

Kewaskum Man, Four Others Killed, Seven Injured in Train, Truck, Auto Crashes

Ferd. Buchel, 46, Victim; Two Car-Train Collisions in County Within 14 Hours; Local Truck Driver in Fatal Crash

Five persons were killed and seven injured, four of them seriously, in a tragic series of car-train, car-truck and car accidents within the past week. Four of the crashes were in Washington county and two of them three men lost their lives. This boosted the traffic death toll in the county for 1952 to 12, which compares with a total of 15 in 1951.

The fatal accidents in the county both occurred on Tuesday as the county had three serious mishaps within 31 hours. The latest victim was Ferd. Buchel, 46, R. 1, Kewaskum, who was killed in an auto-truck crash on Hwy. 141, just north of Club 144, 2 1/2 miles northeast of Barton Tuesday evening.

Buchel's car was completely demolished when it collided with a Seven-Up truck at about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday. William Kieckhafer, West Bend, driver of the truck, was seriously injured and was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend.

Kieckhafer is a co-owner of the Seven-Up Bottling company of West Bend. The extent of his injuries were not immediately known but his condition was reported to be critical. Buchel died on arrival at the hospital. He was employed at the cheese factory at Orchard Grove, southeast of Kewaskum.

The vehicles apparently crashed almost head on but further details were not available. Sheriff department authorities said they would not be able to interview Kieckhafer for at least several days because of his serious condition. The Seven-Up truck was tipped over and totally wrecked in the tragic crash.

TWO DIE IN TRAIN CRASH

Two Milwaukee men were killed and three persons injured at 1:25 a. m. the same day, Tuesday, when their car struck a freight train on a town road about a mile and a half southeast of Germantown.

The dead were Kenneth T. Brusteth, 27, 2362A N. Palmer st., and David Dobogal, 20, 500 N. 145th st. Two of the injured were runaway girls of Iron Mountain, Mich. reported missing since last week end. Their parents were notified Tuesday.

The injured were: Miss Rita Sandona, 15, Iron Mountain, fractures of the right arm and leg, skull fracture, condition serious but improving; Miss Bessie Voris, 16, fractured nose and a cerebral concussion, condition fair, and Fabian Gregory, 19, of Milwaukee, a sprained ankle, released from hospital. The three were taken to St. Joseph's hospital, Hartford. Brusteth and Dobogal were killed outright.

The car, driven by Brusteth, was traveling east when it hit the 25th of 58 box cars of the northbound freight. The two men who were killed and Miss Sandona were in the front seat and the other two in the back seat. According to Gregory's mother, Mrs. Goldie Lucaric, Milwaukee, the three men offered the young women a ride from a tavern in the Hartford area when they refused to return to Milwaukee with their original escorts.

There is a bell signal at the crossing but no wig-wag. The auto was completely wrecked and the side of the box car was damaged.

CAR-TRAIN CRASH IN BARTON

The car-train accident was the second one in the county within 14 hours. Another crash occurred at 12:09 p. m. Monday at the Main st. crossing in Barton.

Randall Dolgner, 4, suffered a possible skull fracture or concussion and a possible fractured arm when a passenger train struck the car which he was in. Lester Dolgner, 41, R. 1, Cedar Grove, Randall's father, was driving the car north. When he was within 20 feet of the crossing the wig-wag signal went into operation. Dolgner attempted to apply his brakes and the car skidded onto the tracks.

Mrs. Dolgner and three other sons, Richard, 9, Lester, 7, and Gene, 6, got out of the car and attempted to help Dolgner push the car which had stalled on the tracks. Randall was just getting out of the car when the train hit it. He was thrown clear of the car and the auto was thrown into a ditch upon impact. The car was a total wreck and packages and groceries which the Dolgners had purchased were strewn along the tracks. Hospital attendants reported that Randall's condition had improved somewhat but he remained in serious condition.

The Dolgner family just recently moved to Cedar Grove from Beaver Dam. Two other children, a boy and a girl, were at home at the time of the accident. Dolgner was scheduled to start work at Regal Ware, Inc. in Kewaskum Monday afternoon. Officials of the plant said that Dolgner will still have a job when he reports to work.

TRUCKER IN FATAL CRASH

Mrs. Betty Gillette, 32, was killed and her husband, Steven, 42, manager of the Green Acres Country club, Northbrook, Ill., was injured when his auto collided with a Kewaskum semi-trailer cattle truck at 175th st. and Cicero ave., near Oak Forest, Ill. Monday. The truck, owned by K. A. Honeck, Sr., Kewaskum, was driven by Gilbert Korth, also of this village.

Korth was enroute to Ohio with a load of 17 cattle when the mishap occurred. It is reported that the Gillette auto drove into the side of the truck at an intersection. The truck tipped over and skidded along on its side as a result of the impact. Some of the cattle escaped and had to be rounded up. Five head were injured and had to be confiscated to a stock yard. One head strayed and could not be located. Korth was not injured.

Lee Honeck left immediately for the scene of the crash with another truck to transport the remaining cattle the rest of the way to Ohio.

KILLED WHEN CAR TIPS OVER

Returning home from Fond du Lac, John D. Maher, 55, Milwaukee, business agent and secretary-treasurer of the Pattern Makers' union, was killed at 3 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 11, when his auto skidded off Hwy. 55, one-half mile north of Waucoesta, and plunged into a ditch.

Authorities said that Maher was thrown from the car as it started to tip over after ramming into several large rocks. The car landed on him, rupturing his windpipe and causing death by strangulation.

Maher was heading south and was alone in the car. It was snowing at the time and the highway was slippery. The auto turned around completely before falling on the driver. Maher was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac.

LOCAL MAN HURT IN CRASH

Dorwin Perkins, Kewaskum, was injured when he lost control of his car and it left the road and rolled over on Hwy. 55 at the Kewaskum hill just south of the village last Thursday night. Perkins suffered fractured ribs and was a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, the past week. The highway was slippery at the time. The car was badly damaged.

