

Schaefer Garage Is Burglarized; Gang Is Arrested

The Schaefer Bros. garage in Kewaskum was burglarized late last Friday night or early Saturday morning...

Stolen at the garage were about 15 new Firestone tires, size 7:10-15, about 15 new batteries, and a small amount of cash from the register drawer...

The burglary was not noticed by neighbors residing nearby. One neighbor passed the garage shortly after 3 a. m. on his way home from work...

Three youths arrested in Green Lake last Thursday admitted participation in an earlier robbery at the Schaefer garage in August and implicated three others.

Everett Vosekull, 22, and Irving Koch, 21, of Fox Lake were the first to be apprehended when they surrendered to a posse at Markesan after an unsuccessful attempt to burglarize a motor sales company.

While being questioned by authorities, the trio involved three more youths. They are Jerome Gerbing, 18, Fond du Lac, and William Storke, 19, and Lawrence Beckman, 18, both of Waupun.

Sheriff Hubert Schwantes of Dodge county quizzed the men last week. Sheriff Naumann, Chief of Police Edmund Haack of Kewaskum, Chief Harold Emmer of Hartford, Assistant Chief Clem Mueller of Hartford, and Assistant Chief Wilbur Juech of West Bend were at Green Lake Saturday to interrogate the men.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The settlement of the recent steel strike will be studied by Congress.

No one in Washington is proud of the solution worked out.

The strike limelighted a problem which American statesmanship has been unable, or unwilling, to solve.

That is the problem posed when two great monopolies as Big Steel and Big Labor are deadlocked.

During negotiations, one steel firm was reported ready to settle, but promptly withdrew this offer to stay aligned with the U. S. Steel forces.

No faction of labor had a chance to deal separately.

The big issue remains. When monopoly locks horns with monopoly, what happens to the rest of the country? Must the nation chance disaster?

In this particular case, settlement was reached by direct White House intervention. And as to be expected, the settlement was such that everybody won but the public. But obviously, it is pointed out, a system that requires a President to settle every serious economic dispute is a system that can easily head into a dictatorship.

The situation becomes even more peculiar when it is fully realized what was done during the strike importing steel.

Plumbing supply houses all over the country were receiving pipe made in France, Belgium.

gium and other European nations that are receiving steel and steel equipment from the U. S. as a gift under the Marshall Plan and the MSA.

This importation of steel might point to a solution of the basic problem. Free competition in the U. S. market between domestically produced and foreign produced steel might be a check on the powers held by the financial and labor monopolies in American steel production.

Such a course might even check the big rise in steel prices awarded as the settlement of the strike.

However, through some strange arrangement, foreign steel prices will also jump.

Therefore, there appears only one solution to the problem. That solution will be the encouragement of more independent steel plants.

It is believed that strict enforcement of the nation's anti-trust laws would result in not only more steel production capacity in this nation, but also a greater percentage of independent production.

Free competition in the market place would then level off prices.

That appears to be the blueprint of action that will be pursued by many Congressional leaders to avert such economic disasters in the future.

The plan doesn't call for revisions of labor laws, the setting up of new or different arbitration boards, or in any way bringing government into industrial disputes. The plan is merely to eliminate monopoly deadlocks by using the already existing anti-trust laws.

Clear Sailing Means Increase in Accidents

CHICAGO—You can't blame it on the weather!

In 64 per cent of the 32,500 fatal motor vehicle accidents last year, the weather was clear or merely cloudy. It was rainy, snowy or foggy in only one out of six fatal accidents.

According to "Accident Facts," the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, which is just off the press, rain was the condition reported most frequently under bad weather conditions.

Unfavorable weather conditions were reported more frequently for all accidents (including property damage only) than for fatal accidents. Rainy, snowy or foggy weather was reported for 21 per cent of all accidents and clear or cloudy weather for 79 per cent.

Poor Diagnosis

During a fire in the night, the tenants of an apartment hotel rushed into the street carrying their most prized possessions. One woman noticed that the gentleman who lived directly above her was carrying a large, covered bird cage.

