First Meeting of County Homemaker Chorus Mon.

On April 20, at 8:00 p. m., the Washington county homemakers' chorus will meet for the first time in the Electric Company hall at West Bend. Any homemakers who are interested in singing are very welcome to attend.

The first meeting will be a "get-acquainted program" where songs will be sung from the new books which have been ordered.

At this meeting it will be decided when and where future meetings will be held.

At present there are about 28 homemakers' choruses throughout Wisconsin. These groups sing at events like the county homemakers' achievement programs, the annual county fair, the annual state home demonstration program at Green Lake and various county events.

This is a fine opportunity for Washington county homemakers to begin and work into a chorus that would present programs occasionally. If any homemakers like to sing, they'll find this meeting a lot of fun. Attendance at the first meeting will determine whether or not the chorus will continue.

When going to the Electric Company hall at West Bend, the side (Division street) entrance will be open.

ROY M. JOHNSON

Last week in the obituary of Roy M. (Benno) Johnson, a native of Kewaskum, who drowned while fishing with a friend when the bottom of their boat gave away, we stated that he was from Clarksville, Ill. and that he drowned on a lake near DeKalb, Ill. This should have been Clarksville and DeKalb, Texas. The party who sent in the obituary to the Statesman neglected to mention the name of the state and asked us to make this change.

Indians Lose Opener to West Bend, 11-5

Although Don Meisenheimer, Kewaskum Indian pitcher, hurled a four-hitter, his team was defeated by West Bend, 11-5, in the season's opening practice baseball game played on the Barton diamond on Monday afternoon. The Indians got only two hits off of three Badger pitchers. The base hits were scarce but runs were plentiful as a result of errors, walks and all around loose play.

This could be expected in the first contest played in cold weather with neither team having had much practice due to unfavorable weather.

Meisenheimer limited West Bend to only one hit in the first five innings but they pushed home six runs. Don is one of only three veterans which Coach Ernie Mitchell has returning this year. The others are Floyd Dreher, catcher, and Carl Koepke, outfielder. The Badgers only hitting spree came in the sixth when they made three safeties and scored five runs. The game was called at the end of six innings by agreement.

"Fee-wee" Johnson of the Badgers was the only player to crack out two hits. Jimmy Weiss started for West Bend on the mound and did the best job. In three innings he gave up only one hit, struck out five and issued one walk. He Rauscher replaced Weiss and had trouble finding the plate. He hit two batters and walked another before Kenny Frank relieved him. Frank fanned the next two batters to retire the side.

Carl Koepke rapped out a single off Frank in the fifth but he then bore down and escaped without damage. But in the final frame Frank walked five and forced in two runs. Kewaskum's only other hit was made by Dreher. The Badgers were ahead by only one run, 6-5, going into the last half of the last inning. Then they rallied to push across five markers.

The two teams were scheduled to play a return game on the Kewaskum field this Friday.

The Indians play their first conference game at Oakfield April 27. The schedule follows:

April 27—Oakfield here
April 30—Rosendale here
May 4—Lomira here
May 7—North Fond du Lac here
May 11—Campbellsport here
May 15—Brandon here.

For her marriage the bride chose a gown of white nylon tulle over satin. White sequins trimmed the shirred long sleeved bodice and bouffant skirt. Her illusion fingertip veil was gathered to a leaf-like headpiece of nylon and seed pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and ivy.

Miss Shirley Schacht was the maid of honor for her brother's bride. Her ballerina length gown of white net over taffeta was styled with an apron effect skirt enhanced with red flowers. Miss Lois Weinreich, the bridesmaid, wore an identical gown. Both young ladies carried colonial bouquets of red carnations.

Serving as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schacht, was Gerald Jung, the bride's brother. Lloyd Schacht served as his brother's groomsman. Guests were ushered by Lyle Schacht, another brother, and Roy Troit, cousin of the bride.

When Mr. and Mrs. Schacht return from a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination they will live at 127 Jefferson street, Barton, Mrs. Schacht, a graduate of West Bend High school, had been employed as a secretary at the Frankow and Grundahl clinic. Garbage Disposal Orders

There has been flagrant disobedience of the rules regarding the proper disposal of garbage, tins, glass and ashes in the village.

All refuse excepting garbage must be placed in metal containers with tightly fitting covers. These cans must not exceed 30 gallon capacity in order that two men can empty them easily. These cans must be placed at your curb every other Wednesday morning for collection. Please rinse your used tins in order to reduce the hazard of flies—remember polio may be caused by flies.

All garbage must be wrapped well with several layers of paper. After the garbage has been emptied wash the can and expose to sun to dry for a few hours. This reduces the fly hazard a great deal. All covers must fit tightly. Place your garbage at your curb for collection on Monday and Friday mornings. Remember: No glass or tins in the garbage.

All garbage cans shall be removed from the curb after they have been emptied.

Hereafter the garbage collectors shall refuse to empty garbage that has not been properly wrapped; legal action will ensue should anyone refuse to obey the rules.

Fashion designers endorse with enthusiasm that wide range of colors from white to beige. Never have there been so many variations on a single tone and one maker has given it a brilliant future by using these honey blond shades in almost every woolen they offer, says Betty Ann. Tweedy mixtures combine white and beige tones, horizontal woven woolens have two shades of beige combined, new suitings for spring have a new face in their dry, crisp effect which looks almost like alpaca, are especially effective in the beige shades. Coordinating coating and suiting use light shades of beige spiced with golden yellow for happy alliances and dress wools which combine rabbit's hair with worsted in more of the pale colors.

C. Potter chose blonde crepe julia wool for her dress for spring, Vera Maxwell uses Briartweed with its feathery finish in a white light color and Brigance chooses a happy combination of beige and cocoa for his tweedshire suit.

Allied with the blonde furs, pale beige shoes, and bags, the light look for spring is accepted and applauded by women who find it flattering and fresh.

Keep cologne on the bathroom shelf—when you dress—so it is in full view to remind you to wear it every day.