Drivers, be careful and take it easy over the holidays. Let the above accidents be a warning.

3 Evening Schools in Progress at Kewaskum

Three evening schools for farmers in the area of Kewaskum have been started in the last two weeks according to D. W. Scheid, agricultural instructor at Kewaskum High school.

An evening class for young farmers is being conducted in the Kewaskum High school agricultural department farm shop on "Electric Arc Welding and Farm Mechanics." This group will be taught welding from ground up and will also get other fundamental materials on certain phases of farm mechanics. The next meeting of this group is scheduled for Monday evening, Dec. 22, at 8:00 p. m.

Another group for adult farmers is being taught in the agricultural department on "Farm Management." All the new livestock diseases, new feeds, and so forth are being covered. This group will meet again after the Christmas holidays on Thursday, Jan. 8.

Something new is being started for the farmers in this area this year in a third evening class for farmers in the Boltonville-St. Michaels area at the Washington school. This group will meet again at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 23, for their second meeting. "Feeding Farm Animals" is being discussed by this group.

Scheid pointed out that although attendance has been good at all of these meetings, there is still room for more farmers to attend. There isn't any charge for attendance or for any of the special services performed. He suggested that those interested attend the next meeting of the group they are interested in. Movies are shown at some of these meetings on the special topics discussed and special individual farm problems are always discussed at the close of each meeting.

Diplomas will be issued to those farmers who attend 60 per cent or more of the meetings.

The Kewaskum Indians surprised Campbellsport here Friday night with a neat 64-50 win to hand the Belles their first setback of the conference season. Campbellsport had won two impressive victories previously and was picked to take the Indians but Coach Mitchell's boys showed they are a fine team and stronger than expected to be. They are big, fast and good shots.

The Belles had been rated as one of the stronger teams in this area. Kewaskum's impressive win Friday gives them the honor and makes them a leading contender.

The win, the Indians fifth in six contests, moved them into a tie for first place with Oakfield. Big Hanrahan was the spark for the winners with 27 points. Hanrahan also scored 23 points in his first game against N. Fondy to give him 55 in two games. He is among the scoring leaders. R. Rodenkirch contributed 17 points to the victors' cause. Bill Ewing led the Belles scoring on 26 points and Weis got 12.

Kewaskum's small gym was packed to the rafters and many people had to be turned away. The Indians took the lead in the first period and had a 30-24 advantage at the half.

Christmas Touch to Half Ham

Maraschino cherries decorate this shank half of ham, ideal for many holiday occasions. A constant low temperature (300° F.) is recommended for cooking ham. Slow roasting results not only in less shrinkage, thus more meat to serve, but the ham is uniformly cooked and makes a more attractive appearance on your table.

You See With Your Mind, Too

The intricate process of seeing is accomplished by the mind as well as by the eyes, according to the Better Vision Institute. Normally, the eyes take pictures which the brain interprets into true images, but abnormal performance by either the brain or the eyes may greatly affect the images that are produced, or even determine whether any shall be produced.

Seeing troubles such as near-sightedness are sometimes caused entirely by mental or emotional stress, the Institute explains. Although the eyes do their part faithfully, the sight centers of the brain fall down on the job. Occasionally total loss of vision—"hysterical blindness," as it is called—results from mental conflicts.

A study of hundreds of cases where seeing powers were seriously impaired or destroyed, although the eyes were functioning well, has shown that several main factors produce such conditions. One factor is the conscious or subconscious desire not to see—the longing to escape from a baffling situation. Another is sharp emotional tension, caused principally by worry. And a third is the groundless fear that one's physical vision is in bad shape; for a person who is sure he is going blind is liable to do so psychologically, simply because the seeing areas of his brain go on strike.

Fantastic seeing habits may result from emotional conflicts. A person who unconsciously longs to escape adult responsibilities and return to childhood may develop macropsia, so that things look much larger to him than they really are, in the perspective of a small child. Another strange condition, micropsia, causes things to appear much smaller than life-size.

Equally surprising is the fact that the mental seeing areas sometimes continue to function after the eyes have become sightless. People who undergo this experience may describe what they are "looking" at in a way that has no relation to the actual scene before them. In other cases, the sight centers of the brain function so well that they compensate for poor eyesight and correct faulty images which the eyes relay to them.

It pays to avoid emotional stresses, such as prolonged anger and worry, concludes the Institute. And it also pays to have frequent eyesight examinations. If your eyesight is at fault, your vision specialist can almost always correct it. And if the seeing areas of your brain are failing, he may be able to guide you back to normal seeing.

Open House For The Holidays

A time-honored tradition, and one of our most gracious customs, is that of holding open house at the Christmas holiday season. Large groups can be entertained with ease and a minimum of work if you serve refreshments buffet style and feature a punch bowl as the main attraction. It isn't necessary to own an elaborate punch bowl. A large kitchen mixing bowl serves the purpose and such a bowl looks most attractive wreathed with greens and Christmas decorations.

Christmas Punch Bowl
 4 cups canned cranberry juice 1 cup brown sugar cocktail 2 28-oz. bottles pale dry
 4 cups grapefruit juice ginger ale
 Heat cranberry juice. Dissolve brown sugar in hot juice; add grapefruit juice; mix well; chill. Pour over ice in punch bowl. Add ice cold pale dry ginger ale. Stir gently to mix. Garnish with orange slices. Yield: 32 punch cup servings.

Thy hands have made me and fashioned me: give me understanding that I may learn Thy commandments.—(Psalms CXIX, 73.)

As children stand in need of the love and guidance of their parents, so do we all ever stand in need of the love and guidance of our Heavenly Father. In the hurry and distractions of the busiest day, let us set aside a time of quiet communion with God, that we may know His will, and obey it.