"What have you there?" She asked out of curiosity.

"That's my pet rooster," said the man. The woman gasped and fainted. When she was revived, she told her anxious neighbor, "I'm sorry I fainted, but you see, I've been under treatment by a psychiatrist for the past year because I kept hearing a rooster crowing."

"Frogman" Fined $200—Illegal Fishing

The Conservation Department has just arrested Lake Geneva's most efficient fisherman and Justice G. H. Belton at Elkhorn assessed a discouraging fine of $200.

It was the first case of a frogman fishing to come to the attention of the Conservation Department. Thomas Lindy, 23, Chicago, came to Lake Geneva with elaborate equipment. A mask and an oxygen tank made it possible for him to stay under water. A lead belt made it easy to stay down and rubber swimming fins made movement easier. He carried a special spear gun manufactured in France.

Lindy dropped into the lake around some stone pier cribs and watched the fish pass by, selecting what he thought were worthwhile targets. When Warden Rex Tice found him, he had bagged a largemouth black bass of five and a half pounds, a smallmouth of 2 pounds and a 24-inch northern pike.

The court confiscated the spear gun which is now in possession of the Conservation Department. He was fined $100 for illegally taking game fish and another $100 because he was fishing on a resident license. Lindy is staying with his parents at a Lake Geneva summer home.

TIPS ON PAINTING SCREENS OR STORM WINDOWS

No matter whether it is spring or fall, either the screens or storm windows need painting. The wise repairman will get them down, and paint them ahead of time, when he can do it at his leisure.

A good method is to paint them inside the garage, and nail them to dry as illustrated.

Paint one side before nailing. Lay 2x4s out from the sill of the garage wall.

Set the bottom of the screen or storm window on the 2x4s, painted side toward the wall.

Nail the top of the screen or storm window so that it does not touch the wall.

Then paint the other side.

By painting the smaller sizes first you can paint as many as room in the garage permits.

Leave them several days to a week before stacking or handling. Outside paint dries more slowly than inside paint.

If you are in the mood, paint the storm windows when you take them down.

Learn Rules To Avoid Neuroses

It is important to know how to avoid physical and mental conditions which may develop into neuroses. No neurotic can cure himself, but people with nervous tendencies can avoid becoming neurotics. A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association outlines the following rules to avoid becoming neurotic:

1. Your feelings aren't as important as you think they are. People who are beginning to be nervous need most to know that they may safely discount their feelings. Learn to understand your emotions. A nervous headache will go away faster if you try to forget it.

2. Everything changes constantly. Realization of that change, in the world and ourselves, will help us to adjust well to it.

3. Your feelings are not reflected in the world. Do not read your emotions into other people and things. Just because you are sad, does not mean that the rest of the world is too. Do not misunderstand and misjudge the world by seeing just your own feelings in it.

4. Things are not alike because they seem alike. Do not take out your feelings on any convenient object. Learn to respond to new situations without suffering from the old ones.

5. Learn to relax—more completely than just muscles and nerves. Evaluate and understand your past experience—do not let it affect the present one.

6. Understand yourself through understanding others. Make friends with whom you can practice letting out how you feel. Others' impression of your life will help you to better understand yourself.

7. Do what you want to do. The general idea in trying to avoid neurosis is to live your life so as to be most fully yourself, while still being the least frustrated.

8. Get turned inside-out once in a while. Don't become too set in your ways—be able to change with the times and adjust to new situations. Don't get in a rut.

MRS. H. I.: What is the chance that my child will contract polio?

ANSWER: The chance that your child will contract the disease is very slight. Even in a heavy epidemic the chance is probably less than one in 500 to 1,000.

Leukosis Becoming Widespread Problem

A many-named poultry disease is rapidly becoming one of the nation's major poultry problems, the American Veterinary Medical Association reported today.

The disease, avian leukosis, has grown by leaps and bounds during the past 30 years. It is sometimes called by such names as "big liver disease," "fowl paralysis," "big bone" disease and fowl leukemia.

"Leukosis has become so widespread that it is doubtful if there is a single leukosis-free flock in the United States or any major poultry producing country today," the AVMA stated.

