Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost. Rows include Washington, West Bend, Belgium, Grafton, KEWASKUM, Cedarburg, Germantown, Mequon, Saukville, Newburg.

Leading Kewaskum's hit barrage off of D. Rennieke, M. Gengler and W. Rennieke was Dick Edwards who belted out five straight singles in six trips.

Mequon didn't do bad either off of John Tassar and Al Duenkel, Kewaskum's pitchers. They knocked out 12 safe blows.

The Chevs led the win in two big innings. They pushed across six in the second frame and added insult to injury in the fourth with eight big markers.

This Sunday the team travels to Saukville to face the tall enders.

Loran Backhaus, Jr. Takes Bride

Palms and garden flowers decorated Immanuel Lutheran church, town of Scott, Saturday afternoon, June 13, for the wedding of Miss Betty Siegfried, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Siegfried, R. 1, Kewaskum, and Loran Backhaus, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Backhaus, Sr., R. 3, Kewaskum. The Rev. Hans Tornow presided at the 2 o'clock service.

During the ceremony Mrs. Hans Tornow rendered "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride chose a gown of white nylon over satin with a high neckline and drape shoulder line outlined with lace and nylon. The sleeves were long and came to points over her wrists. The skirt was trimmed with lace in apron effect and ended in a long train. Her short veil was gathered to a coronation crown of rhinestones. She carried a bridal ring bouquet of white roses and carnations and wore a rhinestone necklace. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was attended by her sister, LaVern Geidel, as matron of honor. She was attended in a Nile green strapless gown fashioned with a lace bodice, lace jacket and tiered skirt of net over taffeta, floor length. She wore a crown of Nile green net trimmed with rhinestones, which was designed by the bride and her sister. Her bridal ring bouquet consisted of pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Mary Backhaus, sister of the bridegroom, Marilyn Buss, a friend, and Mary Engelmann, cousin of the bride. They wore gowns and headpieces and carried bouquets identical to that of the matron of honor. All of the attendants had rhinestone necklaces and earrings, which were gifts of the bride. A white, floor length frock of nylon over satin with a headpiece of net and rhinestones was worn by Diane Vetter, relative of the bride, the flower girl. Her bridal ring bouquet was composed of pink rose buds.

Glenway Backhaus served as his brother's best man, Eugene Muench, cousin of the bride, was groomsman and Donald Heberer, cousin of the bride, and Frank Krueger, Jr., a friend, ushered the guests to their places. Wearing a white suit, David Heberer, cousin of the bride, acted as ring bearer.

A reception at the home of the bride and dinner at Bauer's hotel, Campbellsport, for 100 guests followed the ceremony. The wedding cake was decorated with a cake ornament used by the bride's grandparents 65 years ago. A wedding dance was held in the evening at Wilson's Round Lake resort.

Following a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park, the young couple will be at home after July 1 in Kewaskum. Both are graduates of Kewaskum High school. The bride is employed as a secretary at Regal Ware, Inc. and her husband assists on his father's farm.

Food Sense — Not Nonsense

Science Erases Pellagra

It is difficult to believe that not too long ago, spring and gay spirits were not the one and same thing for all people. To some, spring meant illness, a terrible illness known as pellagra which struck in the spring and fall.

Late in the 1930's, scientists found that those who suffered with pellagra, long known as our chief disease caused by a lack of nutritious food, responded to one of the newly-discovered B vitamins — NIACIN. Today, pellagra has all but been erased from America. This modern miracle has been accomplished by vitamin B enrichment of bread and cereals, teamed with a public health program.

In certain areas where the diet was once exceedingly poor, pellagra was fairly common. Usually it was not recognized except in advanced stages. Such symptoms, linked with serious niacin shortage, included severe irritations of skin exposed to sunlight, intestinal disturbances, and nervous disorders. Some cases resulted in confinement in mental institutions and even death.

Early symptoms of niacin shortage usually do not present a clear-cut picture and need the attention of the physician. Although pellagra was often the heritage of the poor, it may occur in mild forms to rich and poor alike, even today. Those persons who have peculiar food likes and dislikes, or who follow freak food fads, or who limit their diet to foods of low nutritive value are courting trouble.

Pellagra, like diphtheria and smallpox—miseries of a past generation—must be prevented by constant vigilance. Getting your daily niacin need not be left to chance. To get those niacin-sparked foods, eat plenty of meat, dried peas and beans, spinach, and eggs plus generous amounts of enriched or whole grain bread and cereals. Requirements for enrichment are based on Federal regulations. Four average slices of enriched bread furnish about one-fifth of the daily niacin allowance. Prevention of pellagra is a pleasure—good eating the right way.

Make Family Council Part Of Family Life

Mutual understanding and respect are prime requisites of successful family life. Few homes can achieve happiness, contentment, and companionship without it.

With times changing so fast that the ways of one generation are not suitable for the next, some confusion and conflict are inevitable. No one is at fault. Here the older generation is no more experienced than the younger.

One way to help prevent, or to lessen, this confusion is to make the family council a part of family life. In such a council policies can be formed and decisions made. In this way a voice in governing the home can be given to a child as soon as he is old enough to express his thoughts in understandable words. The responsibilities that accompany this privilege will be assumed and carried out more cheerfully if every member of the family has had a part in making decisions.

Children need to know that they are loved. They cannot take it for granted as adults can. That doesn't mean you have to kiss and fondle your child continually to show him your love. Instead, interest in his affairs, willingness to listen to his problems, and expressions of appreciation for his efforts and achievements will help him to understand.

From the parent's viewpoint, watching their children grow up is often as difficult for them as the actual growing up is for their young people. Wise parents plan for interests that will fill the gap as their children go through school, take jobs, and eventually establish homes of their own. Parents who have kept alive their own interests are much less likely to cling to their developing youngsters than are mothers and dads whose lives are wrapped up completely in their children.

Understanding each other across the barrier of age is often difficult for parents and children, but it is important for the solution of common problems. This is a two-way process. Parents must be willing to see their children as individuals in their own right. Young people must be able to view their parents as real persons as well as parents.

1 Word Can Change Your Life—SHIFT

A teen-age girl, after her first attempt at driving a car, explained that the reason she went so fast in low gear was because she hadn't yet learned how to shift.

