Mr. Metz was born July 22, 1867, at Kewaskum and was married in 1896 to Katherine Kohl.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Robert Turk, Fond du Lac.

MRS. ANNA C. MEILINGER

Burial in St. Michael's cemetery, St. Michaels, followed funeral rites which were conducted at St. Agnes church, Milwaukee, for Mrs. Anna C. Meilinger, a former resident of the town of Farmington. Mrs. Meilinger died on Monday, March 30, after having sustained a heart attack. The Rev. Herbst officiated at the last rites and committal rites were conducted by the Rev. F. Eschweiler.

Mrs. Meilinger was born in the town of Farmington on Jan. 15, 1877 and resided there until 1934 when she became a resident of Milwaukee. Her marriage to Mr. Meilinger took place at St. Michael's church on May 30, 1893. He preceded her in death on March 7, 1925. They were the parents of four sons and

Playoff for Lakes Grand Championship Cancelled

The playoff series for the grand championship of the Land o' Lakes basketball league between the Kewaskum Chevrolets, northern division titlists, and the southern division champs has been cancelled. The southern division winner was not determined until last week. Because the Kewaskum team has been idle for the past three weeks and because of the lateness of the season it was decided not to play for the grand championship this year.

ROMANY SINGERS AT E & R CHURCH, WEST BEND, APR. 29

The Romany Singers, an all-girl group of professionally trained and perfectly blended voices, will appear at the Evangelical and Reformed church, West Bend, Wednesday evening, April 29. Organized in 1941 as the Victory Singers, the group immediately won the approval of critical audiences and judges. They attracted national attention when they won first place in the Chicago Music Land festival, appearing at Soldier's Field before 50,000 people.

Well known to local residents for their numerous radio and television activities, the Romany Singers just completed two years on the High Life time television show. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be received. The public is invited.

ROY M. JOHNSON

Roy M. Johnson, formerly known here as Benno Johnson, Clarksville, Ill. contractor, a native of Kewaskum, drowned early Saturday in New Lake, north of DeKalb, Ill. He had gone fishing with Francis Sale of Clarksville. Their boat was only about sixty feet out from the shore, powered by an outboard motor, when the bottom of the craft apparently gave way. The boat filled so rapidly that it sank in a matter of seconds. Both jumped but Johnson was unable to swim and went down only a few feet from where the boat sank. Sale was just about ready to give up when his feet touched the lake bottom.

Funeral services were held in the First Christian church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Charles McDowell, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Martin Pike of Gladewater, Ill. former pastor. Interment was in Fairview.

Honorary pallbearers were Masons, Odd Fellows and members of his Sunday school class.

Mr. Johnson, resident of Clarksville the past 32 years, was a deacon of First Christian church, present master of Clarksville Lodge No. 16, A. F. and A. M., past noble grand of Bois d'Arc Lodge No. 36, IOOF, and member of the Rebekah Lodge.

Members of the Masonic lodge there conducted burial rites.

He was born in Kewaskum Jan. 8, 1890, son of Carl and Eva (Petri) Johnson. He married Miss Vera Nagle at Clarksville Jan. 26, 1922.

Surviving are his wife, a son, Roy M. Johnson, Jr., of Cleburne and two grandchildren.

County Spelling Bee Contest On Saturday

Washington county is participating in the Badger Spelling Bee conducted annually by the State Journal of Madison. The elimination contest will be held in the McLane school in West Bend April 11. The contest will begin at 1:15. All contestants are urged to be on time.

Supt. Fred Holt will pronounce the words and three judges will be in charge of the decisions.

The champion county speller will go to Madison on April 25 to be entertained at a luncheon and to compete in the state finals. The state champion will be given a free trip to Washington, D. C. to compete in the national finals on May 21.

The Journal is giving some recognition to the eight best spellers in the state finals at Madison.

Rules, regulations, and some suggestive word lists have been given to all schools in Washington county. The participation in the contest promises to be excellent.

The following rules are in brief and the requirements to be met by the contestants.

1. Spellers form a line and spelling starts with the right end and goes toward the left.
2. The pronouncing master gives the words crisply with full accent on all syllables.
3. Words are defined when requested.
4. Misspelling one word means leaving the line and a new word is pronounced for the next in line.
5. This procedure is followed until the line is reduced to two spellers. THEN the speller who first corrects a word misspelled by the other and then spells the next word on the list, is declared the winner.
6. Spellers may pronounce words before spelling them, after spelling them, or not at all.
7. Having started to spell a word, contestant is given no opportunity to change letters once pronounced.
8. Spellers may retrace, but letters cannot be changed.
9. Contestant may request that a word be re-pronounced, defined, or used in a sentence.
10. If a homonym is not defined, then either spelling must be accepted.
11. If a homonym is defined then the word defined must be spelled.
12. Any question regarding the spelling of a word must be referred to the judges.

Garbage Disposal Orders

There has been flagrant disobedience of the rules regarding the proper disposal of garbage, tins, glass and ashes in the village.

All refuse excepting garbage must be placed in metal containers with tightly fitting covers. These cans must not exceed 30 gallon capacity in order that two men can empty them easily. These cans must be placed at your curb every other Wednesday morning for collection. Please rinse your tins in order to reduce the hazard of flies—remember polio may be caused by flies.

All garbage must be wrapped well with several layers of paper. After the garbage has been emptied wash the can and expose to sun to dry for a few hours. This reduces the fly hazard a great deal. All covers must fit tightly. Place your garbage at your curb for collection on Monday and Friday mornings. Remember! No glass or tins in the garbage.

All garbage cans shall be removed from the curb after they have been emptied.

Hereafter the garbage collectors shall refuse to empty garbage that has not been properly wrapped; legal action will ensue should anyone refuse to obey the rules.

Eberle, Sparks and Stellpflug Elected Trustees

ED. SCHAEFER BEATEN; 3-9 VOTES CAST; "YES" BALLOT ON REAPPORTIONMENT REFERENDUM WINS 2 TO 1 IN VILLAGE

A total of 249 votes were cast in the village in the spring election Tuesday. This figure is slightly more than half of the number of votes cast locally in the presidential election last fall.

The main reason for attracting voters here was the village ticket, on which there were eight candidates for the three trustee offices elected. Incumbent trustee Joseph Eberle was re-elected to office. He led all candidates by a wide margin, polling 225 votes, forty more than the next best vote getter. The other incumbent, Edward Schaefer, was defeated. He received 93 votes to rate sixth among the candidates. The third incumbent, George Hansen, was not a candidate for re-election.

Two new trustees were elected to office. They are John G. Stellpflug, who polled 185 votes, the second largest number, and Charles Sparks, who ran third with 155 votes. Sparks is a former trustee, who was defeated for election the last time out. Sparks defeated K. A. Honeck, Jr. by only 15 votes. Honeck polled 140 votes and ran neck and neck with Sparks in the counting. Other defeated candidates included Elich F. Jeske, Arvin Merwin, and Anthony F. Schaeffer.