Never place it on the radiator or in the direct sun. Extreme light and heat affect the precious blend of essential oils. (In some perfumes, sun even oxidizes some of the essential oils used in the blend). Sunlight tends to change the color of perfume. Excessive heat causes the alcohol to evaporate swiftly, thus spoiling the fine "balance" of the perfume bouquet. Once a bottle is opened, air consumes the alcohol, too, wasting the lovely fragrance if it just stands on the dresser unused. It should be worn. It should be enjoyed. When closing the bottle of perfume or cologne with a ground glass stopper, give an extra twist to "seal" it, making it as airtight as possible. When dust collects on the bottle—particularly around the stopper—wipe it off, since foreign bodies in the scented liquid could affect the bouquet.

If you bottle of perfume or other perfume product is difficult to open, gently tap the stopper against glass, slowly turning the bottle so the stopper is tapped evenly. A small wooden mallet is useful, too, but never use a sharp instrument to tap your glass stopper. Do not try to force the stopper, it might snap off. Of course shiny ribbon or other protection covering the stopper should be removed first.

Spring-summer hats, 1953, are prettier and more feminine than they have been for several seasons. Milliners are sold on the idea of the larger brim in sheer fabrics and straws. They also pay much stronger attention to pretty, colorful trimming, especially flowers. Texture interest continues important this season. Nubby straws; paving of flower petals layer upon layer; jewel and wooden beading on two or three fabrics are ways of achieving surface interest, say the editors of Women's Wear Daily.

Rich fudge is used in both the batter and frosting of this favorite cake. A moist and tender cake, it will last longer than a day.

Ingredients include three ounce cakes unsweetened chocolate, three-fourths cup milk, one-fourth cup brown sugar, firmly packed, one-half cup butter, three-fourths cup sugar, two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla extract, two cups sifted cake flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. In small saucepan melt chocolate in milk over medium high heat, stirring often.

Mix in brown sugar until dissolved; cool. In mixing bowl cream butter and sugar together. Stir in unbeaten eggs, then extract. Fold in dry ingredients alternately with cooled chocolate mixture. Pour into lightly greased and floured nine inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 25 minutes or until center springs back when touched lightly. Cool in pan. Ice with fudge frosting.

NO "PILLS" CURE CANCER

The American Cancer Society urges patients to seek competent medical help in treating cancer. It points out that no cancer ever cured itself and none was ever cured by pills, powders, or any other "home remedy" or "secret method, medicine or gadget."

1 Word Can Change Your Life — POST

Want to save yourself a lot of headaches and heartaches? Then stay away from where you once did wrong, or were strongly tempted to do so.

A young Western farmer frequented the village barroom. He conducted himself in that familiar manner which makes family and friends unhappy. A temperance worker came along one day and took him aside. The young farmer listened to reason and gave up the bottle. But every time he came into town after that he tied his horse to the hitching post in front of the place where he used to drink. A churchman spotted this and after congratulating the young farmer upon his turn-about-face in life, said: "George, I'm a good deal older than you are. You'll excuse me, I know, if I make a suggestion out of my wider experience. No matter how strong you think you are, you'd better change your hitching post at once." Good advice!

Stay away from where you once did wrong, or wanted to. Change your hitching post, the word that can change your life.

ORANGE PRICES TO RISE; OTHER CITRUS STEADY

The full crop of oranges is likely to start declining in the next week, bringing slightly higher prices, according to Esther Call, University of Wisconsin specialist on food buying.

Other citrus fruits will continue in good supply, Mrs. Call points out. So the vitamin C we need daily will still be economical.

The juice oranges from Florida will probably be the Pineapple or the Temple variety. The Pineapple oranges are usually less expensive, but may have more seeds.

For salads, fruit cups, and to serve whole, use the seedless oranges from California.

Spiced orange slices are also good as a garnish for the meat platter or luncheon plate.

With lemons at somewhat lower prices, fresh lemon juice makes a good substitute for vinegar in salad dressings.

A good sauce for spinach, broccoli, and cabbage can be made by mixing lemon juice with melted butter.

With grapefruit plentiful, she suggests serving them sectioned with apple slices and a celery seed dressing. Or halve them, top with brown-sugar or honey, and broil.

Make Your Own Easter Egg Rabbits and Birds

BY EDNA MILES

THE Easter season is a wonderful time for the whole family to gather around a table for some Easter egg fun. Eggs can be decorated by the dozen and, if they're freshly hardboiled, eaten afterwards. If the yolks and whites are blown out, they can go into a cake, an omelet, or scrambled eggs before the decorating begins. So it's fun that's not really expensive.

For reasons probably best known to hens, white eggs take more readily to dye than brown ones. Beet juice will turn out red and pink eggs, blueing creates blue ones and spinach juice produces green. Or, you can use a 10-cent package of commercial dye.

With some odds and ends such as small artificial flowers, feathers, sequins, bits of ribbon or velvet, confetti, crepe paper, pipe cleaners, and clear tape, you can create imaginative designs.

To make an Easter bunny, attach a fluffy tail of absorbent cotton to one end of the egg, using a little circle of clear tape with the sticky side out. Shape ears from pink or blue paper and attach them with tape.

Draw in the eyes, nose, mouth and whiskers with crayon. Several of these bunnies can be set in a nest of Easter grass sprinkled with tiny artificial flowers. This can serve as a centerpiece at an Easter breakfast.

A bird is just as easy to make as a rabbit. Use tape to attach small feathers for the wings and tail, then tape on a piece of folded paper for his beak. Draw in the eyes. For legs, bend short lengths of pipe cleaners under the egg and fasten them with tape.

By using clear tape with the sticky side out on an egg, you can sprinkle confetti, sequins, red sugar, dried parsley or bluing granules over the egg and get colorful effects. To do this, dip tape in material you're using and run it the length and width of the egg. Secure it with a piece of tape underneath.

Blow out contents of the eggs by making a small hole at each end with a darning needle. Stick a small piece of tape over the ends so they won't crack.

