

Local Scoutmaster, 3 Scouts Sign for National Jamboree

Paul L. Schultz, Fond du Lac, chairman of the Badger Council Jamboree committee, and Howard Bauman, West Bend, chairman of Leadership and Personnel, join in announcing the "top leaders" for the Badger Council Third National Jamboree contingent.

The Jamboree will be held July 17-23 at the historic Irvine Ranch, Santa Ana, Calif. at Newport Harbor on the Pacific Ocean. Charles L. Gilmore, scoutmaster of Troop 32, Handolph, will serve as scoutmaster and be assisted by John LeLorme, scoutmaster of Troop 57, Richfield, and Alex Vetter of Beaver Dam, Badger Council training chairman. E. M. "Mike" Gnacinski, scoutmaster of Troop 44, Kewaskum, will head up the second scout troop as scoutmaster provided registrations warrant it. If not, he will be in charge of the one or two patrols in excess of the one troop of 25 boys now assured.

Gnacinski, scoutmaster of Troop 44, Kewaskum, since 1947 and prior to that assistant scoutmaster for two years, served as an assistant scoutmaster of Troop 3 at the Second National Jamboree at Valley Forge in 1950. He has given fine leadership and three boys of Kewaskum will be with him on the trip. There were sixteen boys from Kewaskum at Valley Forge.

In addition to these four top leaders four other young men have been approved as assistants in case the Jamboree contingent reaches double troop strength. Their names will then be announced.

Recruitment will remain open until May 1 after which series of boys and parents meetings and leaders meetings will be held throughout the council in preparation for the big trip.

The Badger Council group will form the nucleus of a Greyhound Silverside air-conditioned bus caravan leaving Fond du Lac July 10 and arriving at the Jamboree July 14. On the trip going they will visit the Black Hills area, Mt. Rushmore and spend over night at a Jet Interceptor Air Force Base near Rapid City, So. Dak. A day and night will be spent in Yellowstone Park, another day and night at Hoover Dam and Las Vegas area and into California after a half day at Salt Lake City, a swim in the Great Salt Lake, a visit to the Copper Mines, and a trip to Teton Park area.

At the Jamboree some 50,000 scouts from the United States and several foreign countries will be camping together. Highlights of the big Jamboree will be an afternoon rodeo put on by top ranking "cow punchers" of the Southwest and an all Hollywood star night show by stars of the movie world and a grand opening spectacle and a grand closing show which will feature some 10,000 participants. Word has been received that screen actress Irene Dunne will be a visitor to the Region 7 camp or section where the Badger Council will be camped.

It is planned that a trip from the Jamboree site will be taken by bus into Mexico with stop overs at Capistrano Missions and some of the other Southwest historical landmarks. The local contingent will leave the Jamboree July 24 spending a day at Grand Canyon, a night at the heavy bomber air base either at Flagstaff or Williams, Ariz., and thence on through Great Bend, Kansas City, Des Moines and home arriving here July 29 after covering an excess of 5,000 miles and traveling through 14 states.

Cost for the entire trip is $217.50 including the registration of $10.00 due immediately upon application. Only scouts 12 years of age and over and Explorers 14 years of age and over who have had camping experience and hold second class or higher ranks in scouting are eligible to attend.

As of April 14 there were 33 boys signed for the trip, including those from Kewaskum: Robert Sparks, Michael McBride, and Gilbert Hammer. Tom Champion, Fond du Lac, associated with the Fond du Lac Times newspaper, will serve as Section A publicity director while at the Jamboree.

Goal for the Jamboree committee has been two complete troops or 75 scouts and leaders.

Senior Class Play at School May 1-2

Do you appreciate dominating parents? Or do you like to be left on your own with only your best friend to get you in and out of trouble? Cornelia Skinner and Emily Kimbrough were left on their own when they boarded a ship to France in the play "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" and they got themselves into plenty of trouble while on the ship.

Joanne Fay will be Cornelia, Dolly Edwards, her wide-eyed roommate, Emily, while Dick Rodenbeck and Jay Van Buren will have the male leads as two young and eligible medical students. The following people will be in other parts on the nights of May 1st and 2nd when the senior class play will be presented in the Kewaskum High school auditorium:

The main purpose of Cornelia's trip to France is to take acting lessons from Monsieur De La Croix. When Cornelia and Emily board their ship they are happy and contented to be left on their own.

The morning when the ship is to dock a tragic thing happens to Cornelia. She wakes up and tells Emily she has a fever and feels as if she will never reach the shores of France alive. The first thing she wants is the doctor so Emily thinks of Dick and Leo who are medical students at Harvard. Cornelia objects to seeing them but Emily insists. When they arrive Cornelia becomes very depressed. She tells Emily to go on to France without her. How they get by the medical inspector and off the boat makes for comedy packed action.

The adventure and excitement that the girls experience on the ocean voyage and their stay in Paris go together to make for a fast-moving, sparkling comedy.

General admission tickets for the play will be 50c and 25c for students. The play will start at 8:00 p. m. each night.

Haebig Sponsors $25,000 Fire at Bar Closing Bill Armstrong Church

Closing hours of Milwaukee county taverns were the target of two Assembly bills at a public hearing in Madison Tuesday. The bills would repeal the present Milwaukee closing hours of 2 a. m. weekdays and 3:30 a. m. Sundays and substitute a statewide 1 a. m. closing hour.

Sponsors are Haebig (Rep.-Kewaskum), Kintz (Rep.-Richland Center) and A. L. Peterson (Rep.-Prescott).

Supporters of the move said that Milwaukee hours are not fair to tavern keepers in surrounding counties and that they led to an increase in auto accidents.

