

Mrs. Crane, Leo Ockenfels Dead

Mrs. Margaret Crane, 78, who made her home with her nephew, Dr. R. G. Edwards and wife in Kewaskum, passed away at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, Wednesday, Dec. 31. Death was attributed to a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Crane was born on July 26, 1874 in Ohio. She resided in South Dakota many years and nine years ago came to Kewaskum to make her home with the Edwards family. She was married to Peter Crane in 1917 and he preceded her in death. Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Kathryn Patterson of Ohio, and two brothers, Daniel Isaacs of Ohio and Rev. L. M. Isaacs.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Friday at Miller's Funeral home, the Rev. Gerhard Knapp presiding. Burial was made in the St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran parish cemetery.

LEO OCKENFELS

Leo Ockenfels, 50, of Adel, a former resident of Kewaskum, died on Sunday, Dec. 28, of bronchial pneumonia. He was employed as a mechanic at the Adel Foundry. Mr. Ockenfels was a son of the late John and Anna Ockenfels of Kewaskum.

Born Feb. 21, 1897 in Kewaskum, he was a resident of Adel for the past 24 years. He was married to Elsie Dippel Gaghan and she preceded him. The deceased served his country during World War I.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Amelia Brown of Seattle, Wash., Mrs. Olive Donahue of Reedsburg, Wis., Rose (Mrs. Peter Haug) of Kewaskum, and Mrs. Josephine Guth of Adel; one brother, Aloph Ockenfels of Detroit, Mich.; nieces, nephews, and other relatives.

Mr. Ockenfels was a member of the Adel American Legion post. Military services were conducted at the grave by the Adel and Kewaskum Legion posts.

Funeral services were held at 9 a. m. Wednesday from Miller's Funeral home to Holy Trinity church at 9:30. The Rev. F. C. La Burch presided and interment took place in the parish cemetery.

HERMAN POLZIN

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. at Salem Evangelical and Reformed parish, Wayne, for Herman Polzin, aged 73 years and 10 months, who died suddenly Wednesday, Dec. 24, a cerebral hemorrhage causing his death. He was in ill health since summer but was up and around each day. The Rev. Stockmeier officiated and burial was in the parish cemetery. Prior to the services the body was in state at the Miller Funeral home, Kewaskum.

Mr. Polzin was born Feb. 24, 1879 in Shawano county and came to Wayne Center at the age of 17 years. He found employment and a home with farmers. He worked 19 years as a farm hand for the late John Petri and about 20 years for the late George Petri as handy man. He also worked for the Schmidt sisters and at the Purdy Dairy Co. at Wayne. During the last 15 years he made his home with the Mrs. Anna Petri and R. George Petri families.

He was a good neighbor and faithful friend. Herman rendered a helping hand at the Salem Ev. and Reformed church, Wayne, of which he was a member most of his life. He rang the morning bell for church services on the Sunday before his death. Members of the congregation are giving a memorial in recognition of his service to his church. The community will miss him.

Surviving are five sisters, Mrs. William Lawrence, Mrs. Bertha Koehab, Mrs. John Schuetz, Mrs. Amelia Polzin and Mrs. Emma (Ladloff), all of Cecil, Wis.; two brothers, Edward and Robert Polzin of Cecil, nieces and nephews. His parents, William and Johanna Polzin, two sisters, Mrs. Carl Schmidt and Mrs. John Wolf, and two brothers, Fred and Henry Polzin, predeceased him.

The body lay in state at the Miller Funeral home, Kewaskum, on Friday and at the Salem church on Saturday until the time of services.

Farmer Injured in Fall Regains Consciousness

Charles Wilke, 76, who suffered injuries in a fall at the farm of his son, Henry Wilke, in the town of Wayne Christmas lay, came out of unconsciousness for the first time Monday at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend. Physicians reported he sustained a fractured pelvis and severe shock in the fall. Wilke had climbed a scuff toward the hay mow to help throw down hay for the cattle when he slipped and fell to the barn floor. He was removed by Kewaskum ambulance to the hospital.

BOLTONVILLE BUSY BEAVERS 4-H CLUB NEWS

A Christmas party with the Pleasant Hill Troopers and St. Michael's Workshop 4-H members as guests featured the monthly gathering of the Boltonville Busy Beavers 4-H club on Friday evening, Dec. 12, at the Modern Woodmen hall.

Fifty-two club members were welcomed with a song by Eileen Laatsch, Evelyn Staehler, Sharon Lutz, Mary Degner, and Margo Weiss. All joined in playing Odd and Even, Catch the Bacon, Ach Ya, and shouting proverbs.

"Join hands and circle left," and the club members were set to enjoy square dancing with Frank Falter, caller, and Therese Thull, accordionist. Gifts were exchanged to the jolly music of Jingle Bells.

The evening's entertainment was topped with delicious Christmas cookies, orangeade and chocolate milk served from a holiday decorated table by Mrs. John Youngbauer and Myrna Laatsch.

The evening of jollity and fun was made possible by the committee consisting of Carol Belger, Marjorie Beck, Harold Gilford, Eileen Myrna and Marilyn Laatsch and Margo Weiss. Decorations for the hall were furnished through the courtesy of the Degner Grocery.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 12.

Margo Weiss, Club Reporter

On Sunday, Dec. 28, after having been to the past two years, Mr. Miska, a retired farmer, moved to West Bend seven years ago from the town of Wayne.

Born in the town of Jackson on July 20, 1886, he resided there until his marriage to the former Lulu Jung in the town of Wayne Nov. 18, 1913. Following their marriage the couple operated a farm in the township.

Mrs. Miska survives her husband together with a son Edgar, of the town of Wayne, two daughters, Myrtle of West Bend and LaVerne (Mrs. Earl Ferguson) of Milwaukee. Old Timers Lose to Rivers Team, 55-40

LAND OF RIVERS STANDINGS Won Lost Ixonia 1 0 Juneau 3 1 KEWASKUM 2 1 Horicon 1 1 West Bend 1 2 Mayville 1 2 Fillmore 0 2 Result last week end—Juneau 70, Mayville 28. Game Saturday, Jan. 3—Ixonia at Mayville.

Games Sunday, Jan. 4—Mayville at West Bend, Kewaskum at Junction, Ixonia at Horicon. With no league game scheduled last week end, the Rivers team cooked up a game against Killy Hoenke's old timers as a preliminary to the Watertown-Kewaskum Lakes contest. The old timers held their own for a bit but ran out of gas and were defeated 55-40 by the in-shape Rivers five.

Teaming up for the old timers were former basketball players Mix Marx, Ralph Marx, Fred Dorn, Joe Miller, Barney Prost, Bernie Hafemann, Bob Schmidt and Killy Hoenke. Miller paced the ancient ones in scoring with 10 points, while Dorn and Honeck made eight and Schmidt seven. Seefeldt was high for the Rivers cagers with 14 and Loomis scored nine. The old timer will seek revenge at some later date.