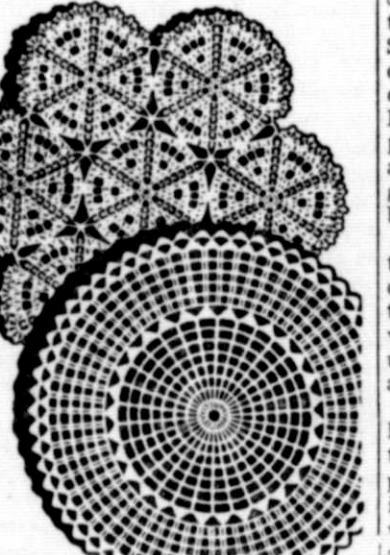

Display an assortment of colorful birds on an Easter egg tree for an original and charming decoration. The birds are simple to make.

FIRES WARM UP NEIGHBORLINESS

Don Hansen's filling station and garage burned at Hardwick, near Luverne, putting Don pretty much out of business. Neighbors, lots of 'em, got together, the debris was cleared away, the buildings were rebuilt, and Don's in business again. . . . Barn, out-buildings, hay, oats, lots of valuables went up in costly smoke on the Henry Kruize farm near Morris. Neighbors rallied and soon new buildings were rising out of the ruins and Kruize farm production continues.

Bible Comment:

Two Friends Walk With a Stranger Who Is the Lord

THERE are many Resurrection stories but probably the most convincing is that which tells about the two unknown disciples who met a stranger while on the road from Jerusalem to Emmaus.

It was after the crucifixion of Jesus and the pair were traveling along the road when they were joined by the companion who ate a meal with them. It is this meal, in which all three shared, which proves His presence to be something more than an illusion. But they did not recognize the stranger and it was not until they ate the meal that the unknown man was revealed to them as the Risen Lord.

He broke bread with them, blessed it and gave it to them but vanished at the moment He was recognized.

It is a strange tale indeed but extremely convincing. It puts the evidence of Christ's Resurrection on a higher plane than mere legend or tradition.

One of the two travelers was Cleophas who is unknown except for this reference. The other is not identified but it is possible that he was among the disciples who were present at the Last Supper because he quickly recognized the stranger when He broke and blessed the bread in the same way Jesus had done at the Last Supper.

Most appealing to us is that part of the story which relates, "Did not our hearts burn within us, while He talked with us by the way, and while He opened to us the scriptures?"

Do our hearts burn within us as we read these things? Does Easter mean for us a joyous meeting with the Christ? Let us hope so. A mere formal belief in the scriptures is of little worth unless He is also risen in our hearts and unless they too burn within as He talks "with us by the way."

Keep Your Temper & Blood Pressure Down

"Now don't get high blood pressure over it" is the half-joking advice a lot of people give when things go wrong.

Probably they aren't thinking of themselves as doctors when they give it; but the Minnesota State Medical association declares, in a bulletin issued today, that the advice is sound. Doctors are giving it, too, to people who have higher than average blood pressure for no good reason that can be detected by tests at their disposal.

The truth is that anxiety, emotional upsets and sudden anger do push up the speed at which the blood moves through the veins and arteries. Continuous upsets tend to keep the speed above normal.

Most of the people who have high blood pressure have the type that is called "essential hypertension," the doctors say. That is, the speed and pressure with which the blood is forced into and out of the heart and the blood vessels is greater than average—and for no physical reason which can be detected by diagnostic tests. Many of these people get along fine for years. In the end, however, the pressure against the walls of veins and arteries almost always produces changes, a high frequency of heart and circulatory trouble, and rupture of blood-carrying vessels.

In about a fifth of the total cases of high blood pressure there is a definite reason for the trouble, and this can be treated or removed. For the others, some factor which has not yet been identified may be at the root of the trouble; but such things as overweight, faulty diet, and emotional tension are known to make things much worse.

Losing your temper will probably not cause essential hypertension, but it will certainly raise your blood pressure, the doctors say. And learning to take things as they come, will relieve a lot of the burden from already over-worked blood vessels and heart.

Don't Expose Your Children To Measles

There were twice as many cases of measles reported in Minnesota recently as there were influenza, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical association today, and the total for the year so far, is five times what it was for the same period last year.

Because measles is a very serious matter for youngsters under five, the doctors warned parents, to keep a special watch over the baby and the pre-school children and to be on guard, especially, when any youngsters in the vicinity develop what looks like a bad head cold.

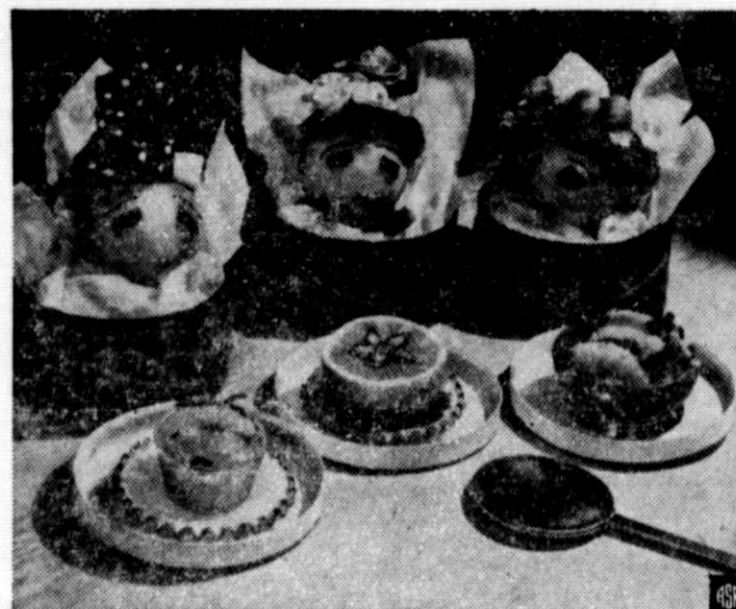

Measles starts with a running nose, cough and fever which last three or four days before the rash appears. During this period it is extremely infectious. The old theory that the children will get it anyway, and the sooner the better, can be extremely dangerous for the very youngest members of the family, however. The death rate among them from measles is still high.