Drive Can Be Hazard

Farm driveways are a safety hazard if they don't offer a clear view of the highway for several hundred feet on either side. To test your driveway for visibility, stop your car in the driveway about ten feet from the road. If you don't have a clear view of the highway from there, you'll do well to cut back the trees or shrubs that obstruct the view.

HOW TO SOUNDPROOF AN ATTIC FLOOR

Sound is carried through floors and walls by the floor joists and studs, in addition to being carried through the plastered walls.

Ordinary types of insulation will help, but will not make a floor or wall sound-proof.

Sheet cork or wood fiber are used as sound proofing materials. These are usually listed in telephone directories under the heading of acoustical supplies.

The home owner can install this material himself.

Method No. 1

Lay the sound-proofing material on top of the floor. Cover this with plywood, at least one-fourth inch thick.

Lay the finished floor on top of the plywood.

Method No. 2

Nail or glue sound-proofing material to the walls or ceiling. It is applied with a mastic which will hold the board in place if the plaster is solid.

When using nails, be sure to set them into the board. Sound will travel through the nails if they are allowed to stick out from the board.

A. In braising, as pictured, dredge sliced liver with flour. Brown on both sides in lard or drippings, cover and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. In broiling, have liver sliced 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick. Broil at a moderate temperature, just long enough to change color, about 3 minutes on each side. For frying have liver sliced about 1/2-inch thick. Roll in seasoned flour and place in frying-pan in enough fat to cover surface of frying-pan. After liver is browned on both sides, reduce the temperature and continue cooking for a few minutes until the liver is done. In deep-fat frying have the liver cut in long, thin strips. Fry in deep-fat, heated to 360°F., until nicely browned.

Holly

©1952 National Wildlife Federation

The Virginia world opened sleepy, surprised eyes to find snow sparkling white beneath a cloudless sky. 'Twas then memory found a picture that will never fade. A holly tree with its dense tangle of thick short twigs and stiff foliage had caught innumerable puffs of clinging white. Bright red berries, rich green leaves, pure white snow and deep blue sky; strong colors intermixed with bold strokes. The melting snow wetted leaves and berries making them glisten in the Dixie sunlight. Red, white, green; white, green, red—up and up in a towering mass of resplendent tricolor like a 40-foot bouquet, against a foil of blue.

Man has noted the beauty of the holly since earliest time, says the National Wildlife Federation, as evidenced in songs, poems and folktales. The spirit of old superstitions, of gnomes, and wood sprites hangs among its twisted branches. It brings dreams of happy Christmases. Holly hanging came from the old Roman Festival of Saturn or from the Teutonic practice of hanging evergreen as refuge for sylvan spirits. In parts of England it is considered unlucky to bring holly before Christmas eve. By Darbyshire tradition the husband or wife will rule, depending on whether the holly brought in has rough leaves or smooth.

American holly is much like the European species. It grows in moist, sunny places from east Texas to New Jersey, and north along the coast of Cape Cod, Massachusetts. In Louisiana it attains a height of 100 feet, with its stocky, rough gray trunk 4 feet in diameter. In spring the inconspicuous flowers of some trees are all staminate, of the others, all pistillate. Only the latter, of course, will produce the 1/2-inch berrily fruits. Lustrous evergreen leaves, bright berries and pyramidal crown make it a fine shade or ornamental tree, particularly near the coast where it is resistant to salt spray. Europeans make hedges of it.

Holly wood is white, hard, tough, uniform and stains well. It is used for artificial ebony, colored inlays, scientific and musical instruments, wood turning, cabinetwork, interior finishing, sporting and athletic goods. The bark was employed in making bird-lime.

The holly is the state tree of Delaware. It is protected by law in several states. Before Christmas, unscrupulous people trespass and tear off branches indiscriminately, killing many trees. Holly grows slowly. No berries are borne until it is 10 years old. If the branches are cut cleanly at their junction and restraint is used, however, no harm is done. Correct holly clipping is a proper and profitable annual harvest. The public can help most in protection of this fine tree, says the National Wildlife Federation, by seeing that all boughs offered for sale were legitimately harvested. Destructive stealing must be made unprofitable or the American holly will be gone forever.

Sea Lamprey Serious Threat to Lake Trout

Madison, Wis.—The sea lamprey, blamed for the decline of lake trout in Lake Michigan, is now becoming alarmingly abundant in Lake Superior according to the findings of a conservation department spawn taking crew that operated on the northern lake on October 18 and 19.

The crew caught 470 lake trout to get about 74 quarts of eggs, the fish averaging 7.4 pounds in weight. About one of every 10 of these fish had lamprey scars. There have been some lampreys reported in Lake Superior for several years but this is the first indication of a serious infestation. Lake Superior lake trout support a considerable sport fishing enterprise besides being a valuable species.

More Unemployment
Forbes magazine tells of a youngster who liked his first day at school and increased in his liking for it throughout the week, so that when Friday came he was put out to learn from the teacher that there would be no school on Saturday or Sunday. When he got home his mother asked why he looked so depressed. "Darn it," he complained, "I've been laid off for two days."

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Christmas Angel Wings

Christmas is the cookie season and an especially good Christmas cookie is Angel Wings. This rich oatmeal cookie has a delicate crispness and a flavor that is "oh so good." They're pretty to serve too, with their lacy edges and decoration of nuts, citron and candied fruit. Try Angel Wings with a frosty fruit punch for elegant holiday entertaining.

Angel Wings

Makes 4 dozen cookies

- 1/2 cup sifted enriched flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shortening, soft
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3/4 teaspoon almond extract (optional)
- 1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked

Citron, candied cherries and chopped nuts
Sift together flour, sugar and salt into bowl. Add shortening, eggs and flavorings. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Fold in rolled oats. Drop from a teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet, allowing about 2 inches between cookies. Flatten with a knife dipped in cold water. Decorate with pieces of citron, candied cherries or nuts. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) 10 to 12 minutes until cookies are golden brown around the edges. Remove from cookie sheet immediately.