Aian H. Steinmetz, assistant Milwaukee city attorney, said the Common Council opposes the bill because there have been no complaints about present closing hours. Wendin Kraft of the Wisconsin Tavernkeepers' association pointed out working hours of many people in larger cities make it necessary for them to find recreation at later hours.

A bill to permit taverns to remain open all night on New Year's Eve drew little opposition, but Mrs. H. C. Head, Madison, representing the WCTU, declared it would lead to more auto accidents. "More accidents are caused by the ice in cocktail cups than by the ice on highways," she declared.

MISS SPAETH ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Spaeth, R. 2, Kewaskum, on April 16 announced the engagement of their daughter La Verne to Alois Doll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Doll, R. 1, Allenton.

Fire broke out in Our Lady of Angels Catholic church in Armstrong shortly after 6 p. m. Tuesday and caused more than $25,000 damage to the interior and contents of the brick structure which was reconstructed in 1917. Faulty wiring was blamed for the fire.

Firemen from Eden, St. Cloud and Greenbush departments, who fought the blaze for more than an hour before bringing flames under control, were credited with saving the parish house located about 50 feet from the church.

Eden Fire Chief Joseph Baumhardt, whose department was the first to the scene, said the sacristy was swept by flames and the auditorium and altar blackened by smoke. Wilbur Brookings, one of the Eden firemen, suffered a cut hand from shattering glass and received first aid treatment at the scene.

The Rev. Thomas C. Trahey, pastor of the parish for the last four years, rushed into the church after the fire was discovered and removed the Blessed Sacrament. Two chaises and vestments were destroyed along with furnishings. The loss is covered by insurance.

When firemen arrived at the church it was necessary for them to chop holes in the roof to get at the blaze. The flames swept from one end of the church to the other and the hot bricks created an intense heat which hindered fire-fighting operations. Equipment used to fight the fire included three pumps, two service trucks and eight special trucks for hauling water.

The fire was discovered by Sister Frances Clare and Sister Marita of the Sisters of St. Francis order who teach at the parish school located about a block from the church. They had gone to the church to pray and noticed smoke emanating from the sacristy. Father Trahey was notified and called the Eden fire department. Armstrong does not have its own volunteer department but several residents were on hand to assist firemen.

Although the fire was brought under control by 6 p. m., the interior was still burning during the night. It was necessary for firemen to be stationed in the area.

It was feared that sparks from the church would blow on to the roof of the parish house. Firemen concentrated on preventing the flames from spreading and kept a continuous vigilance at the priest's home. Father Trahey said that quick work of firemen in getting the blaze under control was a credit to their communities. The parish has a membership of 75 families.

The pastor said he would meet with a group of parishioners soon to map future building plans.

10 Teams to Open Kewaskum Bowlers Hit in Tournaments

Three late entries have boosted the northern division of the Land o' Lakes baseball league to ten teams. Teams from Germantown, West Bend and Belgium are the latest additions to the division, which is now the largest of the four Lakes divisions.

The West Bend entry, which will probably be called the Benders, was a surprise entrant to replace the West Bend Boosters, which had already entered the northern division of the Rock River league. The newly formed team will be composed chiefly of players from the high school team. A manager has not yet been named.

Belgium voted to accept a franchise bid from the Lakes league after having campaigned very successfully in the Kettle Moraine loop for several years. The team will be managed by Clyde Weiland. Ozaukee county will be represented by six teams in the division this summer.

Germantown is a holdover from last season. The team will again be led by Ray Hornig.

The newest entries join Kewaskum, Mequon, Grafton, Cedarburg, Port Washington, Saukville, and Newburg. Granville, the team which won the division title in 1952, has been shifted to the western division of the league.

All of the teams except West Bend and Port Washington will open the season May 3. Mequon will be at Grafton, Germantown at Cedarburg, Kewaskum at Saukville and Belgium at Newburg in openers. Mequon will open its home season a week later with an elaborate old-timers celebration, which will include a parade.

With a minimum amount of help from you, your woolen apparel will keep its new look for seasons. Keep the nap of your richly textured woolen apparel fresh and luxurious looking by guarding against friction. Holding your bag continually under your arm will rub against the nap, producing in time enough friction to flatten and damage the fibers. Carry your bags and parcels loosely and away from your coat or suit.

Wear a scarf to protect your woolen apparel from powder line at collar. Constant contact with residue of powder, cosmetic creams and bases is damaging to the nap and appearance of the wool fabric.

Leave your coat hanging up until you are ready to leave the house. No clothes careful woman ever tosses her coat or jacket over a chair for more than a minute. If you must sit on your coat for any length of time, unbutton it and pull it slightly up at the back. If you are a straphanger, unbutton your coat to prevent strain on it. Dress shields are an important part of good grooming and general daintiness. Wear them with your woolen apparel and wash them daily.

New cashmere sweaters offer a variety of gay, fresh spring topers. There are many new details in the dressmaker styles, clear spring colors in the classics and a new stole for year around wear.

The white and pastel cashmires are perennial favorites for Spring suits, and lend themselves to many moods in accessory changes for afternoon and evening wear. The light tones are shown with dark knitted borders on the collars, with delicate hand crocheted lace effects in ribbing and scalloped borders.

Deep toned cashmires such as the new coronation blue, spring navy or smoky gray, are highlighted with white or lighter shades of the same color. In some of the sweaters, a two toned ribbing has been used for collars and cuffs.

For late afternoon and evening, a new scoop sweater is shown with brief sleeves, the neckline outlined with a fine crochet trim. This style can be worn throughout the summer for cool, vacation evenings. A black velvet ribbon can be worked through the crochet border of a white scoop sweater, giving a sophisticated touch, flowers or jewelry added for a different effect.

The cashmere stole has a lace weave and provides a fashionable accessory with a spring suit, or delightful evening wrap through the summer months.