President Charles Miller, Supervisor Elwyn M. Romaine, Assessor Ed. A. Bartelt, and Justice of the Peace Lyle W. Bartelt all were re-elected without opposition. Romaine polled the largest number of votes, receiving 296. A number of ballots had to be thrown out because the voters cast their ballots for more than three trustee candidates.

The voting went as follows: President—Charles Miller 285. Trustees—Joseph Eberle 225, K. A. Honeck, Jr. 140, Erich F. Jeske 12, Arvin Merwin 94, Edward Schaefer 93, Anthony F. Schaeffer 57, Charles Sparks 155, John G. Stellpflug 185. Supervisor—Elwyn M. Romaine 296. Assessor—Ed. A. Bartelt 285. Justice of the Peace—Lyle W. Bartelt 275.

By a margin of almost 2 to 1, Kewaskum electors supported the "Yes" vote on the reapportionment referendum. A total of 227 "Yes" votes were cast and there were 117 "No" votes. "Yes" voters also were ahead in Washington county by a margin of 4,897 to 3,948. With all but 74 of the state's 1,235 precincts complete, the referendum favoring a constitutional amendment for area-population reapportionment of the Wisconsin senate stood approved by a vote of 412,445 to 294,429 in the state. The heavy rural vote cast on this referendum was regarded as the major contributing factor in bringing about a "Yes" victory.

On the referendum referring to the election of circuit and supreme court judges in the village there were 166 "Yes" votes cast and 139 "No." Sixty-four ballots were left blank on this referendum. The measure, which would have eliminated the necessity of circuit and supreme court judges seeking re-election for an unexpired term following their appointment to the bench, was supported in the county by a vote of 2,997 to 3,791. Throughout the state on this referendum in 2,371 precincts was 275,246 for the change and 186,629 against it.

In the village for justice of the supreme court Timothy Brown won out over Perry J. Stearns, 215 votes to 82. There were 53 blank ballots. In the county Brown garnered 5,866 votes to only 2,157 for Stearns. In the state Justice Brown was re-elected to the supreme court for a full 10-year term by a margin of more than 90,000 votes over Stearns. Returns from 2,866 precincts gave Brown 357,517 and Stearns 255,875.

Judge William O'Connell, unopposed for the circuit court post in this district was re-elected with 277 votes in the village and 8,803 in the county.

George E. Watson, unopposed for state superintendent of schools, received 270 votes in the village and

Red Cross Gray Ladies See Large Enrollment

Recognizing the need for volunteers at the West Bend hospital, more than 40 women from West Bend and the surrounding towns have signed application blanks for service with the Red Cross Gray Ladies, according to an announcement by Mrs. James F. Baumgartner, chairman. With several days left before applications will be closed, Mrs. Baumgartner said. "The response from the women in West Bend has been terrific. We didn't anticipate anything like this. The organization staff has been working day and night getting everything in readiness to accommodate the crowd we expect at our first orientation meeting Monday night, April 13, at the hospital."

Coupled with Mrs. Baumgartner's announcement came an endorsement from the staff doctors at St. Joseph's hospital for the Gray Ladies.

In addition to Monday night's orientation meeting, two more lectures on hospital routine, equipment and regulations will be held at the same time, 7:30 p. m., on Wednesday and Friday evenings, April 15 and 17. The distinctive uniforms of the Gray Ladies will be ordered Friday night. Each volunteer is required to serve a minimum of three hours a month.

Officers include Mrs. J. F. Baumgartner, chairman; Mrs. Carl Schneider, vice-chairman; Mrs. Wm. Frederick and Mrs. John Baumgartner, unit chairmen. Prospective members are urged to mail applications to Mrs. J. F. Baumgartner at 545 S. Seventh avenue, West Bend, or call her at 1306. Or if it's more convenient, contact any of the other officers.

A partial listing of members who have already indicated their willingness to serve include Mmes. Albert Gensman, E. C. Backhaus, Gladys Lalekic, Stuart Eickelberg, Carl Pfister, Robert Dillon, Robert Rolfs, Elsie Gruber, Alex Bauer, Harold Leiser, H. P. Dittman, Gene Brumm, Charles Walter, Jr., Matt Weiss, Warren Cooley, Geo. Berger, Harvey Schmidt, Paul Bartelt, Marion Kelley and Edwin Gerhardt, and Miss Estelle Hildendorf.

TOWN OF KEWASKUM

Harry D. Sheski, unopposed for the post of county superintendent of schools, was re-elected with 9,648 votes from his county supporters. Residents of Kewaskum gave Sheski 273 votes.

TOWN OF KEWASKUM

In the town of Kewaskum ballot incumbent first side supervisor Henry Muekerheide was re-elected over his opponent, William Lettow, by a margin of almost 2 to 1. Treasurer Lloyd Schmidt was opposed by Ada Mellahn but was re-elected by 24 votes. The voting follows: Chairman—Ed. Campbell 123. First side supervisor—Henry C. Muekerheide 58, Wm. Lettow 47. Second side supervisor—Arnold Amerling 120. Clerk—Alfred Seefeldt 125. Treasurer—Lloyd Schmidt 84, Ada Mellahn 50. Assessor—John Etta 120.

TOWN OF WAYNE

Town Chairman George Peter, 187, re-elected; supervisors, Mike Dermody, 175, and John Oehlafen, 185; clerk, Paul C. Moritz, 192; treasurer, Oscar Boegel, 182; assessor, Fred Pamperin, 121, defeated Arnold Hawig, Jr., 102; justice of the peace, Bernard Strobel, 187.

TOWN OF AUBURN

Chairman William Wunder defeated Henry Sauder, 192 to 95; first side supervisor, Henry Ketter; second side supervisor, Erwin Matties; clerk, Reuben Backhaus; treasurer, Joseph E. Schiltz; assessor, Elmer A. Krueger; justice of the peace, Stanley Poruban; constable, Harold Giese.

Town of Auburn voters decidedly were in favor of two advisory referendums. They cast a total of 269 votes for one question as to whether a new bridge should be constructed on a town road east of Highway 55 near the Washington county line. Results were 204 for the construction and 65 against. Auburn voters also favored 185 to 85 to purchase the school near New Prospect for a town hall. The town board will not take immediate action on the votes, according to the chairman, William Wunder, but will be guided eventually by the results.

County Adult Band Will Be Organized

The organization of a Washington county adult band may soon become a reality.

Anyone interested in joining the band is requested to clip and fill out the registration blank below. Also list the instrument which you can play and indicate whether or not you own an instrument.

Forming of the county band is part of the cultural arts project being conducted in Washington county through funds from the Rockefeller foundation. The first meeting date has been set for Monday, April 13, in West Bend.