Raisins fit into part of a meal. They give quick energy and furnish some iron and other minerals. They are ideal for between meal snacks. Keep a box handy.

Raisin Bran Muffins

- 1 cup bran
- 3/4 cup flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 tablespoons molasses
- 1 tablespoon melted shortening
- 1/2 cup seeded raisins
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg well beaten

Mix and sift the flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in the bran. Add the molasses, shortening, raisins and the milk gradually. Add well beaten egg. Bake in well greased muffin tins in an oven 400 degrees for 30 minutes.

Raisin Sauce for Ham or Tongue

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- 1/2 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- Few grains mace
- 1 glass crab apple jelly

Cook sugar and water 5 minutes. Add other ingredients and cook until jelly dissolves.

Raisin Sauce for Steamed Puddings

- 1 cup seeded raisins cut fine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice

Simmer raisins in water until soft. Add sugar, cook slowly for 15 minutes. Add lemon juice.

Raisin Pie

- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 cup sour cream
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 2 cups seedless raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Pastry
Mix sugar, flour, cinnamon, and salt. Beat egg yolks slightly. Stir in sour cream, lemon juice and grated rind. Add the sugar flour mixture and stir well. Mix in raisins and nuts. Pour into pastry lined pie pan. Lay 1/2-inch pastry strips over the top in a lattice. Pinch edges of pastry strips to pie shell so they'll hold. Bake for 15 minutes in an oven 450 degrees, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 10 minutes longer.

Raisin Sticks

- Pastry
- Seedless raisins
- Butter
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- Make pastry using 3/4 cup flour, 1/4 cup shortening, salt and two tablespoons water.

Work into pastry as many seedless raisins as it will hold. Add sugar and cinnamon. Roll out in a strip 4 inches wide and 1/2 inch thick. Sift a little sugar on top and cut crosswise in strips 3/4 inch wide. Put a bit of butter on each stick and bake in an oven 450-500 degrees until brown.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes

- 6 sweet potatoes
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup water
- Salt and pepper
- Butter

Boil potatoes until tender, drain and peel. Make a thick syrup of sugar and water. Cut each potato in half, dip it in the syrup and place in a baking dish. Season each piece with salt, pepper and butter. Bake in an oven 375 degrees until the potatoes are brown, about 15 minutes, basting occasionally with the syrup.

Stuffed

Hollow centers from halves before glazing. Fill glazed potatoes with mincemeat or cranberry sauce. Heat thoroughly in oven.

Sweet Potato Balls

- 6 sweet potatoes
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- Cream
- 3 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup whole nut meats

Cook potatoes, peel and mash. Add well beaten egg yolks and enough cream to make whipping easy. Add the butter, brown sugar, and a pinch of salt. Beat it thoroughly until mixture is fluffy, then add nutmeats. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Put into buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with nuts and bake 30 minutes in an oven 350 degrees.

FROM MOUTH TO HAND—Attention of the congregation seemingly riveted on the man's hands at right. The speaker, ignored. No discourtesy is meant, however, as the people sitting in this church in Paisley, Scotland, are deaf, hence cannot hear the spoken sermon. They have been brought to this church to "see" a translation of the Rev. J. G. Haldane's sermon eloquently gestured by Mark Frame at right. The church is built in the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, has two pulpits. The one on the left is for the voiced minister, one on the right for his interpreter.

BUNDLES FOR HOME-BODIES—Front-line Thailand troops in Korea take time out from fighting to meet outside their fortified bunker and send packages back to the less fortunate folks on the home front. Presents include packs of chewing gum and cigarettes, bags of candy and soap which soldiers can obtain but which are scarce in Thailand.

CROWNING GLORY—This lovely London girl's face does not launch a thousand ships; but goes Helen of Troy one better and carries a ship of its own around with it. One of the most outlandish of English coiffures designed for the Coronation trade, this creation is named the "Tarieton," and was first shown by Riche of London.

NORTH AMERICAN NYMPHS—Three beauties from the three North American nations of Canada, Mexico and the United States make up this inspiring pyramid on water skis at Florida's Cypress Gardens. At left is Yankee, Jannette Burr; on top, Amparo Batani of Mexico, and at right, Carol Ann Duthie of Toronto, Canada.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

by Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—This is the season for economic soothsaying. The eager businessman can hear several quite-different versions of what will confront him in the next six months. Examples:

Dr. Jules Backman, professor of economics at New York University, forecasts a minor decline in 1953, lasting into 1954, but not enough to worry about unduly; Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at the same university, has predicted high-level business the next six months, with a brief, minor setback thereafter.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., went to the businessmen themselves for its preview of 1953. Of 1322 executives interviewed, 780 expect sales increases in January, February and March. Fewer than 450 of them, however, looked for higher net profits after taxes. Manufacturers, on the whole, were more optimistic than wholesalers or retailers.

OUT OF THE RED?—Gossip going around Washington is that President Truman's $85 billion budget for fiscal 1954 was a time-bomb especially loaded for Eisenhower; if Stevenson had been elected, the story goes, the budget would have been more reasonable by several billions.

Whatever truth that story contains, there's one Washington agency which apparently hopes to be out of the red ink for some time to come. That's General Services Administration, which does the federal government's buying of most supplies. GSA has contracted with W. A. Sheaffer Pen Company for an indefinite quantity of Skrip writing fluid—black, blue, and blue-black—but none of it red!

The ink order will transplant quite a few quarts of Mississippi river water all the way to the bank of the Potomac. The ink uses water from the drinking-water supply of Fort Madison, Iowa, de-ionized and purified. The town is supplied from the river.