All the cashmires are moth-proofed in a process that makes them long wearing despite many washings or dry cleanings. They can even be worn on the beach, since they are resistant to salt water.

Pineapple Crunch Cake

A wedge of fresh coffee cake delights youngsters as this pineapple crunch cake does. Tart pineapple is tucked between two layers of coffee cake. Ingredients are two and one-half quarts (two and one-half pounds) sifted enriched flour, one-third cup (three ounces) baking powder, two tablespoons (one ounce) salt, three cups (one and one-half pounds) sugar, one cup (one-fourth pound) dry milk solids, one cup (one-half pound) shortening, one-half dozen eggs, one quart water or pineapple juice, one recipe cinnamon nut crumbs and three cups (two No. 2 cans) crushed pineapple, well drained.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and dry milk solids. Cut or rub shortening until mixture is crumbly. Beat eggs and add water. Make a well in dry ingredients and add egg water mixture. Mix until batter is smooth. Divide one-half of batter into three greased pans, 9 by 14 inches. Sprinkle each pan with one cup cinnamon nut crumbs. Spread 1 cup pineapple batter evenly. Spread remaining batter over each. Bake in hot oven 400 degrees, about 30 minutes.

JUST WHAT MAKES A GREAT UNIVERSITY

Teaching is probably the basic activity of any educational institution, but more than that is involved in a University of the size and strength of Minnesota's great institution. Extension services, carrying the University to farm and home, are a major part of this pattern of activity. Third factor is research, in many forms in many fields. Cultural and recreational opportunities at U of M are numerous and diversified. Convocations bring speakers of national note. Participation and audience music thrive in University Band, Student Symphony, various Choruses, Artists Course, Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. There are University Theater and University Gallery; the huge main and many technical libraries, major and minor museums; Coffman and Ag Unions with restaurants, music, indoor games; and the far-reaching intra-mural and inter-campus sports and athletic program so popular with so many.

Make Bedrooms More Attractive With Plaids

Use These Clan Tartans

BY EDNA MILES

THE innovations in fashions for beds are many. One follows another and most of them not only make a bedroom look more attractive, but cut down on the actual task of bed-making.

News in blankets includes word of a vicara-blend blanket in clan tartans. This is the first such to be made of vicara fiber blended with wool and rayon. The vicara is resistant to moths and mildew, cuts down on shrinkage and is nonirritating to sensitive skins, the makers of this blanket say. It's a covering that's both light and warm and it is priced under $10.

The clan tartans are authentic. There are two: the Ramsay, which is predominantly red and black with white stripe, and the Sinclair Hunting, which is a dark green.

The makers of this blanket have also developed a new fitted blanket, one with mitered corners at the foot. This makes bed-making easier and the final result neater. It also provides for greater sleeping comfort.

In summer weight, it's made of 90 per cent cotton, 5 per cent rayon and 5 per cent wool. It comes in pastels, in both the full and twin-bed sizes. Both sizes are priced under $6.

New in blankets is this first one made of blended Vicara fiber. Woven in authentic clan tartans, it is a perfect complement for an Early American room setting. Shown above is the Ramsay tartan, which is predominantly red and black, with a white stripe. This blanket also comes in the Sinclair Hunting, which is dark green.

1 Word Can Change Your Life—STARS

If God asked you, like he once did Abraham, to count the stars, you'd feel like protesting too. You can't even see them all, much less count them.

There was a clergyman in a New England mill town who preached a sermon on the stars once every year. The assistant minister thought this repetition unnecessary. "We make cloth in this town," he complained, "and I can't see the value of a sermon on astronomy." The older preacher smiled and replied: "Of course, it might not seem of much use at all, but it greatly enlarges our idea of God."

That's why God asked Abraham to count the stars. No matter what your job is—typing reports, selling autos, teaching school or pumping gas—you'll do it better when you enlarge your idea of God. So try counting the stars, the word that can change your life.

Intimate Portrait Of Elizabeth II

The pretty young mother who is to be crowned England's Queen this June will become to most of her subjects a symbol of the greatness that was Britain's under other female monarchs. But within the privacy of her own family, according to McCall's Magazine, Elizabeth II indulges in the same kind of womanly worries about figure, diet, clothes and hair styles as any of the young ladies in her realm. Writing in the April issue of the magazine, Allan A. Michie tells how this very normal girl in the world's most artificial life has matured, becoming less her mother's daughter and more the wife of a strong-minded and gallant man of the world:

"England's young queen has a grace, confidence and natural consideration for others seldom equalled in English history. From an American point of view, however, Elizabeth has occasionally been considered a little too regal and severe. During her tour of Canada and the United States some observers felt that Elizabeth was remote and unyielding in public appearances.

"In fairness, it must be said for Elizabeth that she was then laboring under a far greater strain of personal worry over her father's health than anyone at the time imagined, and it was her first major tour in which she was the focus of public attention.

"Like her father, the young Queen is a stickler for protocol and etiquette, and like George VI she has a sharp tongue for anyone who abuses royal tradition. During a review of troops in Quebec, Elizabeth stood up in the front of a white jeep. Philip, seated in back, started to stand up

Bible Comment:

Jesus Asks Loyalty Only as He Gave It To God His Father

TRUE Christianity is not an easy religion. But then Jesus never offered His disciples ease or pleasure. He offered them only "Joy." He told them to be of good cheer in a very dark hour, told them of the rich rewards for service which were offered in the Kingdom of Heaven, and always spoke of the sacrifice of certain things which are regarded very highly in the eyes of the world.

Jesus spoke of the Kingdom as a pearl of great price which everyone should be willing to sell everything to buy.

The distinctive thing about the Jews from very ancient times was the insistence of their religion on loyalty to God. It stated in the commandment: "Thou shalt have no other Gods before me." There was no part of a man's life that was free from the presence of his God. The obligation to serve God was always active and waiting to be fulfilled. Jesus demanded no formal allegiance to Himself except in the way he gave allegiance to the Father. He did insist, however, on loyalty to the Truth.