If the youngsters are known to be exposed, therefore, in spite of all precautions, the doctors urge use of anti-measles serum. Measles develops about ten days after exposure and if the serum is applied as soon as the child is known to have been exposed, and about five days before illness develops, the attack will be milder and the child will develop his own immunity with relative safety.

As a final caution, the bulletin also warns against allowing anyone with a cold to visit a child with measles. Mild attacks sometimes become suddenly worse, and sometimes pneumonia develops, because somebody in the family had a cold and passed it on to a sick child.

Put This In Your Spring Bonnet—Florida Grapefruit's A Good Buy!

Come spring, comes not only a desire for fetching new chapeaux but for brighter faces to go with them. And no food's as good for the complexion and the system as grapefruit, rich in vitamin C and low in calories, with its alkalinizing attributes.

Fortunately, Florida is sending to local markets large quantities of just-ripe golden grapefruit now, and they are available in various sizes for uses all through the menu. Spring calls, too, for lighter foods, and here grapefruit can't be beat—it's a real spring tonic.

Use the smaller size grapefruit for juicing—fresh grapefruit juice is a wonderful zesty beverage for morning or midday. Serve the halves, varying the toppings, for breakfast, or for luncheon or dinner first or last courses. Here sliced strawberries make a picture-pretty arrangement. Section the whole fruit for fruit cups and salads. Combined with greens and French dressing, grapefruit sections make about the most refreshing salad yet concocted.

Here's the Answer

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

Believe it or not, you almost never catch a ground hog, or woodchuck, out on a rainy or cloudy day. Contrary to popular legend, he likes to see his shadow and is inclined to pop inside again if he can't.

You're not apt to see a woodchuck at close range either, unless he's dead or dying. He looks a bit like a badger, he certainly reminds you of a chipmunk the way he sticks his head in and out of his den; he makes you think of a prairie dog as he sits up in front of his burrow, and if you should happen to see him digging in for dear life he will remind you of a mole. Actually, he is a marmot—and a marmot is a hibernating, subterranean relative of the squirrels, chipmunks and gophers, with a clear, bird-like whistle or metallic voice. Famed nature writer Donald Culross Peattie says this is how he got his alias of "whistle-pig."

In coloration the woodchuck differs somewhat in different parts of his wide range, which is from eastern Canada south to the southern Appalachians and west to the Missouri River and beyond, and across Canada, with an isolated subspecies in British Columbia. But generally speaking, it has a coat of a warm buff with long black guard hairs tipped with silver. This gives him a grizzled or pepper-and-salt appearance. The head is dark and the feet and ankles black.

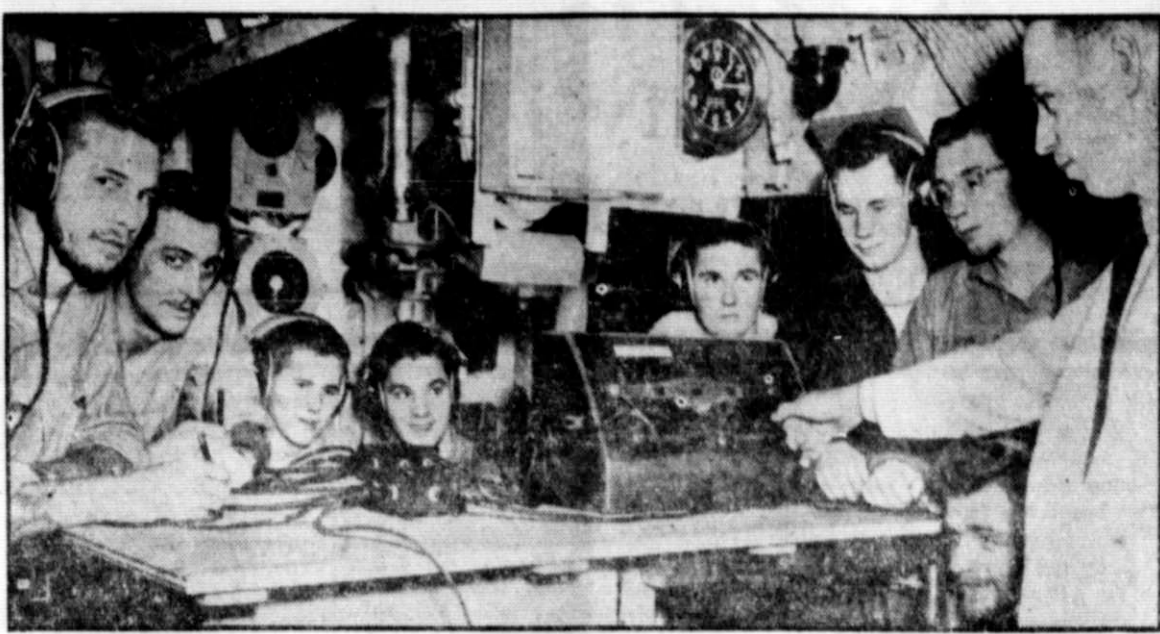

A well-fed male weighs 9 to 10 pounds, but one of 13 pounds is on record. Much of this weight is fat which acts as a shock absorber. That is one of the reasons why real woodchuck hunters have demanded and got from the arms companies a special, high-intensity, woodchuck ammunition to fire in their specialized guns.

The woodchuck occupies an equivocal position in popular, in legal, and in scientific opinions. He is rated both as vermin and game.

To the farmer, whose field he riddles with chuck holes and mounds of dirt, he is vermin. But sportsmen rightly rate him as game. In the first place, his flesh is edible and highly prized in many country districts. Then, he is a game little fighter who will face one dog or a pack of them if he cannot reach his hole in time.