THINGS TO COME—Clothing that keeps insects away without effort by its wearer is on the way. The Army has devised an odorless and colorless insect repellent for spraying on cloth during manufacture, and when Army needs are cared for it will be licensed for sale to civilians. . . . A portable home broadcasting set has appeared in the Christmas toy line of a Chicago manufacturer. It will broadcast through any set at a distance of 75 feet or less, and costs only $9.95. . . . Shoe manufacturers, encouraged by the welcome given nylon mesh shoes when they first appeared last spring, will be back next year with fabric uppers of gold, red and bright blue. . . . Sprayed-on green tinting to kill windshield glare will, baffle helpful filling station attendants. It's put on by pressing a button on its container, but it won't wash or wipe off.

BIG PUSH—The all-out campaign for removal of the brakes of antiquated government regulations that keep the railroads close to starvation in the midst of plenty, is moving along in high speed. Those mechanized Paul Reveres—the Eastern railroads' 100,000th and 100,001st freight cars built since World War II—are carrying the railroads' message to the public throughout the Northeastern states. Ceremonies and speechmaking are in full swing all along the routes the cars are following. All lines—however their tracks run—are directed at congressional and administrative action to modify outdated transportation policy early in 1953.

MORE COTTON—The Department of Agriculture has increased its estimate of this year's cotton crop, now being harvested, from 14.4 million bales to 14.9 million bales. The move surprised traders and users of the fiber. The Crop Estimate Board cited the ideal harvesting weather, and said recovery from the severe summer drought has been better than was expected.

While this year's crop will be less than the 16 million bales proposed as a goal at planting time, it will still add a million bales to the nation's cotton carry-over, judging from consumption so far this year.

The Board had been moving with great caution this year after the embarrassing failure of its predictions last year. Then it started out with an estimate of close to 17 million bales in August, and the final ginning was 15.1 million bales.

BITS OF BUSINESS—Flotations of new issues of stock raised only $3 billion of the $90 billion in capital added by American firms in the last five years, the Department of Commerce reported. Retained earnings provided $38 billion, depreciation allowances $18 billion, borrowings most of the rest.

"... and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the child was."

A Soap Flake Snowman

Everyone has fun when the children take part in the Christmas decorations. And the holiday will seem so much more festive to them if they can make things themselves with a little help from you. Whipping up "snow" from soap flakes is the first step, and it's so easy to do. While you're busy with a dozen other things, let the children build a snowman. It's perfect play for indoors, and will keep the kiddies happy for hours if you just get them started with a real large bowl and a rotary egg beater. Better put a damp cloth under the bowl though, to keep it from skidding.

For the snowman, use about 1 1/2 cups of water to each large box of Lux Flakes, adding more water for a whipped cream consistency to decorate Christmas tree branches. After you've helped with the beating, let the children make the snowman by molding three snowballs graduated in size, and then setting them one on the other while moist. The little arms are then molded at either side. Eyes, nose, mouth and coat buttons are made with colored buttons of different sizes. It might be fun to try hooks and eyes for the teeth. To make the hat, cut out a circular brim of heavy paper, and roll a flat strip to form the crown. This can be slit to hook together, or it may be pasted.

While it takes 4 to 5 boxes of Lux to make a ten inch snowman, there's an economy feature in that none of the soap goes to waste. It can be cut up in bars later, and used all over again. Even the crumbly bits resulting from the cutting may be dissolved and re-used. Another trick is to build each snowball around a strip of rope, designed to form a tie and a belt. Later separate the three snowballs, and let the children use them as bath balls.

The Voice Needed Most

The increased attention being given to new translations of the Bible by Protestant and Catholic alike has caused the American Bible Society to sponsor again between Thanksgiving and Christmas a worldwide reading of the greatest passages of the Bible.

It is expected that these 29 selections will be read, one a day, by millions of people in not less than 38 countries. The President of the United States is honorary chairman of a committee of distinguished laymen supporting the movement. In his endorsement of the plan the President has said:

"In these troubled times, the truths which the Bible teaches are of greater and greater importance to mankind. They are the only final answer to the forces of organized hate which now threaten the civilized world.

"I hope that the Worldwide Bible Reading program this year will be widely observed, and that more Americans than ever will take advantage of it. Whatever translations or revisions the Bible may go through, it will always remain the same great Book bearing God's message to man."

50% Of Koreans Need Aid, "Care" Reports

Approximately 10,400,000 persons in South Korea—half the total population of the country—are now in need of basic relief assistance: food, clothing, blankets, medicines, soap and shelter. The central area of Korea has been hit by a severe drought and even around Pusan in the rainy season there has been practically no rain at all and many of the rice paddies are completely dry. Government food allotments to needy persons have been reduced to two cups of rice a day. Children are afflicted with skin eruptions caused by eating grass and weeds.

That grim reminder of the continued need for CARE packages and other relief aid to civilian war victims is contained in the latest report received at CARE's Regional Headquarters in Milwaukee from Dr. Charles R. Joy, the agency's representative in Korea.

Among the millions in need, Dr. Joy cited the 294,000 widows with more than a half million children under 13. "Few realize the full extent of the tragedy Korea has suffered," he said. "The little country has lost $3,000,000,000 worth of property. The country is gripped by an inflation which is almost uncontrolled. Wages have lagged far behind."

"You cannot travel anywhere in Korea without finding CARE packages, or the cartons they came in," he wrote, "and CARE has become a household word for the hospitals, charitable institutions, refugee camps and other centers of service. Even in such remote places as the Island of Ullung, a night's boat journey out in the Sea of Japan, they had seen CARE packages. But the need in Korea grows more acute with each passing month. Korea still calls for CARE for succor."

In answer to the appeal from Korea, CARE in Milwaukee at 125 E. Wells Street will begin accepting contribution in any amount, no matter how small, for its Korean food and Korean textile CARE packages. Such contributions will be accumulated into 10 unit sets, the cost of the packages. Donors of $10 or more will receive signed receipts directly from Korea.