Chevs Set Mark, Win 109-61; Lead League; Bilgo Tops Scorers

LAND OF LAKES STANDINGS Won Lost Kewaskum 4 1 Horicon 3 1 Random Lake 3 1 Mayville 3 1 Oakfield 3 2 West Bend 3 3 Watertown 1 3 Slinger 1 3 Hartford 1 4 Rosendale 1 4

Scores last week end—Kewaskum 109, Watertown 61; West Bend 83, Random Lake 82; West Bend 72, Slinger 71; Mayville 71, Oakfield 62; Hartford 57, Rosendale 55. Games Saturday, Jan. 3—Kewaskum at Rosendale, Horicon at Random Lake, Hartford at Watertown, Slinger at Mayville.

The Kewaskum Chevs are burning up the Land o' Lakes loop at present. They held first place in the circuit, they have the league's leading scorer, and they have scored the most points in one game of any team in the organization.

All of these firsts came about over the week end. While West Bend nosed out Random Lake, 83-82, to hand the Lakers their first setback, Kewaskum murdered Watertown here Sunday night, 109 to 61, a margin of 48 points. The victory gave the Chevs first place and dropped Random Lake into a three-way tie for second. The 109 points set a new high mark for the season in the Lakes although it is not a record. In the game Augie Bilgo, star Chevrolet guard, scored 28 points to give him a total of 101 for the season in four games and he now leads the loop. Kewaskum's high scoring quint has scored 263 points in the four contests for an average of 65.2 per game.

The point-happy Chevs kept the score respectable in the first half and tallied more points in each quarter as the tilt went on. At the quarter they led 23-11. In the second quarter they pushed in 25 buttons to take a 48-26 advantage at the intermission. In the third period they netted 26 points to Watertown's 16 and this made it 74-42. In the final stanza the winners pushed in 35 points and the visitors only 19 to bring the final count to 109-61. Kewaskum scored 61 points in the second half, as many as Watertown made in the entire game.

Trailing Bilgo for high point honors was center Fred Engel who gathered 29 for himself. Jerry Stautz added 12, Elie Ramthun 12 and Wayland Tassar 11. Gerth, Steckling and Loeffler all tied for honors for the losers, with 15 points.

JACOB GONRING OF BIG CEDAR LAKE DIES Funeral services were held Wednesday at Allenton for Jacob Gonring, well-known resort owner, who died unexpectedly Saturday afternoon after suffering a heart attack at his home at Big Cedar lake. Mr. Gonring, 61, one of Wisconsin's most prominent resort owners who devoted his life to entertaining vacationers from throughout the country, operated Gonring's resort at Big Cedar lake for 37 years.

Through the years the name of Gonring has been synonymous with the Washington county resort center which he helped put on the map. In addition to tourists, Gonring's resort had steady summer trade from many neighboring counties. Mr. Gonring took over the resort business from its founder, his father, and fashioned it into one of the Midwest's better known vacation spots.

Surviving are the widow, Mary; four daughters, Mrs. Alice Lass of Big Cedar lake, Mrs. Rosalina Holz, West Bend, Mrs. Evelyn Klug, Random Lake, and Mrs. Jeanette Grant, Milwaukee; a son, Walter, who helped operate the resort; nine brothers, including Michael, the postmaster of West Bend, and 12 grandchildren.

Services were held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Ritger chapel at Allenton and at 10 a. m. in St. Martin's church in Nabob. Burial was in the church cemetery.

NEW COUNTY OFFICERS ENTER OFFICE MONDAY Washington county's newly elected officials, who were sworn in by County Judge F. W. Bucklin at the court house in West Bend on Dec. 29, will officially take over their posts on Monday, Jan. 5.

CHIMNEY FIRE AT FARM The Kewaskum fire department answered a chimney fire call to the Carl Meinhart, Jr. farm home in the town of Kewaskum at 7:30 p. m. last Friday. The fire was put out with no damage resulting.

Hearing Tests to Begin in County Schools Jan. 5

On Jan. 5, 1953 the Washington County Hearing Conservation program will begin under the direction of the Bureau for Handicapped Children, the county superintendent of schools, the West Bend Health Department and the Washington county public health nurses. The plan is as follows: Volunteer lay women recruited through the Washington County Health Council will do the "sweep test" (by audiometer) on every child from first grade through the eighth grade and also the eleventh grade of high school. Mrs. Charles Miller of Kewaskum is county chairman of this volunteer group. Area chairmen of the volunteer groups are: Mrs. Harold Hess, A. Hiss; Mrs. Lawrence Wickert, Barton; Mrs. Donald Roemer, Erin; Mrs. Willard Grubbe, Farmington; Mrs. Victor Schoppeck, Granton; Mrs. Kenneth Pike, Hartford; Mrs. Ray Griemer, Jackson; Mrs. Charles Miller, Kewaskum and Wayne; Mrs. Albert Thiel, Poik; Mrs. Harry Kloth, Richfield; Mrs. F. P. Iselman, Trenton; Mrs. Harold Schatz, West Bend city and township.

Training classes for the volunteers were held at various centers throughout the county in December. J. D. Marks, hearing consultant from the Bureau for Handicapped Children conducted these classes. Following the "sweep test," Mr. Marks will do a "threshold acuity" test on all children who fail to pass the sweep test. These children will be tested at the various centers throughout the county. Each teacher will be notified regarding the time and place of appointment for those in her school who have failed the test and she in turn will arrange with the parents for transportation to the re-check centers. Children who are found to have a hearing loss following this second test will be given an opportunity for further study at an otology clinic to be held in West Bend on March 5, 1953. Notification of this clinic will be sent to the parents by the city and county nurses offices late in February.

The importance of good hearing in children cannot be over-emphasized particularly in the promotion of learning. However, it is further hoped by the various groups sponsoring the program that many conditions that might lead to permanent hearing loss and handicap can be discovered and corrected.

School Committee of County Resigns

Because the state superintendent of schools ruled that the Washington county school committee was without legal status and threatened to stop state aid for education to the district, the committee resigned Monday. The six members of the group submitted their resignations to the county board Monday in a letter addressed to Chairman E. M. Romaine of Kewaskum. The committee had been involved in a year-long dispute with the state official, George Watson, over a reorganization plan for county schools. Watson claimed that the plan was illegal and as a result the committee had no legal status. But the committee, supported by a circuit court ruling, contended that it was legally-appointed. When the notice came that the state aid of approximately $140,000 would not be allocated Washington county because of the "illegal" committee, the mass resignations were announced.

The committee's plan for the school district integration failed to conform entirely with the dictates of the state public instruction department, Watson said. The committee favored a union free high school program and feared the possibility of a school consolidation with another county. Notice carrying the threat of no more school aids was received Dec. 10 by Washington county's school superintendent, Harry Sheski. The county board now must name a new committee to succeed resigned members Thomas O'Meara, who was chairman, and Walter Gadow, Elmer Happel, Edwin Hansman, Raymond Leplen and Melvin Riley. Washington county's board of supervisors Monday voted to raise $485,000 bond issue for financing a new county jail and erecting new highway department buildings.

Bright Gift For A Bright Girl

Mothers who teach room care to teen-age daughters are helping establish a good lifetime habit, too, for orderliness learned at home helps girls become better students, better business women, and better homemakers.