She's not the only one who doesn't know how to shift gears. Take it with respect to our everyday feelings. How many of us have trouble shifting from one mood to another? Can we do it smoothly, without throwing somebody against the windshield? Say something to folks when they're in low and they jerk into second. Venture anything further and they slam into high. Then chalk up another accident in human traffic.

Put God in the driver's seat of your personality. He can guide you smoothly from one mood to another and teach you how to shift, the word that can change your life.

The Voice Outside

"Father, will you give me 10 cents for a poor man who is outside crying?"

"Yes, son, here it is. What is he crying about?"

"He's crying, 'Fresh roasted peanuts, five cents a bag.'"

For special desserts in a lunch-box, line a paper cup with cookie crumbs and fill with chocolate pudding, top with coconut, and cover with wax paper. Vary with other flavor puddings and toppings.

Gaily painted coffee or shortening cans make attractive gift containers for cookies or candy. Rolled-oats or cornmeal boxes covered with colored paper or aluminum foil also make good gift boxes.

If you don't have a hydrator in your refrigerator, you can keep salad greens crisp by storing them in plastic bags or in a damp cloth. Be sure to store them away from the freezing unit.

TRIPLETS WEIGH 150 POUNDS

Vesta, Minn.—Ayrshire triplets, that is! Just recently, an Ayrshire cow on the John Riediger and Son farm three miles north of Vesta, gave birth to triplets weighing from 45 to 50 pounds each. Almost as unusual as the birth is the fact that all three are doing well and expected to live, according to Dr. M. P. Maher, Vesta veterinarian. In the only four or five cases the doctor has seen at least one of the triplets failed to survive. John Riediger commented that they are the first triplet calves he has seen in 53 years of farming.

APRICOT CRUNCH PIE

2/3 cup granulated sugar; 1 tablespoon cornstarch; few grains salt; 2 1/2 cups unsweetened cooked dried apricots; pastry for single eight inch crust; 1 tablespoon cooking liquid from apricots; 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed); 1/3 cup butter.

Blend together granulated sugar, cornstarch and salt thoroughly. Drain apricots well and arrange in pastry lined pie pan, sprinkling sugar mixture between layers of fruit. Sprinkle cooking liquid over top. Blend brown sugar, flour and butter until crumbly and sprinkle over top. Bake in very hot oven, 450 degrees, 25 to 35 minutes, until pastry and toppings are well browned. Cool before cutting. Serves five to six.

Start with a small amount of water, when you are cooking frozen vegetables, and add more water as it is needed.

RIM FOR THE KITCHEN SINK
One of the problems with a linoleum counter top is that the linoleum rots around the edge of the sink. This is caused by water getting under the linoleum, keeping it wet. As the linoleum rots from underneath, it breaks away, and has to be patched or completely replaced.

A solution is to use a sink rim which will not permit water to get underneath. The type illustrated is made to fit all types of sinks.

If your sink has square corners, it will be necessary to have the corners of the rim slotted. Use the rim or molding as a pattern in cutting the hole thru the counter top. Leave 1/16" clearance beyond the stem of the molding.

At least 1" clearance is necessary on each side of the opening under the counter top.

Nail one corner clip in place in each corner, to hold the sink in place while installing the molding.

Place the sink in the opening, resting on the corner clips. Then place the molding so the stem fits between the rim of the sink and the opening.

Fasten the lugs as illustrated. There should be one lug every six or eight inches. Place calking compound between the sink rim and the top molding. Then tighten the lugs enough to raise the sink off the corner clips. Then remove the corner clips.

Tighten all the lugs each a few turns at a time. They should all be snug. Tightening the lugs too tightly is apt to crack the enamel on the sink.

The sink will be raised so that the calking compound will seal the joint completely. The counter flange will be drawn tightly on to the linoleum.

PHYSICAL THERAPY
During the present scientific age it is not unexpected to encounter numerous unfamiliar terms edging their way continually into the field of medical language. Of comparatively recent date have such terms as psychoanalysis, narcosis, electrocoma therapy, psychotherapy and a wealth of others impressed themselves upon the public mind. One of the greatest boons to medical science is a phase of physical medicine known simply as physiotherapy or physical therapy. Although a program of such a therapy should be instituted in every hospital, investigations reveal that at present an adequate properly functioning physical therapy program exists in only fifty per cent of the hospitals in America.

What is meant by physical therapy? By the term therapy is meant "treatment for disease," and when treatment of injuries or disease is administered through massage, exercise, or devices utilizing electricity, water, cold, heat and light, it is commonly known as physical therapy.

The incidence of serious accidents within this country during the past year reached hitherto unsealed heights. The incidence of cerebral palsy within the United States is also in excess of 200,000 cases at present. Were physical therapy essential to these two disabilities alone, its great importance could hardly be estimated. The fact is, however, that physical therapy is daily proving also an aid to the rehabilitation of many patients inside and outside hospital walls. Its use among institutionalized patients quickens convalescence and often shortens hospitalization. Especially among those undergoing major amputations, of which there are more than 40,000 Americans annually, physical therapy proves highly beneficial.

The potentialities of physical therapy among psychiatric patients are immeasurable. Many psychoneurotics, particularly those suffering from various hysterical reactions during the Second World War, as well as many nervously inclined individuals who temporarily become incapacitated through accidents, profit markedly through physiotherapy. Often the morale of such individuals is greatly improved also as a quick return to more nearly normal living is effected economically and socially.

Especially during recent years, with the advent of electrocoma therapy, physical therapy has been widely used to alleviate stiffness and muscular soreness. Arthritis, paralysis, sprains and many other psychosomatic complaints typical of the mentally disturbed patient react favorably to physical therapy.

What with the current advancement in electronics in a highly mechanized age, it is essential that a physical therapist complete an intensive training period before he can become licensed to practice his profession in which such meticulous care is required. Even after graduation such a therapist must work only in conjunction with a physician and always according to the prescription of the latter.

PEPPERS STRETCH THE FOOD BUDGET

Stuffed green peppers, tasty main dish, easy to prepare and a "natural" for whitening down an out of line food budget.