Finally, the ground hog is gamy, as the sportsman sees matters—an animal with both guile and spunk, curiosity and high survival value. No wonder that sportsmen in many states have advocated a closed season, as well as an open season on him. They think entirely too well of him to see him driven off the earth.

LOCKED IN THE CRADLE OF THE DEEP—Sealed inside a docked submarine at New London, Conn., these seven Navy volunteers submit to hearing tests conducted by Lt. (J.G.) V. F. Borum, at right, of the U. S. Simulating conditions which might exist in an atom-powered sub which would remain many months at sea, the experiment has produced much helpful information already classified as "secret." The men seen above are not identified by Naval authorities.

About The Home

By Frances Dell

There is a strong impression in flower-arrangement circles that design is something that can be understood by learning rules. People have learned these rules poll-parrot style in an effort to create beautiful arrangements.

While it is best to be familiar with the accepted rules of good arrangement, it is wise to remember that there is no secret formula that will enable you to take a few flowers and leaves and turn them into a thing of beauty.

An outstanding authority has this to say about flower arrangement: "The principles of design are not a set of rules; they are an explanation. They are not a method; they are 'the reasons why certain things have been found to be aesthetically satisfying throughout the ages'."

You are lucky if you are disturbed by poor design, for it follows that you will be pleased when the design is good. To really take arranging flowers beautifully as important is a mistake unless you get satisfaction from doing so.

So much has been written about this subject that I believe a great many women have over-stressed the importance of design and under-stressed the importance of pleasure and satisfaction. Unless you make your living as a florist, are actually the only two important things to be gotten from an arrangement of flowers.

The six important points to be considered in any design are:

- 1—Balance
- 2—Structure
- 3—Silhouette
- 4—Pleasing relationships
- 5—Contrast
- 6—Focus of attention

Ways With Shrimp

Shrimps, both fresh and frozen, are often sold uncooked and in the shell. To fix them for salads, creamed dishes or deep fat frying, just cover them with boiling salted water and boil them for 15 minutes or until the shells turn pink. Remove the shell and the intestine—that slender black line down the back.

Wash dust cloths and mops by soaking them in lukewarm suds for a half hour before you put them into a second suds for washing. Rinse well and dry thoroughly.

It's a good idea to dust draperies, upholstered pieces and lampshades each week with your vacuum cleaner or a whisk broom. This will prevent heavy soil that might require more drastic cleaning.

THEY AUTO NOT DO THIS

Still wearing 1921 license plates a 1911 Buick stands forlornly in John Stapp's garage at Farmington. He just got tired of driving it, and couldn't get it out now, if he wanted to, short of a major operation on the garage—a big tree has grown up directly in front of the car. . . . At Redwood Falls Dr. Brainerd Cherry, veterinarian, starts an antique car collection with a 1910 Overland he found on a call in northern Minnesota, jacked up in an old garage since 1918. . . . 'Twas snowy and slippery out, so Gene Volstad wasn't too surprised when, hearing a crash during the evening, he walked out of his Granite Falls home to find another car hopelessly intertwined with the front end of his own parked vehicle. He was a little perturbed on hearing a second crash to find the back end bashed up, too—and the basher gone. Net cost for the evening's entertainment $190. . . . While the drivers were getting a quick lunch a sleeping Canadian left the car at Wadena, and the drivers left the passenger. Police calls got them together after a few hours.

Hamburger hash is a quick dish. Just cook the chopped meat in a little fat along with salt, chili powder, finely diced onions and green pepper; then add tomato puree and simmer. Good over rice.

How To Check Sheep Pregnancy Disease

"Well, our best ewe died last night."

Ever come into breakfast from an early morning tour of the barns with that announcement?

Art Pope, sheep specialist at the U. of W., says may farmers lose one or more ewes during lambing season from pregnancy disease.

Pregnancy disease can not be cured—but it can be prevented. The ewes that carry twins or triplets are usually affected. Here's the very first symptom. A ewe goes off feed when she is within two weeks of lambing. Soon she appears nervous, has a high-stepping gait, and twitching ears. Occasionally she appears frightened. As the disease progresses, the ewe shows dullness and becomes paralyzed. Death follows in a few days.

Pregnancy disease is caused by upset in nutrition. Ewes with lamb need more energy to live.

Here's how Pope explains the breakdown that kills the ewe. He says fats are ignited by starch or carbohydrates in the ewe's liver. This process gives the sheep energy. Starch reaches the liver from feed by way of the intestines, since none is stored for long in the body. Fat reaches the liver largely from fats deposits around the body. A ewe just before lambing is moving large amounts of starch and fat to the liver where the products burn and give energy.

Pregnancy disease occurs because food starch does not reach the liver to ignite body fat. The body fat still keeps pouring into the liver expecting to be burned. Liver cells become clogged with fat. The liver gives up and the animal dies.

When you notice the first symptom, the liver is already stopping to function because it is loaded with fat. Curing efforts are useless.

If a ewe eats two square meals a day during the last six weeks of pregnancy, she will not have the disease.

- Pope says:
1. Have the ewe in fair to good condition at breeding time—not too fat.
 2. See that each ewe steadily gains at least 15 pounds from breeding to lambing.
 3. Steadily increase the ration during pregnancy. . . first month—pasture; second month—pasture and hay; third month—three to four pounds alfalfa hay; fourth month—the same hay plus one or two pounds corn silage; fifth month—add a half pound grain.
 4. Feed the best quality feed the last month.

Exercise, clean water, steady feeding, dry shelter, freedom from parasites—all help to keep ewes healthy.

Attempts to scale Mount Everest and other towering peaks are hampered by the comparatively small loads porters can carry at high altitudes, says the National Geographic Society. Men who pack 100 pounds or more at sea level have difficulty with loads of 20 pounds when establishing base camps at 25,000 feet.

'Squeak-Proof' Door Hinge

A MILWAUKEE man discovered a clever way to permanently silence a door hinge that has a persistent squeak. He first removed the hinge pin and rubbed the length of it with emery cloth to reduce the diameter slightly. He then filed a flat surface the length of the pin.