There is no half-way point in Christianity and that is the reason why many professing Christians find neither ease nor happiness in their religion. It is only in the lives of those who follow the Christian way completely that we are able to find the true beauty of the Christian religion.

The Christian who has accepted the disciplines of his religion has the ease and grace of one who has enjoyed a long and intimate fellowship with the Master.

There are easy-going members in every congregation. But there are also earnest souls whose religion is the dominant thing in their lives. These are the ones who will win that easy manner which is the sign of self-discipline.

too, but she covertly yet firmly told him to sit down. He did.

"Until her marriage she seldom bothered about her appearance, usually accepting her mother's advice about clothes, often with disastrous results. The fussy fashions preferred by her mother usually made Elizabeth appear overdressed and years older than her age. There was always a profusion of pearls, diamonds, furs and feathers—even for daytime wear. Her mother's pastel colors and shiny satin evening materials made Elizabeth's figure look bulkier than it was.

"The turning point in Elizabeth's clothes sense came during her state visit to Paris with Philip in 1948. Under the encouragement of her husband, Princess Margaret and her aunt, the stylish Duchess of Kent, Elizabeth gradually acquired a new, streamlined elegance. She adopted a simpler, shorter hair style, replaced her frilly, dressmaking tailored with expensively simple cloths dresses, suits and coats, and turned from pastels and light prints to darker shades of blue, lime-green and gray. These made her appear slimmer and taller.

"She had a hard time losing all the weight gained during her second pregnancy, but early in 1951, spurred on by Philip, she cut out potatoes, bread and starchy foods, reduced her wine-drinking and gave up chocolates, of which she had been particularly fond.

"Elizabeth's tastes are simple and moderate. She does not like cocktails, but she enjoys a glass of sherry before meals. She often drinks white wine with her food, but usually toys with a single glass of champagne through a dinner. She smokes only at home.

"Although her royal duties are constitutionally nonpolitical (she has to take her Prime Minister's advice), Elizabeth is never content with generalities in her weekly or semi-weekly conferences with Winston Churchill. The Prime Minister has responded by talking to her in the same man-to-man fashion in which he discussed state affairs with her father. Soon after her accession she called in her leading cabinet ministers, one by one, to enlighten her on the work of their departments.

MILLIONS "TAKE TO THE WOODS"

U.S. Forest Service reports that 1951 visitors to Superior and Chippewa National Forests actually numbered more than the population of the state. Camping and picnicking attracted a sizeable city of 94,000; 96,000 were hunting game, 308,500 tried their luck with rod and line; another 52,000 ventured into the roadless regions, and nearly 20,000 engaged in winter sports. All in all, this scenic region attracted an imposing total of 3,196,000 visitors in that one year.

There's Economy in These Beef Cuts

Surveys show that the average homemaker makes use of less than 10 per cent of the scores of available meat cuts. Since price per pound is affected by this demand for a comparatively few cuts, it is evident that she is overlooking many cuts that would help to stretch her meat dollar.

Because meat is the center of the meal and is important in the food budget, it is of distinct advantage to be familiar with as many cuts as possible. The above chart presents a graphic picture of less-demanded beef cuts and their origin. The shaded areas, representing 60 per cent of the carcass, are sources of these lesser-known cuts. Unshaded areas provide the cuts in most popular demand. In addition to their price advantage, the less-demanded cuts afford increased variety in the menu, and are as rich in nutritive value as the more demanded cuts.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

The summer fisherman is familiar with the bloom of a freshwater pond, which he shrugs off as one of those things to wait out. But when the ocean decides to break out into bloom, such as the "red tide," he is apt to get a bit hysterical and feel sure that his fishing is doomed. It isn't.

Certain phases of this phenomenon, which occurs in many parts of the world, kills millions on millions of fish. Some of them sink to the bottom. Others mass on the surface, carried by wind and tide, to form great areas of bloated decay.

Since the outbreak of red tide in the Gulf of Mexico in 1947, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has been carrying on a research project to find out its cause, to learn how to predict its outbreak and especially how to disperse its killing power.

We know the sea swarms with minute organisms called dinoflagellates. When some combination of events changes the water, these micro-organisms suddenly increase by the billions to disrupt the nature of the sea. Though similar phenomenon has occurred up and down the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, it has not generally resulted in the killing of fish as has happened in the two recent outbreaks of red tide off the southwest coast of Florida.

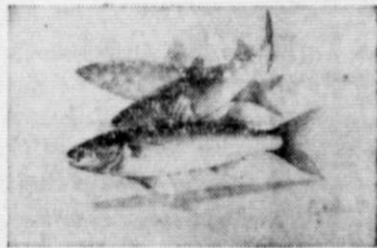

Scientists have observed, according to correspondent Michael Hudoba, that red tide occurred after a period of abnormally heavy rainfall followed by a shift from offshore to onshore winds. This accumulates a mass of low-salinity water which is kept from moving seaward by the wind. In this mass there is a microbe that explodes into bloom and changes into a form that is apparently poisonous to fish.

The red tide disappears almost as fast as it bursts into existence. The big question is where this microbe, which vanishes when the tide disperses, can be found. The scientists have searched the Gulf of Mexico from surface to bottom every month of the year without luck. They now suspect that it might be found in the rivers or in the mud of the marshes.

Thus the problem of the red tide continues to be studied by the Fish and Wildlife Service. Anglers should be patient and remember that biological research is not like a comet burst, but a constant day-to-day study, often tedious and exhausting, which probes the secrets nature is so reluctant to give up.