Authorities point out that the disease is of a cancerous type. It is hard to control because certain normal-appearing hens may be carriers of the infection without showing clinical symptoms.

Development of mass production methods of raising chickens during the past 30 years is believed to be partly responsible for leukosis' rapid spread.

Long Drink Time Is Here Again

Summer days, long and lazy, are here. These are the days when everyone wants to be out in the open as much as possible. To have leisure time requires planning ahead of time. A little forethought in marketing will save many a last minute rush when an opportunity for a day's pleasure presents itself.

An assortment of tinned and jarred foods on your pantry shelves can afford a delightful quick meal or a picnic lunch at short notice, and save many long hours of preparation. Canned or frozen fruit juices, flavorings, fresh fruits, packaged ice cream and plenty of pale dry ginger ale and sparkling water on hand, mean that you can whip up refreshing drinks in a jiffy for any occasion.

Ginger ale, well chilled, is an excellent refresher at any time, and it mixes well with almost any fruit juice. A scoop of vanilla ice cream in a glass of ginger ale is a truly delicious drink. For an afternoon party, here is a good drink.

Five O'Clock Cooler

- 2 cups tea infusion
- 1/2 cup mint jelly
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 cups grapefruit juice, sweetened
- Green food coloring
- Pale dry ginger ale
- Fresh mint

Pour hot tea over jelly and sugar; stir until dissolved. Add grapefruit juice and coloring; chill. Divide among 8 tall glasses. Add ice cold ginger ale. Stir gently to mix. Top each with a spray of mint.

Cookies mean much to the children, and grown-ups have a yearning for the cookie jar that is always full. These are general favorites and are good anytime, between meals, with tea or in the lunch box.

  - 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- Cream butter, add sugar and beaten eggs. Mix well. Add dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Add orange juice and rind. Form into rolls. Put in wax paper and chill overnight. Slice next day and bake on a greased tin in an oven 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes.

Chocolate Cookies

- 3/4 cup brown sugar
  - 3/4 cup white sugar
  - 1 cup butter
  - 3 eggs beaten
  - 1 teaspoon soda
  - 2 tablespoons hot water
  - 1 1/2 cups chopped pecans
  - 1 package dates chopped

  - 3 cups flour

WINDOW BREAKER BRAKED—With five broken windows to her credit, Deborah looks wistfully at a freshly glazed pane, possibly trying to figure a way to get at it without hurting her tooties. In order to break Deborah of climbing on the sill and then pushing out the glass, her owners, the Rev. and Mrs. Worman of Cleveland lined the sill with mouse traps. As yet the glass-smashing pooch hasn't figured a way to circumvent the traps.

Behind The Scenes In American Business
by Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—Business should do quite nicely the rest of the year, in the opinion of a number of industrial leaders surveyed recently.

A study by Dun & Bradstreet shows most anticipate higher dollar sales, a profitable fourth quarter, stable prices, stable inventories and either the same number or more employees.

The opinions expressed by the businessmen, of course, are based on present conditions; a drastic change in any of a number of fields would have them scrambling to revise their estimates. As things stand, however, sales have been picking up and earnings in general aren't bad at all, despite strikes and taxes. Political pronouncements so far indicate no immediate changes in the economic scene from a business standpoint, no matter which party wins in November.

CORNERING—A car's ability to take the turns is known as "cornering"—an up-and-coming word these days wherever automobiles are discussed. Safety engineers are putting great emphasis on it, and the trend is toward a low center of gravity in automobiles to improve cornering ability.

One company, Willys-Overland, this year brought out its new passenger car with a center of gravity only 23 inches from the ground. When the car was tested recently by Motor Vehicle Research, at Epping, N. H., it was able to "hold on" while speeding around a 400-foot test circle at 53 miles an hour.

Nineteen other passenger cars of American manufacture have been tested on the same circle, but none could "hold on" at this high speed. Cars approaching it, however, all had a low center of gravity.