FM Benefits Listeners

FM, or frequency modulation, is a new method of broadcasting in which the power of the transmitter remains constant, transmitting the sound by varying the frequency of the radio wave according to the vibrations of the sound.

AM, or amplitude modulation, the conventional broadcasting as carried on by University of Wisconsin station for the past 34 years, differs from FM in this respect: the power of the AM transmitter sending out the sound varies according to the vibrations of the sound.

Because of the characteristics of frequency modulation, lightning, summer static, X-ray machines, motors, and neon signs cannot affect FM broadcasts. Programs are thus able to come through crystal clear. FM also produces a wider range of sound vibrations than the old system, giving the overtones which make for richness and quality in music, and the human voice.

"Cross-talk" from different stations which often disturbs AM reception is absent on FM intermittent fading, or the weakening and distortion of the signals, common to night-time AM reception, also is missing.

A completely non-technical picture of the difference between AM and FM broadcasting may be visualized by an analogy something like this:

Think of the transmitter as a baseball pitcher, throwing baseballs, which represent the radio waves, against your house. In one case he throws them at perfectly regular intervals, or frequencies—he uses more force with some throws, and less with others. These differences in power cause the varying sounds of the ball hitting your house. . . . Just as AM broadcasting uses differences in strength of electromagnetic waves to carry sound.

Another time imagine a robot throwing each ball with equal force—but varying the time between pitches—or modulating the frequency. That's the FM corollary.

To overcome the inadequacies of the limited daytime coverage of the present state-operated AM stations, the Council developed the plan for a network of educational, non-commercial FM stations to operate in the evening as well as in the daytime, which would serve virtually all areas of the state.

The Legislature appropriated funds for the eight stations in the network, and the last two are now reaching completion. Six FM stations are already in operation and with the addition of the two in southwestern and northwestern Wisconsin, programs designed by the State Radio Council and the University Radio Committee will be made available to areas formerly unable to hear station broadcasts.

Station WHA, Madison, is the program hub for the network. Many of the programs not originating on the campus of the University of Wisconsin are taped in other parts of the state and sent to Madison to be aired over the entire network. In this way the entire state takes part in the planning and programming of state station broadcasts.

Programs are beamed directly from one station to another, eliminating the need for wire connections. It is also possible for programs originating at any of the stations to be fed to all the others.

Bible Comment:

Gifts From Heart Are the Only True Signs of Love

BACK in the harsh period of the Exodus when the Jews were living under the most primitive circumstances, their tabernacle was a tent that far antedated the rich splendor of Solomon's Temple.

Yet somehow the atmosphere of these first crude churches expressed the true spirit of sincere worship. It revealed the essential basis of worship at any time or place. The idea of worship is more important than the place chosen or decorated for the occasion.

All who felt inspired brought offerings for the work. It seemed a consecration on the part of all. Each brought the best he had to offer.

Best of all, they brought not only things in general use but their own hand-made things as well. Thus willingness was the essence of all they gave and willingness is at the heart of all true worship.

But the truest adornment of any church or cathedral is the hearts of its worshippers. Paul said that even though one gave all one had including his own body, it was as nothing if there was no love in his heart.

Jesus defined true worship as not being in the gifts but in their spiritual contents.

"God is a spirit and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

But worship in the spirit and truth is not worship without gifts. The measure of your inward devotion is often actually the extent of the depth of the gifts.

Today, with so much suffering in the world, religion at its highest level consists of love for both God and our fellows. It finds its best expression in any act which may work toward the humanitarian goal of feeding the hungry and clothing the ragged members of the human race. One of its finest acts of self-expression in bringing warmth and shelter to homeless, suffering millions.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

In the excitement of field shooting, I wonder how often the average hunter thinks about his dog when he swings the gun on a swiftly flying game bird. Yet he should always know just where his dog is in relation both to the gun and the bird and be ready to hold his fire rather than run the risk of endangering the dog physically or upsetting him mentally.

Henry P. Davis, who knows all there is to know about dogs, says this is especially important when shooting over young dogs. He suggests putting only one shell in your gun on the first trips afield. Not only will this prevent you from succumbing to the temptation to blaze away in the event of a miss, but it will make you more careful in your marksmanship.

Try hard to kill a bird every time you shoot. And let the dog at least muzzle every bird you drop. In this way he will come to connect gunfire with the pleasure of muzzling fallen game. The gun blast will become an exciting signal instead of a terrifying experience.

Try not to shoot directly over the head of a hunting dog. Dogs' ears are highly sensitive and the concussion caused by the blast of a shotgun can cause considerable discomfort and even pain.

In hunting with a friend who is using his own dog, ask him how he wants you to approach this dog when it is pointing. The dog might be in a stage of training where certain flushing methods are important. The owner may want you to walk directly past the pointing dog or come in from the side. And respect the owner's wishes regarding the number of times to shoot on a given flush. Or as to whether or not to shoot at a bird that flushes wild. These little items may also be important in the dog's training.

If you will be cooperative with the owner, he will appreciate your companionship all the more. Let him dictate who shall flush and who shall shoot and you can be assured that he'll give you the best of the breaks.

Never try to handle the other fellow's dog. This can be a very irritating error on your part. Praise the dog whenever you can without obviously stretching the point. Remember the owner knows his dog and what he wants him to do. And what might appear to be a definite blunder to you might be a praiseworthy piece of work in the owner's eyes.

It is nice for other people to go to church and that includes you.

WIN BALL, DROP HATS—Fresh of Chicago's DePaul University bounced their way to victory in the annual frosh versus upper-class pushball contest, and won the right to discard their bright green "freshman beanies." If they had lost, the students would have been compelled by custom to wear the hats till late November. Object of the game is to push the ball over opponents' goal.