MULLET

©1952 National Wildlife Federation

The fish figured here is the Striped Mullet which is a close relative of the White Mullet, the Fan-tail Mullet and Brazilian Mullet. Of these the Fan-tail and Brazilian Mullet may be considered more southern than the Striped and the White. The White Mullet is essentially a southern form and yet it ranges as far north as Cape Cod. The Striped Mullet is rare north of New York though it has been taken as far north as Maine.

The Striped Mullet has the reputation in the New York latitude of hibernating during the winter months. We do not presume to pass judgement on this statement. The southern limit of the range in the Atlantic is Brazil with the greatest concentration off Florida and the Gulf of Mexico. Tagging fish has indicated that there is no major migration movement. The fish may be found in brackish waters as well as in salt water. On the west coast in the Pacific the Striped Mullet is found from Monterey to Chile. The Striped Mullet is one of the mullet group that congregates in huge schools. It is closely related to the Silver-sides.

The Striped Mullet is one of the larger mullets. It may reach a weight in excess of 5 pounds and a length of 2 feet. It is dark blue above, has silver sides fading to white or pale yellow on the under sides. There are showy dark stripes along the sides and these of course help distinguish the species from the related White Mullet.

When mullet form schools in shallow waters they frequently jump into the air making it easy for the school to be located by fishermen. Fishermen usually take Striped Mullet with seines either set when a tide is in to capture the outgoing fish or set around a milling school of fish. Some mullet may escape a seine set for them by leaping over the cork line but many are taken. In spite of this wholesale method of taking the fish over many years the supply seems to remain approximately the same. This may be due in part to the enormous recuperative power of the fish.

In the Florida area, spawning takes place in shallow water over sandy bottoms from December through February. Sometimes eggs may be laid over rocky bottoms that lie to a depth of over 20 feet. In spawning act a single female is usually surrounded by a number of males all of whom are usually smaller than the female. No parental care is given the eggs or young.

Striped Mullet feed freely on vegetable matter, some of it taken from muds. The fish has the characteristically long intestinal tract of the mud eaters.

Mullet are of considerable value for man and provide one of the most popular and successful baits for the larger game fishes of the seas. The size of the mullet used depends in part on the fish sought by the angler. Mullet are commonly cut up for use as bait.

So valuable is this species that extensive studies are being made to assure the supply continues undiminished. The National Wildlife Federation has sponsored many studies designed to protect different forms of wildlife.

Away From It All

Doctors Encourage Beauty After 60

Because most people live to a ripe old age, the Minnesota State Medical association today suggests that special attention be paid to keeping the mature years attractive to look at, as well as active and healthy.

Particularly for women, who outnumber men in the older age group, according to the last report of the census bureau, good looks are important to self-confidence and self respect, and the cosmetics that help along glamor after 60 are an important aid to health.

There are two things to remember about aging and good looks, the doctors say. One is that the size and activity of the sweat and oil glands in the skin diminish with age. That means the skin will become rough and leathery if skin oils are not conserved and restored. The other is that prolonged exposure to wind and sun will produce premature aging of the skin at any age; and it is permanently damaging to elderly complexions. It is the source of discolorations, scales and papules that so frequently accompany age.

Once blemishes like this appear they cannot be made to go away, the bulletin states. Good cosmetics can help to hide them, though, and good creams and emollients, used regularly, can offset the dryness of the skin. There are many good powder bases and the doctors suggest use of one of them for aging skin. Also they suggest use of a cleansing cream instead of soap and water for cleaning the face, to avoid loss of remaining skin oils, as far as possible.

Horny growths that often appear on older skin in the areas constantly exposed to sun and weather sometimes need medical attention the bulletin says. One type of growth seldom becomes cancerous but can be removed easily by a physician. The other type, is characterized by dry, hard growths, slightly elevated and with yellowish brown or black crusts. These are often precancerous and should have medical attention as soon as they appear.

Two-Man Farm Is Likely The Best Bet

Farming usually pays off best when it's a two-man business.

That's what Fred Evert, county agricultural agent here, has to say about farm labor.

Distribute your work throughout the year—avoid peak loads as much as possible and plan ahead for jobs to be done. On a fully equipped two-man farm, each man can care for 100 acres of crop land plus 20 livestock units. A livestock unit is one cow, one bull, seven sheep, five hogs or 100 hens.

You can figure 300 productive work days per man each year with good management.

Here's the time an average farm worker spends in a year at each type work. Haying—one-half day per acre. Small grain—one day per acre. Corn—two and one-half days per acre. Dairy cattle—15 days per cow. Other dairy animals—two and one-half days each. Hogs—one-half day each. Sheep—one-half day each. Hens—two-tenths day per hen. Special cash crops—five to 20 days per acre.

Over-investment in machinery is especially dangerous on one-man farms. Use group or custom haying harvesting, and silo filling wherever possible.

MEET MINNESOTA'S NEW "OFFICIAL TREE"
"Dark green, glossy needles—straight clean trunk—distinctive bark of reddish brown scales, more than an inch thick, rich in tannin—diameter reaches 4 1/2 feet, while it soars as high as 140 mature feet." What is it? Since February 18 it has been the official tree of the State of Minnesota, of which, despite its "foreign" name, it is a native: the Norway Pine. Two-thirds of its towering trunk devoid of branches, capped by a symmetrical cone, every two to four years sparsely decked with scarlet and dark purple blossoms, Minnesota's Norway pine would be a monarch in any forest.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Early in March a tiny Albert Lea tot reported "a big fat robin in her back yard. About the same time, a St. Cloud lady encountered an even more convincing but far less welcome harbinger of spring. She opened her back door one sunny morning to find a sizeable garter snake bidding for admittance. Which was emphatically denied.

The transfer of Alaska to the United States took place at the town of Sitka, in the territory, on Oct. 18, 1867.