Balancing a food budget can floor many of us and sometimes it seems impossible to make it come out even and please the family, too. But it can be done. It goes without saying that the smart homemaker watches for the best buys. She spends a little time carefully reading the ads in her paper before going a-marketing and trundles her carriage slowly through the market noting the stocks and their prices. Buying tips to keep in mind include the following:

Meats: The price per pound isn't all that counts. What percentage of waste—bone, fat, etc. is there? A pound of one meat may cost less than another, but if there's a lot of bone and fat to discard it may not be the bargain it sounds.

Butter: All grades have the same food value and any slight difference in flavor may not even be noticed unless you're a butter expert. Buying a pound at a time instead of a 1/4 pound stick as needed trims off a few pennies too.

Eggs: Check the price of different sizes and shell colors. The color of the shell has no relation at all to its food value. Too small an egg may not be economical, too large a one may be extravagantly costly.

Vegetables: Think in terms of cost per serving. Whether you buy frozen, fresh or canned try to buy those which come out even in terms of the number you serve. One left over portion can cancel that few pennies saving you thought you made.

This recipe for Stuffed Green Peppers is a perfect example of a well planned well seasoned main dish to help get an out of line food budget under control.

- STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS
- 6 large green peppers
 - 3 cups chopped cooked meat (ham, chicken, canned luncheon meat)
 - 1 medium onion, minced
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - 2 cups soft enriched yeast-raised bread crumbs
 - 1/4 cup melted margarine or butter

Cut thin slice from stem end of green pepper. Remove seeds. Cook peppers in boiling salted water about 8 minutes or until barely tender. Drain on paper towels. Place in baking dish. Mix together in large mixing bowl meat, onion, pepper, bread crumbs. Toss lightly with melted margarine or butter. Fill peppers with mixture being careful not to pack tightly. Pour 1/2 cup of water in bottom of baking dish and bake 30 minutes at 350° F. (moderate oven). Makes 6 servings.

It isn't how much you eat, but what you eat that keeps you feeling fit. When planning your daily meals be sure to serve a yellow, a leafy or a green vegetable every day. Also citrus fruit, tomatoes or raw cabbage—potatoes and other fruits, milk, cheese. One to two servings of meat, poultry, fish, eggs, dried peas or beans, bread, flour, cereals, and butter.

- Green Loaf with Spiced Beets
- 1 1/2 pints cooked greens, fresh, frozen or canned
 - 3 tablespoons bacon fat
 - 3 tablespoons flour
 - 3/4 cup milk
 - 2 eggs
 - 3/4 teaspoon salt
 - 2 teaspoons horseradish
 - 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- Melt fat in saucepan, add flour and stir until blended. Remove saucepan from heat and add the milk gradually. Heat until the consistency of thick cream, stirring constantly. Drain greens. Add greens, seasoning and well beaten egg yolks to the sauce. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a well greased baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in an oven 375 degrees until firm. Serve with spiced beets.

- Creamed Tomatoes
- 2 cups canned tomatoes
 - 1/2 cup thick sweet cream
 - 4 tablespoons flour
 - 6 slices toast
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons crushed celery leaves
 - 1/4 cup grated cheese
- Mix cream and flour and stir until smooth. Add celery leaves to tomatoes and heat to boiling. Remove from heat and add cream mixture, stirring constantly. Cook about two minutes. Add salt, pour over toast and sprinkle with grated cheese.

- Scalloped Vegetables
- 6 uncooked potatoes cut in thin slices
 - 4 cups cooked vegetables
 - 1/2 onion grated
 - Salt, pepper, allspice to taste
 - 6 strips fried diced bacon
 - 2 cups beef bouillon
 - 1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs
- Into a buttered casserole put potatoes, vegetable, seasonings, onions and bacon in alternate layers. Add bouillon and top with crumbs. Bake in an oven 350 degrees for 1 1/4 hours or until potatoes are soft.

- Limas on Ham
- 1/2 inch slice of ham, center cut
 - 2 cups canned or frozen baby limas
 - 2 cups grated American cheese

- Broil ham, 3 inches from moderate heat for 10 minutes. Turn and broil 10 minutes. Heat limas or cook frozen limas, drain, pile on ham. Sprinkle with cheese. Return to broiler 4 inches from heat. Reduce heat and broil until cheese melts and is lightly browned.

- Spring Salad
- 1 cup shredded pineapple
 - 2 cups shredded cabbage
 - 2 pimientos chopped fine
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 - Watercress
- Mix the pineapple, cabbage and pimientos. Blend with mayonnaise and serve with watercress.

Teacup Topics

By Betty Ann

EDITOR
THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL
WOMAN'S PAGES

What could be more enchanting for midsummer wear than a low cut opera pump of white or pale green, pink, or ice blue chintz, perhaps dotted all over with a tiny flower pattern and banded in kid-skin to pick up one of the colors in the print? It's gay and frivolous and highly flattering and has the happy faculty of going with almost anything in your hot weather wardrobe.

That's only one of the multitude of fabric shoes which are new, exciting and designed to give that extra spark to simple summer costumes, says Betty Ann.

Piques are new. You'll find white pique pumps or sandals, in plain or waffle weaves, trimmed with a contrasting color or featuring banding of gay red, white and blue. These are slim in cut, and many of them on the new higher heels which make them suitable for dress as well as more casual wear.

The linen shoe can be dyed to match or accent any costume. Such shoes can be bought at a price to suit your budget, and always look smart. But linen has also taken wings into the top fashion division with beautiful lurching, dining and dancing sandals. Sometimes embroidered with clusters of glittering gold sequins in garland effect, making one of the loveliest party shoes you can imagine.

To go back to all-occasion shoes, beige shantung in pumps or sandals is a smart choice. And there are dyeable shantungs too, more practical than last season since they take to dyes better and do not spot. With the current craze for shantung suits and dresses they fit nicely into the summer ensemble.

Wool challis is an unexpected newcomer in shoe fabrics. The small patterns are sharp and brilliant against a creamy white background.

Gingham is high fashion—especially in a wide open sandal with a scarf back, in red, black or navy check which ties around the ankle in a pert knot.

Denim is a poor relation fabric which has made the grade socially and fashion wise. The sheath dress of denim sparkling with rhinestones goes to the best parties, and embroidered or jeweled denim shoes are no longer relegated to marketing and household chores. Less elegant are the wedges for playwear and dressy cottons which come in a wide range of plain colors or smart denim stripes.