THINGS TO COME—A dual-purpose hand lantern which can be used as a floodlight or a searchlight. . . Anti-freeze tester for service stations, cab owners, truckers, etc. The device makes allowance for the temperature of the solution and comes with an easily read chart. . . Lightweight fire shield permits wearer to be within a foot and one-half of a high-pressure gas flame. . . A new way to gold plate which requires no complicated equipment but produces a bright luster at any thickness. . . Pocket recording and playing device said to be the world's smallest dictating machine.

NO MANIPULATION—Ever since America, in the midst of World War II, built its own, man-made rubber plants—rivaling in capacity and quality the crude rubber sources on the other side of the world—the crude rubber producing countries have been very uneasy. Every once in a while there are new hints that international cartels should be formed to help keep supply and demand in balance and to help "stabilize" rubber prices. Implications are that America should join in.

John L. Collyer, who pioneered in the move to have man-made rubber plants built in this country, also was among the first to warn against resorting to cartels. His company, B. F. Goodrich, has made a new study of the world rubber situation, and in it Collyer spells out clearly why cartels are "neither necessary nor practicable for averting rubber surpluses or shortages."

The executive urges that the government clearly define its policy and assure both producers and consumers that its strategic stockpile of crude rubber will "under no circumstances be used to manipulate rubber prices." That stockpile, Collyer says, is strictly for military and essential civilian security uses.

MORE STOCKHOLDERS—Many economists have from time to time become quite concerned over the narrowness of the investment base in America. A survey several months ago put the number of people holding stocks at about 6½ million, or only 4.2 per cent of the population.

One of the most effective means of broadening stock ownership in recent years has been through the sale of mutual funds. The buyer of a mutual fund usually invests a small amount, upwards of $50, in a company that offers participation in a diversified group of leading stocks. This reduces the risk of owning a security in a single company that might suffer misfortune. Thus the diversified investment offers some protection against an isolated business failure. However, to gain the advantages of diversification through mutual funds, the buyer pays his broker a higher sales charge than if he bought a few shares of an individual stock.

A lot of the community's dirty linen would never be paraded if it were not for the love of scandalous gossip by some waggy tongues.

SKYBLAZING GROUND SKIMMERS—Little more than a few inches part, the "Skyblazers," famous Air Force precision-flying team, give earth-bound spectators a thrill at Port Lyautey in French Morocco. The daredevil Thunderjet group will be back in the United States on time for the International Aviation Exposition in Detroit, Aug. 30 through Sept. 1.

Duck Hunt Prospects Show Improvement

Ducks are way ahead of their normal schedule this year and on that basis they should be migrating their way southward in all earlier than usual.

An early nesting season and hatch usually means that the birds will pack up and migrate to their favorite winter resorts early in the fall. The late spring of 1950 meant that most broods were not seen until the middle of July. Last year the ducks nested two to three weeks earlier than usual and most of the broods were hatched in late June and the first 10 days of July. This year the duck hatch was even earlier. In late May a few broods had already been seen and most of the broods were hatched by late June.

Illinois reports that a wood duck was seen with a brood of young as early as March 21 this year, meaning that the bird was nesting early in February.

CAN LOCAL FAIRS BEAT STATE RECORDS?

As fall fairs and festivals, climaxed by the big State Exposition in the Twin Cities Midway, get into swing, interest focuses on contests. Despite seven days of rain in the ten, some new speed records were set at the Minnesota State Fair last year, which may stimulate competition throughout the state this year. Buzz Barton did eight half-mile laps in the AAA race in 3:21.29. Bill Tuman set a new 8-mile record for motorcycle at 7:27.78. Next day in IMCA standard car races Deb Snyder did a half mile in 0:22.95, four miles 3:20.66, 7½ miles in 6:23.98. Final day figures, by Snyder, were one mile in 0:49.44, three miles 2:31.93. Can they be beat?

Time For Poultry Raisers To Repair

This is the time when many poultry-raisers should be thinking about housing their birds for the fall and winter. Housing is an important task, one which requires plenty of preparation. If the job is well-done, it means the poultry-raiser has taken the first step toward achieving high winter egg production and toward giving his flock the protection it needs from disease.