Area representatives in the county to whom you may send your enrollment blank are H. M. Shlimovitz, West Bend; Peter Ayer, Kewaskum; Howard Emerson, Slinger; and Bill Roddick, Hartford. Shlimovitz stressed that high school students are not eligible to join the band. Efforts were being made to find an adequate meeting place in West Bend where practice sessions could be conducted.

If you know of anyone who might like to become a member of the band, please send his or her name and address to one of the area representatives.

Bernard James, a social scientist of the University of Wisconsin, is acting as project analyst for the University Extension division's recently inaugurated program to assist and promote cultural art activities in the Washington county area—which includes the organization of the county adult band, the forming of a creative writers club and other activities. He has established his residence in West Bend for the next few months.

Good Poultry Flock Is Real Farm Asset

A healthy, vigorous, poultry flock can make a big boost in a Wisconsin farmer's income, according to Agricultural Agent Fred Evert of Burnett County.

Whether you have only 20 or 30 laying hens or a large commercial flock, it pays to give those birds the best possible care.

He says it's best for one person who likes poultry to care for the laying flock.

At least 150 hens are necessary for a profitable commercial flock. If you want a larger flock, increase the number in units of 150. You can profitably convert part of a hay mow into space for a laying flock.

Cull the flock regularly to keep production costs down. Get your chicks from reliable breeders and raise them under good sanitary conditions with a complete ration. Use vaccines when necessary to prevent diseases.

If you hatch your own eggs, do it early enough to have pullets matured and ready for production by September. Keep the old laying flock in production during summer and early fall.

Grit Self-Feeder

It takes just a few minutes to make this handy grit, or oyster shell self feeder for poultry. All you need is a nail keg and a tin can. Saw three inches off the bottom end of one stave of the keg for the outlet. Then, use a one-pound coffee can for the feed trough. Cut this down the seam—then back along the bottom three inches. Then bend the sides out to form "wings." Finally, shape the scoop-like bottom of the can so it fits into the keg opening, tack the "wings" to the keg, and you have a feeder!

KRAUT COLOR INDICATES GOOD FLAVOR, VITAMINS

You'd better check the color of sauerkraut when it's packaged in puffed bags, according to University of Wisconsin researchers. For it's the color that indicates vitamin C content and good flavor.

Kraut packed in bags tends to darken in color when it is stored, especially when exposed to fluorescent lights.

Tests showed that packages of sauerkraut stored in a dark place for a month kept their light color. In contrast, the kraut stored

ATTIC DAMPNESS

The first consideration in getting rid of attic dampness is ventilation. If damp air cannot escape, the moisture condenses as it is cooled, and collects on any cold surface.

It is apt to curl shingles on the roof, cause paint to peel from siding, or run down vent pipes and ruin the plaster.

Install louvers at each end of the attic, large enough to provide ventilation. This can be figured on the basis of attic floor area.

There should be one square foot of louver opening for each 300 square feet of attic floor space.

If your louvers are not large enough, ventilation may be forced with an electric fan. An ordinary household fan will help, but to get best results, a regular attic fan should be used.

Have the fan wired so that it can be controlled by a switch from the room below.

To prevent moisture from penetrating walls, paint the walls with two coats of aluminum paint. Regular paint or wall paper can be used over the aluminum paint.

Controlling the sources of moisture in the air will also help. Ventilate the house frequently on nice sunny days. Remove cooking and laundry vapors with exhaust fans.

Psychiatry Lesson

By Orin R. Yost, M.D.
Medical Director, Edgewood Sanitarium

(Editor's Note: Dr. Yost is a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia at Richmond, studied psychiatry at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D. C., taught psychiatry at Columbia University, New York, was division psychiatrist of the 79th division in World War II, and is presently Medical Director of Edgewood Sanitarium Foundation.)

HOME ENVIRONMENT AFFECTS OUR EMOTIONS

It is not a difficult thing today to recognize the need for treatment or surgical removal of growth when an unsightly goiter appears, or to recognize the need for dental work when cavities are found in the teeth. Neither does one have to be told that he has developed a hernia in his side or a sty at the margin of his eyelid.

Before man learned the great truths of psychology, he believed that a person was well developed mentally if he had learned a large amount of facts; but today, we know that a "healthy mind" does not mean one that has been fed on just facts, but rather one that enables its owner to make a good adjustment to life.

There are many different factors which cause emotional disorders. If more people realized there are distinct signs of emotional disorder, which often show themselves in advance of the actual "breaking point," they could avoid much useless suffering and needless expense. If people realized that unnatural behavior is a sign that the mind is in need of a psychiatrist—that is, a person who has been expertly trained to treat illnesses of the emotions—there would be far fewer cases of disturbed emotions.

Though it is far easier to feel the painful chest discomfort, the labored breathing and the high fever, people must learn to recognize the signs of abnormal behavior, such as extreme nervousness, unnatural daydreaming, morbid fear, anti-social tendencies and immature actions.

In selecting a home site, you would not pick out a swampy, malarial district lest your physical health be impaired. Is it not, therefore, easy to see that if man's mental nature is to develop aright, it likewise must be nurtured in a wholesome environment?

From the moment at which the parents of an infant begin training him by curbing his rebellious spirit, discouraging his selfishness and urging him to do things considered "acceptable," that individual begins the development of his emotional life. If he continues to be hostile, uncooperative, given to fears, broodings and griefs, his emotional nature will not be properly nurtured. If he continues to live under tension and nervous strain and his morbid fears become chronic, it is possible that during some crucial life period, as puberty, adolescence or a later growth stage, one significant factor such as a tragic wreck or the death of a loved one might prove sufficient to produce an emotional disorder.

Constant bickerings and tension in the home, in school, in business, as well as guilt over past conduct, fear of impending trouble, lack of security, lack of love, incompatibility between mates and a feeling of rejection are as poisonous to the emotional nature of the individual when the "ingredients" are endured for a long time, as bichloride of mercury would be to one's throat.

Butterscotch Cream

The whole family will applaud the good flavor and interesting texture of this dessert, quick butterscotch tapioca cream. Combine one egg white, two tablespoons brown sugar, one egg yolk, two cups milk, one-third cup brown sugar, firmly packed; one-eighth teaspoon salt, three tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, two tablespoons butter and one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg white until foamy throughout; add two tablespoons brown sugar, one tablespoon at a time, and continue beating with rotary egg beater until mixture will stand in soft peaks. Set aside.

Mix egg yolk with about one-fourth cup of the milk in sauce pan. Add sugar, salt, tapioca, butter and remaining milk. Place over medium heat and cook until mixture comes to a boil, stirring constantly—this takes five to eight minutes. Pour small amount of hot tapioca mixture gradually on beaten egg white, blending well. Then quickly add remaining mixture, stirring constantly. The hotter the tapioca and the faster it is blended in, the thicker and fluffier the pudding will be. Add vanilla. Cool, stirring once after 15 to 20 minutes. Chill. Serve plain, with whipped cream or with butterscotch sundae sauce. Makes four or five servings.