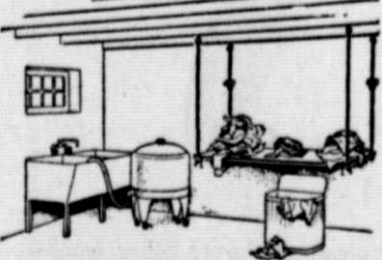

THRONE—Towering over the Virgin River in Zion National Park, Utah, the Great White Throne is admired by tourists. Each year as spring comes, vacationers such as these visit the park and admire the wind-carved sandstone wonder.

Legless Sorting Table

THE BASEMENT or utility room floor is a back-aching, awkward substitute for a laundry sorting table. Sometimes, though, the floor is the only space because the laundry is too small for a table. One way out of such a dilemma is to build a suspended, legless table which can be pushed out of the way against the wall at a point above the washing machine. Hanging from clothesline ropes, the table is at a convenient height.

Make a framework of 1 by 2-inch lumber to form a rectangle two feet wide and five feet long, with one center brace running the length. Cover it with Masonite 3/16" tempered Pres-wood, attaching with 1/4-inch finishing nails spaced 8 inches apart. A hole should be bored at each corner of the table for the clothesline rope. Rope ends will be knotted underneath. Tops of the ropes are tied into large screw eyes fastened to ceiling joists.

The ropes holding the back of the table should be near a wall. To get the table out of the way, just lift the front edge until the table parallels the wall; then hook each end to a wooden collar at the top of the ropes which suspend the back of the table, and presto—change your table is suspended.

Screen door hooks attached at the extremes of the front edge are used to fit into the screw eyes on the "collars."

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—Good news for every business in the land, even those most remote from the actual erection of heavy steel and brick structures, comes in the Department of Commerce announcement that $27 billion will be spent this year on new plants and equipment.

One inescapable problem of any industrialized civilization is that goods for our day-to-day use are produced in buildings and by machinery which last for a generation or two. When the building of these structures is going on, business is bound to be good. When it falls off, business is bad.

Much of the uneasiness felt in some quarters about 1953 was due to the feeling that business-plant spending would fall off $500 million or so this year. But now we find it promises to rise by that much. The figures collected jointly by Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission, are highly reliable.

PLANE PROGRESS PERILED—Is $28 million enough money, out of an over-all defense budget of $41 billion, to allot for research and development of new military airplanes? Mundy I. Peale, chairman of the board of governors of the Aircraft Industries Association and president of Republic Aviation Corp., believes every American should interest himself in this question before the 1954 budget is set.

Mr. Peale points out that, since it costs $15 million to bring one prototype plane from drafting board to takeoff, $28 million would provide scarcely two new types a year. The Thunderstreak maker doesn't believe this is a sensible risk to take—in the face of Russia's owning 20,000 first-line planes and building more.

The proposed sum would be a sharp cutback from fiscal 1952's $62 million and fiscal 1953's $59 million.

THINGS TO COME—Farmers of all sizes, from 75 to 250 pounds, can ride comfortably in a new seat hung on rubber springs. The tension is adjustable. "Truly neutral" sunglasses will be available this summer. They don't distort color. Shower heads with rubber diaphragms and tiny slits instead of the holes of the metal type promise large water savings.

Those frilly, fragile plastic hostess aprons have moved from the bridge table to the factory bench. In a 12-gauge vinyl plastic version they aren't fragile, and they resist acids, greases, alkali. If you like your television commercials silent, a new remote control switch called "Blab-Off" will shut off the sound from wherever you sit.

WINTER VACATIONS—The last 90 days have brought the biggest boom in 10 years to the resort and allied industries catering to winter vacationists, says J. E. Farr, executive vice president for Schenley Distributors, Inc. It's his business to know, since he must pass on seasonal sales and advertising programs directed at these cold weather migrants.

There were more than 15 million of them this winter, divided between the winter sports centers of the North and the balmy beaches of the South. This means that winter vacationing is up more than 100 percent over 10 years ago. Mr. Farr estimates that this year's early vacationists have already spent more than $235 million for food, drink and lodging.

He attributes the boom to the growing prevalence of three-week vacations, allowing employees to split the time off between winter and summer.

INFLATION PRIMER—That's a short-i primer, as in reading book; not long-i, as in pump primer. In fact it is a small reading book, a new one entitled "Men, Money and Machines," that starts by contending that the causes and cure of inflation can be learned "with no more difficulty than geography and arithmetic," and proceeds in 116 small pages of large type to prove the thesis. Waddill Catchings, who co-authored it with Dr. Charles F. Roos, has had a lifelong interest in the science of economics, but proof that he is no mere glib theorist is seen in the fact that he has been a director of more than 25 large business enterprises. The book shows how the present tendency of the federal government to manage the stream of circulating money actually fosters "boom, then bust" conditions, and briefly outlines a new system for the Federal Reserve Board to use that will be an "escalator instead of a roller-coaster way" of managing our money.

BITS O' BUSINESS—The week ending March 21 saw auto output at its highest point since the last week in 1951. Steel operations are holding at 100 percent of rated capacity, but scrap steel prices weakened at Chicago. DuPont opened a $40 million plant in Kingston, Tenn., to make Dacron.

BOLTONVILLE BUSY BEAVERS 4-H CLUB NEWS
"Miss Dunning Goes to Town" showing the value of good grooming proved a fascinating film for the Boltonville 4-H club at the regular monthly meeting in the recreation room at the home of Margo Weiss.

Robert Stodola, club agent, listed the merits of a good demonstration and evaluated the procedures of preparing a carrot salad by Margo Weiss and Marjorie Beck. Success in potato growing was discussed as follows: Evelyn Degrutz showed the various kinds of potatoes by having specimens of the Kennebec, Russet Sebago, Russet Burbank, Rural Russet, Irish Cobbler, Pontiac, Early Ohio, and Katahdan. She pointed out the disadvantages and advantages of each kind, and concluded with the proper cutting of varieties that have uneven distribution of eyes.