Put House in Shape

The first step in preparing for housing is to make whatever repairs are necessary in the laying house. Plugging up cracks and crevices, replacing broken windows, and nailing down loose boards will help eliminate drafts. Examine the roof for any needed repairs. Give the entire building a thorough going-over and make a list of the things that will have to be done and the materials you will need to complete the repair work.

When the house is in good shape, take all movable equipment outside and give it a thorough cleaning and disinfecting. Then allow it to dry in the sun. Remove all loose litter and droppings with shovel and broom. Then take a hoe and give the floor and droppings pits a thorough scraping. Sweep the ceilings, walls, nests and floors, eliminating all cobwebs, dust, and other filth.

Sanitation a Must!

Next, scrub the floor and roost areas with hot water and strong soap. And while the interior of the house is still damp, spray the walls, floor, and fixtures with a reliable disinfectant. Then allow the house to air and dry.

Now you're ready to place litter on the floor. Many poultrymen cover the floor with a thin layer of sand before adding the litter. This practice, they say, prevents litter from sticking. So, a dry, absorbent litter and scatter it about the floor. Litter should be about 2 or 3 inches deep. Continue to add litter as required during the season.

After litter has been placed in the house, put all equipment in place and get ready to bring the birds off the range.

Paying For The Roads Comes From Others Than State Motorists

The average motorist has been told so often that the taxes on his automobile or truck are needed for highways and used exclusively for that purpose that he may have gained an erroneous idea of his importance in the fiscal scheme of things as related to public roads. Actually, he has been paying a smaller share of the Wisconsin highway bill than he has guessed.

A legislative research committee has produced some interesting figures on the point. In spite of the fact that there has been an enormous increase in automotive registrations (well over 1,000,000 vehicles are licensed in Wisconsin today) and in spite of the fact that each car is driven many more miles than its predecessors, the motorist now pays only 54 per cent of the Wisconsin highway budget in state taxes on his car and on his car's fuel.

Almost half of the total of about $100,000,000 a year that the big road system costs comes from other sources, and, significantly 24 per cent of the total comes from the patient and burdened Wisconsin property taxpayer.

Get the Most Out Of Life by Keeping God's Great Laws

How can one get the most out of life? This is a question that has agitated many minds as far back as man became a thinking being. Some haven't given much thought to it and have drifted through life, without much thought about plans or goals.

But among those who have pondered it, and to whom some choice is possible in determining what sort of lives they would live, there have been varying decisions. To many the chief aim has been to get as much enjoyment out of life as possible.

Other goals of life have been the acquiring of wealth often without much regard for its essential value and use; the acquisition of power, with the mastery and sway over great empires.

Gentler souls have made contemplation their chief quest, retiring into some form of cloistered living. Some have made knowledge their deepest satisfaction, often without much wisdom concerning its essential value and use.

The Hebrew prophets and poets had much to say concerning these various quests. If the writer of the Book of Ecclesiastes seems an incurable pessimist, declaring that all is vanity, it should be remembered that he is exploring the futility of what he deems false and unsatisfying quests, but is setting over against them what he considers man's proper goal.

His "conclusion of the whole matter" is: "Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man."

What does that mean? God, to these Hebrews, was the creator and upholder of the universe. To His laws governing the earth and the heavenly bodies they found a parallel in the moral law, governing man and his relationship to his fellowmen. Hence the conception of: uprightness became dominant of all thought of the best in life.

To keep the commandments was, therefore, the means and goal of the true life. In characters that need reforming, and a world that needs rebuilding, it may well be asked, is there any other way?

Novel Table for Cottage Folds Against Wall

A COMPACT, out-of-the-way table and benches suitable for a camp cottage will be a pleasure to build and a delight to the family because of its novelty.

The table top, when folded up serves as a door for the wall cabinet. Because it will wear long and is easy to keep clean, Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood is used to surface the lumber framing of the table top. The same material covers the planks serving as benches.

The cupboard is built of 1-inch lumber framing, covered with Tempered Presdwood. Shelves are similarly constructed.