Leather shoes are lovelier than ever this summer, too.

From Italy comes a wonderful handwoven leather in basket weave effect. This in beige and white, with white heel and banding, makes a summer street shoe that goes with practically anything. It also comes in other colors and white.

Coolest looking of all are the meshes—sandals or pumps of white mesh with narrow stripings of beige leather, or the reverse with natural or pale beige mesh striped in white. These are simple in line, but so good looking you can wear them with your most enchanting summer frocks.

For the print dress, the plain shoe. And top honors go to lovely new pumps and sandals in pastel or bright colored kidskin. Flattering designs come in such shades as candy pink, heaven blue, bright buttercup yellow, soft mauve, sharp turquoise, and brilliant red or coral.

Also good with prints—and some fashion authorities say smartest of all—is the naked sandal, the barest shoe you can find—and the most alluring! For those who prefer a little more shoe, there are many number of other pumps or sandals which offer more support and still have the open look.

Black and white shoes are making headlines. Not to wear with the black and white costumes that are so popular, but to wear with all-black or all-white cottons, linens or piques.

To clean upholstery, whip soap flakes to the consistency of beaten egg whites. Have two pails of warm water, a soft brush and pieces of turkish toweling ready. Plan to do only one section and put off the rest for another time, for the work is tiring. Apply the suds—no water—with the brush with rotary motion. Rinse twice, using the pails of water and the toweling. The upholstery must never be wet through, but only dampened on the surface. The same method can be used on a rug.

About The Home

By FRANCES DELL

Choosing the right insulation for your home is a complex matter. Most of the time it depends on a number of factors such as the coldness of your climate, or how hot the sun exposure is in the summer.

In either extreme, very hot or very cold, more insulation is necessary. Consider how much fuel costs locally. If fuel is expensive, it pays to use the most effective insulation available.

Good insulation not only reduces heat losses, but will reduce the size of the boiler or furnace needed. It is a mistake to use an ever-sized heating plant because no plant can use fuel efficiently except at its rated capacity.

Insulation itself is not enough. Be sure to stop drafts in your home by weather-stripping all windows and doors. Good weather-stripping will stop ninety per cent of the cold air leakage.

Window glass in a single thickness lets heat escape from five to six times faster than an ordinary frame wall without insulation.

Insulation makes vapor barriers necessary and you must block the moisture before it gets into the insulation with a vapor barrier of metal or foil paper.

Don't think that because you live in an area where winter cold is not a problem, you can build a comfortable home with no thought of insulation. Stopping the sun's heat is important to your comfort. Complete insulation can change a house from an impossible hot box to a place of comfort. Insulation is a must if you are considering air-conditioning your home.

See-Worthy

On the beach a genial fat man watched a group of shapely young ladies in scanty swim suits as they went through their morning setting-up exercises.

"Do you think this sort of thing is really good for reducing?" a sour-visaged acquaintance demanded.

"Unquestionably!" beamed the fat man. "Why, I walk three miles every morning to watch it!"

Brides Will Set a Fine Table With Silver

BY EDNA MILES

IN 1953 the June bride is not faced with the formidable task of entertaining that was the lot of her grandmother and her mother. She can be relaxed about her entertaining. She can be gracious at buffet and terrace suppers and preside happily over small, simple teas.

She and her husband can, luckily, see their friends oftener and with less fuss and feathers. She may even start her new life and her entertaining on her wedding day with a bridal buffet. It's gained increasing acceptance with June brides because it's the easiest way to handle a large number of guests with the least trouble and expense.

This is a Coronation year and when the June bride comes home from her honeymoon she'll want to start her entertaining. For her mother's friends she'll probably plan a simple tea. One in which she can use a Coronation theme and set her tea table at its prettiest. It's a welcome chance to display her wedding gifts of silver, fine china, and an organdy cloth.

Tea table with Coronation theme has tea service with Royal Coronation Coat of Arms, tray and silver in Coronation patterns. Anemones are in the colors of red, blue and white.

Wheat is a traditional wedding symbol. Here, it's used as theme for bridal buffet. Silver wheat pattern in forks and spoons is balanced by wheat pattern in china.

Mental Illness Not A Sudden Onset

Mental health is something all of us want for ourselves, whether we know it by name or not. We may call it happiness, peace of mind, enjoyment or satisfaction, but we are still talking about mental health.

Like physical health, mental health is no single thing. It is an all-round sense of well-being and doing, and getting along with others. Just as all of us occasionally have minor physical ailments, so also we may have some emotional difficulties at times—occasional periods of depression, flare-ups of temper, or irritation.

However, when these and other emotional upsets become fairly constant, they not only cause us to be unhappy, but they wear us down emotionally and tire us out physically. If they remain for a long time, we may finally reach the breaking point. Although it may be hard to do, we need to face these conflicts and problems openly. It is when we try to suppress these conflicts that they cause us most of our troubles.

Mental health and physical health are closely related. Blood pressure rises with emotion and may stay up if emotion continues. Heart disease may be aggravated by emotional disturbances, and ulcers of the upper digestive tract are often associated with emotional upsets. Thus flare-ups of temper, or irritation, life can also be a major factor in preventing physical ailments.

Mental illness does not attack us suddenly. It often has a history which begins in infancy or early childhood. Temper tantrums, bedwetting, night terrors and general unhappiness—these are often the preliminary symptoms of more serious disturbances. If the causes of these conditions are recognized and treated early in life, much emotional turmoil can be prevented.

More and more people realize the value of keeping mentally healthy. Just as we take common sense measures to keep physically healthy, so too we can do something about our mental health. Maintaining mental health is important—and it is basically up to us.

Most People Are Hard Of Hearing After 50

Nearly everybody over 50 has some degree of hearing loss, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical association.

Many do not have trouble in the speech range; but the first hint of trouble may be in distortion of ordinary sounds such as music or the common rumble of traffic, the doctors say. When such distortions occur, even when there seems to be no immediate trouble in following ordinary speech, it is time to consult a physician.

Sometimes an apparently alarming hearing loss at any age may be due only to impacted wax and can be "cured" by flushing out the ear in a minute or two. Sometimes it may be an infection or an ordinary cold that is causing trouble. Drugs such as streptomycin may disturb hearing, too, and there are other causes of deafness which a doctor may discover and treat successfully if steps are taken in time.

