. This certificate will be awarded at the 1952 state fair, Aug. 16-24, by the State Department of Agriculture.

Application blanks showing your right to qualify for such a century certificate may be obtained from E. E. Skalsky, county agent, who has been appointed century farm award chairman for the county, at the extension office, post office building, West Bend. Merely write or phone for your application form. The phone number is 602.