Game for Young or Old

IT'S FUN for youngsters and grown-ups alike—the tumble-bug game. For the bugs, get some capsules from your druggist. Drop a ball bearing into each, close the capsule and mark it with a colored tape, so that each player will know his own bug.

The only other equipment needed for the game is a playing board. Cut a piece of Preswood about one foot square and nail it to a block of one-inch lumber four inches wide and as long as the playing board, to form a ramp. You'll need to plane the block of wood to the proper angle to make the Preswood fit evenly.

Up to four players can participate with a board the size of the one described. Each player holds his capsule in an upright position at the top edge of the playing board. At the signal to "go," the bugs are released to tumble end over end down the ramp. The one reaching bottom first is the winner.

Crystal Makes a Tinkly Christmas!

BY EDNA MILES

THE holidays always mean more parties, more dinners, more hospitable gatherings for everyone. And this, in turn, means more work for the housewife. It's the season of the year in which she gets out her best glassware, her fine linens and polishes up her good silver.

If you're doing a great deal of entertaining this year, you might prefer to leave your crystal packed away and depend upon modern, moderately priced glassware. The latter will need only reasonable care to keep it intact and sparkling. This means less work for you. It also means that you can relax and enjoy your own parties.

To keep your inexpensive glassware shiny and bright during the holidays, try these tips for its care:

Wash it in hot, not boiling, water. And never put glasses that have just contained ice straight into hot water. Warm them gradually, then give them a quick rinse under the cold water faucet. They'll sparkle anew.

Try adding a small amount of ammonia or detergent to the water for a high shine. Then rinse the glasses in water of equal temperature and air-dry with the rims down. If you do use soap, you should towel the glasses dry.

It's best to place a rubber mat or towel in the bottom of the sink, particularly if you're washing stemware. Never crowd either the sink or the drying rack. The rack should be rubber-covered. If you haven't a rack, place the glasses rim-down on a towel to dry.

You can clean sticky milk glasses by rinsing them in lukewarm water before you wash them. Then use more lukewarm water softened with soda to remove stubborn stains.

Often, glass dishes are stacked out in the kitchen during the rush of the holidays. If this happens and if the dishes stick together, don't try to pry them apart. Instead put cold water in the inner glass and hold the outer one in warm water. They'll separate easily.

Informal table setting is very modern, is achieved with dime-store glassware, inexpensive place mats and napkins. Flower container is a budget-priced basket that can have many uses.

When you put glassware away, place the different sized pieces in rows from front to back of the shelf. This way you need not bother to reach over a low piece for a tall one. And never crowd glassware when putting it away. Crowding can cause chipping or breakage.

AUTUMN APOLOGY

By Herbert Merrill
Little skeleton sapling tree
Kidnapped from the woods by me
And hustled home upon my shoulder

Over fence and creek and boulder,
Pray forgive me if you can,
An erring but repentant man.
I'll dig a dark hole, wide and deep,

With room enough for roots to sleep,
Stretching out their crooked toes
All snug and warm beneath the snows.

I'll see there's store of drink and meat:
Crumbling, rich black earth to eat,
Draughts of water, cold and clean.

Spring, I swear, shall find you green.

BE SURE to choose a windless day to burn leaves and trash, so that sparks won't be blown around. The leaves or trash should be burned in a wire receptacle. Watch the fire until it is out, then pour water on it, just to be sure. Better to be safe than sorry.

Dispose of accumulations of paper and rags; they are fire's favorite food. Wash out and air any oily or paint-smear rags you wish to keep. Destroy the rest. Keep oily polishing rags in capped metal or glass containers. Place furnace or fireplace ashes in covered metal barrels or cans.

THE OLD-FASHIONED bowl of cold, spicy, homemade applesauce has disappeared from the table in too many busy homes. Yet it can hold its own in these days of quick meals if you streamline the cooking and straining jobs. The food mill churns a quart of applesauce in less than a minute. Just quarter the apples and cook them in a little water until tender. (You don't have to peel them. Cut out the cores and seeds if you like. This, too, isn't necessary, but we think it makes for, slightly better flavor.) Then spoon the apples into the mill and turn the handle. Add sugar and spice to taste. Applesauce is easy to can or freeze. You can make and can the sauce from a full bushel of apples in one morning, or freeze the same amount in even less time.

Fertilizer can be "sprayed" on some Wisconsin vegetable crops, according to John Schoenemann, horticulturist at the University of Wisconsin. He says spraying dilute solutions on leaves of some vegetable crops has corrected shortages of nitrogen and some minor elements.

Dairy cattle can be fed without grain, according to Vic Buralow, agronomist at the University of Wisconsin. Buralow cites three farms entered in this year's grassland farming contest. None of the three have fed grain in four years and each boasts a three hundred pound butterfat average.

Careful Fire Habits Control Fire Problem

Madison, Wis.—Anybody who thinks that forest fire catastrophes are no longer possible may wake up some day to see a glow like that of a dozen volcanoes spreading over Wisconsin to wipe out much of the soil fertility and tree growth that has been built up over the years. And this fall could be it.

It has been a good growing season for vegetation and there is a lot of it to dry into highly inflammable fuel. Fern beds have long since dried in the woods. Grass and other vegetation is drying and the trees are about to spill their browned foliage knee-deep. It has been a dry fall with what rains there have been assuring safety for but a few days. And over this country there is about to pour the great annual outflow of hunters, smoking for the most part, and everyone the potential starter of a conflagration.

Probably no where else has a state been better geared to cope with forest fires than in Wisconsin. It is a million dollar job and it has been demonstrated that it can efficiently take care of more than the normal hazards as they develop. It is a matter of organization, men and equipment. It can be stretched but it has its limits. Given a situation such as may develop this fall there could be ten thousand fires sweeping the country at once and too many fires out of bounds could very well bring a modern version of the Peshtigo fire.