Let your teen-ager's room be her project. Let it be her responsibility to pick up, hang up, dust and sweep. To encourage neatness, give her a carpet sweeper this Christmas for her room—one she can keep in her closet. Choose a bright fashion color, perhaps marigold yellow or poppy red, so that its very color reminds her of its use. With one of these small, vivid carpet sweepers just arm's length away, she'll use it every day to keep her rug or carpet ready for your compliments. Fashion color carpet sweepers, approved for daily rug care, are available in housewares departments, hardware stores, and many carpet and rug stores.

Turn To Grass For Profits Say Economists

"Grassland farming is okay—but it's not for me! I can't pay the bills with grass." Maybe you've heard a neighbor put it that way.

But the truth is, you can pay the bills with grass.

Farm economists maintain that grassland farming provides the most economical way to feed livestock, and to feed them well.

Soil conservation is a by-product of grassland farming. But it's a very important by-product.

The economists point out that this area is primarily a grass country. Farmers should make the most of it for hay, pasture, and silage. Home grown feed is one solution for the terrifically high operating costs. So there's no argument that grass won't pay the bills if it's good grass... alfalfa and brome or improved clovers.

Grassland farming is pointed toward best possible soil use. It does not mean doing away with corn, but growing crops best suited to the land. The soil is the important thing. Crops should not be judged alone on yield or value per acre of grass versus corn. There are other factors. Grass improves soil texture and moisture holding capacity. Over the long haul the profits are better.

In summary, the economists say that grassland agriculture is a means to a healthy livestock agriculture. It helps save the soil. It saves labor costs. And it brings in a good income.

Oh that I were as in months past, as in the days when God preserved me.—(Job XXIX, 1.)

So cries many an unhappy man and woman who, once having been in the grace of the Lord, is now without it, through stubborn willfulness. It is wonderful, though, that the way back into His love, guidance and help always is open, to the seeking heart.

Pineapple Nut Bread

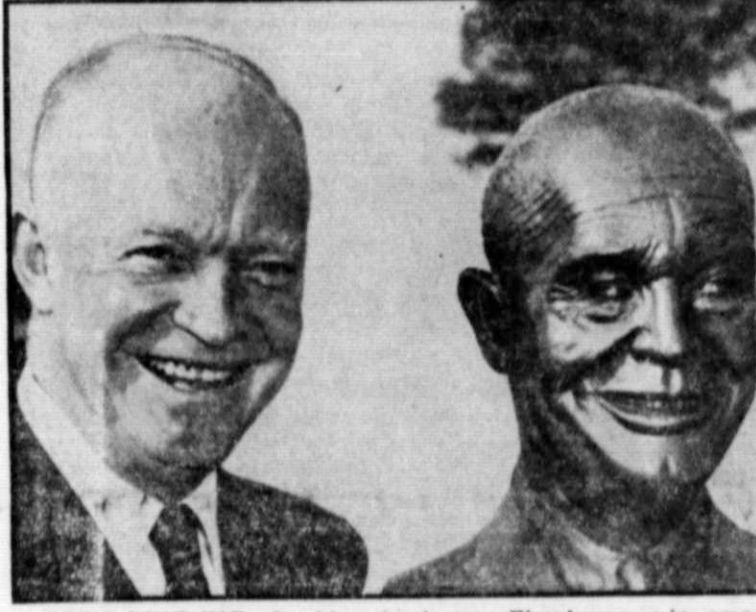

2 1/4 cups sifted flour
3/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup shredded whole bran
3/4 cup chopped nuts
1 1/2 cups crushed pineapple undrained
1 egg well beaten
3 tablespoons shortening melted

Sift flour, sugar, salt, baking powder and soda 3 times. Stir in remaining ingredients, mixing only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in a greased loaf pan 9" x 4" x 3" in an oven 350 degrees for 1 1/4 hours. This bread keeps moist 7 to 10 days and slices best when a day old.

ROOF FLASHING FOR THE BUILT-ON ROOM

A good flashing job where that built-on room joins the house is very important. In order to be sure that you have a water-tight job, use sheet metal flashing. Galvanized iron, 28 gauge, is commonly used. Copper or aluminum are better. Apply the flashing at the same time you put on the shingles.

Begin at the bottom of the roof and work upward.

Make sure that each piece of flashing overlaps the piece below by at least six inches. It is a good idea to apply roofing cement on top of the flashing where the shingles are laid. If the roof is flat, it may be possible to use one long strip of metal as illustrated. Where you have chipped out mortar between the brick to install the flashing, be sure to re-seal the joint with mortar or roofing cement. Paint first with tinner's red, then with regular outside paint. The color should blend with the other colors in the house.

BIG PROBLEM—Using over-size instruments, Arlington Heights, Ill., High School math teacher Roderick McLennan, at right, outlines details of a problem in geometry to William Gregory, at left, and Robert Bloeker, center. The super-size method of teaching geometry is being used here for the first time. If proven successful, it may be adopted by many other schools across the country.

MAN-EATER AND MAN—Kneeling beside the undersea monster he snagged while on location in the Fiji Islands is movie actor Burt Lancaster, who grins as he remembers reeling in the 450-pound shark. The deadly fish measured eight feet, six inches long, had over 600 saw-like teeth in its wide mouth. Lancaster is in the Fijis working on a new movie.

Are You Color-Blind?

Don't be too sure that your color perception is normal unless it has been adequately tested. counsels the Better Vision Institute. Most color-blind people vehemently deny it when they are told of their short-coming. This is probably explained by two facts: (1) If you have never experienced normal color vision, you don't know what you're missing; and (2) You learn that grass is green, for example, and come to know the color of grass as green, even though you do not see it in the same way that normal people do.

Science has not completely solved the riddle of color vision, but it has discovered a good deal on the subject. Extremely few people are afflicted with total color blindness, so that they see only black, white and various intensities of gray. The most common form of color blindness is dichromatism, or the inability to distinguish more than two types of hues—yellows and blues. Most dichromats see red, yellow, and green as different saturations of yellow, and are apt to confuse certain shades of these colors with one another. They also confuse bluish greens, blues, and violets, and have trouble distinguishing a particular shade of blue-green from gray. A third type of color blindness is so slight that the term "color weakness" describes it better. Color-weak people have little trouble except in telling the very pale browns, tans, greens and pinks apart.

Color blindness is present in about 7.5 per cent of the men and .5 per cent of the women. It is generally inherited, as a sex-linked recessive characteristic, but occasionally it results from injury to the eye, the optic nerve, or the visual centers of the brain. Sometimes it comes from excessive use of toxic substances, such as digitalis and nicotine. Scientists have experimented with many ideas for curing color blindness, from injection of cobra venom to electrical stimulation of the eyeball. But so far they have found no permanent remedy, except that when toxic substances are the cause their removal frequently effects a cure. Perhaps some day further progress will be made. In the meantime, the Institute points out, faulty color vision can cause trouble in various phases of life and is sometimes even responsible for accidents involving death. If all school children were given eyesight examinations which would detect it, and sensible vocational guidance, many of them would be prevented from undertaking occupations for which they are unfit.

BEST CHRISTMAS PRESENT you can give yourself is plenty of free time to enjoy the family and fun on the special day.

Try these "save-yourself" ideas when planning the big dinner so you're not confined to the kitchen.