Of Course

"I tell you, old friends are best."
"That's right! Just try to think of a new friend that has stood by you as long as the old ones?"

Peach Fiesta Cake... A Sunny Dessert

Add sunshine to your table with a golden California special, Peach Fiesta Cake. It's an easy-to-make dessert delight using packaged white or yellow cake mix topped with whipped cream and luscious canned cling peach slices. Grown primarily in California, cling peaches are an especially popular canned fruit because of their firm texture and golden color.

Peach Fiesta Cake

1 20-ounce package white or yellow cake mix
1 No. 2½ can cling peach slices
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Shaved chocolate

Prepare and bake layers according to directions on package. Cool. Drain peach slices. Fill and top cake with whipped cream and peach slices. Place small amount of shaved chocolate in center of top layer. YIELD: 1 8-inch cake.

A loaf cake is always welcome when company is expected. It slices neatly and is served easily. Some people prefer to serve them without any icing; the icing is a personal preference. They are much better served fresh.

Fruited Pound Cake Loaf

1 cup butter
1 cup powdered sugar
5 eggs
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ cups citron cut up
1½ cups black walnuts chopped
½ cup preserved ginger sliced
½ cup candied cherries sliced

Cream butter until very light, add sugar a little at a time, beating in thoroughly. Beat eggs well and add a little at the time, beating well after each addition. Sift and add the flour and baking powder. Add nuts and fruit. Bake in a well greased loaf pan in an oven 300 degrees.

Banana Date Nut Loaf Cake

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
2 eggs unbeaten
1 cup mashed ripe bananas
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup chopped dates

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt into mixing bowl. Add shortening, eggs and 1/3 cup bananas. Beat 2 minutes at slow to medium speed with electric mixer or 2 minutes by hand. Scrape down bowl and beater frequently during mixing. Add remaining 2/3 cup bananas, milk and vanilla. Beat 1 minute longer, scraping down bowl. Fold in chopped nuts and dates. Turn into a well greased loaf pan and bake in an oven 350 degrees for 55 minutes or until cake is done. Serve plain or topped with whipped cream, applesauce or hard sauce, if desired.

Marshmallow Chocolate Loaf Cake

3 squares unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces
¾ cup milk
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter
1 1/3 cups sugar
8 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored
1 1/3 teaspoon vanilla

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler until chocolate is melted. Blend and cool. Sift flour, baking powder and salt 3 times. Cream butter thoroughly. Add egg yolks and vanilla, then add flour alternately with the chocolate mixture, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in a greased pan 8" x 8" x 12" in an oven 325 degrees 25 minutes, then increase heat to 350 degrees and bake 45 minutes longer. Turn from pan and while still warm, cover bottom with marshmallows that have been rinsed with cold water and cut in halves crosswise. When cake is almost cold, cover with Hungarian Chocolate Frosting.

Hungarian Chocolate Frosting

4 squares unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces
2 tablespoons hot water
2 eggs well beaten
1 cup confectioners sugar
½ cup butter washed in cold water to remove salt

Melt chocolate in double boiler, add water and blend. Add eggs and sugar. Remove from fire, but allow mixture to stand over hot water, stirring constantly until slightly thickened, about 3 minutes. Cool quickly to lukewarm. Add butter, 1 tablespoon at a time, stirring after each addition.

Old Time Pound Cake

1 cup butter
1 2/3 cups sugar
5 eggs
2 cups cake flour

Work butter until creamy. Beat in sugar and eggs, one at a time. When creamy, fold in flour with a spoon. Spread in a buttered and floured loaf pan. Bake 1½ hours at 300 degrees.

FUN SPOILED

Los Angeles—Mrs. Billie Kelley accidentally locked herself out of her house, with Raymond, 18 months old, inside. While his mother pounded frantically and shouted for admittance, Raymond emptied the cupboards, spilled dishes, buttons, paper and food on the floor and was looking for new fields to conquer when helpful firemen summoned by Mrs. Kelley, jimmied a window, climbed in and opened the door from the inside.

First offices in which the typewriter was used extensively were those of the daily newspapers. Carbons were first used, it is said, in the Cincinnati office of a news syndicate.

Comfortable Bathroom: Happy Day

An extra supply of towels conveniently at hand speeds up the early-morning bathroom rush. Big sister is carrying Cannon's new "Marseilles."

To start your family off happily each morning, it is important to make the early bathroom ritual quick and pleasant. Especially in a one-bathroom home, split-second timing is required for dad's shaving, big sister's shower, and the children hurrying off to school.

You can solve this situation, by having all the essential bathroom necessities conveniently at hand. This avoids the familiar "Where's my towel?" or "I can't find the soap, mother."

A few extra storage shelves in the bathroom, suggests the Cannon Homemaking Institute, will go a long way toward smoothing the morning rush. These shelves hold bath towels, hand towels and washcloths, within easy reach of shower, tub or basin. The regular family linen closet, as always holds the complete household supply.

If you are planning to build a new home, add an extra bathroom or remodel your present one, remember to include two or three recessed shelves. Whether open or behind glass, they will prove helpful savers of time and energy.

Another idea is to build a set of hanging shelves of glass or wood, to hold this handy supply of extra bath and hand towels.

A different kind of drift threatened Kansas wheat fields. These acres of foot-deep dust near Wichita are viewed by Sedgwick County Farm Agent Don Ingle. Wheat field at left is useless as result of severe winter dust storms which have threatened some western farmhands with destruction.

WARRIORS WORSHIP—Somewhere in Korea these United States Marines kneel in Easter worship. Attached to the First Marine Regiment, the men wear uniforms stained with the work of war as they attend open air services conducted by a Navy chaplain. They were not identified by Marine officials who released the photograph.

By Betty Ann

EDITOR
THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL
WOMAN'S PAGES

Blouses are closely related to the important feeling of the season for the costume, says Betty Ann. They are closely akin to the ensemble and suggest a careful woman's selection with that point in mind. Consider the cut, the detailing, the collar (or lack of it) of a suit or coat and you will find that blouse designers, too, have considered the same problems and governed their designs accordingly. The new spring collection of suit-blouses points the way to creating the ensemble look with a sure touch. This designer has selected cottons with a textured look, to blend and collaborate with solid color wools with patterned and tweedy fabrics, with soft dressmaker silks. Imported lins, crisp and crease resistant domestic linen, pleated and perfectly handled, pure silk prints glowing with color, miracle fabrics, nylon, orlon and dacron and silky tissue failles, all make their important contribution of belonging to the shape and the character of a suit.

But whatever the fabric, and whatever the design, one indelible touch ranges through the collection, the strong feeling for femininity and softness in detailing. There is little man tailoring in these blouses. These blouses are distinctly a woman's idea of what a woman should wear.

Lots of news is concentrated in necklines and collars are full of flair and flattery. For the cardigan suit the severity of line is relieved by a standing wing collar flared with a small ascot tie. Often we see a semistrutted collar, which shows up several times through the collection and looks especially smart with a black checked polished cotton.