For many others, about a million of them it is estimated, hearing aids are the answer and they are not being used. The reason in a good many cases is simple childish vanity, the doctors point out. In other cases it is the cost of maintaining the mechanism. For these there is good news, today. A new device which takes over the role of the vacuum tube is about to be put on the market which cuts the cost of operation from about $4.00 a month for the usual hearing aid with three vacuum tubes, to about 15 cents a month for a tiny flashlight battery to replace them. For awhile, the first cost of the new device may be higher than the old type. But the doctors believe the "bugs" are being ironed out and the new instrument will be a great boon to all hard-of-hearing people.

HARRY T.: Does a rigid shoe help or hurt weak feet?

ANSWER: In general, a rigid shank provides more support for a weak foot than a flexible one. Most weak feet need support as well as exercise.

Broil slices of ham, apple rings and cooked sweet potato halves. Serve with tossed vegetable salad, and a fruit dessert.

Warning Signs That Detect The Future Delinquent in Early Childhood

Tendency to delinquency in any child can be detected by the time he is seven, according to a remarkable mass study of over 5,000 school children made by the New York State Youth Commission, says Selwyn James in McCall's Magazine. Because delinquents are either markedly aggressive or unusually withdrawn, a check list of both kinds of symptoms was drawn up. With it as a guide, parents and teachers can spot the warning signals early, continues Mr. James in the June issue, where he gives you an eleven-point list based on the New York Commission's delinquency-prediction table:

"The schoolchildren tested for delinquent tendencies by the New York Youth Commission were all between seven and thirteen. They came from the country and the city, from slums and well-to-do areas. After examining their school conduct and personality traits the investigators made a selection of those boys and girls they judged to be "high risks" both to themselves and to the community. These children were not spectacularly bad, yet three years later, when a follow-up check was made, the Commission discovered that 77 per cent of the group it had rated "pre-delinquent" had turned up in juvenile court.

"What sort of boys and girls were these at the time they were tested? About 40 per cent of them were smart, bullying and unpopular. Fewer were shy, sneaky and withdrawn—though more than one-third were, among other troubles, having difficulty with their arithmetic.

"Instead of personally interviewing each child, the investigators made fact-finders out of the teachers and pupils themselves. As a check on the teacher's evaluation of her pupils, the children themselves were consulted by means of a seemingly innocent "Guess Who?" game. Without knowing why the information is wanted the children write down answers to such questions as: Guess who's the meanest, noisiest child in the class? Guess who gets into the most trouble? Guess who's so quiet in the class that you wouldn't know he (or she) was there?"

"Any child who is named by three or more of his classmates is termed a 'behavior deviate.' Lastly the children are asked to name those they would like most as seatmates. A child who isn't chosen by anyone is considered to be a 'social isolate'.

"How can you discover whether or not your child is free of the characteristics usually found in the delinquency-prone youngster? Look over the behavior symptoms on this eleven-point check list:

"1. Aggressive. Under this heading come frequent temper tantrums, long periods of surliness and persistent lying. Also hostility against parents, teachers and playmates, habitual use of bad language, destructive behavior at home, in the neighborhood or at school.

"2. Withdrawn. This means the day-dreamer, the oddly quiet child who consistently plays by himself or merely idles away his time.

"3. Exaggerated suspicion of friendliness or kindness shown him by other children and adults.

"4. Unpopularity with classmates or neighborhood kids of his own age group.

"5. Preference for children older than himself, especially hero-worship of aggressive boys.

"6. Rejection of organized recreation—Boy Scouts, youth centers, playground groups.

- "7. Marked dislike of school. Truancy should never be taken lightly. It's what educators call the 'kindergarten of crime'.
- "8. Significant age difference compared with classmates.
- "9. Serious reading difficulties—which can be a symptom of emotional disturbance.
- "10. Serious difficulty with arithmetic.
- "11. Low I.Q.
- "Occasional symptoms like those mentioned shouldn't worry you, but a combination of them in persistent, unvaried form is a danger sign—especially after the age of eight."

GETTING GOAT'S GOAT—Baffled by words and letters, the family goat puzzles over school books held by his young mistress who is teaching her mother all she learned at school in Bologna, Italy, that day. The practice of children teaching their parents is common in Italy, and is being used to combat illiteracy.

GOOD HEALTH

1. ARE GALL STONES DANGEROUS?

HOW CAN THE DENTAL HEALTH OF SCHOOL CHILDREN BE IMPROVED?

3. WHAT IS PSITTACOSIS?

Answer to Question No. 1: The presence of stones in the gall bladder is not usually dangerous. When symptoms show the probability of gall bladder disease and the X-ray reveals gall stones, surgical removal of the gall bladder may be indicated. As a direct result of modern advances in surgery and the new drugs mortality from this operation has been reduced to almost nil.

Answer to Question No. 2: In the United States more than 95 per cent of children under the age of 15 have some decay in their permanent teeth. Parents and school officials should watch the children's teeth more carefully, and refer the children to the family dentist or existing dental clinics. This would definitely improve dental health.

Answer to Question No. 3: Psittacosis or parrot fever is a serious disease easily transmitted to humans but rather rare in the United States. It is caused by a virus common in birds (mostly parrots), and shows itself with high fever which remains high for about three weeks. Mortality used to be about 20 per cent of those infected with the disease. Some of the newer drugs have greatly reduced the number of deaths.

Bible Comment:

Even Paul Sought Training for His Life in the Church

PAUL was not long in finding Christian friends although at first the disciples feared him because of the recent zeal he had shown in persecuting them.

But Ananias, a saintly Christian in Damascus, welcomed Paul as a Christian brother. Ananias had been prepared in a vision for the coming of Paul but he doubted, at first, that so terrible a persecutor as Paul would become a disciple so suddenly.

The disciples in Jerusalem were a little harder to convince. They had suffered much more from the fury of the persecutor and were suspicious. It was Barnabas, the rich disciple who had given all his wealth for the Christian cause who vouched for Paul.

It was not unnatural that Paul's former associates in persecution should have been aroused to a high pitch of anger at Paul's defection. Their fury was so intense that Paul's new-found Christian friends had to help him escape, letting him down from the walls of the city in a basket.