Janice and Roger Degrutz continued the discussion by telling of proper potato fertilization, planting, and spraying for weeds, diseases, and insects. Proper methods of harvesting and storing were reviewed by Jim Degrutz.

The birthday song was sung for Marilyn Laatsch, April 12, and the president, Irene Enright, April 14. All club members joined in singing "Song of Peace" and "Going Higher."

Special committees for the following activities were appointed: Flowers for 4-H Sunday will be supplied by Sharon Fay and Harold Gilford at the St. John's Church of God, and at the St. John's church at Boltonville. Kenneth Kohl and Margo Weiss will be in charge respectively.

Kennech Stahl will head the committee for the float at the Boltonville firemen's picnic May 29-31. He will be assisted by Mark Rodendich, Eileen Laatsch, Carol Beiger, and Eugene Laatsch. Evelyn Staehler will make inquiry about the possibility of club members assisting in a stand.

As a community project the club has volunteered to keep the grounds around the Modern Woodmen hall beautified during the summer. This project will be under the chairmanship of Harold Gilford with Harvey Dettmann as advisor.

The door prize for the evening, a Toni hair wave set, was a pleasant surprise for Carol Riley. A delightful treat of soda, potato chips, and pop corn was served by Myrna, Eileen, Marilyn and Eugene Laatsch. The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening, May 13. Margo Weiss, Reporter

CHEVROLET

Recently published official registration figures for the last full year show that truck users in every single State bought more Chevrolets than any other make!

It is difficult to imagine more convincing proof of Chevrolet's superiority, for such clear cut and overwhelming preference can lead to but one conclusion: Chevrolet trucks must be better, must enjoy solid advantages over other trucks. Such preference must rest on a firm foundation of good, sound value. And, of course, it does—as owners of Chevrolet trucks can testify.

So before you buy any truck, see how much more Chevrolet trucks offer you. Stop in and see us soon. Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.

"COOK DOUBLE, LESS TROUBLE". Now there's a good slogan to go by as you try to make the minutes go further in your busy life.

Many foods used often at meals can be cooked in larger amounts so you're enough for two—or more meals. And all done at one time. Plan to cook double amounts of these foods so you have a head start on a second-day menu. Then the left-over portion is really a save-over. Here are some good items to cook for two-time serving.

- Roast beef, pork, lamb or ham
- Meat or fish loaf
- Rice
- Potatoes
- Beans (lima, navy, kidney)
- Noodles or macaroni

A ROSY SALMON LOAF, for instance, makes the main dish for a couple of meals. Cream of celery soup is used in the loaf and over it for a hot creamy sauce. You'll like this recipe for special Lenten meals.

Celery Salmon Loaf

2 cups (1 1/2-pound can) salmon, with juice, flaked	2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs	1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed cream of celery soup
1/2 cup minced green pepper

Combine ingredients as listed and mix. Pack lightly into a greased, small loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1 hour or until done; turn out on a warm platter. Makes 6 servings. Heat additional cream of celery soup to serve as sauce with loaf. (Blend 1 can of soup with 1/2 cup milk for sauce.)

REPAIR A BROKEN FLOOR JOIST

A broken floor joist is usually an indication of weakness in the construction of the house, or of too much load resulting from remodeling or weight of furniture. Floor joists should be doubled under load bearing partitions.

Buy adjustable posts, or use some building jacks as illustrated. Jack up the joist to its original position. Do not go any higher, or you are apt to crack plaster.

Nail a scab joist securely to each side of the broken joist. The scab joist should extend at least three feet on each side of the break. Use 16d or 20d spikes.

It is usually a good idea to lightly tack the scab joists in place before tightening the jacks. Otherwise they may be difficult to get in place.

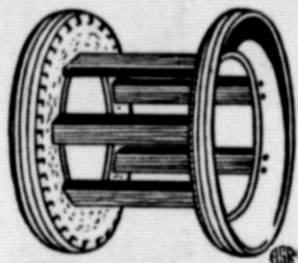

Remove the jacks and observe the settling. Repair plaster cracks if any result from the raising of the joist.

Barbed Wire Reel

It's easy to make this reel for barbed wire from an old automobile tire and five 18-inch two by fours. Just split the casing around the center so it is in two equal halves. Then, with the outsides of the two halves towards the center, space the two by fours, and nail them to the casings through the concave sides, as shown. This reel, used by an Illinois farmer, will roll easily on the ground to wind, or unwind, barbed wire.

FISH BY THE POUND, THE HOUR, OR THE ACRE

Angling efforts are usually measured by the number of fish taken, sometimes by the number of hours spent. Seems that Minnesota's very-much-on-the-job Department of Conservation also measures angling by the acre; number of angling hours in relation to the surface of the water is called "fishing pressure"; it ranges on Minnesota lakes from a brief 2.9 hours per acre on Ball Club lake in Itasca county to 121.3 hours per acre on Eagle lake in Hennepin county; Ball Club was almost a strike-out with only one 1.7-pound fish per acre. Winter angling yields 1.31 fish per hour as compared with only .77 per hour for the warm weather Wawatone.

Are You Mentally Healthy?

Life is a succession of explosions of theories, and perhaps science is the most powerful explosive agent. Many age-old beliefs, dearly cherished throughout the centuries, when subjected to the powerful spotlight of science, continue to be displaced by more workable and more rational theories.

Only within comparatively recent years has science proved the fact that an individual, who has an exceedingly high intelligence quotient, is not necessarily healthy in mind. On the contrary, many so-called "brains" frequently encounter serious problems of maladjustment; and though they have achieved high scholarly attainments, they often possess unwholesome or warped personalities. Inventors, professors, ministers, artists of the pen, the piano, the chisel and the palette, as well as many others, fall into this category.