For the soft dressmaker suit, one designer concentrates on the body of the blouse. A particularly outstanding version is seen in an imported linen with eyelet embroidered pique applied in a delicate half wreath effect. Pleated bosoms, plastron fronts, and small, important detailing of embroidery on applique spotlights the attention on the front of the blouse. In this group is a series of soft tissue failles, pretty and delicate, detailed with lace and embroideries to enchant the woman who feels spring isn't here without the dressmaker detailed blouse. The color scope begins with white, then a buttery beige, through a range of pastels starring pink and mimosa, down through the darks to navy.

Sleeve treatments are also related to suits. No bulk at the shoulder is the creed for a suit blouse. One has a cap shaped sleeve contoured to cover the shoulder and then blocked with a cuff effect for a finished look.

Nature doesn't often lavish her gifts on one girl and leave others with no compensations. True, she's not noted for her fairness or sense of proportion, but you'll generally find that she gives a gift here and a gift there, with at least one lemon handed with each.

That exquisitely textured complexion you've admired, perhaps even in your own mirror, had lemon bestowed with it, too—taut dryness, prone to wrinkling. But you can keep the fine texture and reduce the dryness with a little care.

The makers of a creamy white baby lotion recommend their product for just this very purpose. They suggest that you use this emulsion of oil, water and lanolin regularly, without fail, as a cleaner, lubricator and powder base, and you'll be rewarded with a complexion as fine as nature meant you to have but with a minimum of dryness.

SHIRTS WEAR LONGER HUNG UP, NOT FOLDED

Men's shirts will wear longer if you don't fold them, according to Margaret McCordic, home management specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Rather than folding, place the shirt on a clothes hanger when you put it away, she suggests. It will save you time, and the shirt will wear longer, but you'll need a little more closet space.

Unless the shirt is damp, ordinary metal clothes hangers will do. Wooden or paper-covered metal hangers will prevent rust stains on damp shirts.

The collar and buttonholes wear out first, so the shirt will wear longer if you wash it with the collar turned up. Leave it up when you iron it, then put it on the hanger the same way.

If you want to fold the collar down, shape it by hand and iron about an inch at the front collar edges.

It's a good idea to leave the shirt unbuttoned when it's washed, ironed and put up on the hanger. Button only one button, don't always use the top one.

Don't Neglect That Shiner

There is no miracle medicine that will take the black out of a black eye.

The lady chairman whose eye collided with an open door in the dark and the man who lost an argument are both in the same fix if they wait until the next day to try to repair the damage, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical association, on first aid for eyes.

Beef steak used to be standard first aid treatment for shiners; but, fortunately, wads of clean cotton will do the job better. They should be dipped in cold water and applied fifteen minutes at a time, every hour or so, for the first 12 hours. After that, the victim will have to rely on cosmetics. Or try his hand at telling a convincing story.

Sometimes, what appears to be just a black eye may be serious. It may hide a scratched cornea, a fracture of one of the frontal bones, or even a torn retina.

The eye is like a camera, the doctors point out. It has a lens, a focusing mechanism, a diaphragm and a living photographic film which is the retina. It is well protected by overhanging bones, lids, lashes and free-flowing tears for cleansing. But if a blow is transmitted through the fluid contents with sufficient force, it will tear the retina. And that can mean blindness unless the retina can be sewed again by a skilled surgeon, to the tissues below.

Even the flick of a swishing branch or a fast-flying insect can sometimes inflict a nasty injury. For that reason, no eye injury should ever be neglected, the doctors say. Even the familiar black eye may be just as serious as it looks—and sometimes more so.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

IS YOUR DIET IRON-CLAD?

Mention iron and one thinks of strength. Today's iron horse—the diesel electric train—thrills as it thunders past. Another power-packed carrier is a silent one at work in your body. It is a train of infinitesimal red corpuscles made up in part of precious iron moving in the blood stream.

Like the iron in the diesel engine, the iron of the blood hemoglobin helps form a mechanism which works to give you energy and "go-power." The hemoglobin carries as its load, oxygen which is needed to "burn" the food eaten, changing it into strength and energy. Iron, besides having a full time job in the blood stream, is found in every tissue of the body.

Little life could go on without this mineral. Only a tiny amount is needed daily for the human body—a speck no larger than the head of a pin. One depends upon the food eaten for iron. Even though the amount of iron needed is small, it is one nutrient that is a little elusive because nature is stingy with it in food. Although all foods contribute this essential mineral in varying amounts, the best sources of food iron are meat, especially variety meats such as liver and heart. Leafy vegetables, particularly kale and spinach along with enriched flour, bread and cereals plus whole grain products are also excellent sources.

In this country, 25 per cent of all food calories are supplied by white flour. Enrichment of flour and bread with iron—in addition to the three B-vitamins—niacin, thiamine, and riboflavin—is a big help in meeting the daily iron quota. Enrichment raises the value of products made from white flour to about that of whole wheat which has always been advised. Today, the great majority who prefer white bread get both their choice and the needed nutrients.

Scientists remind us that an iron-poor body is an anemic one. Nutritional anemia may be corrected by proper selection of foods except in those individuals whose iron requirements are abnormally high.

GOOD HEALTH

1. CAN PEOPLE WITH HEART DISEASE BE GAINFULLY EMPLOYED?

2. CAN MEDICAL EXPENSES BE BUDGETED?

3. WHY DO WE HICCUP?

Answer to Question No. 1

A program of selective placement by many employment agencies opens the way to economic independence for people suffering heart disease. At the same time it taps a source of urgently needed man power for the nation's industrial program. With the advice and consent of his doctor, a heart patient can now be gainfully employed in jobs which will not impose too great a strain on the heart.

Answer to Question No. 2:

In addition to accident and health insurance, family costs of maintaining good health should be budgeted as a regular household expense and planned for out of wages or salary. Regular budgeting of medical expenses prepares for the health needs of the family so that when any member of the family needs health care it does not become an undue financial burden.

Answer to Question No. 3:

Hiccoughs or "hiccups" are spasmodic convulsions of the muscles of the diaphragm. Their chief cause is indigestion, frequently from an overdistended stomach and sometimes made worse by nervousness or fear. It is well to avoid heavy rich meals. Attacks of hiccoughs may last from a few minutes to hours, and in rare cases, days and weeks. If you suffer frequent attacks, consult a doctor.

Scalloped Limas and Macaroni, a Sturdy Dish

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

Did you ever try scalloped macaroni, lima beans and broiled mushrooms? This combination produces a really tempting and wholesome meatless main dish.

Scalloped Lima Beans and Macaroni (Yield—4 generous servings)

Four ounces elbow macaroni, cooked, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons finely diced onion, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon curry powder, 1 cup milk, 3-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms, ¼ cup tomato catsup, 1 package quick-frozen Fordhook lima beans, ¼ teaspoon minced parsley, ½ cup grated American cheese (optional).