Paul made his way to Jerusalem and again boldly proclaimed his new faith in the Lord Jesus. But he did not stay very long in Jerusalem and his public preaching was interrupted while he sought fuller preparation for his life's mission.

It is difficult to think of a man as intense as Paul being in retreat for any length of time. Probably the years of his preparation were spent in studying, praying and conversing with other men. In this way he would have the opportunity to feel his way into the fullness and richness of his activity as a missionary.

There is a very good lesson for all of us in the fact that so wise a man as Paul felt that he needed preparation. Zeal, even in a man of Paul's stature, is not enough.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

Why don't you try a backpacking hike this summer? It will do something for you that nothing else will accomplish. You reap mental as well as physical benefit. It gives you a feeling of self-reliance—you will be absolutely on your own and no longer dependent upon anyone.

Thousands of people take such vacations every year on the rough Appalachian Trail in the East and on the John Muir Trail in the West. They travel over the Rocky, Appalachian and Ozark mountains, carrying everything on their backs. Others have just as much fun although they travel no farther than to the little stretches of wild country near their homes. Even the crowded metropolitan area of New York has its Catskill Mountains and its Bear Mountain State Park.

You will enjoy your outing most if you leave your city habits behind. Do not make specific plans. The best thing of all, it seems to me, is to wander about in a more or less foot-loose fashion, simply enjoying yourself.

You'll find lists for gear and grub at sporting goods stores, libraries, and in the outdoor magazines. But here are a few additional hints from Colonel Townsend Whelen, noted camping authority.

Shoes for all-day summer or fall hiking should be light with tops never over seven inches high and with corrugated rubber or composition soles. Get them one size larger and wider than your city shoes. To break them in properly, stand in three inches of water for 10 minutes, then go for a hike until the shoes dry on your feet. Afterwards rub them with boot grease. Always wear medium-weight wool socks.

Your food should be the kind that produces energy. Pass up most dehydrated foods which lack energy but seem attractive because of their light weight. There are certain light foods however that pay for themselves—such as powdered milk and instant powdered coffee.

Usually I find it best to plan only two meals a day with a bit of sweet chocolate in between. Hunt or fish in the early morning before breakfast or after 5 o'clock supper, since these are the most productive hours. After breakfast, start on your hike and stop at the first good camping spot that you come to in the early afternoon.

Pasture Poultry For More Profit

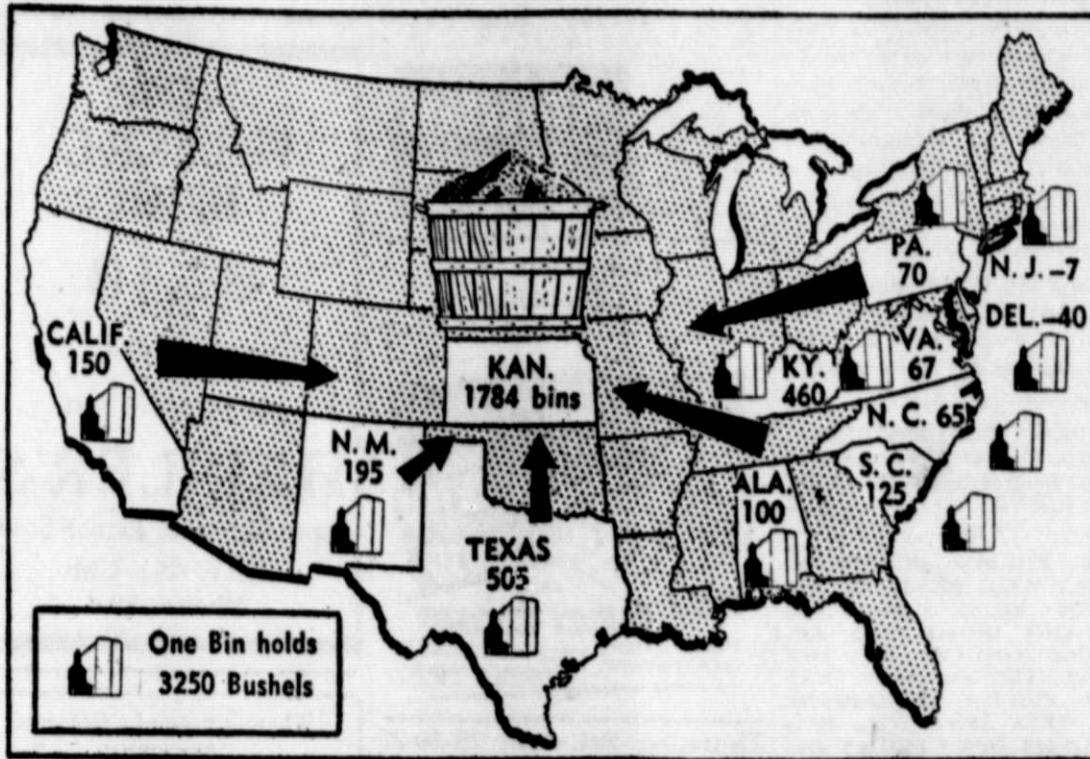

Summer pasture will save feed costs and produce healthier birds in your poultry flock. Birds on range tend to feather out better and are free of hot poultry houses in midsummer.

Milt Sunde, poultry specialist at the U. of Wis., says ladino clover and alfalfa are the best pasture crops for poultry. You can fence off a small part of the cattle pasture or hayland if you did not need a special pasture for the poultry flock last summer.

Sunde emphasizes, however, that chickens still need more feed than they get from pasture. He advises feeding a standard growing mash after the pullets are six to eight weeks old. Scratch grain can be fed in hoppers, or scattered on the ground each evening and morning.

Extra Vitamin D is not needed on the range, according to Sunde. Birds get enough of that vitamin from sunshine. Antibiotics are not much help either, unless the birds are moved or under some special strain. Normally, the pullets on range need only a growing mash containing cereals, protein, salt, calcium and phosphorus.

Plenty of water is a must at all times on the range. Water can be piped to the chick range, or it can be hauled out in tanks or barrels. Try to have shade for the water fountains—chickens do not like warm water.