1. Serve cold (or hot) tomato juice with crisp celery sticks for the before-dinner course in the living room. Holds the hungry till dinner is ready. Use festive paper cups for the juice.
2. Make a gelatine salad the day before to serve for the feast. Good combination is lemon gelatine with diced apples, celery, and walnuts.
3. Have a luscious dessert ready. Bake a package of white cake mix a day or so ahead. At dessert time, cut cake in wedges. Top each with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and some whole cranberry sauce.

ATTENTION - GETTER at the Christmas feast is the glorious platter of meat. A Heavenly Ham Loaf will be a big hit and is kind to your food budget. It looks as pretty as a centerpiece when you decorate the top of the loaf with a wreath cut from green pepper.

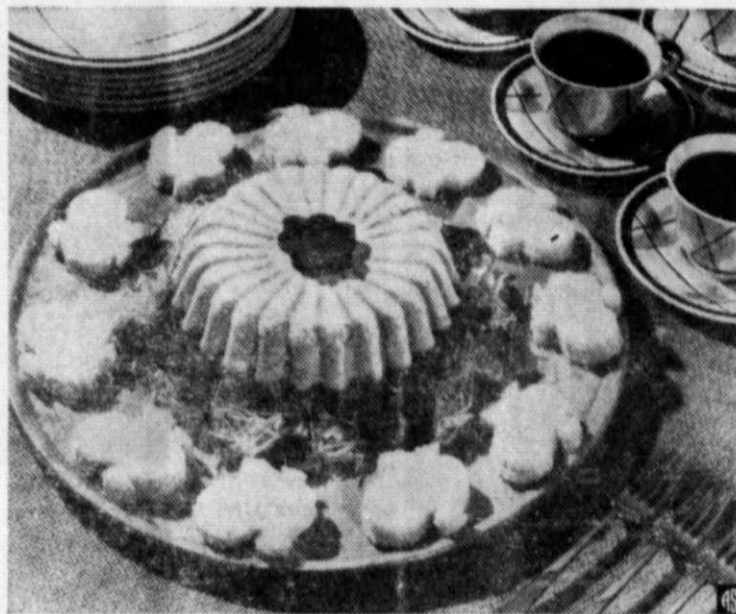

Heavenly Ham Loaf

1 pound ground veal	3 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 pound ground smoked ham	2 eggs, beaten
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs	1/4 cup ketchup
1/2 teaspoon salt	1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon pepper	1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed tomato soup
3 tablespoons minced onion

Combine ingredients in order given; mix thoroughly. Pack ham loaf lightly into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 1 hour. Pour off juice, loosen edges, and invert on platter. Garnish if desired with green pepper or pimiento or sliced stuffed olives and sprigs of parsley.

Gelatine Presents Turkey Anew

Turkey left over from the holiday meal and cranberry jelly make a new and festive reappearance in a two-tone gelatine salad. Both layers of the cranberry turkey salad are prepared with unflavored gelatine, the kind that allows maximum enjoyment of natural flavors and colors. One envelope of gelatine combined with mayonnaise and left-over turkey makes a creamy layer, and the second envelope molds the cranberry jelly to supply brightness and tartness to the dish. Serve salad on cabbage slaw and surround with bread and butter sandwiches cut with turkey cookie cutter.

Cranberry Turkey Salad

Layer I
 1 envelope unflavored gelatine 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/2 cup cold chicken bouillon 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
 1/2 cup hot chicken bouillon 1 cup diced cooked turkey
 1/4 teaspoon salt 3 tablespoons minced green pepper
 1/4 cup diced celery

Soften gelatine in cold chicken bouillon. Add hot bouillon and salt and stir until dissolved. Cool, add lemon juice and mayonnaise. Stir in turkey, green pepper and celery. Pour into large mold; chill until almost firm. While this mixture is chilling, prepare the following cranberry mixture.

Layer II
 1 envelope unflavored gelatine 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup cold water 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/4 cup hot water 1 1/2-pound can jellied cranberry sauce

Soften gelatine in cold water. Dissolve in hot water, stirring thoroughly. Add salt and lemon juice. If desired, cut a 1/2-inch thick slice from jellied cranberry sauce; cut with scalloped cookie cutter; reserve for garnishing finished mold. Crush remaining sauce with a fork. Add to gelatine mixture; beat with rotary beater until smooth. Turn on top of first layer. Chill until firm. Unmold and surround with cabbage slaw. YIELD: 10 servings.

Can you make a coffee cake that even the men folk will rave about? If you are afraid you can't, here are a few recipes that will insure your success as a coffee cake expert.

Almond Butter Coffee Cake

1/4 cup sugar	1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt	1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup shortening	1 tablespoon butter
1 cup milk, scalded	1 cup diced turkey
1 yeast cake softened in warm water	3 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 egg	1/4 cup diced celery
3 1/2 cups sifted flour
Mace-cardamom

Add sugar, salt and shortening to milk and cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast and let stand 5 minutes. Add egg and 1 1/4 cups flour. Beat well. Add remaining flour sifted with the spices. Knead well. Let rise until doubled in bulk about 1 1/2 hours. Knead down and let rise again. Shape into 2 coffee cakes and place in greased pan. Let rise 15 minutes. Spread almond mixture on top and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in an oven 375 degrees, 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Almond Mixture

2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon chopped almonds

Cook sugar, honey, and butter until it spins a thread. Add almonds and spread on cake.

Rich Coffee Cake

1 cup milk scalded
1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 yeast cake softened in 1/4 cup lukewarm water
2 1/2 cups flour
1 cup butter
Cream

Add shortening, sugar and salt to scalded milk. Cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast and enough flour to knead. Turn onto a slightly floured cloth. Knead, return to bowl, cover, let rise until doubled in bulk. Chill in refrigerator at least 1 hour. Turn onto slightly floured cloth, pat and roll into a rectangle 1/4-inch thick. Spread with 4 tablespoons creamed butter and fold from ends toward center, making 3 layers. Turn quarter way round, pat, roll out as before, and again spread with 4 tablespoons butter. Repeat twice. Chill 2 hours or longer. Divide in half. Shape into 2 coffee cakes. Place in a greased pan covered with brown paper. Chill 20 minutes. Brush with cream. Bake in an oven 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Spicy Apple Coffee Cake

2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup grated nippy cheese
2/3 to 3/4 cup milk
2 to 3 apples

Imperial Elegance, Old and New!

Ancient tradition and modern design meet in the court dress of Great Britain. At left is seen the elaborate costume worn by Sir George Bell, Garter King of Arms as he carries the seal of his office and prepares to lead a procession into the House of Lords. His clothing has great historical significance and was designed far back in England's history. At right is a pretty English model displaying one of Great Britain's latest gowns offered for the approval of Queen Elizabeth II and her sister, Princess Margaret. The dress of cream-colored silk satin, is draped into a fan-bodice atop a sheath skirt which is framed by a regal train.

ELECTRONIC TEMPERATURE TAKER—A newly developed electronic thermometer takes temperatures twice as accurately as the old fashioned thermometer and 60 times as fast. Waiting the few seconds necessary to take a reading is pretty blond Philadelphia blood donor, Ariene Delaney. Ready to write the figure down is Red Cross Nurse Mary Douglas. Developed by Minneapolis-Honeywell engineers, the device will speed up blood donation time in case of disaster when many donations must be taken quickly.