Cook macaroni until barely tender in boiling salted water. Meanwhile, melt butter in saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion and let cook about 1 minute. Add and stir in flour, salt, pepper and curry powder. Add milk and contents of can of mushrooms. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils.

Add catsup, lima beans which have been defrosted enough to break apart, parsley and drained macaroni. Mix well and pour into greased shallow baking dish. Cover tightly, or fit aluminum foil paper over top of baking dish and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until beans are tender, about 30 minutes.

About 5 minutes before removing from the oven, remove cover and sprinkle with cheese, if desired. Continue baking, uncovered, until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Serve immediately.

Corn and tomato rabbit served with a large bowl of mixed green salad turns a meatless luncheon into a party meal.

Corn and Tomato Rabbit (4 generous servings)

One-quarter cup fat, ¼ cup thinly sliced onion, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon chili powder, 2½ cups canned tomatoes, No. 2 can, 12-ounce can whole kernel corn, 1 cup finely diced processed American cheese (4 ounces), 4 toasted picnic buns.

Melt fat in saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion and cook about 1 minute. Stir in kitchen bouquet. Add flour, salt, pepper

Lima beans, macaroni and broiled mushrooms blend together to make a delicious one-dish meal that will delight each and every member of the family. Children, especially, will think it is great.

and chili powder, blending well with fat. Add tomatoes and contents of can of corn. Cook, stirring frequently, until thickened and boiling. Let simmer over low heat for 10 minutes. When ready to serve, add cheese and stir constantly until cheese is melted. Serve over toasted picnic buns.

Confused Youngsters

The Lord's Prayer has had to withstand a great deal of mulling and confusion, especially from children trying to learn it from poor enunciators, or, from muttering crowds.

One little boy was heard to pray, Harold be Thy name." Another begged, "Give us this day our jelly bread." A New York child petitioned, "Lead us not into Penn station."

Treat Children As Politely As You Would Adults, Child Expert Advises

Children deserve the same consideration and politeness from their elders that their elders give to other grown-ups, says Irma Simonton Black in Redbook Magazine. Yet adults often treat children as if they had no feelings and then are surprised when the youngsters react vehemently. Writing in the March issue, Mrs. Black gives grown-ups a few pointers on applying the Golden Rule to children too:

"Why so many adults assume that because another person is young he is devoid of feeling. I have never been able to figure out. The young child, instead of being welcomed as a member of a social group, is often treated like a new toy. His looks, his manners, his personality are commented on with brutal frankness by supposedly 'friendly' people.

"One grown-up will ask teasingly, 'Will you let me take your baby brother home with me?' But he'll freeze with disapproval when the protective older sister reinforces her refusal with a slap.

"Another makes a frontal at-

"TAKE IT EASY!" Remember those words of wisdom as you cook and work around your kitchen.

Here's a check list on some ways to save energy in the kitchen:

1. Use the right tool for a job. A pastry blender to mix pastry or chop eggs for egg salad. A rubber scraper to transfer batter from mixing bowl to pan.
2. Keep a supply of prepared foods to simplify meal-making. Biscuit and pudding mixes, condensed mushroom soup or other soups to use for white sauce, precooked rice.
3. Drain dishes dry, in a drainer, instead of hand drying.
4. Sit down to work whenever possible.

Clam Chowder

FOR ENJOYABLE LENTEN MEALS, serve the condensed soups that are meatless. These include: Clam chowder, tomato, vegetarian vegetable, cream of celery, cream of asparagus, green pea, and black bean soups. Any one makes happy eating with grilled cheese sandwiches, mixed green salad.

CREAMED TUNA is a seafood dish that appeals to young or old "sals". Ideal for Lent made with condensed cream of celery soup.

Heavenly Creamed Tuna
2 tablespoons minced onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (1½ cups) condensed cream of celery or cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 cup flaked tuna (7-ounce can, undrained)
1½ cups cooked broad noodles
(4 ounces) sliced stuffed olives
Cook onion in 1 tablespoon butter until limp; add soup, milk and tuna; cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Blend hot drained noodles with remaining butter and olives. Pour creamed tuna over noodles. Makes 6 servings.

TWO NOTABLE LONGEVITY RECORDS

How many horsepower are required to carry 200 pounds a day for 42 years over a city mail route? Ray Hall has just retired from that stupendous task in Brainerd. . . . On any man's engine 45 years is a long time, but that's what genial Mike Sharick has put in on the ore tracks in Oliver iron mines. However, 45 years of service is not Mike's only or greatest claim to attention. Not only have those 45 years been absolutely free of accidents, but during that period of service Mike Sharick has saved the lives of two fellow Oliver employees.

"Give a child a chance to know you before you get too intimate. Comment on his toys rather than on him, and he'll be glad to talk to you. Answer his questions seriously, without evasion or teasing. Offer him something to do when he visits you. A pencil and paper, an old magazine and a pair of scissors, will keep most children busy for a time. If he handles something fragile, take it away, but tell him why.

"A youngster may be very sensitive to a social climate, and thoughtfulness is not lost on him because he happens to be young. The Golden Rule was not intended to be held in abeyance until puberty."

Cockroaches Can Be Dangerous

It's safe to say that cockroaches have never won any popularity contests during some 200,000,000 years of history.

But it has taken some University of Minnesota researchers to show, now, beyond any doubt, how destructive these prehistoric pests can be. And that's why the Minnesota State Medical association today urges an all-out offensive against them, for they can cause fevers and acute diarrheas, for instance, stomach upsets and even sleeping sickness, the doctors say.

Cockroaches are about the world's oldest air-breathing creatures, according to the doctors. They appeared, first, before the time of the dinosaurs and we are only now beginning to realize what havoc they may have been causing among humans.

For proof, the bulletin cites the studies recently made at the University of Minnesota which have definitely proved that cockroaches can carry germs of the so-called salmonella tribe of filth-borne organisms, both inside and outside their bodies. These germs are capable of raising all kinds of trouble in the human body, once they gain access to it. Usually they enter the body through food and they are often at the bottom of outbreaks of gastroenteritis which may be dangerous for adults, but which quite often are fatal for children. These salmonella live for a long time and they can be carried around almost anywhere in the kitchen, even into closed refrigerators, by cockroaches.

No house is proof against these marauders, though they are particularly likely to infest old houses. The moral is that they should be pursued and eradicated as energetically as flies, the doctors say, in order to stop the spread of these diseases.

MRS. V. M.: Are newborn babies immune to polio?

ANSWER: Newborn babies are generally regarded as immune to various contagious diseases including polio. But the immunity is temporary and gradually wears away, unless, as in the case of diphtheria, whooping cough and small pox, it can be replaced by artificial immunization.