Kansas is picked as the storage bread-basket of the United States as government-owned wheat storage bins are moved there from 11 wheat-producing and storing states by the U. S. Agriculture Department. States listed in the above chart are tagged with the number of bins removed to the new Kansas storing center. Purpose of the plan is to create storage space for the expected bumper winter wheat crop of 729,884,000 bushels. This will bring the total expected 1953 crop to a record 1,940,000,000 bushels.

VERSATILE DESIGNS

Haven't you often wanted embroidery motifs for edgings and miscellaneous decorations? These designs have many uses. Excellent ideas for blouses, slips, luncheon sets, bedroom ensembles, handkerchiefs, skirts, scarves, and ever so many others. There are two sizes of each design—small and large. The designs are simply outlined in buttonhole stitches with lazy daisy stitches for the flowers. So very simple but stunning. Comes in usable-several-times Hot Iron Transfers as pattern C3041 for only 20c. Send orders to Homecraft Service, Journal Pub. Co., Inc., 2500 Buchanan, Kansas City 16, Mo.

GREEN TREE FROG

Green Tree Frog
©1952 National Wildlife Federation

The Green Tree Frog must be well known. It bears so many common names. Bell frog, fried bacon frog, cowbell frog, marsh tree frog are a few of the more descriptive of these common names. Of course some of these common names are applied to some other kinds of frogs.

The Green Tree Frog is found near the edges of fresh waterways on water plants, bushes, overhanging trees or vines. Some of its relatives will stray farther from water than will the Green Tree Frog. Usually this species is found close to the water level rather than above it. Rafts of water hyacinth or stands of pickerel weed (see illustration) provide a superior type of vegetation to meet the needs of this frog.

Mature Green Tree Frogs reach a length of from 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 inches with the females being definitely larger than the males. The male is dark olive above with some orange spots scattered over the back. It is lighter on the side and there is a cream-colored streak which runs lengthwise of the side almost to the hind legs. The throat just under the mouth and the chin is cream-colored. Lower on the throat is a pinkish area that marks the wrinkled throat proper. The female lacks the pinkish chin of the male, the undersides from the groin to the chin being more or less uniformly cream-colored.

All sorts of interpretations have been made to represent the call of the Green Tree Frog. Some say the frog says "fried bacon" repeatedly. Others claim that the words "grab, grab, grabit, grabit" better represent the sound. Still others claim that it is a simple repeated "quonk" closing with a "quank". At a distance a chorus of the frogs sounds much like a cowbell.

The sounds are produced by the males alone. They come to the breeding grounds or show a wish to reproduce before the females do. Breeding usually takes place between mid-April and mid-August. The eggs float in small films or clusters usually attached near the water surface to some support.

The eggs are black or brown and white or cream. The tadpole that develops from the egg is of no extraordinary size, reaching a maximum of about 1 1/2 inches in length. The tail is long and drawn out in the tadpole. The body is green with a yellowish or ivory stripe down the side of the head. After a development of from 55 to 63 days the mature tadpole transforms into the frog form. How long after this before the animal has reached reproductive maturity does not seem to be established.

These frogs are of course of no great economic importance. They feed as adults only on living animal and in this capacity no doubt destroy many pests such as mosquitoes. The frogs themselves are preyed on by a variety of enemies including fish, birds, mammals and other frogs.

The National Wildlife Federation is interested in all forms of nature and it takes little stimulation to interest anyone in this animal once an introduction has been established.

Anglers Report Tagged Fish

What return does the angler get from stocked trout?

The Conservation Department would like to have the best possible answers to this question and today appealed to fishermen who will frequent any of three streams to make it possible to compile some additional information on the subject. The department is asking for notification as to any tagged or fin-clipped fish that may be taken on these streams.

The north fork of the Trempealeau River and Tank Creek in Jackson county are being used to determine the relative return to anglers of fall and spring stocked legal brook trout. About 2,600 of the trout have been stocked in these streams and the fish have been marked by the removal of either the right front or the right rear fins. These are the fish the Department wants to hear from.

A thousand legal brown trout and a thousand legal rainbow trout have been stocked in the south fork of the Willow River in St. Croix county. These have had fins removed or had metal tags attached to the lower jaw. The Department also wants to hear from as many as possible of these fish.

The information as to the marked trout should be supplied to the Conservation Department headquarters at Black River Falls.

Tent Caterpillar Seen In Wisconsin

The forest tent caterpillar, the pest responsible for the defoliation of millions of acres of forests in Minnesota, Michigan and the Dominion of Canada during the past two years is now hatching, according to E. L. Chambers, State Entomologist of the Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture.

He announced that reports from those who have been observing the development in the forest areas, indicated that the worms began hatching about May 12 in an area in Douglas county. While the infestation is not as extensive in Wisconsin as in the adjoining states, a survey of the overwintering egg masses on the forest trees indicates this insect may be a serious nuisance in much of Douglas and Bayfield counties this spring. The heaviest area would be in a zone 15 to 20 miles wide in these counties along the Minnesota border and along the shore of Lake Superior.

Timely control measures are being urged by the foresters and entomologists to prevent a further build-up of this pest and to save the foliage from being stripped by these ravenous worms. To be most effective, DDT sprays should be applied within 10 days after hatching since the newly hatched larvae begin feeding immediately. The caterpillars are gregarious until nearly full grown and do not actually spin a tent as their name would indicate, but only a silken mat on the trunk or branch where they congregate when at rest or during their molting period.

Usually about six weeks from the time of hatching, each caterpillar surrounds itself with a woven cocoon composed of several layers of silk in which it transforms to the pupal stage. The full grown worms are pale bluish in color with a row of keyhole shaped white spots along the back and are nearly two inches long when full grown. The light buff-brown adult moths, with a wing expanse from 1 to 1 1/2 inches, emerge about two weeks after pupation takes place. There is only one generation of this insect each year. The eggs are laid soon after the moths emerge in cylindrical masses of from 100 to 350, which are cemented together and entirely encircle a twig. Coated with a dark colored glue-like substance, these eggs remain intact on the trees until the following spring when they hatch.

While the poplar is the most preferred host, ash, birch, sugar maple and oak foliage are also devoured by this insect. In the absence of preferred host trees, they will attack tamarack, white spruce and others.