Citrus Solves Christmas Gift Problems

Today, citrus is our biggest fruit crop, and low in cost by comparison with many of our foods. This time of year the quality of oranges, tangerines, and grapefruit coming from Florida is right at its peak, which makes citrus a good item to use in concocting Christmas goodies, whether they are to be wrapped as thoughtful homemade gifts or served at holiday meals. Here are some unusual ideas for their use—cloves, tangerine poinsettias or grapefruit halves for a sensible light dessert; a new marmalade to make at little cost and tuck in stockings.

Spicy Orange Marmalade

6 Florida oranges	1/2 cup raisins, ground
6 cups water	2 inch piece stick cinnamon
6 cups sugar	1/4 cup vinegar

Using the point of a paring knife, remove orange peel in quarters. Discard center membrane and seeds; dice pulp. Put peel through food chopper using coarse blade. Cover ground peel with water and bring to a boil. Cook until peel is tender. Add diced pulp and continue cooking until mixture reduces to about 1/2 its original volume. Add sugar, vinegar, cinnamon and raisins. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Cook slowly until mixture is thickened, stirring frequently. Mixture has been cooked sufficiently when the syrup drops, not runs from the spoon. Stir in nuts. Turn into hot sterilized glasses filling to within 1/2 inch of the top. Cool and skim. Seal with hot paraffin at once. YIELD: 10 6-oz. glasses.

CUTEST CHILD CONTESTANTS

Here are the pictures of the children of Kewaskum and community taken by the Woltz Studios at the Modern Woodmen hall some time back in a cutest child contest. The contest was sponsored by the studio in co-operation with the Statesman.

This was not a beauty contest. The winners were selected for character and personality as reflected in the portrait. The local winners in the contest were James Giese, 2½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Giese, Kewaskum, and Leah, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Klugas, Kewaskum.

The pictures were delayed for a length of time in arriving to us from the Woltz Studios.

The Statesman has a picture of each of the entrants and parents may have them free of charge by calling for them at our office.

The children, their ages at the time the photos were taken, and names of their parents are as follows:

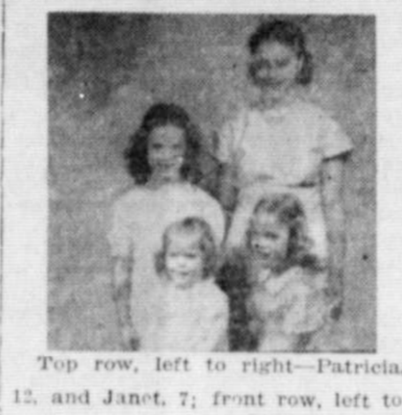

Top row, left to right—Barbara, 4 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ebert, Kewaskum; Kirstin, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Ebert, Kewaskum; Kathleen, 7 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin H. Ramthun, Kewaskum.

Bottom row, left to right—Susan, 6 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bartelt, Kewaskum; Bernadette, 2, and Carolyn, 2 months, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Falk, Kewaskum.

John, 2, and David, 2, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dreier, Kewaskum.

Grace, 10, Pearl, 9, and Ralph, 11, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Theusch, Kewaskum.

Chevrolet Launches 1953 Drive

Maryanne Carney gamely faces the herculean task of filling out 8,000 newspaper advertising orders which will be used in the announcement of Chevrolet's widely discussed 1953 passenger cars. Actually, Maryanne will get plenty of help on the assignment, but her position among the stacks of insertion orders emphasizes the promotional power behind the event.

NEW YEARS RESOLUTIONS

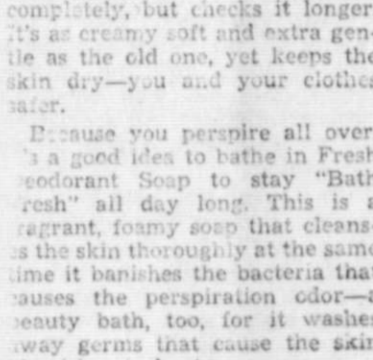

By TONI WOODWARD—ANS Features, Beauty Editor
OUT WITH THE OLD YEAR and in with the new . . . calls for new resolutions from us to you. Your first one, we believe, should be this bright ditty for '53.
 "Always groom yourself as though you're meeting your best beau." With this in mind the year through, even if all other good intentions fall by the wayside, your hair will be smooth as silk, your skin soft as a petal and your body fresh and clean as a daisy.

Cleanliness, of course, is the first rule of good grooming, for glamour is nil without it. At least a bath a day, and a good deodorant is a "must," too often forgotten during cool winter days. There's a gentle new Fresh moisture-control deodorant that not only stops underarm odor completely, but checks it longer. It's as creamy soft and extra gentle as the old one, yet keeps the skin dry—you and your clothes safer.
 Because you perspire all over, a good idea is to bathe in Fresh deodorant Soap to stay "Bath fresh" all day long. This is a fragrant, foamy soap that cleanses the skin thoroughly at the same time it banishes the bacteria that causes the perspiration odor—a beauty bath, too, for it washes away germs that cause the skin blemishes to boot.
 We can't praise this soap too highly on the excellent job it does of reducing the possibilities of skin infection and other externally caused skin irritations. It rids the skin of surface bacteria, overlooked by improper cleansing, and is so gentle that even a baby's skin is perfectly safe with its use.

 Satisfy your skin must be . . . with narry a hair showing through those sheer nylons . . . for it's just as unattractive with stockings as without.
 One hundred strokes nightly for your hair . . . and don't be afraid that you'll brush out the curls even if they're not natural ones. A good pig bristle has deep penetrating power that brings up the natural highlights.
 In case of doubt about cosmetics, there's no finer way to keep the texture of your skin lovely, than cleansing your face nightly with a good lanolin cream.

Chipped nails, unclean hair, body and clothes are out with the old year . . . and whether you're a social butterfly or a career gal you'll see that it pays big dividends in '53.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—Good news for taxpayers: It looks very much as if the next move in federal income tax rates, both personal and corporate, would be downward. Rep. Daniel A. Reed (Rep. N. Y.), next chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, promises to introduce a tax reduction bill on the first day of the new Congress. He wants to cut back personal tax rates 11 per cent in two bites, half on June 30, 1953, the rest a year later.

Also, the so-called excess profits tax on corporations is scheduled to expire June 30, 1953, and spokesmen for industries suffering from heavy excise taxes—imposed at the same time as EPT—want to make sure their burdens are lifted at the same time. There is little sentiment for renewing EPT, and its demise will give a push to cutting the other levies. It won't do to grant savings to big taxpayers and not to smaller ones.

Moreover, high taxes were one of the issues in the recent campaign. Democrats looking forward to the 1954 elections will not want to label themselves again the party of high taxes. Some Republican and conservative Democrats voices have been raised in favor of deferring tax reductions until promised budget cuts begin to show their effect, but this view is not likely to prevail.

HOT PROBLEM—With 239 television stations broadcasting and 900 applications pending for new ones, electronics, the science which made television possible, has a hot problem—too much heat in the studios.

B. C. Benson of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company says projected new studios must be designed properly to dissipate the energy-sapping heat of bright lights and performers packed into small quarters. TV studios must have 100 foot-candles of light per square foot of area, and each person throws off a minimum of 400 BTU an hour. Electronic temperature controls, the kind that anticipate changes in cooling requirements, have the problem in hand, says Mr. Benson.