Bible Comment:

The Law Was Both Moral and Strong In Jesus' Day

THE Jewish law reached its peak in the ten commandments and in the verses from Deuteronomy, known as the "Shema," which were recited every Sabbath in the synagogue.

They must have left a profound impression on the minds of sensitive and serious youths who listened to them over and over again. We cannot overestimate their importance in the development of Jesus when He was an impressionable youth.

Also, we cannot underestimate the moral and spiritual inheritance the world has received from the Jewish law.

Thus, when Jesus said: "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets," he added, "I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill."

The law Jesus came to fulfill was the old Jewish law which was a mass of rules and regulations that must seem bewildering to the average reader. Jesus made a distinction between the moral precepts of the law and the petty regulations.

This distinction is revealed, for example, in the conversation Jesus had with the lawyer who asked how to inherit eternal life. "What is written in the law?" asked Jesus.

When the lawyer replied, reciting the two commandments which tell us to love God and to love our neighbor, Jesus affirmed the answer. "Thou hast answered right; this do and thou shalt live." But the lawyer needed a clearer definition. He asked, "Who is my neighbor?"

Jesus said, "You can be a neighbor to anyone who needs your help." In these last words lies the true moral of the law. It directs the hearer to practice neighborliness-unlimited.

A still deeper meaning lies in this sentence. That is the fact that it means neighborliness, not in terms of the other fellow who might benefit from your good deeds, but in terms of yourself.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

Outdoor writer Arthur Carhart reports a story that sounds like one of The Arabian Nights. This tale says there lives a Colorado minnow weighing 80 pounds and over! Reference books bear it out: "... the largest of the American Cyprinidae; it reaches a length of five feet or more and a weight of 80 pounds, though examples of this extreme size are infrequent. Nothing distinctive is known of its habits or methods of capture."

Carhart has talked to fellows who'd heard of someone who'd heard of someone who had landed one. The best chance of hooking one seems to be in the Green and Yampa rivers upstream from U. S. 40 where it crosses the Colorado-Utah boundary. That region is full of spectacular canyons known as Dinosaur National Monument. But the gigantic minnow is only one fantastic feature of this place. An Arabian Nights quality hovers over all this big unit of our national parks system. There are "holes," wide places in the canyons where outlaws of frontier days hid out while possums hunted them: Pat's Hole, Jones' Hole, Browns' Hole, and so on.

The variety of plant species is extraordinary. Douglas firs and lodgepole pine stand thick on the high rims—trees of mountain zones. Deep within the canyon depths the climate is favorable to growing peaches, apricots and other tender fruits. Between those extremes there are plant species which might be found anywhere from Saskatchewan to Mexico, and probably some varieties not yet reported.

Antelope and sage grouse live on the mesas above the high rims. Deer, bear and cougar inhabit the canyons. The shy ring-tailed cat, relative of the raccoon, is resident in the area. A mysterious race of people lived here 500 years before the cliff dwellers built their primitive apartment houses in the Mesa Verde. They lived in caves, and scratched crude pictures of bighorns, turkeys, other animals and men on the rock walls, some of them in gigantic size.

On the rivers of Dinosaur there are rapids, some of them throwing up six-foot waves. It's a crazy, wonderful place. But the Bureau of Reclamation wants to build a 525-foot dam at a spot called Steamboat Rock, which would drown out the canyons. Carhart may never have a chance to look for that big minnow.

TRAGIC DISCOVERY

Belvidere, Ill.—Mrs. Edward Behnke became alarmed when she didn't hear from the family of her son for a week. She went to their four-room frame country home and found the entire family of five—her son, Melvin, 35; his wife, Beulah, 33; and their children, Dennis, 7; Dale, 5, and Dixie, 3 months—dead, apparent victims of gas poisoning from a coal stove.

Young Livestock Need Ample Room

Beef producers who want to avoid coccidiosis troubles and get more profitable gains may simply need to give their young animals more room, says Dr. H. J. O'Connell, State Veterinarian.

He cited the fact that calves have much less coccidiosis infection on the range where they have lots of room.

Crowding the animals into small lots or pastures increases the danger, small feedlots become quickly contaminated and cattle can become severely infected.

The cause of coccidiosis is a tiny parasite similar to the one which infects chickens. However, the disease cannot be transmitted from chickens to cattle, nor can chickens get it from cattle.

Farmers should be alert for such coccidiosis symptoms as weakness, scours and loss of weight. Calves coming down with this disease may also have a rough hair coat, drooping ears and sunken eyes.

Feedlots should be cleaned as often as possible to avoid trouble. Elevated feed and water containers, designed to prevent contamination, should be used because coccidiosis usually is spread by dirty feed and water.

O'Connell said prompt diagnosis is important. Herd treatment by the local veterinarian will protect the rest of the calves and may help cattle already showing symptoms of the trouble.

Blockades Are As Old As Naval War

Washington — Blockades are legal under international rules of war, but only if they have been declared and can be enforced.

Declaration serves the humane purpose of putting neutral states on notice that their ships may be seized, the cargoes jettisoned or confiscated, and the crews arrested, should they try to take food, arms or aviation gasoline to a warring nation.

An unwritten rule, however, injects a practical note. If the blockading power has not enough ships, or more lately, aircraft, to enforce its blockade, then anybody may ignore it and still stay within international law.

Closed Axis Ports
In World War II, Britain closed the ports of Germany and Italy, but no blockade was proclaimed, says the National Geographic Society.

Germany, on the other hand, announced a submarine blockade of the British Isles, gaining the legal power to halt or destroy all shipping for the Allied powers as long as her undersea raiders complied with other rules of war. But even her great submarine fleet proved not enough to stop shipping entirely, hence the blockade lost its force in international law despite tremendous loss of life.

Blockades are as old as naval warfare, but only in the last two and a half centuries have they had legal standing.

Ancient Troy was conquered by invading Greeks through the stratagem of the wooden horse, but presence of a Greek fleet off the Dardanelles, a fleet that prevented normal commerce in foodstuffs and ordinary civilian needs, had much to do with the final victory of the forces of Agamemnon over the Trojans.

War of 1812
In accurately recorded history perhaps the most famous blockades were those imposed by the British against Napoleon, which contributed to the causes of the War of 1812, and the attempt by Union forces to eliminate shipping in southern ports during the Civil War.

Neither was completely successful, and both enriched blockade runners. But they had the constricting effect desired and shortened fighting through absence of food and military supplies for the blockaded powers.

Hints On Preventing Losses In Swine

Farmers can greatly improve their 1953 pork profit outlook if they will follow five proven steps to save more pigs.

Reporting that about 75 per cent of all baby pig losses occur before the weaning age, Dr. H. J. O'Connell, State Veterinarian, said that precautionary steps in the first few weeks after farrowing will pay big dividends.