Note the hinges which permit the table and benches to be pushed out of the way, against the wall, to which they are fastened with hooks.

Panels of Presdwood can be used effectively in other ways at the summer cottage—to cover unsightly interior walls, for converting a large room into smaller ones, corner closets, floors, fish cleaning and bait cutting boards, sunshades at the beach, or resurfacing old picnic tables.

Blackfishing Gains In Popularity On Coast

The chunky blackfish, known to many as the tautog, is a powerhouse in fins and provides one of the angling high-lights over a long season for fishermen on the Atlantic coast between South Carolina and Canada.

He is an ugly duckling among the Labridae fishes that are celebrated for brilliant coloration. But, like a cauliflower-eared wrestler, he is tough. What also makes him so attractive to thousands of fishermen is the fact that not only is he easily available from both shore and boat, but in exchange for a piece of clam, squid, crab, shrimp, beach bug or periwinkle, he provides sport in wholesale quantities. And as a table fish the black has few peers.

Blackfish is gaining in popularity with even the most sophisticated salt-water anglers. Bait and tackle dealers who operate in blackfish territory have told George Heinold, veteran sportsman and author, that they receive more inquiries about where to catch blacks than they do regarding any other fish except striped bass.

Despite the fact that many a fine old surf or boat rod often spends its last days as a blackfish instrument, expensive tackle is the exception rather than the rule. The main requirement of any rod is that it be rugged. Blackfish are strong; their habit of diving among rocks and snags after being hooked exerts a great deal of strain on any rod. Ordinary boat rods and inexpensive surf sticks equipped with reels that hold about 150 yards of line absorb punishment and permit fairly long casts. But many old timers insist that no rod is better for blackfish than a plain bamboo or calcutta cane ranging in length from 12 to 20 feet; reels are rarely used on the whippy canes.

The most satisfactory lines are the tarred cods and the 12- or 15-thread curly-hunk lines. But more important even than the rod and line is the choice of sinkers and hooks. Since the blacks lie on the bottom, the sinkers must be heavy enough to reach them and anchor the bait. At least three ounces are necessary; under no circumstances should square-edge models of pyramid type be used, for these foul in rocky crevices and cause heavy losses of terminal rigs. Hooks must be of the best quality wire. Blue Virginia patterns in sizes varying between Nos. 1 and 8 are best, the 5s and 6s being the most popular all-around size. Heinold says the use of light tackle for blackfish isn't impossible. He has used only an ounce of lead for a sinker and has had plenty of fun whipping six- and eight-pound blacks on both fresh-water bait-casting rods and spinning tackle.

We believe most people are ready for autumn this year.

The Versatile Power Saw

BECAUSE a portable power saw is so versatile, it is a handy tool to own if you are building or remodeling. Standard uses include cutting framing timbers, sheathing, plaster-board, ceiling tile.

CUTTING a groove in concrete for installation of oil lines, left, takes only a few minutes with a power saw. An abrasive disk is used for this. Goggles should be worn.

THE LOW-COST abrasive disk is attached to the portable power saw for cutting fire brick, too. Result is a straight-edge with a minimum of waste.

WHEN a pocket cut is made in plywood or in a wood floor that is being repaired, a combination blade is used. It is standard equipment on most saws.

A FINE-TOOTH blade is used for cutting plastic-coated plywood for counter-tops, walls. Some types should be cut face down to reduce chipping.

PIPE, reinforcing rods, curtain rods and extruded moldings can easily be cut with a portable power saw with abrasive disk attachment. Metal chips will fly, so goggles should be worn.

QUESTION: I want to add a new window in my new brick home. The present mortar is light in color, and I'd like to know how to mix mortar to match it. Will adding more lime affect the mixture anyway?
—J.E., Mount Prospect, Ill.

ANSWER: You can use pure white Portland cement, mixing it with the regular grey type to a matching shade. You can also, add lime—the only effect of which will be to retard hardening while working with it. Lime does tend to stain the brick, but increased quantities may cause trouble in this way, but will not weaken the mix.