THINGS TO COME—Twelve-denier nylon—the sheerest now made is 15 denier—may appear in women's stockings next year. The householder who changes his own fuses may soon be able to buy a plastic fuse-gripper to avoid shocks. Gas and electric appliances will soon appear with safety knobs which children can't turn on. A cash register has been developed which doubles as an adding machine when its recording device is thrown out of gear, and its maker is working on one which will record purchase data on a tape for inventory control, etc.

CHAMPIONS ALL—Winston Churchill, Saul Steinberg, Norman Rockwell and other famous artists painted the Christmas cards which were selected and sent by business and professional men from Hallmark Greeting Card company's "For Men of Business" album.

This album, one of nine offered this year by the Hallmark company, represented a special effort to bring businessmen, industrialists and professional leaders into quality stores throughout the nation for their Christmas greetings. Stressing the theme of quality, Hallmark chose famous artists to provide the originality (with dignity) it felt was required for the type of buyer the album was intended to attract.

Selections were appropriate for men of every business or profession.

FADING CONTROLS—Wage and price controls will not long survive, once the Eisenhower administration takes office. The Joint Congressional Committee on Defense Production said last week that the controls had achieved their purpose of halting inflation.

Industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board met last week in New York to suggest burying their segment of control. Tighe Woods, head of the Office of Price Stabilization, has resigned, with Mike DiSalle, former OPS chief, called back as a caretaker. The CIO convention offered its solution: Abandon wage controls, keep price and rent ceilings.

Steel controls—except for those on plate, heavy structural shapes and some bars—won't be needed after the second quarter of 1953, says the Defense Production Agency. Men's clothing is de-controlled, because no one is getting ceiling prices anyway.

In brief, production has done the job, so control prepares to take a bow and disappear in the wings.

MRS. R. O.: Is it true that overweight is a cause of perspiring feet?
ANSWER: Excessive perspiration of the feet is common in those who are overweight. Added weight puts more of a burden on the feet and perspiration is one expression of protest.

Sheer Runproofs With Surprise Heel

Have you always put runproof stockings in the "practical" rather than the "pretty" category? Then there's a wonderful discovery in store for you — a new runproof stocking so lovely it rivals your favorite dress-up sheers. It has all the beauty of regular 15 deniers. It's sheer—very, very sheer—yet it will never spoil a perfect evening by popping an unsightly run.

But the surprise feature is its heel! Instead of being knit in mesh, as the rest of the stocking is, the heel is knit just like the heel on a regular sheer stocking. It's also proportioned to fit individual leg dimensions so that it won't slip down into a shoe or bunch up into ugly wrinkles.

Best yet—it's one of Belle-Sharmer's famous leg-size stockings — not just a medium-length stocking that has to be adjusted to every leg regardless of shape. It comes in leg sizes that differ in width as well as length. There's never any bagging or binding. It fits so snugly it's like a second lovelier skin.

McCall's Brings Happiness To Wis. Farm Family Dogged By Tragedy

The Kenowskis of Plover, Wisconsin, knew only defeat in their constant struggle with hard luck. A heart ailment of her own, two deformed children, the back-breaking chores on a farm that had no running water, no electricity and no plumbing made life seem bleak indeed to Mrs. Kenowski and to the family that "could never get ahead." But McCall's Magazine changed all that when it played Santa Claus. Under the direction of Household Equipment Editor Elizabeth Sweeney Herbert, water and electricity and a completely equipped kitchen were installed. The story of what the change meant to this courageous family is told in the December issue.

"The Kenowski farm is one hundred & twenty acres, a dairy and grain farm of which two-thirds is under plow. It is small as Wisconsin farms go, but it would be adequate under normal circumstances. But the Kenowski family is not a usual one. The little boy was born with club feet and the little girl, without the outer ear structure. Both require months of hospital care, constant care at home, and a great deal of money. All this, and housework and farm work in a house as lacking in convenience as one had ever been.

"Raised on a farm herself, Gwen Kenowski was not afraid of hard work. But left with a heart ailment after little Linda's birth, Gwen found the backbreaking work on this primitive farm well beyond her strength. Every drop of water used had to be pumped and carried in from the well, wood toted for the cookstove, oil lamps cleaned and filled. All of these jobs fell upon the woman, and in this case it was year-around.

"Clarence left the farm in winter to work at a foundry in a city

a hundred miles away for the cash money they needed so desperately. In his absence Gwen took on the feeding and milking of their ten cows too, cleaned and filled the milk cans, dragged them by sled to the road—after shoveling a path. After the heavy work was done, there was washing and ironing with an old-fashioned sadiron and canning and sewing on into the night.

"And then Gwen wrote to McCall's a year ago—bitterly—'Don't you ever write in your magazine about people who can't get ahead? You fill your pages with pictures of smiling, happy families. And why shouldn't they smile when things come easy?' And so McCall's proceeded to bring joy to the hearts of the Kenowskis.

"The Kenowskis got a power line and a water line. Two manufacturers supplied a range, refrigerator and water heater, an automatic washer and dryer, and kitchen cabinets and sink.

"When we visited the Kenowskis a month later, it was a new family that greeted us. A mother who has learned to smile again, children happy enough to get into mischief. 'Running water in the house, all I want of it, and just by turning a faucet—that's the greatest blessing of all. You can't know what it means if you've never done without it,' said Mrs. Kenowski.

"Imagine the timesaving, food-saving, health-giving difference that electric refrigeration alone made to Gwen's housekeeping. No more heavy lifting when she washes and needs water may prolong her life many years."

Bible Comment:

Jesus Is Always The Same Toward All True Christians

THE author of the Epistle to the Hebrews describes Jesus as the Christ Eternal in his description: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever."

In the present, we read this as a very comforting thought. It offers hope and comfort to us as we see the persistent failure of our aspiration for peace on earth and goodwill toward men.

But Christ the Eternal is the Prince of Peace. There is hope for peace as long as there are men praying the prayer. His prayer, which begins: "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven."

It is no doubt the great amount of lust and greed, hate and fear abroad in the world cause the cynical people to ask: "What is the use of hoping for peace?"

But dark as it is, the world would be a great deal darker without the Prince of Peace. How stygian the earth would be without the men of goodwill striving to do His will.

Jesus told us the Kingdom of God was within us. May we be thankful for the many to whom that Kingdom has already come. And as for the millions who do not accept the Kingdom of God in their hearts, we caution, there can be no sudden transformation.

Time means little to the world. Though it seems that many years have passed since Christ's birth, and longer still since the days of the prophets, we must remember that to eternity, this period is but a minute of time.

It is important to remember that man's slowness at accepting and following the way of God does not mean God has forgotten us.

Because it was just before He died, that the Prince of Peace left this message: "As of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

What a wonderful message for the Christmas season.

Question: I plan on closing two windows of my home with glass block panels. I want to make the frames for the glass block before removing the windows. Can you tell me the usual thickness of a house wall (the house is 27 years old) so that I will know what width to make the frame for the blocks? I need the figures on plaster thickness, studs, sheathing, etc. —W. C. R., New York City.