Next he coated the pin with petroleum jelly and replaced it in the hinge. He now had a "squeak-proof" hinge which was silent because the lubricant was stored on the flat surface. Before, the oil used could not penetrate the full length of the pin.—Illustration courtesy Family Handyman.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—Main support of the booming business this country enjoys today is increased civilian buying. Steel demand, which had been expected to begin declining about this time, is supported by a rush to buy sheet steel, used in automobiles and appliances. Machine tool builders report their rising orders are in the ratio of four for civilian types to one for heavy military models.

This obscures the fact that military spending is soaring above any time in the Truman administration, and will rise further. The tooling-up period is over; the goods are flowing off the assembly lines. This makes particularly dangerous the contention of some wishful thinkers that military spending be frozen at the 1952 level to allow a tax cut. We would be cutting the flow of goods just when the years of preparation are about to pay off.

Some observers feel we are entering the most dangerous phase of the post-war boom. Private output is soaring, they say, private incomes are rising, and the greatest military stimulant is being applied. That makes for the kind of peak from which it will be hard and unpleasant to step down.

SMALL-CITY CHAMPION—Metropolitan stores may sell more than their counterparts in the smaller cities, but they don't sell any harder. This conclusion must be drawn from a recent sales contest of the Sheaffer Pen Company. Winner of first prize—$1,000—in a national sales contest for retail clerks was Ray G. Pino of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Contestants were judged on comparative sales accomplishment, measured by volume, and on a 50-word sales presentation for the company's new Snorkel fountain pen.

"Pino's success is a reassuring indication that sales ingenuity and initiative can be developed in the smaller retail stores as effectively as in metropolitan ones," said R. H. Whidden, Sheaffer's sales vice president. "Pino went after sales so hard he was called the 'Snorkel Kid.'" The winner joined the New Mexico School Supply Company just four years ago as a deliveryman.

THINGS TO COME—A Danish camera which produces up to 20 pictures on one sheet of film will be installed at studios in this country. . . . A device which applies paste to wallpaper by drawing it through a trough by means of a roller is on the market for do-it-yourselfers. . . . A big coal company will deliver powdered coal to major users by pipeline. . . . Stencils can now be applied from an aerosol can. Faster and less messy than brushing, say its makers. . . . A powerful new magnetic sweeper to remove iron and steel fragment from roads and parking areas can be pulled by a tractor or attached to an in-plant lift truck. . . . New plastics are being woven to protect the auto driver from that sliding-across-the-seat-cover static shock.

LOWER TILE COSTS—Manufacturers of clay floor and wall tile have just sanctioned the adhesive method of installing clay tile. That's good news to families planning to build new homes or to remodel kitchens and bathrooms, because this method can often save time and money.

A thin coat of adhesive is spread by the tile-setter over any existing sound surface, and the tile is set in this bed. Adhesive setting is particularly adapted to homes with dry-wall construction. In remodeling work, old wall surfaces in good condition do not need to be torn out when clay tile is installed with adhesives.

Home owners who are weary of redecorating bathrooms can eliminate that job once and for all with clay tile, and the same is true of grease- or water-marred areas of kitchens. The adhesive method is intended to supplement rather than replace the conventional method of installing tile in a mortar bed.

STANDBY CONTROLS—Indiana's earnest Senator Capehart, who appears to have won at least administration neutrality in his crusade for a set of standby controls to go into effect when emergency arises, is having a harder time with the people he is supposed to be trying to protect.

Every special group, called to testify for controls in general, is sharply reminded of some injustice it suffered in detail. Because, through the sheer ineptitude of the controllers, there are bound to be enough injustices to go around, this may result in Mr. Capehart's proposed control bill's being destroyed, clause by clause, and quietly forgotten.

BITS O' BUSINESS—One out of every 15 American business firms—large or small, personal or corporate—used advertising match books in 1952. . . . The consumer's dollar was the same size in January, 1953, as in January 1952, the first time that has happened in a long time.

YOUR HIGHWAYS by JAY SCOTT

(No. 3 of a series)

Modern Roads aren't necessarily super-highways, any more than modern vehicles are necessarily airplanes. Many people think that only famous highways are modern. Truth is: any road is up-to-date that does a good job of carrying the traffic it was built for.

A Good Road permits safe passage at a safe speed for the cars that use it regularly. A well-graded, well-drained dirt road may well be called modern; so might a well-cared-for gravel road or any one of the familiar "black tops."

The Moment a road fails to meet the demands of motorists, it is obsolete.

We need modern roads between small towns even between farms. But we can hardly demand that these roads be superhighways.

Exactly What Kind of a road does a community need? A survey of needs is just as important as an engineering survey. A too-expensive road, or a too-elaborate one, is just as bad as one that is too narrow, badly graded or poorly built.

The Use-Value of a road is the determining factor. Planning a modern road calls for thorough consideration of all the needs of the public—industrial, commercial, recreational, agricultural and social. After these are set it's time for the engineers.

It's The Engineers' Job to know how wide the road should be, its course, construction and materials.

Any Compromise with known and expected need is folly & partially condemns the road before it is built. The road of today — the road of tomorrow — will expedite traffic, increase safety & serve the maximum needs of the people who use it!

The duties connected with the Attorney General's office were so light until 1850 that many of the men in office spent much time in private law practice.

A NEW ENGLAND village official was re-elected town fence-viewer, burial agent and measurer of wood and bark. Sounds like he's a handy man-about-town.

One of ex-King Farouk's huge palaces will be used to house 30,000 chickens. Heck, the play-boy king himself never had a harem that big. Just goes to show what improvements can be made if you try.

A Philadelphia plainclothes policeman fished gambling slips out of a restaurant stewpot hiding place. Guess the pot in that game was sweetened a little too much.

The Moscow newspaper Pravda condemned a White Russian science institute for not having produced a single scientific report in eight years. They probably wrote one but couldn't get it past the censors. Must not have followed the party line.