This condition might be attributed to numerous factors for which the individual himself should not be held wholly accountable. Perhaps the insecurity of home life during an impressionable period of the individual's development is responsible for misshapen personalities of a later period. Perhaps an inherited tendency to be "high strung" furnishes the motive for still other behaviors tending toward abnormality.

The modern age might aptly be labeled a psychotherapeutic age because science has discovered so many worthwhile treatments (or therapies) for people who unfortunately are maladjusted to life itself. Gradually, the school, the church, the home industry, the law and society in general are waking up to the fact that wholesome personalities result when all of man's natures—physical, spiritual and mental—are properly developed.

Much today is heard on the subject of "mental health". Lecture platforms, books and leading periodicals continue to stress the importance of mental health. When is one mentally healthy? For answer, let us see what the National Association for Mental Health says:

"Mentally healthy people are good friends, good workers, good parents and good citizens. They are not bowled over by their own emotions—by their fears, anger, love, jealousy, guilt or worries. They can take life's disappointments in their stride. They have a tolerant, easy-going attitude towards themselves, as well as others, and they can laugh at themselves. They neither underestimate nor over-estimate their abilities.

"They can accept their own shortcomings. They have self-respect. They feel able to deal with most situations that come their way. They feel right about themselves. They are able to meet the demands of life. They shape their environment whenever possible; they adjust to it whenever necessary. They do something about problems as they arise. They are able to think for themselves and make their own decisions. They put their best effort into what they do and get satisfaction out of doing it."

About The Home

By FRANCES DELL

The killing action of nicotine insecticide can be increased ten times by mixing it with polyethylene glycol compounds. The old-time nicotine has always been one of the most effective insecticides for controlling aphids.

When polyethylene glycol is added to nicotine, the power of nicotine to penetrate the skin of the insect is increased. Thoughtless handling of nicotine can be quite dangerous, as there is a possibility of skin absorption.

There is a new control for wireworms, eelworms, white grubs and other soil insects which damage vegetables. It comes in convenient capsules which are pressed into the soil at intervals. The moisture in the soil dissolves them, releasing the gas.

The soil temperature should be above sixty degrees for good control.

Old strawberry plants with the tops clipped off after the fruit has been harvested produce many more berries left unclipped.

It seems that old strawberry plants produce eleven-thousand quarts per acre, compared to seven-thousand quarts per acre for runner plants.

Canned Citrus Just Right For Salads

Salads should be light and tart, and nothing makes them that way so simply as canned Florida grapefruit sections. This Citrus Quickie Gel Salad has as its base the tangy, economical canned grapefruit sections, and much of the simplicity is the fact that the salad is molded right in the can!

Canned Florida citrus products offer maximum convenience plus tops in nutrition and flavor. Here is the recipe for this shimmering but simple salad:

Citrus Quickie Gel
1 No. 2 can Florida grapefruit sections
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
3 stuffed olives, sliced

Drain syrup from grapefruit sections; reserve 1/2 cup. Soften gelatine in syrup; place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Turn grapefruit sections into bowl, add sliced olives; return to can. Pour gelatine mixture over grapefruit sections; chill until firm. To unmold, dip in hot water up to top of can. Unmold on plate; cut into slices. Serve with salad greens. YIELD: 5 servings.

The salad offers ample opportunity to the hostess for displaying originality and delicacy of taste. The ingredients must be fresh and thoroughly chilled.

Be sure to serve a light salad for dinner. The heavier salads, such as chicken, lobster, etc., are excellent for luncheon or supper.

Celery and Carrot Salad
Cut celery stalks in 1" lengths. Mix equal amounts of grated cheese and grated carrots. Moisten slightly with mayonnaise. Add a few chopped nuts. Fill celery stalks and serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing.

Vegetable Bouquet Salad
Place your preferred mixture of vegetable salad on a lettuce nest. Top it with cooked cauliflower. Circle that with carrot slices cut in stars, surround with green peas. Lastly, have a circle of tomato sections or diced beets. With a sprig of parsley in the center of the cauliflower, you have an old-fashioned nosegay.

Lobster Salad
Make a marinade of 1/2 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup oil, the juice of two lemons, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon white pepper. Put this over the lobster meat and set in a cold place for several hours. Press the marinated mixture from the lobster and to one pint of lobster add the following ingredients: 3 hard boiled eggs, cut lengthwise and across, 3 olives cut fine, 3 pickles cut fine, 1/2 tablespoon of smallest capers, 1/2 tablespoon minced dill pickles.

If celery is desired, cut two stalks into narrow, thin strips and leave out one of the eggs. Toss this mixture lightly together and add mayonnaise enough to moisten the ingredients. Do not stir the salad, but move it lightly with a wooden spoon.

French Potato Salad
Boil potatoes in their jackets until they are done but still firm. Peel and slice them while hot; mix with a French dressing to which a little chopped olive has been added.

Cool and let them chill. Pile on crisp lettuce and sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika. Serve with stuffed eggs and boneless sardines.

Shrimp and Mayonnaise
Marinate 2 1/2 cups cold cooked shrimps in French dressing. Chill thoroughly. Put in a shallow glass dish, sprinkle with capers and cover top entirely with mayonnaise.

Garnish top with strips of green pepper and pimiento. Serve at table and have ready a bowl filled with crisp lettuce leaves and sliced tomatoes. Pour French dressing over this just before serving.

Ham Salad
1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1/2 cup vinegar
Paprika
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup water
3/4 cup mayonnaise
1 1/2 cup cold boiled ham cut in small pieces
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add salt, paprika, vinegar and