Answer: Walls vary too much in thickness for an accurate answer. Averages are: plaster 3/4-inch, lath (wood) 3/8-inch, studs 3 3/4-inches, sheathing 3/4-inch. Total therefore would be 5-5/8 inches. However, plaster may be as much as 1 1/4 inches. Better plan would be to make the frame to fit the glass block, using trim moldings to adjust to variable figures.

Question: The paint on ceiling and walls of my kitchen is cracked and peeling. This was caused by a burst water pipe, before I bought the house. I have tried to remove the remaining paint from the smooth plaster with a torch with little success. Is there an easier way to remove the paint, or can I paint over the old paint removing the loose particles with a scraper? —J.F.D., Asheville, N. C.

Answer: You might try one of the paint removers which softens paint for the scraper to remove. Or a power sander would remove the worst of the paint and bevel the edges between good and bad areas. You'll probably have some plaster to repair, also. Sanding will do the whole job quicker, then size with shellac, and repaint.

Question: How do I mix stucco to be applied to cement blocks? —A. H. E., Wilmington, Del.

Answer: Mix 1 part Portland cement with 2 1/2 parts clean, sharp sand, and add 10% lime if not in the cement you buy, then add water to the well-mixed ingredients to make a thick paste-like stucco. This is spread over the wet wall, starting at the bottom and working upward, until about 1/8-inch coat is applied, or thicker if the wall is rough. You can add dry coloring matter if you wish, at the time of mixing.

Question: Our 3-room camp on a lake has 3 unfinished upstairs rooms which become terrifically hot during the day but cool off at night. We want to insulate under the roof but wonder whether to use mineral wool bats (in which wasps might easily nest) or aluminum foil (which would be easier to apply). —C. G. C., Laconia, N. H.

Answer: For eliminating heat, foil insulation—which seals out up to 85% of radiant heat rays of the sun—would probably be best, cheapest, and easiest to apply. Complete details on all types of insulation were presented in The Family Handyman's December-January issue.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

Do fishing contests aid or injure angling as a sport? Bill Wolf, the foremost iconoclast among outdoor writers, is agin them. He says there is a commercial or vainglorious motive behind all of them, even in their most innocent forms, and it is impossible to see how any contest furthers fishing as a sport. No one needs the lure of a possible prize to find fishing interesting.

Such competitive events foster cheating, lying and other unscrupulous practices. They breed bitterness and quarrels. They discourage sportsmanship. They pat the fish killer and the fish hog on the back, because contests must have dead entries. They make a mockery of conservation, and turn the quiet, contemplative non-competitive sport of angling into a crass, commercial competition.

Let's look at children's contests, surely the most innocuous kind—or are they? Wolf tells of such a contest held annually near his home. Merchants and individuals donate prizes and there are so many that the officials had to invent categories. There were prizes for the fattest boy angler, the prettiest girl, the smallest child, the one who came the greatest distance. All a child had to do was catch a fish to win something.

The event was held at a dam across a creek flowing through a park. It had been stocked with 800 bluegills and 100 carp for the occasion. It was a big event and a good time was had by all, especially the self-congratulatory adults—but have you ever watched such a kids' event? The entire emphasis was on catching something somehow, and not on teaching the children anything about fishing or sportsmanship. It was a greedy race to see who could kill a fish to win a baseball bat or a wagon. Fish and fishing became a means to an end, rather than an end in themselves, and it would be a smart child, indeed, who learned about sportsmanship from such an event.

And another thing—it is illegal to plant carp in that state. Yet the persons who ran the contest, knowing nothing of fishing or such laws, stocked the creek with carp.

Such contests, unfortunately, are becoming very common across the nation. It is almost sacrilege to say, as Wolf does, that such contests are so much bumcombe and should be abolished. They do not teach a child anything about fishing. They do learn a bit about cheating and poor sportsmanship, and regard fish as something to be caught to win a prize.

I believe a child should be taken fishing and instructed individually—when it is old enough to take care of itself along a stream or on water, when it is capable enough not to be a nuisance to the adult, and when it can take care of its own tackle. Anything else is misery for the adult, as the contest managers often learn.

Spoon Bread

- 2 cups white corn meal
 - 2 cups boiling water
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 3 tablespoons melted shortening
 - 1 1/2 cups milk
 - 3 eggs separated
- Sift corn meal 3 times and mix with boiling water, stirring until smooth and free from lumps. Add salt, shortening, milk and beaten egg yolks. Beat whites stiff but not dry, and fold in. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in an oven 350 degrees 45 minutes. Serve hot in buttered dish with butter.

FIXIN-UP TIPS
For Farm and Home

Profits in Roadside Stand
FARMERS will find it profitable to sell their produce directly to consumers, particularly if they are located adjacent to a well-traveled highway. There, in a roadside stand, they can offer for sale fresh fruit, vegetables, honey, nuts and other products which have an appeal to motorists.

Such a stand can be a steady source of income during the harvest season, whether it is operated daily or only on weekends. Appearance of the stand can spell the difference between a poor or good season, when the receipts are totaled.

A serviceable structure can be built easily by nailing Masonite 1/4" Tempered Presdwood to a framework of 2x4-inch lumber spaced 16 inches apart. For the display shelves, it's a good idea also to use Tempered Presdwood, because it can be kept clean easily and won't absorb food odors. It is moisture-resistant, too, and customers won't get splinters when they pick up an item for close inspection.

A let-down front can keep the stand closed securely overnight. Built as suggested, this stand may remain outdoors the year around. It should be given a prime coat of paint and two coats of exterior quality. A well-constructed stand can be built at reasonable cost. It will soon pay for itself and should last many seasons.

How Old Is Thirty? Social Experts Say It Begins A Girl's Finest Years

How old is a woman at thirty? Is it too late for her to be attractive, find a husband or have children? The experts say emphatically not, according to Robert L. Heilbroner in McCall's Magazine. If you are emotionally mature enough to meet the challenge, it can be the beginning of your best and most productive years. Writing in the December issue, he tells you what he learned after discussing the problem with a sociologist, a psychiatrist, an obstetrician, a fashion expert and a beauty consultant:

"A thirty-year-old girl with lovely hands ruined by chewed fingernails told me if she didn't get married within six months she'd never get married. A thirty-one-year-old housewife wearing a teen-age dirndl said she was afraid she'd waited too long to have children. A young-looking career girl said, 'When I think I am going to be thirty next year, I could die!'"

"Not all women feel this way about reaching their thirtieth birthday, but those who do, feel that their useful years have come to an end. Why is this?"

"Thirty is certainly not old statistically. The life-insurance companies will bet on you for another forty-five years. Nor is it old by Hollywood standards. The average age of established movie stars is nearer thirty-five than thirty, and the list of actresses who admit to being over forty includes a good many of the most glamorous women of the stage and screen."

"What about marriage? Nine out of ten women at thirty have husbands, and the chances are fifty-fifty that the tenth one will be married before long. The married woman at thirty usually has two children. And at thirty, the typical woman is at an age when maximum earning power is just beginning. Children? Most likely two."

"The trouble with thirty," said the sociologist, "is that our attitudes about it haven't caught up with the facts. Mature life starts later in a complex culture like our own. Thirty today is just the threshold of maturity."