QUESTION: How do you color plastic wood or some other product to fill the holes when finishing a piece of walnut furniture after repairing?
—P.N., Longmont, Colo.

ANSWER: One way to color plastic wood or putty is to mix sandpaper from the material worked on into the filler. You might also try a powder filler, one that is mixed with water, coloring the water with ordinary stain or water colors.

QUESTION: I have a cottage and wonder what type heater to put in for water. Would an electrically operated heater, or the use of bottle gas be more economical? Would it be best to put in an automatic heater or one that could be turned on when wanted?
—C.H., Lansing, Mich.

ANSWER: There's a very small margin in cost between electrical heat and gas of the bottle type—depending on rates and costs in your area. A manually operated heater is cheaper, but it's mighty convenient to have hot water when you want it without the bother of starting the heater and waiting for the water to get hot.

For Moderns: A Living-Room Dinette Set

BY EDNA MILES

THE modern concept of dining-room furniture is a very different one from that owned by Grandmother. She wanted solid, heavy furniture that made a good show and filled the dining room to the very corners. This furniture, which the hired girl kept polished, was used only for "good" or company occasions. The rest of the time, the family ate in the kitchen.

In these times of small apartments and houses, dining-room furniture must be functional. There's just one set and it serves both family and company. Frequently, it is placed in one end of the living room since there is no dining room at all.

Therefore, it must blend harmoniously with the living-room furnishings. And modern finishes for table tops and legs have made the hired girl's elbow obsolete.

One innovation is the use of thin steel tubing in chrome or ebony for modern tables and chairs. Table tops are plastic with wood grain finish and cannot be marred by stains.

The new tubing combines strength with a look of delicacy and, of course, easy maintenance with comfort. Seats of the chairs are sponge rubber padded and upholstered in two patterns and a wide range of colors.

←Dinette set in ebony color-tamie is designed for modern homes and apartments with dining areas at one end of living room.

Bugs Threaten North Central Hay On Which Drought Areas Depend

Thousands of yellowed acres which should be emerald green touched with purple of alfalfa in bloom are evidence today throughout northern and eastern states of a hayfield disaster which may cripple the nation's livestock feeding program during the coming fall and winter.

A villain feeding on the leaves has drastically cut the alfalfa crop in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware. It is a tiny insect, less than a quarter-inch long, called the potato leafhopper. These were the states toward which stockmen in southern and central states were looking for hay supplies, following the drought which dried up most of the hay in their sections.

Leafhoppers are an annual threat to hay crops all over the nation, entomologists point out. This year, ideal weather conditions to favor their activities have combined with one of the heaviest leafhopper populations ever observed. The yellowing of fields, which some farmers blame on mineral deficiencies or hot weather, is in almost all cases caused by leafhopper damage, it is pointed out.

Conservative estimates in several north central hay growing areas set the loss due to these insects at about 50 per cent of the anticipated second, and final, cutting of alfalfa. Leafhoppers, it is declared, have destroyed enough hay to have fed the cattle in drought areas through the winter.

Ironically, this leafhopper invasion has taken place in the year when experimental work has uncovered the first usable program for controlling this hayfield menace with an insecticide. While a number of the modern insecticides will kill leafhoppers, many of them leave toxic residues on the cut hay which would show up in the flesh or milk of cattle consuming that hay.

This summer, successful control of leafhoppers has been obtained with sprays of an emulsion containing methoxychlor, an insecticide which does not present toxic hazards to either livestock or human consumers of livestock products, when used for this purpose. Striking contrasts are to be seen in fields where sprayed portions are covered with the lush green of healthy alfalfa, while unsprayed sections show only yellowed leaves, flecked with brown spots where "hopper-burn"—the feeding damage caused by leafhoppers—has devastated the crop.

Make Childhood A Happy Age

Because a happy childhood is the best guarantee of a well-adjusted adulthood, parents should know how to make their children happy. A bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical association states that, as childhood progresses, unhappiness generally grows stronger, reaching its peak during the teens.