A Chicago housewife hid her husband's toupee when he made ready to date another woman. Let he couldn't top that.

CHANGE LAUNDRY TUBS TO SOFT DRINK BAR

The holiday season with its get-togethers for the young people spells a need for making the basement recreation room attractive.

A removable screen or false front can be built to fit around the front of the laundry tubs. Plywood of 3/8" thickness is recommended, although 1/4" can be used.

Hinge the sides to the front with brass butt hinges as illustrated.

The plywood can be stained and varnished, or it can be painted. If you are artistic, you may wish to paint your own design on the screen. Some people cut designs from wall paper or magazines and paste them on the front and sides.

The top should be made of plywood or ordinary lumber, and covered with linoleum or oil cloth so that it does not water spot.

Cut holes for cracked ice and cold drinks as illustrated, or according to your own ideas. The lids may be hinged to cover these holes when not in use.

Be sure to leave a large space in front of the faucets for washing dishes. A pail of hot soapy water may be set underneath if desired.

Build a removable shelf to set on the back if desired.

MRS. P. K.: My son has had what appears to be mumps three times. Is that possible? My doctor says it may be a gland infection.

ANSWER: Mumps is not believed to occur more than once because the body develops an immunity to it. The recurring infection is probably an infection involving the parotid gland, as your doctor said.

AWAKENING THE PUBLIC CONSCIENCE

Life After Forty

Did you know that 2700 people in America became 65 years old today, that 2700 more will reach their 65th birthday on tomorrow, and that the same thing will be true the next day, the next, and so on? In fact, if the present trend continues, the rate will be increased to the extent that within a decade and a half, every tenth person within this nation will be 65 years of age or even older.

Because man's life-expectancy has so markedly increased during this generation, many new problems have arisen in social, medical and economic fields. In fact, during the past few years, the term geriatrics has come into use and bids fair to become a commonplace household term within a short time. Geriatrics has to do with the care and treatment of people who are already elderly or who are becoming old.

People cannot be said to grow old at any specific age, though it is true that close upon the heels of their fortieth year many individuals experience changes in their bodies and in their mental faculties. Many, however, seem to retain their gaiety of spirit, their agility and alertness for three or more decades past the fortieth year known as the "meridian" of life.

It is not difficult to detect alterations in both the physical structure and the personality itself when the years begin to leave their telling effects upon the individual. Thus Grandma's hair becomes thinner and whiter; her resistance seems lower and even her stature decreases. She easily forgets recent events and shows a delight in reminiscing about the olden days. No longer does she show a relish for new things. She may grow intolerant and irritable as well.

Often she will be unable to sleep; she will perhaps show inaccuracy in her thinking; and the least excitement may "play havoc" with her appetite. In fact, any psychic stress may so adversely affect her eating that she will refuse to eat properly or, conversely, she may seek to find relief from her stress by indulging heavily. In the latter instance Grandma's anxiety in temporarily relieved by the dulled sensibilities produced through a full stomach.

On any day, chronic illnesses to be found among elderly people are four times as numerous as they are for the combined total of all other age level groups.

Scientists estimate that more than one half of the deaths among the elderly people can be attributed to heart diseases, cancer, cerebral hemorrhages and hardening of the arteries.

Gerontologists, the people who study the aging process, believe that it is just as normal for individuals to grow old as it was for them to begin their growth. Hence those working in the field of geriatrics today are not striving to arrest the aging process but rather to reduce the chronic illnesses among the elderly group and to adapt the social environment to their needs and interests. When such needs are met, the older individuals within the population can be assured a more satisfying, more useful and far happier existence.

Pit lime, when you can get it, is a good buy for crop land.

MECHANICAL MISS—Never too old to learn, is the motto of Miss Mary Brown, 72-year-old student at Greer Technical Institute in Chicago, Ill. She wants to learn how to care for machinery on her brother's farm at Marietta, Minn.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

THRIFTY HAM AND CORN CASSEROLES

Second-day ham takes on wonderful new flavor in these casseroles which include corn, green pepper and onion in a well-seasoned white sauce. With crusty rolls, a green salad and zesty beer, they're perfect for a family or party meal.

Your family may not be large enough to consume a whole ham, or even a half, in one meal, but you'll find that it's smart planning to bake a ham occasionally. It's such a decorative asset to any table and it is delicious hot or cold.

With the portion left after the first meal, you will want to save some for slicing and serving in sandwiches or with the breakfast eggs. For a dinner menu, you might grind the meat for a ham loaf or cut it in cubes for a casserole combination such as this one:

Baked Ham and Corn

- 1 No. 2 can kernel corn
- 1 small onion, grated
- 2 cups minced green pepper
- 2 cups cubed cooked ham
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour

- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup grated cheese

Combine corn, onion, green pepper and ham; mix lightly. Place in 4 to 6 individual casseroles. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened (about 2 minutes). Stir in mustard, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper; pour over mixture in casseroles. Combine crumbs and cheese; sprinkle over casseroles. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Ham stimulates a dull appetite with its flavor and aroma. It is a good source of heat and energy. When the family has had baked ham, fried ham, or ham sandwiches, perhaps one of these recipes will be especially welcome.

Ham Loaf

- 1/4 lb. lean cooked ham chopped fine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1/4 lb. grated cheese
- 3 eggs
- Salt and pepper

Mix the flour and milk and cook for a few minutes. Add the ham, cheese, the slightly beaten egg yolks. Then add the stiffly beaten egg whites. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into a mold, set the mold in a pan of hot water and bake in an oven 375 degrees until firm about 20 minutes. This may be served with a white sauce to which hard-boiled eggs have been added.

Ham Dumplings

- 2 cups prepared biscuit mix
- 1 cup minced ham
- 3/4 cup water
- Cole slaw

Dice ham fat and cook in a frying pan until it is very dry and crisp.