"But we still have an emotional carry-over from days in which thirty was old. In the 1880s and 1890s a woman of thirty had lived half of her statistically allotted span of years. She was expected to be married and the mother of a brood of four or five. At thirty many matrons, already worn down by repeated childbirth, put on little caps, donned black and became members of the Older Generation."

"There's no reason why a woman must be married by thirty," said the psychiatrist I consulted in his office on Madison Avenue. "This whole business of counting years is ridiculous. Thirty is a problem age. Not because it is sharply marked off physically or psychologically from the years before or after. It is a problem because society points a finger. But at thirty she finally recognizes her daydreams for what they are. She knows her make-believe days are over. If this happens suddenly at thirty, then thirty can come as a dreadful shock. But if she is emotionally mature, thirty should be the beginning of the best years of her life—the years of true self-fulfillment."

"A fashion expert on Fifth Avenue said, 'In her twenties a girl dresses to be fashionable. In her thirties she should dress to be herself. In Europe thirty is considered the age of a woman's fullest beauty, and a European woman knows it. She dresses the way she knows she'll look best, to bring out her best points and to minimize her weaknesses. As a result, she often has true style, not just fashion-plate style.'"

"A beauty consultant backed her up. 'At thirty a woman can be something that is practically impossible earlier. She can be elegant. She can have the carriage and poise and assurance of someone who knows herself. The twenties may be the age of good looks, but thirty is the age of beauty.'"

Diabetes Detection Is Life-Saving

There are still too many people who have diabetes and don't know it.

The campaign conducted by doctors' organizations annually at this time of year to find these people, is endorsed as a life-saving measure by the Minnesota State Medical association.

The discovery that diabetes could be controlled by the regular administration of insulin was one of the triumphs of modern medicine, but its life-giving benefits are tragically limited by the fact that the people who need it most are likely to be the ones who are hardest to reach.

The tests for the presence of the disorder are standard and simple. They include urine and blood tests, and a routine physical examination will reveal the presence or absence of the difficulty. Anyone who hasn't reported for a physical check-up lately would be certain to benefit by a special examination with diabetes detection in mind, whether or not he is found to have it.

Overweight, especially, is regarded by physicians as a predisposing factor in the development of diabetes in adults. There are, of course, other factors involved including, in some instances, heredity. But too much fat may help bring on the trouble and many other troubles as well.

It is even more important to check up on children, the doctors say. Too often ailing children have active or latent diabetes which is not discovered until disaster threatens. With the simple means of discovery available and effective means of control at hand, no one should have to suffer from the dangers of uncontrolled diabetes.

AUTUMN FANTASY
By Dorothy Welty Walker

Down leaf-lost paths of green and gray,
Summer dances
With bold, bright glances
For Autumn in his gold beret.

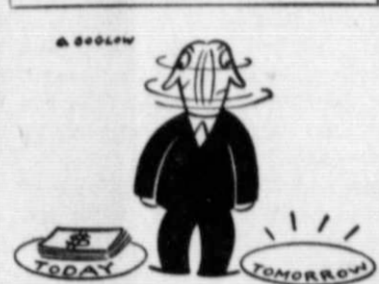

With burning eyes and soul on fire,
Autumn follows,
Through knolls and hollows,
Through sumac thicket, scrub and brier.

Until on a hill, he droops forlorn,
His gold cap battered,
His tunic tattered,
His heart impaled on a red hawthorn.

Long lost is summer's emerald gown.

The winds are crying,
Where Autumn's dying,
And leaves are burned a bitter brown.

Every woman knows the value of changing shoes for comfort as well as for style, but do you know the comfort of having them completely accessible? As with your hats, your shoe wardrobe can be both visible and protected from dust when stored in plastic boxes. In case you haven't a full supply of them, the boxes your shoes come in will do nicely if you label them clearly. In this way your right shoe will know what your left shoe is doing and that hurried confusion so fatal to poise and grooming will be conspicuously absent from the pleasant ritual of dressing.

Crasses and the wrinkles are gone from your clothing in a matter of minutes if you use a steam iron. Light weight garments may be pressed without dampening, at medium heat. Dark cottons and all linens should be pressed on the wrong side to prevent shine. The use of a pressing cloth will keep your hard finished, dark colored gabardines from getting shiny. If you're a new comer to the ironing board, you'll make a more professional job of it, if you'll press your dress pockets first, then the sleeves, collars, bodices and the skirts last of all.

To renew the nap on suede or doekin gloves, get out your steam iron. Place the gloves on the ironing board. Set the iron on rayon and hold it about an inch above the gloves. Direct the steam straight on them. Go over the fabric, before the gloves are thoroughly dry, with a soft bristled brush. Unless you're partial to rolling gloves up to keep them in pairs, folding them takes less space and has an added advantage of letting you find in a split second the pair you want to wear with a specific costume.

A brand new recipe for brownies makes them the perfect spur of the moment refreshment. Using this brownie method, you can make a generous batch of chewy, rich brownies in just a few minutes. Prepared biscuit mix and packaged quick fudge mix are the easy to measure, quick to mix ingredients. Keep this recipe handy. You'll use it often.

Combine these ingredients: One and one-fourth cups prepared biscuit mix, one package quick fudge mix, three tablespoons shortening, one-fourth cup milk and two eggs. Measure biscuit mix into bowl. Add quick fudge mix, shortening, milk and eggs. Blend all ingredients thoroughly. Spread in greased pan, seven and one-half inches by 12 inches. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 40 minutes.

If using chocolate or vanilla tea-leaf mix add one cup chopped walnuts and one cup coconut quick fudge mix add three-fourths teaspoon almond extract and three-fourths cup chopped almonds.

If you ever have to live "off the land," venison is a good way to begin. Since it has less fat and more muscle than some meat, venison needs longer cooking in moist heat. If you'll use your pressure saucepan you can cut down on actual cooking time to ensure a juicy and tender dish. A little wine tenderizes the meat further and lends a fine taste to complement the game.

Braised venison uses these ingredients: Venison ham, center cut, about four pounds; clove garlic, one cup sherry, two tablespoons fat, four to six slices bacon or salt pork, one bay leaf, one-half cup liquid (from marinade) and parsley or watercress sprigs.

Rub venison with cut clove of garlic, cover with one cup sherry and marinate (covered) in refrigerator for two or three days; turn once or twice. Heat cooker and fat. Brown venison in hot fat on all sides. Arrange slices of bacon over meat; add bay leaf. Measure one-half cup liquid from marinade; add to venison. Cover cooker immediately. Allow steam to flow from vent pipe. Place indicator on vent pipe and cook 35 minutes with stem in cook position. Cool cooker at once. Remove bay leaf. Serve on preheated platter with hot liquid poured over venison. If a thicker sauce is desired, reserve three tablespoons fat, add three tablespoons sifted flour, add to pot liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

CARD OF THANKS

The kindness and sympathy of neighbors and friends in our late sorrow, the death of our dear brother, Herman Polzin, will always remain with us a precious memory. We are sincerely grateful for all those comforting acts and especially to Rev. Stockmeier, the organist and choir, pallbearers, Miller's, for the floral pieces and memorial wreaths, and to all who showed their respect.