Showing a child with material possessions will not make him happy, nor will smothering him with love. Here are a few rules:

- See that your child's health is good by providing proper food, rest and freedom from tension. It is easier to be happy if you feel good.
- Make the home a happy place with plenty of fun, good times, laughter and jokes. Parents should set a happy pattern.
- Be sure that there is a bright spot every day. Try to have family relationships good at day's end so that the next one starts well.
- Provide children with enough pleasures, excitement and thrills so they do not have to turn to a world of make-believe to get what life denies them.
- Don't guard him against all disillusionment and disappointments. Help him learn to face reality, to take the good with the bad.
- Help him to have a realistic concept of himself. Don't let him think he is a person that he is not. Let him mingle naturally with others as early as possible.
- Encourage him to become very good in one or two activities. Pride in achievement adds much to happiness.
- Help him develop personality traits that will make other people like him. Popularity is a source of satisfaction.
- Encourage him to be independent. If he can stand on his own two feet he will be happier than if he is too dependent on others.
- Make sure that he knows you love him no matter how troublesome he is or how disturbing at times.

EDITOR THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL WOMAN'S PAGES

Now that the season of surf and sea breezes is again at hand, it's a wise woman who gives a bit of beforehand thought to the beauty ravages that can be wreaked by incautious fun in the sun.

Your hair, in particular, is likely to suffer from vacation activities. Not only does your hair tend to lose its natural oil as the result of repeated soakings at beach or pool, but the sun itself has a drying effect upon unprotected locks.

Common sense is your best ally in avoiding a hay stack look this summer. Keep abuse of your hair to a minimum, remembering to wear a protective head covering while swimming, sun bathing and golfing. This rule applies to motor trips as well; harsh winds whipping through your hair do little to preserve natural softness and manageability.

It's a good idea, too, to make a practice of thoroughly rinsing your hair in fresh, clear water each time you emerge from a dip. Salt or other minerals, often present in lake, pool or ocean, prove injurious if allowed to remain too long in your hair.

To maintain the beauty and luster of your locks, try this hair reconditioning trick recommended by one New York hairdresser. With clean cotton pads, apply olive oil to your hair, working it with special care around the roots. Next, don your shower cap, or tie a plastic kerchief bandana style around your head.

The final step is to let the oil soak into your scalp with the aid of a heating pad, which will open the pores and allow the oil to replace natural secretions which have been lost through vacation neglect. If you have no heating pad, go out and sit in the back yard and let the heat of the sun do the trick.

This reconditioning method is not only a quick and easy one for those unskilled in beauty routines, but it's an economical one as well.

Fiber and sisal rugs which bear the brunt of summertime wear can be redecorated in attractive colors and designs with a new type of paint application. A size coat of ordinary laundry starch mixed with water and brought to a boil can be used on most rugs. Then after the rug is dry special floor enamel for fiber rugs is applied. It is available in decorator colors.

French Pancakes

A blueberry sauce fills these French pancakes and is served with them. The sauce blends together these ingredients: Two cups blueberries, washed and well drained, two tablespoons water, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon corn starch, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons lemon juice and one-eighth teaspoon ground cloves.

Cook one cup blueberries in water over low heat, about three minutes. Thoroughly mix together sugar and cornstarch. Gradually add to cooked blueberries, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Add one tablespoon butter, lemon juice and cloves and cook until butter melts. Remove from heat. Stir in remaining blueberries.

The French pancakes call for these ingredients: One cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, three eggs, well beaten; one cup milk, and two tablespoons shortening, melted. To make pancakes mix together flour and salt. Combine eggs and milk. Gradually add flour mixture to liquid using a rotary beater. Beat until smooth. Add shortening and mix well. Pour batter over lightly greased hot griddle to form four inch pancakes. When underside is lightly browned, turn and brown on opposite side. Fill centers of pancakes with tablespoonful of blueberry sauce. Roll. Serve on hot platter, with additional blueberry sauce. Garnish top of pancakes with powdered sugar, if desired. Makes four to six servings.

The first presidential preference pools, giving Eisenhower an edge over Stevenson, are close enough to indicate a hot race this year.