Blend biscuit mix, ham and water. Pour into a buttered mold and steam in a closely covered pot for 1 1/2 hours. When ready to serve, surround cooked dumplings with cole slaw. Garnish slaw with crisp diced ham fat.

Ham Casserole

- 1 slice of raw ham, 2 in. thick
 - 1 1/2 cups raw potatoes, sliced thin
 - 2 cups milk
- Cut off inside edge of fat. Put ham in casserole. Cover with potatoes. Add milk. Cover, bake 1 1/2 hours in an oven 350 degrees.

Ham Roll

- 1 slice of ham 1 inch thick
 - Canned tomatoes
 - Celery stuffing
- Spread slices of ham with celery stuffing. Roll up and skewer. Put in baking dish. Cover with canned tomatoes. Cover and bake in an oven 350 degrees for 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

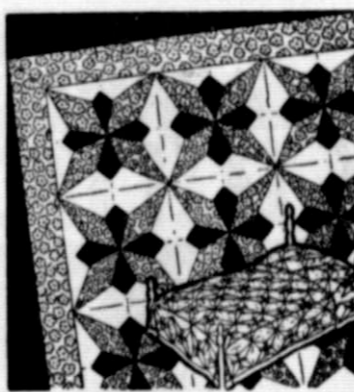

Celery Stuffing

- 1/4 cup chopped celery
 - 1 tablespoon minced onion
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon celery seed
 - Pepper
- Cook celery, parsley and onion in butter for 3 minutes. Add bread crumbs, celery seed, salt and pepper.

Macaroni, Ham Au Gratin

- Cooked macaroni
 - Chopped cooked ham
 - Medium white sauce
 - Buttered bread crumbs
 - Grated cheese

Paris fashion model, lovely Linda Lelon, learns blind flying in a Link trainer operated at the Airlines Building in the French capital. Usually reserved for practicing pilots, the trainer also helps the part-time model become a better flyer.

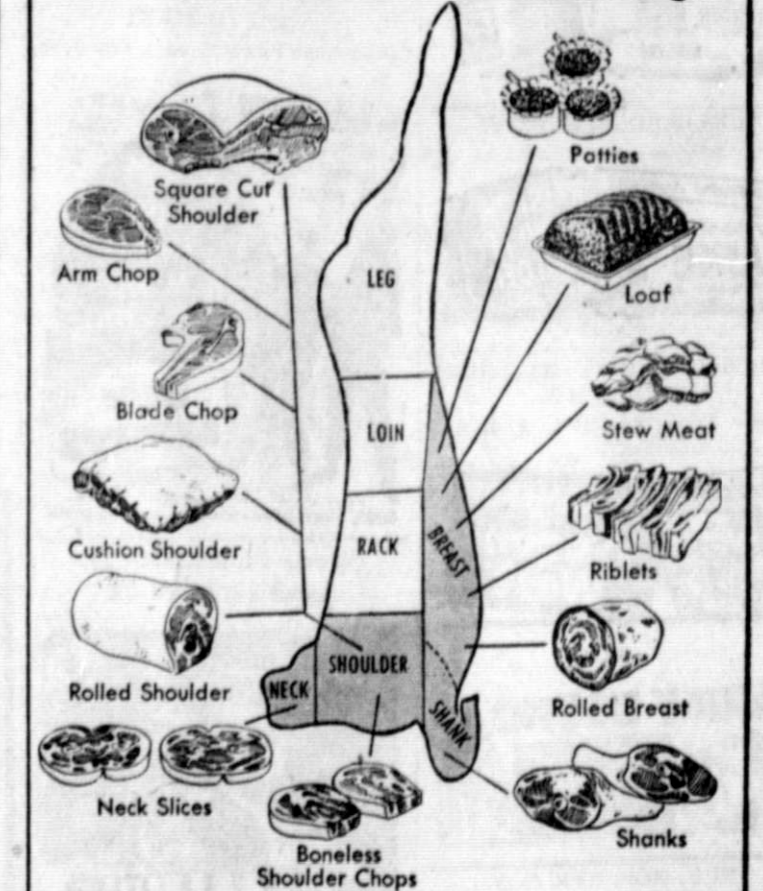

MODEL MEETS MODEL—A not-so-plain model makes the acquaintance of a model plane at the National Hobby Industry show in Chicago, Ill. Dorothy Johnson, model, learns about the miniature planes from Lew Mahieu of Compton, Cal. He has 14 international model-plane records to his credit, hopes to recapture with the above plane, honors lost to Russian model-makers. Its easy to see Miss Johnson is impressed by the plane.

Lamb Cuts That Stretch the Budget

Stretching the food dollar is easy for the homemaker who knows the cuts of meat in her market. She can purchase those cuts that other women overlook, thus adding variety as well as economy to meals.

As shown by the shaded section of the above chart, lamb breast, shoulder, neck and shank are the less-demanded portions of the carcass. Actually, some 14 retail cuts may be made from these sections.

For example, the shoulder may be boned, then rolled into an attractive roast. Or the boned shoulder may be made into a cushion-style roast, ideal for stuffing. Likewise, chops may be cut from this section.

Lamb breasts may be rolled for roasting, or be cut into riblets for barbecuing. Lamb patties are grand for a grill. Ground lamb alone, or in combination with other meats, makes a moist, flavorful loaf.

Gives your dollars a two-way stretch

1: It's worth more when you buy it...

What makes Ford worth more when you buy? Some say it's the solid, built-for-keeps Ford Crestmark Bodies. Others say it's because only Ford can offer V-8 power in a low-priced car. Still others think of Ford's smooth-as-silk new Wonder Ride or "Worth More" features like Ford's suspended pedals... or Center-Fill Fueling. The best thing for you to do is to See... Value Check... and Test Drive this new Ford for yourself.

2: It's worth more when you sell it...

Even by resale value standards Ford is the best buy on the American Road! For surveys of used car lots prove that last year's Ford is No. 1 in resale value. And this newer, finer '53 Ford holds even greater promise of keeping up its resale value. No other car gives you so much for so little money!