The five points suggested for swine producers are:

1. Balanced rations for the sow while she is building her unborn litter. The proper rations will mean stronger baby pigs and a better pig survival rate.
2. Clean hog lots, and good sanitation around farrowing pens. The sow and litter should be moved to clean ground as soon as weather permits. This will reduce the danger from parasites and disease germs.
3. Keep quarters warm, dry, and well ventilated. Keep some clean sods in the pens to prevent baby pig anemia.
4. Watch the sow's diet after farrowing. Few solids should be fed in the 36 hours after farrowing, and the sow should be returned to the regular ration slowly.
5. Keep a sharp lookout for sickly pigs and any disease symptoms. If disease appears, get a prompt diagnosis to prevent its spread through the herd. Have pigs vaccinated against cholera and also against erysipelas in areas where that disease is a threat.

Most popular length of ordinary lunch periods is three quarters of an hour, according to the Chicago Office Management Association.

Milk Output Hits Record In State

Wisconsin continues to lead the nation in milk production with 1,786,163,000 gallons of milk produced on farms last year. This impressive volume of milk produced by Wisconsin's dairymen in 1952 was two per cent more than the previous year and the largest output on record, according to the Crop Reporting Service of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Last year Wisconsin's dairy herds produced a little more than 13 per cent of the nation's milk supply—an increase of nearly two per cent over the state's share of the nation's milk output in 1951.

Milk production on the state's farms this winter has been at the highest level reported for any winter period with the January milk output 12 per cent above the same month of last year. Milk production on the nation's farms in January increased about seven per cent over a year earlier.

The year began with more milk cows on farms in the state and the nation than were estimated a year earlier. In addition to the increase in cow population, weather conditions favored a high January milk production.

Approximately two fifths of the area of the United States is too dry to farm without irrigation.

humidity control system, or both, and tells what size ventilating system is required.

"It will also show that some poorly insulated barns cannot be controlled without supplemental heating," explained William McGoldrick, Jr., designer of the device.

He pointed out that this simple way of getting such information might also be used to determine the construction of future barns.

Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, new leader of the Soviet Union, who succeeds to the power and position left by Joseph Stalin.

Miniature Robot 'Brain' Developed For Farm Use

Minneapolis — Computers are now going to work for the farmer.

A miniature "ventilation analog computer," small enough to be carried by hand, has been developed by Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company research engineers to take the guesswork out of a perplexing farm problem—how to select the proper climate control systems for barns.

The new device is believed to be the first computer designed specifically for such agricultural use.

Proper control of ventilation, humidity and temperature in barns to insure the health and productivity of livestock is a problem that is receiving increasing attention from universities, county agents and farmers.

"The big problem up to now," said Dr. Waldo Kliever, Honeywell's research director, "has been the lack of an accurate method to determine what kind of control system should be installed in a given barn, since barns vary considerably as to the number of animals they house, type of construction and climate."

The new computer offers for the first time a quick, scientific solution to this problem. The device works this way: Information such as the number of animals in the building, their heat and moisture input, the heat and moisture gain or loss from various parts of the building is fed into the computer. It then automatically calculates whether the barn needs a temperature or

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—The uncertainty among political commentators on the death of Stalin is adding up to certainty in the business and financial communities. How? Simply because, when no one knows what changes in world conditions may be coming up, the part of wisdom is to assume there won't be any.

Stock markets and commodity markets alike fluttered a little at the first news of Stalin's fatal illness, but by the end of last week it was hard to see any changes in these sensitive barometers.

Most important to the businessman is the fact that defense preparations surely will not be slowed down, and may even be stepped up, on the theory that a man who we knew believed in playing it safe is now out of the picture.

The talks between U. S. and British officials, just ending in Washington, may bring a grudging forward step in the matter of reducing shipments to Red China, which would be a net gain.

The consumer's hard-headed attitude on the switch of Russia's masters matches that of the speculators. There has been not even a ripple of the buying of coffee, sugar and automobile tires which has come to reflect the housewife's war anxiety.

UPGRADING MARKET — Small contractors, appliance and local lumber yards will benefit during 1953 from a near-billion dollar market for home modernization and repair. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association believes the $975-million expenditures on repairing the nation's 42 million homes in 1952 will be repeated this year.

Growing families force home owners to convert attic space, porches and unfinished rooms into living space. Once this was costly because it meant enlarging the central heating system. Now, with natural gas supplies increasing all over the country, easy-to-install gas room heaters solve the problem.

Gas-operated steam radiators, console models, simulated logs, slim upright heaters, two-way wall heaters, recessed wall types and many others offer a wide selection. Thousands were installed last year, many in the 18,222,000 U. S. homes over 30 years old, which need general overhaul.

THINGS TO COME—Do you have a small child at the age of gnawing the enamel off the playpen? Then a new line of enamels is for you; no lead pigments or other toxic materials... A plastic accordion, nearly as big as some real ones, made its bow at last week's Toy Fair. It will reach stores soon... The homeowner can install a new lawn sprinkler system, of eight heads and 100 feet of plastic tubing to be buried in the ground... A new die is used in punch presses to stitch sheets of metal together without rivets... Walnuts are cracked by charges of electricity in a new Oregon plant... The Mitey Miter corner-brace, just in time for spring repairs to screens, fits into a saw-cut in frames as stiffening.

KISS AND MAKE UP—Television and motion pictures are learning to live with each other, after all.

For the last three or four years laymen and experts alike have seen a grim reaper stalking Hollywood, as TV carried entertainment right to the nation's fire-sides. A land of boarded-up theaters was prophesied. Evidence increases, however, of adjustment to a way of life compatible and mutually strengthening. It's more and more apparent that production of TV material on film by contemporary Hollywood personalities is a workable business.

One sign of the new cooperation was filmdom's proudest ceremony, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences annual presentation of the "Oscars."

It is good to see these competitors working together and it is good to see a television manufacturer, RCA Victor, sponsored this great event. Television and the movies are both too valuable as sources of entertainment to expend their energies in a battle of extinction.

CUSTOMER - SALESMEN — The galloping do-it-yourself trend is apparently closely paralleled by the sell-yourself trend being promoted by vending machine companies.

According to one estimate it is now a $1 1/4-billion industry and some 2,750,000 vending machines made 19 billion sales last year. America is well past the Model T stage of gum and peanut vendors and now has a wide variety of unusual selling machines under consideration or in use. Among these are revolving store windows which will turn into vending machines at night; coin-operated snack bars on trains; unattended automatic newstands, and truly automatic cafeterias.

BOY BIG LEAGUER—High school baseball star Billy Conzolo, Los Angeles teen-ager, has been signed up by the Boston Red Sox as a $60,000 bonus player. Billy, 17, is seen above, holding the trophy awarded his team for winning the 1951 National Junior American Legion Championship. Conzolo was named Los Angeles' City Player of the Year for 1951 and 1952.

BOUDOIR BEAUTY—Extending one slim leg for our inspection is lovely blonde Mammie Van Doren, Hollywood actress. She was found by filmland experts singing in a Nevada night club. Now she sings in the movies and lives in Los Angeles.