Let bluegrass get three or four inches tall before turning the cows in.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

New York—Western Canada's unprecedented boom due to remarkable discoveries of oil and gas in recent months will be linked up with the United States shortly. Petroleum output in Canada is expected to double in the next year, quadruple in the next few years. Pipeline construction now under way will permit greater marketing of the Dominion's natural resources. The United States will be an importer of oil and gas. Meanwhile, a new language is springing up as American investors display increased interest in petroleum terminology. C. Douglas Cameron, president of Stanwell Oil & Gas Ltd., a company which has hit a few rich discoveries in Alberta, recently explained to stockholders that "spudding-in" means commencement of drilling a well, "step-out" means to skip a mile or more in distance from the first well discovery, "offset" means a well adjoining another well, and a D3 reef—such as has been hit in several recent western Canadian discoveries—is a petroleum wildcatter's dream of riches come true.

WORK IS WAITING—Of all the Americans who will be entitled to vacations from their jobs this summer, 68 per cent expect to spend some of their time at home. And of the stay-at-homes, reports the Tile Council of America, 81 per cent mean to do some work improving their homes.

The kitchen will get a major share of the modernization. It is estimated that 23 million obsolete kitchens around the country need improvements such as water-proof clay tile walls or wainscoting, and the addition of tiled work surfaces for the homemaker's convenience.

While the householder can only supervise actual tile installation, he can participate helpfully in such projects himself by doing general repairs and painting.

THINGS TO COME—An ultraviolet light, which shows the dentist cavities he couldn't even detect with his probe, is offered by a lamp company. . . . Clothesline of glass fibers bound with plastic solves the sag problem. . . . A new plastic inflatable mattress even appears to have tufts when it is pumped up for use. . . . High-fidelity record enthusiasts can now buy an aerosol spray for coating their records to keep down static pops and dust. . . . Casement windows adjustable to accommodate room air-conditioners recognize the growing market for this summer comforter. . . . You can now take home your chop suey in an aluminum tray, losing that fine woody flavor the container used to impart.

VERSATILE AND MIGHTY—Soil so depleted that it can no longer support row crops or grain farming can be converted to profitable grassland operation with no power source except the Jeep, says Willys Motors, Inc. The powerful versatile Jeep pulls disc plow, seed drill, mower and hay rake.

One farmer who switched from corn and wheat to grass and milk now makes a better-than-average income from land which once didn't produce enough grain to pay his family's grocery bill. A Jeep is this farmer's only power vehicle. He has spent $1300 on implements and dairy equipment in addition. This worked out to less than $12 per acre.

"My own problem is income taxes," he told the inquiring Willys Motors representative.

SUNSHINE ALWAYS HELPS—One factor in the disappointing comparisons of sales figures earlier this spring with those of 1952 was the miserable weather the Eastern Seaboard endured.

Now the skies are bright again, and the consumer is coming downtown to see what she can see. New York registered a year-to-year sales gain of 5 per cent for May's second full week, as two days passed the 80 degree mark.

In Philadelphia the year-to-year increase was 17 per cent. Wearing apparel benefited particularly from belated evidence that there was a sun. The rest of the country, naturally, where sales had been holding up well earlier, showed no such boosts.

BITS O'BUSINESS—Stuffy as it may seem, the way to move quickly into the $7500-a-year class is to work for a bank, the Hanover Trust Co. is saying in a booklet for college graduates. . . . Fears of added cotton planting have been reduced by wet weather in the Southeast, which keeps plows out of the fields. . . . Oil refiners are softening up users for a half-cent increase in the spread of premium gasoline.

For a quick lunch pour hot cheese sauce over toast and top with canned small sardines. Serve with a salad of watercress, cucumbers and tomatoes. You can prepare the cheese sauce ahead of time and have it on hand in the refrigerator.

CINDY BEGINS — Beautiful 17-year-old Cindy Robbins of Los Angeles, Calif., won a chance to start a TV career. She was selected from 2000 contestants and will begin video work in New York soon.

Leatherwood Wainscot

THE wainscot of a child's room is subjected to hard wear and tear. If it's papered, this lower wall area soon has a sorry appearance and must be replaced.

By surfacing this space with a tough, durable panel, the youngster and his playmates may play at ease, and there is no problem of a marred wall. Often used for a wainscot in nurseries and recreation rooms is Masonite Leatherwood, which is selected for its long life and nice appearance.

This hardboard panel has an embossed surface that looks like Spanish grain leather. It is extremely tough and highly resistant to abrasion and moisture. It may be beautifully painted in a solid color or in two tones.

Leatherwood, which may be obtained from lumber dealers, comes in widths of four feet. As it is only one-eighth inch thick, it may be applied directly over the existing wall.

KETTLE MORAIN 4-H CLUB NEWS

The meeting for the month of June was held at the home of Ronald and Kenneth Bales. The meeting was called to order by the president. The pledge of allegiance was led by Norman Heberer. We sang "Old Black Joe" and "I've Been Working on the Railroad." Roll call was answered with summer choruses. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Joanne Ferber. The treasurer's report was read by Ronald Bales. We appointed Mr. Bales to get two balls and a bat for the club.

Those on the club tour committee are Ronald Bales, Maynard Bartelt and Kari Haack. Those on the county booth committee are Norman Heberer, Harriet Odekirk, Rachel Petermann, Janice Bartelt and Ronald Petermann.

We are trying to arrange another baseball game with the Five Corners club.

Rachel Petermann gave a demonstration on how to iron a shirt. Ronald and Kenneth Bales gave a demonstration on "Countour Farming."

June 16 there was a dairy meeting at Heberer's and on June 11 a clothing meeting at Odekirk's. The next meeting will be held July 14 at the home of Rachel and Ronald Petermann. The meeting was then adjourned. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ray Bales.

Fourteen of the nation's 25 leading milk producing counties are in Wisconsin. These are: Dane 2, Marathon 3, Dodge 4, Clark 5, Fond du Lac 10, Barron 12, Manitowoc 15, Outagamie 17, Green 18, Sheboygan 19, Jefferson 20, Walworth 22, Shawano 23, and Chippewa 25.

June is Dairy Month—time to remember that milk was INVENTED in Wisconsin. Treat yourself to a malted for lunch today.