The conservation department's fire fighting organization has been winning the fight for the land year after year. The hunting fraternity could possibly give it a resounding licking this fall. The conservation department assures that the problem will remain under control if every man afield is careful in the use of smokes and fire. The hazard season will run until snow permanently blankets the ground.

Holiday Blue For The Kids—It's New!

Say "Christmas" to your youngsters and see the big smiles, the vision of dreams-come-true in their eyes! Say "Let's decorate for Christmas" and see how they'll love you for letting them realize one dream so quickly—a chance to show their abilities, a chance to participate in an important family project. Give them a bowlful of lovely blue suds made from head-bluing and your young fry will be all set to make the house gay with a merry-blue that blends with ANY other color.

Here two young artists are putting the finishing touches on a picture window. Sister is painting the "welcome" candle with tiny bouquets of holly and little brother is fingerpainting his version of Santa and the reindeer so that passers-by on the street will enjoy the gay silhouette. The formula for the easy to use, easy to remove blue suds they're using is simple, the ingredients readily available: Just take a cup of bluing beads and mix with a quarter cup water to a soft foamy suds. Use a paint brush and lightly touch the tips of any Christmas greens for a bright, jeweled effect. Decorate colored or white candles to suit your holiday theme. Touch up old tree ornaments, dip strings of popped corn . . . you'll think of dozens of ways to use this versatile blue!

For a special sparkle, sprinkle on bright silver or gold dust from the dime store while the "paint" is still wet.

Bluing mixture left over? Give it a chance to do the work for which it was originally intended—add it to the hot wash water next wash day. Once you have made this a habit, you will be as happy about the whiteness and brightness of your clothes, as all the family will be over the beauty of these same bluing beads in making novel Christmas decorations!

WOMAN'S PAGES

Holiday parties spell glamor in fashions and beauty, and your coiffure is one of your most important considerations. Longer hair means there will be more ways to wear it, and coiffure jewelry is destined to assume an important role in hair fashions again.

One New York hair stylist has spotlighted his coiffure designs with real diamonds. It is his feeling that when women wear diamonds in their hair, these precious gems will get the full attention they deserve. As ornaments for a coiffure, they will be seen by more admirers.

It is unlikely that many women will be wearing real diamonds in their hair. But the variety of hair ornaments available in glittering rhinestones, in gold, silver, tortoise shell and other materials, makes it quite possible to adopt the idea of wearing jewelry in your hair; then adapt the fashion to your own pocket-book.

Rhinestones glitter as importantly as diamonds. You might choose one of the delicate filigree wire earrings studded with rhinestones. These curve completely around the ear and are most effective when worn with a sleek, brushed back coiffure.

Think of the beautiful women you know—the brunets, the blonds, the redheads. They've learned to accent their natural gifts with becomingly contoured hair-dos, harmonious makeup for eyes, skin, lips and nails; and they choose their wardrobes for color and style to enhance their individual types.

Their considered planning, though, is only one reason they're called beautiful. It would count for nothing were they not exquisitely groomed. And good grooming starts at the ironing board.

This is a rule without exception, for it applies alike to glamor girls everywhere—on the stage, in colleges, in offices, those who stay at home or roam the world. And with the new wonder fabrics giving positive proof of wearability, with automatic washing machines being as near as the next laundromat, and with a modern lightweight steam iron ready to plug in, any woman—the young, the in betweens and the more mature—can be well groomed.

Rough surfaces, artificial heat and sun are natural enemies of nylons. And the way your hosiery fits is equally as vital to long wear as to good grooming. When you select stockings, don't buy them either too long or too short. The foot size should give your toes room and the length should meet your girdle grips comfortably. Choose a brand which has elasticity, regardless of the weight you prefer, since you can't help but be conscious of stockings which bind at the wrong places. Moreover, when they're strained, they're more vulnerable to runs.

Padded hangers are a great help in keeping blouses shoulder shaped. And they offer another way, too, to use your favorite perfume. Make small cotton lined bags of ribbon. Fill them with sachet and safety pin them to the underside of the tips of the hangers. The scent will reach your other clothes and linger subtly long past the next wearing to create that aura of fragrant freshness which is a part of every well turned out woman.

Just as you do with your fine lingerie, squeeze your suit blouses through whipped up luke-warm suds—whether they are made of nylon, cotton, rayon, crepe or light wool. And while you're doing this, examine the neck and sleeve bands to see if they're weary from wear and need a little extra rubbing.

Lunchtime or snacktime, sandwiches always fill the bill. It's a good idea to keep sandwich makings on hand at all times for the family's impromptu refrigerator raids. Here's a corned beef sandwich filling which is as good tasting as it is handy for using up corned beef leftovers. It can be made from canned corn beef, too.

Ingredients are one cup coarsely ground or finely chopped cooked corned beef, two teaspoons prepared mustard, one-half cup finely chopped celery, one teaspoon grated onion and mayonnaise. Combine all ingredients, adding just enough mayonnaise to moisten.

For in this big new Ford you'll find 41 "Worth More" features that give you more of the things you want... more of the things you need... than ever before in low-priced car history.

NEW MIRACLE RIDE—Not just more responsive spring and shock absorber action, not just foam rubber cushions, but a balanced ride that gives you a new concept of comfort. SHIFT TO FORDOMATIC—and you'll never shift again. It's the finest, most versatile automatic drive ever. And remember, Ford also offers the smooth and thrifty Overdrive. POWER-PIVOT PEDALS—are suspended from above to eliminate dusty, drafty floor holes. They give more unobstructed floor space and provide easier pedal operation. CENTER-FILL FUELING—prevents hose marks, and makes "filling up" easier from either side of gas pump. Shorter gas filter pipe gives you trunk space for an extra suitcase. FULL-CIRCLE VISIBILITY—with huge, curved, one-piece windshield, a car-wide, one-piece rear window and big plexiglas windows all around—gives you visibility unlimited.
